

Yakima Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

412½ E. Yakima Ave.

Yakima, Washington

November 6, 1956

Herman Wobber
Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp.
245 Hyde Street
San Francisco, California

Dear Mr. Wobber:

The accompanying books contain competent historical accounts of the Indian and frontier-military events and personalities of the Yakima area. Drummers and Dreamers gives some unusual views on some unusual Indians of the Pacific Northwest. Bugles in the Valley is an authoritative, entertaining "narrative of the West that was", with its "fascinating picture of Army Days at Fort Simcoe against a background of the thrilling Yakima Indian War". We are sending them to you with the hope that you or a reader of your company will glean from them some ideas which may encourage serious consideration of a film story with the Yakima District as its setting.

The books are all recent releases. They may well have some fresh angles for the motion picture makers....

Regardless of whether this literature shows you anything, we invite you to keep the Yakima area in mind for highly diversified terrain and favorable climate and supporting facilities for future outdoor pictures.

We continue to be proud of the good fortune of Universal-International's "To Hell and Back", in which our topography had such a good part.

Sincerely,

DON SANDERS
For the Publicity Committee

DS/lh

"THE FRUIT BOWL OF THE NATION"