OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE much mooted question of Negro disfranchisement in North Carolina was put in a new light by Gov. Aycock at a banquet of North Carolinians in New York last Monday evening. The dissemination by the associated press of this speech in defense of the new constitutional provision relating to the limit of suffrage will prove a revelation to many who have denounced the measure from a political standpoint. Gov. Aycock said in part: "In 1900 we made good the determination of 1898. We adopted in that year the constitutional amendment, which bases suffrage upon intelligence and renders the future of the state secure. That amendment has provoked much discussion in the north. The attack upon us is based upon an assumption that we have done the negro an injustice. Our amendment does no such thing. We have recognized the power of the influence of heredity. We think that those who have exercised the privilege of suffrage and those descended from such people are more likely to exercise that suffrage than those on whom suffrage has been cast as a gift. The amendment to the constitution of North Carolina provides that no man shall vote in that state after 1902 who cannot read and write, but exempts from this inhibitory clause those who could vote on January 1, 1867, or at any time prior thereto, and those descended from such voters. This provision applies alike to white and black. Until 1835 the free negroes were entitled to vote. In 1800 there were and there are now, those who were slaves who cannot read and write, who can vote under the provision of our constitution because they were voters in 1835, and there are many thousands of negroes descended from such voters who can exercise suffrage, although they cannot read and write. Those who come of age after 1908, white and black, must be able to read and write, or they cannot vote. Our amendment is not aimed at the negro, an individual. It is mass voting that we seek to destroy."

SOME of the ultra republican papers have been sharply criticising the Oregonian for censuring President McKinley for bringing his invalid wife upon the long and tedious journey across the continent, resulting in the discontinuance of the tour and disappointing thousands of people, who, in all probability, never saw a president and will not be likely to have another opportunity to do so. To disinterested parties it would seem that the storm raised by these hero worshippers should be likened unto Spurgeon's old allegory of the man shearing a sow, the result netting "great cry and little wool." While the Oregonian was probably too severe in its criticisms of the president, it was in still worse taste for its co-workers in the good cause of the classes vs. the masses to use such a disproportionate flow of billingsgate in denunciation of Editor Scott. Taken by and large, Mr. Scott so far out-classes these sycophantic howlers, both as a business man and editorial writer, that their personal attacks will doubtless meet the contempt they deserve. When an editorial writer gets so far under control of a political party that he must see good in every act performed by individual members of the cult, high or low, he has lost his usefulness, and is a positive menace to society.

THE Oregonian, despite the outcries of its republican allies, continues to express its convictions on the high tariff humbug. Here is one of Col. Scott's latest gems: "Andrew Carnegie quits business with $200,000,000 in cash. How did he get so vast a sum? Primarily, through the favor of the government, which 'protected' him from foreign competition during long years while he used his opportunity to deny to labor its just share and at the same time to extort from consumers unconscionable prices. The donation of $10,000,000 which he is now making so ostentatiously in Scotland was taken away from those to whom it rightfully belonged in America. Observe that Carnegie got this money under pretense of 'protecting' the American workingman. It is a consistent outcome of the whole colossal fraud that the money now goes to Europe."

THE aesthetically cultured musician, who sees no beauties of rhythm outside Mendelssohn, Beethoven or kindred spirit-composers, may now take heart. A congress of the American Federation of Music has been held in the peculiarly rarefied atmosphere of Denver and a crusade formally started against the prevailing epidemic of "rag-time" tunes. There may be need of special effort in the attempt to nullify the growing popularity of this "uncultured" style of melody; but somehow it has gained such a hold upon those of us who love "song" better than "art," that it may be as hard to break away from it as to leave "those we love dearest and best."

THE recent phenomenal flurry in Northern Pacific and other railroad stocks on Wall street resulted variously for the parties speculating. Enormous fortunes were made or lost in a single day, and the most feverish excitement marked time to scenes of the most exciting speculations known in the annals of the street. The final result now shows J. P. Morgan and Jim Hill as the victors, resulting in a combination of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington roads, which fact now precludes the long hoped for construction of the latter railway through the state of Washington to tidewater.

FOR some inscrutable reason the associated press seems to almost ignore the Pan-American exposition now in full blast at Buffalo. Long before the opening and throughout the continuance of the World's Fair, the enterprise was boomed with column after column of matter, entering into the minutest details of plans, construction and various features of the great Chicago show; but the Buffalo exposition at most seems to "be damned with faint praise." In this neck o' the woods, the average resident hardly knows there is such an institution existent.

NOW that the contract has been let for the grading and paving of Yakima avenue, the people can congratulate themselves that the great eyesore of muddy pools on our principal thoroughfare has been relegated to the past. This work, while greatly needed, adds quite an additional burden to owners of property in the district to be improved, but business men will find that their gains in trade during the inclement season are at least proportionate to the amount invested. No better way can be devised of spending money for the benefit of the general public than in the improvement of highways.

IN the interview with Congressman Jones, on another page of this paper, it will be remarked that a proposition is likely to be made for the consolidation of the postoffices of North Yakima and Yakima City, which, if favorably received by the people, will bring about free mail delivery in the latter place at the same time it is inaugurated here. This is a matter of such moment that it would seem proper for the Commercial club to take it in hand and work for its accomplishment. The fruition of this plan would be beneficial in every way to all parties concerned.

FROM fifty to one hundred thousand skilled workmen are out on a strike—and their localities are as wide as the nation. British Columbia and other border Canadian towns, are expected to grow rich during the next year by reason of the enormous amount of work, heretofore performed in the United States which will be sent to shops across the line.

BY carefully protecting the lumber industry we have managed to denude our forests, make a few lumber barons rich and tax men enterprising and thrifty enough to build their own homes. Now Canada has the forests and we have the stumps and drouth and lumber combines.—Commoner.

OUR great and good friend, Abdul Hamid Woolomol, Sultan of Sulu and Defender of the Faithful, may feel slighted because he is not on the visiting list of the president during the present swing around the circle. However, Abdul Hamid Woolomol will call it square if his salary is slightly increased.—Commoner.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

John Shearer is nursing a sprained ankle, the result of a mistep in dismounting from his horse.

Saturday, June 1st will witness a match game of baseball between Walla Walla and North Yakima on the grounds west of town.

D. E. Lesh has men and teams at work constructing a ditch from the upper Ahtanum to water about two sections of land in Wide Hollow.

The Woodmen of the World have been challenged to a game of ball by the Modern Woodmen. The banter has been accepted, with dates as yet unfixed.

C. H. Bartlett is having a mammoth brick warehouse built on the railroad right-of-way on D street. The structure will be 50x170 feet, with a basement the full extent of the building.

A full house greeted the high school performance in the rendition of "A Scrap of Paper" at Larson's last Friday evening, and the play, from an amateur standpoint, was well rendered.

The Northern Pacific will shortly make a 100 foot addition to the freight warehouse west of the track for the accommodation of the largely increased shipments anticipated this fall.

At the dental parlors of the bridegroom, last Wednesday, Judge MacCrimmon united in wedlock Dr. James F. Stephenson and Miss Madge Christie, in the presence of a few close friends of the bridal couple.

John L. Druse and Miss Eva Courtwright were married in North Yakima last Tuesday. The groom is a son of D. L. Druse, the well known farmer of Nob Hill and the bride is one of the fair daughters of Yakima City.

Whitson & Parker this week received a letter of inquiry from an Iowa attorney requesting information as to the death and burial here of one Addison Cooper. Investigation failed to bring to light the record of the death of any such person.

The large new armory of Co. C will be formally dedicated on Friday, May 31. A street parade of the company, with various other organizations in the city, will occur in the afternoon, and the most brilliant ball in the history of North Yakima will take place in the evening.

Congressmen Foss, Dayton and Fordner, of Illinois, Virginia and Michigan respectively, passed through Wednesday afternoon on their return east from a tour of the coast. Mr. Dayton is an old schoolfellow of H. J. Snively, who, with Congressman Jones, met the party at the depot.

Moses Strong, an Indian, was in from the reservation Wednesday to have the sheriff look after a team of horses hired from him by Dave Collins and one McDonald, whose protracted absence occasioned the belief with Moses that they did not intend to return the property. So far the parties have not been located.

The special committee of the city council to whom was referred the settlement with the agent of the Austin Mfg. Co. for the recently purchased street machinery, settled the matter on Wednesday by authorizing the city clerk to draw a warrant in $2057.35 for payment in full, the claim before the council being $2092.35.

A meeting of bicyclists was held at the courthouse Tuesday evening and temporary organization of a club formed, with E. G. Peck as president and Fred McCoy as secretary. Committees were appointed to draft by-laws and solicit membership. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 28, when permanent organization will be effected.

Mrs. Eliza Remnant, for years a well known resident of North Yakima, died Sunday in Spokane, where she had gone a week previously for treatment for cancer of the throat. The body was shipped to this city for interment, arriving here Tuesday morning, and on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock was buried from the Methodist church, under the auspices of the order of the Eastern Star.

In the superior court at Ellensburg the action of the state vs. Robert Bridges, in the celebrated state land scandal, has been dismissed at plaintiff's costs. Robt. Bridges, who was formerly state land commissioner, was charged with fraud and conspiracy in connection with the sale of school lands, and the result shows that the charges were unfounded.

The funeral ceremonies over the remains of A. H. Struben were held at the Christian church last Sunday at 11 a.m. under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. and Woodmen. A large congregation assembled at the church to hear an impressive sermon by Rev. Crockett, and the orders of which he was a member were out in bodies and followed the remains to the final resting place in Tahoma cemetery, where the last obsequies were rendered.

H. J. Snively was summoned to Ellensburg last Thursday to assist in the prosecution of S. T. Wilson, a former normal student of that place, charged with the rape of Pearl, the 17-year old daughter S. R. Geddis, an old and well known citizen of Ellensburg. The crime, it is alleged, was committed in North Yakima some time in last August, and Wilson was arrested a few days ago in Oregon and brought back for trial. It is thought a change of venue may be taken to North Yakima for trial of the case.

George Findley, the colored bootblack, was before Judge Taggard Wednesday, charged with violating the ordinance requiring license to be obtained for such business when conducted on the streets or public places. H. J. Snively, who represented the defendant, attacked the constitutionality of the ordinance, the legality of which was upheld by City Attorney Snyder. The judge took the matter under advisement, and on Thursday morning discharged the prisoner, with an admonition to keep within the bounds of the law, but declined to pass upon the legality of the ordinance.

We desire to call attention to the advertisement of the Pine Creek Oil & Coal Co. The following is a portion of Prof. Aughey's report on the company's oil lands: "The flow of gas on the property discussed in this report, is sufficient in quality to justify the belief that gas or oil or both, exist at some depth beneath the surface in commercial and paying quantities. The indications for the presence of these hydro-carbons—gas or oil—in commercial quantities, is sufficient to justify capital to expend the sums necessary to drill from six hundred to twelve hundred feet or deeper, to test the matter fully. For my part I have never yet seen anywhere, such flows of illuminating gas from the earth, without the drill tapping a basin supplying gas or oil or both in commercial quantities, when the chances were taken to bore to the proper depth."

If present arrangements are carried out, work will be started next Monday under the Burlingame contract on the improvement of Yakima avenue. As the specifications require, the work will begin at Natcheez avenue and continue west to Front street.

Grand Chancellor J. D. Cornett, J. T. Foster, Harry Coonse, Robt Smith, F. H. Horsley and wife, and Dr. C. T. Dulin are among the Yakima contingent to the grand lodge K. of P. at Everett. Mrs. Dulin and child accompanied the doctor as far as Thorp, where she will spend a short time with relatives.

The slight rainfall of two or three nights in the early part of the week, followed by a copious downpouring Thursday night, make old-timers think the climate is changing. If this keeps up, it will certainly knock out all such subjects as "eight months of uninterrupted sunshine" and arguments referring to water sheds.

A party made up of Normal school pupils at Ellensburg, came down last Friday evening to attend "A Scrap of Paper" by the North Yakima High school. The party was composed of Misses Katie McKinney, Myrtle Phillips, Nell Krugel, Ray Wallace, Edna Dennis, Cora Rowland and Minnie Larsen, and Messrs. G. I. Wilson and George Harton.

A. J. Shaw left Thursday morning for Geyser, Ore. Mr. Shaw's trip was occasioned by the fact that he had received authentic information that he would be able to find and cause the apprehension of George Barrick, who jumped his bail bond last November, when he was under indictment for the murder of an Indian woman. Mr. Shaw is one of the unfortunate bondsmen who seeks to obtain relief.

THE CITY LEGISLATURE.

Improvement of Yakima Avenue Goes to Burlingame—Other Interesting Matters.

A large crowd assembled at the city hall Monday evening in anticipation of an interesting session of city council and at least some of them did not go away disappointed.

The mayor, clerk, marshal and all members of the council were present.

The first business, after reading and correcting the minutes of the previous meeting, was reports from the committee on streets and ditches apportioning the costs to various property holders of recent street and sub-sewer improvements heretofore published, covering three different assessment districts. Resolutions for the adoption of the various reports were duly and formally adopted, and the city treasurer was instructed to notify all parties benefitted by said improvements of the amounts assessed against them and collect the same. A petition was here read from petitioners owning property on east Yakima avenue to have the city pay half of the expense recently incurred in grading. The reason given for this request was that on streets running north and south lots of fifty feet frontage were required to pay the assessment on that frontage, while on those from east to west corner lots of 25 feet frontage had to assume the burden of payment for the full depth of lots, 140 feet. Mr. Weed asked to be excused from voting as a party in interest, but the resolution was adopted, Hall and Allen voting no.

W. P. Guthrie appeared on behalf of Dan Sinclair, asking to be relieved of assessment for sub-sewer on Sixth street on two lots formerly connected on another street, and on account of not having knowledge of the publication. Attorney Snyder stated that the protest was late, and that Mr. Sinclair should take the DEMOCRAT and keep posted.

The special committee on numbering houses in the city for the proposed free mail delivery recommended that they be numbered on the plan of one hundred to the block and the plan was adopted.

A resolution of intention for the grading of Moxee avenue from West A to West D street, three blocks, was laid over for proper petition.

An ordinance establishing a base and grade for the city streets, was read first time and laid over under the rules.

An ordinance providing for licensing theaters, concerts and entertainments was offered in amendment to the old ordinance. A. E. Larson appeared to argue in favor of the new ordinance, which provides for the taking out of annual licenses by theater owners, instead of for individual performances. This ordinance provides for the payment of $100 per annum, or $5 for each performance by the day or night. Passed, Reed voting no.

An ordinance amendatory of the old ordinance relating to dog licenses was introduced and read the first time and laid over.

A petition was read from M. B. Wilson asking permission to erect a public drinking fountain on Yakima avenue and First or Second streets for advertising purposes. The petitioner presented plans and specifications for the enlightenment of the council as to his intentions. The petition was granted on condition that abutting property owners do not object.

The council took a recess at this time to give the clerk an opportunity to open bids for the grading and macadamizing of Yakima avenue, resulting in the submission by E. C. Burlingame & Co. of a bid of $10,600 and by the Alcatraz Asphalt Paving Co. of Spokane $12,500.

On resolution offered by Donald the bid of Mr. Burlingame was accepted and the mayor and clerk were instructed to enter into a contract with him, requiring the contractor to furnish a bond of $5000, with a ninety day limit for the performance of the contract.

A bill was presented for the sum of $2092.35 by the Austin Mfg. Co., for roller and crusher. Mr. Donald stated some objections were made to the crusher on account of imperfections in the belt and carrier and said that it was considered by the council that on account of delays occasioned by rust of parts of the machinery, the company should pay part of the expense incurred in testing the plant. On motion of Hall the special committee heretofore appointed, was given power to adjust the matter and make payment.

It was moved and carried that a scraper of special design for street work should be procured.

Mr. Meyer, a resident on Schanno ditch, on the west side, addressed the council in a spirited manner, requesting the abatement of various nuisances in his neighborhood. The street commissioner and marshal were instructed to take the steps necessary to abate said nuisances.

The question of stock running at large in the city proved a fertile source of discussion on the part of the city marshal and several of the council, but no final action was taken.

Sinclair asked information regarding the appointment of a city plumbing inspector, but received none.

On inquiry of Donald, the city attorney stated that cities of the third class were not allowed to pay salary to councilmen.

The mayor took a decided stand in favor of reducing city expenses, saying that the city is going at breakneck speed and a halt must be called.

On motion of Weed the clerk was instructed to draw all future warrants on the current expense funds at the reduced rate of six per cent.

The health committee was instructed to prepare an ordinance forcing property owners in sewer districts to connect with sewers, doing away with open closets.

STATE PRESS OPINION

Local politicians are keenly disappointed in the statement that owing to the illness of Mrs. McKinley, the president will return to Washington as soon as Mrs. McKinley can endure the journey. The cause of the abandonment of the trip to the Pacific northwest by the presidential party is to be regretted, but there is little local sympathy with the politicians in being deprived of an opportunity to go on dress parade and hobnob with greater political guns.—Olympia Capital.

"The Sentinel" family believes in expansion. The editor's wife, Thursday, presented him with twin daughters. As a result the paper will be enlarged in the near future and thus accommodate our growing advertising patronage. Delinquent subscribers are kindly requested to help along in the cause by paying up and a year in advance.—Goldendale Sentinel.

An effort is being made by every resident on the Pacific coast to impress the president and his companions with the greatness of the region west of the Rockies. It looks very much as if Yakima and Klickitat counties promised too much to John L. Wilson in the late fight. The result will be that Agent Lynch will remain at the Simcoe Agency; the present store keeper will undoubtedly continue to do business at the old stand. United States Marshal Ide will be retained at Tacoma, and the Agriculturist may be correct in saying that Crocker will get the custom office at Port Townsend. Where will Senator Baker get off at if this proves to be a fact? We have no disposition to dabble in the cutting of the "pie" in the camp of the enemy, but we do like to follow the ambitions of a man who was broad enough to represent North Yakima and Goldendale in the State Senate.—Prosser Record.

The Oregonian's remarks yesterday morning, criticising President McKinley for bringing his wife on his trip to the Pacific, were thoughtless and unkind, and, taken in connection with the distressing news which came from San Francisco almost immediately seemed positively brutal. The Oregonian said that the president owed it to the public not to take an ambulance with his excursion train, and that embarrassment ought

House Work

Seems easy to a man, but there is a great deal of lifting and reaching to do; a great many trips up and down stairs to make in the course of day's house work. It's hard where a woman is well. For a woman suffering with some form of "female trouble" it is daily torment. There are thousands of such women struggling along, day by day, in increasing misery. The back aches, the head aches, the nerves are unstrung. But the work must go on, dusting, sweeping, scrubbing—must be done regardless of pain. And yet we wonder why a woman is tired and irritable, when she has nothing to do but take care of the house.

Every day swells the long list of the thousands of women who have found a complete cure of their disease in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It quiets the nerves by feeding them. It gives vitality and vigor to the womanly organism. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," and it contains no opium, cocaine, or other narcotic.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." If you want to experience the cure which other women have found in "Favorite Prescription," do not be deceived into accepting some so-called "just as good" remedy.

"Improving Every Day."

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1212 Bank Street, Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply, and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day."

There is every indication that the general public will never know the exact terms on which the great struggle in Wall street for control of the Northern Pacific was concluded. More stock was sold than was in existence, and deliveries were impossible. It is believed that one side retained absolute control of the common stock, while the other obtained shares enough to make a control of the common and preferred combined. An agreement has been reached apparently, of which the main features seem to be the unshaken control of the property by the Morgan-Hill interest, and the consummation of the Burlington deal.—Seattle P.-I.

The new exposition stamps are out and in use. The two-cent is printed in red with a railway train in black on a white ground; the one cent is in green with a lake steamer to represent the great transportation industry of the lakes, in which Buffalo is so much interested. The four-cent stamp is in red and brown with an automobile represented; the five-cent in blue has the picture of the new bridge at Niagara Falls; the eight-cent, in lilac, a picture of the dock at Sault St. Marie; and the ten-cent stamp in brown with a grand ocean steamer portrayed.

Having bought the news business of C. W. Liece I am now prepared to deliver to patrons the Seattle Daily Times, Tacoma Ledger and Tacoma News. Office, First street.

CARRIE NATION STYLE.

Outraged Husbands Demolished the Home-Destroying Shop.

In the richly furnished rooms at the back of her millinery establishment sat the mistress thereof, meditating in luxurious content upon the business of the day, which had been unusually large.

A few hats and bonnets, it is true, upon which the profit was hardly more than 200 per cent, had been sold, but they were old stock. The comparative loss on these had been fully offset by orders for a dozen or more fairy creations at the customary rate of increase over actual cost, and a satisfied smile rested upon the smooth, round features of Mme. Plom Plom, the acknowledged artiste in gorgeous headgear.

There was only one salegirl on duty, all the others having gone home, and when the front door opened and five or six men came in the madame hastily left her boudoir and went forward.

"Are you the owner of this establishment?" inquired the man who appeared to be the leader, in a gruff voice.

"Yes, sir," she replied. "What can I do for you?"

"You acknowledge, then," he rejoined, turning a wild frenzied gaze upon the show cases that lined the room, filled with costly specimens of the milliner's art, "that you carry on this unrighteous, home-destroying business, this fruitful source of misery, crime, and suicide! Woman! woman! Is there no way of reaching your heart? Do you ever stop to think of the happy homes you have broken up, of the prosperous men you have driven to bankruptcy, of the terrible evils you spread abroad in the land by catering to your sex's fondness for extravagance and gaudy display? Comrades, why do we waste a moment in useless delay? Let the work of destruction begin!"

Six hatchets which had been concealed beneath their overcoats, flashed in the air, and the madened men rushed at the showcases.

Their weapons crashed hideously through the plate glass.

They broke all the furniture in the establishment, piled bonnets, hats, ostrich feathers, artificial flowers and costly furbelows without number in a heap on the floor, danced upon them in savage glee, unrolled bolt after bolt of silk ribbons which they used as lassos to drag down the plaster casts on the shelves, and unheeding the shrieks of the terrified women, they chopped the counters into kindling wood.

Then, having reduced the interior of Mme. Plom Plom's emporium to a condition of hopeless chaos, the Bankrupt Husbands Association of Millinery Smashers gave three rousing cheers for home protection and reform, concealed the hatchets again under the overcoats, and went forth to renew the crusade at the millinery establishment in the next block.—Chicago Tribune.

Protection As It Works Out.

In order to protect its infant wire nail industry from foreign competition and protect German labor from the pauper labor of England and America, the German government vouchsafes to the German wire nail trust a protective tariff of 71.4 cents per metric hundred weight.

In order to protect its infant sugar industry from foreign competition and protect Russian labor from the pauper labor of everywhere else, the Russian Government enacts an indirect form of protective tariff to its sugar factories.

In order to protect our infant steel industry from foreign competition and protect American labor from the pauper labor of Europe, the United States Government grants the steel trust a protective tariff of $7.84 a ton on steel rails.

What is the result?

The German wire nail trust gets $2.70 per 100 pounds for its wire nails in Germany, and sells them abroad for $1.51.

The Russian sugar factories get 19s 11d per hundredweight for their sugar at home, and sell it abroad for 10s 4d.

The United States steel trust gets $35 a ton at the mills for its rails to Americans and delivers them in England for $24 a ton.

Germans pay 80 per cent more for German nails than foreigners do; Russians pay 100 per cent more for sugar than foreigners do, and Americans pay 50 per cent more for steel rails than foreigners do.

In this way the masses of each country pay high prices for what they use, in order to enable foreigners to buy the same product at half price. It will scarcely be contended that the steel trust is through poverty or inefficiency estopped from selling at home as cheaply as it does abroad. Mr. Carnegie's millions forbid it.

It is a happy thought that the blessings of American civilization are being extended to the ends of the earth; but it is rather overdoing the thing to compel American consumers to pay two prices for their goods in order to supply European consumers with bargains.—Oregonian.

HIGHWAYS TO WEALTH.

Farmers Prosperous In Communities Having Good Roads.

Good roads are the highways to wealth. If I could take you with me north, south, east and west, to where the beginnings of road improvement have been made, I could show you small farming communities growing rich in these hard times, contented and happy, and troubling themselves not at all with the great problems of finance which agitate their brethren. They have no time to waste in talk. If their fields are too wet to work, they go on the road. Their marketing is done in bad weather, and in rainy spells they bring from a distance cheap fertilizers to enrich their farms, such as marl, city refuse, etc. Philadelphia refuse is carried 20 miles on the stone roads.

In these fortunate communities every day brings its earnings to man and beast, for there is always paying work on a good road, and if a man has no hauling of his own to do he can get work from others, and good wages. Extend these conditions and imagine, if you can, the prosperity that would burst upon the country if every farmer and every farm team could earn a fair day's wages for every day in the year, rain or shine; if every farm could be cultivated and improved to its utmost extent.—Address by General Roy Stone.

Throneroom of Spain.

The throneroom of Spain is a magnificent apartment of crimson and gold, with colossal mirrors and a chandelier of rock crystal that is considered the finest example of the kind in the world. Under the gorgeous canopy are two large chairs handsomely carved and gilded and upholstered in crimson brocade. These are the thrones of Spain, where the boy king and queen regent sit on occasions of ceremony. Sometimes the daughters stand beside their mother, when it is proper for all the royal family to receive the court.—International Magazine.

Stories Going the Rounds.

In a little western town the other day the most popular citizen soundly whipped a tough customer, and to vindicate the majesty of the law the offender was brought up for trial. The jury was out about two minutes. "Well," said the judge, "what has the jury to say?" "May it please the court," replied the foreman, "we of the jury find that the prisoner is not guilty of intent of hittin' with intent to kill, but simply to paralyze; and he done it." The verdict was received with applause, and the prisoner had an ovation.

In a recent discussion on a certain railroad bill in the New York legislature Assemblyman Weekes of New York happened to say: "Now, suppose there was an excursion from New York to Buffalo and I wanted to go. Under the existing law, what would I have to do?" "Get a pass!" interrupted Assemblyman Frisbie of Schoharie. The roar of laughter which followed showed that the joke had not failed for lack of appreciation.

When Thomas Hart Benton, the noted Missourian, wrote his famous work, "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," his publishers wrote to him asking how large a first addition should be printed. His reply was: "Sir: They can ascertain from the last census how many persons there are in the United States who can read, sir." And that was the only suggestion he would ever condescend to make. Benton was massive in body and muscular. No man in public life was his equal in physical strength, endurance and courage. In reference to a quarrel in the senate, he once said: "I never quarrel, sir; I sometimes fight, sir; and when Benton fights, sir, there is always a funeral, sir." Benton bore the cognomen of "Old Bullion" because of his support of bimetallism.—Ex.

State Fair Notes.

The State Fair Commission has decided to erect a new art hall 40x100 feet. Bids will be received by the secretary for the construction of this building. The building will be more modern and of finer architecture than the others on the fair grounds.

The commission has selected some of the most competent men in the state for superintendents and judges of the different departments. Among them is Prof. J. A. Balmer of Cle-Elum, who is known as the best horticultural nomenclaturist in the northwest. He will act as judge of the fruits. Others of equal prominence are expected to accept the positions offered them.

A man will be sent out next week to work up the matter of county exhibits throughout the state. The commission has offered a purse of $600 cash for the best county display of Washington products. Several counties have signified an intention of entering the contest. It is expected that every prominent county in the state will make an effort to carry away some of the prizes offered.

The secretary is in correspondence with the several leading stock holders associations of the east trying to get the offer of special premiums for those having the same breeds in this state. The Shorthorn association of Springfield, Ohio, will give a special premium of $500 for breeders in the northwest. Efforts are being made to get similar offers from the Hereford, Jersey, Guernsey and other leading associations. The Oxforddown Sheep association have made liberal prize offers for breeders of that class of sheep in the state of Washington.

Special premium offers have come in this week from the Studebaker company of Portland, who offer one Studebaker road wagon, value $100, for the best exhibit of farm products, including fruits and vegetables, by grower. W. Atlee Burpee offers a cash prize of $20 for the best collection of vegetables grown from Burpee's seed. Other special premiums are being considered by dealers and manufactures and good offers will come in from every department. These will be made in addition to the regular premiums which are nearly double what they were last year.

The race track is becoming a very busy place and has the appearance of a regular race meeting. Nearly thirty horses are on the track or en route to the grounds. Several are to be entered in the early closing stakes for $1,000 in the trotting and pacing classes. Robt. Pryor of Ellensburg is the latest addition to the horsemen, having brought four fine animals for training.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, May, 17, 1901.

A most extraordinary promise was this week made the Cubans by the administration, through Senator Platt, of Conn., and the method of making it was as extraordinary as the promise. Senator Platt, just after an extended conference with Secretary Root, at which advices from Gen. Wood saying that the Cubans were hanging back about accepting the Platt amendment, waiting for some definite assurance of tariff concessions, were carefully gone over, gave out an authorized interview, in which he promised that Congress would, soon after the Cuban government was organized, arrange for a form of reciprocity with Cuba that would be satisfactory. Of course this was done in diplomatic language, so that in case congress fails to see reciprocity with Cuba with administration eyes it can be claimed that Senator Platt was only speaking for himself. But there is no doubt that it was intended for the Cubans to regard the promise as coming from the administration and the republican majority in Congress. It is understood that this promise was made because the Cubans did not consider a promise to negotiate a reciprocity treaty under the Dingley lay, which would require the approval of two-thirds of the Senate to become operative, satisfactory. It may be that the administration can make good Senator Platt's promise, but the sugar and tobacco interests of this country will be sure to make it a sizable job, and it may make trouble for Senator Platt in his own state, the tobacco growers of which would be affected to a considerable extent.

Such of the Washington relics which were taken from Arlington House at the beginning of the civil war, and which have been on exhibition in the National Museum for some years, as she desired were this week turned over to Miss Mary Custis Lee, representing her brother Gen. G. W. C. Lee, their legal owner, by the U. S. Government. Several of the relics, including one of Washington's tents, a treasure chest, a lantern, and a glass candelabra, were left in the National Museum, subject to the order of the owner. Gen. Fitz Lee, her cousin, accompanied Miss Lee in her visit to the museum. The final disposition of the articles removed from the museum has not been determined upon. This act of rightful restitution has not seriously injured the Washington exhibit, in the museum, as many of the articles were large pieces of furniture, which have been stored away, and others were duplicates of articles which properly belong to the government.

The alleged investigation of the commissary stealing, at Manila, is resulting in the old, old story. Some insignificant persons are being made scapegoats and the big thieves who have a pull, are not touched. Friends of the administration are pointing to the sentence of a sergeant to three years imprisonment and of a civilian employe to five years, as showing that the thieves are being punished, but thoughtful persons regard the news as indicating that the little thieves only are to be punished, while the big thieves are left at liberty to enjoy the fruits of their thefts.

Ex-Governor McCreary, chairman of the Kentucky State Democratic Committee, is in Washington. Asked what the democrat outlook in his state was, he replied: "The party is thoroughly organized throughout the state and is in perfect harmony. At no time has there been a better feeling within the party. At the election this fall I think we will carry the state by fifteen or twenty thousand, having a majority in both branches of the legislature, and a large majority on joint ballot. The legislature then elected will choose a U. S. Senator." If this prediction as to the legislature holds good, Gov. McCreary will be a candidate to succeed Senator Deboe. Speaking of g. o. p. claims of many converts in the south and the alleged growth of republican sentiment in that section, Gov. McCreary said: "I know that in Kentucky the tendency is not toward the adoption of republican policies. On the contrary, democratic sentiment is growing stronger in the South generally. The Southern people do not believe in high protection, in colonization, in a large standing army, nor in trusts. The more closely the republican party becomes identified with colonization, as exemplified in the Philippines; with the maintenance of a large standing army, and with the trusts, the stronger becomes the spirit of democracy in the South. The Southern people do not believe in these things and can have no sympathy with a party that is identified with them."

The administration deserves all the sympathy it is getting for the streak of hard luck it is up against, on its feminine side. With Mr. McKinley having to break his excursion off in the middle on account of the illness of Mrs. McKinley; the daughter of Secretary Long dangerously ill, in Colorado, and the wife of Secretary Gage seriously ill, in Washington, it looks like a veritable wrestle with a health hoodoo.

The President and Civil Service Reform.

The investigating committee of the National Civil Service Reform Association makes public a letter from William Dudley Foulke setting forth the facts in regard to Postmaster Hicks, at Philadelphia, and asking for his dismissal. Hicks has in several cases violated the civil service rule which provides that no person appointed as a laborer without examination under the civil service rules shall be assigned to work of the grade of classified rules. The civil service commission in 1899 called the postmaster-general's attention to the fact, but nothing was done then and nothing has since been done about it. In contempt of the postal laws and regulations that office-holders should not be guilty of offensive partisanship nor assume active conduct of political campaigns, Hicks is a Philadelphia republican ward organizer of the most active type, and has declared that office-holders ought actively to engage in politics, and that the civil service laws ought to be repealed. Hicks has discharged one of the postoffice employees because he refused to support a Hicks partisan in a contest for the nomination in one of the Philadelphia state senatorial districts, which was a violation on Hicks' part of the federal civil service law that denies to office-holders the right to use their official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body.

In 1897 Hicks removed thirteen democrats who were superintendents of branch stations, and made them clerks at lower salaries, thus forcing some of them entirely out of the service. This act was in violation of the civil service rules, which provide that no person in the executive civil service shall change the official rank or compensation of any person because of his politics, and no removals shall be made from the classified service except for just cause and reasons given in writing. Hicks made no charges against these men, and several of them held medals from the committee to award medals for the best sub-station. Hicks required all his subordinates to take out indemnity bonds from the National Surety Company, of New York, in violation of the laws of the United States providing that no officer or person having the approval of any bond shall exact that it shall be furnished by a guaranty company or any particular guaranty company. In clear violation of law, Hicks compelled the thirteen men appointed superintendents of sub-stations to sign a written agreement acknowledging that their appointments were temporary, and that the postmaster could transfer or reduce them at any time. When the commission sent its secretary to Philadelphia to make investigation touching the enforcement of the law, Hicks refused to answer any questions or give any information, and instructed his employees, under penalty of removal, also to refuse information. Hicks' sister was carried on the rolls of the Wayne (Pa.) postoffice at $600 a year, but doing no work, pending her transfer without examination to the classified service of the Philadelphia postoffice.

Mr. Foulke recited these facts to the president and submitted that "if such violations of the law are permitted to go unpunished, it will be construed as notice to the world that there is to be no enforcement of the civil service act in the classified service of the country." In 1898 a committee of the National Civil Service Reform League, after making inquiry, called the president's attention to the case of Hicks, but he refused to do anything. His attention has been called anew to this man Hicks and his further violations of the rules, and the law, and nothing is done. In other words, in contempt of the civil service rules, which make mandatory the removal of any person in the executive civil service who willfully violates the law or the rules, the president suffers Postmaster Hicks to defy and demoralize the civil service law with impunity. It is charged against the president by the National Civil Service Reform League that while many known violations of the laws and rules have been brought to the attention of the president, none of them have been punished, and that the only interest exhibited by the president has been in seeking to contract the scope and efficiency of the reform.

It was old Dr. Lyman Beecher that once prayed at a public meeting: "O Lord, keep us from despising our rulers; and O Lord, keep them from behaving so that we can't help it." The answer to this searching indictment of the president on the part of his friends who are not able to deny the facts will be that President McKinley may have his amiable weaknesses, but that he has always been true to "the grand old party"; that, like Colonel Yell, of Yellville, Ark., while he has not respected the laws of his country, nevertheless "his heart always beats true to his native land." This kind of plea for administrative lawlessness on the ground that the president is always true to the party flag recalls the anecdote of the old negro who arose in prayer meeting and said:

Brederin and sisterin, I bin a mighty mean nigger in my time. I had a heap er ups an' downs—specially downs—since I jined de church. I stole chickens an' water millins. I cussed. I got drunk. I shot craps. I slashed udder coons wid my razor, an' I done er sight er udder things, but thank the good Lawd, bredderin' an' sisterin', I nebber yit los' my religion.

Brother McKinley has never yet lost his political "religion"; he still keeps step to the music of "the grand old party," and his heart still beats true to his native land.—Oregonian.

Judge Rudkin returned Thursday from a ten days trip to the Sound.

L. W. Purdin, of Yakima, is in the city this week, the guest of his brother, R. L. Purdin—Ellensburg Dawn.

Mrs. Eliza Neal and Mrs. Fannie Scott went to Ellensburg Tuesday to attend the wedding of a young female relative.

B. E. Parton and family have removed to their reservation farm. Their town residence will be occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Burns.

Wool sales this week have been made by W. Mercer of 37,000 pounds at 9½ cents, and James Molloy 24,000 pounds at 8½ cents.

Next Friday, May 31, being the last day for the payment for the first half of realty taxes, the county treasurer's office is now a very busy place.

A patent was this week received at the local land office in favor of the N. P. R. R. for the John W. Walters forty-acre tract northwest of town, which has been under contest for a number of years.

A society of the Order of Washington, with B. F. Barge as president, Mrs. Fred Parker vice president, Mrs. Barbara Reed treasurer, and Rev. Robt. Thompson secretary, has been instituted in this city, with 25 charter members.

The fire alarm rang yesterday afternoon and the department ran to different parts of the city, with fire apparatus, trying to locate the blaze. It was at last ascertained that the alarm had been occasioned by the dense smoke from the engine flue in the DEMOCRAT office, as steam was getting up for press work. The employees of the office worked on, unconscious that the building in which they labored was supposed to be in danger. The wearied fire laddies returned to the headquarters, more than ever in earnest in insisting that a system of alarms should be adopted by which it could be known in which ward, at least, a fire is supposed to exist.

For Sale.

The Yakima Machine shop is now offered for sale. The size of ground is 50x140 feet. Main shop is 25x100 feet and in addition there are smaller buildings. The shop is fitted with a first class steam-power and have all the necessary tools as good as new. This is the only machine shop in the county and is doing an A 1 business. Reasons for selling are that other lines of business require all of our attention.

Professor Gentry Coming.

The Dogs and Ponies to Exhibit Here. Gentry's Dog and Pony Show will exhibit Friday, May 31, one day only.

Professor Gentry and his admirable company of dogs, ponies and monkeys have for a long time been very popular with our amusement goers—especially among the young element.

This season the Gentry entertainment has been greatly enlarged and improved and at present the company consists of 124 dogs, 63 ponies, 25 monkey actors and three small elephants, all of which under the careful tuition of Professor Gentry have been educated to give a most wonderful performance.

Among the many acts the Professor has added this season, is one that eclipses all of his former efforts and one which he terms the "Night Alarm." It is a fire scene, an every day episode in metropolitan life, in which animal actors take the place of firemen, the dogs and monkeys portraying the parts of life and property savers in a most exciting and amusing manner.

This is but one of the new features, and the program is said to be nearly all original.

It Carries the Current.

"If I were you, I wouldn't lean against that post. You might get hurt."

The speaker was a policeman, and the person to whom his words were addressed was a young fellow who stood under an iron awning with one hand resting on an iron post which helped to support the awning. The young man jerked his hand away quickly.

"What's the matter with the post?" he asked. "It looks all right."

"Yes, it does," responded the policeman, "and it may be all right. But it's iron, and its surface is wet from the rain that is falling. There are a whole lot of telephone and telegraph wires in the vicinity. One of them may be mixed up with an electric light wire somewhere and may also be rubbing up against some part of this awning. Understand? If it should be, the combination would be one that, with the water that is running down the post as a conductor, would be apt to put you out of existence. I've seen one man killed in just that way, and I really don't want to see another. That's all. Goodby."

Then the policeman walked off down the street, leaving the young fellow staring first at the post and then at the wires overhead. But as long as the saunterer remained under the awning he kept his hands away from the wet iron.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Not Wanting a Job.

When the late W. E. Gladstone was chancellor of the exchequer, one day he was in the shipping department of the government office getting some information and figures for the coming budget. While thus engaged a Sunderland shipowner called to see Mr. Lindsey, the then member for Sunderland.

While waiting for Mr. Lindsey to come in the shipowner got his eye on Mr. Gladstone and was watching him closely. After doing so a little while he thus addressed him:

"Thou seemst a good writer and clever at figures. I'll give thee £100 a year, and that's an offer thou'll not get every day!"

Mr. Gladstone thanked him and said he would see Mr. Lindsey.

Just then Mr. Lindsey entered. Then Mr. Gladstone told Mr. Lindsey of the offer his friend had made him.

Mr. Lindsey said it was a very good offer, but he did not know if Mr. Gladstone could be spared. Anyway he had better introduce them. Turning to his friend, the shipowner, he said: "Allow me to introduce you to W. E. Gladstone, chancellor of the exchequer—Mr. So-and-so, Sunderland." The amazement of the shipowner cannot be described. The Grand Old Man laughed immoderately.—London Answers.

Another Mystery.

"The study of the occult sciences interests me very much," remarked the new boarder. "I love to explore the dark depths of the mysterious, to delve into the regions of the unknown, to fathom the unfathomable, as it were, and to—"

"May I help you to some of the hash, professor?" interrupted the landlady.

And the good woman never knew why the other boarders smiled audibly.—Chicago News.

Facts of General Interest.

Mrs. McKinley has so far recovered that it is thought the return trip home will be undertaken today.

Ordinance No. 313.

An ordinance in relation to the licensing of theaters, concerts and operas within the City of North Yakima.

The City Council of the City of North Yakima do ordain as follows:

SEC. 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person, persons, firm, company or corporation to conduct, manage or superintend any theatre, concert or opera within the corporate limits of the City of North Yakima without first obtaining a license therefor as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. That the fees or rates of licenses for the conducting of theaters, concerts or operas within the city of North Yakima shall be One Hundred Dollars per annum or Five ($5.00) Dollars for each performance or entertainment, and may be taken out by the year or by the day, at the option of the person, persons, firm, company or corporation desiring such license.

SEC. 3. Any person, persons, firm, company or corporation conducting, managing or superintending a theatre, concert or opera, who shall violate the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding Twenty-Five ($25.00) Dollars.

SEC. 4. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Passed the council May 20, 1901.

Approved May 20, 1901.

Attest: H. B. DOUST, City Clerk. O. A. FECHTER, Mayor.

NORTH YAKIMA AS

CONGRESSMAN JONES HOME. He Talks on Topics Interesting the People of Yakima.

Hon. W.L. Jones, accompanied by his wife and two children, arrived in Yakima Tuesday evening, having made the return trip home via California and the Sound.

In conversation with a DEMOCRAT scribe, he more particularly discussed matters of interest to his Yakima constituents, stating, to begin with, that plans for a governmental building at North Yakima had been submitted by the official architect, the cost of which will be $170,000. This project will be called up at the proper time in congress, probably not before the division of the state into federal judicial districts, which, Mr. Jones said, would not be long delayed.

The question of opening the unallotted lands on the reservation, besides those lands recently acquired by the Indians, he stated was a matter which was receiving the serious consideration of the department. As the commission heretofore engaged in the work with the Yakimas had not proved entirely satisfactory to the secretary, a special agent would supersede the commission in arranging with the Indians for the purchase of the lands.

The rural delivery of mails, Mr. Jones stated, was not in operation in any other section of the state besides Yakima; and in this connection the congressman stated that a consolidation of the postoffices of North Yakima and Yakima City had been proposed, if it should meet with the acquiescence of the people. In this event, the free delivery of mail, which goes into effect here about July 1, would be extended to Yakima City, where a substation would be maintained.

The matter of reclaiming the arid belt by irrigation, Mr. Jones said, had been most forcibly brought to the attention of the last congress and had received more consideration than at any previous session. Engineering corps were at work in various sections of the country, and reports would be presented at the coming congress, which will probably take such action as will make large bodies of the arid public domain feasible for settlement.

He expressed great regret that harmonious relations were nonexistent between the sheep, cattle and farming interests in regard to an open range for stock on the Rainier forest reserve, saying that the disagreement of the parties in interest will probably result in the exclusion of all stock from the reserve.

Mr. Jones will remain here until fall, when he will return to the national capital with his family. He expects to visit Cuba and take in the situation of affairs before the beginning of next congress.

A GAME OF BALL.

The North Yakima and Ellensburg High Schools Indulge in a Return Match.

Ellensburg was down last Saturday, 150 strong—in fact, they were stronger when they came than when they returned. A special train pulled in at the depot at 9:30 a. m., having aboard the baseball team and "rooters" galore of both sexes. The colors of the boys from the "windy city" were flauntingly worn by the flower and beauty of the young blood, and bright visions of glories won on the "diamond" showed glistenly in the starry orbs of Ellensburg's fairest daughters. But, alas for human hopes, some one had to lose, and unfortunately for Ellensburg, it wasn't Yakima.

At about 2 p. m. the game was called at the ball grounds on Capital Hill, amid as gay a throng of interested spectators as ever witnessed an exhibition of the national sport. For a time it looked as though the lighter team from this city was "up against it," but the final wind up showed the score to be 15 to 14 in favor of Yakima, with half an inning to spare.

The players were:

No. Yakima	Position	Ellensburg
R. Shaw	catcher	Shoudy
Kinyon	pitcher	L. Weaver
Huckstable	short stop	Kuhls
Hoyt	first base	Daviscourt
H Shaw	second base	Mitchell
Norton	third base	R. Weaver
Wilkinson	center field	V. Weaver
Cook	right field	Satterwhite

Umpire—George Kohles.

Scorers—Jungst and Kreidel.

After the game the crowd returned to town and enjoyed itself in anything possible, until another kind of "ball", was played at Switzer's opera house, wherein the female visitors played as prominent a part as their male champions had engaged in early in the day.

After a enjoyable evening at dancing, our visitors, at 1 a. m., took the special for home. They probably, under the circumstances, did not have as good a time as their neighbors here, but expressed the utmost good feeling at parting.

let, with the Ellensburg colors resting gracefully at half-mast upon the instrument.

The steamer "Spokane" has been placed in service between Couer d'Alene City and St. Jo River points. The boat will make regular round trip leaving Coeur d'Alene Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, after arrival of train from Spokane. 32-4t
