Dear Mr. Relander:

My copy of Drummers and Dreamers arrived yesterday and I was especially pleased to note that you had autographed the flyleaf. I have already glanced through it to the extent of seeing that it gives very interesting information about the Indians and Indian life in eastern Washington, and that the information is expressed in an easy-to-read and pleasing way.

I was surprised to note on page 132 mention of Harrison Hill which you may not have known was named for my father.

Your book will always be cherished and I am grateful that I was on your mailing list.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Harrison
