Dear Mr. Relander:

This letter from Mr. Gipson is quite revealing (?).

I wish you had time to come up some evening, or if you and Mrs. Relander could come, for dinner on Sun. about 1:00, you could look over the ms. and suggest what might be required to make it fit for decent people to read. Ha! I think it's grand so do others.
I am recovering from a severe cold, and not so groggy yet as to feel equal to a trip to York and besides you do not have time to fool away with outside matters.

Let me know if you are coming for Sunday dinner.

We are always home in the evening. I am puzzled on a memorial page, because the list for all three cousin's C. Tilton Nash is long. Mrs. Painter has designed a beautiful scroll. Hastily,

Yours before breakfast.

Dear Mrs. Crews:

We have your letter of November 11th regarding your HISTORICAL REMINISCENCES OF THE TIETON PROJECT.

It would be impossible for us to give you any figure as to producing an edition of one or two thousand copies of this work, without having the complete manuscript before us, Mrs. Crews. We would also have to have all of the illustrating material -- whatever pictures you planned on including in the finished book, and it would be of assistance to our production department in making up the estimate, if you would accompany the manuscript with a book which represents about what you have in mind in the way of paper, type, page size, binding, etc.

As we have advised in previous correspondence, it might take us considerable time to get a private printing of your book from the press -- perhaps six months or a little longer.

If, despite the delay to be anticipated, you still wish us to prepare an estimate, please send us the manuscript and the other material we have requested, and we will be happy to quote you without delay.

With very best regards, we remain

Yours truly,
