My dear Will

Some sixteen years ago I loaned you at various times sums of money amounting in the aggregate to about $420 -

During same conversation which I had with Fred Palmer, he mentioned that you had written him, to the effect, that you had principal, and interest, invested for me.

Of course when I advanced you the money

I did it without any security whatever, knowing that you had no means at the time, and I trusted entirely to your sense of gratitude to return it should you ever be able to do so.

I have constant calls on me to help friends in need, and have now large amounts outstanding.

It would now be a source of pleasure to me, if some of the bread which I have cast upon the waters returned me after many days. And I would feel more disposed to lend a helping hand to some who need it, but whom I have refused because the calls on me are so heavy, and I have been so often disappointed in the people whom I have helped.

Hoping to hear from you, I remain, with best regards to yourself and family

Your friend
