CONTESTING ROADS SETTLE TROUBLES

Al. Condemnation Suits Between the Two Lines
That Have Been Before Court Will Be Withdrawn.

The contest over right of way from Granger and Union Gap between the North Yakima & Valley road and the North Coast was settled finally Wednesday morning by an agreement reached between President Donald and President Strahorn of the two roads, their attorneys and locating engineers.

After the two principals had decided to adjust their differences, if possible to reach an agreement, the problem that remained was largely one for the engineers of the two systems to work out, which they succeeded in doing.

The adjustment provides for a swap of several pieces of right of way in and near Zillah to straighten out the tangle. With this done each road will then be in a position to start early construction work.

The North Coast's road, which will be its main line, will occupy the right of way nearest to the Yakima river, which it will cross at or near Parker station. It will have an overhead crossing over the track of the Northern Pacific and will come through Union Gap on a parallel line to the west of that road, as originally planned.

Whether the North Yakima & Valley will come through Union Gap on the east bank of the river to this city, or find a route through the Moxee-Parker divide has not yet been made public, but it is generally assumed that the former route will be chosen, since Mr. Donald has already secured an option on right of way through the gap from Henry Lombard's Interurban company.

As a result of the agreement made this week between the Valley road and the North Coast all condemnation suits between the two lines that have been before the superior court for adjustment will be withdrawn.

FINANCE TROLLEY SYSTEM

Eastern Syndicate Will Acquire Controlling Interest in Stock—Believed That Lines Will Be Built This Season to Old Town and Fruitvale.

George J. Rankin, promoter and general manager of the Yakima Valley Transportation company, announced on Wednesday that he had at last concluded negotiations with N. C. Richards, attorney and financial agent for an Eastern syndicate, to finance Yakima's trolley line system.

Mr. Richards came here two weeks ago at the instance of Mr. Rankin. Since that time he has examined the proposition in every detail and has gone over thoroughly the proposed routes. He finally expressed himself as completely satisfied and then arranged the preliminaries of the deal with Manager Rankin.

The statement has been given out both by Mr. Richards and Mr. Rankin that the deal made will mean no change for the present at least in the operation of the road. It is the evident intention, however, of the Eastern syndicate to gradually acquire a controlling interest in the system. But for the present the arrangement is that the Eastern people, through their local representative, will take charge of all future building operations of the company and will furnish the necessary money.

The Eastern people, it is said, are abundantly able to finance the proposition, but are disposed to move along conservative lines, although they stand ready to extend the road any direction from this city where there is shown to be business enough to justify. It is believed by those with inside information that the trolley line will be extended this season to Old Town on the south; to Fruitvale on the north, and that the proposed Nob Hill loop will be completed to the west of the city. This would mean an increase in trackage of about 12 miles.

General Manager Rankin has worked most faithfully for two years to finance the trolley system, and has worked against heavy odds. Within the past few months the main difficulty has been to induce capitalists to put up the money to build trolley lines in this valley in competition with the numerous steam lines under way. However, the people who are now taking up the proposition understand the situation, but believe that there is room here for an extensive electric system just the same.

Big Deal in Tieton Land

H. J. Snively and Ed J. Hackett, through John D. Morrissey, real estate agent, sold 440 acres of sage brush land on the Ahtanum ridge recently to L. Stevenson and F. Nelson, two Alaska men, the total consideration being $61,600.

The tract will come under the Tieton canal and is good fruit land. The purchasers will, it is understood, cut the land up into 10-acre tracts and place the same on the market.

Mr. Hackett's portion of the big tract was purchased several years ago from the Northern Pacific at a cost that now seems trifling. Therefore he realizes a very handsome profit. Mr. Snively only recently purchased his portion from J. P. and E. B. Marks, but cleaned up $2000 on it.

To Double Power Capacity

The Northwest Light & Power company contemplate many improvements and additions to their plants in the near future. A large power plant costing $50,000 is to be installed at Naches City, which will develop an additional 10,000 horse power.

A powerful electric plant is to be installed on the Cowlitz for power on the mountain division of the North Coast.

Negotiations are also under way for the purchase of property in the south part of the city for car barns, shops and general buildings.

It seems that the street railway system will be a part of the North Coast and arrangements have been made with Eastern capitalists to furnish the money to pay for the many improvements contemplated.

RECLAMATION SERVICE IS NOT SATISFACTORY

Sec. Ballanger Thinks the Work Should Be Under Supervision of Man With Knowledge of Law—Refused Signature to Contracts.

A Washington dispatch to the Portland Oregonian of last Tuesday states that Chief Engineer F. H. Newell stands a good chance to lose his job at an early day, owing to the dissatisfaction of his superior officer, Secretary Ballanger, with what is termed the "loose" administration of the reclamation bureau.

It is asserted, however, that Secretary Ballanger has found no evidence of crookedness or corruption in the administration of the reclamation service, but it is plainly intimated that he has discovered much evidence of incompetency and extravagance and a tendency to conduct the bureau without due regard to law.

While the secretary holds the chief engineer personally in high esteem, he has apparently reached the conclusion that the reclamation service needs for its head a man of large executive capacity and with a knowledge of law. In short a man used to handling large operations in construction affairs.

It is said that the secretary recognizes the marked ability of Mr. Newell as an engineer and is anxious in behalf of the government to retain his services in the capacity of a consulting engineer, as Mr. Newell, of course, has a special knowledge of the details of all pending work.

Chief Engineer Newell visited North Yakima about a month ago. It was made quite clear at that time to a few people here who were favored with that gentleman's confidence that friction had already developed between the chief engineer and his superior officer, the new secretary of the interior. The latter, it seems, when he had been in office but a short time severely criticized certain methods he found in vogue in the reclamation service, and he sharply declared that many things had been done unlawfully, or rather without the authority of law. He emphatically refused to ratify several contracts passed up to him for his signature, a class of contracts that had been ratified by his predecessor in office, Secretary Garfield, without question.

Mr. Newell conveyed the idea that under the former administration he had conducted the reclamation bureau under personal orders and instructions from President Roosevelt, who had always taken a very deep interest in irrigation matters, and was extremely anxious to push the work along. "There may be no law for it," the president would often say to Mr. Newell, "but there is no law against it; push it along."

But it is clear enough now that that system don't go under Taft and Ballanger. Both are lawyers and sticklers for form.

The new president at the very outset adopted the system of holding his cabinet officials responsible for the acts of all inferior officers and served notice to that effect. The result has been that numerous bureau chiefs have been brought up with a sudden jerk, and apparently many of them don't know yet where they are at, among the number Chief Engineer Newell.

It is not believed by Mr. Newell's friends here that that gentleman will consent to play second fiddle hereafter in reclamation affairs, and that he will shortly resign from the service.

Pupils Graduate

An audience of over 1000 people, the friends and relatives of the graduates, witnessed the graduating exercises of the senior class at the high school last Wednesday evening.

Thirty students received diplomas and four scholarships were awarded for merits in studies. The address of the evening was made by H. C. Sampson, president of the Cheney normal school, on the subject "What Is Worth While in Life." The diplomas were presented by D. M. Rand, president of the school board.

Ernest Wiley was awarded a scholarship at Whitman college, Miss Mattie Oertli received a scholarship from Puget Sound university and Miss Bertha Greenhalgh a one-year scholarship from Puget Sound university. Ben Bessessen won a four-year scholarship at Spokane college.

The following pupils composed the graduating class: George Dolph Barnett, Benjamin B. Bessessen, Faye Lenore Beam, Alexander James Gamble, Bertha Pearl Greenhalgh, Glenn George Griffiths, Florence Ellen Jones, Harry Kern, Elsie Elizabeth McCullough, Earl Von Vlack McMechan, Louis Prentice Mattoon, Walter Glenn Martin, Lora Augusta Melvin, Virgil Nneca McWhorter, Mattie Elizabeth Oertli, Norma Purl (Foster), Blanche Mable Rutt, Irvan Lanker Shiley, Peter James Shipley, Mattie Vaughnie Simmons, Eloise Stacy, Earl Arthur Waugh, Mabel Florence Weatherbee, Ernest Leroy Wiley, Elizabeth Cordelia Wert and Harry Haight Zimmerman.

Peter Nelson, Corporation Fighter

Peter Nelson, a pioneer resident of the upper Kittitas valley, where he located in 1881, was in North Yakima this week on business and made The Democrat a pleasant call. Nelson Siding, the station located between Cle Elum and Easton, is on his farm and between the station and his residence is the track of the Milwaukee road. Mr. Nelson has a splendid dairy farm, much of which he hewed out of the virgin forest.

Several years ago the Northern Pacific company began an action to oust Mr. Nelson and his brothers, John and Henry, from their homesteads, located on an odd-numbered section, the railroad contending that it was entitled to the land under the provisions of its land grant. But the Nelson brothers were not to be bluffed out and under the leadership of Peter, employed Col. James Hamilton Lewis as their counsel and fought the railroad clear through, finally winning a favorable decision from the supreme court of the United States, after ten years of weary and expensive litigation. The Nelson case has ever since been regarded in court and land office practice as a test case and has doubtless influenced the decision of many similar suits. It took nerve and grit to fight the case through for so many years, as against a gigantic corporation, but Peter Nelson had the "sand" to do it, and hundreds of other pioneer settlers under similar conditions have reason to thank him for it.

The warm weather of the past two weeks has been melting the snow in the mountains. However, the Yakima and Naches rivers are not dangerously high as yet.

NEW STATE LAWS ARE DRASTIC

Chapter Pertaining to the Issuing of Marriage Licenses is Especially Radical—Blue Sunday Laws in Effect.

Today, June 12, a number of most drastic laws, included in the new criminal code, passed by the last legislature, become effective.

The only business places which will be allowed to operate on Sunday will be livery stables, garages and works of necessity or charity. Saloons and places for the sale of personal property are specifically mentioned as forbidden to remain open on Sunday. Barber shops will not be considered as doing a work of charity.

No women will be allowed in a place where liquor is sold, all screens and obstructions must be removed from the front of saloons. Professional nurses must be examined and licensed by a state board. Insanity will no longer be considered a defense for any criminal act.

Perhaps the most radical of the new provisions in the civil code is that regulating issuing marriage licenses. That chapter provides that no woman under the age of 45 or man of any age, except he marry a woman over the age of 45, shall marry who is a common drunkard, habitual criminal, imbecile, feeble-minded, insane, afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis in an advanced stage or with several other contagious diseases.

The county auditor will hereafter require that applications for marriage licenses be accompanied by a certificate from a physician as to the health of both parties to the marriage and an affidavit from a disinterested person that they are not drunkards or habitual criminals. The penalty for persons marrying in violation of these provisions is a fine of not more than $1000 or imprisonment of not more than three years.

The section referring to tipping is as follows:

"Every employee of a public house or public service corporation who shall solicit or receive any gratuity from any guest shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Every person giving such a gratuity shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

"Every person who shall manufacture, sell, give away or have in his possession any cigarettes, cigarette papers or cigarette wrappers shall be guilty of a crime."

The provision against the employment of children makes punishable any person who employs a boy less than 14 years old or a girl less than 16 years old unless the boy or girl has written permission from a judge of a superior court.

A Real Fistic Encounter

Col. Ed Parker, the Kentucky orator and financier, and W. B. Guthrie, circulation manager of the afternoon paper, got into an altercation on Chestnut street Thursday morning, which furnished a good deal of amusement for a small crowd of bystanders, although the humorous side of the affray probably did not appeal to the active participants. Col. Parker is a splendid specimen of physical manhood, while Mr. Guthrie is rather diminutive in size, although a solidly built little man.

Col. Parker, it is said, disputed the accuracy of a bill presented by the newspaper man, and, taking exceptions to some remark made by the latter, reached out his mighty right arm and, catching the newspaper man by the collar, gave him a severe shaking, so vigorous, in fact, that Guthrie suddenly shed both collar and necktie and his immaculate shirt front was split in twain.

First round for the Colonel and the dignity of "Ole Kaintuck" seemed for the time fully vindicated.

It took the diminutive Guthrie a few seconds to recover from the shock of the sudden onslaught but as soon as he did recover there was something doing. Like the billy goat in the story, Guthrie had backed off a few paces to collect his scattered wits and survey the situation. Then he let out a hoop and came upon his giant antagonist under a full head of steam, and if reports be true, head first.

The Colonel, evidently not looking for a return attack, was obliged to receive the full force of the terrific impact on his broad basket, a very sensitive point, especially with your true Kentuckian. The result was that the Colonel suddenly lost control of his center of gravity and the bystanders say his splendid proportions were duly registered in the dust of Chestnut street.

Spectators say the last and final round, according to all the rules of the

AGAINST DEFICIENCIES

State Law is Mandatory on That Subject—List of Institutions That Make Deficiencies.

Civil and criminal liability—Any officer, trustee, manager, director, superintendent or commissioner, enumerated, who shall violate the provisions of this act by creating a deficiency, incurring a liability or expending a greater sum than is appropriated by the legislature for any public institution or department of this state in any one year, shall be individually liable for the same, and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $1000.—The Law.

Following is a complete list of the deficiency appropriations asked by the last legislature:

Railroad commission, $2000.
Governor for exposition, $3500.
Horticultural commission, $1855.65.

Eastern Washington hospital for insane, $15,000.
State library, $1565.

game, should in all fairness be credited to Guthrie. They say it was a most exciting and interesting contest between a featherweight and a heavyweight.

M. JUSSERAND TO BE ENTERTAINED

Arrangements Going Forward for Reception for the Dis- tinguished Diplomat.

An elaborate program of entertain-ment has been prepared for Jean Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to Amer-ica, by the Commercial club of this city. Mr. Jusserand, accompanied by his wife, is expected to arrive in North Yakima the latter part of the week, although he has not stated definitely the date of his arrival.

The distinguished diplomat is making a tour of the Pacific coast and the Northwest and while at San Francisco presented to the people of that city in behalf of the French government a gold medal commemorating the reconstruction of their city, which was visited by the earthquake and fire a little over three years ago.

Plans for M. Jusserand's entertain-ment while here have been forwarded to the distinguished man for his ap-proval. The entertainment provides a trip to Nob Hill, the Moxee, to Parker and to Zillah, where lunch will be served by Walter Granger. From there he will be taken to Toppenish, where three or four hours will be spent. The agent at Fort Simcoe has agreed to give the ambassador a program of entertain-ment by the Indians, in which will be in-cluded horse races and Indian sports. Returning to North Yakima, a dinner will be served at the Yakima hotel, fol-lowed by a reception in the Commercial club rooms by members and their wives.

Prof. C. J. Blanchard, statistician of the reclamation service, is arranging the itinerary of the trip and Dr. Thomas Tetraen, Frank Horsley and H. P. James are on the committee to carry out the plans.

The irrigation projects of the Yakima valley is the only irrigation district which the ambassador will visit while on his trip and it is planned to show him all of the workings of the system.

HABITS OF THE RICH.

Examples of Millionaire Extravagance in the Metropolis.

Zola in his youth, before fame came to him, wrote some stories about mil-lionaires, wherein it seemed to him he exaggerated shamefully in his descrip-tions of the costly homes and habits of the rich, but later on, when Zola be-came a friend of millionaires, he found that his accounts of their extravagance had fallen far short of the truth.

In the same way stories about the extravagance of American millionaires that sound like exaggerations may also fall short of the truth. Here, for in-stance, are some facts that an interior decorator of New York supplied the other day. They sound extreme, but let Zola be remembered.

A man bought for his hall twelve antique marble columns at Pompeii. Finding he could use only eight of the columns he had the remaining four de-stroyed, although he was offered for them twice what he had paid. He had paid $5,000 apiece.

Aubusson carpets, with a pile three inches thick, are often made to order at a cost of $40 a yard. Such a cost, though, is nothing beside what is or-dinarily paid for antique rugs. They, measured by the yard, often cost $500 or $600 a yard.

Chairs of ivory inlaid with wood are occasionally sold at $500 apiece.

One millionaire's piano cost $150,000. A five inch band of ivory, four years in the carving, runs around the case, which was decorated by Everett Shinn. The gold and silver plate of one household requires an expert to look after it. The man is a goldsmith, and his salary is $2,000 a year.

Billiard rooms sometimes cost $50,000 to furnish. The tables and cues are inlaid with ivory and gold.

Certain wines—Schloss Johannesberg, for instance, stamped with the crest of Prince Matternich—are sold at private sales to millionaires for $40 and $50 a bottle.

Automobiles of ninety or more horse power, made to order, will cost from $30,000 to $40,000. Some millionaires keep a dozen or more automobiles, with a head chauffeur at $4,000 or $5,000 a year salary and two or three assistants at $25 a week each.

Then there is the ocean going yacht, which cannot be maintained in the most modest way at a smaller annual expenditure than $25,000—New York Press.

WEB OF THE SPIDER.

The Many Uses to Which Its Singular Spinner Puts It.

Spiders form good subjects for rainy day study, and two hours spent in a neglected garret watching these clever little beings will often arouse such in-terest that we shall be glad to devote many days of sunshine to observing those species which hunt and build and live in the open fields. There is no in-sect in the world with more than six legs, and as a spider has eight he is therefore thrown out of the company of butterflies, beetles and wasps and finds himself in a strange assemblage. Even to his nearest relatives he bears little resemblance, for when we real-ize that scorpions and horseshoe crabs must call him cousin we perceive that his is indeed an aberrant bough on the tree of creation.

Nature has provided spiders with an organ filled always with liquid, which on being exposed to the air hardens and can be drawn out into the slender threads which we know as cobweb. The silkworm incases its body with a mile or more of gleaming silk, but there its usefulness is ended, as far as the silkworm is concerned. But spiders have found a hundred uses for their cordage, some of which are start-lingly similar to human inventions.

A list of all the uses of cobwebs would take much space, but of these the most familiar is the snare set for unwary flies—the wonderfully inge-nious webs which sparkle with dew among the grasses or stretch from bush to bush. The framework is of web-bing, and upon this is woven the sticky spiral which is so elastic, so ethereal, and yet strong enough to entangle a good sized insect. How knowing seems the little worker as, the web and his den of concealment being completed, he spins a strong cable from the center of the web to the entrance of his watertower. Then, when a trembling of his aerial spans warns him of a cap-ture, how eagerly he seizes his master cable and jerks away on it, thus vibrat-ing the whole structure and making more certain the confusion of his vic-tim.

Those spiders which leap upon their prey instead of setting snares for it have still a use for their threads of life, throwing out a cable as they leap to break their fall if they miss their foothold. What a strange use of the cobweb is that of the little flying spi-der! Up they run to the top of a post, elevate their abdomens and run out several threads, which lengthen and lengthen until the breeze catches them, and away goes the wingless aerona-ut for yards or for miles, as fortune may dictate! We wonder if he can cut loose or pull in his balloon cables at will.

A most fascinating tale would unfold could we discover all the uses of cob web when the spiders themselves are through with it. Certain it is that our ruby throated humming bird robs many webs to fasten together the plant down and lichens which compose her dainty nest.

Search the pond and you will find another member of the spider family swimming about at ease beneath the surface, thoroughly aquatic in his habits, but breathing a bubble of air which he carries about with him. When his supply is low, he swims to a submarine castle of silk, so air tight that he can keep it filled with a large bubble of air, upon which he draws from time to time.

And so we might go on enumerating almost endless uses for the web, which is nature's gift to these little waifs who ages ago left the sea and have won a place for themselves in the sun-shine among the butterflies and flow-ers.—C. William Beebe in New York Post.

Lowell's Motto.

In a eulogy which appeared in the Century Magazine just after Lowell's death are these words: "This is Low-ell's legacy as a patriot, not the senti-ment, 'My country, right or wrong,' but 'My country—it shall never be wrong if I can help it.'"

TO KEEP FRIENDS.

Be Interested in Them, but Never Descend to Curiosity.

If you would have friends be inter-ested in them.

There is a difference between interest and curiosity. Never be curious.

Interest asks nothing, but is glad of others' joys and sorry for others' mis-fortunes. Curiosity seeks to find more than is written upon the surface, seeks it for the purpose of distribution, for innocent slander.

One's friends like one to be interested. They detest one who is curious.

To be interested in those one meets needs but to wish them well.

To see the best of those about us will cause us to wish them well.

To our wellwishers we pour out our joys and sorrows. They are interested. They understand.

The interested friend always under-stands. The curious acquaintance never sees through motives. The curious one is blinded by his own interpretation of causes and his prejudiced view of results.

Don't, therefore, seek to know what is hidden. If your friend conceals something from you he has a reason for doing it. Prove your interest and your lack of vulgar curiosity by trust-ing him in spite of the concealment.

Those who are truly interested and never curious are surrounded by friends.—Detroit Tribune.

A CITY WITHOUT TAXES.

All Its Expenses Are Paid by the Income From Its Property.

In the Black forest of Germany is the little city of Freudenstadt, with about 7,000 inhabitants, a busy industria place with iron and chemical works of some importance.

Small as it is, Freudenstadt is a full fledged city, with a mayor, aldermen half a dozen policemen and a fire en-gine. The public business is conducted on an economical basis, and the to-tal expenses do not exceed $5,000 in a year.

Freudenstadt has the distinction of being the only city in Germany and per-haps in the world which does not tax the citizens a shilling for munici-pal expenses. The yearly net revenue from the public property covers all the expenditure.

This property consists of about 6,000 acres of fine forest, which, being man-aged under the best forestry methods is a permanent source of income. One or more trees are planted for every one that is cut down. No tree is cut till it can yield the maximum profit.

After deducting all the expenses of the industry the annual profit to the acre is about $1.—Pearson's Weekly.

The architect cannot live by the in- junction to make no plans for the fu-ture.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

BRIEF TWILIGHT.

At the Equator It Lasts Only a Little Over an Hour.

As twilight is caused by the refra-c-tion of the atmosphere, without which we should be instantly in darkness at sunset, all parts of the earth have twi- light, though of varying duration. When the sun has sunk eighteen de-grees below the horizon no more light can be refracted anywhere, but the path of the sun at the equator is so nearly vertical that its disappearance is pro-portionally rapid.

The shortest twilight at the equator is one hour and twelve minutes at the equinoxes in March and September; the longest is one hour and nineteen minutes at the solstices in June and December.

In London from May 22 to July 21 it is twilight all through the night. No wonder, with a disparity so great, people speak of night in the tropics as coming on almost suddenly. Farther north still, in the Shetlands and Nor-way, we speak of the midnight sun, where men never lose sight of the orb of day and twilight is unknown.—Lon-don Spectator.

PAINTING THE WORLD.

Indian Legend of the Way Spring Came Into Existence.

Once, long before there were men in the world, all the earth was covered with snow and ice.

White and frozen lay the rivers and the seas; white and frozen lay the plains. The mountains stood tall and dead, like ghosts in white gowns. There was no color except white in all the world except in the sky, and it was almost black. At night the stars looked through it like angry eyes.

Then God sent the spring down into the world—the spring with red lips and curling yellow hair.

In his arms he bore sprays of apple blossoms and the first flowers—crocus, anemones and violets, red, pink, blue, purple, violet and yellow.

The first animal to greet the spring was the white rabbit. The spring dropped a red crocus on his head, and ever since then all white rabbits have red eyes.

Then the spring dropped a blue vio-let on a white bird, the first bird to greet the spring, and that is the way the bluebird was made. Ever since then it is the first bird to arrive when the spring comes down from heaven.

So the spring went through the world. Wherever he tossed the leaves from his fragrant burden the earth became green. He tossed the blossoms on the frozen seas, and the ice melted, and the fish became painted with all the tint of his flowers. That is the way the trout and the minnows and the salmon became gaudy.

Only the high mountains would not bow to the spring. So their summits remain white and dead, for they would let the spring paint only the sides.

The snow owls and the white geese and the polar bears fled from the spring, so they, too, remain white to this day.

Postmaster Lemon Orders
20,000 of Special A-

Within a few days Postmaster Lemon of the local office is expecting to have on hand a special Alaska-ukon-Pacific issue of two-cent stamps, 20,000 of which have been ordered.

The special issue authorized by the postoffice department is of one demoni-ation, the two-cent variety, and will be given out only on special request.

The new issue has been meeting with popular favor at Seattle, where over 139,000 were sold in four days after their receipt. The stamps are to be had by any of the postoffices in the coun-try and are being shipped out from head-quarters as fast as the mills can turn them out.

HORSE HAVEN PROJECT.

Government Investigator Is Making Thorough Inspection of District.

S. O. Jayne, irrigation investigator for the United States department of agriculture, who was in Prosser last week, where, in company with E. D. Mineah, one of the heavy land owners of the Horse Heaven district and pro-moter of the Land Owners association, he has made a partial investigation tour of the district.

The Horse Heaven district comprises an estimated acreage of 800,000 acres, and it will take several months to go over the entire territory. This project is larger than all government projects of the Yakima valley combined, and it is declared by Mr. Jayne to be one of the greatest undertakings ever called to the attention of the government authorities.

A trip will be made later to the Klickitat river and to its source near Mount Adams, where the investigation regarding reservoir sites will be taken up. Mr. Mineah believes that there is sufficient water through the normal flow of the Klickitat to irrigate all of the land of Horse Heaven. The re- search work in the Horse Heaven dis-trict will take fully more than a year to complete.

The rolling land between the Yak-ima and Columbia rivers and gradual-ly sloping from the top of a bluff, 1,100 feet above Prosser to the Columbia river, is especially adapted to fruit growing and irrigated crops. Most of the land is situated on the line of the Northern Pacific and Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroads, and shipments of wheat from Prosser and Kiona are be-ing handled. Reports received since the recent rain are that a good wheat crop is looked for throughout the Horse Heaven country.—Prosser Record.

OREGON HOP CROP TO BE ABOUT ONE-HALF

Growers Hold Firmly for High Prices and Future Advance on Poor Outlook.

Portland, June 9.—Oregon hop men are alarmed over the condition of their hop crops as this year there may be only half a crop, or about 60,000 bales. Contracts have been signed for about 40,000 bales of the coming crop and the remaining growers are holding firmly for higher prices.

The market for futures on the strength of the poor outlook has ad-vanced from 9 to 13 cents a pound in the last two weeks.

For Tomato Blight

Now that transplanted tomato plants may seem to be effected with blight, we give our readers a formula which Isaac Mumma says will destroy it every time: Take whale oil sufficient to make one gallon of strong suds, put in two table-spoonsful of coal oil and 20 drops of carbolic acid, and with this solution spray the vines. He and others in this city who have tried it say that it gives satisfaction and will destroy the blight.—Ellensburg Dawn.

There will be a basket social held at the new M. E. church Saturday evening, June 12. The proceeds will be used to help pay for the church. Everybody invited.

Miss Mae Jacobs and Hubert Sandose left here quietly Saturday morning and were married by Morton L. Rose at North Yakima Saturday.

Services were held in the new M. E. church last Sunday morning and evening for the first time.

LOWER NACHES.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Newman gave a farewell party to their niece, Miss Mayme Weyser, last Wednesday evening at their home. About a dozen of the honored friends were present and a delightful evening was spent at whist. A dainty lunch was served at a late hour. The guests departed, wishing "bon voyage" to Mayme, who left on the 10 p. m. train Thursday.

Mrs. Harry aBir came home from the hospital Sunday. She is getting along finely, is up and about the house.

The C. E. society held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Hatfield home. An unusually large number were out and great interest taken in the business, after which a program was given, including vocal and instrumental music, by Mr. Smith, Mr. Hatfield, Mr. Chapman, the Misses Smith, Dull, Hatfield, Bair, recitations by Ira Patterson and Mrs. Patterson. A lunch of ice cream and cake was served. The meeting was a success and tends to draw our young people into the society.

Mrs. Josiah Howson is fast recovering. She took a short ride Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kushan entertained Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Whitman, Miss Whitman and Miss Addie Whitman at dinner last Sunday.

The tree planted by the pupils of the lower school on Arbor day is growing fine. It is to be hoped it will be watered and cared for during the vacation, so their labor will not have been in vain.

Gus Lawson has stained his house and painted the trimmings white, making a very attractive and pleasing appearance.

At the church last Friday evening was held a meeting of all ranchers who let their waste water run into the Glead ditch. The trustees of the Glead ditch called the meeting to see what could be done about the waste water. After a meeting of the trustees of the Glead, there will be another meeting of the ranchers to take some action in the matter. And while this matter is up, why don't some of the ranchers take some means to keep their waste water out of the public roads, instead of having a mud hole or duck pond in front of their ranches and so have our public highway in an impassable condition. Let each one care for his own waste water.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling have moved on to their new ranch, a part of the Leonard place.

Miss Mayme Weyser leaves the last of this week for her home in Kansas City, Mo. She says she is coming back soon "probably to live."

Miss Iva Howson, daughter of Chester Howson, died at the sanitarium last Tuesday night after a brief sickness. She was a young lady of high principles and sterling worth, and a great favorite with all of her friends, both old and young, and will be greatly missed. The community sympathizes with the family in this time of their sad bereavement. They came early and in bunches, those who attended the picnic of the Ladies' Aid society at the Glen Iris ranch Wednesday.

It was a perfect day and the picnic grounds under the large trees, beside the running water, being an ideal spot, the large crowd present all had the time of their lives, from the men who played ball to the women who played gossip. The program was good; music, vocal and instrumental, reading, recitations, etc., was a success. All went home pronouncing it a "good time."

Dr. Adair is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kushar this week.

Gus Lausen and Harry White and families moved into their new home on the Wilhargus ranch last week.

Mrs. George Nelson has returned from Portland, where she has been to see her mother, who is quite sick.

Mrs. Frank Barker and son, Howard, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Newman.

The Grange held an ice cream social last Friday evening at the Dobie school house. A good program was enjoyed and, of course, the cream and cake. A good crowd was out.

Rev. Whitmore has installed a water wheel on his ranch, The Willows, near Rowe's Hill.

Sadie Jacobson spent Sunday at home. She brought Miss Ethel DeMott out with her for the day. They returned to town Monday morning.

THE INIQUITOUS ALDRICH BILL.

The methods of Aldrich and his crowd in the senate in tariff making is fast disgusting tens of thousands of republicans, especially in the middle west. The people of that section were led to believe in the national campaign last year that the republican organization was sincere in its pledge to revise the tariff downward. The national platform of that party promised the people a fair and equitable revision and this was supplemented in numerous speeches of Candidate Taft that the promised revision should be downward and in the interest of the consumer. In all the prairie states a large and influential element of the republican party has for many years not only warmly favored, but has urgently demanded lower tariff duties in the interest of the agricultural classes and consumers generally. This element, which really holds the balance of political power in at least 10 states, was held in line last year through loyalty to Roosevelt and faith in the promises of Taft. This element is now intensely dissatisfied with the outrageous provisions of the Aldrich-Payne bill and are even more drastic in condemnation of it than the democrats. This low tariff element of the republicans is represented in the senate by such men as La Follette of Wisconsin, Dooliver and Cummins of Iowa, Turckett and Brown of Nebraska, Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota, Bristow of Kansas and to a lesser extent by Burton of Ohio and Beveridge of Indiana. It must be confessed that these men have been more efficient as well as more bitter in their denunciations of the Aldrich-Payne monstrosity than have the democratic senators, who coming mainly from states of the south, have been shrewdly disarmed by the scheming Aldrich, who has given them protection in his bill for certain raw commodities produced in the south. Accepting these petty gratuities from Aldrich these southern senators have been estopped from criticism of the bill. This is the most pernicious form of legislative bribery and is a hundred fold more dangerous than the old method of buying needed votes with cash. Every democratic senator who has yielded to the blandishments of Aldrich should be driven out of public life. But it is unlikely that they will be, for most of the southern states, while nominally democratic, are really governed by an oligarchy, the cornerstones of which are aristocracy and wealth. Real democracy cannot have permanent relations with such an institution as this, and the sooner the rank and file of the democratic party discover and act upon this fact the better it will be for the country.

THE SPECIAL SESSION.

Our accidental governor has at last made good his threat to call a special session of the legislature. The solons are therefore called to meet at Olympia June 23.

The ostensible purpose of the governor in calling the special session is to impeach and bounce Schively, the petty grafter in charge of the state insurance department. The real purpose of the governor is believed to be his desire to secure legislative endorsement of his questionable scheme of "cabinet" government for the state and to secure the submission of his plan in the form of a constitutional amendment. A secondary purpose of the governor is undoubtedly to demand a thorough investigation of the office of state land commissioner, presided over by his political rival, Ross. The pretext that Schively's case demands the special session is, of course, insincere, as Schively is about to be tried at Spokane on a criminal charge and if convicted, as he probably will be, the governor would then have the power to declare his office vacant and to name his successor. The opinion appears to be generally held that the governor has acted unwisely to call a special session at this time. The present legislature has forfeited the confidence of the people because of the record it made for incompetence and extravagance at the regular session that ended in March. The sorely tried taxpayer was disposed to shout for joy when the time limit was called on the legislature and while he felt like a plucked chicken he consoled himself by thinking that as the law breaking body would not have the opportunity to rob him again for two years he would be left unmolested to produce a new crop of feathers. But alas, the accidental governor, for reasons of his own, has knocked that fond hope of the taxpayer.

The legislature will assemble on June 23 and will remain in session as long as it cares to do so. That the members once assembled will fight and scrap all summer is clearly evident. The present legislature, although almost solidly republican, is a factional body and the members have many scores to settle among themselves. The feeling was intensely bitter at the adjournment of the regular session and there has not been sufficient time since to produce a better feeling. So there is really little reason to expect good results from the special session. Nor is it likely that the governor will be permitted to make any political capital from the work of the special session. His enemies will see to that.

As a rule it is safer to let sleeping dogs lie. The governor by arousing them may be himself the first victim.

THE OLD AND NEW SEATTLE.

The Post-Intelligencer last Sunday, June 6, published a very beautiful twentieth anniversary number to commemorate the Seattle fire of June 6, 1889. The edition included a replica of the modest sheet issued by the P.-I. the morning after the fire printed under the most aggravating difficulties. The writer hereof remembers well the scenes depicted in that little paper, for as a homesick, as well as a homeless youth, we were on the ground. And as we munched at crackers and cheese, we were fortunate enough to secure, we marveled at such an exhibition of newspaper enterprise, at the same time wondering if, now that the town was so plainly done for, would the people pack up any traps that they had left and move over to Tacoma. But they didn't. They simply rolled up their sleeves and started to work again to build a better and a greater city.

The old Seattle was not a beauty from an architectural standpoint. In fact it looked like a big overgrown village with its many framed buildings, which with streets paved with plank or sawdust offered ready food for the flames. But it was a typical western city just the same, that had a peculiar charm for the visitor as it always had for the pioneer of Washington Territory, a certain charm it must be admitted, that the new city with its great influx of new people seems to lack.

At the time of the fire Seattle had a population of barely 30,000, although the enterprising real estate men of that period claimed 40,000. Today it probably contains about 300,000 people, with the assurance of a future that is apt to dazzle the human mind.

Great is Seattle, and great is the Post-Intelligencer, her pioneer prophet!

THE DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

At this time when the great dailies are becoming more and more business enterprises rather than exponents of opinion, and especially when a number of them have become the property of predatory interests, the country newspaper increases in importance. It can be owned by the man who edits it, and, therefore, has behind it a conscience and a character that can be identified. It is close to the people and can give voice to the sentiments of its readers. We have to rely more and more upon the country papers for the educational work that is necessary to a correct understanding of public questions. The country newspaper can obtain its news from the metropolitan daily, but it must do its own digesting and interpreting. There is a lot of difference between the man who writes what he is told to write and the man who writes what he believes, and writes because he believes he has a message to deliver to his readers.

Every county ought to have a democratic weekly—here is a field for patriotic effort. The Commoner will be pleased to chronicle the birth of each new paper.—The Commoner.

Gov. Hay has expressed the opinion to the newspaper reporters that the special session will not last more than 10 or 12 days, that it will promptly impeach Shively, pass a resolution giving the investigating committee more rope, in order to probe the records of other state officials under suspicion, and then adjourn and go home. If the governor believes this it is only another proof of his lack of experience in political life. The chances are that the present legislature, once it meets in special session, will stick at Olympia for at least six weeks. The members, or most of them, are in a grouchy frame of mind. Some have axes to grind, others want revenge. An attempt will be made to reopen the local option question, to repeal certain laws and appropriations, to pass new legislation, etc. etc. It will be a nerve wracking, so-called trying cat and dog time. Gov. Hay will have reason to change his mind before he gets the special session off his hands.

A Spokane democrat, writing to the New York Post, says that he wishes President Taft luck in his announced purpose of weaning the south away from the democratic party and that he hopes that the big, golf loving president will take Tammany under his wing, too. The "solid south" and the odious Tammany machine, says this fearless writer, have kept the democratic party elsewhere in the country in a defensive attitude for the past 40 years, and such a situation has become intolerable. Let President Taft break up the solid south and the solid north will break up also. The two parties would then reorganize on modern economic lines with satisfaction to the membership of each. Upon such a line-up the republicans might hope to carry several states of the south, but they would stand to lose nearly every state west of Pennsylvania. Let the segregation process go on, and God speed the day when it be accomplished.

The Palouse bank failure over in Whitman county looks worse as the facts concerning it become known. The bank was managed for years by H. M. Boone, a former state senator and until recently assistant state bank examiner. This same man Boone, by the way, was a very active republican candidate for congress in this district last year. It appears that when Boone saw that the bank was bound to fail he unloaded his stock in the institution on a man with more money than banking experience, aiming to get out from under. Now that the bank is busted, this innocent purchaser demands his money back on the ground that he is the victim of fraud. Under the present circumstances it is perhaps just as well that Mr. Boone didn't get to congress, although the Palouse statesman probably feels that he is no worse than numerous other politicians who are there.

The pantaloons gown has made its appearance in Seattle direct from Paris and has created a furore of excitement among the ladies. No doubt it will be a subject for serious discussion for the women's clubs. Even the serious minded and conservative editor of the P.-I. treats the public with a learned discussion which he winds up with the prophecy that the feminine mind is gradually, but surely, approaching man's idea of the proper apparel for clothing the body, in other words, that woman is about to don pants. Oh, sacrilegious thought! But yet, it may be true. We dunno.

The reactionary element of the republican party, held in check to some extent by the Roosevelt administration, under the Taft regime is clearly in the saddle again. Any intelligent man, regardless of his political affiliations, who cannot now see that this is a fact, is indeed but a poor observer. In fact, the representatives of "the interests" at Washington are more arrogant and dictatorial today than they were 10 years ago under the McKinley administration.

A representative of the bonding company which furnished the $20,000 official bond of Former Adjutant General Hamilton, says that his company will not pay a cent on the bond for the reason that the state, according to a provision of the bond, did not use due diligence in checking up Hamilton's accounts. This statement is without doubt true and that dereliction of duty must lay at the door of both Mead and Claussen. Meanwhile the state must bear the whole loss.

The Pioneer's association of Washington met in annual meeting at Seattle last Wednesday. Since the preceding meeting death has claimed 22 of the association's membership. Of the honored dead Wm. Billings of Olympia, who was sheriff of Thurston county 24 years, was the oldest settler, having come to Washington Territory in 1849. The original pioneers of the state are now nearly all gone. Peace to their ashes.

Yesterday was "Yakima Day" at the A. Y. P. E. and if the number of people who hustled over from here to help boost is anything to judge by our day at the big show must have been a hummer. However, no one here understands why "Yakima Day" should have come in such a hurry. It was too soon to enable such a county as this to do itself justice in the matter of exhibits. But it is no use to kick now.

Speaker Meigs has determined to put up a fight to hold his job as speaker for the special session, and the chances are that with the strong backing that he has from Gov. Hay and John L. Wilson he will succeed. Yet, it can hardly be considered an honor worth fighting for to preside over such an unorganized mob as the present house of representatives.

Joe Simon, erstwhile U. S. senator from Oregon, and at one time a member in good standing of Roosevelt's Ananias club, has been resurrected from his political grave and was elected mayor of Portland last Monday. They have a rather peculiar school of politics down in the "Webfoot" state.

Editor Stultfauf of the Ellensburg Capital can at least enjoy the satisfaction of knowing that his name looks good to people on a check. That is about the most substantial sort of recognition that a country newspaper man can hope to receive.

Gov. Hay before calling the special session should have obtained a pledge from the solons that they would pass no more freak laws. As the matter stands it is likely that the state will be afflicted with another deluge of foolish laws.

Today, June 12, a large assortment of hastily made laws, good, bad and indifferent, go into effect in this state. These new laws cover a wide range and the average man should look out or he may find himself a law violator and in the toils.

Menace of Gun Silencer

One hears young men still in their "teens" discussing the gun silencer. "I am going to get one and go hunting next Sunday," a young Tacoma fellow was heard to say. "I know several boys that are getting them." The boys believe they can go out and kill birds and game contrary to law without being discovered. The gun silencer, they believe, will save them from the law. The gun silencer is a new danger to game as well as to human life. Every citizen who is interested in the enforcement of the game laws and in the protection of human life should consider the dangers of the gun silencer.

In King county the game warden finds that a great slaughter of game is already going on as a result of the gun silencer. Lawless hunters go about in the woods and fields killing almost noiselessly. They invade private premises and shoot without the owner hearing.

The best way to meet the danger probably is to arouse public sentiment against the use of such a device. Parents would do well to deny their boys the use of a gun silencer, if not of a gun itself, and neighbors should view with alarm the use of a gun silencer by any person in the neighborhood. It has been difficult enough to catch thugs and other law violators that use a gun with a loud explosion.—Tacoma Ledger.

The best thing to do is to have the legislature pass a law forbidding the sale of such a dangerous and needless device.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Aldrich Tariff Bill Will Surely Increase the Cost of Living—How the Smooth Trust Senator Has Worked Certain Democratic Senators—Midshipmen Not Permitted to Marry.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—In the estimation of Democratic senators who are studying the tariff, the determination of the Republicans to maintain the increased duties on meats of all descriptions, both fresh and cured, constitutes one of the most striking anomalies of the protective policy. In their defense of the policy of protection almost every Republican senator has referred to the necessity of maintaining the existing "high standard of living" of the American workman. Many have devoted pages of the Congressional Record to this argument. When asked wherein lies the chief difference between the standard of American laborers, both skilled and unskilled, and similar workmen abroad, they invariably reply with an elaboration of the difference to be found in the tables of the two classes, maintaining that meat is served on the table of the American twice or thrice as often as on that of his fellow workman in foreign countries. And yet these same Republicans refuse absolutely to recognize that by increasing duties on meats they are not only adding millions to the profits of the beef trust, but are precipitating a situation precisely similar to that abroad. In the estimation of a number of Democrats with whom your correspondent has talked on this subject the effect of the Aldrich bill, if enacted as it now stands, will be to drive meat off of the tables of a large percentage of American workmen in the near future. Asked why they do not make a more vigorous fight for the reduction of these duties, the Democrats maintain that they are perfectly helpless in the matter, that Mr. Aldrich and his associates are in complete control of the situation in the senate, and that it is useless for any Democrat or group of Democrats to undertake to secure reductions in any schedule decided upon by the finance committee. In this connection, however, the remarks of a Republican member of the finance committee, while not perhaps to be taken at their face value, are of interest.

To a New England member of the finance committee your correspondent put this question: "Are not the Democratic senators peculiarly helpless in this tariff debate, and if so, what is the reason?" The Republican replied: "Our Democratic friends can accomplish nothing because they are not so badly divided among themselves. Practically every one of them has some special industry for which he wishes above all else to secure protection. Brother Aldrich is nobody's fool and he has felt out the aims of his opponents and knows so well how to play one against the other that throughout this debate there has not been a single instance where the Democrats have all voted one way. It is simply the old story of a house divided against itself and of statesmen who place personal and local interests above party zeal and national welfare." Of course, this is a partisan arraignment and must be accepted with due allowance for the narrowness of the New England viewpoint. Nevertheless it contains an element of truth which is worthy the serious consideration of every Democrat.

No member of the Taft cabinet entered upon his term of service confronted by a more perplexing situation and harassed by more difficulties than George Von L. Meyer, secretary of the navy. Nevertheless, Mr. Meyer has not only the courage of his convictions, but the temerity of a Roosevelt. With the staff versus line controversy still at white heat, Secretary Meyer has had the audacity boldly to defy Cupid and practically to issue an order forbidding the young god to aim a single dart at the hearts of Uncle Sam's middies. A heartless predecessor of the present secretary long ago forbade midshipmen to marry during the four years' term at Annapolis, but Secretary Meyer has added two years to the prescribed time and forbids matrimony prior to the time when the midshipman receives his first promotion and becomes an ensign. The moral effect of this order will doubtless be beneficial, but should any middy have the courage to violate it and be solemnly arraigned before a court martial charged with the grave offense of having taken unto himself a wedded wife, it is a question how long the order would stand the ridicule of an unfeeling press.

Divorce for Desertion.

Mae Grinstead has brought an action for divorce against Samuel Grinstead, charging desertion and abandonment. The couple were married at Red Lodge, Montana, on August 21, 1902, and lived together until over a year ago, when Grinstead left his family and has not contributed to its support since. There is one child, a boy, Harry, aged four years. The plaintiff asks for an absolute divorce and the custody of the child.

REGISTRATION FOR RESERVATION LAND

First Definite Information Received as to How Filings Must Be Made This Summer

Many persons in the Yakima valley intend to file on land that is to be available in the opening of the Flathead, Coeur d'Alene and Spokane reservations this summer, and many have been making inquiries with regard to the conditions surrounding registration. The first definite information has just been received here from James M. Whitten, superintendent of the opening.

Registration for the opening of these reservations will begin on July 15 and end on August 5. Any person qualified to make an original, a second or an additional homestead entry may register for lands in any or all of these reservations. All who desire to register must go in person to Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., for the Flathead lands, Coeur d'Alene for the Coeur d'Alene and to Spokane for the Spokane lands.

Applications must be sworn to before notaries designated for that purpose, who will furnish the necessary blanks. Soldiers or sailors who were honorably discharged, or their widows or minor orphan children, need not go in person but may register through agents appointed for that purpose.

All applications for registration must reach Supt. Whitten at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, through ordinary mail, before August 9. All of the envelopes received prior to that time will then be thoroughly mixed and selected indiscriminately, one at a time, and numbered consecutively as selected. The numbers thus assigned will control the order in which the entries are to be made. Numbers will not be assigned to a greater number of persons than may reasonably be expected to take up all the tracts subject to entry. If any person sends in more than one application he will not be given a number.

No entries will be made before April 1, 1910, and all persons will be notified of the exact date when they must appear and enter. The rights acquired under numbers assigned cannot be sold or transferred to other persons. If any person dies his widow or heir may make the entry of their own right.

No charge will be made for the registration, but at the time of making entry persons who apply for Flathead lands will be required to pay one-third of the appraised valuation, and persons who apply for Coeur d'Alene or Spokane lands will be required to pay one-fifth of the appraised valuation. The remainder of the purchase money may be made in five equal annual payments.

Residence must be begun within six months after the date of entry, and be continued, with cultivation, until a patent has been earned, either by five years residence and cultivation and the payment of the installments or by 14 months actual and continuous residence and cultivation and the payment of all the unpaid purchase money. Commutation is not allowed on the timbered lands of the Coeur d'Alene.

The following persons are not qualified to make homestead entry:

A married woman, unless she has been deserted, or her husband is incapacitated by disease or otherwise.

One not a citizen and who has not declared his intention to become such.

One under 21 years of age, not the head of a family.

One who is the proprietor of more than 160 acres of land in any state or territory.

One who has acquired title under any of the non-mineral land laws of any land which with the amount applied for would aggregate over 320 acres.

There are 451,427 acres of land in the Flathead reservation, which has been appraised at from $1.25 to $7 an acre. There are about 200,000 acres in the Coeur d'Alene reservation and 50,000 acres in the Spokane reservation. The lands in these two reservations have not yet been classified or appraised.

These are the only Indian lands to be opened this year, except the Cheyenne river and Standing Rock lands in North and South Dakota, which may be opened in October.

SALOONS MUST BE SEEN

Ruling Made Regarding Washington Liquor Dispensaries

Olympia, Wash., June 9.—In an opinion of the prosecuting attorney of Pacific county, the attorney general ruled today that under the new criminal code it is illegal to use any obstruction whatever to obstruct the interior view of a saloon. Partitions or anything else which will prevent a complete view from the street of the entire place where liquor is sold are illegal. He holds also that meals may be served Sunday in a restaurant which is in the same room with a bar, provided the bar is absolutely closed.

A DEMENTED MAN DROWNS HIMSELF

J. L. Powell of Vancouver, B. C., Escapes From Sanitarium and Wanders Away.

J. L. Powell, a Vancouver, B. C., newspaper man, who has been at the Sanitarium for the last three or four months, suffering from a severe case of nervous prostration, or a form of insanity, escaped from the institution last Saturday night, and sometime during the following morning drowned himself in the Naches river. His body was found about noon Sunday and brought to town.

Dr. Rossiter says Powell was the victim of melancholia. He was brought here after breaking down from overwork, and has been kept at the Sanitarium ever since. Sometimes he showed signs of improvement, and at other times his condition was very bad. His wife visited him a few days ago and found him wrestling with the fixed idea that he was too poor to eat. He would take no nourishment, and although she did all she could to convince him that he was able to have anything he wanted, she failed. He was a man fairly well off financially.

After his wife went away he seemed to improve slightly and at times was apparently rational.

Powell was put to bed about 9 o'clock in the evening Saturday, as usual. The attendant then left him, but remained on guard in the office. Powell went out the other way.

As soon as it was found that the man was gone searches were sent out for him, and telephone messages were also sent in several directions. About 11:30 word came from a farm up the Naches by the phone that the man was there. The party sending the message was asked to detain him, and, it was supposed, would do so. Men were sent after him at once, but when they arrived at the farm he had gone. It was then so late that his trail could not be followed, but next morning it was taken up again and followed to the river.

The indications were that the man had not been in the river more than half an hour when the body was found.

BERRIES ARE BACKWARD

Cool Weather Makes Supply Light for This Season of the Year.

Cool and rainy weather is holding back a crop of strawberries already light on account of a late season, so that wholesalers are in many cases getting more orders than they can fill, and none of them has a surplus on hand. The prices are keeping up well, and are not expected to go very low at any time during the season. The season for local strawberries is now about at its height, while at Wapato the picking is already about over. Some of the biggest growers around Yakima say that their picking season will be practically wound up this week.

This lightness in the yield is true of the most of the crops. Cherries will be more plentiful, probably, than strawberries, although cherries are killed in some localities. The Horticultural Union expects to ship the later varieties of cherries as far east as the Twin Cities and Chicago, whereas strawberries are going only to Montana. The western trade goes as far as Seattle.

Won't Do It Again

"Neverf again will I play the good Samaritan," declared Henry Schott, owner of a Selah hop ranch the other day.

"I had a crew of 14 Colville Indians stringing hop vines for me.

"A couple of young whites stole the outfits of two Indians and when they reported to me I accompanied them to the prosecuting attorney, where they made complaints. The men were arrested and the stolen property recovered.

"And do you think they went back to work happy? Not they. They hustled back to the ranch, packed up their belongings and quit me cold. The whole outfit of 14. I pleaded with them, but it was no use. I am now without a crew and simply because they claimed when a thief entered a camp bad luck was sure to follow, and as they were superstitious they weren't taking any chances."

The Checking Account for the Farmer

Many farmers keep a checking account with us regularly because it is a great help and convenience in their every day business.

With a checking account you can tell exactly the total amount of your receipts and expenditures for each month for the entire year. When you sell your farm products, deposit your money in the Bank, subject to check. The obligations you have can be cancelled by check. When you make a purchase, pay by check.

We invite you to try this system.

Central Won First Place

In the past scholars were awarded prizes for spelling and arithmetic as anyone can find by reading the Hosier School Master and similar books. What would those old worthies think if they could see the pupils of our present day schools making gardens and winning prizes for the best vegetables?

Last Friday judges visited the several schools of this district and awarded prizes for the best gardens. Central school won first place and Modern addition won second. The victory of Central was won because of the many different varieties of vegetables grown and because the average condition of the plants were best.

One remarkable feature of the showing made by the schools is that the lower grades have obtained better results than the higher ones. The general results and the interest taken in the gardens by the pupils far exceeded the expectations of the committee.

The vegetables and flowers from these gardens will be sent to the A.-Y.-P. exposition and there placed before the public to show what the school children of North Yakima can accomplish.

THE SPANIARD.

His Primitive Instincts of Hospitality and Charity.

Havelock Ellis in his "Soul of Spain" has revealed intimately and charmingly the temperament of the Spanish people. According to him, the Spaniard is still fundamentally primitive. In proof of his possession of the primal instincts of hospitality and charity he quotes the following anecdote from an Aragonese newspaper of a few years ago, at a time when there was much distress in Aragon:

A laborer out of work came on the highroad determined to rob the first person he met. This was a man with a wagon. The laborer bade him halt and demanded his money.

"Here is $30, all that I have," the detained man replied.

"There is nothing left for me but robbery. My family are dying of hunger," the aggressor said apologetically and proceeded to put the money in his pocket, but as he did so his mind changed.

"Take this, chico," he said, handing back $20. "One is enough for me."

"Would you like anything I have in the cart?" asked the wagoner, impressed by this generosity.

"Yes," said the man. "Take this dollar back too. I had better have some rice and some beans."

The wagoner handed over a bag of eatables and then held out $5, which, however, the laborer refused.

"Take them for luck money," said the wagoner. "I owe you that."

And only so was the would be robber persuaded to accept.

THE BABY CROP.

Worth More Than All Other Crops as a National Asset.

When you come to think of it, there's no escaping the conclusion that the baby crop is worth more to this good country of ours than all the corn, wheat, cotton, beef and poultry products put together—worth more in dollars and cents. Untimely frosts, the boll weevil, the wheat rust, the green aphids and all the other crop and animal scourges couldn't work so great a national disaster as a genuine baby famine.

And it is simply appalling to think what would happen to our national temperament if babies were abolished. Our sense of humor would instantly go glimmering, and smiles would become rarer than black hollyhocks. The education of parents in all the little arts of tenderness would go into instant decline, and we would speedily become a nation of ossified hearts and sour faces.

Babies are the chief apostles of unselfish affection. All the world admits that. The mother who has constantly maintained an attitude of unalloyed selfishness toward all the world will go to the depths of self denial and sacrifice for the helpless child, and men of fiery and autocratic temperament become meek and plastic disciples in schools of patience and restraint where in their own babies are the teachers and disciplinarians.—Red Book.

Gloom Spread by Book Agents.

"When I was a small boy living in Huntsville, Mo., an early day book agent came up from St. Louis by steamboat and flooded our country with a harrowing volume entitled 'Agnes—The Key to Her Coffin.' Everybody bought the thing and everybody wept over it," remarked a Macon resident. "Its influence descended upon the community like a nightmare. It reeked with shrouds, funerals and graveyards. For a long while 'The Key to Agnes' Coffin' was the sole diversion of certain portions of the populace. They seemed to take a pure and chastened joy in the awful weight of woe that oozed out from between its lids, and it made them feel better. There were not many books in the country in those days, and the sagacious agent had sized the community's taste up about right. The book was supposed to be very consoling to the distressed in that it told of worse troubles than their own."—Macon Republican.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is en-

N. C. HAS RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH GAP

Differences With Northern Pacific Settled By Payment of Sum of Money.

According to Henry J. Snively, local attorney for the North Coast road, Mr. Strahorn now has a clear right of way through the gap and into the city, with the exception of a small piece of land known as the McAllister tract. The differences between the North Coast and the Northern Pacific have been settled, and Mr. Strahorn cannot longer plead that the Northern Pacific is keeping him out of North Yakima. It will be necessary to condemn a right of way through the McAllister tract.

The statement is made that all differences were settled by the payment of $15,000 by Strahorn to the Northern Pacific, and in consideration of this sum the Northern Pacific will permit the North Coast road to run through the gap practically as the court decreed and the North Coast gets a right of way through the property near the gas works belonging to the Northern Pacific, which the later company claimed it would need for its own purposes. The money paid will also cover damages that may be done to the Northern Pacific tracks by the building of the North Coast.

It is understood that according to the agreement made the N. P. tracks are to be raised 12 feet in the gap. The North Coast tracks will be west of the N. P. track. The N. P. reserves sufficient space for a double track, and the N. C. builds between that space and the hill.

The North Coast is now grading its right of way between Granger and Zillah and expects to have the grading done into Zillah by the first of September, or perhaps before that. The statement is made that North Coast work between this city and Zillah will be begun this fall.

Will Build New Moxee Bridge.

The decision practically arrived at this week by the board of county commissioners to construct a new wagon bridge across the Yakima river at the foot of Yakima avenue appears to give general satisfaction in this city. It has long been recognized that such a bridge should be built, but the commissioners have been reluctant to undertake it and probably would not now were it not for the assurances received from a large committee of business men and Moxee farmers that one-third of the total cost of the bridge would be raised by subscription and the amount turned over to the county. The estimated cost of the bridge is $27,000.

IMITATIVE FLOWERS.

The Caricature Plant Is One of Brazil's Peculiar Growths.

The Brazilian flower known as the running antelope is so called because its white petals have a series of well defined, dark colored lines and dots in which the imagination can readily trace the form of an antelope, with its limbs outstretched and head thrown back, seemingly fleeing for its life. In the "caricature plant" one species has the imitative form on the petals, another has it outlined in the ribs and shading of the ribs. This last mentioned curiosity bears a remarkably well executed likeness of the Duke of Wellington and has on that account been named Arthur and His Nose.

Among the orchids the imitative form is entirely different in character, being exhibited in the shape of the flower itself. Some are exact counterfeits of bees, butterflies, moths, etc., while others take upon themselves the form of worms and beetles. Naturalists believe that in the first instance it is nature's trap to lure other bees, moths and butterflies, but in the case of the worm and beetle orchids or those that are exact counterparts of toads, lizards and huge spiders they do not attempt to explain.

Simplified.

It is said of a noted Virginia judge that in a pinch he always came out ahead. An incident of his childhood might go to prove this.

"Well, Benny," said his father when the lad had been going to school about a month, "what did you learn today?"

"About the mouse, father."

"Spell mouse."

After a little pause Benny answered:

"Father, I don't believe it was a mouse after all. It was a rat."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sydney Smith's Sharp Tongue.

Sydney Smith was at a party one evening when, seeing Mrs. Grote, wife of the historian, enter, wearing a rose colored turban, he suddenly exclaimed, "I now know the meaning of the word grotesque!" He professed his cordial liking for both her and her husband, saying: "I like them. I like him, he is so ladylike, and I like her, she's such a perfect gentleman."

English Art.

Foreigners appear to have great difficulty in acquiring representative examples of the English school of painting and with good reason. Our art is more fruitful in attractive hybrids than the art of any other country in the world.—Burlington Magazine.

No Disguise.

Husband (admiringly)—There's no use trying to disguise the fact that you are smarter than I am, my dear. Wife (complacently)—The fact, my love, has never been in disguise among those who know us.

Diaries.

If the people who keep diaries are wise they never put into them the things that would make them most interesting to other people in the years to come.—Boston Globe.

Exposition and Trade.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle is to open on time—June 1. This exposition will be of particular interest to our readers from a market standpoint. Alaska and the Orient have become markets for a large amount of produce raised on the Pacific coast now exchanged for the golden coin, which is always acceptable to the husbandman. There are other great market possibilities and we should all unite by every means available to develop them. Many will attend this exposition with the purpose in view of getting new ideas about how the many different products are being put up to enter channels of commerce and trade. To make, or grow and pack products so they will be in demand is always the problem and here is an opportunity to get pointers whereby the keen and the enterprising will profit. No point on the globe compares to this coast for the production of the kind of fruits for which there is a world-wide demand. Fertility, climate and moisture are all fittingly proportioned. Great is our resources in this and other lines. The exposition is a help in choosing what we will make of them.—Horticulturist.

LATE IRRIGATION KILLS PEACHES

S. O. Jayne of the Department of Agriculture Lays Blame to Deferred Watering.

"Late irrigation is what has destroyed Yakima peaches this year," declared S. O. Jayne of the U. S. department of agriculture, who is in North Yakima today in the interests of the department. "If people had not kept up their irrigation so late in the fall they would not have destroyed the peach crop as they have," he continued. "By watering the trees late in the season, the trees continue to grow until the winter comes on. It does not get a chance to harden for the winter and when the cold spell comes on the result is disastrous."

"There are evidences of it on every hand. Look at the peach trees in low places. You will see that every one will be fruitless this year. They have had a constant supply of water by reason of being in wet spots and have grown and developed until hard weather set in and the tree has become 'sick' and will not bear fruit."

"Again, look at the trees that are on the side of the hill growing close to the ones that have been damaged in the low places. In every instance that I know where late irrigation has not been practiced, those trees are healthy and will bear fruit. That is pretty good proof that the trees well up on the hillside that will not be productive this year were watered too late in the season."

Mr. Jayne is here gathering data on the results obtained in growing alfalfa, sugar beets, potatoes and small fruits by means of irrigation, and along with the work is making a special study of individual systems in pumping water and the methods employed in distributing.

A considerable amount of money is lost every year by reason of ranchers experimenting with pumping systems and irrigating ditches and the work of Mr. Jayne is to ascertain the merits of different systems.

When the data is complete, he will forward it to Washington, where the information will be printed and sent out to the different irrigated sections.

GRADUATE FROM EIGHTH GRADES

Almost 100 County Pupils Have Successfully Passed the Final Examinations.

About 100 pupils in the various schools of the county outside of North Yakima have successfully passed the eighth grade examinations and have been given certificates entitling them to admission to the high school when the term opens next fall. County Superintendent Jacobson has just completed marking the papers and finds that the usual proportion of the pupils have passed.

A considerable number of these pupils will enter the high school, although not nearly so large a proportion as from the North Yakima schools. As there were about 100 eighth grade graduates from the city schools the freshman class in the high school next year will be very large.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

Brief Record of Local Happenings for the Week in North Yakima and Vicinity.

The first cutting of alfalfa began with a number of lower valley farmers this week, while most of the others, as well as many near North Yakima, expect to open the haymaking campaign next Monday. The crop is reported to be good and the weather thus far is certainly most favorable.

J. C. Liggett, former deputy sheriff, now has charge of the insurance business of J. J. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allen returned Tuesday from a visit to Seattle. Mrs. Allen had the misfortune to sprain an ankle while in Seattle, so that the couple did not get to see much of the fair.

J. Elgin Baxter is home this week on a visit to relatives.

Chicago was represented in North Yakima last Saturday by a party of 40 live business men which is touring the middle and far west as representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce. During their stay here they were shown over the city and through the orchards on Nob Hill. All members of the party expressed themselves as highly pleased with Yakima and her prospects.

Numerous June weddings have been the principal feature of society locally during the past two weeks. These weddings have been so numerous in fact that local society reporters have had to over-exert themselves to get lines on the different events.

County Commissioner Meloy joined the excursion crowd Thursday to spend Yakima Day at the exposition.

A. D. Paddison and Miss Nellie Mae Baker were joined in marriage at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening. Rev. Baker of Tacoma, an uncle of the bride, officiating, the ceremony being attended by a number of society people. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Baker, while the groom is a prosperous young business man of this city.

Wm. D. Haywood, whose trial at Boise City on the charge of murdering Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho two years ago attracted national attention, is billed for a lecture to be delivered in Holstein's pavilion June 16. He will speak on the labor question and narrate his experience when confined in the "bull pen."

Osborne Russell and his friend, Mr. Masterson of Stillwater, Minn., are taking in the Seattle fair this week.

Prof. Melander of the state college delivered an able lecture at the Yakima theater Monday night on the dangers of the common house fly as a breeder of typhoid fever. He had a large and appreciative audience.

Mrs. Cummins, wife of a well known Nob Hill rancher, died suddenly Sunday night at the sanitarium from the effects of peritonitis. The funeral was held Wednesday. Deceased leaves a husband and four young children.

W. A. Wyatt, business manager of the Democrat, was most happy Sunday by the arrival of his wife and little daughter from the home of Mrs. Wyatt's parents at Pendleton, Ore.

The city council at its meeting Monday night passed the franchise asked for by the Yakima Central Heating company, the same to run for a period of 40 years.

The Seattle exposition appears to be an attraction that has brought more than the usual number of "undesirable citizens" to the Pacific northwest this summer. Certainly North Yakima has received her share up to date.

The Columbia Highland Fruit company was organized in this city during the week. H. Kohles was elected president, H. D. Winchester vice president, F. L. Miller secretary, C. R. Donovan treasurer. The object of the company is to deal in Columbia river lands. They have already purchased 437½ acres on the west bank of the river near Wahiuke.

Horatio Crosno has purchased from Mrs. Mary Reed the north half of the north half of section 9-12-17, carrying with it six shares in the Johncox ditch, consideration, $7,000. The property is located on the Altanum.

The Yakima Fish and Game Protective association will hold a meeting for the election of officers Tuesday evening, June 15.

A marriage license was procured Monday by Wm. F. Blaisdell and Miss Letha Alexander, both of Toppenish.

Geo. N. Tuesley, proprietor of the Herald, has been seriously ill at his home this week, suffering from an attack of pleurisy.

The east Selah water users' association has filed articles of incorporation, showing a capital stock of $204,000, divided into shares of $60 each. The incorporators are B. O. Thralls, J. W. Day and T. E. Grady.

A "bum" printer, whose name is said to be George Perry, is wanted by Sheriff Crowley of Kittitas for passing a number of forged checks in Ellensburg, which were adorned with the name of A. H. Stulfauth, editor of the Capital. Perry entered the office of the Capital, hung about for a while, stole a rubber stamp bearing the words "Ellensburg Capital." He then set to work issuing bogus checks, countersigned with the name of Mr. Stulfauth. These he circulated among saloons to the extent of about $200 and skipped. Naturally his victims are anxious to have him apprehended.

Mrs. Nina Cummins, who has been the guest of Mrs. Vestal Snyder, left this week for Portland.

Everett, the 16-months-old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grissom, who live on the reservation side of the Altanum, was drowned Monday in a nearby irrigating ditch. The baby had been playing in the yard under the eye of his mother, but watching his opportunity the little fellow escaped through the fence and made his way to the swift running ditch. The little body was found in the water a half hour later; but all efforts to resuscitate the child failed.

Two barbers of this city, A. H. Harmer and M. R. Parker, together with their families, dined at the home of the former on the west side Sunday evening. That night all of the party were taken violently ill, apparently from ptomaine poisoning. Their illness is ascribed to eating preserved olives. While all were very ill for a time fortunately no serious results ensued and the patients are now said to be almost entirely recovered.

Prof. Frank Nagler Tuesday evening treated the people of the city to an open air concert on Yakima avenue, with a few selections given by the juvenile band; and the bright lads as a musical organization received many compliments; for their good work. Owing to Prof. Nagler's untiring zeal and patience the band has developed rapidly, and it was with much pride that local people saw the boys off for the Seattle fair Thursday to become a feature of the celebration of Yakima county day.

Cultivating Orchards.

Conserving moisture to make available the fertility of the soil is the principal reason why a mulch of some kind is required in the orchard. In the commercial orchards or both arid and semi-arid sections, the dust mulch is the most practical. After the spring plowing our leading apple growers use cultivators and harrows—the Acme and Clark's Cutaway are both popular tools.

The water in the soil rises by capillary attraction. A compact soil has, extending through it, minute spaces formed by the partial contact of its particles which facilitates the rise of water from moist layers below, in accordance with the same principle which causes the water to raise in a capillary tube. This movement is constantly going on in a firm soil, and as fast as the top layer is robbed of its moisture by evaporation, the water rises from below and it too is evaporated. During a long dry summer, the water rises and is evaporated from a depth of several feet in some soils, and the earth beneath the making sun heat becomes "dry as a brick." Pulverization of the soil which forms the dust mulch must be so complete that the particles are separated and capillarity destroyed, and farther that the free access of air to the lower point where capillarity exists, must be prevented. This is accomplished by the fine loose earth which acts as a mulch. When this is attained, only that moisture in the upper surface which comes in immediate contact with the air is evaporated and the balance is retained for the use of the plant. Plants or trees, growing then in well-cultivated soil have the water in the lower soil held for their use, and as fast as they use it the supply is replaced through the firm soil below, which evaporation being stopped, remains moist and permeable by roots which extend freely, seeking the nourishment they need, according to Prof. E. J. Wickson.

By actual experimental test, a soil well cultivated will hold nearly 30 per cent more moisture than will the same kind of soil uncultivated. As the moisture under favorable conditions is largely the measure of the growth and the crop, it is plain that a mulch of some kind is imperative.

By the use of the harrows mentioned or other shallow cutting tools, the dust mulch is in most cases cheaply made and maintained and therefore quite generally adopted.

Was a Good Show

Wednesday saw a big crowd in town to see the circus. It is estimated that about 10,000 people saw the performance of the Sells-Floto show, which is one of the very best on the road and presented a clean and excellent performance here. The usual hangers-on of the circus, familiar to the attendant to the old time show, were missing and the big crowds were handled in fine shape. The show was pronounced good from start to finish by all who saw it. The horses in their dancing and show feats and the Armour grays were away above the average. The specialties of the Nelson family were new and entertaining—in fact, every act was a good one.

A large number of out-of-town people were in the city and the streets were crowded to a late hour with a jolly, contented crowd.

Struck Rich Ore in Aurora

John Lynch, president and manager of the Aurora Mining company, was down from the Fish Lake mine a few days ago to visit friends and confer with the directors of his company regarding future development work on the property.

Mr. Lynch brought down some very fine looking samples of ore which he took from the mine this spring, samples of vein matter that assay as high as $110 per ton in gold alone taken from one of the smaller veins on the property.

However, Mr. Lynch is of the opinion that his biggest and best strike is in the big dike near the face of the long working tunnel, which is now in 1850 feet. This dike, said to be an altered porphyry, is about 32 feet in width and so far as assay tests have been made, shows average values of about $26 per ton. Should these values be maintained it can readily be seen even by those unfamiliar with mining that the strike is one of tremendous importance, a strike that will make the Aurora one of the richest mining properties in the Pacific Northwest.

Mr. Lynch has returned to the mine, taking in more men and provisions to push the development work. The Aurora's board of directors is now said to be figuring on the purchase this season of a reduction plant for the mine. It is believed that the big strike in the Aurora is sure to give the mining industry in the entire Cle Elum river district a big and much needed impetus.

Mr. Landseeker why pay $200 an acre for raw land when you can get just as good for $40.00.
