He stated, in effect, that he desired to install a plant to make gas for heating and illuminating purposes. That in case his franchise was granted all pipes, so far as was possible, would be laid in the alleys at a depth of at least three feet and that the plant would be in operation some time during 1904.

some time during 1904. An ordinance was next read providing for the granting of a franchise to Edward E. Murphy and associates of Seattle to use the streets and alleys of the city for the operation of a general heating and power plant. Both of these ordinances were laid over to the next meeting of the council.

M. Grobschmidtt asked for the abrogation of the ordinance forbidding steam laundries to operate within the fire limits as he wished to install a laundry in his avenue property. Referred to committee on public improvements. Mr. Grobschmidt also asked to have a feed yard, adjoining his residence on South street First declared a public nuisance. Referred to health officer.

Thunder and Wind Storms. The thunder storm and electrical display of Sunday night was the biggest thing of the kind that ever happened in the Yakima country, according to what the most of the old timers say. The steady boom of Heaven's artillery and the vivid, repeated flashes of light-ning, amid a heavy down pour of rain, was, at any rate, a very nnusual thing

Some damage, it seems, resulted in different parts of the county as the result of the lighntning striking. Here in the city no harm was done outside of that suffered by the telephone company by the burning out of a large number of fuses. On the Mountain View ranch, owned by Fechter & Janeck in the Upper Natches, a pure bred Jersey bull, valued at $250, was killed. A. H. Bair, who lives on the Gleed ranch, in the Lower Natches, suffered a savere loss by Lower Natches, suffered a severe loss by having four cows killed by the lightning. one is through useing it, and a little care The residence of John Kelly on Nob Hill is said to have been struck. The by forest fires in summer by thousands damage however was small and is cov- or even hundreds of thousands of dolered by insurance.

A strange freak was played at a farm house on the Cowiche, occupied by a family by the name of Thompson. An iron bed stead on which two men were sleeping was touched with the lightning and partially melted. The men, strange to say, were not in the least injured.

The howling windstorm of Monday night, accompanied by some lightning, blew down a barn on the J. W. Peck ranch in the Moxee. In the orchard of J. H. Gano, a number of trees were up-rooted, while in various parts of the val-ley outbuildings were blown over. The wind did not last long but it was a pretty stiff one while it did last.

GAS PLANT FOR YAKIMA.

Council is Asked to Grant Franchises for C. B. Hurley and Associates Seek a Franchise From the City.

As may be seen from our report of the city council proceedings, to be found in another column, Chas. B. Hurley of Tacoma, president and general manager of the gas works of that city and part owner of the Everett Gas company, Councilmen Keck, Wyman, Harrison and Fisher were present, barely sufficient to constitute a quorum.

The application of Kellogg & Ford for a saloon license on lot 13, block 11, was read. On motion of Keck the petition was laid over two weeks. The application of Thomas Lund for a renewal of license for the Ranier saloon on South First street was read and on motion of Wyman was granted.

Peoports of street and ditch committee of that body.

Reports of street and ditch committee were read accepting the grading of Kittitas avenue by Dingle & Dimmick, the grading of South Sixth street by Pettijohn & Daniels and a sidewalk laid on the east side of South Second street by J. H. Kauffman. These reports were accepted by vote of the council. Subsequently, on motion of Keck the grading done on South Fourth street by Contractor McKivor was accepted.

A franchise ordinance was then read for the first time granting to Chas. B. Hurley and associates, the right to operate a gas making plant and to lay distributing pipes throughout the city. Mr. Hurley, who by the way is an extremely pleasant gentleman to meet, was interviewed by the Democrat Tuesday regarding his plans here. "Of course," said Mr. Hurley, "everything depends upon our securing a franchise. If we succeed we shall soon be at work putting in our plant and laying pipes. We expect to lay our main pipes in the alleys almost entirely so that we will intertere only to a very slight extent with your paved streets. Our business will be to furnish gas for illuminating and domestic purposes. We think that we will be able to show your people that they can use gas more economicalthat they can use gas more economically and comfortably for cooking purposes tinue to grow as you have the location and the surrounding conditions to make an important city. Our venture may not pay at first, but I believe that it will do so eventually, otherwise I would not care to invest my money. C. R. Collins, of the Seattle gas works, will be associated with me in this enterprise."

Mr. Hurley returned to Tacoma Tuesday night, but will return here

Cloud Burst at Heppner.

A great deal of interest was shown by Yakima people generally over the news this week from Heppner, Or., Moulton.

Bids were then opened for the construction of the proposed sewer in the alley between South Third and South Fourth streets. The bid of C. D. Lyon & Co. was $2254.20, that of Pettijohn & Daniels 2210. On motion the bid of the latter firm was accepted. This sewer will extend from Yakima avenue to Race street.

Bids were then opened for the laying of the Seventh street trunk line sewer. That of J. P. McCafferty & Co. was for $4636.66. Pettijohn & Dauiels' bid $4710. The McCaferty bid was accepted by the council.

Death of Walter Reddon. Walter B. Reddon, a well known bar-

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

Harper's Weekly is begining to show its teeth when discussing the chances of the Strengous One succeeding himself to the presidency. It has not, as yet, declared war upon the president but it seems to be placing itself in a position where it may open a fire upon Roosevelt on short notice.

In commenting on the Ohio episode the Weekly refers to Mr. Roosevelt as an "accidental president" and intimates that his demand upon Senator Hanna's convention for an endorsement a year in advance of the presidential nomina-tion was not only unusual but rather freakish. "Fancy," it says, "Tyler, Fillmore or Arthur making such a de-mand for recognition in the middle of their respective terms.

on the occasion of the dedication exercises. Every school boy in the United States knows, or is presumed to know, that President Thomas Jefferson made or caused to be made the purchase of Louisiana with its vast extent of terntory from the French government. Yet, Mr. Roosevelt in his long speech at an occasion called to commemorate the first century anniversary of this epoch making event merely mentioned the name of the great Jefferson but once and that only in a most casual way. Here was an excellent opportunity to arise to the occasion and pay a deserved and graceful tribute to the memory of the greatest constructive statesman this country has yet produced. But Mr. Roosevelt failed to do it. Instead he talked in glittering a eneralities about the Strenous Life and the great fortune in store for the construction. the great fortune in store for the country, providing that the Roosevelt ideas of statesmanship are closely followed by Roosevelt's antipathy to Jefferson is not by any means new, continues Harper's Weekly. In his life of Thomas H. Benton, written after be left college, he refers to Jefferson as a "shifty doctrin-aire" and in other references to this great man who drew up the Declaration aire" and in other references to this great man who drew up the Declaration of Independence intimates his belief that Jefferson was a good deal of a political demagogue. In that book he seeks to lay the blame for the reverses to American arms in the first part of the war of 1812 to Jefferson and Madison, which is a most unfair charge' since the federal or tory party of that day was alfederal or tory party of that day was almost unanimously opposed to the second General Wynne made representations perhaps. So after all it would seem that the president was at least consistent. One to read his book might think that Jefferson was a very ordinary Jim Crow sort of a politician instead of being one of the greatest and most far-seeing politicians who ever lived. From the Roosevelt speech at St. Louis one would never know that it was due to Jefferson that the United States secured the vast empire included in the Louisiana pur-

"The politician," who contributes a column of very readable matter for the Sunday Spokesman-Review, pays his respects to our neighbor, Col. Robertson, in the tollowing:

'Colonel W. W. Robertson, editor of the Yakima Republic, condemns the removal of Superlatendent Westendorf of the state reform school. Colonel Robertson waited until he had securely cinched an appointment under the McBride administration before he began to attack the source which bestowed the office. He attributes the removal of Westendorf, by some unknown mental process, to a diabolical plot of 'Deep Creek' Jones, the lone democrat on the board of control.

Colonel Robertson used to live at cated. In those days, however, he was a violent free trade democrat, and Grover Cleveland was his political idol. He was ready to defend anything and every ver Cleveland was his political idol. He was ready to defend anything and everything which Cleveland did, from the hauling down of the American flag in Hawiian islands to the midnight bond deals. Now he is a republican, a believer in protection, a triple plated expansionist and a firm opponent of hauling down the American flag wherever it is planted. Incidenally, it might be remarked that when Robertson was a democrat that party had some chance of success, and offices were in sight. Nobody more appreciates this glaring Nobody more appreciates this glaring fact than the now devout republican—Colonel W. W. Robertson.

THE thunder storm and electrical display seen here last Sunday evening was the grandest and most awe inspiring sight ever seen in this section of the country, say the old timers. It certainly was grand as well as an unusual exhibition to witness in Washington, calculated to remind the most of the country. ed to remind the most of us of what we used to see back east.

One of these wish to put in a gas plant with pipes intersecting the town in all directions to convey gas for domestic as well as illuminating pur-poses The other parties desire a franchise for heating and lighting.

Mr. Hurley, one of the projectors of the gas plant enterprise, said that if this city continued to grow in the next few years as it had in the past, he was satisfied that his proposed gas factory would pay. At any rate, he had, he said, confidence enough in the future of North Yakima to take a change in the North Yakima to take a chance in the event that he should be given a franchise by the council.

EDITOR Robertson, we believe, made a serious mistake under the circumstan-ces in resigning his position as a mem-ber of the St. Louis Fair commission. Whatever may have been his personal reasons for resigning it was hardly dealing fair with the people of Central Washington who are now left without a representative on the board.

It is possible, of course, that the editor of the Republic has not given to the world the real reason for his resignation. In the meantime the DEMOCRAT is willing to take the colonel's word for t and give him the benefit of the doubt. We will accept Colonel Robertson's reasons for resigning, even though to do so is to cast a reflection upon that gentleman's intelligence.

The policy that the city council has been adopting of late in giving individuals the right to run popcorn and peanut stands on street corners is not a good one. Indeed, so bitter was the feeling against that war in the the New England states, which were controlled by the federal party, that a convention was held at the city of Hartford which nct only bitterly denounced the Madison administration for bringing on the war but threatened to secede by taking the New England states out of the union.

However, Theodore Roosevelt in his allleged history of those troublous times makes no mention of these facts because forsooth, they did not suit his purpose or fit in with his preconceived ideas perhaps. I do not believe Cleveland will be a candidate, and I think that, if it becomes necessary, he will make an announcement to that effect. I do not think any man can secure the nominaman whom the convention regards as most available at the time it meets. With regard to issues, I believe we should present a conservative platform. I would not exclude the tariff issue but would not favor sweeping changes that would disturb business. Silver should be omitted entirely. It belongs to the past. I was an advocate of silver and believe in it now, but I realize that the time is at hand for us to make a conservative platform on which all can stand, dealing only with the present issues of

Hunt-Boyle.

At the Episcopal church in this city Wednesday at 9:30 a.m., Miss Daisy, the charming and accomplished daugh-ter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Boyle of this city was united in marriage to Mr. David T. Hunt of Tacoma, a traveling representative of the Simmons Hard-ware company. A number of invited guests attended the ceremony and the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. After the ceremony the bridal couple and a number of their friends sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast at the rectory after which the newly wedded pair were driven to the station to catch the 10:30 train. At the depot they were the recipients of much congratulation from a large party of friends who were well supplied with rice. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will reside at Tacoma.

Kelly to Mr. George Ketner, Rev. F. L. Hayden of the Presbyterian church officiating. After the ceremony the newly wedded pair and the guests to the number of 30, sat down to an elegantly prepared wedding supper. The happy pair are recently from Pueblo, Col., where the expect to make their future home. The bride came here with her mother three weeks ago to visit Mrs. Landon, an aunt. The Landon home was most tastefully decorated for the occasion. the occasion.

WEDNESDAY IS CIRCUS DAY.

Big Street Parade in the Morning at II O'clock.

Next Wednesday is circus day and the country lass and her beau will be in town early to enjoy with the city folks a gala day of amusement and pleasure. Norris & Rowe's Big Shows will be here. Since the days of our childhood circus, when old Dan Rice was the brightest star in the constellation of arenic celebrity, it has been the usage of traveling shows to give a street parade and although Norris & Rowe have nothing of the old school "flavor" about their shows, but a thoroughly up to date agcustom and give a grand parade each morning at 11 o'clock. The principle reason for continuing the old custom is that while they are giving their patrons a free treat they are by displaying their magnificent animals and equipage advertising their splendid performances and showing the wonderful growth of their aggregation since its former visit. The show is too well known to require a detailed description, suffice it say they always bring a multitude of new acts and novel features which are equally enjoyable to old and young.
