

MAROIS MYSTERY AGAIN RECALLED

By the Wedding of Miss Ambrose Adams and Mr. James Vanderhyde A Most Sensational Disappearance is Recalled to Citizens of Yakima.

By the marriage of Miss Ambrose Adams, who has resided with her mother in this city at 612 North Seventh street, to James Vanderhyde, an employee of the Cascade Lumber company, is recalled one of the most sensational mysteries that ever puzzled the authorities of Yakima county.

The wedding of Miss Adams and Mr. Vanderhyde occurred at the residence of the brides' mother on last Tuesday evening. Miss Adams was formerly a teacher in the county schools here. At the time of the mystery referred to, she was teaching school up the Wenatchee.

Along in the fall of 1906, the local papers of this city startled the community with big glaring headlines which read—"What is the fate of N. Lewis Marois?" "Did Marois desert his sweetheart?" "Was Marois drowned, murdered, or did he skip out?"

Then followed the story of a man 38 years of age, supposed to be quite wealthy, who had won the love and confidence of a young woman, and after the wedding day had been set, mysteriously disappears, and in such a manner as to create the impression that he was either murdered by thugs, or while fording the Yakima river in the night on horseback had been swept down stream by the raging current.

N. Lewis Marois was the man in the case. Miss Ambrose Adams the innocent, and highly respected, but unfortunate woman. A singular coincidence connected with the story lies in the fact that it was on Tuesday night that Marois was last seen by Miss Adams, and that it was also on Tuesday night that Miss Adams became the bride of James Vanderhyde. There is just a difference, however, of 2 years and three weeks in the dates of the two instances.

N. Lewis Marois, a millwright by trade, represented himself to be a wealthy Alaskan. He had visited this city on several occasions and was apparently getting ready to invest in Yakima real estate, and settle down. During his visits in the city he chanced to meet Miss Adams. They were fast friends and it soon became known that they were engaged. On the night of Tuesday, December 4, 1906, Marois announced to Mrs. Adams that he was going out to see her daughter, who had charge of a school in the Wenatchee valley. The man secured a horse at the Home Comfort stables saying that he would be back that night.

Previous to this time the Yakima valley had been visited by the greatest floods in the history of the valley. The Yakima and Naches rivers had raged with fury and nearly every bridge in the county had been swept away. The county bridge at the mouth of the Naches river was gone and those who crossed were compelled to ford the stream which had not entirely subsided.

Marois called upon Miss Adams early in the evening and left her to return to the city about 8 o'clock. He has never been seen or heard of since that time. The next morning the horse he had ridden was discovered quietly grazing on the other side of the river, the saddle undisturbed upon its back and the reins hanging over its head. Soon the facts in the case leaked out and immediately Sheriff Ronald Grant and his deputies commenced to work upon the theory that Marois had attempted to cross the river in the night, that his horse had stumbled in midstream, thrown Marois into the water, and that the man had been drowned.

After several days of dragging the river and fruitless search the authorities came to the conclusion that Marois had skipped out. In the mean time the news of the affair had been telegraphed broadcast over the state, and "the mysterious disappearance of Marois," occupied prominent space on the first page in every state paper.

In fact newspapers in almost every state in the union published clippings from the western papers concerning the fate of the wealthy Alaskan, who had either been murdered or drowned practically on the eve of his wedding.

While looking over one of these papers in the state of Wisconsin, a lady who represented herself to be Mrs. N. Lewis Marois came across the story. She immediately communicated with Miss Adams and sent a photograph of the man. Sure enough, the man who had mysteriously disappeared, and the husband of the Wisconsin woman, were identical.

When this fact became known James Vanderhyde, a former suitor for the hand of Miss Adams, again resumed his attentions, and after an ardent courtship, succeeded in winning the young lady's affection, with the result as published above.

TWO NOTABLE WEDDINGS

Mr. Harold James Doolittle and Miss Mary Erwin;
Mr. Frank Mullin and Miss Vivian Englehart
Joined in Matrimony as Old Year Goes Out.

December wedding bells rang merrily on Thursday of this week, the last day of the old year. Two notable weddings occurred, which gave society circles an opportunity that is not afforded by any other event.

On Thursday morning, December 31, at the Catholic church in this city, Mr. Frank Mullins, son of Patrick Mullins, former mayor of Butte, Mont., but more recently a heavy investor and property owner of North Yakima, was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Vivian Englehart, daughter of Mrs. M. M. Englehart. A large number of friends attended the ceremony which was performed by Father Brunten. Carriages conveyed the wedding party from the church to the home of the bride's mother on South Fourth street, and here an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. Irvin Bounds acted as toastmaster at the breakfast board and delivered a few remarks apropos to the occasion. Miss Ida Blackford of Portland was maid of honor. Costumed in the very height of fashion both the bride and maid of honor appeared to remarkable advantage. The bride was given away at the altar by her father, Attorney I. P. Englehart. Philip Englehart, brother of the bride, was best man. Irvin Bounds, Alfred Nevin, George Schreiner and Frank Schorn acted as ushers.

The young people left on the afternoon train for Seattle and other Sound points to spend their honeymoon. They will return here and reside in the Englehart flats, a suite of which have been elegantly fitted up, and will be more beautifully adorned with the magnificent wedding gifts presented by the friends and relatives of the bride.

Doolittle-Erwin.

A wedding of unusual interest occurred in this city on Thursday evening, December 31, when Mr. Harold James Doolittle and Miss Mary Frances Erwin were joined in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hamilton M. Bartlett, former rector of St. Michael's church, and the little stone church on the corner of Naches and Yakima avenues was never more beautifully decorated for any event than it was on this occasion. It is to be regretted that the seating capacity of St.

Michael's was insufficient to accommodate all of the friends who gathered to witness the impressive ceremony.

Miss Laura James accompanied at the organ a quartet composed of Dr. C. E. Keeler, basso; Miss Swan, contralto; Mrs. Alexander Miller, soprano, and Mr. Oscar Lee, tenor, and the bridal party entered while the quartet sang Lohengrin's wedding march.

Miss Suzanne Erwin, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, led the bridal procession down the aisle to the altar. The bride entered upon the arm of her brother, Warren A. Erwin, who gave her away. Mr. Fred C. Doolittle acted as best man to the groom. The ushers were Mr. C. B. Cox, Mr. Willmer, Mr. Frank Sharkey and Mr. Harvey Young.

Following the ceremony, which took place at 8 o'clock sharp, the bridal party, consisting of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties, was entertained at a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Verdie A. Erwin of 201 North Naches avenue.

Here were exhibited the many exquisite gifts so graciously bestowed upon the bride. Probably few young people have been more kindly remembered by their friends on the occasion of their wedding than were Miss Erwin and Mr. Doolittle. The bride was showered with presents from the state of Georgia, her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. Doolittle left on the 10 o'clock train Thursday night for Spokane. They expect to visit Pullman, where Mr. Doolittle went to college, and also Colfax, the groom's former home.

Mr. Doolittle will be North Yakima's next city engineer. Mayor-elect P. M. Armbruster has announced that he will appoint him at the first meeting of the new council. For several years Mr. Doolittle has been connected with the United States reclamation service in the capacity of engineer, and he stands very high with the government. He is a member of the local Masonic lodge.

Miss Mary Erwin is well known here. She is always popular in society circles, and as a teacher in the public schools ranked high with the board of directors and city superintendent.

LIFETIME OF A. HERKE SAW MANY CHANGES

By the death of Anthony Herke, which took place Saturday evening, removing another of the pioneers of the Yakima valley, attention is directed to the development of this section of Washington within the period of 40 years, which covers the time he had been a resident of the state. When Mr. Herke died in 1879, leaving six little children dependent upon the care of the father, there were but 36 families resident in the territory now covered by Yakima, Benton and Klickitat counties. Mr. Herke was at that time at The Dalles and was summoned home by the needs of his family. He started afoot for Tampico and made the distance, approximately 100 miles, in two days, on foot, arriving in time for the funeral.

Was An Early Road Builder.
Mr. Herke was one of the men who assisted in the opening up of the stage road to The Dalles, commonly called the Canyon road, by which the freight of this district was hauled out to The Dalles. In the early days, because of the lack of work in this community, he spent a great deal of time in The Dalles where employment was more plentiful.

In the Indian scare of the early seventies, during the absence of Mr. Herke, his home at Tampico was attacked by Indians, who broke down the front door with an axe. The children, who were at home alone, went down through a trap door into the cellar, thence out by the rear and into the brush where they hid until night, making their escape later when the marauders, after sacking the house, had disappeared.

Was at Birth of This City.
At the time of the birth of this city, when Yakima city had been abandoned and it had been decided to erect a North Yakima, Mr. Herke was one of the early workers on the ground and helped to construct the town which existed where this modern city is now to be found. He was a married man with a family of children when he came here and was but 72 years of age at his death, yet in the period of his residence here he had seen and assisted in the change of this country from a desert to the rich and thriving conditions of today.

There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the Golden Gate Mining company at its office, 21 South First street, on January 11th, at 7:30 in the evening.

DOOLITTLE WILL BE ENGINEER

Mayor-Elect P. M. Armbruster Shows Sagacity in the Selection of His Appointments to Office--
Mr. Doolittle Formerly with U.S.R.S.

If Mayor-elect Phillip M. Armbruster appoints Harold J. Doolittle to the office of city engineer, the councilmen of this city will confirm the mayor's choice.

Notwithstanding the fact that some of the friends of former Engineer Nicol are doing everything possible for Mr. Nicol, it is not likely that he will hold Armbruster's administration.

Personally speaking, and without any this responsible position during Mr. consideration of the city's interests, Mr. Armbruster would probably have decided to give the office to Mr. Nicol, but in his selection of Engineer Doolittle, the mayor-elect has demonstrated the fact that he intends to remove himself, as far as possible, from the obligations of friendship, especially when this friendship could not be recognized except to the detriment of the city's welfare.

By a great majority the people of this city have said they want Mr. Armbruster to be mayor. Mr. Armbruster says that he wants to be the best mayor that he is capable of being, and he is going to direct his efforts along this line accordingly.

Recognizing the fact that the office of city engineer is one of the most important of the mayor's appointments he has announced his selection of Harold J. Doolittle. Mr. Doolittle is a young man with well earned experience in civil engineering. For several years he has been connected with the United States Reclamation Service under the Tieton project, and only recently was transferred to Oregon where he has been closely associated with Joseph Jacobs, formerly in charge of the Yakima projects, and Chief Engineer Heney. He is thoroughly qualified for the position, and is held in such high esteem by the heads of the reclamation service that they have given him a furlough for a year with the privilege of resuming his old position in the event that he does not like city engineering.

Before accepting Mr. Armbruster's kind consideration for the appointment Mr. Doolittle assured the mayor-elect that the office of city engineer was strictly an engineering job, and not a political job, and if he accepted it, it must be considered from that view point. "I don't propose to mix up in political affairs here," said Mr. Doolittle.

"That's just the man I'm looking for," replied Mr. Armbruster, "and I know it is the kind of a man the city needs in this position."

A question has been raised concerning the residence of Engineer Doolittle. It has been alleged that he is not a resident of this city. Mr. Doolittle, however, declares that he is a resident of North Yakima, and that for the past three years he has called North Yakima his home. The government has also recognized this city to be his home. Mr. Doolittle admits that he has not voted here for two years simply because when voting time came around he happened to be out in the field, and could not leave his work and travel 40 miles to cast a ballot. During most of the last year he has been engaged in government work in Oregon, but always called this his home and never voted in that state. He also owns property here.

Councilmen Meigs, Shaw, Wight and John J. Miller all declare that they will vote to confirm Mr. Doolittle in the event of his appointment and Mayor-elect Armbruster declares that he will certainly name the young man for the office.

NEARLY LOST HIS SCALP.

Wapato Man Meets With Accident While Driving to This City.

Clyde Jones, while driving to North Yakima last Saturday, encountered a devil wagon just this side of Yakima City. The beast was so frightened that she became entirely unmanageable and in her mad plunge overturned the buggy. Jones' foot became entangled in the buggy top and he was dragged along the road. His face was badly lacerated and scratched and his scalp torn back from the forehead nearly to the middle of the head. He is now at home, and although badly bruised and shaken up is getting along nicely. It is stated that the occupants of the automobile never stopped to see the outcome of the smash-up which they had caused.—Wapato Independent.

Union Evangelistic Services.

A union evangelistic campaign has been planned by the Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian congregations, commencing Sunday evening, Jan. 3, 1909. Dr. Turk of Toronto, Canada, has been secured as the leader in this movement, and is most highly spoken of as a soul strong evangelistic speaker.

The meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Methodist Episcopal church, beginning each evening at 7:30. No limit has been set to the duration of the meetings, but it is expected that they will extend over two weeks at least. The public are invited to these meetings.

POSTPONE DEDICATION

Baptist Church Building Will Not Be Dedicated Until January 10th.

The First Baptist church building will not be dedicated until a week from next Sunday. Previous announcements were to the effect that the new building would be occupied and the dedicatory service held on next Sunday, January 3. On account of the inability of the workmen to get the heating plant in operation by that time, the building committee has been compelled to postpone the service for a week.

Equipment of the Best.

When the structure is ready for use it will be one of the best equipped church buildings in the state. Besides its $5,000 pipe organ, there are other elegant fixtures and convenient arrangements. The pews are to be especially fine and well finished and the contractors, Thacker & Smith, have taken especial pains with all of the interior work.

Features of the building are the two rooms to be occupied by the young men's and young women's Sunday school classes. These rooms, while separate and apart from each other, can be made into one large room by opening the sliding doors. They are to be used as club rooms and all class parties and social gatherings will be held in them.

Elegantly Furnished Rooms.

Each room is to be elegantly furnished by the members of the classes. Library tables, easy chairs and all necessary furniture for the comfort of the young people, is to be provided.

The church has its own kitchen, dining room and dishes. Social affairs will be held in rooms provided for that purpose, instead of in the auditorium as is the custom in many houses of worship.

EXPERTS WILL LECTURE

State College Professors Are to Come to North Yakima on January 2.

Experts from the Washington State College are to be in North Yakima Saturday, January 2, and deliver a series of lectures to the horticulturalists of this section. The rooms of the Commercial club have been obtained for the day and there will be lectures morning, noon and evening. The lecturers will be Professor Thornber, expert on horticulture; Professor Melander, the expert on harmful and beneficial insects; and Professor McDonald, the expert on grasses, alfalfa and such things. This is the opportunity of the year for resident tillers of the soil to hear the best authorities without leaving home for the purpose.

Professor R. W. Thatcher, writing to Edward Remy, of North Yakima, called attention to the fact that institutes are to be held in the lower portion of this valley next week and that Saturday was a free day which would gladly be given to North Yakima if desired. Mr. Remy at once made the necessary arrangements and wired to the state college men to come along.

Twins Are the Same Age.

C. A. Johnson, a twin brother of Dr. H. M. Johnson of Toppish, arrived from Beverly, Idaho, last Saturday. The brothers, remarkable to relate, are the same age, and resemble one another more than any two persons the writer has ever met—in size, form, complexion, manner of address and speech most remarkable. The gentleman from Idaho is an attorney at law, and is very favorably impressed with the Yakima valley.—Toppish Review.

AWFUL EARTHQUAKE IN EASTERN ITALY

Rome, Dec. 30.—Half the population of Calabria and the eastern part of Sicily are dead and the other half are weeping. As the great extent of the seismic disturbance becomes apparent it seems impossible to exaggerate the horrors which have followed them.

The calamity which has overwhelmed Italy is almost beyond the grasp of the imagination. This is true not only because of the number of the dead, but also because of the innumerable wounded buried in the ruins. Many of these are perishing because it is impossible to rescue them from the wrecks of their former homes.

The total number of victims is variously estimated at between 50,000 and 150,000.

King and Queen at Messina.

The king and queen arrived at Messina today. As they made their way into the ruined town the scenes of horror were too much for the queen, who almost swooned. Crowds of terror-stricken people surrounded the royal couple, throwing themselves in the mud and screaming for aid and pity.

As far as the facts concerning Messina become available they corroborate in every detail the worst fears heretofore expressed. At Reggio the silence of death still reigns. The horrors of the situation and the completeness of the destruction hourly become more apparent.

Coast Line Is Altered.

The coast line of southern Italy has been greatly altered by the earthquake. Many beautiful homes along the shores are masses of ruins.

A national committee has been formed to collect funds for the victims. The list was opened by a contribution of $100,000 by the king.

The premier has received a telegram from Signor Felin, a deputy at Messina, summing up the situation as follows:

City Completely Destroyed.

"Messina is completely destroyed, razed to the ground. The victims may be numbered by tens of thousands. The conflagration which is still raging, is completing the destruction of the city. Salvage implements, firemen and soldiers must be sent immediately. The disaster exceeds the wildest imagination. The volcano Stromboli is active, and the seas around the island very agitated and dangerous to navigation."

The pope has telegraphed the archbishop at Palermo a large sum of money and instructed him to proceed immediately to Messina to help the survivors.

Reggio a Heap of Ruins.

Torpedo boats that were sent to the aid of the sufferers at Reggio have returned, reporting that nothing remains of the city but a heap of tangled ruins.

Cable communication with Aconian island, 25 miles north of Sicily, is interrupted. It is feared that these islands, also, have been devastated.

Refugee Tells Story.

Catania, Dec. 30.—A Messina refugee says that only a small proportion of the population escaped. Thousands are imprisoned and the pinioned human beings, unable to extricate themselves, are being burned alive. Others are dying from injuries and many are starving. Messina's crying need is for doctors, nurses, food and firemen. The first work of rescue was performed by volunteers from the ships in the harbor, and groups of heroic survivors, who at great personal risk, extracted many persons from precarious situations. Not the least of the suffering was caused by a downpour of cold rain.

Panic at Palermo.

Palermo, Dec. 30.—A slight undulatory shock at 7:30 last evening created a terrible panic. The population, wrought up by the effects of the recent shake, crowded the churches, carried out images of saints and sacred vestments and marched in a procession through the streets imploring the cessation of the earthquake scourge.

Another Town Wiped Out.

Catanzaro, Calabria, Dec. 30.—A report received here says the town of Bagnara, on the north coast of Reggio, was completely wiped out, fire finishing the work of destruction. The report says: "All the inhabitants are dead." The population was 10,000.

Shocks Still Continue.

Syracuse, Sicily, Dec. 30.—Violent earthquake shocks at 5:30 this morning caused the terrified people to rush from the streets to the open country. Two violent shocks were felt on the island of Ustica last night.

From the latest estimates it is feared the victims of Sicily and Calabria will reach more than 100,000, while the

DITTER BROS.

WILL NAME ELMORE AS CHIEF OF POLICE

Some Councilmen Are Not Satisfied With Selections of the New Mayor.

Chief of Police—Jacob R. Elmore.
Street Commissioner—Louis French.
Fire Chief—Ed. G. Dawson.
City Engineer—Harold Doolittle.
Health Officer—Dr. John Nywening.
Cemetery Sexton—J. D. Johns.

The foregoing are the appointments that it is understood will be recommended to the city council by Mayor Armbruster. They are already giving Mr. Armbruster a lot of trouble. Some of the aldermen are not amenable. The faithful henchman of the new mayor, Councilman Nelson Smith, is one of the most vigorous of the protestants. Mr. Smith is a long way from being satisfied. He has no use for Mr. Elmore as chief of police for he wants Ronald Grant appointed to the position and proposes to get him if there is any possibility. Mr. Smith doesn't want Mr. Doolittle of the reclamation service for city engineer, either. He wants A. A. Nicol, and proposes to fight for him.

Mull Is Also Displeased.

City Councilman Mull is not satisfied, either. He does not want Louis French or street commissioner. He favors J. V. Mull, his father, and has said so. As a result of the attitude he will make he expects to be repaid by a subordinate position on the cemetery committee when the new mayor comes to the announcement of his committees.

There is a statement to the effect that Mr. Elmore, if named as chief of police, will not be confirmed. Councilman John J. Miller does not want him. Mr. Elmore was one of the men who told Councilman Miller a whole lot of things about the present police force and then declined to appear under oath at the investigation and reiterate those statements. At that time Mr. Miller said Mr. Elmore ought either to come through or be dismissed from his position as merchants' police.

Other Arguments Used.

There are other arguments used against Mr. Elmore. He is a temperance man and a member of the state prohibition party. It is understood that he has promised to be good if made chief of police and not bear on the saloons too hard. This has already caused discussion. His appointment has been asked by the church element and opposed by the liquor interests. Mr. Armbruster is between two fires. If Mr. Elmore measures up to the standard set him by the church people he will overstep the interests of other friends.

A LUCKY CHOICE.

How a Famous English Authoress Won a Fortune in a Lottery.

Mary Russell Mitford, the English authoress, when a child won a fortune in a lottery. Her works comprise poems, dramas, tales and descriptive sketches. She wrote three tragedies—"Julian," "The Vespers of Palermo" and "Rienzi." The last named had a notable run on the stage. But it is her tales and sketches, thrown off apparently with little effort, but full of grace and charm, that have given her lasting fame. The story of the lottery is quite romantic. The family were in straits and had come up to dingy lodgings in London. One day—her tenth birthday, as it happened—Miss Mitford and her father were walking about London, when he took her into an office where an Irish lottery was soon to be drawn. Pointing to some bits of printed paper (whose significance she had no idea of) that lay upon the counter, he asked her to choose the number she liked best as a birthday present. She selected No. 2224. Not being a whole ticket, another number was suggested, but she firmly stuck to her first choice, pointing out that the figures cast up to ten, the number of her years. The office being able to complete the ticket, the whole of it was purchased. Time passed on, and one Sunday morning while preparing for church the clerk of the lottery office appeared to tell them that an express had just arrived from Dublin announcing that No. 2224 had drawn a prize of £20,000.—London Mail.

Bondsman.

In his "History of Coal Mining," R. W. Galloway points out that what appear to be traces of a primitive state of servitude existed in Staffordshire, England, where the laborers employed in the haulage of coal continued to be known as "bondsman," a name probably coming down from a remote period, a supposition which receives support from a peculiar service required of them known as "buildases." This consisted in working at times in the morning without receiving any payment beyond a drink of ale. This custom of exacting labor without pay is supposed to represent some ancient service required from their tenants by the monks of the abbey of Buildwas, in Shropshire, whence the name was derived.

GORDON'S PACE FURIOUS

Man Who Caused Root's Downfall Spent Money Like Water at Spokane.

The Spokasman-Review says: Spokane acquaintances of Attorney M. J. Gordon, former counsel for the Great Northern railroad company in this city, who is involved in the Root supreme court scandal, recall the rapid pace at which Gordon lived in this city.

One of these, speaking of the manner in which Gordon beguiled the time between nights of drinking, gambling and kindred evils, said:

"Gordon is one of the most remarkable men I have ever seen. He could stay up all night, hire an automobile in the morning, go into the country with a party of friends, sing a few songs, drink more booze, and return to town apparently refreshed and ready for the legal business in which he was interested. On these trips he usually insisted on paying all expenses. He is a good story teller, a good listener and one of the best entertainers I ever knew. Apparently he had no sense of the value of money, and I often wondered what would be the finish of the clip at which he was living. I have a good income, but I know I could not afford to game against the men with whom he gambled. I could not afford the luxuries that he enjoyed day after day, and my physique would not stand the strain even if I had the money."

Entertains Like Potentate.

Other friends of Gordon recall the manner in which he enjoyed fishing at the nearby lakes and rivers, and trips to Seattle and other cities. One of the friends said that Gordon would go to the best hotels at Hayden lake, at Seattle and other places, would engage a suite of rooms and private bath and would regale friends and acquaintances with liquors, cigars and hospitality that might have been dispensed had he been a regal potentate. When meeting friends out of town it was a customary thing for him to insist on their enjoying his hospitality, even sharing rooms in the hotel at his expense. Expensive dinners and other amusements were with the entertainment.

By automobile was his favorite mode of reaching pleasure resorts in eastern Washington and Idaho. On these trips he always wanted congenial companions, and was not particular whether his companion was a rich man or a poor man.

Showed Rare Shrewdness.

With all the heavy losses attributed to him at cards, it is said that Gordon showed rare shrewdness at times. One of his acquaintances said

"I remember a card game wherein $10,000 was at stake. In the midst of the game Gordon got a hand that seemed to unnerv him. His hands twitched, a glassy stare seemed to settle over one of his eyes and I and some of the others believed he was suffering a stroke of paralysis. It was only a trick of his, however. He had good enough hand to win in that deal at least."

In a legal way, it has been said about town that few men could equal the force of Gordon. He was rapid, and went at the different tasks like a steam engine. When handling a big case one of his chief diversions was to get into an automobile, ride into the country and meditate on the different phases of the problem he had in mind.

Those most intimately acquainted with Gordon are not surprised that there was a disastrous finish to his connection with the Great Northern.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 20.—The political situation during the past week has been replete with interesting events and episodes. The Panama canal deal has been the subject of unfounded charges against the government and those nearly related to the president, and of vindictive and indignant counter charges coming direct from the president in the shape of a message to congress and containing threats of libel suits against the chief offender, the editor of the New York World.

Congress is writhing under the stinging lash of the president, charging it with an effort to choke off or scotch detective activity with regard to its members. Some members of congress (like some of the rest of us) would not care to have too strong a searchlight turned on all our outgoings and incomings. The president knows who some of them are and he is perhaps waiting with some impatience for the national legislature to rise in its holy wrath and repudiate the insinuation. Congress, or at least some congressmen, will not play with fire for fear of an explosion. The president is merciless in his exposures and his denunciation and what they have done in the closet, he is capable of proclaiming from the housetops of their constituencies in a way that all men and their wives will hear and believe him. It is a little short of shameless how some members and senators make the United States treasury pay their election expenses and even bribe their constituents. The common remark, "They all do it," renders it not one whit more respectable or less dishonest.

There are navy yards on the New England coast and on other coasts that are supported by the United States for no other reason than that a senator or a member of congress has use for them to sustain his political fortunes by keeping him in congress. These navy yards are too small for modern warship construction, therefore useless ships are appropriated for and hundreds of men are employed and millions of dollars are paid in wages (wasted) to the friends and political henchmen of certain senators and members.

BLOW TO ORGANIZED LABOR.

A judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia last week sentenced to jail three prominent labor leaders, namely Samuel Gompers, president John Mitchell, vice president and J. H. Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor. The alleged offense was contempt of court for continuing to publish in the "unfair" or "we don't patronize" list of the Federation, the name of the Bucks Stove & Range company, a large manufacturing corporation of St. Louis, which for years has been openly at war with the Federation of Labor. The plaintiff corporation some three years ago brought an action at Washington to restrain the above named officers of the Federation from continuing the boycott against it, claiming such action to be in restraint of inter-state trade and tending to deprive it, the plaintiff corporation, of the confidence of the public, a fact that acted most injuriously on its business. A plea that was upheld by the court apparently in every detail. Mr. Gompers was given a sentence of one year, Mr. Mitchell a sentence of six months while Mr. Morrison was let off with a sentence of three months in jail.

Labor union men all over the country, indeed all over the world, are both shocked and angry over the court's decision and openly denounce it as rank injustice. The effect of the decision as it personally affects the three men sentenced is not of overwhelming importance, although doubtless these men are not feeling happy over the prospect of going to jail. But the important point to organized labor in this late decision is bound up in the fact that it deprives labor of its most effective club in its fight against capital by virtually depriving it of the use of that formidable weapon, the boycott. Intelligent leaders of labor are quick to realize that this decision, if it be maintained by the supreme court of the United States, as it very likely will be, is the hardest blow that organized labor has ever yet received.

To the ordinary layman this decision does certainly look like an unjustified and unwarranted abuse of judicial authority, as well as an open attack on the liberty of the press. If a judge may assume the right to dictate to an editor what he may and what he may not print in the columns of his paper then no man's liberty is safe. Where there is not a free and untrammelled press there cannot be for long a free people.

If this decision had been rendered sixty days earlier it probably would have had the effect of defeating Mr. Taft for the presidency, as broad a statement as that may seem. It is now a well known fact that a great majority of labor union men refused to follow their valiant leader, Gompers, in support of Bryan and were induced or cajoled into supporting Taft on the fake plea of prosperity to come, although they well knew that the Republican nominee has but little sympathy for the demands of labor. And they know, or should know by this time that when the new president comes to appoint new judges to sit as members of the supreme court he will without doubt appoint men who hold opinions on this question similar to his own.

Roosevelt's appointees on the supreme bench of the District of Columbia were wise enough politically to withhold their decision until after the late presidential election. Thus has labor been buncoed again.

THE OREGON SENATORIAL FIGHT.

Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon, it seems now, is practically certain of winning his senatorial in spite of the contemptible fight being made upon him. For a time after the recent presidential election it looked as though the republican conspiracy against Chamberlain might succeed in spite of the fact that a majority of the members of the legislature are pledged to his support. But the trouble among the Republicans has been that they could not and cannot agree on one of their own number to be put forward to rob Chamberlain of his hard earned victory and at the same time cheat the public will. Fulton, the present discredited senator, whose term will expire next March, had made himself obnoxious to a large element of the party and he made matters worse by running to Roosevelt and Taft to beg them to help him to save his toga. This disgusted even some of Fulton's own supporters, while his enemies seeing Fulton again active dropped out of the game admitting that they would prefer to see Chamberlain elected senator. Nevertheless the whole country is watching Oregon and is waiting to see what the outcome will be. The public generally is not particularly interested in the reformation of the U. S. senate and the public, or the intelligent portion of it, knows that the only way by which the senate can be reformed is for the people of the different states to dictate to their representatives in the legislature whom they will elect as senator. A mighty principle is at stake in Oregon and all real reformers hope that the outcome will be right and that the legislature will respect the will of the people of Oregon.

Mr. Taft is now at Augusta, Georgia, where he can play golf all winter and is far enough away from the center of political gravity to keep away from an army of hungry and expectant office-seekers. At the same time the president-elect seems to be studiously cultivating the people of the south with the view of attempting to break the solidarity of that section in the campaign of 1912, to do something in fact that none of his Republican predecessors were ever able to do.

There is no reason to doubt but that senators and congressmen who have it in for Teddy will finally back down in the position they have taken in regard to the issue raised over the secret service men. They will continue to "cuss" him as they have been doing for years, but none of them have the courage to begin an open fight upon Roosevelt, even if he is soon to retire. They don't care to be the object of presidential billingsgate, nor to be initiated publicly in the Ananias club.

Mr. Roosevelt is apparently beginning to get "cold feet" in regard to that proposed hunting trip to Africa. It is reported that he has been hearing much of late of the dangerous and unpleasant side of life in the jungle and the risks that a foreigner in that country must take of attack by fever. Teddy wouldn't be bluffed by the biggest African animal outside of a "zoo," but he does have a wholesome dread of the little deadly "skeeter."

Judge Root apparently has about made up his mind that there is really nothing wrong in "indiscretions of friendship," and that if the other judges do not object that he will again don his judicial robe and take his place for the full six year term. His friends point to the judge's poverty as a sure sign of his honesty, but are indiscreet enough to admit that he is guilty only of being a fool, and, it might be added also of being a tool.

Gov. elect Cosgrove is said to be well enough now to talk politics all day. Although not a physician we would regard that as a most dangerous symptom. For politics kill more men than does Bright's disease.

Yes, surely we will have prosperity in abundance during the coming year, for didn't the dear old g. o. p. promise it to us? But unfortunately there was no bond given that the promise would be redeemed.

CARNEGIE'S PANACEA FOR ILLS OF LABOR

Iron Master Says in World's Work That an Era of Profit Sharing Is Coming.

New York, Dec. 28.—"In the future, labor is to rise still higher. The joint-stock form opens the door to the participation of labor as shareholder in every branch of business. In this, the writer believes, lies the final and enduring solution of the labor question. Nothing can stand against the direct management of owners. We are only pioneers whose duty is to start the movement, leaving to our successors its full and free development as human society advances."

These are striking statements found in an article by Andrew Carnegie in the forthcoming January number of The World's Work made public today. An editorial note states that the article is taken from Mr. Carnegie's new book, "Problems of Today" and that it is published in the magazine "because of the remarkable—it might be called even sensational—forecast that he makes of the continued improvement in the position of labor till profit-sharing does its perfect work and the laborer and the capitalist become the same man."

Beginning of Steel Industry.
Mr. Carnegie tells of the beginnings made by the Carnegie Steel company many years ago by making from time to time 40-odd young partners, who paid for their interest in the business by their notes, payable only out of the profits of the business. Great care, Mr. Carnegie says, was taken to admit workers of the mechanical department which had hitherto been neglected by employers. Speaking further on the combination of many steel works into the one United States Steel corporation he says that the problem presented was not altogether new, "for individual and corporate management have co-existed since joint-stock companies were formed. The former had undoubtedly great advantage over the latter. Able men managing their own works, in competition with large bodies of shareholders employing salaried managers, were certain to distance their corporate competitors, and did so. Nothing can stand against the direct management of owners."

Going on to speak of the experiment of the United States Steel corporation in interesting its officers and employees in its shares Mr. Carnegie says that "every corporation could well afford to sell shares to its saving workmen, giving preference in repayment at cost as a first charge in case of disaster, just as present laws provide first for the mechanic's lien and for homestead exemption. This is due to the workingman who necessarily buys the shares without knowledge, and is asked to buy them, not solely for his own advantage, but for the benefit of the company as well—the advantage of both."

Advantage of Labor from Slavery.

The writer points out that "just as the mechanical world has changed and improved, so the world of labor has advanced from the slavery of the laborer to the day of his absolute independence and now to this day, when he begins to take his proper place as the capitalist-partner of his employer. We may look forward with hope to the day when it shall be the rule for the workman to be partner with capital, the man of affairs giving his business experience, the workingman in the mill his mechanical skill, to the company, both owners of the shares and so far jointly interested in the success of their joint efforts, each indispensable, so that without their co-operation success would be impossible."

Replying to the possible charge of being over-sanguine, Mr. Carnegie declares himself convinced that "the huge combination, and even the moderate corporation, has no chance in competition with the partnership, which embraces the principal officials and has adopted the system of payment by bonus or reward throughout its work. The latter may be relied upon, as a rule, to earn handsome dividends in times of depression, during which the former, conducted upon the old plan, will incur actual loss, and perhaps land in financial embarrassment."

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Increasing Prices Are Offered Hay Producers for the Stock They Still Hold.

This is the week after Christmas but it is a long way from being as bad as had been anticipated in a business way either by the wholesale or the retail men. A great deal is doing compared with what was anticipated and therefore the feeling, generally, is more hopeful. Railroad shipments are going forward in a quiet way. Considerable hay is moving, cars being loaded every day both at this station and those further east and west along the line of the railway. Hay prices are constantly stiffening and a variety of prices are quoted for alfalfa. Good hay, in car lots, loaded, will sell, it is said, for $11.75, but large quantities are not to be had.

Large Lots Unobtainable.

A number of efforts have been made to pick up lots of 100 tons or more but have failed. Local dealers who have supplies are holding for the retail trade, which is an essential, while cattle feeders and others who picked up quantities in the fall will not begin to release their surplus supplies for some time to come. The winter so far has been an open one and little feeding, comparatively, has been necessary. There is ample time, however, for a heavy consumption of hay and none of those who bought for stock feeding are prepared at this time to let go.

Wholesale meat prices are somewhat higher, as is natural at this time, but in a general way meats are in good supply for the wholesaler and are selling as close to the cost figure as will give the producer a margin of profit. Good meats are constantly bringing a higher figure. In poultry there is very little doing. Chickens are the only article of the kind in excellent supply.

Big Business in Fruit.

There is a steady movement of apples towards the east. The Yakima Produce company has forwarded two cars of Newtown Pippins for the British market and the Horticultural union is to get out two cars on its own account. The Union today loaded its three hundredth car of fruit on this season's business and will add a couple more before tomorrow night, so as to round out the year properly. Cars are coming easier, the banana shipments to coast cities and to this town supplying foreign cars which can be used for return eastern shipments.

Eggs Fall Off in Price.

It will be good news for the housekeeper, if not for the producer that a downward tendency in eggs has begun. The retail price has been reduced from 50 cents a dozen to 45 cents and there is a generally larger supply throughout the country. The market here stood up longer than it did either east or west but is now declining, owing to increased production in this district and large consignments of eastern and Oregon and California stock.

Circulars have been received in North Yakima from Sydney C. Miller, president of the "Yakima Valley Fruit depot," which is boosting in Chicago "fancy red apples, product of Yakima valley, Washington, conceded the finest fruit valley in the world, are now in the reach of everybody and can be put on the table of every home at growers' prices: Jonathan, (Queen of apples) $2.65 per box; Spitzenberg (king of apples) $2.75 per box delivered in Chicago or suburbs at the above prices."

HOLIDAY TRADE HEAVY.

Yakima People Spent Large Amounts for Gifts— No Turkeys.

It is believed that North Yakima people spent more money for Christmas presents this year than at any previous Christmas time. The eventful day that was celebrated yesterday saw many costly gifts distributed in North Yakima households. Most merchants will say the trade has been exceptionally heavy and officials of the postoffice and express office will not hesitate in declaring this to be the banner year for business. On Thursday the prepay receipts at the express office were just twice the amount of the receipts of Dec. 24, 1907. The postoffice stamp receipts were exceptionally large—and in fact they were never larger.

At the Home Fireside.

Dinner parties, home gatherings and reunions were features of the day here yesterday. For the past week incoming trains have brought home college students and others whose occupations take them away from the home firesides. By Thursday night many homes had been made more cheerful and Christmas eve more real by the homecoming of many North Yakima young folk.

Mingled with the joys and merry-making there was a faint hint of disappointment in some homes. For, be it known, there were many homes without turkey. Not that there was no money with which to purchase the necessary bird. Far be it. Scores of household heads lingered about the markets Thursday evening offering any price for something that resembled a Christmas turkey, but Mr. Marketman could only shake his head and say: "There are no turkeys."

Not a Turkey in the Market.

There wasn't a turkey in any market in town after Wednesday evening. All day Thursday the demand for the bird was continuous. Feed has been high this year and hardly half the usual number of turkeys has been raised. Those few that were raised were spoken for ahead of time and quite a number went to the sound cities. An amusing feature of this incident was the fact that in many Seattle and Tacoma cafes Yakima turkey was advertised in red letters in the menu cards, while the bulk of North Yakima families are chicken or duck and said nothing.

CALENDAR SET FOR THE JANUARY TERM

In the old action of Collins vs. Bounds the motion for a new trial was denied.

SOUVENIR ALBUM NOW NEARING COMPLETION

Beautiful Descriptive Book of North Yakima Now Ready for the Press.

The work of Martin F. Brooks, the photographer, in preparing a souvenir album of North Yakima, has now progressed sufficiently so that some definite announcement of the publication may be made. The purpose of the work is to present by photographic reproductions and brief descriptions the conditions and advantages of this section, and it is now assured that it will be beyond expectations.

Practically all of the cuts that will be used are now on hand and show that the engravers have done their work especially well. The views of the city of North Yakima, the homes and business buildings, the ranches and farm scenes are true to life and nature and will convey to those abroad a most accurate idea of things as they actually are here. There will be a general description, containing facts and figures concerning North Yakima and vicinity and then about one hundred pages of cuts will follow.

The work is of such magnitude that it will still be two or three weeks before the book is off the press. Its publication is awaited with much interest.

Wanted—Chickens, hogs, veal, eggs.

An Ancient Traveler's Outfit.

A small "Traveler's Guide," dated 1780, contains a good deal of advice as to the luggage which should be carried. "Take," says the book, "two suits of clothes, one coffee colored and one blue; a chest flannel, a pair of leather breeches, a sleeping suit, three pairs of stockings, two pairs of gloves, two wigs, one hair bag (?), two caps, two hats, two pairs of shoes, one pair of slippers, six 'undershirts,' four 'overshirts,' six neckties, six collars, six handkerchiefs, four pairs of cuffs, three cravats, two pairs of cotton hose, two pairs of socks." But this is not all, as is shown by the following items: "Take a Bible, a book of sermons, a 'Traveler's Guide,' two albums, a diary, a quire of white paper, quills and ink, an almanac, a mirror, a silver watch, a silver snuff-box, a silver spoon, a pair of silver shoe buckles, a silver tie pin, three silver studs, a gold seal ring, a knife and fork with silver handles, a sewing case, an opera glass, a compass, a wax light and a tinder box, a toothbrush, a silver toothpick, a sword, a silver mounted cane, a padlock with which to fasten your door at night inside, a clothes brush, a box of medicine."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Fishes That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish is met with which cannot swim, the most singular of which perhaps is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop after the manner of a toad, to which animal this fish to some extent bears a resemblance, and it is provided with a long upturned snout. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin paws. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of non-swimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, which resembles the knight in a set of chessmen, and the starfish, of which there are many specimens, which mostly walk and crawl on the shore or rocks, both being unable to swim.

The African Ostrich.

The African ostrich, from which the best white feathers are obtained, stands six or seven feet high and weighs from 80 to 100 pounds. Its egg is equal to about two dozen hens' eggs. Its feathers sell in Africa for about $200 a pound at wholesale. While walking quietly its step is about twenty-six inches, but when frightened the stride increases to about twelve feet, and at this gait it can run something like twenty-five miles an hour. When pursued it sometimes turns and deals the pursuer a blow with the foot that makes him think of the kick of a mule. The African ostrich is the largest bird now existing on earth. The American ostrich is only about half the size of the African and has three toes, while the African bird has only two. The plumage of the American ostrich is gray.

One of the Wonders of Physics.
An experienced mechanic who was asked what he regarded as the most wonderful thing for general utility replied: "The tracking of a car wheel is the most wonderful thing to me in the whole range of science and invention. Here are two rails, uphill and downhill, round the sharp curves and along false tangents, and upon them fly at more than a mile a minute, without jar or jostle, a dozen heavy cars drawn by an engine weighing sixty tons. Passengers realize no danger, yet there is only the little flange of a wheel between them and eternity. An inch and a half of steel turned up on the inner side of the wheel holds up the whole train as securely to the rails as if it were bolted there in grooves."

Hide Your Fruit Trees.

As lawn specimens fruit trees are nearly always disappointing. They have more insect enemies and fungous diseases than first class ornamental trees and shrubs. If you spray them they are unsightly; if you do not your lawn is covered with wormy fruits, which look bad and smell worse. The peach is a short lived, delicate tree which is particularly subject to San Jose scale. Plums and cherries are sure to yield wormy fruit unless you jar the curculios out of them long before breakfast or unless you let the chickens run beneath the trees. Both are violent suppositions for a home lawn.—Country Life in America.

A Natural Inference.

For no other reason than that his poultry book told him to feed him he slavishly fed him and asked himself no questions.

The hens were variously affected. The Leghorns found difficulty in keeping their hot Italian blood from open revolt. The Cochins, with true oriental apathy, said it was fate anyway. But the old Plymouth Rock had the American sense of humor.

"He thinks we're going to lay bricks," she cackled.—Puck.

No Back Action.

Mr. Gladstone knew how to admit that he was in the wrong. On one occasion he did so candidly and handsomely, as becomes a gentleman. But he preferred to keep clear of the necessity for apologies and had scant belief in their efficacy. "You can't unpull a man's nose," he once said to his private secretary, Sir Algernon West.

Knew How It Was.

"I presume you spend all you make?"
"No; I don't spend a tenth of it."
"Then you must have a nice little balance in the bank?"
"Nope, not a cent."
"Shake, old chap. I'm married myself."—Houston Post.

Geese From Shellfish.

Everybody in the whole civilized world between the eleventh and the seventeenth centuries believed that the "barnacle goose" hatched from that species of shellfish called the barnacle. The story was first told by Cambrensis and was devoutly believed by all Christendom for more than half a thousand years. A well known scientific writer, reviewing the opinions of Cambrensis, says: "According to our venerable authority, the barnacle goose is generated from logs of wood allowed to decompose in the water. When decomposition has fairly begun, small bumps on the log may be observed. Little by little these increase in size, and finally assume the form and shape of a mass of barnacles, which is well known as a kind of shellfish. Soon after the shell, or husk, bursts open and a full grown goose may be seen in the water clinging to the log only by its bill. A few days longer it continues to draw its nourishment from the log, then breaks away in the form of a perfect goose, exercising all the functions of its kind."

Getting Quick Action.

"The gambling instinct, once aroused, will make the victim gamble with anything," said a Detroitier. "I saw two gamblers meet the other day and indulge in a quick gamble with 50 cent pieces. 'Odd or even?' asked the first. 'Odd,' said the second. And the man with the odd date on the coin won. His half dollar was dated 1879. The other was dated 1880. Another game is played with dollar bills. It is 'greenback poker,' and was hatched in Washington. Each bill bears a series number—say, 99667634 or the like. In the number cited are two nines and three sixes—a 'full house.' The next man may have a bill numbered 72243389. He has, you observe, two pairs.

"High wins," the players say on meeting, each holding his bill out of sight. Then they compare and settle up. 'Greenback poker' is a good quick way to lose a whole lot of money."—Detroit News.

Model Sickness.

The pretty girl had told the artist that she had posed before, and on the strength of that statement she got a job. She hadn't held the pose ten minutes before she turned deadly white and sank to the floor.

"Model sickness," said the experienced artist after she had gone. "I knew she was lying, for the first time always get it. It is as well defined a complaint as seasickness and has to be treated the same way. It is a form of nausea and is caused as much by the nervous strain the new model is always under as by the unusual experience of standing in one position. I have had big, strong men, even negroes, go the same way. It is something every artist has to make allowances for, and only practice can cure it, although I know old models who still suffer from it, especially if they are in an awkward pose."—Exchange.

Some Words Beginning With H.
Most persons aspire the initial letter of "humble" nowadays and write "a humble" just as they write "a humbug" or "a humming bird." But there are very many who would not naturally sound an h in "humble," or in "herb," "hospital," "homage," or even "humor." Before the nineteenth century nobody did, though it is clear that the aspirate had become regular by "David Copperfield's" time, from the fact that Dickens harps on Uriah Heep's "umblie." The insistence on the h is comparatively modern; mediaeval men not only said "abit" for "habit," but wrote it so and the Bible has "an Hebrew."

Literally Translated.

On visiting Ireland the great traveler Livingstone was much feted. In Dublin at a dinner party he happened to be placed next to a literary lady who was a very stout woman. She worried him greatly about the language of the savage cannibals among whom he had managed to live and wanted to know the sound of their language. He spoke a sentence of it to satisfy her, and she answered, "Being translated, what does that mean?" "It means," he replied, "there is great cutting on you."

Tobacco Penalties.

The shah of Persia, in the seventeenth century, proclaimed that every soldier in whose possession tobacco was found should have his lips cut; while in the same century Massachusetts ordered that "no person shall take tobacco publicly, and any one shall pay one penny for every time he is convicted of taking tobacco in any place."

Trouble In The Studio.

The walling infant had upset the photographer's chair, kicked a hole in the paper rocks and made faces at the little bird which is supposed to bring a smile to all youngsters when they are having their pictures taken.

"Isn't he too cute for anything?" chirped the proud mother. "And just to think I call him Tootsie."

"Tootsie," grunted the impatient photographer. "H'm! I'd call him Cod Liver Oil."

"Why so, sir?"

"Because he is so hard to take."—Chicago News.

The Calm Spirit.

The people in all lines of duty who do the most work are the calmest, most unhurried people in the community. Duties never wildly chase each other in their lives. One task never turns another out nor ever compels hurried, and therefore imperfect, doing. The calm spirit works methodically, doing one thing at a time and doing it well, and it therefore works swiftly, though never appearing to be in haste.

GEORGE A. WEDDLE,

Administrator of the estate of Arthur S. Fawver, deceased. Jan 2-9

Yakima valley, attention is directed to the development of this section of Washington within the period of 40 years, which covers the time he had been a resident of the state. When Mr. Herke died in 1879, leaving six little children dependent upon the care of the other, there were but 36 families resident in the territory now covered by Yakima, Benton and Klickitat counties. Mr. Herke was at that time at The Dalles and was summoned home by the needs of his family. He started afoot or Tampeco and made the distance, approximately 100 miles, in two days, on foot, arriving in time for the funeral.

Was An Early Road Builder.

Mr. Herke was one of the men who assisted in the opening up of the stage road to The Dalles, commonly called the canyon road, by which the freight of his district was hauled out to The Dalles. In the early days, because of the lack of work in this community, he spent a great deal of time in The Dalles where employment was more plentiful.

MILWAUKEE ROAD WILL YET ENTER YAKIMA

If information conveyed to C. A. Day be true, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad will yet enter North Yakima. The information, says Mr. Day, comes from high railroad officials and gives out facts pertaining to railroad building in central Washington. Mr. Day is not at liberty to divulge the contents of the letter at this time. In a week, however, thinks Mr. Day, it will be definitely known that a road is to be built from Beverly on the Columbia to North Yakima via the Moxee valley. This same road will follow the Columbia river from Beverly to Kennewick, going through White Bluffs, Hanford and Richland.

Gang of Men at Work.

While Mr. Day is bound to secrecy concerning what is told to him in the letter, he is nevertheless at liberty to make "surmises" and these surmises carry considerable weight. There are now 75 men with teams working on a railroad grade above White Bluffs. The gang of workmen are confining their work to a line surveyed by the so-called North Coast road. The survey goes no farther north than Beverly where the Milwaukee crosses the Columbia.

Because the road builders are now working on the North Coast survey and because the survey goes no further than to connect with the Milwaukee road at Beverly, Mr. Day believes the new road to North Yakima is being built jointly by the North Coast and Milwaukee roads. He believes the road will continue, after leaving North Yakima, on to Portland, crossing the Cascades via Cowlitz pass. This is about all the information the real estate man will give out at this time, excepting the fact that plans showing the route of the road are now being made in North Yakima and will be out in about a week.

Ownership of North Coast.

There are those who believe much as does Mr. Day and there are others who believe the North Coast is nothing more than a part of the Milwaukee. Nobody in these parts has ever been able to learn who is backing the clever Robert Strahorn. He has adroitly evaded all questions pertaining to this subject and has gone ahead with his work like a true railroad builder without giving out any definite plans of consequence.

One thing that looks as if the North Coast is merely a part of the Milwaukee's system is the fact that the latter road has never purchased a foot of terminal space in the city of Spokane. No road like the Milwaukee would cross the continent by way of the northwest without touching Spokane at least, say experienced road builders. The North Coast road has spent millions of dollars in procuring terminals in the Falls city. It is thoroughly believed by many North Yakima people that the terminals bought in Spokane are to be used by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road.

Two Roads in Cowlitz?

There are those who point to the significant fact that the North Coast has surveyed a line through the Cowlitz pass. C. A. Day says this is the route to be taken by the new road from Beverly after it leaves North Yakima. Two roads would hardly care to run parallel to each other through this pass, especially when one of the roads is supposed to be owned by both companies. If the Milwaukee and North Coast are to build a joint ownership road from Beverly to Portland, one of the owners would hardly care to build another road along side and have for its terminal the same city, which is Portland.

Surveyed lines of road in Washington correspond minutely to the manner in which the Milwaukee road has built its entire system in the east and central west. The criss cross plan has been adopted and worked to advantage. Mr. Day says the road from Beverly will go to North Yakima and that a line will also be run down river to Kennewick.

All Maneuvers Practical.

The present survey of the North Coast follows the Yakima river from Kennewick to this city. The Milwaukee branches off at Beverly and goes to Ellensburg. If all of these lines are to be controlled by the Milwaukee, the same maneuvers are being practiced in the west as are in vogue in the Milwaukee's eastern system.

If it be true that the North Coast survey through Cowlitz pass is to be used by the Milwaukee road, the Milwaukee will have two terminals on the Pacific coast, one at Portland and the other at Tacoma. Its Tacoma road will go by way of Ellensburg and its Portland road by way of North Yakima.

INTERESTED IN YAKIMA

General Counsel of Milwaukee Road Interviews Reporter About County.

George A. Peck of Chicago, general counsel of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, went through North Yakima today in a private car on his way to Seattle on business. There were other officials of the road present. Mr. Peck wouldn't be interviewed. He had too many questions he wanted to ask and the train was due to get away as soon as possible.

"You living here now?" said Mr. Peck to the reporter, and he continued: "Now let me talk. Do you know John Kelly? John Kelly with whiskers—came from away back east. Used to be an old friend of mine. He was senator back there and a good one. Know him? All right, when will you see him? See him in a day or so? Well, tell him that George Peck wanted to know how he is; sent his regards you know; sorry he couldn't stop off and see him. Glad to hear about him."

A Few More Questions.

"How big is this city? How many people in this county? How many of them are right up close to this city? No you can't ask any questions. You may be interested in us but we are interested in you. Do you have typhoid here? How long is it since you had any? What was the cause, then? Have those causes been removed? "What is land worth? How much land have you? Say, is it really true that as much money is made off land as is claimed is made off it here? What is grown? You grow a great many hops here, don't you? I see you make beer here; is it good beer? What makes you ask so much for land when you appear to have so much land? Can I get a copy of your today's paper? "Well, we appear to be off again. Good bye. Thanks for the interview."

PRISONERS FOR THE PENITENTIARY

Four Were Taken From County Jail Today and Started for Walla Walla.

Four prisoners were taken from the Yakima county jail last Wednesday and started on their way to Walla Walla where they will begin serving their sentences in the penitentiary. The prisoners were Fred George, Charles A. Cook, John King and Jack Lynch.

Joined Prison Party.

The prisoners were given into the custody of Traveling Guard A. B. Estabrook of the penitentiary. Mr. Estabrook was on his way back to Walla Walla from a trip to the Sound, where he picked up a party of over a dozen who had been sentenced to the state prison.

Indeterminate Sentences.

Charles Cook and Fred George are sent up for indeterminate terms of from one to 14 years on the charge of assault with intent to commit a felony in the holding up and shooting of George Alexander.

John King is sent up for an indeterminate term of from one to 14 years for forgery.

Other Arguments Used.

There are other arguments used against Mr. Elmore. He is a temperance man and a member of the state prohibition party. It is understood that he has promised to be good if made chief of police and not bear on the saloons too hard. This has already caused discussion. His appointment has been asked by the church element and opposed by the liquor interests. Mr. Armstrong is between two fires. If Mr. Elmore measures up to the standard set him by the church people he will overstep the interests of other friends.
