CITY SOLONS MEET.

A Big Grist of Routine and New Business Disposed of.

The city council met in regular session Monday night, the mayor and all members of the council being present. The clerk read the minutes of last meeting which after some minor corrections were approved.

A petition was read from the Red Cross society protesting against the action of the council in locating the memorial fountain near the avenue railroad crossing and asking that contributors to the memorial fund be granted the privilege of determining by a majority vote the site for the fountain. The petitioners proposed three sites as viz: Yakima avenue and Front street, Yakima avenue and Third street and Yakima avenue and Natchez street. The petition was reinforced by the presence of a committee of ladies from the society. Mrs. Edward Whitson, in behalf of the committee, then addressed the council and asked that the previous action of that body be rescinded, as the society found that sectional jealousy in the city was so strong that to name the site in advance would defeat the plans of the Red Cross in securing the necessary fund with which to pay for the work. Donald and Sinclair stated that a majority of business men were emphatically opposed to the location of the monument at the intersection of Yakima avenue and Third street because it would interfere with street travel. Finally the matter was settled by a motion of Sinclair permitting the monument to be erected on either side of Yakima avenue near the R. R. track or at Natchez.

The reports of city officers for the preceding month were then read and referred. The city engineer submitted an annual report which covered the street, sidewalk and other improvements made by the city for the year past.

A petition from various west side residents for an arc light at the intersection of O and Selah streets, near the St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber yard, was read and excited much argument. After the council had about concluded to deny the petition on the ground of economy Robt Scott arose and talked to such purpose that the council saw the matter in a different light. Then on motion of Donald it was voted to move the light from in front of the Central school to Selah street.

A petition was then read asking for an arc light at S. Third and Walnut streets. P. Y. Heckman in a strong talk advocated placing a new light at that point. The council, however, took no action on the petition and it went over.

The usual grist of monthly bills including January salaries of city officials was then read and having been O K'd by the finance committee, were ordered paid.

An ordinance extending the fire limits was then passed to its second reading and laid over. An ordinance regulating the laying of water and sewer pipes on macadamized streets was introduced by the mayor and passed a first reading. An ordinance was read which had been presented by the Yakima Humane society making it a misdemeanor to leave horses hitched in the streets for an unreasonable length of time. It was referred to the city attorney for amendment.

The bonds of Police Judge Nichols, Marshal Grant, Engineer Marble and Sexton Carvoso were then read and on motion of Liggett were approved. Some time was then consumed over the best manner of having the street trees pruned. Donald said that the cheapest and best way was to advertise for bids, but the majority could not see it that way and concluded to have the job done by days work. The mayor then brought up the matter of purchasing new trees for street planting and a good deal of discussion as to the best varieties and etc was precipitated. Finally a motion passed making Councilman Sinclair a committee of one to purchase $200 worth of young trees and use his own judgement as to the best varieties.

Sinclair then reported that the team of horses purchased for the fire engine was unsatisfactory for the purpose. Other members concurred in this opinion and it was agreed that the present team should be disposed of to the best advantage and a new team bought on trial. Sinclair, Wyman and Moran were appointed as a special committee to look after the matter.

The mayor then announced that he had reappointed Messrs. Smull and Bland as night police. The council then on motion of Reed adjourned.

New Standard For Apple Boxes.

At the annual session of the Inland Empire Horticulture association recently held at Spokane, a very interesting program was rendered. The most important work accomplished at the session was the adoption of a standard apple box. The new standard box adopted by the members of the association contains 2241 cubic inches of space and will be made in two shapes in order to conform to the different sizes of apples. This means a box a little smaller than the one now in general use.

A United States standard bushel contains 2150.42 cubic inches, so that the official standard adopted by the association is slightly over a bushel, each box of apples is to be branded "one bushel". The meeting appointed a committee to wait upon the next legislature and urge the adoption of such a standard by state statute and providing a penalty for the use of any other.

Cattle Association to Meet.

The Yakima Cattle and Husbandry association do most urgently request all the members of the association and all others who have the desire to join in with us in advancing the object for which we are organized, to meet at the court house in North Yakima on Saturday, February 15th at 1:30 p. m. Come one come all, we will help you to help yourselves.

By action of the Executive Com.

A SAD ENDING.

Mrs. Emily Brown, nee Knight, Dies From Privation at Nome.

Mrs. Emily Brown aged 50, died unattended in her cabin on Snake river, Nome, Oct. 29. She had been deserted and left penniless by her husband whom she had married at Circle City but a few weeks previous. Tuesday's P. I.

The Mrs. Brown referred to in the above sketch was formerly Mrs. Emily Knight the woman prospector of the Cascades, who was known to a great many people of this city and vicinity a few years ago. She was a very remarkable woman and those that knew her here will be sorry to learn of her death and the sad particulars attending it. J. J. Dixon of this city who knew Mrs. Brown at Nome, says that there is no doubt that the unfortunate woman died from the effects of cold and privation after being deserted by her worthless husband. The supposition is that Brown married the woman for her money and after securing it left her to starve.

Read's Steam Laundry Burned.

About 5.45 p. m. Thursday evening fire broke out in Read's steam laundry at the corner of First and A streets and before it was finally extinguished worked much damage to the plant, consuming most of the second story and working some damage to the machinery.

The fire was caused by the explosion of the gas generator stationed in the dry room where gas is extracted from gasoline and has been used to keep the irons and finishing machines at the required temperature. With the explosion came a sheet of flame that immediately began the work of destruction. A number of the employees were in the room at the time and were slightly scorched in fighting the blaze in its incipency.

The fire department as well as a large crowd of spectators, were soon on the scene and the new chemical engine was brought into use for the first time. It did good work considering it was in the hands of inexperienced men, Chief Hanser unfortunately being under quarantine and Driver Lynch in the hospital. The flames were confined principally to the attic of the tall building making it extremely difficult for the boys to reach the main part of the fire. They done splendid work, however, with the hose and finally got the blaze under control and subdued.

Mr. Read found it difficult to estimate his loss Friday morning, but says it is considerable. The insurance on the building and contents amounts to $2700. Mr. Read will begin the work of repairing as soon as his loss is adjusted by the insurance companies. Practically all of the clothing was removed from the building during the fire and was deposited in the "Farmer" office across the street.

Swipes The Cash Bag.

A sneak thief, afterwards located as Harry Cutting entered the Hotel Barbolet at an early hour Sunday morning and abstracted the cash sack containing $41.60 which belonged to the hotel bar. The fellow entered the house by a rear door while night clerk Mark Barkwell was making the early train from the Sound.

As Guy McCormic was coming up the alley from the depot he saw Cutting dodge out from the rear of the premises and start to run. McCormic's suspicions being aroused he called on the man to halt. The fellow took to his heels, however, and finding that the sack was something of an impediment to his flight dropped it where it was found next morning with $28.75 in it. Cutting who had formerly been employed as a porter in the hotel was suspected by Tennant and Miles, the proprietors, and they lost no time in putting Marshal Grant on the fellow's trail. The officer finally extracted a confession from Cutting that he was the man who did the job. Cutting is now in jail awaiting trial for grand larceny.

Will Join Cattle Association.

At a meeting of the farmers committee at the DEMOCRAT office on Saturday last it was unanimously decided to advise all the farmers of this county, or as many of them as care to, to join the Yakima county Cattlegrowers and Husbandry association.

The whole subject was gone over at length by the committee and it was thought that this was the best course to pursue as it was not thought advisable that there should be two organizations with similar aims among the farmers of this county. At the meeting letters were read from members of the state delegation in congress regarding the bills before that body providing for the sale or lease of government grazing lands and stating that numerous petitions had been received from this and other counties of the state against such legislation.

The Cattlegrowers association will meet at the court house next Saturday afternoon and farmers generally as well as members of the association are urged to attend as important business will be considered.

An Adorable Barbara.

A large audience was well entertained Friday evening by the presentation of "Barbara Frietschie" by the Neal company. Mrs. Neal whose stage name is Edyth Chapman, in the difficult character of "Barbara" won for herself golden opinions from her pleased audience. Her husband, James Neal, the proprietor of the show, did ample justice to the part of Capt. Trumbull and probably pleased every lady in the house with his heroic bearing and his exquisite love making. The parts of the minor characters too, were all well presented. Barbara, however, comes pretty near being the whole show. Clyde Fitch in writing his celebrated play, certainly imagined a high ideal for his heroine, but Mrs. Neal fully sustains it on the stage. The play of course is too romantic and too full of improbable situations to be realistic. The pathos and beautiful sentiment that it contains though will doubtless maintain its popularity for some time to come, in spite of its sad and melancholy final act.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THE oft times erratic but always forceful editor of the Oregonian has been dealing the new railroad trust some powerful blows lately. Here is a fragment of one of his trust essays and it is well worth reproduction:

"Mr. Harriman says if he or Mr. Hill owned all the railroads, rates would be lower than they can be under competition. It is absurd. The man who makes such an assertion must be a fool himself or else thinks he can fool everybody else. Mr. Hill says that a monopoly is necessary in order to promote new railroad construction. This is equally absurd. Everybody knows what harmony between Hill and Harriman means as to rates. The rates will be all that the traffic will bear. The interests served will not be the interests of the country traversed by the roads, but the interests of the owners of the roads. They will reduce rates when they can make more money from larger traffic than from less. When they can't they will keep them up. They will build lines, reduce rates, make betterments, when the interests of the owners and the interests of the tributary territory coincide. When they do not coincide, the owners will be favored and the country will suffer.

Everybody knows what Messrs. Hill and Harriman, in combination, would do regarding the building of new lines. They will not build any till they are forced to. When will they build into the Clearwater or the Nehalem? They will build there when somebody raises money independently and proposes to build in. Then they will get ready, promise, and, if they are forced to it, build. What has caused the railroad-building we have already? Nothing but the desire to get ahead of the other fellows, or to protect territory from the aggression of the other fellows. Put them all under one management, and this competitive reaching out for territory, this competitive reductions of rates to capture business, dies away.

Mr. Hill said that the law and the courts are the proper sources of remedy for railroad injustice; and when somebody called his attention to the miscarriage of justice that results from such appeals, he laughed. It seemed funny to him, and doubtless the joke was not without point. But this defiance of law and this sport at the efforts of sworn officials to enforce the law may result some day in the laugh being on the other side. If there is no other way to control these corporations, the government will some day take their property, and it will not pay the prices or the promoter's commissions that make life for our Morgans and Harrimans today one glad, sweet song. It is better for the government to own the railroads than the railroads to own the government."

THERE can be no question that the Yakima valley is destined to become the fruit producing center of this state and of the entire northwest if the growers here so will it. Nature has done her part to bring about such a condition, and it will surely come to pass if man will do his. "Eternal vigilance is the price of good fortune," is an old and familiar adage, and it is as true of the fruit-growing business in the Yakima valley as anything else under the sun. The time has gone by in this section as in other localities when neglect or slipshod work in the orchard will be well repaid or can be made to pay at all. The insidious, fruit destroying insects are here as elsewhere, and must be dealt with. There is one way and only one way to make orchard ing permanently profitable and that is through ceaseless and successful warfare against the insects. Any man who has not the heart or the will to do this had better prepare to chop down his trees and go out of the business, for the reason that he will be a failure and he is liable to make his neighbors become failures, too.

The man who owns a big ranch with a small orchard, each individual tree of which is usually left to look out for itself, is the man that these remarks particularly apply to. It is in this class of orchards that the insects propagate and multiply, and from thence fly or are carried by birds or favoring winds to other orchards to begin their work of devastation. It is this fact that has made it necessary for the state to step in and command owners, under penalty, to cleanse and purify their orchards.

The man who makes a business of orcharding well understands the necessity of doing this, and generally does it because he knows that it pays. The man who brings worry apples to market knows that it pays, too, for he is forcibly reminded of it when he is compelled to accept one-third or one-fourth the price of clean fruit. There is only one remedy. Only one way to insure profit in the business, and that is to spray, spray, spray, and then spray again, and always spray intelligently.

THESE immense trust corporations are an evil, but the state of New Jersey thinks there is some good in them. Since they began getting charters the surplus in the New Jersey treasury has been growing and the new governor says he does not know what to do with it.—Spokesman Review.

If the governor of New Jersey was the right sort of a man and free from corporation influence he would know what to do with the surplus. At least he would know how to prevent such ill gotten wealth from piling up in the treasury of his state. New Jersey is the immoral member, the "whited sepulcher" in the sisterhood of states. For a pecuniary consideration she licenses all manner of immoral and unrighteous schemes and with the questionable certificate of good character that she gives them permits the organizers to prey upon the people of her sister states. She is as prolific in the breeding of trusts and other stock jobbing enterprises as she long has been in the production of mosquitoes. It is only since the advent of the republican party to power in that state, however, that New Jersey has gained such an unenviable reputation. Under democratic rule her respectability, at any rate, was not questioned. Now she is used as a wet nurse for all manner of schemes hatched by New York promoters who are unable to secure a license to do business in their own state. She is also made to cater to the political ambitions of millionaire New Yorkers as is evidenced in the recent election of a New York banker and life insurance president to the U. S. senate from that state. Little Jersey needs reforming. She has become disreputable. She is a plague spot in the moral and political atmosphere of these United States.

LAST week a "Good Roads" association was organized in Walla Walla county. This by the way is just such an organization as is needed in Yakima county. We need new roads, we need better roads. Road-making is a science and it requires thoughtful study in order to get the best results. Our farmers ought to evince more interest in this matter of road-making than they do for they are the principal beneficiaries of good roads as good roads not only facilitate travel for them to their holdings. The merchant and business man is interested in good roads because good roads bring more business and distribute it more evenly throughout the year. Let us have a good roads association in Yakima county by all means.

Such an organization could impart much useful information and might create a strong public sentiment in favor of building and maintaining good roads. The public is sadly in need of education along this line.

A REPUBLICAN paper points to the fact that Mr. Bryan is building a house (not so expensive as the republican paper reports, but still a good house) as evidence that he is getting "his share of republican prosperity." It may be interesting for the republicans to know that the house is being built from the proceeds of the "First Battle," which was published immediately after the election of 1896 and before the republicans began to boast of prosperity. Republican policies have not benefited Mr. Bryan except in the sense that a physician is indebted to sickness for his income. Republican policies furnish Mr. Bryan texts for editorials and speeches.—The Commoner.

THE republican administration seems to take a good deal more interest in the coronation of a king than in the struggle of a republic for liberty.—Colfax Commoner.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30, 1902.

The statement by Senator Hale that the time is at hand when conditions will grow worse and insurrection prove more widespread in the Philippines, when, irrespective of party lines, congress will be compelled to consider means of getting rid of the islands, struck dismay in the ranks of the republican members of the senate on Monday afternoon. The warning of the democrats have been listened to with little respect and when noted have been regarded as actuated by solely partisan reasons, but this dire prediction by the venerable senator from Maine proved the means of starting his complacent colleagues from their self-satisfied lethargy and hereafter they will be more susceptible to argument and less likely to credulously accept every statement emanating from an interested war department.

It is also rumored that, despite the assurance which Senator Lodge is ever ready to furnish to the country, Senator Hoar's resolution calling for an investigation into the actual condition of affairs in the Philippines has already disclosed a state of affairs by no means reassuring to the administration. There has been a decided effort upon the part of the war department to put off congress with a few comforting generalities and fear of exposure by the democrats has prompted the majority to content itself with these vague reports. Actuated by a more intimate knowledge of the real situation Senator Hoar demanded an investigation and while the Philippines committee has not had time to go far it has already found that there has been tendency on the part of Secretary Root and his subordinates to suppress information regarding the less fortunate aspect of Philippine conditions and unduly emphasize that which is more favorable.

Senator Money, speaking for himself rather than for his party, announced during the progress of this week's debate that he believed the only course open to the administration was to retract its steps, to recall the civil commission and to retain in Philippine territory only a sufficient military force to prevent foreign aggression. The senator believes that in time the people of the islands will themselves be able to formulate a system of government best suited to their needs and the less this government interferes the sooner that end will be accomplished. When Senator Money had finished the statement of his views Senator Hale virtually endorsed them.

Senator Jones, leader of the democratic minority, said yesterday that he believed that an isthmian canal bill would be passed at this session of congress and that he thought the Nicaraguan route would be chosen. "The mere fact that the senators who are supporting the Panama proposition," he said, "are admittedly opposed to a canal on general principles will result in all the senators who are in favor of a canal getting together and passing the Hepburn bill. That is the trend of sentiment in the senate at the present time." Notwithstanding Senator Jones' view the attempt of Senator Morgan to commit his committee to a report favorable to the Nicaraguan route failed and there is little likelihood of definite action until the diplomatic features of the Panama proposition have been more extensively investigated. The fact that Admiral Walker continues his negotiations with Senor Silva, the Columbian minister, would indicate that interest in the Panama route is not flagging.

A man told on excellent authority, that Senators Lodge and Cullom have assured the president that his views in regard to Cuban reciprocity will be carried into effect. It is the desire of the senate that the house should formulate and pass a bill providing concessions on imports from Cuba and a strong fight for that end will be made by Representative Hopkins of Illinois, in the Ways and Means committee. Mr. Hopkins is an influential member of the committee and he will be ably seconded in the effort by Representative McCall while it is believed that General Grosvenor, who appreciates that the senate will act if the house does not, desires such action if only to preserve the dignity of the house. If the house should fail to enact such a measure the state department will negotiate a reciprocal treaty with Cuba and the senate will ratify it, irrespective of the wishes of the lower chamber.

The senate has passed the bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce and labor and sent it to the house. The committee proposes to reduce the salaries materially, leaving Director Merriam of the Census but $5,000 a year, his Reverend assistant $2,000 and so on. This reduction of salaries will greatly facilitate the passage of the bill in the house as the measure previously considered by that body and which provided for a permanent establishment of the census bureau was drawn on a most extravagant scale.

Senator Blackburn of Kentucky, recently laid on the desk of the clerk of the senate the credentials of Senator-elect McCreary of his state. They were typewritten on ordinary paper and attached with metal fasteners. About the same time Senator Hanna submitted the credentials of Senator Foraker. The latter was engrossed on parchment, tied with an abundance of red silk ribbon and enclosed in a gold lettered morocco case. "Democratic simplicity versus republican extravagance", remarked Senator Blackburn and the senators decided the joke was on Foraker.

Wilson's Juvenile Minstrels.

The engagement of Wilson's Juvenile Minstrels at Larson's theatre this coming Tuesday is to be one of the greatest productions given this season. We say this by reason of their past success in the cities on the Sound, of which they are spoken of very highly. The performers are juvenile in nothing but years and size. In talent they can hold their own with no safe guarding clause as to their ages.

The production is in reality three great shows rolled into one merry unit of attractive entertainment. The first part, with the familiar semi circle, the interlocutor, bones, tambos and gaily costumed singers is there, with a setting of rare magnificence. Then is a most clever burlesque skit, occupying a very swift half hour, and then the great spectacular illusion, the "Birth of the Butterfly," which is one of the most beautiful pieces of stage art yet put together, and makes us believe there is something new under the sun. In criticizing these children we wish it understood that no leniency be shown them on account of age and have yourself believe you are looking at grown up folks through the opera glasses reversed.

Didn't Get Half of Them.

Since the appearance of an article entitled "The Political Pot", published in these columns two weeks ago, the Democrat has learned of the ambitions of a large number of local statesmen who, we are informed, are willing to serve the dear people providing they can get the endorsement of the republican county convention. We lack the space to publish this week the list in full but will endeavor to do so in the early future even though it becomes necessary to issue a special edition.

Would Abate The Nuisance.
It is the opinion of a good many patrons of the local theater that something ought to be done to suppress the "gallery gods" when they make themselves as offensive as they did at times during the Neal performance. With the whistling, cat calls and uncalled for remarks that so often emanate from the gallery, respectable people are often annoyed when they are trying to hear what is being said on the stage. Such demonstrations are also often disconcerting and embarrassing to the actors themselves, as was evidenced in the case of the jealous villain in "Barbara Frietchie" against whom the boys seemed to entertain a particular grudge. A good healthy man in the capacity of "bouncer" would probably have a quieting effect on the noisy element if stationed in the gallery during performances.

WOULD DIE FOR LOVE.
An Affair of the Heart With an Unhappy Ending.

Quite a sensation was caused in town the beginning of the week by the strange antics of a well connected young man who until quite recently was a resident of this city. It seems to have been a case of unrequited love with him or at any rate that may be said to have been a part of his troubles.

This particular young man, according to report, had for some time been paying marked attentions to a very estimable young lady of North Yakima, but some weeks ago received his conge in the most amiable manner that the young lady could assume. She is presumed to have told him gently that she would be a sister to him and that he would doubtless find somebody more worthy of his love than she.

The young man didn't look at the matter that way. He said he wasn't looking for a sister but for his soul's true mate. Being unable, however, to induce the object of his affections to change her mind he concluded to resign his position and leave town which he did. He went away hoping to forget, but a change of scene brought no relief. Then in a moment of weakness it occurred to him that he might drown his sorrow in the flowing bowl and he tried the alcohol cure with a vengeance. But the whiskey cure didn't work, in fact it only made matters worse for the love lorn swain. It made him desperate and it brought him back to Yakima as well.

On his arrival here he took on a fresh supply of corn juice, probably for the purpose of giving him courage, and then set out to visit the young lady. On his arrival at the place where she makes her home, he was politely refused admission by the lady of the house. He insisted at least on seeing the young woman, but this pleasure was denied him and then the young man swore that he would do something awful. He would die right on the porch, he said, but he didn't, instead he lay down on the porch, cold as it was, and apparently went to sleep. The ladies inside finally in pity opened the door and allowed him to enter the front room and occupy a lounge near the fire, meanwhile sending word to the officers to come and remove him, which they did.

His friends finally persuaded him to leave town Monday and bought him a ticket. He started off but on arrival at Ellensburg left the train and came back here on the next, showing up the next morning. He was persuaded to leave again, however, the same day.

Those who know the young man are inclined to be lenient in their judgment and to feel a pity for him. His friends think that he will be all right again if he will quit speering, going on the principle perhaps, that a wise head will cure a wounded heart.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Statesman says that the lack of interest shown in the meeting by fruit growers of Walla Walla is most deplorable inasmuch as there were not more than half a dozen in attendance.

The Goldendale papers are quite enthusiastic over the prospect of a railroad that may be built from that point to Lyle on the Columbia. A company was recently organized in Portland to construct the line, but the Goldendale people have been fooled so often that they will probably believe in the road when they see it laid on the ground instead of on paper.

Some fears are entertained by wheat growers of the lower end of this county as to the safety of the growing crop of winter wheat since the recent cold snap. Last week from ten to twelve inches of snow fell in the Horse Heaven country, which of course protects the crops for the time being. If any damage has been done, therefore, it must have occurred previous to the snowfall.

Andy Lynch, the efficient driver of the city fire team, met with a painful accident at the city hall Monday evening by being kicked by one of the horses. The horse kicked him fairly on the knee joint which may make it a serious matter for the unfortunate man. He is now being cared for at the hospital. During his enforced absence the fire team and apparatus is in charge of W. H. Oliver.

Information has been filed in the superior court by County Attorney Guthrie against Edwin Layton of Kennewick on the complaint of some residents of that district, the charge being libel. Layton is accused of having posted offensive letters on the fences and premises of certain people for whom he is believed to entertain a dislike. Thompson & Allen have been engaged to defend Layton and pending his trial the defendant is at liberty having furnished bail in the sum of $250.

James Neal, the well known actor who appeared here Friday night, created quite a sensation in the Elks lodge at Spokane the following evening, according to the daily papers. A special session of the lodge was convened for the purpose of inducting Neal into the mysteries of Elkdom. Before the obligation was administered Neal is said to have "balked" torn the hoodwink from his face and flatly refused to go any farther with the ceremony. His action caused much confusion and has precipitated a war of words in the newspapers.
