OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE democratic convention just held at Kansas City rose to the high level of the political exigencies that now press upon the American people. The American republic is confronted by a great crisis. Mighty forces are beating its noble face to turn it from the solid way of liberty stretching before it, illuminated by the hopes of humanity, into the glittering quicksands of imperialism that have swallowed into their treacherous fathomless maw the common people of every nation that has yielded to the invitation of their seductive glow. Rarely in the history of nations, have the powers of government been, in so short a time, perverted so disastrously to the common weal as have ours by this administration. The republican party, by its Dingley tariff has lifted up the thousands of giant trust monopolies that now bestride the back and wring the withers of industry and labor. By its financial laws it has abdicated into the hands of private bankers, to be used for private purposes, one of the highest functions of government, that of making and controlling the volume of paper currency. Recreant to its solemn pledges and the interests of the people, and in base subservancy to transcontinental railroads, it has defeated all efforts to provide for building the Nicaragua canal. To repay contributors to its campaign fund it, has turned the people's property into the coffers of banking syndicates; and to cap the climax of infamies, the republican party has deliberately turned the prow of the republic, freighted as it is with all of human hopes for liberty and self government, down the mighty stream of events and tendencies flowing from the Spanish war, toward the turbulent ocean of imperial despotism, whose shores are strewn with the wrecks of so many peoples and civilization that have battled its buffeting billows in vain. Already the republican party has turned our flag, hailed all around the globe as the symbol of liberty and self government, into an emblem of despotism, of government without constitutional restrictions, floating over outraged Porto Rico. The very winds seem to sadly kiss its shame blushed folds. Already, with ruthless hand, the republican party is writing across the stars and stripes, in letters of the blood of our noble soldiers in the Philippines, that word made hateful by thousands of years of oppression of man by government—imperialism, to float it over the heads and flaunt it in the eyes of eight millions of conquered, spirit broken subjects of government by congress without constitutional restriction, without constitutional guaranty of jury trial, habeas corpus, freedom of speech and religious worship or any of those sacred rights and liberties that our revolutionary sires wrung from the tyrannic grip of George the Third. Already in our islands the republican party has snuffed out the torch of liberty and self government, borne by our republic to light the world, and turned us back one hundred and twenty-four years to the benighted policies of George the Third. At such a juncture the democratic party, ancient guardian of strict constitutional rights, and custodian of the interests of the common people, rallies in convention assembled at Kansas City, to the rescue of the republic. That convention, coming up from and representing the plain, common people, inspired with heroic sentiment, by the wrongs that oppress the people and the dangers that darkly menace free institutions, was illumined by the burning words peeled across the abyss of years, by the iron tongue of the old liberty bell, one hundred and twenty-four years ago, and opened its proceedings by reading the declaration of independence. The platform that followed is but an obvious application of the great principles of that declaration, and of the constitution, to existing conditions. Probably no more explicit statement of party policies was ever made than this one put forth at Kansas City. Every sentence breathes the spirit of sincere, earnest men, trying hard to make their countrymen understand the lurking subtle dangers that menace them, the source of the oppressions that weigh them down and the true remedy of applying to existing conditions the principles of the declaration, the provisions of the constitution and the time tried maxims of public policy. In what impressive contrast to the linked ambiguities and evasions long drawn out of the republican platform, are the plain specific propositions of this democratic platform. Every citizen owes it to his countrymen in this national crisis, to read and weigh its ringing words. We briefly summarize its most salient features: The democratic party is pledged to support the constitution and principles of self government announced in the declaration of independence, in all places under our flag. Porto Rico is the first victim of the republican doctrine that the constitution does not follow the flag, and the first precedent of despotism, in the republican program to gradually supplant self government with imperial despotism. Give the Philippines a stable government, independent home rule and protect them against the aggressions of other nations. Militarism means conquest abroad, oppression at home, and ultimate sinking of our free institutions beneath the weight of taxes, standing armies and navies. The Dingley tariff is the wretched mother of giant trust monopolies that gorge upon the wages of labor and profits of legitimate business. Every trust controlled commodity should be put on the free list and all the constitutional powers of the government over interstate commerce should be invoked to strangle to death these monster monopolies, issued from the polluted womb of republicanism. The republican banking law by abdicating to the banks the sovereign power of making and controlling the volume of paper currency, clothes banking syndicates with the power to raise or lower at will, the general prices of commodities and thereby to transfer to their own vaults the fruits of toil and the profits of legitimate business. The public weal demands the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one. The Nicaragua canal project, held in abeyance by the grip of the railroads on the throat of this republican administration, should be promptly consummated, and the canal controlled and fortified by the United States. The national government should construct the necessary reservoirs for irrigating the arid lands of the west. The Chinese and similar Asiatics should be rigidly excluded. We have thus glanced at some of the salient features of the platform to stimulate our readers to study it for themselves. Let its clarion notes arouse the American people to the dangers menacing our free institutions at the hands of the republican party, the ruthless hands that bend the neck of labor and legitimate business under the galling yoke of trust monopolies, and that stretch bleeding Porto Rico down again upon the rack of government by an alien power, without constitutional restrictions, upon which she turned her writhing limbs, reeking the blood of Spanish despotism, to welcome us with pleading pathos, as her savior, only to feel the bolts and pinions of her rack newly adjusted, its teeth newly set into her flesh, and its screws newly turned upon her limbs by the hands of this perfidious administration. The prosperity, happiness and noble station in the front rank of nations, attained by our people by practically exemplifying in our government for one hundred and twenty four years the principles of self government set forth in the declaration of independence, and our inspiring example of free government, plead like angels trumpet tongued against the deep damnation of the attempted taking off of this republic by the knot of conspirators against human rights, headed by the bold and brutal Hanna, the hypocritical and pusillanimous McKinley and aided and abetted by petty imperialists in every community.

CUSHMAN, the prize congressional freak, is again in the state, and naturally wants to be returned to congress for another term, but the republicans of this state are certainly too wise to again put him on the ticket, as his asinine proclivities are too pronounced ever for the g. o. p. to longer tolerate him.

MARK Hanna's anti-trust plank will have to be armor-plated to keep from being split by the political jokes that will be fired at it and the shafts of ridicule that will be showered upon it.—Kansas City Times.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Excuses and Apologies.

The Republican national convention has adopted a platform of excuses, expedients and apologies rather than of principles. It audaciously seeks through the instrumentality of rhetoric to convert the sins of the party leaders into virtues, and claims all the works of providence to be the especial beneficence to the people of William McKinley and his associates in the government.

The praises bestowed on President McKinley are fulsome and nauseating to the last degree, and would be repudiated by any president who had a becoming sense of the dignity of the office, and who did not regard the chief magistracy simply as an instrumentality to confer spectacular honor on him.

The cheap talk of cross roads dough faces about menace to prosperity having always resided in democratic principles, and about the incapacity of the democratic party to conduct public affairs, is contemptible and unfit to be introduced in a national declaration of principles of a great party. It is the blatherskite performance of politicians who are given to artificiality by their own abominable record. It hurts the administration more than it does the democrats.—Philadelphia Times.

Names Wanting.

In names taken from trade, such as Archer, Fisher, Brewster, Glover, etc., to be found in the London Directory, neither Banker, nor Soldier, nor Sailor occurs, but it must be remembered that the first of these names is scarcely as old as the days of the Stuarts, before which time the Goldsmiths "kept running cashes" and acted as "banquiers," for the word is one of modern French importation. Soldier (soldat) also is of foreign and comparatively recent origin. The absence of Sailor is supplied, though very sparingly it must be owned, by Boatman and Boatwright, Shipman and Shipwright. But, then, it is only in comparatively modern times that we became a sea loving people, and that "Britannia" began to "rule the waves."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Having failed to pay the same the prosecution for contempt of court was commenced. After hearing the testimony the court sentenced the defendant, Edward Grindrod, to be imprisoned in the county jail until he complied with the order of the court by paying the money it had ordered him to pay.

There are twelve companies of Knights in this state and a majority of them have signified their intention of competing for the prize. There are about 4200 Knights in the jurisdiction and it can be readily seen that this should be a great drawing card for our fair and our town.

A Marvelous Bit of Magic.

In one of his new oriental illusions, which will be presented in this city for the first time this season, during Magician Kellar's entertainment, he will illustrate the Hindoo theory of the reincarnation of souls. He will show in full light, upon an almost vacant stage, how easily he can materialize a beautiful, living woman, from the air, simply by means of a Hindoo incantation, originally used, it is said, hundreds of years ago, by an old priest in one of the Hindoo temples. And the reincarnated being will walk and speak to the audience, to show that she is not an image or a reflection. All Kellar's new masterpieces and a host of novelties in small magic will be presented at Larson's theater, Monday night, July 16.

It Is Not True.

It is not true, as has been stated, that Osteopathy is a system of rubbing. Osteopathy is based upon a thorough knowledge of anatomy and physiology and is a mechanical adjustment of the tissues of the body which sets free the life forces. Nature does the rest. No exposure of the body is made except in cases which will be self evident. With best wishes for your health, Leusing & Ely, Osteopaths. In the Parton residence, first house north of Hotel Yakima.

The fire department was called out at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon to extinguish the flames in some out houses in the rear of the house occupied by Geo. E. Stacy. The property is owned by B. F. Barge, and a hundred dollars will probably cover the loss.

Feeding Whey.

Whey is a valuable feed for hogs. There are about 7 pounds of solids in 100 pounds, and that quantity of whey fed properly in combination with other feeds should produce two pounds of increase in live weight. Whey is a poor diet when fed alone, although hogs will live on it and gain in weight. Whey may be turned to lard, but it does not give good results when fed alone. To young, growing pigs it may be fed with profit on clover pasture. The use of a field in that way puts it in a capital condition for the growth of a crop of Indian corn for fodder purposes the following year. Whey should be fed in a sweet and clean condition. A clean and comparatively sweet whey is wholesome, whereas a very sour whey is dangerous. Often its use is injurious to the swine. The whey tank at a cheese factory should be above ground, and for the sake of the value of the whey for the production of pork the tank should be cleaned thoroughly at least once a week.

Indian corn, ground or unground, should not be fed alone with whey. It is unprofitable in that combination, and results in the production of very fat bacon. A good mixture would be (a) one-third shorts, or bran, (b) one-third ground oats, peas, barley, wheat, mixed or single, and (c) one-third ground Indian corn. The best results from Indian corn are obtained when it is fed in combination with skim milk or buttermilk, which supplies the flesh forming materials in which the corn is deficient. —Report of Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying of Canada

HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

George Barrack Bound Over in the Sum of $2000.

A warrant was issued late last week for the arrest of George Barrack, charging him with having caused the death of the Indian woman, Nettie, whose death was chronicled in these columns last week.

On Saturday Coroner Rosser summoned a jury as follows: Wm. Badger, James Curran, James Henderson, L. C. Lovel, Robert Crory and W. I. Lillie, and went to the Indian grave yard on the reservation, about a mile below Union gap, exhumed the body of the dead squaw and held an inquest. The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to her death by blows received on the head by a party or parties unknown.

On Friday George Barrack, who is in the employ of Fred Thompson, of Parker, hearing that he was accused of the crime, came to this city and gave himself up to the sheriff. On Saturday morning he was released on $1000 bonds, pending the examination, which was begun Saturday evening and continued until Tuesday morning.

The prosecution introduced the evidence of the two squaws who claim to have been in company with the deceased, and of one Indian man who appeared on the scene shortly after the fracas occurred. The defense introduced no testimony and Judge Taggard bound Barrack over in a charge of manslaughter in the sum of $2000.

Barrack is a resident of Parker, where he has been in the employ of Fred Thompson for the past three years. He has a wife and one child and has heretofore borne a good reputation.

Barrack has been unable to give bail and is confined in the county jail.

Hannaites.

A Washington, D. C., Democrat makes the admirable suggestion that the term "Hannaites" should be employed in this campaign to designate all those who support McKinley. No term could be more appropriate. Mr. McKinley is himself the original "Hannaites," and all those that vote for him vote to support the Hanna idea, which is the idea of monopoly and plutocracy, as against the people.

There is that difference between a "Hannaites" and a "Bryanite."

Among other glittering generalities, the republican national platform condemns trust conspiracies in absolute contradiction to all republican precedent, and not only in contradiction to republican precedent but in contradiction to the spirit and intention of the principle of republicanism, which has made trust conspiracies a possibility—the protective tariff, which is reiterated and advocated as one of the two legislative measures to which the country owes its abundant prosperity. There is republican consistency.—Everett News.

What a Woman Needs.

In the preparation of this article we made many examinations and investigations of the different methods of treatment and remedies for all the ills so common to the female sex, and our INVESTIGATION has brought forth the fact that nothing proves so uniformly successful in restoring health and happiness to worn out women as the "Viavi Treatment," and we also found that this was the opinion of the most careful and SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL MEN OF THIS COUNTRY. This system of treatment has been remarkably successful in all cases of chronic diseases peculiar to women. No more trouble, misery, and suffering are among the speedy results after its use, as it certainly represents the latest and best treatment for all complaints of women's diseases. It has been proven by years of success and the testimony of thousands of ladies, including the highest and most noted of the women of the United States and England, who have been restored to health and the enjoyment of life by reason of "Viavi Treatment" even after all other methods of treatment had been tried and found wanting. The "Viavi remedies" are composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, and are manufactured under conditions of perfect cleanliness. Upon entering the system it supplies at once a clean, wholesome food to the muscular tissues and nervous fibres. It makes the circulation full and vigorous, and in this way enables the veins to carry to the organs of elimination all the impurities which it is their function to remove from the body. It acts as a prompt specific for all nervous and other troubles common to women, including irregularities, prostration, headache, anemia, palpitation of the heart and the thousand and one ills peculiar to the sex.—Extract from the National Health Journal.

Vampires Not Bloodsuckers.

Mr. James Rhen, who is engaged in a special study of bats, says that it is a fallacy that the vampire is a blood-sucker. Travelers and story writers are responsible for the story of the terrible bloodsucking vampire bats of South America. Nearly all general writers on this subject agree with them as to its criminal record, and they all concur in laying the blame on a large grotesque looking bat with an enormous leaf nose, the Vampyrus spectrum. This bat is common in South and Central America and, from his great size, being about two feet across the outspread wings, is a suggestive and repulsive enough object to impute the blood loving habit to.

As a matter of fact, this is a somewhat useful animal and is totally innocent of these charge, the bloodsuckers being two much smaller and rarer bats. The front teeth of these two latter are enormous lancets occupying over half the tooth row of the animals and possessing very sharp edges, which can easily penetrate the human skin. The teeth of the big vampire, on the other hand, are simply adapted for a diet of insects and fruit. The true bloodsucking bats are much rarer than the vampire.—Philadelphia Record.

Changed by Circumstances.

"Where's your watch?" asked the observant man.

"Why, here it is," replied the man whose prosperity had slipped a cog or two recently.

Colleges and Trusts.

No president—no professor has been evicted from his chair for making republican stump speeches, and such stump speeches are far more numerous than are the anti-imperialist addresses of Dr. Loggers or the silver utterances of Dr. Andrews. It will therefore become a question not merely to rich men controlling the colleges, but to those rich men making every college a close republican corporation. That question, particularly in the west, will receive the attention which its importance deserves.—Chicago Chronicle.

Out of Sight.

One of the most perplexing illusions presented by Magician Kellar this season, bears the old title "Out of Sight." The newspaper men in the cities have dubbed it "Kellar's Divorce Machine." It illustrates a theory that obtains in India, amongst the theosophic adepts that they are able to cause their bodies to disintegrate, and vanish into thin air, at will. It's pretty tough theory for Americans to swallow, but it's a good story anyhow. Kellar has a scaffold like structure, with a common chair suspended for the cross beam, by means of ropes. In this chair he places the lady who is to be parted with, fires a pistol at her and—well, that's all there is to the trick. She's simply gone, and not a trace of her remains. The empty chair falls to the floor and the audience gasps "Oh!" Kellar will present a dozen marvelous oriental illusions and an entire new budget of experiments in pure sleight of hand, when he comes to this city, at Larson's theater, Monday night, July 16.

Deception and Fraud

When asked his opinion of the republican platform adopted at Philadelphia, Mr. Bryan frankly and concisely stated the situation as follows:

"The Philadelphia platform is the best evidence thus far given of the deception practiced by the republican party. Taken in connection with the speeches made at the convention, it shows that the republican party's platform of 1896 was a deliberate fraud as far as the promises of international bimetalism were concerned; that the party's attitude on the trust question is insincere, and that the party is not willing to state its attitude on the Philippine question and invite the judgment of the people upon it. Nothing was more manifest in the convention than the military spirit and yet the convention did not dare indorse the demand of the president of 1898 for a standing army of 100,000 men."

It is not the policy of the republican machine bosses to fairly meet the live issues before the country. They make much noise about the flag, but "anything to win" is their motto.—Vancouver Register.

In a Republic.

A republic is a country where people discuss things. A despotism is a country where they can not. An idiot asylum is a place where they don't even care.

The pagan Burmese tuck a paper on a revolving wheel and leave it to do their praying. This is wonderful like some Americans who fix an administration prayer-wheel, pin their minds on it and go off about their business, quite assured that it would be blasphemous to wonder why God gave every man a conscience if its work could just as well be done by the machine.

A republic no longer jealous of its rights has begun to lose them.—Aberdeen Herald.

MASTERING CHINESE.

One of the Most Difficult of Languages to Learn.

It is well known that the Chinese language is one of the most difficult to master, and for us to attempt this task after we have finished our school years is excessively trying and difficult. Certainly the mistakes one hears of as being made by those who begin to talk and, worse still, preach in a language they fondly imagine they have mastered are ludicrous in the extreme.

I heard of a clergyman who was preaching to a Chinese congregation in the vernacular. "Come to God, oh, my friends; come to God!" he cried (or thought he did) and was considerably surprised to find some of the congregation with broad grins on their faces, while others were frowning blackly. Great was the good man's consternation when he found he had been saying, "Call the pigs, oh, my friends; call the pigs!" His mistake, I believe, was due entirely to putting the accent on the wrong syllable, which altered the whole sense of the words.

The Chinese seem to regard a foreigner speaking Chinese like Dr. Johnson regarded women preaching. "It is like a dog standing on his hind legs," said the learned doctor. "You are not struck with admiration at how well he does it, but you are surprised he can do it at all."—Leslie's Weekly.

A Phillips Brooks Story.

The spirit of love and kindness to all which pervaded every word and deed of Phillips Brooks did not hinder his keen appreciation of others' failings and shortcomings or his own.

"Why in the world doesn't Brown write his autobiography and have it published?" said one of the bishop's friends, referring to an incessant talker and most egotistical man who had been wasting an hour of the bishop's most precious time by a rehearsal of some unimportant happenings.

"Why, he'd rather tell it, of course," said the bishop, and then like a flash came regret for the quickly spoken truth, and he turned on his friend with a half humorous, half distressed face.

"What do you mean by asking me such a question as that when I'm off my guard?" he demanded reproachfully.—Youth's Companion.

"Setting the River on Fire."

In old English times, when each family was obliged to sift its own flour, it sometimes happened that an energetic man would turn his sieve so rapidly as to cause it to catch fire. The style of sieve used in those days was called a "temse," and it became a customary saying that a lazy man would never set the temse on fire. Now, it happens that the name of the river Thames is pronounced like the name of this old flour sieve, and after many years, when the old fashioned temse was forgotten, it was thought that setting the river on fire meant setting the river on fire, and that is why today we say that a stupid person will never set the river on fire.—Ladies' Home Journal.

In every family you'll find an old man trying to quit smoking and a young one trying to learn.—Acheson Globe.

Age may not be garrulous, but there is no denying the fact that it tells on both men and women.—Exchange.

Extravagance.

"Here's a case," she exclaimed indignantly, looking up from her paper, "of a man who actually had the nerve to put his wife on an allowance of 10 cents a day."

"What did she do with it all?" he asked absentmindedly.

It was several hours before she felt that she was calm enough to discuss matters with him dispassionately.—New York World.

On a Pretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

Who is Bill McKinley's boss?
Mark Hanna is! Mark Hanna is!
Paid his debts off, every cent,
Took and made him president;
Then, because he did his way,
Wants him there another day,
Mark Hanna does! Mark Hanna does!
So don't vote for Hanna's man,
And don't vote for Platt's man;
Vote for the people's man,
His own man, Bryan!
Who is bossing Roosevelt?
Old Tom Platt is! Old Tom Platt is!
When he came back from the war,
Took and made him governor;
Then, because he did his will,
Wants him moved up higher still,
Old Tom Platt does! Old Tom Platt does!
So don't vote for Hanna's man,
And don't vote for Platt's man;
Vote for the people's man,
His own man, Bryan!
Who is bossing Bryan now?
The people are! The people are!
He toadies to no millionaire;
No Standard Oil his will can square;
So don't vote for Hanna's man,
No tariff trust nor syndicate
But gives to Bryan bitter hate—
The people know! The people know!
So don't vote for Hanna's man,
And don't vote for Platt's man;
Vote for the people's man,
His own man, Bryan!

PAID WHEN BRYAN WINS.

A Missouri Editor's Great Project and What Came of It.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., June 23—A few weeks ago W. W. Waters, editor of the Southeast Missourian, at New Madrid, placed an announcement in his paper making an offer to furnish the Southeast Missourian to all who sent in their names, to be paid for when Bryan was elected, at the regular subscription price.
Since the offer was made Mr. Waters has been fairly deluged with letters and postal cards from all over the United States and Canada. The requests for the paper are from persons in every walk of life, from clerks to presidents of banks. Many of the requests are from men who are sincere, and expressed the hope that he would increase his circulation a million fold, and often they state that they are willing to pay double and treble the regular price for the paper if they will have to by reason of Bryan's election.

Many amusing letters have been received by Mr. Waters, especially those from republicans. The postmaster at Senson, Ia., wrote: "You should have made it a little safer for me and offered to send the paper until hades turned into liquid air." Another wrote: "Send me your paper, as I will have plenty of money by that time." The proprietor of a Virginia sanitarium sends an invitation to Mr. Waters to come and spend the summer with him, expressing the opinion that the editor's brain is affected, his liver disordered or something of the kind, and a little rest would do him good. The patent medicine men are invading the sanctum with all sorts of propositions to advertise their goods. Some who have heretofore declined to pay the rates asked now offer to pay three times as much. Defunct politicians and political writers are clamoring for the privilege of contributing articles to the columns of the Southeast Missourian. One enterprising New York museum manager offers the editor a magnificent salary for the privilege of placing him on exhibition for a few weeks. A San Francisco chap has written that he has patented what he calls a "carbon magnet" that has qualities equal to those of the madstone; that it will cure all kinds of bites by rattlesnakes, tarantulas and mad dogs, and will adhere to the wounds until all poison is extracted from the system. He states that he will send a pair of his magnets, the price being $5, free of charge, hoping that they will cure the editor from hydrophobia, which he believes is the cause of his trouble. Mark Hanna is a target for the abuse of nearly all the writers and all the crimes of the century are charged up to him. The mass of mail matter received at the New Madrid postoffice is enormous and the postmaster and his assistants are worked overtime.

Editor Waters is filing the letters away in a dry goods box, to open them at some future day. He has backed out of his proposition to furnish his paper free of charge until Bryan is elected, owing to his depleted exchequer, but says if some friend, with plenty of money, wants to go into partnership and carry out the agreement, which he thinks there is big money in, for he is firm in the belief of the forthcoming success of Bryan, let him "holler."

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 26c. Sold by Quiett and Ayres druggist.

He Saved the Bridge.

"At Harpers Ferry on one occasion the flood in the Potomac was so great that it threatened the destruction of the costly railroad bridge, which was seen to shake in its unsteadiness," said former Governor Thomas G. Jones. "When everybody present was looking each moment to see the bridge go down, President John W. Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad arrived upon the scene. Appreciating the necessity of instant action, he gave an abrupt order for a loaded train of freight cars standing on a side track to be run with the locomotive on to the bridge and kept there."

"But, Mr. Garrett, that is a train-load of silk," said the local superintendent.

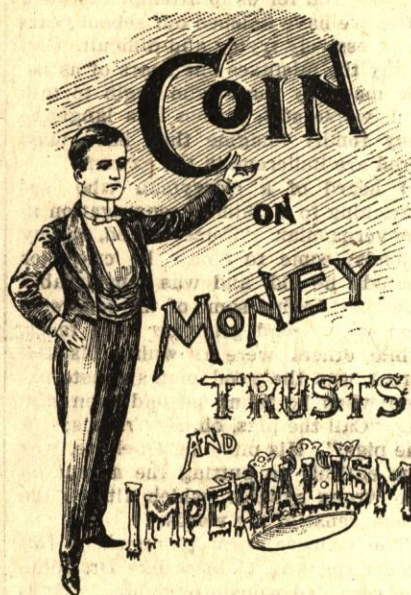

"I don't care; run out the cars!" commanded the great master of railroads. "It would be easier to pay for the silk than to build a new bridge."

"The 'silk train' was run on to the bridge, and the structure was saved. The silk was being sent by rail across the continent from San Francisco, at which port it had been received from China and Japan. Garrett was a great man, one of the greatest of those who have aided in the material development of America. In emergencies he was very resourceful, as was demonstrated in perhaps a small way by the Harpers Ferry incident." — Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Text Book for the Campaign of 0190

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size, it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

Japanese Supplant White Labor.

Thomas Maloney, of Olympia, Wash., chairman of the democratic committee of that state, and delegate to the national convention, passed through Chicago on Friday. The well known coast democrat spoke hopefully on the prospect of victory in the state of Washington," says a Chicago paper.

"In my state and those adjoining," said Mr. Maloney, "there is a local issue that has almost superseded national questions. This is the matter of Japanese immigration and the flagrant violations by corporations of the alien contract labor law. For some time past these orientals have poured into Washington at the rate of 2,500 per week, finding ready employment on the Great Northern road. Practically all section hands, helpers, gravel men, and in fact all unskilled laborers have been supplanted by Japanese, who receive $1.25 per day as against $2.50, formerly paid to the whites. There is no doubt that the Great Northern company is bringing the Japanese laborers from their own country in violation of the immigration laws, but the commissioner of immigration, though repeatedly appealed to, has taken no action to prevent it. It seems that corporation influence, so potent with the present administration elsewhere on the coast, has likewise balked all attempts to correct this evil. The situation is especially grave, as Washington, being yet undeveloped, employs a larger proportion of unskilled laborers than do the old states of the east. The white man's alternative is to come down to the Japanese standard of living. The democracy of the state, has taken up this question and will make it an issue at the polls next November, there being no question that the present state of affairs is due to the connivance of the national administration."

Republican Campaign Keynote.

It is evident from the speeches at the republican ratification meeting that the keynote of the republican party in the campaign will be the comparison of the comparatively active business conditions existing during the past two years, with the depressed state of affairs during the last year of the Harrison administration and President Cleveland's term. It is the hopeful expectation of the Hannaites that the masses of the people are sufficiently ignorant to believe that if Bryan had been elected in 1896 this reaction in business would not have happened. To accomplish this the McKinley administration must be credited with the Indian famine, which enabled the American farmer to pay off some mortgages, the Spanish war, that was compelled by the democrats in congress, and the discovery of gold in Alaska, as well as the natural rebound of business after a season of inactivity. That the effect of all these causes will be claimed by our republican friends as the direct results of having Mark Hanna at the helm of state goes without saying. Whether their confidence in the ignorance of the voters is well placed remains to be seen. —Aberdeen Herald.

Reckoned in Blood.

General MacArthur's latest casualty list forwarded from the Philippines to the war department is one of the heaviest yet recorded in the tragic history of our forcible occupation of the island of Luzon.

The great majority of deaths reported are due to disease. The climate of the tropics is telling on American soldiers with deadly effect. There is in these reports from the general commanding in the Philippines a ghastly confirmation of the correctness of the statement that American troops may not long remain on service in the far east without paying a dire penalty. The fever of the Philippines is more to be dreaded than the human foe against whom our soldiers are sent to war.

If the conflict in the Philippines is to be prolonged, or if this government is now to be involved also in a war in China, the consequent sacrifice of the best youth of the United States promises to be appalling in extent. The menace is one that may not be viewed with resignation by consistent Americans. The cost of imperialism is greater than the American people are willing to pay. It is reckoned in blood—the blood of the young men of America—and such blood is too precious to be shed for a policy which in itself threatens to imperil American institutions.—St. Louis Republic.

Visitors From Space.

Whatever be their origin, it would seem that these solid bodies (meteorites) are hurtling through space at velocities which may be anything between 10 and 40 miles a second. If they come near enough to this earth to be attracted by it, their course is changed, and presently they enter our atmosphere. The result is a sudden check to their speed, owing to the intense resistance and friction engendered by contact with the air particles.

What happens may be likened to the sudden application of the wooden brake block to the rapidly moving wheel of an express train. Heat is generated in exchange for motion, and the trail of sparks from the checked wheel is represented in the checked meteorite by a luminous trail. We commonly call it a shooting star, and if its mass be small it is possibly altogether dissipated in heat and gas, or it may ultimately find its way to our earth as dust. Such "meteoric dust" has been found on the eternal snow of mountains, where dust of the ordinary type would be impossible. If, on the other hand, the mass of matter be large, its surface only will be affected by the sudden heat generated, and it may fall to the ground entire or possibly explode and be scattered in fragments over a wide area.—Chambers' Journal.

The Blue Hole of Kentucky.

One of the places in our neighborhood which is shunned alike by saint and sinner is the old spring near our town, in Logan county, known as the Blue hole. Though legendary, the story I shall relate of this spring is true, for it has been corroborated by the former generation, by the older men of the present century. According to this story, when the Shaker village at South Union was first established by a few venturesome though hardy pioneers, a member of the sect was dispatched on horseback to put the money in a safe in the county capital.

When the treasure bearer reached the spring, he rode his horse in to give it water, but rider and animal were swallowed up, never to rise again. It is said that the Shaker's friends used as much as 500 feet of rope in an attempt to recover the body and coin, but never struck bottom. I myself have heard old men say they have tried to find the bottom of the spring by using hundreds of feet of cord and a lead sinker, but without success.—Auburn (Ky.) News.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 6, 1900.

If there are any democrats in Washington who are not enthusiastically pleased with the ticket and platform made by the Kansas City convention they are not showing themselves or doing any public talking. It cannot be said that any part of the work of the convention was a surprise. The only thing that could be considered open when the convention assembled was the nomination for vice president. The head of the ticket had been fully settled by the instruction of more than the necessary two-thirds of the delegates for Col. Bryan, and the important planks of the platform were practically settled in advance by those same instructions, as there had not at any time been any doubt of the position of Col. Bryan, whose consistency is one of his strongest holds on the rank and file of the democratic party, upon any question that would be handled in the platform. A candid republican, prominently connected with the administration, who made no pretense to conceal his disappointment at the failure of the attempt to modify the silver plank, said: "That convention was wiser than I thought it would be. The platform will lose votes for the ticket in states where they could not have affected the result, but I am afraid it will gain enough votes to give the democrats several states they could not possibly have carried had they straddled silver." The confidence shown by democrats argues well for a democratic victory this year. Republicans are, of course, keeping up a bold front in public, but it is no secret that privately many of them are expressing fear of defeat.

The practice of suppressing official news, which the administration made a specialty of during the war with Spain, has been revived in connection with the troubles in China. Mr. McKinley is at Canton, and the members of the Cabinet claim to have no official news of importance from China, although it was published in the press dispatches several days ago that every foreigner in Peking had been killed. It has also been published that the Chinese instead of being hunted by the allied army which has been gathering at Taku for the purpose of marching to Peking, are hunting the allied army, which has abandoned all idea of trying to get to Peking until largely reinforced, and which is contemplating the evacuation of Tien, now occupied by a considerable force of allied marines. In other words, the allied forces are finding that without a large army they cannot occupy territory beyond the range of the guns of their warships. It is not conceivable that with these important events transpiring this government is without official information. Yet, that is what Secretary Hay, Root and Long are asking the public to believe.

Mr. H. H. Spencer, of Utah, now in Washington, said of the political outlook in his state: "The electoral vote of our state will be found in the democratic column again this year. Neither party will attempt this year to send a polygamist to congress. The democrats will undoubtedly elect the congressman, and the indications are that William H. King will be the democratic nominee. Mr. King is a Mormon, but not a polygamist."

The administration hasn't got Gen. McArthur as well trained as it had Gen. Otis during his stay in the Philippines. Otis would report anything that he got a hint from Washington was desired. MacArthur makes his reports regardless of the wishes of the administration. For instance he has just reported that it would be unsafe to remove any considerable number of troops from the Philippines to China, that report has knocked the bottom out of Boss Hanna's pet vote-getting schemes. That scheme was to announce a few weeks before election that, owing to the complete pacification of Filipinos, all the volunteers in the Philippines would be at once brought home. If Gen. McArthur is not more particular about how he handles the naked truth in his official reports, the administration will discover that he is unfitted to command in the Philippines and he will be ordered home "for his health." The war department is now preparing to send 12,000 regulars to the Philippines, alleged to be for the purpose of taking the places of the 30,000 volunteers who are to return home. The volunteers in the Philippines who get home before the expiration of the two years for which they volunteered will either be sick men or very lucky men.

Cards on the Cars.

"Cards are not played as much on the cars as they used to be," said the commercial traveler. "A few years ago it was a common sight to see three or four games, whist, euchre, poker or seven up, going on in a car, and wherever four or five drummers were gathered together there was sure to be a lively game of draw in progress. Suburban trains were turned into whist clubs, and morning and night the commuters were engaged in a rubber."

"But all this has been changed. Nowadays it is the hardest thing in the world to get up a game of any kind in a train. Ask a stranger if he would like to take a hand at whist or euchre, and he will freeze you with a suspicious look. And, what is worse, he is entirely justified in his suspicions."

"In the last ten years the railroads of this country have been the harvest for gamblers, bunko men and short card experts. They have worked the field to the limit, from New York to California and from Vermont to Florida. They have worked all kinds of flimflam games, until now it is almost impossible for a man to flash a deck of cards in the smoking compartment of a Pullman without the atmosphere growing a dozen degrees colder. A man who has been bitten once doesn't care to have the experience repeated."—Rochester Post-Express.

Why So Many Young Men Fail.

"One trouble with many young men who start out in business is they try to do too many things at once," says Hetty Green. "The result is that they don't know as much as they ought to about any one thing, and they naturally fail. The trouble with young men who work on salaries is that they're always afraid of doing more than they're paid for. They don't enter into their work with the right spirit. To get on and be appreciated a young man must do more than he's paid to do. When he does something that his employer has not thought of, he shows that he is valuable. Men are always willing to pay good salaries to people who will think of things for them. The man who only carries out the thoughts and ideas of another is nothing more than a mere tool. Men who can be relied upon are always in demand. The scarcest thing in the world today is a thoroughly reliable man."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Born—Friday July 6, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Trumbull, a daughter.

Fruit shipping is now fairly begun, and growers report satisfactory prices.

See Kellar, the greatest magician living, at Larson's theater Monday night next.

Mrs. Miller, the aged mother of Jos. Keffer, of Tampico, died at the home of her son on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Keffer, of Tampico, who had a leg broken last week by being thrown from a horse, is improving rapidly.

A. J. Handley has disposed of his wood and coal yard to Mr. Tittle, who asks for a continuance of the patronage given Mr. Handley.

Who has lost a bicycle? Policeman Liggett has one in his possession which the owner can have by proving property. Mr. Liggett can be seen on the streets any time after 6 p. m.

The household goods of J. C. Trainer are for sale at the first house west of the old Congregational church, west side. Mr. Trainer and family will leave about the 18th for Iowa.

There will be a meeting of the committees of the several reform parties in Seattle today for the purpose of choosing the place and naming the date for holding the state convention.

The residents of "Cherry avenue" are for the time being happy. They have succeeded in having the avenue opened up, and can now get into the city without going out into the country.

C. Simonson, division engineer of the Northern Pacific, has resigned his position to accept the superintendency of the Seattle and International railroad, operating from Seattle north to a junction with the Canadian Pacific.

Louis Frieze is at the hospital with a fractured shoulder, the results of being thrown from a horse near Tampico on Sunday last. Dr. Gordon was sent for and had the unfortunate man brought to the hospital in this city where he is doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Dubois, the wife of the man who is wanted at Pendleton, Ore., by the Sheriff, left for her old home in Idaho on Monday morning. She was accompanied by a brother, who came to this city for her. She has been stopping, since her husband kidnapped her from this city, at a farm house on the

OFFICE IN LARSON'S THEATER.

Natches. Dubois has been seen in the same locality, but has so far successfully eluded the officers.

Manager Larson is to be congratulated upon having secured the great magician, Kellar, for Monday evening next. Magician Kellar makes but one stop between Seattle and Duluth and that is North Yakima, and this fact is due to the hustling qualities of Mr. Larson.

The Gideon minstrels and Nashville students at Larson's theater Tuesday evening, were, as a minstrel show always is in North Yakima, well received, although the songs were old and the jokes ancient. However, there are a number of good features in the show.

J. W. Whitlock, of Silverton, Ore., has purchased the undertaking business of Lombard & Horsley. The business will be conducted at the store of the Lombard & Horsley furniture Co., for about a month, or until Mr. Whitlock can secure suitable quarters for undertaking parlors.

The work on the Schott building has been very much delayed by the non-arrival of the iron for the front, the workmen being laid off all last week. However, the iron is now here and Mr. Switzer is pushing the work along as rapidly as possible. The other business blocks are being fast completed. The Current and Zenovich buildings are well along and will be ready for occupancy inside of a month.

Taylor Piles, the old "coon," who lives with his wife on North First street, and who supports the old fellow by taking in washing, interviewed the police judge again Monday morning. Taylor is a great fighter when he gets a jag on and imagines he can whip most any woman in town. To prove this he practices on his poor old colored wife. Sunday night he was making things merry in the household when Officer Liggett gathered him in and lodged him in the city jail. On Monday he was fined $10, and paid the amount.

The New Tourist Sleeping Cars On the Northern Pacific have the women's toilet rooms and lavatories separated. Men's lavatories in these cars have two wash basins and are also distinct from men's toilet rooms. You will appreciate all this.

There has been no less than six run-aways during the past week in different parts of the city. Fortunately there has resulted no serious accidents; but the danger has been there just the same. Four of these runaways were due to gross carelessness of the drivers. The people generally may not be aware of the fact that there is an ordinance requiring all teams left standing on the streets to be securely tied, but such is the case, and the law should be strictly enforced before it is necessary to chronicle a serious accident.

Clay Clement and his company presented "The New Dominion" at Larson's theater on Friday evening of last week. There is a good strong plot in this play and also some excellent comedy, and the audience went home thoroughly satisfied. Mr. Clement is an actor of ability and also a writer of reputation, being the author of "New Dominion" as well as several others that he presents. A return to this city will insure Mr. Clement a full house and an appreciative audience. Mr. Larson's efforts to secure first class attractions for the new theater should be duly appreciated by the theater going people.

A Sad Homecoming.

There was a strain of sadness in the welcome back to his home in Canton of President McKinley—a recollection rich with the tender grace of a day that is dead and will never come back.

The accounts tell how he went directly to the home made famous in the campaign of 1896, how he made a speech from the porch, as in the days of '96; how the same citizens' committee which officiated in '96, wearing the same badges it wore then, officiated, and how the "mascot" band played "Home, Sweet Home."

The good people of Canton, who have observed the progress of events as not many have, know that their idol has lost something since those happy days in '96. McKinley is not magnetic, but he endeared himself to the people of Canton that summer campaign, and they feel that something is changed. They miss the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still.

McKinley is not the same now as he was then. Then he appeared to them to stand for the Declaration of Independence, the Monroe doctrine, the constitution of the United States, for America against the whole world, for all that was high and holy in the greatest republic on earth. Now he comes to the people of Canton as the enemy of all long-loved American principles, as the servant of Great Britain, as the violator of the United States Constitution and of the principles on which the Declaration of Independence is based. Had there been shouting at Canton it must have been the cry that falters on American lips. "Vive l'Empereur."

It was a reunion like when the members of a family come together from far lands of their old home to lay in the grave their best beloved.—St. Louis Republic.

It Saved His Leg.

P. A. Danforth, of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg; but writes that Bucklen's Arnica salve wholly cured it five days. For ulcers, wounds, piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by Quiett & Ayres druggist.

STATE PRESS OPINION

The republican party under Hanna and the trusts will make Porto Rico the Ireland of America.—Vancouver Register.

The republicans have turned on the "fire alarm" early in the campaign and are again predicting dire disasters if Bryan is elected.—Coulee City News.

After a hard struggle the republican clubs of Seattle have consolidated. It is not a case of the "lion and lamb" but rather of two thirsty "boxers." Each party to the amalgamation has a knife longer than that of a Chinese insurgent.—Constitution.

Wm. McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt make a combination for your whiskers. This is a case of the tail wagging the dog. What do you think of the spectacular Teddy tied to the tail of the Hanna-McKinley kite? It is plain that Tom Platt has successfully side-tracked the "Rough Rider."—Chehalis Advocate.

The trouble with the republican convention, making possible such ugly snarls as that of the platform, is that it was "personally conducted" from start to finish. Three-fourths of the delegates went with the express intention of doing what Hanna wanted and they swallowed any old platform offered them without a protest, thinking of course, that he had dictated it.—Coulee City News.

In the east the republicans pat the gold democrats on the back and call them wise and patriotic men. In the west the republicans pat the middle-of-the-road populists on the back and honor their devotion to principle. In fact, the republicans have a profound admiration these days for all kinds of men who are not going to support Bryan.—Colfax Commoner.

There are many reasons for believing that McKinley and Teddy will not make a prize winning team. They will not drive tandem as they must be driven in the presidential horse show. Teddy will be continually kicking and prancing, and, as he won't wear blinders, he will surely have to shy at the trusts, while McKinley will come climbing in over the dash board in frantic efforts to get out of the way of his shadow called "plain duty."—Sumner Herald.

There is no such word as "fail" for the democracy in the fall election. Never before in their history as such a strong platform, popular with the masses, been adopted, and never before in the history of any political party have so many honorable men, tried and true, been ready to sacrifice self for the sake of undying principle.—Cheney Free Press.

Mr. Bryan has a wonderful hold on the affections of the American people. The Oregonian falsely credits Mr. Bryan with the power of a "political boss." The fact is, he has attained his position as the recognized leader of the reform forces of this nation purely on his merits as a statesman. He has had no pie-counter patronage with which to purchase delegations to a national convention, as Hanna did. He is the leader of democracy today because he stands for all those cherished principles of government which the people desire to preserve, and which the present republican administration threatens to destroy.—Vancouver Register.

It is not expected that the republican press, being a prejudiced party, will give anything like a true and just estimate of the character, sterling qualities and eminent ability of the democratic favorite, William Jennings Bryan. But it were well for its political prospects if its wild and extravagant assertions were in the direction of the truth. It condemns its own cause when without foundation in fact it vilifies, abuses and makes all sorts of unwarranted statements in regard to Mr. Bryan. The mob which brands William Jennings Bryan as a demagogue or a political fanatic, has no more regard for the truth, and is fully aware of the injustice and falsity of the statements, as the one which about nineteen hundred years ago said, "Away with him; crucify him!"

Two Conventions.

Newspaper correspondents who attended both conventions, at Philadelphia and Kansas City, have remarked with singular unanimity the different atmosphere that prevailed in the two places. In Philadelphia, except for the fake theatrical episode which resulted in Roosevelt's nomination, the delegates walked through the hotel corridors and convention hall as silent and dignified as mutes at a funeral. At Kansas City there was less dignity and more ginger. The delegates had gone thither in their capacity as American citizens, without having been deprived by any democratic Mark Hanna of the right to speak, vote and "holler" as they were disposed. There was and is no democratic Hanna and the delegates accordingly conducted themselves as American citizens should. The same difference is observable in the two tickets. One is a strictly hand-made trust product, the other is the spontaneous and enthusiastic choice of a great party. There can be no doubt as to which the people will prefer.—National Democrat.

The Canker Worm.

The canker worm has in some seasons done much harm to apple trees, and when its ravages have been unchecked for two or three years it has even killed the trees. There are two kinds of canker worms—one form deposits its eggs during October and November upon the twigs of the apple trees, while the other appears during warm spells in late winter and early spring. The female moths are wingless, and as they have passed their pupal form in the ground the only way they can reach the branches is by crawling up the trunks of the trees. Some endeavor to trap the moths as they ascend the trees by placing bands of paper about the trunk and smearing them with printers' ink or tar. Others use various other bands and traps, but to be effectual they must be applied before the moths ascend the tree and must be kept in a condition to act as a barrier whenever the ground is not frozen from October to May. As this is a serious task and as, even at the best, some of the insects may evade the traps, the principal reliance is upon persons spraying with arsenites.

Theatrical Villain.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Was there any villain in that play you saw last night?
Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Not on the stage. He sat a few seats from me, though, and insisted upon climbing over my lap to go out between the acts.—Yonkers Statesman.

Training to Balk.

Many colts are actually taught to balk, kick, scare and many other bad habits that render them almost worthless. This usually results either from carelessness or trying to crowd too much instruction into a little time. Man with all his intelligence requires from two to five years to become skilled in any trade. Some never learn. How can we expect the horse, that is guided only by instinct, to know everything after being hitched half a dozen times? This would be presuming him to have more sense than his driver, and many of them have more horse sense than the driver has of man sense.—National Stockman.

The Republican Record.

The republican party once declared its opposition to "all combinations of capital." It has become the exponent and defender of capital in all its forms, the protector of every political evil that has arisen since the war to assail or menace the welfare of the citizen.

Once solemnly declaring "the maintenance of the principles of the declaration of independence and embodied in the federal constitution to be essential to the preservation of our republican institutions," it now maintains the right to govern subject peoples by the sword.

Once declaring the people by tradition and interest to favor bimetalism and "condemning the policy of the democratic administration in its efforts to demonetize silver," it now renounces that ancient doctrine and claims credit for its complete destruction.

There was a time when it put its trust in the people. Since then it has put the people in its trusts. There was a time when its standards were lofty and ennobling. Its only standard now is standard oil.

Its battle-cry years ago was "Freedom and the Union." If due credit be given to one of its modern leaders, its motto for 1900 is "Gold and glory."

Since we went to the very beautiful gold basis, and the farmers have been having a hard time making both ends meet, the extremely wise editors of daily newspapers are giving the dear tillers of the soil plenty of free advice. They suggest "diversified" farming. No more extensive fields of grain at a dollar a bushel, since wheat slumped to 35 cents. John must plait the straw, and Mirandy will make him a new hat. Lucindy must milk the cows and make the butter and look after the eggs. Alvira will save the ashes and make the soap. Bill will kill the hogs and smoke some bacon. Dick and Jerry will clip the sheep and dig a patch of spuds, and Ma will knit plenty of woolen socks. And everything will be lovely and the goose will hang high. The storekeeper can just go to blazes now. We're "diversified" farmers, we are, and we don't care whether school keeps or not. The country's on the gold basis and we have "adjusted ourselves" to the new conditions. We're gone back to first principles. We will cut with a scythe and thrash with a flail. Everybody his own doctor. Every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost. O the wisdom of the editors of goldbug newspapers is a marvel!—Vancouver Register.

Was it a Miracle?

"The marvelous cure of Mrs. Rena J. Stout of consumption, has created intense excitement in Cammuck, Ind.," writes Marian Stuart, a leading druggist of Muncie, Ind. She only weighed 90 pounds when her doctor in Yorktown said she must soon die. Then she began to use Dr. King's New discovery and gained 37 pounds in weight and was completely cured. It has cured thousands of hopeless cases, and is positively guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. 50¢ and $1. Trial bottles free at O'Neil & Ayres drug store.

The Boston Advertiser, (republican) has this to say about Mr. McKinley's platform: "Considered as an adroit avoidance, so far as possible, of inconvenient topics, the platform will commend itself to the enthusiastic approval of those who like that sort of thing."

Two Straight Flushes.

I played poker for 12 years and never saw a straight flush. A few nights ago a woman in a millionaires' row palace held one and, disdaining the small pile of cash on the table, called for her check book. Everybody except an old bachelor who had learned the game in the Union club laid down. He, scorning to take advantage of a weak woman, said:

"Mrs. B., let me advise you to be careful. I shall see you for any amount and raise you. The limit is off, I suppose?"

She said it was and cast a check for $500 in the pot.

"Before I see that may I ask a question?" he said to the assembled players. "I want to know this—in case there are two straight flushes, each ace high, which suit wins?"

"Diamonds," was the unanimous reply.

He handed to Mrs. B. her check and, laying down a ten, jack, queen, king and ace of diamonds, remarked that she was a very brave woman. But she assured him that her hand was worth $500 and exposed a ten, jack, queen, king and ace of clubs.

"How far would you have gone?" some one asked her, to which she made answer:

"I shouldn't have thought of stopping under $5,000, and I am half angry that he didn't give me a chance to bet. It's such glorious fun."—New York Press.

Powder Burns in Shooting Cases.

"Powder burns have played a curiously important part before the courts," remarked a New Orleans lawyer who has a large criminal practice. "Their presence or absence is often depended upon to determine proximity in mysterious shootings, and they have frequently settled the question of suicide or murder where the fact was in doubt. 'I was interested in a case of that kind in the early days of my practice and prevailed upon a prominent surgeon of this city who is now dead to ascertain for me by practical experiment upon a body in the dissecting room exactly how far away the explosion of a pistol would produce burns and powder marks. He used a .32 caliber revolver and found that the flame of the discharge made a distinct burn at a distance of 2½ feet, and powder marks were left at a distance of more than two yards.

"Of course the grains were not actually driven into the skin, as they are at shorter range, but the marks were clearly discernible and could not be easily removed. I was surprised at the result, and it satisfied me that many erroneous conclusions had been drawn from such evidence in the past. It is generally supposed that the weapon must be held almost against the skin to leave traces of flame and powder."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Magnetic Clay.

Most kinds of clay contain a considerable proportion of iron. The red color of bricks, for example, is due to the presence of oxides of iron. Whenever an object molded of clay is baked at the temperature of the potter's furnace in the presence of a magnetic field or influence, the otherwise homogeneous clay shows when cooled traces of magnetism in a definite direction. This inherent magnetism is sufficient to show the direction and give an idea as to the intensity of the magnetizing force that acted while the clay was in the furnace.

This peculiar property has been used to solve some questions of great interest to scientific people in general. An accurate knowledge of the direction of the earth's magnetic force in early historical times has been deduced by several Italian physicists from study of the traces of magnetism shown by Etrurian vases and other objects of clay exhumed from old tombs. The conclusion reached is that the direction of the earth's magnetic field has varied very greatly in the 5,000 or 6,000 years represented by the age of the objects examined.

The Strains They Suffered.

For exercise in expression the teacher daily asks her scholars to describe some of the happenings of the day at home.

Little Minnie, loquitor: "When my papa went to go down into the woodshed the other evening, where it was dark, he slipped on the stair and strained his foot, and now he can't walk."

Here another little girl was evidently reminded of something, and she raised her hand and fluttered it to get the teacher's attention.

"Well?" suggested the teacher.

"Please, ma'am, when our cow came home from pasture last night she slipped in the mud right in front of the house and strained her milk, but she is able to walk just the same."—Lewiston Journal.

Point of View.

The beautiful Griselda deprecated his passionate praise.

"I am but a worm, after all," she sighed, the traditions of her Puritan ancestry being strong upon

"But you look nice enough to eat!" protested the youth.

"Oh, you're a bird!" the shy girl faltered, as if to indicate that she deemed his attitude of mind largely a matter of point of view.—Detroit Journal.

Suspicious Approval.

He—Why don't you wear your new bonnet, my dear?

She—Oh, there's something wrong with it, and I can't find out what it is.

He—Then how do you know there is something wrong with it?

She—All the women in the neighborhood say it is just too lovely for anything.—Chicago News.

Kind words are benedictions. They are not only instruments of power, but of benevolence and courtesy, blessings both to the speaker and hearer of them.—Frederick Saunders.

In a Bad Way Anyhow.

George Ober once overheard some acquaintances in the hotel lobby at Hastings-on-the-Hudson discussing the demise of one Bill Jones, a well known character in that lively country village. Ober immediately joined the group, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

"Did I understand you to say Bill Jones was dead?"

"Yep. Died last Thursday."

"Is that possible?"

"Yes, that's right."

"So Bill Jones is dead. Well, well!"

"Yes, he's dead."

"Do you know, I can scarcely believe it, poor chap! Poor Bill! I knew him well. So he's really dead, is he?"

"Well, if he ain't dead, he's in a darned bad predicament. I saw him buried."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Jonathan Apple.

The Jonathan is pre-eminently an apple for dessert use in the fresh state, and by its beauty and convenient size is particularly adapted for sale in small lots from stands and stores for immediate consumption. It is a late autumn or early winter variety, except in the more northern districts, and is inclined to wilt and wrinkle in ordinary storage after New Year's, but in cold storage it is successfully held to a much later date. Because of its tender flesh and thin skin special care in picking, handling and packing is imperative in marketing the Jonathan. It is easily bruised, and its market value is materially lessened by careless handling.

Gratitude in Women.

Are feelings of gratitude absent in women? That clever gentleman who does the Private Diary in The Cornhill Magazine is not quite satisfied upon the subject. This is his way of putting it: "As gratitude depends upon imagination, it may well be that women, having less imagination than men, are less grateful. The doctor told me 'intermittent heart' is a not uncommon female ailment." To sugar the pill, however, the diarist says: "In defense of the maligned sex I should like to record a case of gratitude in a woman that left me a little mournful. I had sent Charlotte a book for her birthday last autumn, and at breakfast today she said, 'Oh, thank you for that delightful book you sent me!' 'Oh,' I said, 'what was it?' 'Dear me,' said Charlotte, 'I have quite forgotten.'"

A Hindoo Novelty.

One of the most novel as well as incomprehensible features in Magician Kellar's program this year, is a quaint time piece, which is known as the "Hindoo Clock." It was once the property of a famed magician in India and it does all sorts of strange things. It consists solely of a glass dial and one brass hand. Yet it will answer any question that may be asked it. It tells the day of the week upon which you were born, time by your own watch, dates of coins, value and number of bank bills, does sums in arithmetic, etc., etc. It is but an item, however, in a long series of surprises that Kellar will offer when he comes to North Yakima, Monday night, July 16, at Larson's theater.
