THE STATE FAIR.

Preparations now practically completed. A large attendance anticipated.

The State Fair opens next Monday and nearly everything is in readiness for the big event. The Fair this year promises to be better than ever before.

There will be a better representation from the state at large this year in the way of exhibits than ever before. This will be particularly true of the fruit exhibits. A portion of the exhibits made at the State Fair this fall will be preserved for exhibition at the big St. Louis Fair next year.

Messrs. Wright and Lee will make the Yakima county exhibit this year. It will be a very complete and extensive exhibit as the owners have been at work on it for months.

Among the attractions in the pavilion will be sections or blocks sawed off from a great log cut in Chehalis county for display at the St. Louis Fair.

The big log is the property of Wm. Hepfinger of Aberdeen. It is expected to arrive in this city today. A large chamber has been hewed out of the log which will serve as the home of a pair of big bears at the St. Louis Fair.

Another novelty which Sec. Shannon has recently added to the sporting program for the week is a pacing dog. The dog is a big Dane, the property of H. E. Hammond, who is now in the city. The big dog hitched to a diminutive sulky, according to his owner can make a mile in three minutes.

Tuesday will be Tacoma day at the Fair, Wednesday will be Seattle day, Thursday will be Sunnyside day, while Friday will be G. A. R. day. Excursions will arrive from Tacoma and Seattle respectively Tuesday and Wednesday.

A big crowd of old soldiers is expected Friday. The veterans will form in line in front of the main gate and march to the pavilion in a body headed by the band. All old soldiers will be admitted free on that day.

The racing program has so far been filled as follows:

Race No. 1—$300; pacing 3-year-olds; King Alexis, Economy, Annex and Halie Hinges.

Race No. 2—$500; 2:19 trot; County Abby, Sunrise, Bay Leaf, Master Delmart, Belle Storm, Idol, H. H. H., Coronado, Patrick, Mark Hannabus and The Commonwealth.

Race No. 3—$500; 2:18 pacing; Polka Dot, Economyer, Porta, Knight, Prince Tom, Ben Surba and The Mrs.

Race No. 4—$300; 2:23 pacing; Ben Surba, Prince Tom, Harry Hurst and The Mrs.

Race No. 5—$600; 2:14 trot; Dr. Burial, Overta, Mack Mack, Sweet Marie, Coronado, Idylwild, Briney K, Swift B and Deputy.

Race No. 6—$600; 2:11 pace; free for all trotters; Starkey, Francisco, Sam Brown, Ollie M., Vision, Freak, Martha B., Reta H., Zolock, Levri and Monroe S.

Race No. 7—$500; 2:25 trot; Louis Z., Belle Storm, Mark Hannabus, Getaway and Baby Chapman.

Forty-four cars of stock are already here or are on the road from the Oregon State Fair.

Among the stockmen who will be on hand are the following: C. B. Wade of Pendleton, Ore., John Sparks, Reno, Nev., W. C. Minor, W. L. Ladd, Oak Hill farm, D. H. Looney of Jefferson, Ore., Fechter & Janeck, North Yakima, A. J. Splawn North Yakima, Wm. Todd, Mr. McWhor-ton, Mr. Jayne, R. E. Padgett, North Yakima, Fred Dunbar, Olympia, P. A. Frakes, Scapoose, Ore., the Hazelwood firm of Spokane, Metts & Clengard of Pullman, Burgers & Gray of Pullman.

The High Line Canal.

Messrs. Nares and Judson, the two principal promoters of the three high line ditches now in contemplation, are both in the city this week. They visited Lake Kaches Wednesday to make a thorough inspection of that great natural reservoir.

Mr. Nares attended the irrigation congress at Ogden and took a leading part in the discussions held at that big meeting. He informed the Democrat that the object of his visit here at this time is to systematize the engineering work that is being done in the field. A good deal of preliminary work has already been done as a number of surveyors have been out for the past three weeks. The intention of Mr. Nares is to increase the force and push the work as rapidly as possible with the object of completing his reports of the preliminary work by December 1, if possible. Further than this Mr. Nares had nothing to give out for publication.

YAKIMA HOPS WIN.

McNeff Bros of this city awarded the silver loving cup for the best display of hops at the National Irrigation Congress.

A great deal of interest was excited in this city by the announcement in the daily papers of the 18th inst. that the exhibit of hops made by McNeff Bros. of this city at the National Irrigation Congress held at Ogden, Utah, last week had been awarded the first prize over a number of competitive exhibits. The prize so much sought after is a solid silver loving cup offered by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company. When the news was read here the McNeff Bros. received many congratulations from their friends as well as commendation for the enterprise exhibited in competing for the cup.

The exhibit consisted of one bale of 1903 hops that had been grown in the yard of Jesse W. Field of Tampico. They were of a good grade of hops, but perhaps no better than others that the firm of McNeff Bros. have purchased this season. The bale was forwarded to Ogden by Express, the charges being $14 on the shipment.

Ex-Mayor Fechter and Editor Robertson, who returned from the meeting of the congress at Ogden Sunday morning, are very emphatic in their praise of the congress and the reception accorded the delegates by the people of the Utah city. There were over 1300 delegates present representing 26 states. The next session of the congress will be held at El Paso, Texas.

National Irrigation Convention.

The Yakima delegation, composed of O. A. Fechter, W. W. Robertson and Dr. W. H. Hare, to the National Irrigation Congress, held at Ogden, Utah, returned home Sunday. They all speak in high praise of the manner of treatment accorded them by the people of Ogden. The city spent $25,000 in entertaining the delegates, and the people outdid themselves in giving the visitors a good time. Mr. Fechter says it was the most representative gathering of men ever held in the West. Every Rocky Mountain state was represented by its governor or a part of the congressional delegation. This state sent a strong delegation of 35, headed by Speaker Hare, of the last legislature. The delegates came from twenty-six states and all the varied interests connected with irrigation in any manner were represented. There were governors, other state officials, lawyers, engineers of the government and private irrigation schemes and capitalists; and the interest shown in irrigation was remarkable. A number of Eastern states had representatives, and the sentiment shown from that part of the country indicates that the feeling in the East against government aid in the reclamation of the arid West, as has been planned by President Roosevelt, is rapidly diminishing. Every subject pertaining to the question was taken up and discussed with an interest never before shown at such gatherings. It is the opinion of Mr. Fechter that great benefit to the future of irrigation work. The next meeting to be held in El Paso, Tex., will, he thinks, be the greatest gathering ever held west of the Mississippi river.

Mayor's Proclamation.

The annual meeting of the State Fair will begin on Monday, September 28th. The fair commission have industriously worked for exhibits and it is thought the attendance will be the largest yet recorded. While the fair is a state institution the citizens of Yakima county and particularly of North Yakima are vitally interested in its success. At the suggestion of the commission, which also meets with my hearty approval, I, A. J. Shaw, mayor of the city of North Yakima, do hereby request the closing of the business houses of the city on the afternoons of October 1st and 2nd, and suggest that upon those days the citizens turn out en masse, in order that we may show our appreciation of the efforts of the commission to make the coming Fair truly representative of the material interests of the state and particularly that the citizens of North Yakima may display their usual spirit of enterprise, to the end that we may promote that unity of purpose for the up-building of our community for which our people are so much admired abroad. I would also respectfully suggest that the different business men of this city decorate their places of business during the week of the Fair.

Temporary Headquarters Here.

W. H. Code, inspector of irrigation work in the Indian service, came in from Fort Simcoe last Thursday and now has his temporary headquarters at the Yakima hotel. Mr. Code has had charge of the negotiations for the building of the new canal on the reservation. He has looked after the work from the time it was taken up last winter and has kept track of every detail pertaining to it. He came to this city to be handy to telegraph and mail service. For the past three weeks he has had under way the negotiations with the railway company for the right of way under the road at the intake and also along the property of the company. The officials of both the government and the railway were slow in acting and he thought he could hurry matters by being at this place. Nelson Rich, the contractor, has already commenced work on the excavation of the ditch outside of the railway right of way and will have a big force of men on the ground all fall and part of the winter.

Pulsifer is Caught.

Sheriff Grant left for Boise, Idaho, this week to bring back C. G. Pulsifer, the "capitalist" who, as narrated in the Democrat about a month ago skipped out from Yakima after victimizing several people.

On his arrival here Pulsifer gave it out that he had plenty of money and was going to open a variety theater. In order to accommodate him W. H. Patterson and E. Fournier cashed checks for him to the amount of $25 each. The checks were no good and were of course dishonored, but before the worthless paper had time to get back Pulsifer flew beating his board bill at the hotel Yakima. The sheriff's office here got track of Pulsifer and his arrest followed.

The man, it seems, is a professional dead beat. The Whatcom Blade in commenting on the article in this paper last month, said that Pulsifer was well known in that town where he had victimized people.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

THERE seems to trouble brewing for Mr. Roosevelt among the labor organizations of the country. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the president issued an order reinstating William A. Miller as assistant foreman in the binding department of the government printing office after Miller had been officially bounced from his position as well as expelled from the book binder's union on account of differences which he had with that organization.

In laying down the law in connection with the order for Miller's reinstatement the president took occasion to say in his usual strenuous way that the government would not permit itself to be dictated to by any union and furthermore would not discriminate between union or non-union men in the matter of giving employment. This was a solar plexus blow for the unions and it seemed to stupefy the labor leaders for a time. According to the New York World, however, the labor leaders are preparing to make a red hot campaign. Their first effort will be to induce the president to recede from his position. To this end every labor organization will be asked to forward a formal protest to Mr. Roosevelt. In case this method fails to move the hero of San Juan hill, another and sterner method will be tried, that is to say organized labor will go into politics if necessary. "We have the votes," said one of the leaders, "by which to make or unmake any president and we will use that power if necessary, in the defense of our principles."

There are a great many people in this country who think the president was right in taking the decided stand he did in the Miller case. Yet, on the other hand it should be remembered that his decision, or the ground that it covers is of vital import to organized labor. He denies to this class the recognition it has long been contending for. If the government will not recognize union labor on what theory of justice then can the private employer be required to recognize the union is a question that the labor leaders are asking of each other.

From the standpoint of his personal fortunes the president is most unfortunate in allowing himself to be drawn into such a profitless quarrel as he has nothing to gain and everything to lose by it. He cannot recede from the position which he has taken without a loss of dignity and the respect of many people who have upheld him. On the other hand if he adheres to his position he is quite morally certain to alienate the trades unions of the country.

History is full of instances of things trifling in themselves that have led to most disastrous results. Blaine was cheated of the honor of being president on account of a slip of the tongue of a fool friend. Miller may prove to be Roosevelt's Jonah as Burchard proved to be Blaine's.

COLE YOUNGER who was pardoned by the governor of Minnesota a few months ago has now become a theatrical star. In company with his old pal, Frank James, Younger has put a show on the road called the "Wild West" in which he and James figure as the leading attractions. The combination is now doing the towns of the southwest and is said to be playing to large houses. The country has become used to reformed drunkards shouting temperance and of sinners of various degrees turning evangelists, proclaiming to decent people of well ordered lives "the way to salvation," but an ex-bandit in the role of a hero, abroad for the purpose of showing the youth of the country "how it was done," presents a spectacle new and to the ordinary sense revolting, says the Oregonian.

A COMMITTEE of alleged business men of Seattle called on ex Senator John L. Wilson one day recently and formally requested that statesman out of a job to agree to support the candidacy of Sam Piles for U. S. senator.

Such an exhibition of immaculate gall on the part of the self-constituted committee was never heard of before in the politics of this state in which gall has always been a fixed quantity. Wilson support any other man for senator! Not unless the moon is made of green cheese. The members of that committee had better go and soak their heads.

"OPPORTUNITIES" is the title of a neatly printed pamphlet issued by C. W. Mott, general emigration agent of the Northern Pacific R'y. This book purports to enumerate the business opportunities open in the different towns along the line of the N. P. Regarding North Yakima the book says that there are openings here for a wool scouring plant, woolen mills, tannery and beet sugar factory. The population of this city is given as 6,000.

The ordinances relative to the extension of the franchises of the Yakima Water, Light & Power company came before the city council Monday night and were duly passed after numerous amendments. Whatever may be said about the extension of the franchises at this time—and the Democrat is aware that there was, and is opposition to their passage—the fact remains that the city has secured concessions and advantages from the company under the new ordinances that it never had under the old. For instance, the price of arc lights for street lighting has been reduced from $12 per month to $7.50. While this rate is perhaps not the lowest in the state, it is a lower rate than most other cities have. The company under the provisions of the new franchise is required to put in a meter under plans and specifications to be furnished by the city.

The city is to have water free for street sprinkling, the pressure is to be raised from 65 to 70 pounds to the square inch and several other more or less important changes have been made, all of which go to show that the council has given the matter careful study.

The Democrat believes that the council would have done better to have laid the matter over for another two weeks and thus have given the people a better opportunity to have studied the new franchise and seen whether it was to their liking or not. This, like any other similar franchise is a far-reaching matter. Running for 37 years as it does, it may influence the lives and destinies of many people yet unborn.

We are satisfied, however, that the council has given the matter serious consideration and has acted for what it as a body believed was the best interests of the city.

JUDGE LORE, chief justice of the supreme court of Delaware, in an address delivered by him before the Universal Peace Commission last month, took occasion to criticize the suggestions of President Roosevelt and Judge Brewer on the abolishing of new trials and appeals in criminal cases, as a remedy for mob violence. He said that the only difference between those who claim that the court should act quickly before the mob can act, and the man who claims that lynching is the proper remedy for crime, is that the first would convert the court into a mob, and the second would convert the mob into a court. He further said that courts of justice are not established to administer swift vengeance, but to administer justice after a fair and full opportunity of defense and just conviction." He further said:

"Lawlessness pervades the land, unrest and discontent brood over apparent prosperity. We have become the money center of the world, but this has bred a feverish appetite for gold with all its vulgar accompaniments. Coronets and coats of arms are eagerly sought by the sons and daughters of late hucksters and butchers and blacksmiths. Law has degenerated into lawlessness. We would call a halt upon our capitalists of industry who have brought it to its present height of frenzied speculation. Plants worth only thousands of dollars are by the magic wand of watered stock and glittering advertisements swollen into millions. Gigantic frauds are palmed off upon the people as successful business enterprises. Our greatest financiers are racking their brains to circumvent the law and the people, and by lawlessness achieve wealth, being careful only to keep outside of actual violence and the common jail. When their cunning evasions of the law are crowned with successful men are tempted to lawlessness. Captains of industry, how much of the unrest, the mob violence, and the labor troubles of the time have been bred and fostered by your methods?"

The leader of the Hatfield family of feudists of Kentucky, with some twenty odd members of his clan settled this week near Chehalis, in this state. The Hatfield-McCoy family feud in eastern Kentucky lasted nearly 50 years, during which time nearly one hundred people belonging to the clans died with their boots on. The leader of the Hatfield family on being interviewed on his way to this state said: "We want no more warfare and are going where we may have peace."

ED. S. HAMILTON of Pierce county, a member of the late state senate, has announced his candidacy for the U. S. senate. He states, of course that he is pushed forward by his friends, but it will be observed that there is an intense personal longing behind the "push." After Ankeny and Foster, it must be admitted that there is a vast field opened for mediocre ability.—Olympia Standard.

This city is in duty bound to do its utmost in the way of providing accommodations to State Fair visitors next week. If you should not be called on by any member of the committee which has this matter in charge and have a spare bed in your house, don't fail to call on City Clerk H. B. Doust and leave your name and street number.

The esteemed Washingtonian informs its readers that the annual meeting of the State Bar association was held at Tacoma last week. Inasmuch as the meeting was held just five weeks ago it may be inferred that the junior organ is just four weeks behind the times.

Everybody should go to the State Fair next week and help to swell the crowd as well as the receipts.

THE Washingtonian has again experienced a change of management, Mr. Willis having transferred his interest in the paper to Mr. Oldham, until recently of Whatcom. It is understood that no change is contemplated in the political policy of the paper.

PATRICK HENRY WINSTON, who is now publishing a weekly paper at Spokane, says in his valuable journal that he graduated from the republican party into an insane asylum. Editor Winston has the merit of being delightfully frank as well as witty.

The deadly silence maintained by the Republic on the question of the extension of the water and light franchises is rather depressing. Hasn't our old time contemporary over the way any opinion to express on this important question?

Prince Albert, a new horse paced a mile in 1:57 on a New York track last Wednesday, thus clipping off two seconds from the world's record made by Dan Patch. There has been something doing this year in the way of lowering records.

THE beautiful Indian summer is here. These are the days when the Great Spirit sits upon the mountain tops and blows the smoke from his long pipe down into the valleys—so the old legend tell us.—Roslyn Minor.

New Light on Folk.

The spontaneous popular nomination of Circuit Attorney Folk of St. Louis for the governorship of Missouri is naturally not pleasing to the machine democrats of that state. Police Commissioner Harry B. Hawes intimates that he may enter the field himself. He deprecates the "manufactured enthusiasm" of the newspapers and remarks:

"One thing I am sure of no man will be nominated by the democratic party who does not make a thorough canvass of the state. Everybody and especially Missouri democrats, hates a political coward."

The idea of associating cowardice of any kind with the name of Joseph W. Folk is entirely original with Mr. Hawes. Different people have different ideas about the expediency of aggressive and indiscriminating honesty in politics. Some think that a man who sends democratic thieves to jail cannot be a good democrat. But whatever may be thought of Mr. Folk's political orthodoxy, there has been but one opinion hitherto about his courage. A man who attacks single handed the league forces of corruption which before his time held a great state bound and gagged, and who has calmly faced every sort of intimidation, from menaces of political and business ruin to threats of assassination, does not need to make stump speeches to prove that he is not a coward.

Mr. Hawes may fairly think it necessary to canvass the state to let the voters of Missouri know why they should elect him governor, but they know about Mr. Folk without any telling.—N. Y. World.

Roosevelt Ponderosity

In addressing a religious society, Mr. Roosevelt said: "I do not expect you to lose one particle of your strength or courage in being decent;" and again he said: "I desire to see in this country decent men strong and strong men decent; and until we get this combination in good shape we are not going to be by any means as successful as we ought to be." It is a bit encouraging to be assured that "by being decent" men need not lose their strength or courage; and when we are told that the height of Mr. Roosevelt's ambition is see "the decent men strong and the strong men decent" we must feel that if "all is quiet on the Potomac," the world will continue to revolve and "decent men" will, after all contribute materially to human progress.—Commoner.

No Race Suicide.

Chief Statistician King of the census office at Washington ridicules the race suicide idea that was started by President Roosevelt. He says that before long this country will be confronted with the problem of what to do with the people.

To prove his assertion Mr. King quotes from the census returns of 1900. In that year the enumerators found 2,049,134 children were born and a record of 1,039,094 deaths, or an excess of births of 1,010,048. This large excess of births was revealed despite the fact that deaths are recorded with much more accuracy than births. It is admitted that the percentage of births not recorded is surprisingly large.—Ex.

A DESPERATE PRISONER.

E. W. Hambrook Preferred Death Rather than Face the Charges Against Him.

E. W. Hambrook, a young man of Portland, Ore., met death in a tragic manner last Monday rather than face a charge of grand larceny preferred against him by his former employer in the Oregon city.

Last Saturday the sheriff's office here received a letter from Chief of Police Hunt of Portland asking that one, E. W. Hambrook, supposed to be in Yakima, be arrested. A good description of the man followed with the information that he was believed to be traveling in the interest of a Portland lithographic house. Sheriff Grant and Deputy Edwards had no difficulty in locating their man. He was placed under arrest at the Hotel Bartholet where he was stopping and taken to the sheriff's office and the officer at Portland notified of the arrest.

Hambrook asked as a favor before being locked up that he be taken down town to secure a shave and some little necessities. Jailor Yeates thereupon escorted him to a barber shop and from there to the hotel in order, as Hambrook explained, to get some things out of his grip. At the rear end of the second floor hallway the prisoner suddenly jumped into the water closet, shut the door, barred it and then raising the window jumped out landing on a shed roof from which he easily reached the ground. He then started to run. Deputy Yeates was dazed for a moment at the audacity of the fellow, but quickly recovering he rushed into an adjoining room from the window of which he took a shot at his retreating prisoner at the same time calling to a number of men that he saw to follow the man. This group of men failed to do readily on account of not understanding the situation. However, the man was followed for a couple of blocks but all trace seemed to be lost of him at B street. The crowd of men who had followed him were all quite sure the fellow had kept going but nobody knew in what direction.

The man hunt was continued throughout the day by Sheriff Grant and his deputies, the above incident having occurred about 9 a. m. About 4 o'clock Deputy Edwards accompanied by Deputy Assessor Sindall and others concluded to begin the search again for the fellow at the point where the crowd had lost him in the morning. They first went into the barn at the rear of Hulse & Sons' blacksmith shop. Mr. Sindall, who led the way into the mow noticed that the hay seemed to move in a certain place, and with a bound leaped to the spot with the exclamation "Here's your man," and sure enough dragged the frightened Hambrook out of the hay. The prisoner was again triumphantly escorted back to jail and placed in a steel cage for safe keeping. He explained to the jailer that after eluding the crowd that he had entered the barn and concealed himself in the hay expecting to make good his escape at nightfall.

An officer arrived from Portland Sunday afternoon and left here with his prisoner handcuffed, on the morning train. The tragic part of the story remains to be told, however. Tuesday's dailies brought the information that as the train was nearing Portland Monday evening, Hambrook threw himself from the car window, with the result his body was drawn under the wheels, the man being, of course instantly killed and his body horribly mutilated. Thus ended the earthly career of Hambrook.

Death of Mrs. Morrison.

Mrs. Alma Morrison, wife of Abram W. Morrison, a well known farmer of Wide Hollow, died at 3 p. m., Monday after an illness of several months resulting from nervous trouble. The patient was subjected to an operation by the attending physicians last Friday and for a time she seemed to improve, but the relapse that came Monday she was unable to withstand. The funeral was held at 11 a. m. Wednesday from the Christian church of this city with interment in Tahoma cemetery.

Deceased was born at Terre Haute, Ind., in 1854. Her family name was Alma Labyer. With her parents she removed to Missouri where she was married to Mr. Morrison in 1870. With her husband she removed to Oregon in 1875 where the family resided until their removal to Yakima county in 1888 where they have since resided. Besides a husband deceased leaves five children to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, namely: James, Roy, Gertrude, Mrs. Edith Stair and Jessie, all of whom reside in this county. The grief stricken family has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their great bereavement. Mrs. Morrison was a Christian woman with many splendid traits of character whose death has cast a gloom not only over the bereaved household but the entire neighborhood where she had resided for a number of years.

The Lover's Dialogue.

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

He—
Let us be friends. My life is sad and lonely.
While yours, with love, is beautiful and bright.
Be kind to me, I ask your friendship only.
No star is robbed by lending darkness light.

She—
I give you friendship as I understand it; A sentiment I feel for all mankind.

He—
Oh, give me more! May not one friend command it?

She—
Look in the skies, 'tis there 'he star you'll find—
It casts its beam on all with equal favor.

He—
I would have more than what all men may claim.

She—
Then your ideas of friendship strongly savor
Of sentiments which wear another name.

He—
May not one friend receive more than another?

She—
Not man from woman, and still remain a friend.
Life holds but three for her—a father, a brother,
Lover, against the rest she must contend.

He—
Against the Universe I would protect you
With my life even, nor hold the price too dear.

She—
But not against yourself, should fate select you
As Lancelot nor foolish Guinevere.

He—
You would not tempt me?

She—
That is undisputed.

We put the question back upon the shelf.
My point remains unanswered, unrefuted;
No man protects a woman against himself.

He—
I am an immune. For once I loved with passion,
And all the fires within me burned to dust.
I think of woman but in friendly fashion
In me she finds a comrade safe to trust.

She—
So said Mount Pelee to the listening ocean.
Behold what followed! Let the good be wise.
Though human hearts proclaim extinct emotion,
Beware how high the tides of friendship rise.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Grass widows make very poor hay even when the sun shines.

The biggest bargain counter of the world for women is the altar.

Generally the more kinds of foolishness there are in a man's family the more it is concentrated in himself.

The best way for a wife to make her husband not afraid of some other woman is to make him afraid of her.

When you ask a girl if she has read any interesting book lately she begins to suspect you are in love with her.

Some girls have such a knack of being pretty that they can even freckle becomingly.

You can tell a lot of things by the color of a woman wears underneath, but you oughtn't to.

There is nothing so refreshing as to meet a successful business man who believes in luck.

When a man kisses a girl she seems to think she has got to wriggle around and muss up her hair to prove to others it was done against her will, when if she didn't, nobody would know.—New York Press.

WILL LYNCH BE FIRED?

Special Agent Dickson completes his investigation at Fort Simcoe.

It is likely that when Charles H. Dickson's report on the investigation made into the charges filed against Jay Lynch, superintendent of the Yakima Indian school, is made public at Washington city by the secretary of the interior, into whose hands the report has been placed, there will be some surprises. Mr. Dickson has completed his work after spending a month on the reservation and has left here for the East. He was sent here by the department to size up the situation as he found things under Mr. Lynch's care.

Mr. Dickson refused to talk in advance of his report being given out by the department. He spent a month in an investigation of the charges and looking after other matters pertaining to the Indians. He sifted things from top to bottom. He did not say whether Mr. Lynch had been guilty of anything that would lead to complications as has been intimated, neither did he hint at anything that would leave the impression that anything serious had taken place under Mr. Lynch's administration. He was very cautious in talking on this point and said the public would have to wait till his report came out to get any information on what he had to say on the charges made and what he found at the fort.

With regard to the leasing of Indian lands he said he made a thorough investigation of the system practiced on the Yakima reservation and found many things that would be materially changed in the future. He found that one man had control of 8,000 acres on the reservation and others had as high as 1,000. He said that hereafter no one would be allowed to lease more than 640 acres, and no sub-letting would be permitted under any circumstances. The practice has been for certain men to lease a big body of land at a low figure from the Indians and then sub-let it to other white men at a good profit. Mr. Dickson said the department would hereafter compel each Indian to live on his allotment. If an Indian has 160 acres he can lease 155 acres of it, but he must reside on five acres. This thing of the Indian leasing his land and then going to the bushes to live in teepees, he said, must be stopped. An attempt has been made by a syndicate of men to secure control of about 10,000 acres of the land under the new ditch, but this will be knocked in the head by the new rulings of the department.

Irrigation and Ideal Fruits.

Irrigated fields produce ideal fruits. This has been demonstrated by the fruits of Wenatchee valley and those grown in Yakima valley. Orchardists on the Snake river, in Eastern Washington, secure the highest market prices for their apples grown under irrigation. The apples from Asotin county, where irrigation canals are the sources of moisture, are superior, and sell on the markets at advanced prices over the same varieties from the rain belt districts. These results are obtained by the scientific application of moisture when the trees and fruits demand nourishment.

Ten years ago there were few bearing apple orchards in the now rich fruit land of the Sunnyside country. One of the leading growers then planted 3,000 apple trees. Last season he sold fruit to the value of $14,000, leaving a balance of $10,000 as profit on the fruits. There are many such places in the Sunnyside country, and none for sale. These living marks of the fruit industry and its possibilities are causing many scores of farmers to investigate the fruit growing business for profitable and safe investment.—Sunnyside correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The Water and Light Franchises go through. An Interesting Session.

At the meeting of the city council Monday evening Mayor Shaw and all the seven councilmen were present.

A petition was read for the formation of an assessment district to construct a sidewalk on the east side of north Naches avenue was read and on motion granted.

The petitions of Thomas Lund and F. B. Shallow for renewal of their saloon licenses at their respective places of business were read and on motion granted.

A remonstrance was read from a majority of north First street property owners against the grading of that street. The council after some deliberation concluded to ignore the protest and instructed the clerk to advertise for bids. The same action was taken in regard to the grading of Seventh street, its entire length. A numerous signed remonstrance was on file. Fisher made a statement to the council to the effect that a number of property owners on that street were consistently opposed to public improvement. The remonstrance was turned down and the work authorized. A remonstrance was next read against the petition for a cement sidewalk on the east side of south Naches avenue. W. I. Lince and I. M. Krutz made talks for and against the work. The matter was compromised by the council agreeing not to have the work done before spring.

The report of the street and ditch committee in favor of accepting the grading done on south First street by Pettijohn & Daniels was accepted and the clerk ordered to prepare an assessment roll.

The ordinance granting a 25 year extension of the franchise held by the W. L. & P. company was then taken up and was read for the second time.

The mayor then announced that citizens present would be heard from if any desired to speak. Attorney McAulay first spoke in opposition to the franchise. He was followed by ex-mayor DEMO—TWO. Fechter who likewise opposed it as did also W. B. Dudley. The ex-mayor was rather vehement in his denunciation of the ordinance and flew to heights of oratory hitherto unknown in the city hall.

The council then proceeded to consider the ordinance section by section. As the reading proceeded a number of amendments were incorporated into the body of the ordinance. When the reading was concluded the ordinance was placed on its final passage and carried by a vote of five to two, Keck and Wyman being recorded against it.

The electric light franchise ordinance was next considered. After an amendment cutting the price for arc lights from $12 to $7.50 per month passed, the ordinance was put through by unanimous vote.

No further business in the regular order appearing the council then adjourned.

Gov. McBride at Spokane Fair.

Henry McBride, governor of the state of Washington, has accepted the invitation of the Spokane Interstate Fair to be present the third day of the fair, which is October 7. This, therefore, will be made "Governor's Day," at which time there will be a big parade and the governor will deliver an address. This will draw thousands of people, because Governor McBride is recognized as a good speaker and the pronounced stand he has taken on the railroad question, whether it is approved or not, will make everyone anxious to hear what he has to say. Perhaps he will not touch on politics but there are those who believe politics is the very subject that he will speak on. At any rate he will be in Spokane and will be heard by thousands of people.

The Local Market.

The spud market is reported dull this week owing to the fact that the Alaska demand has been satisfied. As high as $20 was paid last week for choice potatoes for Alaska shipment, the price this week has ruled from $14 to $17. There were not many spuds brought in this week.

The price of hay remains firm. Local dealers have received a good many inquiries from Sound buyers but not many orders. A number of cars were shipped this week to fill orders previously.

The fruit market is good especially for peaches and pears and a good marketing quality of apples. Several cars were shipped this week to points in Montana.

THE WRESTLING MATCH.

Lewis and Larson Will give another exhibition Sept. 30. Ladies invited.

Next Wednesday evening, September 30, Prof. Frank S. Lewis and Chris Larson, will meet at Armory Hall to decide the question of physical superiority in a wrestling contest, catch as catch can style. Both are extraordinarily good men and are thoroughly skilled in the art of wrestling. The contest put up the two men at their meeting here three weeks ago, at which Larson got the decision, was a straightforward affair without the slightest appearance of ruse about it. So well pleased was the audience in attendance at the last bout that it is confidently predicted that a big house will be secured to witness the return match. Admission tickets will be $1, ladies 50c. Reserved seats 25c extra. It may be added that nothing will transpire at which any person could take exception.

As a prelude to the bout, Prof. Lewis will give a moving picture entertainment at which the last meeting of Jeffries and Corbet will be reproduced on canvas.

Hop Picking Nearly Over.

Hop picking in the Yakima valley will soon be over for this season. Picking was finished in a number of yards from the first to the middle of the week, while in other yards it is expected that the work will be finished today. In several of the larger yards, however, the picking will not be finished until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

The yield in many yards will be better than anticipated, the hops in the bale weighing out better than expected. From a ton to 2200 lbs. to the acre is the yield as reported by several growers this week. The average yield, however, will undoubtedly fall considerably below a ton.

As to the market, nothing at all has been doing this week in the way of sales, not a single transfer as far as we could learn being recorded. The growers all seem to be looking for an advance and don't care to sell at present prices. The dealers on the other hand say that at present they have no orders to fill as the brewers are waiting for lower prices before they commence laying in a supply.
