REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING

St. Petersburg Fondly Hopes While Tokyo Is Sure of Victory.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 17.—Despite the feeling of bitter disappointment at the failure of the Russian offensive and complete miscarriage of General Kuropatkin's plans, the battle continues and his defeat does not appear to be so crushing and disastrous as Tokio telegrams led the Russian public to believe. While the tales of death and slaughter have plunged the nation into grief, the exact situation of Kuropatkin's army, especially the left is not clear, but probably it must be regarded as critical. It is evident the wild stories of the rout and cutting off of whole corps, etc., are baseless. Indeed, the latest official dispatches almost revive the hope that he does not consider the battle to be irretrievably lost.

JAPS BEATEN SUNDAY

Russian Courage Revives and the Little Brown Men Are Beaten Back.

MUKDEN, Oct. 17.—Yesterday the Russians were not only successful on the right but carried on brilliant movements on the left, where they assumed the offensive against the Japanese position at Soukhetung. The Petrovsky, Neuchlo and Wilminstran regiments stormed the Japanese trenches at Soukhetung and carried them after desperate resistance, capturing ten guns. The Japanese losses were enormous.

H. B. Rigg and Dr. W. H. Hare returned Monday night from a quiet cruise among the tall political timbers of Ellensburg in Kittitas county.

John E. Ryan returned last night from Seattle.

THE CITY COUNCIL

General Routine Business Transacted—The Petition for a Saloon on West Yakima Avenue Rejected.

The city council convened in regular session Monday night with Councilman Dudley, Fisher, Lane, Sinclair, Thorp and Rand present. Acting Mayor Rand presided over the meeting. After reading the minutes of the previous meeting which occupied considerable time, bids were opened for the construction of a sewer between fourth and Naches avenue. The bid of W. W. Pettijohn, at $1.08 1/2 per lineal foot being the lowest figure was accepted. The council was petitioned by the property owners living on Naches at the junction of Naches and Walnut street for an arc light at the intersection of these streets. A petition also by property owners for arc lights at the intersection of C and D on North Second and D and E on North Naches was presented. These petitions were laid over for two weeks.

A petition was read for the grading of Selah street from Yakima avenue north. The same was granted. A petition was also granted for the grading of Cherry street. A petition was granted for a wooden sidewalk on the east side of North Seventh street from the north line of A street to the south line of H street.

Tucker & Burns of Ellensburg petitioned the council for a saloon license to conduct a saloon on West Yakima avenue, in the building known as the West Avenue Hotel. There was a remonstrance entered signed by 92 names petitioning the council not to grant the license. The license was refused. The city attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance forbidding the granting of a saloon license on West Yakima avenue. A petition was granted for a wooden sidewalk on the south side of Walnut street from Seventh to Front.

A telegram was read from J. J. Chambers of Seattle guaranteeing a cash bond of $1000 to be filed with the city treasurer within 30 days from date of council granting an ordinance for a gas franchise. An ordinance submitted by Mr. Chambers, through a local representative and asking for a franchise of 50 years, was laid over by the council for two weeks. The street superintendent was instructed to complete the sidewalk on North First on the contract of the late G. H. Moulton.

T. A. Davis came before the council and asked them to extend the macadamizing of West Yakima across to Ahtanum avenue at the expense of the city. The matter was left to the mayor and city clerk to enter into a contract with Contractor McKivror for the work.

C. S. Mead wanted to buy ten acres of the new cemetery tract. The council thought it best to let the matter stand as it is and keep the land intact.

A representative of the R. L. Polk Gazetteer asked the council to take a two page ad in the new gazetteer which will be gotten out in 1905. The matter was referred to a committee.

The Herman plat addition to the city of North Yakima was referred to the street and ditch committee to be taken up at the next meeting. Council adjourned.

Young Ladies Will Entertain.

Thirteen popular and charming young ladies of the city have issued invitations to their friends for a dancing party to be given on Halloween night. The invitation is unique in the extreme and reads:

"Come to the Armory at half after 8; Be sure to come promptly—we can't have you late—"

For all of your friends, the gnomes and the sprites.

Will dance with you gaily on Halloween night."

The names of the young ladies who are giving the party appeared upon the invitation. Most of them are members of St. Margaret's Guild of the Episcopal church and are pleasantly remembered for the many enjoyable dancing parties they have given in the past. This dance, however, is not given under the auspices of St. Margaret's Guild. The guild has dissolved, not for this occasion, let it be understood. The young ladies are: Miss Ethel Burns, Miss Bessie Scudder, Miss Clara Graham, Miss Margaret Ray, Miss Janie Snively, Miss Myrtle Clark, Miss Susie Erwin, Miss Lucy Scudder, Miss Clara Waugh, Miss Minnie Larson, Miss Ursula Kenyon, Miss Lou Turnell, Miss Bessie Hall.

JAP ADVANCE CONTINUES

They Follow Up Their Advantage and Harass Retreating Russians.

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—It is reported from reliable private sources that the Japanese are continuing to advance and have occupied additional positions south of the Shaiki river. The left army occupied Wufukiatun at noon yesterday, dislodging four or five battalions of Russian infantry and several batteries of artillery, crushingly repulsing subsequent counter attacks. The artillery from the center and the infantry from the left army are harassing the Russian retreat. General Oku has attacked the main strength of the Russian right, with bases at Chian pass and Chuangtson and is now operating to block the Russian retreat along the railroad. Official confirmation of the above is not obtainable.

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—The Russians fiercely assailed General Oku's left column yesterday and made six counter attacks, all of which were successfully repulsed. At sunset when the last telegram was sent from the field, the Russians were advancing for the seventh attack. Field Marshal Oyama reports the Russian losses in these attacks as heavy.

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—The official estimate prepared at imperial headquarters places the Russian force engaged in the battle of Shaiki river at 200,000 infantry and 26,000 cavalry with 50 guns.

Value of Irrigation.

Prof. O. L. Waller, of the department of agriculture, has been engaged for several months in conducting a series of investigations on irrigation in the Yakima river district, comprising the counties of Yakima and Kittitas. In a bulletin, issued by the agricultural college experiment station, some interesting figures are given. A careful estimate shows that every 3.5 acres of that irrigated land supports one inhabitant, and the average assessed valuation is $61 per acre.

The Yakima river system covers an area of 320,750 acres that may be reclaimed and placed under profitable cultivation by irrigation. If this is accomplished the population could be increased 48,000 and the assessed valuation of the two counties would approximate $18,000,000. Such are the possibilities of irrigation in one section of Central Washington. By adding to the population several thousand, new homes would be erected and prosperity would smile on a thickly settled community of irrigation farmers.

Irrigation is valuable to the general farmer because it guarantees him successful seedtime and harvest. There is no element of chance in the work. The soil and water are under the control of the owner and the climatic conditions are always favorable. Skillful management and proper care in marketing the products insure success. The fruitman and the gardener may enter upon irrigated lands with full assurance of accumulating property. It is a safe proposition for the florist and nurseryman and other specialists in soil culture.

Intensive soil cultivation must be adopted to make irrigation a profitable investment. This decreases the land holdings and enlarges the possibilities of fertility in the fields. Many men who have failed to get along in the world on large tracts in the rainbelt states have opened up successful avenues on twenty acres of irrigated lands. The secret lies in the handling of the soil. It must be cared for in the same manner as other commercial investments. Large tracts force the farmer to scatter his operations while the small fields enable him to centralize his energies.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

DESERTS REPUBLICAN PARTY

R. E. Carrick Throws Brooklyn Mass Meeting into an Uproar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—R. E. Carrick of Brooklyn, a well known and loyal republican, has revolted from the party. At a large mass meeting held Saturday night in the Fifth district of the eighth assembly district at Dean street and Albany avenue he created a sensation by asking for the privilege of the platform to reply to Harold B. Smith, a republican speaker. It was granted and he proceeded to riddle the arguments of Mr. Smith. He then announced his allegiance to Parker and Davis and Herick and Harrison, and said that he could no longer support a party which had proved false to all pledges.

"For a score of years I have been a republican," said Mr. Carrick, "and I have been a believer in protection. But when protection is given to such infant industries as the steel trust, which is capitalized at a billion and a half of dollars, and which has made over two hundred multi-millionaires, all at the expense of the people of this land, I'm ready to forego protection and join hands with a party which regards American citizens as entitled to as many rights as foreign competitors.

"The protection that makes the American pay from 15 to 60 per cent more for American-made goods than it makes the foreigner pay is not a policy that makes for the good of this country.

"I'm for the democratic policy from this night, and shall work and vote for the success of the candidates nominated at St. Louis."

Mr. Carrick's sensational revolt threw the meeting into an uproar, and the 1100 men who were present showed so plainly that they did not care to listen further to Mr. Smith the speaker who had been interrupted, the meeting suddenly adjourned.

Chairman Palmer's last and greatest blunder is to publicly admit that Mead will run behind the electoral ticket nearly 19,000 votes, after claiming all summer that the Bellingham man would suffer very little from knifing at the polls. The Democrats, of course, are making good use of Mr. Palmer's estimate.

In this estimate Yakima county is put down to furnish Mr. Mead a majority of 500. Ye gods! If Palmer's estimate is made up of such calculations as this Mead's chance of being governor is about as slim as John L. Wilson's is of being senator.

The Lind Leader boasts that every business house in the live little town in which it is published as well as every tradesman of every description carries an advertisement in its columns—which is a good deal more than any or all of the newspapers in North Yakima can say.

It's a cinch that they have the right kind of people in Lind and that that smart little town will evolve into a city.

The roasting process mutually carried on between the Hon. H. J. Snively and the editor of the Republic is very interesting, but should not be permitted to distract public attention from the true issues of this campaign. So far as the argument has gone by mutual consent the laugh seems to be on the Republic man, no matter how people may differ as to the merits of the controversy.

Yakima County Was Traded Off.

Colonel Robertson of the Republic is not through explaining yet regarding his connection with the railroads, or rather his lack of connection, as he puts it, as well as of the other eighteen gentlemen who accompanied him to Tacoma last May to act as delegates to the Republican state convention, which all men now know was notoriously under the influence of the railroad lobby.

It is doubtless true, as the Republic asserts, that the Yakima delegation voted in the convention for the railway commission plank; indeed, it is a matter of record that the delegates did so. For this act, however, the leaders, such as Colonel Robertson and one or two others, deserve no commendation, as they claim, for the reason that they consented to do this as a matter of policy. In the first place they knew that the commission plank would be defeated anyway, even before the convention was ever called to order. In the second place some of the country members of the delegation were clamorous in their demands for the commission and in order to appease these men and keep peace in the family Colonel Robertson and his friends decided to go on record in favor of the commission. In the third place the leaders of the delegation feared the effect of opposing the commission in a convention vote, for they knew that if they did oppose it they would have to reckon sooner or later with the railroad commission men of their own party in the county and they feared, and now fear, such a reckoning.

The Weekly Democrat, since the adjournment of the Tacoma convention, has frequently taken occasion to discuss the record made by the Yakima delegation to the Tacoma convention. The conclusion that we have invariably drawn from that record is that the delegation acted from first to last with the railroad crowd, except in the single matter of placing itself on record in favor of a railway commission, when, as we have said before, the leaders knew that the commission plank would fail. This paper, however, has never hinted or never believed that the gentlemen who composed the delegation deliberately sold out to the railroad men or were personally corrupted in any way, unless contact with the light fingered and shifty gentlemen who ran the convention in the interest of the railroads is contaminating.

We do not believe for a moment that the Yakima delegates were animated with the purpose of personal gain when they traded this county off to the railroad lobby. They were, however, animated with the idea of political gain and so far as the effect on the Republican party of this county is concerned, the result is almost as bad as though every one of the 19 delegates had personally sold out to the railroad crowd. The result of a trade is generally just as far-reaching as a sale and that a trade was made at Tacoma, whereby Congressman Jones and Judge Rudkin secured their places on the ticket not one of the 19 delegates, we think, would have the hardihood to deny. Indeed, that such was common talk after the delegates returned home is a fact. The editor of this paper personally talked with the most of the delegates about the matter. One or two, if we remember correctly, denied having any knowledge that such a deal was made, while others freely admitted that the steering committee had tied the delegation up to the railroads in exchange for places on the ticket for both Jones and Rudkin. They not only admitted that this was so but justified the deal on the ground that the local candidates would have been "skinned" if the deal had not been made.

The situation then is simply this: That the natural and material interests of Yakima county were traded off in that convention for two high official places. In spite of all the hedging and dodging that these gentlemen may do this fact stands out clear and distinct. Every intelligent man in this county who takes any interest in public affairs knows this to be true and it is worse than useless to deny it.

We do not believe by any means that these delegates should have to take all the blame for this condition of affairs. Mr. Jones and Mr. Rudkin were both on the ground and knew and fully understood the great sacrifice of principle that the delegates were called upon to make in order that they themselves might be boosted into public office. Knowing, as they must have known, the great wrong that was being done the people of this county through this infamous deal they yet consented to it not only willingly but joyfully. Since they wish to accept the benefits of the deal they should be willing to accept the responsibility, in part at least.

On account of the policy pursued at Tacoma by the home delegation Yakima county is being held up to scorn in all parts of the state. Railroad commission men in all the great country north and east of us accuse Yakima of being the Judas among the producing counties of the state. They stood up manfully for their rights, while our representatives bartered away the birthright of their people for a mess of pottage and helped to keep their party in bondage and the people under the lash of the masters of transportation. Surely we all should hang our heads in very shame.

REPUBLICANS BADLY DIVIDED

On the Question of a Railway Commission—Joe Smith
Looks up the Record on that Issue all Over the State.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Returns received at the campaign headquarters in this city from Republican county conventions which have been held since the state convention at Tacoma, show that barely one-half of them have adopted in their platforms resolutions endorsing the state platform and ticket, that one has openly repudiated the action of the state convention, that two have voted down resolutions endorsing the state ticket, that seven are silent, that five of those which endorsed the state ticket did so in language purely perfunctory and accompanied that endorsement with the adoption of a railroad commission plank, and that several other conventions have in one form or another given evidence of very strong "Boxer" tendencies.

As might be expected, Whitman county went to the greatest length in giving vent to its indignation at the domination of the Tacoma convention by the railroad bosses. In its first county convention Whitman county adopted strong resolutions commending Gov. McBride and condemning the railroad lobby, and selected a delegation to the state convention pledged as individuals to do all in their power to secure McBride's nomination. Ignored, slighted and snubbed at the Tacoma convention those delegates returned home to spread among the Republicans of the county their feeling of indignation. This feeling became so general before the second convention was held that, despite the fact that the convention call excluded from participation in the primaries all persons who would not pledge themselves to support the state ticket, the second convention adopted this resolution:

Denounce the Lobby.

"As republicans who believe in political honesty and political decency we register our emphatic protest against the shameless and degrading influence of the railway lobby over the Republican party of this state."

Not satisfied with this denunciation of the results of the Tacoma convention the Whitman county Republicans went even further and refused by a significant majority, to adopt a resolution pledging support to the state ticket. Such a resolution was offered in the convention by J. N. Pickrell, the well known Whitman county railroad leader and voted down by a majority of 98 to 73. The resolution thus defeated was:

"Resolved, That we, the Republicans of Whitman county, state of Washington, in convention assembled, do hereby endorse the Republican nominees both state and national, and the platforms on which they stand, and we pledge ourselves to give each of them our individual support and to use all honorable means in our power to secure their election."

Next to Whitman county Stevens county went to the greatest length in its Republican county convention to express its displeasure at the results of the Tacoma convention. In the first Republican county convention in Stevens county the McBride faction of the party controlled by a narrow margin and had a hard struggle to secure the election of a full McBride delegation to the state convention. At the second convention the "Boxers" were in full and complete control as is evidenced by the fact that a resolution pledging support to the state ticket was voted down by a three-fourths majority of the convention. The resolution offered and voted down was:

"We endorse the ticket placed in nomination for the respective state officers at the Republican convention at Tacoma. Especially do we take pride in the excellent record of Hon. Albert E. Mead, and we believe we have in him a man eminently fitted for the responsible office of governor and we pledge him our hearty and loyal support in this campaign."

Many Had But One Convention.

Thirteen counties of the state nominated county officers in their first conventions and so held no second conventions. They are Chelan, Clallam, Clarke, Cowlitz, King, Pacific, Pierce, Skagit, Skamania, Snohomish, Spokane, Thurston and Walla Walla. One county, Mason, has not yet held its second convention, the date set for it being Oct. 15. Three counties, Columbia, Garfield and Island are not reported. This leaves 19 second conventions from which the reports are full and complete. Of these only four gave the state platform and ticket unreserved commendation and endorsement. They are Whatcom, Mr. Mead's own county, in which there is a bitter legislative contest on between the commission and anti-commission Republicans which threatens to lose Mr. Mead several hundred votes; Jefferson county in which Wm. Bishop, the only man who protested against the railroad program in the first convention was nominated for the legislature; San Juan, which is completely under the domination of John G. McMillan, one of the nominees on the electoral ticket; and Kitsap, which is dominated by E. C. Ames, the lumber mill magnate.

Chehalis county, it is true, endorsed the state platform and ticket, but those familiar with the conditions there understand that it was done by the "Boxer" element for the purpose of getting support for the "Boxer" county ticket. The situation is this: The "Holy-Rollers" secured complete control of the first convention, although the "Boxers," under the leadership of Ed Benn controlled one commissioner district, that in which Aberdeen is situated. The committee on order of business reported in favor of the selection of delegates to the state convention by districts. The "Boxers" reported a "Boxer" ticket from their district, but it was refused by the convention at large, and a delegation of "Holy-Rollers" from the district made up instead.

"Holy-Rollers" Overthrown.

These high handed methods so aroused the Republicans generally against the "Holy-Rollers" that in the primaries for the second convention the "Boxers" were overwhelmingly successful, and held a caucus four days before the county convention at which a full ticket was named, which ticket was endorsed by the convention without a break. An indication of the completeness with which the rule of the "Holy-Rollers" was overthrown in the second convention is contained in the fact that in the first convention the Republicans of Chehalis county declared against a railroad commission, being the only county in the state to do so. But in the second convention the platform was silent on this issue and Ed Benn, a well known commission man, was nominated for the legislature.

Five other Republican county conventions endorsed the state platform or ticket or both in language more or less perfunctory and in each case accompanied that endorsement with a virtual repudiation of the platform and ticket both by declaring for the passage of a railroad commission bill. These counties are Douglas, Franklin, Kittitas, Klickitat and Okanogan. In Douglas county the Republicans declared for an appointive commission in their first platform and an "effective and practical" commission in the second, a shifting of their position which is certain to be called to their attention locally during the campaign. The Kittitas county convention which gave the state ticket a perfunctory endorsement gave Gov. McBride, in the same platform a "heartily and unreserved" endorsement. It also declared for a direct primary law as a means of preventing a repetition of the scenes and results of the Tacoma convention.

The Klickitat county Republicans, who have always, heretofore, been opposed, in their county platforms, to a railroad commission, adopted in their second convention a railroad commission plank which they tacked to the endorsement of the state ticket and convention as if to condemn the Tacoma convention for not declaring for the same principle. Okanogan county also declared for a railroad commission.

Many Are Silent.

Seven Republican county conventions already reported are silent regarding both the state platform and the state ticket. Five of these lie in eastern Washington and two lie in western Washington. They are Adams, Asotin, Ferry, Lincoln, Lewis, Stevens and Washiakum. From this list it will be observed that no county bordering on the Idaho line and no county touching Spokane county has endorsed the state ticket. Asotin county, although refusing to endorse the state ticket and although declaring for a railroad commission, nevertheless turned down for renomination her representative in the legislature, Geo. W. R. Peaslee, one of the staunchest commission men in the present legislature. Lincoln county, although refusing to endorse the state ticket, turned down for renomination J. E. Howard, one of the ablest commission members of the legislature, and for nomination for state senator M. E. Hay, the Lincoln county leader of the McBride forces. Ferry county declared for in its first convention an elective commission in a straddling plank, but in its second convention warmly endorsed the state administration. Wahkiakum county adopted no platform but nominated a railroad commission man for the legislature.

These conditions and the action of these conventions indicate the very general character of the disaffection in the Republican ranks and the indignation felt by members of the party in all parts of the state at the domination of their party by the railroad influences.

JOE SMITH.

Don't Fail to Register. To-day is the Last Day.

The Need of a Commission.

If there was an honest railway commission in this state at the present time there would be no such great shortage of cars as exists in Yakima county at the present time. This car famine is costing the farmers and shippers thousands of dollars every day. Any man who is unbiased can see that this is a fact.

As Grover Cleveland would say, "It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us." If this were the first season that the business of our people had been paralyzed in this manner, it would not be so bad, but the same condition has existed regularly every shipping season for seven years, the only difference being that the fault is more aggravated this year than ever before.

It is all rot to say that the Northern Pacific railway one of the greatest transportation companies on earth cannot cure this petty evil. It can cure it if it wants to. As Senator Turner suggests it might use a portion of its $22,000,000 earnings of last year in building more box cars.

If we had a commission law in force it can be regarded as a cinch that the company's "empties" would be distributed in equal proportion, according to the demand, from the different points along the line in this state. The commissioners would at least have to do this much in order to hold their jobs.

If the people of Yakima county want a railroad commission the sensible way and only way to get it is to vote for only such men as they believe sincerely favor such a measure. They will never get it by continuing to vote for men who are double crossers.

Just so long as the Republican party of this county allows itself to be led around by the nose by a little ring of railroad politicians just so long may the members of that party expect to be dragged at the wheels of the railroad chariot.

Judging from the number of men in its employ who are "legging" for the ticket at so much per diem the Republican campaign committee of this county must have money to throw at the birds. Wonder where it all comes from?

This is the last day for registration. In case your name is not on the books by tonight go out and kick yourself.

Jones and the Commission Question.

Congressman Wesley L. Jones and Albert E. Mead, the Farrell-Grosecup nominee for governor, addressed a dismal crowd of about three hundred people in Spokane Saturday night. Mr. Jones reiterated in a milder form his oft-repeated statement that if a republican legislature is elected with George Turner as governor there will be no chance for the passage of a railroad commission bill because the republican majority would never consent to place the power of appointing a commission in the hands of a democratic governor. Mr. Jones has emphatically denied that he ever said that if he were a member of the legislature under such conditions he would vote against a railway commission. However, reputable republicans in Wenatchee declare that he made that statement there and reliable newspaper correspondents of the republican faith insist that Jones' speech was correctly reported.

A republican of Spokane stated several months ago that Congressman Jones on a Northern Pacific train between Spokane and North Yakima, as he was returning from the national capital, expressed himself to the Spokane gentleman in opposition to a railway commission of any kind.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Doomed to Defeat.

Although supporting the Republican national ticket, the Wall Street Journal boldly declares that the Republican state ticket in New York is doomed to defeat. The Journal says: "For ten years the state of New York has been in control of the Republican party. It came into power in 1894 as the result of a popular revolt against Hill and Maynardism. It will go out of power in 1904 as the result of a popular revolt against Odell and Odellism. No man, however able and personally worthy, can this year be elected who carries the brand of Odell. The nomination of Frank W. Higgins is fatal to the Republican party so far as its state ticket is concerned. Even the popularity of Roosevelt can not, we believe, carry Higgins to victory. It remains to be seen whether it may not even cost Roosevelt the electoral vote of New York. Fortunately he can be elected without it. Benjamin B. Odell in order to preserve his machine has been willing to run the risk of party defeat in the state, and so far as his attitude is concerned it is that of selfish indifference to the fate of the national ticket. But what will become of Odell if Roosevelt is elected president and a democrat is elected governor? In saying this we do not wish to be understood as reflecting upon the character of Mr. Higgins. Under different conditions he might, indeed, have made an excellent candidate. But we remember that Judge Folger was a good man, and yet under some such circumstances as now exist he was beaten by nearly 200,000 votes.—Commoner.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Politics the Main Subject of Discussion at the National Capitol—The Federal "Push" Working Hard.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.—As election day approaches interest in the campaign becomes more intense and little else but politics is heard in Washington. Ex-Senator Davis passed through Washington this week and was greeted at the railroad station by a number of prominent Democrats with the usual accompaniment of a brass band. The venerable ex-senator was looking his best and spoke most hopefully regarding the political situation, although he would not allow the newspapermen to quote him. He was accompanied by Senator Daniel of Virginia, ex-Governor Whyte of Maryland, who described himself as "a young man of eighty summers," ex-Senator Hill and several local Democrats as well as a corps of newspapermen. The vice-presidential candidate was on his way to "the invasion of West Virginia," where he is to follow the same route as that taken by the vice-presidential candidate of the Republican party some weeks ago, but the Democratic special train will make more stops. Much good is looked for from this trip. It is argued that Mr. Davis' popularity will go far towards turning the tide to the Democrats in West Virginia and well posted Democrats assert that if the vice-presidential nominee will follow his speaking tour with a very liberal contribution to the campaign fund the Republicans will be "snowed under" in West Virginia.

News of the Democratic national committee reaches Washington chiefly through the Democratic congressional committee, which has its headquarters in this city, but such information has thus far proven more accurate than much of the alleged news which has appeared in the New York press. The course of the campaign of William J. Bryan in Indiana will be watched with the keenest interest by all Democrats. Chairman Taggart expresses the utmost confidence in Mr. Bryan's sincerity and Messrs. Hill, Sheehan, Belmont and others believe that Mr. Taggart's confidence is not misplaced. There are those who insist that Mr. Bryan was disloyal in admitting that Parker and Davis stood no chance of carrying Nebraska. Mr. Bryan's friends, on the other hand, say that his course was not only warranted but was wise. They submit that a declaration that Nebraska would inevitably "go Republican" was no more disloyal than such an assertion regarding Ohio would be, coming from John R. McLain. Moreover, they insist that Mr. Bryan was wise in thus disposing of a futile effort to carry the electoral ticket in order that the entire force of the local Democracy might be concentrated on the effort to carry the legislature and thus recover the seat in the senate now occupied by Charles H. Dietrich.

A certain division of the work has been made among the Democratic leaders. Mr. Taggart will be held responsible for Indiana, Mr. Davis for West Virginia and the New York members of the national and executive committees will bend their energies to wresting New York from Republican control. The cry of "Odellism" is proving the greatest obstacle to Republican effort, the governor-chairman being a greater incubus on the neck of the Republican managers, even than was anticipated. Betting in New York is 10 to 7 on Herrie, the Democratic candidate for governor, which affords a striking illustration of the view taken by the New Yorkers themselves.

One of the important events of the past week has been the compromise submitted to by "Gasman" Addicks of Delaware, whereby his opponent in his own party is permitted to nominate the governor of that state and Mr. Addicks is obliged to content himself with naming the lieutenant governor. Possibly this compromise will lose the state for the Democrats, but they are hoping that the stigma of having Mr. Addicks' interest himself in the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks may more than offset, in other quarters, the three electoral votes of Delaware.

Information from Wisconsin to the effect that Ex-Governor Schofield, who received the nomination for Governor from the Stalwart Republicans, will not withdraw, as he has been urged to do by Senators Spooner and Quarles, is interpreted here as good news to the Democrats. Had the stalwarts withdrawn their ticket there might have been a chance of electing the Republican electoral slate, say the Democratic managers, but with two Republican tickets in the field the prospects for carrying the state for Parker and Davis are excellent and Wisconsin's thirteen electoral votes may be needed on November 8th. It is also believed that the quarrel between LaFollette and the Spooner-Quarles faction is certain to give the Democrats an additional seat in the senate. It is whispered in inside circles that Ex-Senator Vilas will be returned to the senate to succeed Senator Quarles by a fusion of the Stalwart Republican and Democratic members of the legislature. Mr. Vilas was a staunch Cleveland supporter and a man who commanded the highest respect from both parties. He has always stood high in Wisconsin and is the only man who could command the support of both parties.

The president remains in Washington, probably vainly looking for the marching clubs and campaign organizations which, earlier in the year, declared Oyster Bay would be unable to accommodate, but none of them has come. In view of the fact that the Republicans are in possession of all the "machinery" afforded by federal office holders, etc., they are making a very poor show of enthusiasm for their candidate.

Almost nothing is being done by the various executive departments in Washington, aside from their routine duties. Even the estimates for the coming year are being held up "until after election" and most of the members of the cabinet are absent from the city on spell-binding tours. The president has filled the vacancy in the cabinet made by the death of Postmaster General Payne by promoting First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne to the place, an appointment which does not prove popular with the politicians and is the occasion of the undisguised disgust of many members of congress who suffered from Wynne's "obnoxious activity" in the postoffice investigation. Of course Wynne is only a temporary cabinet member as he is to be succeeded by George B. Cortelyou when the campaign chairman has recovered from his efforts to elect Theodore Roosevelt.

Dissolve the Partnership.

In a speech recently delivered, Edward M. Shepard demanded "a dissolution of the partnership between the great corporations of the country and the United States government, a partnership most unworthily illustrated by the transfer of Mr. Cortelyou from the head of the department in supervision of the corporations to the chairmanship of a national committee which is in large part dependent upon those very corporations for its pecuniary support."

The Wall Street Journal, commenting upon Mr. Shepard's remarks, makes no effort to conceal its indignation and says in effect, that it is outrageous for anyone to say that there was any connection between the fact that Mr. Cortelyou was secretary of the department of commerce and labor and the fact that he was made chairman of the republican national committee.

Even the Wall Street Journal will, we think, admit that the appointment of Mr. Cortelyou under the circumstances, was, at least, not wise. We know that it was promised that under Mr. Cortelyou's administration of the department of commerce and labor, a thorough investigation would be made of the great trusts of the country. We know that since Mr. Cortelyou was transferred we have heard little or nothing of these boasted investigations. We read also in newspaper dispatches that the great trust magnates have, one after the other, declared in favor of Mr. Roosevelt. We are now told that the Morgans and the Rockefellers are working shoulder to shoulder in the effort to elect Mr. Roosevelt and that even Mr. Armour, of the beef trust, has recently announced his devotion to Mr. Roosevelt's cause.—Commoner.

The "Ice-Wagon" Candidate.

Was it a mere coincidence or an impending fatality that impelled Weston's ice-wagon to drive athwart Senator Fairbanks' line of vision, when he spoke from the Olympia hotel veranda a couple of weeks ago? The San Francisco Examiner, in an account of his meeting in that city, on the 4th inst., alludes to him as the "ice-wagon candidate," but bases the term on the utter want of enthusiasm that characterizes his meetings. It says the candidate utterly failed to impress his auditors as a public speaker, and the big crowd soon tired, and several thousand left the pavilion before the close of his harangue. It was a complete failure and the most truthful of the comments on the tone and temper of the crowd, called out at the largest city in the west to see a possible vice president of the United States, was: "Friendly indulgent, but not enthusiastic." It was the same here, brother, although the senator was doubtless cheered by the presence of his "old classmate," John Rea.—Olympia Standard.

What the White House Is.

To the American people the White House represents the personality of the president of the United States. To the politician the magic words may stand for the goal of an ambition too often associated with the deepest and most poignant disappointment, while to the historian the name may typify decisions that have marked epochs in the affairs of nations. In the mind of the people, however, the official character of the building has always been subordinate to its domestic uses. Popularly speaking, the White House is the place not where the president works, but where he entertains.—Charles Moore in Century.

A Mistake Somewhere.

"Is it true, Miss Gertie," he said, "that there are just two things a woman will jump at—a conclusion and a mouse?"
"No," she answered; "there is a third, Mr. Philip."
After thinking the matter over a few moments he tremblingly made her an offer, but she didn't jump at it. He was not the right man.

Not Appreciated.

Bjorken—It certainly seems to me that a man like Jackson, who has worked hard all his life and brought up a family of sixteen children, deserves a great deal of credit.

Bjorken—No doubt. But he can't have it at the stores.—Somerville Journal.

When you have eaten one apple dumpling, you feel like another. Wait a little, and the desire will disappear.—Schoolmaster.

Mythical Creatures of Japan.

The Japanese believe in more mythical creatures than any other people on the globe, civilized or savage. Among them are mythical animals without any remarkable peculiarities of conformation, but gifted with supernatural attributes, such as a tiger which is said to live to be a thousand years old and to turn as white as a polar bear. They also believe in a multitude of animals distinguished mainly by their monstrous size or by the multiplication of their members.

Among these are serpents 800 feet long and large enough to swallow an elephant, foxes with eight legs, monkeys with four ears, fishes with ten heads attached to one body, the flesh of which is a cure for boils. They also believe in the existence of a crane which, after it has reached the age of 600 years, has no need of any sustenance except water.

Costly Drugs.

Unless you are a druggist you have no idea of the value represented by a little shelf in the prescription department of a big drugstore. It is one of the wonders of the world that drugstores do not furnish the same temptation as banks to knights of the chisel. A pound jar of hyoscinine is worth just $2.24 the world over. Jaborine is a little less presumptuous as to price; it costs $1.50 a pound and is used to cause perspiration. Ergotine crystals cost the druggist the trifling sum of $5.60 a pound. They are made from the ergot of rye. Nareganine goes for $6.80 a pound. It is used as an expectorant in bronchial troubles and as an emetic.

Moon Superstitions.

Almost any old time farmer will tell you a worm fence built in the light of the moon and ascending node will worm around and finally fall down. If you want potatoes during similar phases, they will all go to tops and the tubers will be small and watery. This is the time, however, to plant cucumbers, especially when the sign is in the arms.

The carpenter of former times would not think of putting a shingle roof on a building in the dark of the moon, because the shingles would curl up, pull out the nails and soon leak like a sieve. Neither would he cut timbers for a house nor would he paint it until the sign was right.

Judge Fined Himself.

An English judge, Gwilym Williams, was a great stickler for form in his court, and especially that robes should be worn by solicitors. He was so insistent upon this that one day recently, when he ascended the bench without being duly robed, all in the courtroom knew that he must have been unusually engaged to cause him to neglect the matter. When the judge noticed the lack of his robes, he stopped the court proceedings, made a speech to the solicitors on the absence of his gown and wig and fined himself 10 shillings, which sum he immediately paid into the poor box.—Glasgow Times.

Greatest Battles of History.
Burke in his letter on "Natural Society" says that 8,714 destroyed 300,000 men in each of three battles, one being at Cheronia. The Persians are said to have lost 250,000 men at Platea. II Chronicles xlii, 17, records 500,000 slain on one side, which, however, I Kings xx, 26, tells of 100,000 men being killed on one side in a single day.

Isaac Pineus & Sons, through their representatives, Whitman & Scottell, bought 68 bales from Charles Porter at 30 1/2 cents. The market is firm. The orders for more hops, however, do not come in like they have been doing. A. E. Poole says the indications point to a higher price yet.

The Time to Rebuke.

Few republican speakers have attempted to argue that a railroad convention would not be a good thing for the state of Washington. The people of both parties believe that one ought to be created, and there is little doubt that the majority of them will vote for the candidate for governor who is openly in favor of a commission. The effort to excuse the action of the Farrell convention has been so weak and the shuffling attitude Mr. Mead has taken with respect to the creation of a commission has resulted in so much general disgust in both parties that there is now little doubt as to how the rank and file will vote.

Nothing has been done by the republican speakers or managers to quiet the resentment felt when the state convention was practically turned over to the railroad bosses. Acquiescence in railroad dictation, both as to candidates and platform, left a sore spot that has not been healed, and the determination to rebuke this surrender of party control to corporate influences is even stronger today than it was when the disgruntled delegates returned to their homes.

The evil resulting from railroad meddling with state affairs was never more apparent than it is this year, and republicans realize that there was never a better opportunity to rid their party of the vicious railroad influences that have so long been all powerful within the organization. It has been clearly shown that the party can not prevail if it is to be forever manipulated to serve the railroad interests, and now is the time to throw off the incubus by a wholesale repudiation of the acts and candidates of a convention that followed the orders of the railroad agents.—Spokesman-Review.

Only an English Visitor.

A showman who was on a tour through the Scotch highlands had the misfortune to lose a large gorilla which to save the trouble and expense of burial he left by the wayside not far from Pitlochry. Two highland drovers on their way to Perth came across the carcass, dressed, as it had been left, in its performing garb. Never having seen such a strange specimen before, they were greatly puzzled what to make of it. "What'll she be?" asked Tonal. "Weel," replied Tugal, "she'll no be a highlander or she wld hae a tartan plaid, and she'll no be a lowlander either or her trousers wld be gray." After consideration Tonal exclaimed: "I'll tell ye whit she'll be. She just pe a wee English veeisor and pe of nae consequence whatever."

"Come, now," said one of the bystanders by way of a joke. "I bet that you don't keep any spirit of contradiction, well stocked as you pretend to be."

"Why not?" replied the chemist, not in the least embarrassed at the unexpected sally. "You shall see for yourself." So saying he left the group and returned in a few minutes leading by the hand—his wife!—London Tid-Bits.

Rule Relating to Absence from School.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS:—The following is a rule recently adopted by the Board of Education and goes in force at once:

Any pupil absent or tardy from whatever cause, shall, on his return, bring to the teacher a written excuse from his parents or guardians stating the reason for such absence or tardiness, unless such parent or guardian shall make such excuse in person; and any pupil who shall have a total of four unexcused absence or tardiness marks may be suspended from the school, and can only be reinstated on the assurance of the parent or guardian that such pupil will not be absent or tardy without good reasons. The only excuse for absence or tardiness accepted by the teacher shall be the sickness of the pupil, sickness or death in the family, leaving the city with permission of parents, the religious observance of holy days, or the avoidance of imprudent exposure of health or equally good reasons, of which the superintendent or teacher shall be judge.
