GEORGE REED KILLED

Moxee Cowboy Meet Death at the Hands of Policeman Cayou
Monday Night—Coroner's Jury Exonerates Officer.

George Reed, a man in the employ of the Moxee company for a number of years engaged in looking after range stock, was shot and instantly killed in this city last Monday night by police officer Robert S. Cayou. The officer fired three shots, two of which took effect in the body of Reed, causing almost instant death. The body was conveyed to Session's undertaking parlor.

The shooting occurred about 10 p. m. on south First street in front of the feed yard of Tittle & Smith. From the evidence adduced at the inquest the trouble that led to the shooting occurred as follows:

Carl Hamlin, a young man of this city was coming north on First street when he met Reed. Hamlin says that Reed pulled a gun on him and acted as though he meant to hold him up.

Hamlin at sight of the gun in Reed's hand yelled with fright and broke away. He ran to the Olympia saloon corner, (old Guiland house) where he met Night Officer Cayou who inquired the cause of his fright. Hamlin told him that a bad man with a gun had attempted to hold him up. Cayou started down the street in the direction indicated and spying Reed in the semi-darkness called to that individual to halt and throw down the gun. Reed on being thus addressed, stopped and turning around fired a shot at the policeman, the shot, however, doing no harm. Cayou then returned the salute, firing three times in rapid succession. The third shot apparently did the work entering Reed's heart. Another shot entered the forearm. Policeman Merrifield, who had been making his nightly inspection of the bad lands, heard the shots and came running across the burned district to ascertain the cause. Reed was lying in the street and the two policemen approached him cautiously, lest he might be only wounded and open fire. They saw Reed try to raise himself to a sitting posture, but falling back he expired soon after they reached him. Merrifield said, "Who did this?" to which Cayou replied, "I did." Reed's revolver lay on the ground near his feet. It was a 30 Colt's with one empty chamber.

Coroner Frank summoned a jury Tuesday afternoon to hear the evidence in the case. The jury consisted of E. B. Moore, A. B. Whitson, C. M. Hauser, J. N. Mull, J. D. McDaniel and J. M. Wood. After hearing the evidence the jury quickly brought in a verdict of justifiable homicide.

The deceased was a man 53 years of age. He had been employed by the Moxee company for the past six or seven years to look after their range stock. He lived at the "hog ranch" about 25 miles east of this city. He did not come to town often but when he did usually managed to get drunk and stay in that condition as long as his money would last. When under the influence of liquor he was apt to be very quarrelsome and as he made it a practice to carry a gun those who knew him usually made it a point to avoid him. Manager Lesh of the Moxee company says that Reed was a most faithful employee and a man of many good traits. Mr. Lesh had often warned Reed about carrying a gun, telling him that it would end by his committing murder or himself getting killed, but Reed would merely laugh at such advice. So far as known the deceased was a single man and without relatives in this part of the country. He was buried Thursday.

Trying to Evade the Issue.

The voters of this state care nothing about what George Turner may have thought of the Force bill, the Bland-Allison silver bill, the annexation of Hawaii, the conquest of the Philippines or any other dead issue, but they are concerned about what would be his attitude toward the railroads and other corporations if he should be elected governor of the state of Washington. His record as a staunch and consistent opponent of corporation abuses is superb, and it is well known to every well-informed voter of the state. As a member of the constitutional convention he secured the adoption of provisions giving the legislature power to regulate rates and fares or to create a railway commission to do the same thing; he prevailed upon the convention to adopt a clause requiring the legislature to enact an anti-pass law; he secured a prohibition of monopolies and also a clause prohibiting the merging of parallel and competing lines of railway in this state. Judge Turner drafted a railway commission bill and a freight rate bill, which were submitted to the legislature of 1897. From the admission of the state to the present time he has never wavered in his advocacy of legislation that would protect the people from extortionate freight rates and inequitable taxation.

It is conceded that on national issues this state will go heavily republican, and boosters for Boss Rarrell's railroad ticket are now endeavoring to save it from defeat by appealing to the partisan prejudices of the voters. State issues are ignored and the republicans are urged to elect state officers on issues that are not involved in this campaign, so far as the internal affairs of the state are concerned. The only question at issue in this state in whether the corporations or the people shall rule—whether it is better for the railroad lobby to make the laws of this state, levy its taxes and parcel out its offices or whether this power shall be restored to the people to whom under God and the constitution it belongs. On that issue, unless all signs fail, party lines will be dropped and the voters of the state will register an overwhelming majority for George Turner as their governor with a democratic legislature to uphold his hands in defending their rights.—Walla Walla Statesman.

ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE

Secretary Shannon, of the State Fair
Board Makes a Statement Regarding the Coming State Fair
Sept. 26 to Oct. 1.

The date of the Ninth Annual meeting of the state fair is near at hand. The exhibits will excel anything of the kind ever attempted in the state. We, as members of the state fair commission, can say that our work is concluded. All that remains to insure the fair a success rests with the people of the state, i. e., their attendance.

In making this assertion we recognize the fact that time is an essential element in the creation and the attainment of ideals, hence we do not claim that this will be an ideal fair in the broad sense in which it should be viewed.

The state fair has as its fundamental principle the education of the people. True, some exhibitors view the fair merely as a market place, or as a means of winning a little prize money, and some fair goers see only a frolic in the event. Hence being blind see not; but the thinking people, those who keep their eyes and the avenues of their brains open, understand that education of the farmer, horticulturist, stock breeder, manufacturer, inventor, etc., is the underlying idea of the state fair.

As an educational force the state fair is as properly the subject of state aid as any other educational factor which deals with the enlightenment of the people. This point is conceded by all states, yet wanting in demonstration by some. Therefore the necessity of a good attendance, first, that the fair may be a success financially, and—in view of the large competitive exhibits this need is very apparent. Secondly, that the people may know and realize more fully the aid needed.

To the exhibitors we state that we will discharge our obligations better than ever before, that awards in all departments will be officially taken from the books each day, and forwarded to the daily papers of the state ready for publication. J. E. SHANNON, Sec.

Gov McBride's Gallant Fight.

Republican voters who admire Governor McBride for the gallant fight he made to rid his party and the state of the domination of the corrupt and insolent railroad lobby should remember at this time the words used by the governor in his message to the last legislature. Speaking of the question of a railroad commission he closed with this paragraph:

"But the time for discussing the question seems to me to be past. There is before you, properly speaking, no issue of commission or anti-commission. With the depositing of the last ballot on the 4th of November the discussion was closed. The question has become one of political honesty. Do platform pledges mean anything? A political party that refuses to live up to its pledges deserves defeat at the hands of the people. An individual who betrays his party is deserving of political oblivion. On the one hand we have the solemn pledges of the two great political parties; on the other an unscrupulous and corrupt lobby—a lobby that has become a stench in the nostrils of the people of the state. Which will have the great weight? The lobby insolently boasts that a majority of the members of this legislature are its creatures, ready to do its bidding. I repel this infamous charge. I do not believe it to be true, nor will I believe it unless forced to do so by the record of the vote taken upon the final passage of the measures to which both the political parties of this state are committed. Stripped of all of its disguises the question simply resolves itself into a choice between political honesty and political perfidy. The choice rests with you."

The measures to which Governor McBride here refers are the railroad commission bill and the anti-pass bill. Both of these were overwhelmingly defeated in the last legislature, a legislature which was overwhelmingly republican.

Fire in a Box Car.

About 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning a fire alarm was turned in. The blaze proved to be a car load of hay on the side track near B street. The fire was well under way when discovered but the promptness of the fire department saved the greater part of the hay to the shipper and also rendered valuable service to the railroad company by saving one of its big box cars.

It is supposed that the fire originated as a result of hoboos using the car for a lodging room and throwing the stubs of their cigarettes into the hay. The damage is estimated on the car at about $100 while the loss to L. T. Castor on the hay amounts to between $125 and $150.

Arrested by U. S. Marshal.

United States Deputy Marshal A. N. Short arrested the following bootleggers this week: Clarence Howard, J. A. Thomas, Timothy Casey, C. W. Willard, Albert W. Rockwell and John Johnson. Johnson was arrested a year ago by Marshal Short at Fairfield, Wash., on the charge of stealing wheat from Spotted Tail, an Indian, but was released on account of insufficient evidence.

By direction of Superintendent Jay Lynch, Marshal Short arrested John Cook, a Nez Perces Indian, on the school section Tuesday. He is charged with attempting to kill a squaw.

ROAD TO UNION GAP

A Road That Badly Needs Fixing Before Bad Weather Sets in —An Estimate of the Cost.

Engineer McCulloh, who was employed some time ago by the good roads committee of the Yakima Commercial club to furnish an estimate of the cost of building a good gravel road from this city to Union gap, five miles south of the city, made a report at the meeting of the governing board of the club on the evening of Sept. 9.

Mr. McCulloh estimates that the cost of building such a road would be $17,000. In order to simplify the matter he divided the work into three district sections. The section requiring the most urgent attention in the opinion of Mr. McCulloh is that between Yakima City and the gap. This part of the road is in a most deplorable condition for travel even in dry weather and in dry weather it is virtually impassable. To make matters worse the Ahtanum creek is gradually but surely cutting the present narrow roadway out and if the banks of the stream are not ripped up or the channel changed there will soon be no road at all. In the judgment of Mr. McCulloh it will require an outlay of about $6000 to place that part of the road in good condition for travel.

The county commissioners and the county surveyor for some reason have neglected this piece of road and expended thousands of dollars in making roads in places where they were apparently not so badly needed as between this city and the gap, a road that is obliged to stand a heavy travel. Last winter this road could not be used for a period of about two weeks and the traveling public was very much inconvenienced thereby. On account of its fearful condition the business men of this city lost a very considerable amount of trade that went instead to Wapato and Toppenish. The merchants here feel that they can better afford to assess themselves to repair the road than to permit travel from that direction to practically stop for at least several weeks in the year.

The Commercial club will probably take the matter in hand and attempt to raise enough money by popular subscription to put the road in condition to travel at any rate.

Refused $300 Per acre.

R. D. Young last week refused $300 per acre, spot cash, for his "Valley View" farm. Mr. Young has perhaps one of the finest homes in the valley. He has 40 acres, 20 acres of which is in bearing orchard. Last year his Grimes Golden apples sold in Chicago for $2.85 per box. He has recently shipped a carload of pears and Rhode Island Greenings to Alaska.—Sunnyside Sun.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION TODAY

Republican Delegates to Meet in this City to Nominate a Candidate for Superior Judge—
H. B. Rigg the Probable Nominee.

The republican judicial convention called to meet in this city to nominate a candidate for superior judge, in place of Ira P. Englehart, resigned, will assemble at the court house today. The convention will consist of 36 delegates, 19 from Yakima county, 13 from Kittitas and 4 from Franklin.

All indications point to the nomination of Attorney H. B. Rigg of this city as the candidate for judge, although many local republicans opposed to Rigg will not concede this. However, that may be, Rigg and his supporters claim that he will have the solid support of the home delegation and that every delegate from this county is practically pledged to vote for him. As 19 is a clear majority of 36 it is a sure shot that Rigg will win if the Yakima delegates stay by him. It is not only possible but probable that Rigg in addition will receive the four votes of Franklin county, at least his friends say that he will. That astute politician, Ira P. Englehart is supposed to be managing Rigg's campaign, and Mr. Englehart, it is generally conceded knows a thing or two about political management.

Republicans who oppose Rigg say that Edward Whitson is a very promising dark horse in the race and that in all probability he will be nominated today and that he will be forced to accept the position and make the race. Mr. Whitson was elected as one of the delegates to today's convention. About 10 days ago he went east leaving his proxy with John H. Lynch with instructions to cast the same for Mr. Rigg. Rigg's friends say that Whitson cannot take the nomination now without breaking faith as he has emphatically pledged his support to Rigg.

There was a rumor here the first of the week that ex-judge Carrol B. Graves of Ellensburg would be a candidate. A couple of Judge Graves' intimate friends were down from the "burg" on Wednesday to see how the situation sized up here. It is said that they went home with the feeling that there is no chance for the ex-judge to get into the race. It is very likely though that the name of either Judge Graves or Attorney Ralph Kauffman will be presented to the convention by the Kittitas delegation. The following is the list of delegates from Yakima county:

B. F. Barge, A. D. Sloan, John H. Lynch, proxy; J. D. Cornett, W. H. Carver, I. P. Englehart, Z. Y. Coleman, W. E. Ayres, S. P. Flower, H. A. Griffin, A. C. Walker, J. J. Wiley, A. McCredy, W. F. Powell, George Vetter, F. K. Hiscock, W. E. Lawrence, B. E. McGregor, Robert Dunn.

Rounded Up the Hoboes.

Sheriff Grant and Marshal Curran and the several deputies of each officer rounded up the hobo element Wednesday night, and landed eighteen vagrants in the city jail. The raid had been previously planned and every quarter of the city where hoboos are accustomed to hang out was visited. The residence part of the city was traversed and any one walking aimlessly about who could not give an account of himself was taken into custody. The search was kept up until after 1 o'clock at night and the tough element was given a thorough re-creating. Those who were not captured were forced to "hit the pike." It has been decided by the city and county officials to work together from this time till after the fair and keep the vicinity clear of all suspicious characters. The officers who took part in the raid Wednesday night were: Sheriff Grant, Deputy Sheriff John Edwards, Marshal Curran, Wm. Merrifield, Robert Cayou, and George Hunter. These energetic and competent officials and the community need have no fear while defended by their efforts.

Back From St. Louis.

W. L. Wright, accompanied by Mrs. Wright, arrived home Tuesday afternoon from St. Louis. Mr. Wright since about June 15 has been in charge of the horticultural exhibit of the state at the world's fair and he says that he is glad to be home again, although he enjoyed his stay at St. Louis very much.

Mr. Wright says that before he left the fair grounds that the attendance at the big show had begun to increase remarkably and the prospects are that it will be large from now on to the close, Dec. 1.

The fair, however, he thinks will prove a failure from a financial standpoint and that the people of St. Louis stand to lose heavily on the venture.

THE HOP SITUATION

Nothing Doing Yet in the Local Market—Picking Progress—Satisfactorily.

The local hop market is still inactive and there has been nothing doing all the week. The growers are holding off on the prospect of a raise in the price and none of them apparently will sell until the crop is in the bale.

The market is apparently a little stronger than it was a week ago. Herman Klaber of Tacoma is reported to have purchased 1000 bales of Salem, Or., hops on Monday for London shipment at figures running from 26 to 27 cents. This export demand from English brewers so early in the season indicates, it is thought, a healthy demand from England on account of the short crop in that country.

Picking is progressing at a satisfactory rate in Yakima yards. The weather is all that could be desired and pickers are plentiful. Experienced growers claim that the quality of the Yakima hops will be better on the whole this season than has been the case for 10 years. The total yield they say though will not be up to expectations as the hops weigh light as compared to last years crop.

The claim that the total production in Yakima county this year will aggregate 16,000 bales is ridiculed by a number of experienced hop men. They say that 14,000 bales may be regarded as a liberal estimate of the 1904 crop in the Yakima valley.

School Board Meeting.

Board of directors of school district No. 7 met in regular session on Monday evening last. The usual bills were audited and allowed after inspection. The janitors were ordered to have all the school buildings of the district ready for inspection by the board Saturday morning the 17th. The board in accordance with the action taken at the meeting of June 17th, postponing the matter until this date, proceeded to select a "Text Book Commission" as required by the school law adopted at the special session of the legislature in 1901 and applicable to school districts of the first class, as follows: City Superintendent W. F. F. Selleck, ex-officio chairman, B. F. Barge and R. K. Nichols, members of the board of directors of the district and Mrs. B. O. Needham and W. F. McClure, the two qualified teachers of the district as the law provides. Board adjourned to meet Sept. 19th, 1904 to consider bids on the chemical laboratory and material and any other matters necessary to be considered.

Will Attend U. S. Army School.

Capt. C. T. Dulin of Co. E, through the good offices of his friend and superior officer, Adjutant General Drain, has been appointed to enter the U. S. Army Medical school at Washington, D. C., to take an eight months' post graduate course, which of course, is free to him. Capt. Dulin will leave here about Oct. 1 taking his family with him, but will return to North Yakima next May to resume his practice.

The captain feels that he is fortunate in having been selected. The school that he is to attend was originally designed only for the use of regular army surgeons and students, but under the provisions of the Dick bill, under which the militia was reorganized, it is possible for highly recommended militia officers to be admitted. Capt. Dulin received his appointment as a mark of deserved recognition for the splendid work that he has done as an officer of the militia.

City Schools Open Monday.

The schools of this city will open next Monday, Sept. 19 for the fall term. The school buildings have received the necessary repairs, have been renovated and are ready for teachers and pupils. Prof. Selleck, the new superintendent, has made a good impression on all patrons of the schools who have met him. Prof. Selleck has been kept busy during the past week in meeting the scholars and classifying them. He wishes to meet all the teachers today at the high school.

Notice to Farmers and Fruit Growers.

Any of you that have fine crops of farm produce of any description, that you are willing to contribute to the Horticultural Union to help make a creditable exhibit at the State Fair will please leave the same at the Union's warehouse, or else notify some member of the following committee: M. N. Richards, chairman; Robt. Johnson, E. Remy, J. M. Brown, F. A. Huntley, Wm. Lee Jr., L. B. Kinyon, Orlando Beck, H. M. Gilbert.—Communicated.

For Storage Reservoirs.

The following telegram has been received from Washington, D. C., relative to the withdrawal of land from the headwaters of the Yakima river in Kittitas county:

"Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—The secretary of the interior has withdrawn from all entries 4000 acres of land surrounding Lakes Cle Elum, Kaches and Kichelos in Yakima county, Washington.

"This action is taken with a view toward preserving these lakes for storage reservoirs in connection with the Yakima irrigation project."

Special Rate to State Fair.

The Northern Pacific railway announced on Monday that a special rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip from Seattle and Tacoma to North Yakima during the week of the fair beginning Sept. 26.

The excursion rate, as last year, will be $3.50 for the round trip. The excursion tickets will be good from a number of different points in Western Washington.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Mrs. Clara Brock was granted a divorce from her husband, Dr. H. M. Brock, a dentist of this city. By agreement the community property was equally divided between the plaintiff and defendant. The plaintiff is permitted to resume her former name, Clara E. Wilson.

Austin Mires and J. E. Frost of Ellensburg were in the city Thursday on a political mission. They came down to ascertain the real strength of H. B. Rigg for the nomination for superior judge. They say the delegation from Kittitas county want C. B. Graves for judge.

Louis F. Paetow died Wednesday, September 14, at his home on south Fourth street. The deceased at the time of his death was 78 years of age. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the residence at 1:30 o'clock. The Odd Fellows had charge of the ceremony.

George Stephenson, democratic candidate for school superintendent, has recently completed his new two story store building at Toppenish. The second floor will be used as a lodge room and public hall and the young people of that neighborhood will formally open it tonight with a ball.

D. A. McKinnon, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital Friday evening, Sept. 9, after a brief illness. Deceased was 36 years of age and leaves a widow. The remains were shipped Saturday to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, from which place Mr. McKinnon and wife came to this city about a year ago.

Considerable complaint has been made by various north end residents to the effect that that part of the city is not being given police protection. The trouble seems to be due to drunken Indians and hoboes begging for 'handouts' until the people of that part of town have grown weary of such nuisances.

"Uncle" Bill Taylor says that the Yakima-Swauk company struck the lodge that they have long been looking for in their Swauk mine last Saturday in their 440 tunnel. The ledge matter has not yet been assayed, but looks rich. The company stock has jumped to 25 cents a share on the strength of the strike.

The city school board has appointed a text book commission to consist of the following members: Pres. Barge and Sec. Nichols of the board, Supt. Selleck, Prof. McClure and Mrs. Bessie O. Needham. Under a new law the system of school text books selected by this board cannot be disturbed for a period of three years.

The local lodge of Redmen are arranging for a grand hop pickers ball which they intend giving in the armory, Saturday evening, Sept. 28. Two prizes will be hung up, one for the person picking the largest amount of hops in a day, the other to the person holding the record for having picked the largest number of boxes up to the date of the ball. The different committees have been appointed and are at work to make the ball a big event.

Col. L. S. Howlett and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cameron are entertaining this week Lewis M. and Loring C. Howlett, brothers of the colonel who reside at Holland, Mass. Col. Howlett had not met his brothers for 25 years and their meeting of course, was a most cordial one. The Messrs. Howlett arrived on Tuesday and after visiting their relatives here for a few days will go to California, thence to St. Louis to see the world's fair and then will return home.

Alfred Chase in a letter to Col. Howlett from Greenhorn mountains in Oregon, says that Sam Kershaw with whom he is stopping, has taken out over $7000 in gold from his placer claims this summer.

LOST.—A small gold locket. Initials J. A. L. Finder please return to this office and get the reward. 1-11

Edison Theater Reopening.

The Edison Theater on North First Street, under the capable management of C. W. Grant, will be reopened tonight. Mr. Grant has completely renovated the house which with its new decorations of artistic design looks very inviting. He has gone to a good deal of expense to make the playhouse attractive and with the good quality of shows that he invariably puts on deserves the patronage of the public.

Don't Stand for It.

A Chandler, the well known school section rancher, this week called The Democrat's attention to the fact that outside fruit buyers are in the habit of coming to Yakima every fall to buy apples for eastern shipment who make it a practice to place misleading brands on the fruit.

For instance, Mr. Chandler last year started to deliver his apple crop to W. S. Offner, a Walla Walla fruit buyer, when he found out that Mr. Offner was placing a brand on all the boxes that represented that the fruit was grown in the Walla Walla valley. Mr. Chandler declined to deliver the goods. He thinks that if all the fruit growers would do that the practice would naturally stop.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases, DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by C. C. Case.

FOR SALE—Hay Baler and complete outfit. Inquire at this office. 52-11

Some Facts About Railroad Taxation.

The highest valuation placed on railroad tracks by any assessor in Washington in 1904 was that established by Louis Walton, the democratic assessor of Adams county. Mr. Walton assessed first class tracks in his county at $11,985 per mile and rolling stock on the same at $2,376 per mile. A republican equalization board in that county reduced these figures to $7,920 on track and $2,112 on rolling stock.

R. H. Duff, the democratic assessor of Whitman county fixed a valuation of $7,920 per mile on the railroads (all second class) of that county. This was reduced by a republican board of equalization to $5,808 per mile.

For four years the Fusion state board of equalization maintained a valuation on railroad for state purposes of $10,500 per mile for first class lines, $6000 for second class lines and $3960 for third class lines. For three years last past a republican state board has maintained valuations of $6600 for first class lines, $5280 for second class lines and $3168 for third class lines.

A committee of republican county assessors reported to the state assessors' convention held at Spokane last January in favor of an assessment on first class tracks of $1,37½ per foot or $7260 per mile on first class lines. The convention increased this valuation to $1,400 per foot, whereupon 19 assessors bolted and agreed to a valuation of $1,500 per foot or $7,920 per mile. This valuation has since been adopted in all counties except two or three, which are most completely under railroad domination.

More "Plutocratic Drift to Parker."

"It is all going one way," said Mr. E. H. Harriman, president of the Union Pacific, when he returned from Europe the other day and discussed politics incidentally with the reporters. "No one wants to put the republicans out."

How the downtrodden, oppressed, bedeviled American millionaire clings to the president and the grand old party! Here is Mr. Harriman, in the hour of his Northern Securities troubles and a rate war on wire nails with the Missouri Pacific, fondly putting his trust in the administration.

Less than a week ago Mr. George Gould, who controls the Missouri Pacific, which has been quarreling with Mr. Harriman's road, came home from Europe and testified abundantly to his confidence in Mr. Roosevelt and republican policies.

A few days earlier Mr. Henry C. Frick of the Steel Trust, returned from Europe and, willingly confided to the reporters his belief that the president and the republican party had earned the support of the business interests. Mr. Morgan is said to be for Mr. Roosevelt. His business associates are actively supporting Mr. Roosevelt, and it is likely that John W. Gates would bet a million that the president is as safe and sane as anybody.

This is doubtless what an esteemed republican contemporary means when it says "the drift of plutocracy toward Judge Parker is still in evidence."—N. Y. World.

The Lieutenant Governor.

Few people realize how important it is to the railroads that they own the lieutenant governor. That officer appoints the standing committees of the state senate, of which he is the presiding officer, and if he is friendly to the railroads he not only packs the railroad committee in their interest, but appoints on every important committee a majority of railroad henchmen.

By controlling all senate committees the railroads are able to sandbag every legislator who desires to secure the passage of legislation in which his constituents are interested. Before either a house member or a senator is able to secure a senate committee report on his bill he must go and make terms with the railroad bosses, who sit in secret places around Olympia. It has proved practically impossible hitherto for a member to secure the passage of important legislation without surrendering to the railroad outfit. Ownership of the lieutenant governor has proved a more potent instrument in the hands of lobbyists than even bribery and corruption. There was one oasis in this desert of railroad control of the senate committees. That was during the session of 1901, when Henry McBride was lieutenant governor, and railroad hostility to him dated from the day he named his senate committees.—Dayton Courier-Press.

Campaign Committee Appointed

Chairman J. C. Liggett of the democratic county central committee has appointed the following campaign committee: H. J. Snively, W. A. Cox and J. M. Shanks. This committee met Monday and organized by electing Mr. Snively, chairman; Mr. Shanks, secretary and Mr. Cox, treasurer. This committee will have entire charge of the campaign. Secretary Shanks will open an office next week in a central location which will be used as party headquarters during the campaign.

The republican county central committee organized by electing Z. Y. Coleman, chairman and C. M. Hauser, secretary. An advisory committee consisting of B. F. Barge, Frank Horsley, W. H. Redman, J. M. Brown and A. C. Walker, was appointed. The Committee has opened headquarters in the First National bank building.

Individual Opinion by Luc F.
Vernon.

The author must have thought of Everett, or a place about like it, when he wrote the "Deserted Village."

Thousands of men and women teach pet dogs difficult tricks, yet neglect to teach their children even good manners.

There are men who will stay up all night with a sick horse, but will not lose ten minutes sleep over a sick wife.

Seattle will have twenty extra patrolmen. As to the number of extra
"joints" to be opened report sayeth not.

If you ever have the chance to see a woman rip off the trimming from a tur-
ban hat, you'll wonder how the devil all
the goods were ever placed on it.

One advantage of being a prominent person in the United States is that even friends do not hesitate to write books
about such people while they are alive.

The church organist has about as much love for a salor pianist, though the latter may be a musician and the former a make believe, as the seagull has for tobacco.

A merchant that will not advertise
stands as much chance of doing a good business, as Mr. Roosevelt does of being elected president of the United States—
none whatever.

The California man who was fined for kicking a cat should rather have been commended for his athletic skill and quickness of action in having accomplished
such a remarkable feat.

The directors of the Snohomish county fair had to dig down in their pockets for $125.00 each to meet the expense of their undertaking. This does not seem to be fair play to the directors, we think.

William O'Brien decides to bury his chagrin and return to parliament, in accordance with his recent election at Cork, Ireland. He cannot forego the pleasure of being in a position to bait
the legislative Briton when he feels like
it.

Lillie Langtry has earned and squandered $10,000,000 and is now literally broke. James Howard, a former museum freak and at one time worth $500,000,
may now be addressed in care of a certain almshouse in New York city. After all, it isn't what we earn.

And now Galveston, completely armored by her splendid belt of granite and cement, deems herself all ready to defy the worst that old Neptune can do. It is a wonderful town and is populated by a remarkably citizenry. Long may it stand.

We have not seen it announced publicly in the P.-I. by John L. Wilson, as yet, whether he has invited the editor of the great Seattle Republican—the paper
that runs a republican political swill barrel column—to dine with him. This must annoy and worry the editor in chief of the "Weakly" Republican. And just to think, that the Republican printed Wilson's picture quite recently.
Excuse our tears!

The sentry's "All Well," has been heard across the strait of Gibraltar; and a man shouting "Rats" has projected his voice through the Grand Canyon
of Colorado—eighteen miles. So peculiar, this. Why its a fact that if one should holler "Seattle Republican" in the streets of Seattle, that it would not reach the ear of a newsboy three feet away.

If Lincoln or McKinley ever glanced at a copy of the Seattle Republican, and they would turn over in their graves.
Such a paper as this is a disgrace to the republicans of the state. Its filthy paragraphs, coupled with the language that reminds one of the ancient stink pots
of China, is enough to make the totem
pole in Pioneer square fall down.

The manufacturers of "Carter's Little Liver Pills" must be jealous of the advertising that Carter of Montana is getting.
Carrie Nation has by this time probably changed her glowing ideas of former days in regard to "Kentucky chivalry." While attending a fair at Guthrie, in that state, being invited to a place on the stand. John Williams, a young man from Treton, Ky., persisted
in smoking a cigarette in her presence.
Carrie indignantly knocked it from his mouth, upon which the young man turned and knocked Carrie down. Mrs. Nation, it is added, however, was not seriously hurt.

A serious matter confronts the married man who is afflicted with such a variegated burden as one poor mortal who applied to a San Francisco judge for relief recently. He wanted a separation and he wanted it badly. His wife was not content with him in the capacity of wage-earning machine. She pawned his clothes and sold his furniture, and —unkindest cut of all—she was in the habit of throwing dishes at him. Yet he could not get his separation—not one,
nor all, of these grievances full-filled
the conditions required by law. What is the unlucky man to do? And what would the wife of his bosom say

and od to him when she got to know that that he had sought a separation and failed? Imagination fairly boggles at the thought.

It is with pleasure that we pick up the Oregonian of Portland to read the Note and Comment column. No other paper can equal it, and the Oregonian is to be congratulated for maintaining the talentel services of "WEX J."

"Nat" Yeats Dead.

Nathaniel Yeats, a well known old timer of this county, dropped dead from a sudden attack of heart trouble about 7 o'clock last Saturday evening at the hop ranch of Richard Strobach about six miles west of this city.

Mr. Yeats had been picking hops all day and in the evening had busied himself in helping to do some chores about the place. Mr. Strobach left the deceased standing near the house, while he went to the hop house to inspect the result of the day's work. On his return he found Mr. Yeats lying dead. The body was removed to Shaw & Flint's undertaking rooms in this city. The funeral was held from his late home in Fruitvale Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the G. A. R. of which the deceased had been a very active member.

Mr. Yeats was 64 years of age and a native of Illinois. He had resided in this city and county about 20 years.

He was several times a member of the city police force and was a deputy sheriff under Sheriffs Shaw and Grant.
He was a strong democrat in politics.
He leaves a widow and several grown children.

Poison in Walls.

"As much as 46 per cent of organic matter has been found in plaster taken from the walls of a hospital ward in Paris." Statistics tell us that it is not uncommon to find air in public assembly rooms and even in dwellings containing from ten to fifteen times the amount of carbonic acid found in pure air. Of this gas Tomlinson says: "It acts as a poison. If we attempt to inhale it by putting the face over the edge of a beer vat the nostrils and throat are irritated so strongly that the glottis closes and inspiration becomes impossible." One need remain but half an hour in an unventilated room to have inhaled 600 times the foul and poisonous fluid; the blood will have carried it to every part of the body, and the entire system will have become saturated.—Exchange.

Tying a Horse to a Hole.

It has been discovered that the desert Indians, who have never been accredited with superabundant wits, have for many years employed a method of tying their horses to holes in the ground that is clever, unique and effective. The operation of tying a horse to a hole seems an impracticable and impossible one, for there is something decidedly intangible and unsubstantial about the hole. The operation is performed in this way: Kneeling on the hot sands, the Indians dig with their hands until they have made a hole about two feet deep. They then tie an immense knot in the end of the halter rope, lower it into the bottom of the hole, fill the hole with sand and then jump and stomp upon it until the earth
over the knot is about as hard as sandstone.—London Magazine.

Cats and Cattle.

In certain parts of southern California it is absolutely necessary to have cats to successfully raise cattle. The cows feed on a red clover which makes a superior quality of beef. This clover grew very sparsely until it was discovered that one farmer who had raised a large number of tabby cats
always had fine clover fields. Investigation proved that the cats killed the field mice who killed the wild bees
who fertilized the clover seeds by carrying the pollen from flower to flower.
thus causing the seeds to sprout thickly every year. Now all the farmers have many cats.

Practical Economy.

A man whose impetuous condition is chronic and who borrows with the airy grace of a bean in an old comedy
recently approached an acquaintance,
all smiles and geniality.

"You're just the fellow I wanted to see," he said. "Could you lend me $5
for a minute?"

"I could," said the acquaintance dryly, "but let me tell you how to save that $5. Wait a minute and you won't need it."

The Capacity of the Lungs.

The lungs contain about one gallon
of air at their usual degree of inflation.
We breathe on an average 1,200 times per hour, inhaling 600 gallons of air, or 24,000 gallons per day. The aggregate surface of the air cells of the lungs exceeds 20,000 square inches, an area
nearly equal to the floor of a room
twelve feet square.

Something of a Torrent.

Young Wife (sobbing)—I will not be quiet! Before we were married you said I had a charming flow of language. Young Husband—And so you have, dear. It not only flows, but dashes, leaps, bounds, roars, goes over cataracts and mill sluices, and there is an occasional waterspout as well.

Stupid.

Perdita—It doesn't matter if this is the third installment of the story. The synopsis is printed, telling how the first chapters went, so you can start reading it from here. Penelope—Yes;
but how stupid of them not to have the synopsis tell how it ends.

A Treasured Image

(Original.)

Queen Bertha was dead, and King Carl, her husband, was plunged in deepest grief. It was weeks before the obsequies were ended. Then the king set about perpetuating his beloved wife's image in his heart. He called together the artists of his kingdom and told them whosoever would paint a portrait of his queen by which he could remember her as she was should be ennobled and an estate given him. Then he ordered that all the likenesses the queen had ever had painted be hung in a gallery, where competitors should have free access to them.

More than a hundred artists competed, and when all were ready their pictures were hung in a gallery by themselves and the king went in to examine them. He passed up on one side and down the other, shaking his head at the portraits.

"They have painted her as an old woman," he said. "Do they consider that my beautiful wife was an octogenarian? Take them away! I'll have none of them."

Some of the artists who had produced the best pictures, hearing the king's criticism, asked for another trial, which was granted. They softened the lines in the queen's face and made her look ten years younger than she had been at the time of her death. She had died at fifty and none of the pictures made her look over forty. The king was still dissatisfied, declaring that he would rather trust to his memory unaltered than have it influenced by such likenesses. This discouraged the artists, and not even for the chance of a title and a fortune would any of them
try again.

One day a young man sought an interview with the king, declaring that he had been sent from King Otho, a neighboring monarch, to paint the dead queen's portrait. He claimed to be the royal portrait painter and an artist of skill. He demanded, on behalf of King Otho, that if his portrait should be accepted the recompense should be the hand of King Carl's daughter, the Princess Lida, for King Otho's son, the Crown Prince Ralph. A proposition with this marriage in view had been made before, but King Carl, whose kingdom was much more important than that of King Otho, had declined.
Now that all his own artists had failed,
and thinking that what he asked
was impossible, King Carl agreed to the terms.

The artist asked that he might have sittings of the Princess Lida in order to catch any expression of her mother's she might have inherited. The request was granted, and every day the princess went into the gallery where the likenesses of the dead queen were hung. The artist copied from her features all he cared to copy, but in order to bring different expressions to her face he chatted with her incessantly,
and she was so delighted with his conversation that every day she looked forward expectantly to the time for her sitting. Long before the picture was completed she wished that the prize if won might be given to the artist rather than the crown prince.

Finally the artist announced that his portrait was ready for the king's inspection. Since this was an affair of state King Carl summoned his ministers to attend him, and with great ceremony the royal party swept into the apartment where the picture rested
on an easel. The moment the ministers' eyes rested on the portrait they looked at each other in astonishment. They saw the queen not as a woman of fifty or of forty, but at twenty. Some said it was the Princess Lida and not the queen at all. Nevertheless all maintained silence till the king had spoken.
Hurrying forward he bent over it and kissed the lips. For a time he was lost to all save the contemplation of what seemed to delight him excessively,
then, turning, he said:

"My lords, there is my beloved wife
as clearly defined as if the image had been painted from the one I carry in my heart. To me the portrait is priceless, for having it constantly by me I shall be able to keep my wife in my memory as I knew her in life. Let the foreign minister announce to King Otho that the portrait is accepted, and make arrangements for the wedding between the Princess Lida and the Crown Prince Ralph."

When the artist departed from the kingdom the princess wept bitterly
that he had not won the prize for himself instead of for his sovereign. He pressed her hand at parting and assured her that she would find the prince a loving husband.

When Prince Ralph came in state to the nuptials he arrived in the night
and went at once with his suit to his apartments. The next morning King Carl and the princess awaited him in the audience chamber with all the court assembled to receive him. When the door opened and he entered there was a hum of surprise. He was the artist who had painted the winning picture.

Of course the princess was happy and
the king was especially happy in having for a son-in-law one who had enabled him to keep his wife's image in his memory. As for the prince, he had in disguise competed for the prize, had fallen in love with the princess and learned that the king was treasuring in his heart the image of his wife as it was when he had first loved her. He resolved to get as near that image as possible by using portraits of the queen in youth, blended with the living image of her daughter.

Not long after the wedding King Otho died and Prince Ralph succeeded to the throne. Then King Carl shut himself up with the portrait that so pleased him and abdicated in favor of King Ralph and his wife.

Notice to the Public.

On or about Monday, Sept. 26, the Yakima Daily Democrat will appear. The new publication will be a morning paper, six column folio, four pages in size. The Daily Democrat will endeavor to cover its field properly. Its main purpose, of course, will be to print the local news. It will, however, not neglect the general news but will print every morning the main happenings of the 24 hours previous. A special feature will be made of the daily market reports affecting the produce of this valley for the benefit of our country readers.

Politically, of course, The Daily Democrat will have a fixed policy. It will advocate the election of the democratic ticket, national, state and county, but though a partisan journal it will always aim to be fair as we think it is generally conceded that the weekly Democrat has been since its inception.

Our critics will doubtless say that it will be merely a campaign sheet, only born to die with the first frosts of winter. In answer to that we can reply that while it is hoped that the Daily Democrat will exercise some influence in the campaign it will by no means be established for that single purpose. Like any other business proposition it will continue just as long as the people will support it. That Yakima is now ready for a morning paper we believe to be a fact. We may be in error about this, but we are willing to take a chance at it anyway.

The Daily Democrat will speak for itself when it appears. Until that time we will ask the public to suspend judgment on the venture.

Gov. McBride last week hid himself away to the east, leaving Secretary of State Sam H. Nichols to act as governor during his absence. The governor announced previous to his departure that he would be absent from the state for two months, or until about the eve of election.

There is a great deal of significance in the fact that Gov. McBride has left the state at this particular time. Ordinarily the governor is a very strong partisan in politics. Voting and working for the success of the republican party ticket had become a fixed habit with him. In years gone by the democrats of Skagit county found in McBride a partisan, bitter and uncompromising, and they have not outgrown a feeling of antipathy toward him since. So much for the governor's loyalty to party.

Counting on his well known loyalty the republican leaders of this state have exhausted every means at their command to induce the governor to declare himself in favor of the ticket labeled "Republican," nominated at Tacoma, May 11, through the influence and at the behest of J. D. Farrell and his railroad lobby. Repeatedly men who are on personally friendly terms with the governor have been sent to him to plead and beg that he sink all personal considerations, blot out all memory of the past and declare himself in sympathy with the party and his intention to support the ticket. Every argument was brought to bear upon him such a glittering prize as the U. S. senatorship was held out to him in case that he would consent to do so. But the governor refused to yield to the importunities of the railroad emissaries. He would not budge an inch. He refused to stultify himself and his record by asking his thousands of supporters in the state to vote the Farrell ticket and thereby place the railroad lobbyists in full control of the state. He would not sell his soul to the Devil in exchange for the fleshpots of Egypt. Let he even be further tempted to do so he chose to leave the state for a time. All honor to Gov. McBride!

With the refusal of Gov. McBride to speak goes the last glimmering hope of the election of Mr. Mead and the entire railroad ticket. After the way they treated the governor it must have required a most remarkable gall, such only as the railroad bunch are known to possess, to expect him to assist them in their plans to control the state. Still, it is not likely that they would have dared to ask him to do this if they were not literally scared out of their boots. They see the storm coming and they wish to get out of harm's way if possible. The votes that McBride is able to control might save them from the threatened deluge. But McBride righteously refuses to extend a helping hand and these men are now left to take the consequences of their own sin.

The Oregonian will not for an instant admit that there is the slightest possibility of Judge Parker's election. And yet the columns of the webfoot journal teem with news everyday from eastern centers to the effect that the democrats are extremely active and gaining fresh recruits from the ranks of the independent voters.

To some extent the national campaign of 1904, may be likened to that of 1884, when Cleveland was elected the first time. That year the supporters of Blaine thought they had everything their own way right down to the time that the votes were counted. All the September and October states in the north that year returned good sized republican majorities. But the Plumed Knight who rejoiced in October wept in November. The silent, independent vote of the east went against him largely and he was beaten.

No matter what Vermont and Maine may have done in their state elections the result of the presidential election is still in grave doubt. That Roosevelt is strong in the west does not admit of a doubt. Still there is no assurance that he will be able to carry all the states of the west. Colorado, Montana, Nevada, Idaho and Utah are all debateable states. In all of these states the Republicans are at a serious disadvantage on the labor question and in the last named two states the agitation of the Mormon question is likely to beat them. These five states represent a total of 17 electoral votes, but there is little likelihood that either party will capture them all.

In the east the debateable states as claimed by the Democratic National Committee are New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Delaware, West Virginia, Indiana and Wisconsin, representing a total of 98 electoral votes. Should Parker carry all of these states, which we admit is not probable, he would have with the south, including Maryland which is conceded to be democratic, a total of 258 electoral votes, or 19 more than is necessary, and this without counting in a single far western state. In this estimate it may be seen that Parker may lose Wisconsin and Rhode Island, with their 15 votes and still have enough left.

The bragadocia emanating every day from republican sanctums will not elect any man president. This is as true now as it was in the case of the brilliant Blaine, when the republicans were so cocksure of the Plumed Knight's election that they insisted that there was nothing to it except going through the form of casting and counting the votes. They are likely to be quite as badly fooled this time.

In the opening speech of his campaign delivered at Waterville Sept. 8 Hon.

George Turner, democratic nominee for governor, said:

"Men may differ about the Philippine question, about the tariff question and about other questions of national importance, but if they be honest men and patriotic men, they must agree that our state shall not be debauched by corporate dictation, and that it shall have an honest government, administered for all the people of the state."

This expression from Judge Turner may be considered the keynote of the state campaign. As the judge well says, good citizens may differ as to the policies to be pursued by the national government, but they cannot conscientiously differ on the important question of the people retaining control over their own state government, rather than to turn it over in all its branches to the railway corporations to be operated in their own interests; for that is the plain, the paramount issue before the people of the state of Washington.

By hook and by crook the lobby has finally succeeded in securing control of the dominant party organization in this state. But it has not yet secured control over the whole people and it is devoutly to be hoped that it will not. If the people repudiate the rule of the lobby at the polls it is likely that such a result would force the railroads to release their grip upon the throat of the republican party. When the scheming politicians, who thought that the surest way to get what they want is through the favor of the lobby, wake up on the morning of November 9 to find out their mistake they will be more reasonable and more tractable in the future. When they discover that their evil associates instead of lifting them to a high position have dragged them through the mire of defeat they will see the error of their way and repent of their folly. In the end their defeat will be for their own good as well as that of the whole people.

While William Jennings Bryan was in attendance at the Democratic National convention at St. Louis he was waited upon at his hotel by a delegation of Boer soldiers headed by Generals Viljoen and Cronje and consisting of 17 other ex-officers of the Boer army and presented with an address. In this address the Boers expressed their deep and undying gratitude for the sympathy extended them and their cause by Mr. Bryan during his memorable campaign of four years ago. In the course of this address the Boers said:

"Needless to say were the people of the Boer nation privileged to place you in the seat of Jefferson, our race would be unanimous in doing so as an expression of our gratitude." To this address Mr. Bryan made a most touching and fitting reply.

What seems almost like a parody on the late Anglo-Boer war is the fact that the Boer generals named above with a party of about 150 of their countrymen and about the same number of British soldiers are stationed at the world's fair grounds, where in a great enclosure set apart for their use Boer and Briton fight their battles over again twice daily for the amusement of their Yankee visitors, the consideration being 25 and 50 cents per head, according to whether the spectator wishes to sit in the sun or in the shade. The show, however is fully worth the price.

When General Cronje one day last July was apprised by a reporter of the fact of Paul Kruger's death, which had just occurred at a remote place in Switzerland, the brave old general wept. On recovering himself he said: "But I am glad my old commander was spared the disgrace in his closing hours of knowing that I am here trying to make money in partnership with our late foes, whom he so cordially hated. But reduced to poverty how can we help it, for we must live somehow." And then with a deep sigh the old burger went about his duties.

The Democrat has no inclination to quarrel with such a man as Bannister of the Vancouver Columbian. We merely pointed him out as an illustration of the man in politics who works for hire. Up to about two years ago Bannister was, or pretended to be, a democrat and he was of a very blatant stripe at that as the files of the old Centralia News will show. Now he edits a republican paper at Vancouver, well filled with juicy land office notices and campaign lies which he is circulating from railroad headquarters at Seattle. All this goes to show that politics is not a matter of principle with Bannister and that he is simply shooting for the "long green." This paper has never found fault with any man for being a Republican from principle, although we may have criticised the argument advanced. But for the class of fellows who jump from one party to another in the hope of securing political preferment or to gain money without earning it, we confess we have little use, and neither do we believe has the general public. The Republic in reproducing the coarse remarks of the Columbian, directed at the editor of this paper, was probably moved by a fellow feeling of sympathy for the Vancouver man.

The humiliating fact that our state has been debauched by railroad political influences is a part of its well attested political history. Every man who has ever attended a session of the state legislature can bear witness that the railroad lobby has been bold, open and aggressive. The state's honored governor, Hon. Henry McBride, has repeatedly told the people the facts, and for that telling and his determination to break up the gigantic evil, the railroad forces stormed and captured the recent republican state convention and forced that assemblage to repudiate its own administration and drive Governor McBride into forced retirement.

There is but one means of destroying the corrupt tyranny of the railroad machine. The voters can do it at the polls. They are to say next November whether they want the railroad political methods to cease, or whether they want them to flourish indefinitely.

If George Turner is elected governor he will take up the fight where Governor McBride was compelled to drop it. If Mr. Mead is elected governor there will be peace for the railroad lobby, and the people's industries will be at the mercy of the powerful railroad companies.—Spokesman Review.

The Seattle P. I., has been obliged to back down and retract the falsity of its own report when it stated that George Turner in the senate referred in a speech to the "McKinley's hired assassins." Senator Turner made no such statement and nothing that could be tortured into meaning anything of the kind. On being cornered on this point and the falsity of the statement established the P. I., under date of Sept. 3, editorially retracted in the following language:

"The words referred to do not appear in his (Turner's) speeches in the Congressional Record. Under all the circumstances the Post-Intelligencer regrets that such a misquotation should be attributed to Senator Turner by anyone, and that it should have been repeated by us, but we beg to remind the Senator's advocates that it is the spirit, not the letter of the law which kills, as well as liveth."

Should the P. I., attempt to make amends for all the false statements it has made about Judge Turner in this campaign it would be kept busy until election day. Its task would be a Herculean one, but such has the reputation of this paper for truth and veracity become that democrats care little whether it reverts occasionally to the truth or continues merrily on its course of willful misrepresentation.

There was no wish or desire on the part of the late democratic county convention for a fusion with the socialists, as the Prosser Record asserts. Such a thing was never mentioned in that body and any suggestion looking to such a fusion would have been turned down emphatically. We never heard the matter discussed or alluded to in any way among the delegates. And we believe that the socialist convention would have treated the suggestion of fusion in equally as emphatic a way, had it been broached there.

The editor of the Record must be a pipe dreamer. At least, if he received any information that the democrats desired fusion it came from an irresponsible source. The Record's reflections on the democratic convention are as much out of place as they are untruthful, especially in view of the fact that the democratic committee was courteous enough to give up the court room Sept. 3rd, on which date it had the first claim, and go and hire a hall to hold their party convention in order to accommodate the socialists.

William Randolph Hearst, who was in Spokane last week, entered a most emphatic denial to the stories that have been going the rounds of the Republican press to the effect that he is not supporting Parker and Davis. This much was to have been expected of Hearst. He is loyal and is not a sulker.

The same is true of William Jennings Bryan. The great Nebraskan is preparing to go on the stump for the national ticket in the doubtful states and when he does he will put to rest all the silly talk emanating from such men as Cotterill and Windsor in this state that he hopes for the defeat of Parker. As soon as Bryan begins the campaign it may be expected that the Oregonian, Post-Intelligencer and other Republican journals that have fairly slobbered in tendering him their sympathy since the St. Louis convention will again open up their mud batteries upon him as they did in former days.

William Jennings Bryan has written a letter to J. W. Godwin of Seattle, chairman of the democratic State Committee regretting his inability to come to this state to speak during the campaign. In this letter Mr. Bryan takes occasion to warmly endorse Judge Turner and to express the hope that he will be elected.

This letter ought to put a quietus on Geo. F. Cotterill, Judge Windsor and other malcontents who attempt to justify their childish fight against Turner on the ground that they love Bryan. What rot! Bryan's real friends in this state will heartily support Turner for the reason that they are reformers and they know that Turner is a reformer. The trouble with Cotterill, Windsor and others of the same ilk is that they crave notoriety and are never satisfied unless they can see their names constantly in print and know that they are being talked about.

Gov. McBride has demonstrated once more that he is the political scrub which his opponents in the republican party have claimed that he was. He has announced that he will spend the next few weeks at St. Louis, and take no part in the campaign—Yakima Republic.

The above is about the worst break we have ever known our local contemporary to make and it has often gone beyond the bounds of decency. And so the honored governor of this state who fell outside the breastworks fighting for a principle is a scrub in the opinion of the Republic, because he refused by word or deed to sanction the election of Mead, the railroad candidate, as his successor.

Shame, Neighbor, Shame!

The Republican judicial convention, which assembles in this city today to nominate a candidate for the exalted office of superior judge, has no very strenuous labor to perform in view of the fact that its work has virtually been performed in advance by the republican machine of Yakima County. It will merely have to ratify the nomination of Attorney H. B. Riggs, in order to get that gentleman's name properly before the voters, and then it may adjourn. This is a great year for the ex democrats.

The Republic keeps howling against George Turner for being, as it says, a political turncoat. If it is really so disgraceful to be a turncoat how about several of the gentlemen who are running for office on the republican ticket in this county? And don't they all owe their places to the Republic's influence? And speaking of turncoats how about our friend "Rob," himself? We might enlarge considerably on such a fruitful theme as turncoats but we don't care to indulge in personalities.

The republicans of Whitman, Lincoln and Adams counties have refused to endorse the state ticket. This is the first time such a thing has ever happened in Washington. It means that republican leaders in those counties realize that an attempt to palliate the Tacoma surrender will carry their local tickets down to defeat. They are more interested in maintaining republican supremacy in their counties than they are in helping the railroads dominate the state.—Spokesman-Review.

The Commoner does not urge Judge Parker's election on the ground that he is "the regular nominee." That argument lost much of its force eight years ago when so many distinguished democrats bolted. The Commoner presents a stronger argument. It urges his election because his election will insure some reform while Mr. Roosevelt's election promises no reform whatever.—Bryan's Commoner.

The Spokane Record, formerly Freeman's Labor Journal, the most influential labor paper in the state, has come out squarely in favor of the democratic state and legislative ticket. It takes this stand because it feels that the labor interests of the state will receive more favorable consideration from the democrats than from the republican party as at present organized.

Boss Mires, of Ellensburg, appears to have won out over his enemies in the republican convention there and is thereby still enabled to retain his crown as "King of Kittitas." One good thing about Mires, however, is that the railroad push don't own him.

The local republican campaign committee seems to be composed entirely of republicans, while the ticket that they are to pull for is made up mainly of ex-democrats. We wonder if the committee's job is really an enjoyable one.

An old Mexican, residing in New Mexico, recently died at the age of 134 years; a fact that speaks volumes for the climate of that country.

TURNER OR MEAD; WHICH?

A Brief Comparison of the Claims of the Two Candidates for Governor.

Senator Turner had not been a member of the United States senate two years when he began to be recognized as a very able lawyer and debater of public questions.

By the time Senator Turner had been a member four years he was admitted to be among the ablest men of that body.

When his six year term expired Senator Turner was classed among a dozen men who stood in the front rank of leadership and statesmanship.

Had this not been the case President Roosevelt would never have appointed him as a member of the Alaska boundary commission, which not only contained two of the ablest of Canada's statesmen, but two very prominent and honored Englishmen.

And yet Senator Turner reflected honor on the position to which he had been appointed as he has reflected honor upon every office he has held.

When it comes to the methods whereby candidates were selected for state offices by the respective parties the contrast is so striking that it ought to appeal to the judgment of every honest man.

The democratic convention consisted of delegates chosen by the people with the utmost freedom, and with the fullest expectations of adopting a platform and presenting candidates that would appeal to the best sentiments of the voters.

How well they carried out that program is demonstrated by the earnest and efficient work which the convention accomplished.

The nomination of Senator Turner for governor was hearty, spontaneous and unanimous. No public man ever received a greater compliment when the office he considered.

When it came to the adoption of a platform, the interests of the public were looked after with great care.

Whether right or wrong, the people without regard to politics prior to the present campaign, had been taught that the creation of a railway commission would be for the best interests of the great agricultural districts.

Because of that fact the democratic platform emphasized most emphatically the plank relating thereto.

On the other hand, the election of delegates to the republican convention which was held in Tacoma, was a scramble and a fight from the very beginning between the supporters of Governor McBride and the railway lobbyists.

The lobbyists had determined that McBride should be beaten at any cost—and they went into the canvass for the choice of delegates which made up the convention with that sole purpose in view.

It was a straight fight between the railway lobbyists and Governor McBride backing a principle which the republican party never before deserted in this state.

When the convention assembled the whole business was turned over to a few men, who took two days to make up a combination that would defeat Governor McBride and a railway plank in the platform.

When this was accomplished they nominated an unknown man for the high office of governor—and a man who had been picked out by the railway lobbyists in order to defeat the nomination of McBride and the railway plank.—Seattle Times.

School Men Want Gerard.

As stated recently by the Argus there is a strong movement among the educational men of the state to elect Prof. W. D. Gerard as state superintendent of schools. A statement, which sums up as follows, has been prepared by Prof. Gerard's friends. As will be seen it is signed by more republicans than democrats:

"Therefore we, the undersigned, regardless of political affiliations, recognizing in Prof. W. D. Gerard of Seattle one fitted by education, experience and personal qualities to discharge successfully the responsible duties of state superintendent of schools in a manner consistent with the demands of this new and growing state, heartily endorse his candidacy and appeal to the patriotic voters of the state of Washington to lay aside party ties for his election at this time to the office, believing as we do that his election at this time to that office will promote the general welfare of the public schools of the state. Signed, B. W. Johnson, W. A. Shannon, M. D. W. G. McCarthy, Edwin Twitmyer, J. A. Reed, E. H. Stafford, A. W. Phillips, J. M. Taylor, E. B. Sutton, Calvin W. Stewart, J. T. Eshelman, John C. Stallcup, P. F. Hylebos, Lemuel H. Wells, Floyd L. Daggett, G. S. Allison, J. M. Raught, F. Phair, David G. Fenton, A. W. Hawley, M. D., S. J. Holmes, M. D., F. A. Church, III, M. D., H. Y. Sizer, O. Jacobs, A. B. Kidd, M. D., I. M. Harrison, M. D., L. B. Steadman, W. H. G. Temple, Herbert H. Goven, Andrew Chiberg, Roger S. Greene, H. Horace Chapman, Walter E. Terrell, Conrad L. Hoska, Warren W. Tolman, Charles A. Greene, H. H. Nelson."—Seattle Argus, (rep.)

The Socialist Convention.

The socialist party convention of Yakima county was held at the court house last Saturday. D. M. Angus of Prosser acted as chairman and H. F. Perrin of Sunnyside, secretary. About 25 delegates were present with credentials from the different locals throughout the county.

The convention after reassembling in the afternoon heard and approved the reports of the different committees and then proceeded to nominate the following ticket:

State Senator—Charles Richey, Belma.

Representatives—J. W. Martin, Sunnyside; E. L. Stewart, Euclid.

Sheriff—E. D. Taylor, North Yakima.

Clerk—John Dempsey, Outlook.

Treasurer—V. C. Ratcliffe, Ahtanum.

Assessor—J. E. Curtis, Naches.

School Superintendent—J. A. Kingsbury, Prosser.

Surveyor—Walter Price, Outlook.

Coroner—J. A. Walker, North Yakima.

Commissioners—First district, I. Whitehouse; second district, Jos. Le Gassa; third district, W. W. Barnes.

The above was prepared for publication and should have appeared in last week's issue of The Democrat, but was unfortunately overlooked in the make-up of the paper.—Ed.

Spokane Interstate Fair.

More than ever before will the growth of the stock business in the northwest be emphasized at the Spokane Interstate fair during the week of October 3 to 9, inclusive. Stock breeding has fast become one of the leading industries of the great northwest. Wonderful strides have been made in the past few years and the possibilities are yet unlimited.

The Interstate fair management has planned a novel parade for the benefit of the sightseers who take in the big fruit fair this fall. After the premiums have been awarded by the judges in the live stock department a big live stock parade will be formed which will circle the race track, passing before the big grand stand. The winners will be given their prize ribbons in front of the grand stand and as the special winners of note pass the judges' stand they will be announced and pause for a moment for the inspection of the seated multitude.

The stock parade as planned will be one of the features of the busy week, and will be of great interest to breeders and stock lovers generally.

Death of Mrs. Hinman.

Mrs. Amie Lorene Hinman, wife of Charles H. Hinman, the well known land locator of this city, died at the family home, Saturday, September 10 at 1:20 p. m., death being due to heart failure after a prolonged illness with typhoid fever, from which she was believed to have nearly recovered at the time of her death. The funeral was held Monday with a large number of sympathetic friends in attendance.

Mrs. Hinman was 26 years of age. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lee of Portland, Or., and a niece of Dr. J. W. Bean of Ellensburg. She was married to Mr. Hinman, Oct. 11, 1899, the result of the union being two children, a boy aged 4 and an infant daughter born two months ago. She ceased during her three years residence in this city had made many friends. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and took an active interest in church and charitable work. Mr. Hinman has the sympathy of the entire community in his affliction.

Were Rounded Up Quickly.

The hardware store of Fawcett Bros. was broken into some time last Monday night by hoboes, the gang carrying off about $100 worth of goods in the shape of knives and razors. Manager Hartung on discovering his loss on opening up the following morning promptly notified the officers.

Deputy Sheriff Cox and Policeman Hunter started on the trail of the thieves and by 10 o'clock rounded them up in Front street saloons, where one of the hoboes was caught offering some of the missing goods for sale. The trio were placed under arrest and gave their names as John Kirk, Frank Wallace and John McKay. At their examination before Justice Taggard Wednesday the accused men were bound over to the superior court. The most of the stolen goods were found in their possession.

An Unselfish Strike.

The packing house strike was called by the skilled and organized workmen in the great packing houses to protect and benefit the unskilled and unorganized workmen. This fact should be borne in mind by those who insist that labor unions are selfish and self-seeking. The skilled workmen were making fair wages and working full hours. The unskilled workmen were drawing starvation wages and working short hours. It is claimed by the strike leaders that the unskilled workmen averaged less than $7 a week. It was to compel better treatment of the unskilled that the skilled declared the strike. The history of labor unionism contains few brighter pages than the one which records the efforts of the Butcher Workmen's union to benefit the unskilled helpers.—The Commoner.

A Trip Through Yellowstone Park

is what everyone hopes to have—some day. It is the most wonderful trip in the world. There are more than 3000 square miles of weird, marvelous, unimaginable things that can be seen nowhere else, therefore if one ever sees them one must go to the Park, in the heart of the magnificent Rockies with snow tipped peaks all around. If Old Faithful geyser, a Paint Pot, Mud Volcano, or Emerald Pool were to be found in Lincoln park, Chicago; Central park, New York; or Fairmount park, Philadelphia; the people would flock to see it or them by tens of thousands. For a very small sum, comparatively, all these and hundreds more of nature's unduplicated marvels can be seen between June 1 and September 30 of each year, and one will enjoy, to boot, the best coaching trip in the country.

The Northern Pacific folder on Yellowstone Park, just issued, is a new, right up to date, finely illustrated dissertation on this Yellowstone Park trip. It is not descriptive, but deals with the detailed, technical matters everyone needs to know about such a trip. It tells all about the hotels, the stage coaches, the roads, the cost of the tour; where the geysers, the waterfalls, the bears, the canyons are, and where the trout fishing is found. We have printed thousands of this beautiful leaflet and want everybody interested to have a copy, and it can be obtained by sending A. M. Cleland, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn., two cents with proper address.

"Wonderland 1904" which is a very fine pamphlet of 116 pages, descriptive of the Northwest, including the Park, will be sent for six cents.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Democrats Making a Strenuous Effort to Control Lower House of Congress—Geographical Congress in Session.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.

Since my last letter great activity has manifested itself at the congressional headquarters of the democratic party in this city. Instead of leaving here and joining the national committee in New York city, as has contemplated a month ago, it has been decided that the most of the effort for the recovery of congress to the democratic party will be made here. In the suite of rooms at the Riggs House is a large diagram on which are marked the close districts in the different states which are to be earnestly contested prior to Nov. 8.

Two editions of the democratic campaign book will soon be issued. One will appear next week. The proofs have been revised and corrected. The first edition will make about five hundred printed pages, and will be in larger type and better paper than the republican text book. The second edition will contain the letters of acceptance and discussions of the tariff trust, and wage questions.

Senator Paris Gibson was in town yesterday and he reports that there is liable to be trouble out west. In Montana Senator Clark's son threatens to run for congress and if he does so it will introduce a financial element which, added to his personal popularity, will be very likely to elect him and carry the state for Parker. It is believed that a very heavy democratic vote will be cast in the cities if the Clarks become personally interested. Then there are troublesome times foreshadowed in Colorado while Nevada is confidently set in the democratic column.

Very little money will come out of the democratic campaign in an effort to even reduce the republican majority in Pennsylvania. But democratic leaders there are determined to diminish the names on the assessors' lists, and it is asserted that every fictitious name on the list is known to democratic workers, and that the assessors will be asked to strike off those names under threats of arrest and prosecution. In many wards in Philadelphia assessors have been more discreet than usual because of the presence of detectives and in some instances they have refused to pad the lists in obedience to orders from republican leaders, declaring that they would not take the chances.

One of the most notable gatherings of the United States has ever known is that of the eighth International Geographic congress which meets today in this city. It is true that very few of the universities or colleges of this country maintain chairs of geography, though geographical instruction in Europe. But geographical science has made a wonderful advance on this continent and the assembly of the congress here is doubtless a recognition of that fact. The most prominent Americans in connection with the congress are W. J. McGee, chief of anthropology at the world's fair, Grove K. Gilbert, and Henry Gannett of this city and professor Wm. M. Davis of Harvard. It will be a moveable congress, holding its sessions from city to city throughout the United States and Mexico. An interesting incident which will attract the attention of this congress is the discovery this summer of a great mass of masonry on Capitol Hill within 300 feet of the capitol itself, indicating the existence of a buried city quite unknown to archaeology. The discovery has been made by the extensive excavations on the site of the new palace to be erected for the offices of the members of congress. This site has been covered with buildings erected on virgin soil since the beginning of the last century, yet how far below the foundations of these houses have been unearthed fragments of other edifices unknown to history or tradition. As North American Indians did not build cities of masonry, the question arises whether there was a people upon the Potomac coeval with the Aztecs and Toltecs, and if so, what was "their name and station, age and race."

It is called mimic war—this marching and countermarching of battalions, regiments and brigades across a hundred square miles of Virginia this week; but it is hoped that something more important than diversion will result from the expenditure of the million and a half of money appropriated to the maneuvers by congress. Thirty thousand men are there and their officers are trying to solve the problem of handling large bodies of soldiers over the diversified surface of an actual battlefield. The browns and the blues have doubtless indulged in some complicated movements in the effort to force each other in different directions without any display of force. The blues, numbering 15,000 under General Fred Grant marched from the Potomac westward against the browns of 15,000, under General Franklin Bell, operating in the Shenandoah valley. They have precipitated themselves upon each other and cut each other up fearfully, like theangels in Paradise Lost, that annihilated each other without the slightest damage.

Up to date in this third battle of Bull Run, the browns have held the blues at bay. It is said they employed the same tactics which made Stonewall Jackson successful and famous. But Gen. Grant, who is in his father's shoes, and possesses many of his characteristics, may yet be able to stem the tide of war and claim a technical victory. The visiting militia from the northern states express themselves as delighted with the cool nights and satisfied with the sleeping and eating arrangements.

Party Coming from Spokane.

Secretary Chandler of the Commercial club has been notified by the secretary of the Spokane chamber of commerce that a party consisting of about 200 prominent citizens of that city will visit North Yakima to attend the state fair. The party will arrive here on a special train during Thursday afternoon, departing Tuesday afternoon. The party will stop off at a number of points enroute.

The Commercial club management will appoint a committee to entertain the Spokane party while in this city.

A Power for Good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by C. C. Case.

ARTIST AND ARTISAN.

What It Is That Measures the Difference Between Them.

"My son is going to be an artist," said a proud father. "He does not need to study a lot of scientific rubbish."

Perhaps this father does not know that what he calls "scientific rubbish" measures the difference between the artisan and an artist, the difference between the common and the superb, between mediocrity and excellence. It was what this man called "scientific rubbish" which made the difference between the works of Michael Angelo and those of a hundred other artists of his day who have gone into oblivion. It was this "scientific rubbish"—studying anatomy for a dozen years—that gave immortality to the statues of Moses and David and to his paintings the "Last Judgment" and "The Story of Creation."

Many an artist of real ability has failed to produce any great work of art because of his ignorance of just such "scientific rubbish." Of what good is an artistic temperament or genius to the sculptor who does not know the origin, the insertion and the contour of the various muscles, who is not thoroughly familiar with the human anatomy? Michael Angelo thought it worth while to spend a great deal of time upon the anatomy of a horse and upon abstruse mathematics.—Success.

Years Didn't Count.

Napoleon in the course of his Italian campaign took a Hungarian battalion prisoner. The colonel, an old man, complained bitterly of the French mode of fighting, by rapid and desultory attacks on the flank, the rear, the lines of communication, etc., concluding by saying that he fought in the army of Maria Theresa. "You must be old," said Napoleon. "Yes, I am either sixty or seventy," was the reply.

"Why, colonel," remarked the Corsican, "you have certainly lived long enough to know how to count years a little more closely." "General," said the Hungarian, "I reckon my money, my shirts and my horses, but as for my years I know that nobody will want to steal them and that I shall never lose one of them."

How Do You Approach a Difficulty?

It makes great difference how you approach a difficulty. Obstacles are like wild animals. They are cowards, but they will bluff you if they can. If they see you are afraid of them, if you stand and hesitate, if you take your eye from theirs, they are liable to spring upon you, but if you do not flinch, if you look them squarely in the eye, they will slink out of sight. So difficulties flee before absolute fearlessness, though they are very real and formidable to the timid and hesitating and grow larger and larger and more formidable with vacillating contemplation.—Orison Swett Marden in Success.

A Legend of Lace.

According to Melchior de Vogue, the legend of lace is as follows: A Venetian sailor gave his ladylove a frond of seaweed to keep him in memory while at sea. But the girl found that the seaweed was rapidly drying up and disappearing. So she caught the fine branches and leaves of the plant with thread against a piece of linen and, working on, with her thoughts following her lover, invented lace.

Must Have Outgrown It.

She (11:30 a. m.)—Do you know anything about baseball, Mr. Borem? He—Yes, indeed! I was considered the best amateur shortstop in the country a few years ago. She—Well, I never would have thought it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Changed Their Minds.

"I understand you were going to call on Miss Pert this afternoon." "We changed our minds." "What caused you to do that?" "Why, we learned at the last moment that she was at home."—Houston Post.

Everybody exclaims against ingratitude. Are there so many benefactors?—Bougault.

MECHANICAL WONDERS.

The Toys Louis XIV. Played With in His Childhood Days.

An extraordinary piece of mechanism was constructed for the amusement of Louis XIV. when a child. It consisted of a small coach drawn by two horses in which was the figure of a lady, with a footman and page behind. According to the account given by M. Camus, the constructor, this coach being placed at the extremity of a table of a determinate size, the coachman smacked his whip, and the horses immediately set out, moving their legs in a natural manner. When the carriage reached the edge of the table it turned on a right angle and proceeded along that edge till it arrived opposite to the place where the king was seated. It then stopped, and the page, getting down, opened the door, upon which the lady alighted, having in her hand a petition, which she presented, with a courtesy. After waiting some time she again courtesied and re-entered the carriage. The page then resumed his place, the coachman whipped up his horses, which began to move, and the footman, running after the carriage, jumped up behind it.

Louis XIV. had also an automaton opera in five acts, with fresh scenes for each. It measured sixteen and a half inches in breadth, thirteen inches four lines in height and one inch three lines in thickness for the working of the machinery.—Westminster Gazette.

RESURRECTION PLANTS.

The Curious Rose of Jericho and the Mexican Fern Ball.

The rose of Jericho is perhaps one of the most familiar of the curiosities of plant life known as resurrection plants. It is said to be imported from the valley of the river Jordan and is the resurrection plant mentioned in the Bible. The plant when received from its native home is simply a bunch of leafless and seemingly lifeless sticks or branches clustered tightly together. When placed in a glass of water, however, the branches expand, seed buds unfold, and soon the green foliage starts out, and the plant grows.

The Mexican resurrection plant is the fluffy, fernlike variety often noticed in saucers of water in the florist's window. When it is dormant it is a shrunken, rounded ball of tightly folded leaflets, dry and dead.

It is dropped in a bowl of tepid water, and soon one frondlike tip curls slowly outward, then another and another, and in a short time there is floating in the dish a beautiful metallic green plant, a great, loose, expanded rosette of fine fernlike leaves, odd and beautiful.

This experiment can be repeated many times, the plant curling together tightly when dry and expanding into new life when soaked in water.—Young People's Weekly.

GAS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

China, It Has Been Asserted, Used It Centuries Ago.

It has been asserted, but never proved conclusively, that China used gas for lighting purposes centuries before its use in the western world. If this was so it was doubtless natural gas.

Clayton, at the end of the seventeenth century, stored gas in bladders and played with it at times, and Lord Dunsford in 1787, in working a patent for coal tar, stored up the gas and occasionally used it for lighting up the hall of Culross abbey.

It is to the genius of a Scotsman, W. Murdoch, that we owe our bright illuminant. In 1792 he was living at Redruth, Cornwall, and after experiments in gasmaking he lit up his own house, much to the astonishment of his neighbors.

Called to Birmingham, he erected a large plant for lighting up the Soho works. This drew attention to the whole matter, and in 1803 London began street lighting. The Royal society in 1808 gave Murdoch its Rumford gold medal for his invention.—London Standard.

A Unique Collection.

Among the curious ways by which some persons in England make a living is the sale of castoff garments belonging to distinguished personages, for which the curiosity loving fashionable world affords a sure and profitable market. One English lady has a collection of corsets, including articles from the wardrobes of reigning imperial and royal personages as well as objects of historical interest. Among the latter are a leather corset belonging to Charlotte Corday, the heroine of the French revolution, and a construction of whalebone and steel worn by Marie Antoinette, with an eighteen inch waist.—Toilettes.

Working the Crust.

From my window the other day, writes a New Yorker, I witnessed the ingenuity of a beggar. He evidently had a pocket filled with crusts, and when no one was passing he threw one of them into my yard. Then he waited for a lady or gentleman who carried a stick or umbrella and, trembling, appealed for the crust to be brought within his reach. The sympathy he excited was so great that he received a nickel or two from many who heard his plea.

The Other Side.

"It's all very well for the minister to preach from the text, 'Remember Lot's wife,'" said an overworked, discouraged matron, "but I wish he would now give us an encouraging sermon upon the wife's lot."

Fought For Peace.

Doctor—Did that medicine I gave you agree with your stomach? Patient—Yes, finally, but it raised an awful row before it came to terms.

ENDED HIS TROUBLES

Harry Ebbons Blows His Brains Out Rather than Die Slowly of Consumption.

Harry Ebbons, a consumptive in the last stages of that dreadful disease, committed suicide at the fair grounds last Sunday evening by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. The bullet entered the right temple of the unfortunate man, but strange to say, did not produce instant death. The victim lingered along until 2:20 a. m. the following morning when he died. Supt. Fred Brooker of the fair grounds promptly summoned medical attention for the dying man, but as the wound was necessarily fatal, nothing could be done beyond making the poor victim as comfortable as possible until death finally relieved him. The remains were brought to Sessions undertaking parlors and prepared for burial. The funeral was held Tuesday morning with interment in Tahoma cemetery.

Deceased came here last May from Tacoma accompanied by his wife. His physicians had informed him that he was afflicted with tuberculosis and advised him to seek a different climate and live in the open air as much as possible. He came here and through the courtesy of Supt. Brooker was permitted to pitch his tent in the grove at the fair grounds, where he and his wife had lived all the summer. The relief hoped for did not come to the patient. Daily he grew worse and as death stared him in the face he grew melancholy and despondent and in that frame of mind resolved on taking his own life. He committed the act while his faithful wife was preparing his evening meal in the Brooker kitchen.

Supt. Brooker had taken a good deal of interest in the unfortunate man and had rendered him assistance in many ways. He says that the deceased was a man of many splendid traits and naturally was what people call "a good fellow." He realized that his case was hopeless, but seemed more depressed with the thought that in his helpless condition he was a burden to others. Mrs. Ebbons has returned to her relatives at Tacoma.

Good Republican Testimony.
The P. I. should adopt a rule requiring editorial writers to read the news columns of the paper.

That the so-called republican ticket was selected and named by railroad influences, that the convention which selected it even was a railroad convention is the verdict of the Tacoma Ledger, a republican paper, and a paper which was represented at the convention by more members of its staff than any other paper in the state. An editorial published by the Ledger on the morning after the convention begins with this paragraph:

"The convention which masqueraded as republican has met, conquered and adjourned. It was a railroad ratification from start to finish. Any candidate who had ever been in any way friendly or in sympathy with Governor McBride was turned down. The slate went through as directed by its managers."

The concluding paragraph of this editorial is:

"The Ledger stands by the ticket and admires the genius of its manipulators, but it does not hesitate to say that it domns their conception."

Wapato.

Paul G. Kruger of North Yakima was a Wapato visitor Tuesday.

Miss Ida Gibson, who recently had her arm broken, is now much improved.

Haskell Bowdish returned from his visit to Oregon Monday.

Wapato people were greatly surprised to learn of the death of Mr. McKinnon, who went from here to St. Elizabeth's hospital two weeks ago suffering with typhoid fever. The deceased and his wife had won the respect and esteem of all who knew them during their residence here. Mrs. McKinnon left last Saturday for their former home, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with the remains. What would make the trip an especial sad one for the young wife is the fact that she and her husband had planned to leave here on that particular day on a visit to relatives in Iowa.

While a Jap was driving Mr. Jensen's team to the station one day recently the horses became frightened and ran away throwing the Jap out and breaking his arm, also doing considerable other damage.

Wapato is rather quiet now as many of our people are away working in the hop fields.

Arthur Towne met with a painful accident one day last week by getting his foot caught while working on a hay baler, the foot being badly crushed. He is reported as doing well under medical attention.

Yakima City.

Nothing doing this week.

Mrs. Lauber is slowly improving. It was found that her injuries were more severe than at first thought.

Miss Ethel Caines, who has been very ill is now reported as improving.

Marshal Oliver of Wapato was a visitor in the city Tuesday.

Quite a number of our people attended the North Yakima theater Tuesday night in order to see "Sweet Clover."

Mr. Goins, our popular miller, took a load of very fine fat hogs to North Yakima Wednesday. Mr. Goins says that there is money in hogs in this country. Our phones were all out of commission recently caused by some party cutting the wires in order to move a hay stacker under. We wonder why things are so?

Nathan Ruby and Harry Boyles are on the sick list.

There is quite a gang of tough looking characters hanging around town, a fact that causes Marshal Hunt considerable loss of sleep.

Toppenish.

Stephenson Bros.' new store building is nearly completed. A dance is proposed as a proper opening this Saturday night.

Fruit and produce of all kinds still continues to pour in from the country. Mrs. Mason and Miss Elizabeth Lancaster drove over from Wapato Wednesday.

Senol is going again.

Mrs. J. G. Hillyer is very ill.

Ward Austin has returned from a week's visit at Seattle.

Fred Thompson, acting postmaster during Mrs. W. L. Shearer's absence, has returned to North Yakima.

M. C. Gilbert of Geneseo, Ill. spent Thursday here with his son, H. M. Gilbert.

E. G. Fleming has left the employ of the Toppenish Trading company to take charge of his own store at Alfalfa.

BETTER THAN ORATORY.

The Secret of One Clever Lawyer's Unvarying Success.

One of the most common defects of a recently admitted lawyer is a striving for oratorical display. A successful older practitioner endeavors, on the other hand, to give the jury a heart to heart talk. The ways of an eagle in the air, of a serpent upon a rock, of a ship in the midst of the sea and of a man with a maid are as A B C compared with the methods usually pursued by the twelve good men and true. It seems a trifle odd at first that a dozen individuals who separately are shrewd, sharp business men should collectively be guilty of the most absurd performances, but the fact must be reckoned on nevertheless.

A story is told of two farmers who were returning home, one of them from jury duty in a neighboring town. "Lawyer Smith is a great orator," said one—"a perfect Daniel Webster. My, how I hated to decide against him in the three cases he tried!"

"How about Lawyer Jones, who was on the other side?"

"Oh, shucks! Why of course he wins all his cases. I heard every one of 'em, and they were the simplest things. He just explained things to the jury. He didn't have to do any hard talking at all. You couldn't help but agree with him."—Success.

Galileo's Caustic Humor.

In a biography of Galileo some stories are told of the caustic humor of that bold investigator. Lotario Sarsi, a writer on science, having said that the Babylonians used to cook eggs by whirling them in a sling, Galileo replied: "The cause of such an effect is very remote from that to which it is attributed, and to find the true cause I shall reason thus: If an effect does not follow with us which followed with others at another time it is because in our experiments something is wanting which was the cause of the former success, and if only one thing is wanting to us that one thing is the true cause. Now we have eggs and slings and strong men to whirl them, and yet they will not become cooked; nay, if they were hot at first they more quickly become cold, and since nothing is wanting to us but to be Babylonians it follows that being Babylonians is the true cause why the eggs became cooked and not to the friction of the air, which is what I wish to prove."

Shorthand 2,000 Years Ago.

It is no doubt a surprise to most to learn that shorthand was known and practiced 2,000 years ago. Manilius, a contemporary of Caesar and Cicero, Virgil and Horace, asserts that some system of reporting very similar to our shorthand was in vogue in his days. Writing these words under the influence of Virgo and Mercury, he says they are—

In shorthand skilled, where little marks comprise whole words, a sentence in a single letter lies.

And while the willing hand its aid affords, Prevents the tongue to fix the falling words.

It is certainly a novel conception that Cicero's grand orations were committed to paper with as much skill as our modern stenographers boast.

FRENCH MIDDLE CLASSES.

They Are Passing Rich on a Thousand Dollars a Year.

"A French lady, widow of an officer, once said to me," says the writer, "that she always traveled first class because she was rich, afterward explaining that her income was exactly £200 a year. But she was rich because most likely she never spent more than £170, and the explanation, I dare say, applies to the medical men in the country. They are rich, in all probability, on three or four hundred a year—rich just because they make much more than they spend. In order to comprehend French life and character we must bear one fact in mind. Appearance is not a fetish in France as in England; outside show is not sacrificed to Mrs. Grundy's no twentieth century Baal. On the other hand, good repute is sedulously nursed; personal dignity and family honor are hedged round with respect.

"We must not take the so called realistic novelist's standard to be the true one. Frenchmen, I should say, as a rule, spend a third less upon dress than Englishmen. It does not follow that the individual is held in slight esteem, personality discounted. These provincial and country doctors do not outwardly resemble their spick and span English colleagues, nor do they affect what is called style in their equipage—in most cases the conveyance is a bicycle—and manner of living. How can they upon an income derived from one and eight penny fees? But many are doubtless rich in the logical acceptance of the word—that is, they live considerably below their income and save money."—Chambers' Journal.

STARFISH AND OYSTERS.

Mistake That Was Made by a Planter of the Bivalves.

"A few years ago," said a Long Island oyster planter last week, "one of the planters here made a big mistake that nearly cost him his whole year's oyster crop.

"You know, I suppose, that the worst enemy of the oysters is the starfish. We catch them with an instrument called a tangle in great quantities and pile them up ashore, where the sun soon kills them. But that, as you may imagine, is not an operation calculated to make the neighborhood of the place very fragrant, for the star has a fearful odor after he dies.

"Now, this planter of whom I am speaking had a plan to avoid all this. He told one of his men off with an ax, and as fast as the boats brought in a load of starfish the ax was piled, and the pieces were then dumped overboard.

"He rubbed his hands over his good idea, but he wasn't so pleased a month or so afterward when the starfish began to devour his oysters again, and investigation with the dredge and tangle showed that there were more of them than ever on his beds.

"About this time an expert from the fish commission came snooping around for curiosities, and he heard, of course, about the stars. He began to laugh.

"'All that you succeeded in doing,' said he to the oyster planter, 'when you chopped up the starfish was to increase them. Don't you know that starfish can be cut into as many as six pieces and still not only survive, but form a new starfish from almost every piece?'—New York Press.

England's Oldest Railway Station.

The only railway station in England that can boast of being really old is that at Bourne, Lincolnshire, which is an ancient Elizabethan mansion, formerly in the possession of the Digby family, some members of which were implicated in the gunpowder plot. When the Great Northern and Midland railroads came through this district, a memorial was sent from the inhabitants of Bourne asking that instead of pulling the old landmark down it might be converted into a railway station, for which purpose it answers admirably now. Part of the house is used as a residence by the station master.

Lengthening Life.

The difference between rising every morning at 6 and 8 in the course of forty years amounts to 29,200 hours, or 3 years, 121 days and 16 hours, which are equal to eight hours a day for exactly ten years. So that rising at 6 will be the same as if ten years of life (a weighty consideration) were added, wherein we may command eight hours every day for the cultivation of our minds and the dispatch of business.

When Cats Were Scarce.

In a curious collection of ancient Welsh laws, dated 943 A. D., appears the following sentence, from which it would appear that cats were rather scarce at that time: "The worth of a kitten until it shall open its eyes is one legal penny; from that time till it shall kill mice, two legal pennies; after it shall kill mice, four legal pence, and so it shall always remain."

The Other Way.

"Did I understand you to say that Skadchase was suffering from heart trouble brought about by financial embarrassment?"

"No, I said he was suffering from financial embarrassment brought about by heart trouble. The hearse he was engaged to has jilted him."

Eccentric.

Burgess—Oh, yes; Charley is all right; a little eccentric, though. I've noticed several times when he has borrowed a lead pencil, instead of putting it into his pocket, as any one else would do, he hands it back to the owner.—Boston Transcript.

A good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, treasured up to a life beyond life.—Milton.
