NEW SCHOOL AUTHORIZED BY MASS MEETING FRIDAY

Directors Authorized to Borrow Money
With which to Build It in the Sum of $25,000.

A meeting of the legal voters of school district No. 7, was held at the Central school building, pursuant to call, December 23rd, 1904. The meeting was called to order by President Barge, of the board of directors of the district. R. K. Nichols, clerk of the district, was appointed secretary of the meeting, and read the "call" under and by virtue of which the meeting of the voters was held.

President Barge then carefully and at some length, explained to the meeting the crowded condition of the schools and showed how totally inadequate the present seating capacity of the same is to accommodate the school children of the district.

The secretary, on being called upon, made a detailed statement of the financial condition of the district, the enrollment, the daily attendance, and the number of school census children in the district not attending any school. Mr. McCafferty, Mr. H. K. Sinclair, Mr. G. E. Wise, Mr. Matterson and others discussed the situation in its various bearings.

It appeared from the facts developed, that the school district could now erect a new school building, sufficient to accommodate the full eight grades, on the Natchez lots, where the building is most needed; procure sites for new buildings to be constructed in the future; make necessary improvements, without adding one mill to the present tax levy for school purposes, owing to rapid increase in population and of property values.

Mr. E. G. Peck suggested that bonds of the district be issued in the sum of $27,500.00 for all of the purposes set forth in the call for the meeting.

After some considerable debate as to the amount actually needed, Mr. Peck introduced the following resolution, and after same was read to the mass meeting, Mr. H. K. Sinclair moved its adoption, which motion was duly seconded by Mr. Winchester.

Resolved: By the legal voters of School District No. 7, of Yakima County, Washington, in mass meeting assembled at the Central School building in said district, on the 23rd day of December, A. D. 1904, said meeting having been duly and legally called, that the board of directors of said district are hereby empowered, authorized and instructed, to cause to be erected on the Natchez avenue lot, owned by said District in the city of North Yakima in said district an eight room school house of stone, brick, or brick and stone and to completely furnish and equip the same and have it ready for occupancy by the opening of the District schools in September, 1905; and also to purchase suitable school house sites in or about the Leaning addition, and the Capitol Hill addition to the city of North Yakima, all in said district; and it is further

Resolved: That said board of directors shall be and are authorized, to borrow money in the name of said school district, for above purposes, by issuing and selling the bonds of said district, in the manner provided by law, in an amount not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00), said bonds to draw interest at the rate of not exceeding six per cent per annum from date thereof, interest to be paid annually, to run from twenty years from and after date with the option of redeeming at any time after ten (10) years.

The resolution was then unanimously adopted by the Mass Meeting; all present expressing themselves as heartily in favor of the proposition and requesting the Directors to submit the proposition to the voters as soon as possible, and then erect an eight grade school building that would be a credit to the city and community.

The city superintendent then briefly addressed the meeting on the necessity of full and active co-operation between the parents and teachers, and stated that it was the purpose of the school management to have a series of meetings for the purpose of bringing them together, becoming better acquainted, in order that there might result the utmost harmony and concert of action by and between parents and teachers in developing the character of the youth under the charge of the teachers. Similar remarks were made by Prof. Barge, Mr. Nichols, Mr. Wise, Mr. Sinclair and others, who all appeared to view the suggestion with the greatest of favor and hoped that the meetings would be instituted at the earliest possible date and held in the various buildings of the district.

GIRL ATHLETES ABROAD.

Yakima Basket Ball Team in Everett and Snohomish.

The North Yakima High School Basket Ball girls played the Everett High School Basket Ball girls the 22nd of December. The game was extremely interesting from start to finish, being clean and free from fouls. The teams were evenly matched and the game was hotly contested, being an excellent exhibition of team work and scientific playing. At the end of the first half the score was 4 to 4. The final score was 8 to 9 in favor of Everett. The girls enjoyed an excellent banquet given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall after the game.

Friday night, however, the tables were turned at Snohomish the Yakima girls winning easily by a score of 10 to 5. The Snohomish girls put up a plucky game but were outclassed in size and team work. In Snohomish the Yakima girls were pleasantly entertained after the game by the Puget Sound Academy girls. The Yakima players were: Alene White, Carol Doust, Leah Lampson, Clementine Prior, Emma Cornwell, and Georgia Carpenter; referee, Lee Lampson; chaperone: Mrs. H. B. Doust.

A Big Yakima Turkey.

Mrs. Iona Lindsey, who lives on the school section, marketed a mammoth bronze turkey last week that is a convincing argument in favor of the poultry industry as an independent means of making a living, if not a fortune, in the Yakima valley. The gobbler in question was sold to the Rand meat market, and after being dressed and ready for sale tipped the scales at an even thirty pounds. He netted Mrs. Lindsey $6.20. It pays to raise turkeys, and Mrs. Lindsey seems to have discovered the best method of raising them.

A piano recital by a portion of the class was given at Mrs. Boyle's home on Wednesday. After the program light refreshments were served. For lack of room the mothers only could be present.

Christmas Wedding Bells.

Mr. Otis Hood and Miss Florence E. McWain were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, 415 North Seventh street last Sunday evening, Rev. M. L. Rose officiating. The ceremony was solemnized at 5 o'clock, the wedding being a pretty home affair, with but few invited guests. However, it marked the union of two of the most popular and deserving young people of the city. The groom is the carrier on Rural route No. 1, and the bride is one of the teachers of the Fairview school. They will continue to reside in the Yakima valley.

Mr. Fred Noble and Miss Minnie Sams were married last Thursday evening, December 22d, at the Christian parsonage, by the Rev. Morton L. Rose. After a brief visit to the Sound Mr. and Mrs. Noble will return and make their home in North Yakima.

Mr. Frank H. Rote and Miss E. B. Carter from Toppenish were married by the Rev. M. I. Rose, at the Christian parsonage Wednesday evening, Dec. 21.

The young people of this city who are attending Whitman college returned last Thursday morning to spend the holidays at their homes in this city. They are Misses Lucile James, Linnie Rowe, Messrs. Phil Dodwell, Mr. Druse.

Married December 22, 1904, at the home of the bride in Selah valley, Mr. Ola Elliott and Miss Beatrice O'Neal. Many friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony that united for life the fortunes of the young couple. The bride and groom were the personification of the purest and noblest Christian manhood and womanhood. Mr. Elliott has lived on the farm until the founding of the North Yakima Business College, when he left the farm and became one of its first students. Leaving college in November he went to Seattle where he secured a good position, from which place he returned to claim his young bride. Miss O'Neal is a lovable young woman of strong Christian character, worthy the hand and heart of the best. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful presents. They left on the early morning train for Seattle where they make their future home. The love and earnest wishes of their many friends and relatives follow them.

Arthur L. Baker and Miss Elsie E. Parsons were married Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence of the bride's father, 115 North Seventh street, Rev. F. L. Hayden performing the ceremony. The wedding was very modestly solemnized, only the immediate relatives of the happy couple being present. Mr. Baker is an electrician in the employ of the Northwest Light & Water company, and his bride is one of the most charming young ladies in the city. They expect to make this their future home.

Mr. Eugene C. Butler and Miss Grace M. Owen were married at the Christian parsonage Tuesday evening, December 27, by Rev. Morton L. Rose.

At the Baptist parsonage on Monday morning, December 26, at 11 o'clock, Mr. Roland A. Hearle and Miss Leonora Hamilton were united in marriage.

At the home of the bride's father, No. 162 North Selah street, at 2:50 p. m., Sunday, December 25, 1904, Mr. David M. Clark and Miss Euphrasia Atkinson were joined in wedlock by Justice J. A. Taggard in the presence of a few intimate friends of the couple.

Held to Superior Court.

C. L. Eichenaner, the Mabton saloon-keeper who has been so prominently before the public in a number of trials on the charge of selling liquor to minors, was held by Judge Nichols this morning to the superior court in the sum of $500, this being the outcome of the case in which Melvin Jory was the prosecuting witness. The case of Harry Lichty was dismissed on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Parker, owing to the conflict of evidence. The case against Frank Martin, proprietor of the place where all selling to minors is alleged to have taken place, was taken up; the testimony was heard and the case dismissed. During the trial of the cases the attorneys on both sides narrowly escaped a $25 fine for contempt of court.

A Business Change.

TO OUR MANY CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS: Having acquired an interest in the new United States Laundry, we will close our establishment and enter into the new firm, which will open its modern and thoroughly-equipped laundry for business the first week in January. JUNG TOY, NEWLY MARRIED BANQUETS AMERICAN FRIENDS

Jung Toy, Chinese Hop Grower, Gives Dinner in Honor of Wedding Last Wednesday Evening.

Last Wednesday evening Jung Toy, the well known hop grower who has had charge of the George Bosdet ranch in Wide Hollow, gave a dinner in honor of his recent marriage, the event taking place at the Richelieu and being attended by a large number of the prominent citizens of the city. Jung Toy is a well educated, intelligent Chinese gentleman whose financial success has been brought about by his industry and business tact. He is now considered quite wealthy, and believing that it was not good for a man to be alone, he went to Portland a few weeks ago and married a Chinese lady with whom he had become acquainted some years ago. Her name was Moy Tsoy, and her father is one of the richest merchants in Portland.

Jung Toy enjoys the confidence and esteem of a great many people in North Yakima, and his invitations were therefore received with sincere pleasure. At 8 o'clock the guests arrived at the Richelieu and were most cordially received by the affable host, and prettily, blushing welcomed by his wife. They were shown to the places that had been reserved, and enjoyed the very best dinner that the famous Richelieu could get up. While the dinner was in progress, a toast was proposed to Mr. and Mrs. Jung Toy, and the host responded to this in a modest but sincere speech that conveyed a welcome to his guests and his pleasure at their presence. The dinner was served in five courses, and after the last had been served, Attorney Fred Parker, D. E. Lesh, Arthur Coffin, E. B. Moore, W. L. Lemon and F. C. Hall each made an address, and the latter presented Mr. and Mrs. Jung Toy with a beautiful clock on behalf of a number of the guests. Mrs. Condon read an appropriate poem which was greatly appreciated. The happy couple were the recipients of a number of presents.

Following is a list of the invited guests:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Congdon, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Dills, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ditter, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pease, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lemon, Mrs. and Mrs. D. E. Lesh, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Hough, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. James Curran, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Feciter, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Janeck, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Whitson, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Whitson, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Short, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Tiesley, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Crist, F. C. Hall, Miss Bessie Hall, A. W. Morrison and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Poole, and Messrs. L. S. Howlett, J. A. Taggard, George Bosdet, F. H. McCoy, W. L. Steinweg, Edw. Carpenter, W. A. Streitz and J. D. Medill.

WILL INSTALL BLOCK SYSTEM.

N. P. Will Equip Line Between Ellensburg and Spokane.

The Northern Pacific road will install a complete block system on its line between Ellensburg and Spokane within a very short time. The work has been authorized, and the order given to proceed with it at once. North Yakima will be one of the most important stations in the section named, and some of the first work of installing the system will be done at this point. It will not require many weeks to cover the distance between the two points named; wires for the special and exclusive use of the operators on the line will have to be strung, and the probabilities are that few sidetracks and other special arrangements will have to be provided.

owing to the fact that these are now in use where they will be needed. It is generally understood that this system is but a starter and that within a comparatively short time the entire line from St. Paul to Portland will be covered.

The system to be put in will have blocks from two and one-half miles to five long all the way from Spokane to Ellensburg. There will be a telegraph operator at the end of every block, who will issue orders to passenger trains by semaphores. Only one train will be allowed on a block at one time.

If a train comes to a block where the signal is out, showing that another train has the right of way on that block, the train coming up will be put upon the sidetrack until its turn comes. There will be a sidetrack at each block and one in the middle of some of the long blocks. Where a sidetrack is in the middle of a block it will be equipped with a telephone. Beyond this point an engineer cannot go until he has orders that the track is clear ahead.

The system can readily be adapted to the road. The required number of sidetracks are already in and the blocks will be arranged so that most of them will end at a station. The company already has the block system on one district of the Pacific division and on one district of the Minnesota division.

The block system is the most approved method of operating trains for both speed and safety that has been devised, and President Roosevelt in his message to congress urged upon that body the enactment of a law that would compel the railroads to put in such systems. President Roosevelt says it is the only way to stop the appalling loss of life in the United States from railroad accidents.

GAVE THEM LONG SENTENCES.

Judge Rudkin Passes Judgment on Men Convicted at Recent Term of Court.

The sentences imposed by Judge Rudkin upon the men found guilty of various crimes at the last term of Superior court were pronounced last Wednesday evening, and are as follows:

Charles Wilson, Pearl Howard and Fred Smith, who robbed John Mollisat, an Indian, near the Moxee bridge in hop picking time, thirteen years each in the penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Fred Blair, who robbed an Indian at the merry-go-round while the state fair was in progress, was given seven years.

Wm. Ryan, convicted of pocket-picking, four years.

James Lindar, a young man who passed a forged check at Prosser, three years.

Charles Russell and T. W. Parks, who robbed H. Neal, the blacksmith, were given five and eight years, respectively.

W. A. Sutton, one of the gang who held up and robbed a Chinese on Front street a few weeks ago was given five years, and his partner, Oscar Noonan five years for burglary and five years for robbery. Walter Gourley, another of the same outfit, who was also convicted was not sentenced. He was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

J. Funnemark, who has been confined for so long a time in the county jail, pending trial upon the charge of getting money upon false pretenses, and who was found guilty, was also let go on his own recognizance, the court deciding not to sentence him.

Dr. G. H. Ritenour, wife and daughter, will arrive from North Yakima tomorrow to spend Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. M. D. Baker....Dr. P. Frank of North Yakima, county health officer, was here last Friday to examine the pupils in the public schools for evidences of diphtheria. The examination was prompted by the fact that, a few weeks ago, as noted by The Bulletin, Dr. C. C. McCown reported a case of diphtheria in the family of J. E. McClellan, the little boy having been in school the day before he was taken. He has fully recovered, however, and owing to the vigilance and strict quarantine regulations enforced by Dr. McCown, no other members of the family had the disease. That gentleman, who is deputy health officer, assisted Dr. Frank to examine the school children. They found no evidences of diphtheria and pronounced the general health of the pupils as being excellent.—Prosser Bulletin.

Found.

I have found it at last. A plaster that will stay on the wall and does not cost much more than the sand glass plaster that keeps crumbling all the time when broken. If you are going to build you cannot afford to plaster with sand and lime. You would be behind the age. Scott's Lumber yard will furnish you with something so hard and tough that when your wife and you have a scrap you will not have to call in a plasterer. Try this iron wood plaster. You will never regret it and with the 4X finish it is like porcelain.

ALFALFA LAND GOOD FOR SUGAR BEET CROP

Figures Showing Its Extent and the Profits Resulting—Conditions Less Favorable Than Here.

The following is an article that appeared recently in the Orange Judd Farmer and is from the pen of Dr. C. O. Townsend of the United States department of agriculture:

"The beet sugar industry has played an important part in the development of the agricultural interests of Michigan during the past 15 years. The first half of this period was spent in determining the fitness of the soil and climate of Michigan for the production of sugar beets and in preparing, in some measure, the people in the agricultural districts of the state for the introduction of a new crop into their system of rotation. The second half of this period has witnessed a marvelous development of this new industry. It is true that sugar has been made from beets on a commercial scale in this country for more than 30 years. The progress of the industry was very slow during the first half of this period, so that in 1887 only 400,000 pounds of beet sugar were produced in this country. From that time on, however, the development of the industry has been rapid and the foundation upon which it rests has become more and more secure.

"Beet sugar has been made in paying quantities in other states for more than a quarter a century before the manufacture of this important article was taken up by the people of Michigan. Several conditions were responsible for this delay: 1, the uncertainty in regard to the fitness of the soil and climate of Michigan for the production of sugar beets containing the requisite amount of sugar and having the proper degree of purity; 2, the capital necessary for the development of the new industry was already invested in the production of other important commodities, especially in the manufacture of lumber; 3, the farming operations necessary for the production of sugar beets are in some respects so different from the ordinary agricultural methods that farmers were loth to branch out into the new industry until assured that it would be in a measure successful. Among the factors that were directly responsible for the establishment of the beet sugar industry in Michigan the most important was the state experiment station. It was necessary to determine by actual tests whether or not the soil and climate of Michigan would produce beets capable of being utilized satisfactorily for the manufacture of sugar. At an early date the experiment station, aided by the United States department of agriculture, undertook to solve this problem.

"In 1890 nearly a ton of sugar beet seed was distributed among a large number of farmers in Michigan, who grew trial plots of beets. Samples were tested for sugar and purity, giving an average of over 13 per cent sugar and upwards of 80 per cent purity. These tests were repeated several seasons with equally satisfactory results. As early as 1881, the state legislature, desiring to encourage the manufacture of sugar in Michigan, offered a bounty of 2 cents a pound for all sugar made from any source, and exemption from taxes for 10 years upon property used in making sugar. No claim was made, however, under this law, for the bounty for beet sugar. In 1897 a bill was passed offering a bounty of 1 cent per pound for sugar made from beets. In the meantime the experiment station had been testing cane, sorghum and beets, and had reached the conclusion that beets promised the best results. The end of the lumber industry was in sight and capital was seeking new fields. Farmers had become encouraged by their successful efforts to grow beets on the trial plots, and altogether the time was ripe for the new industry to be launched in Michigan.

"A company was formed and in 1898 the first beet sugar made in Michigan was turned out by the Michigan sugar factory at Bay City. As a result of the first year's experience, the managers decided to double the capacity of their factory, and eight other factories were erected and equipped for the campaign of 1899. There are this year 18 factories in operation, two of which were built for the campaign of 1904. In three instances two factories have combined for various reasons and two factories have been removed to other parts of the beet sugar area. The 18 factories in operation this year are capable of slicing 12,950 tons of beets per day, and from these beets should be obtained not less than 1400 tons of sugar. These factories represent an invested capital of not less than $13,000,000 in buildings and machinery devoted exclusively to the production of sugar from beets. The factories in Michigan are, as a rule, well distributed over the state, one being located in the upper peninsula. There is room in the state for several more factories if they are wisely located and properly inaugurated. Steps are being taken to establish other factories in the upper peninsula and in parts of the lower peninsula where the train haul is now too long for profit."

THE REASON.—There is no medicine equal to Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for purifying the blood. It carries off the poisons which contaminate the life fluid. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands and gives the body an increased supply of pure, body-building blood. It builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh instead of flabby fat, promotes the appetite, feeds the nerves, and so gives to weak nervous people vitality and vigor.

"This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and think it's the greatest medicine in the world," writes Mrs. V. M. Young, of Weir, West Va. "I took down sick six months ago and called in our physician and he gave me medicine but I grew worse. He said I had dyspepsia in its worst form. I decided to try your medicine and began to improve. I used five bottles, two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three of 'Favorite Prescription,' and now I am doing my own housework. A number of my lady friends also are using Dr. Pierce's medicine and they recommend it highly. May God bless and prosper you in your grand work."

A GRAND MASK BALL BY WOODMEN OF WORLD

The Event of the Season in its Line
Will be Given in the Armory on
New Years Eve, Dec. 31st.

The members of the Woodmen lodge of North Yakima are determined that their grand mask ball to be given on New Years' eve, December 31st, in the Armory, shall eclipse anything in its line ever given in the city. The entire membership of the lodge has been engaged in preparing the details in connection with the event for some time, and there is no reason to doubt that the intentions of the promoters will be fully realized. The invitation is general, and all who dance or enjoy looking on at a gay scene such as will be represented on that evening are invited; all who mask; however, will be required to raise their masks or in some manner identify themselves at the door. No improper characters will be admitted. Admission has been placed at $1, ladies free. Lady spectators will be charged 25 cents. Wright's five-piece orchestra will furnish the music and the grand march will begin at 9 o'clock, sharp. The decorations will be gorgeous, and are being now placed in position at a great deal of expense of time and labor. The committees are as follows:

Arrangement—Stanley Coffin, H. J. Rand, E. J. Wyman, C. C. Case, J. J. McDonald, J. T. Bragg, A. Holstien, A. D. Sloan, H. W. Mull.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

NINETEEN FOUR A MEMORY.

Before the Herald greets its great family of readers again the year 1904 will have closed and taken its place in the silent past, from whence it can be recalled only in memory. This paper will start a new volume with the new year, which will be its seventeenth. In looking back over the twelve months all but past, we are able to see more clearly what we have always realized—that the prosperity and growth of the paper is due in no small measure to the interest and the moral as well as the financial support which the paper has received from its friends. In turn, in appreciation of this support, we have endeavored to give our readers the best paper that the price of the subscription would permit, and one that would in every way fulfill their expectations of what a home paper should be. Thus we believe that both sides have been served. As we have it in the Latin, "alterum alterius auxilio eget"—the one needs the help of the other.

No year in the time that the present management has been connected with the control of the Herald has been so gratifying in results; the volume of business in the subscription, advertising and job departments is greater now than it has ever been, the receipts are larger and the pay roll is the heaviest. But we look forward to the coming year in the belief that it will be still better. There is little danger of a panic or financial depression of any extent, and on the other hand there is every prospect for increased prosperity. Every business man in the city of North Yakima, we believe, shares this opinion, and we sincerely hope that their expectations may be fully realized. We wish all our readers, subscribers, advertisers and patrons, and the loyal corps of correspondents who have helped to make the Herald readable, a happy and a prosperous New Year. May 1905 be the happiest and best year the favored valley of the Yakima has ever known.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The teachers' county institute, which has just closed its session in this city, was probably the most successful one ever held in the county. It was largely attended not only by teachers but by patrons of our public schools, who justly considered that a more intimate knowledge concerning the common school system of the state was a matter of advantage to them. The lectures and discussions were of a higher order than ever before. The address of Dr. Gault at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening was an extremely able and instructive paper and was, what so many dissertations on education lack, intensely interesting even to a lay audience.

Our citizens note with local pride, that very many of the teachers in the city schools took prominent part in the institute and acquitted themselves with credit to themselves and school district No. 7; the address of City Superintendent Selleck on Russia and Japan is said by those fortunate enough to listen to it, to have been one of the gems of the session.

County Superintendent Dickey has been indefatigable in his endeavors to work up public interest in behalf of these annual teachers institutes, and the marked success attending this last, which by the way, will be the last during his present incumbency, must be very gratifying to that faithful and competent official.

The good people of North Yakima take great interest in everything pertaining to the cause of education. When the subject of schools is under contemplation, nothing is too good for them; the very best of teachers must be engaged and the best of appliances in the most convenient and attractive school rooms furnished. It is commonly understood that the delegation from this school district at Spokane, is to invite the Washington Teachers State Association to hold its next annual convocation in this city. If the invitation is accepted, the teachers of the State of Washington may be sure of a kind and courteous reception and that no expense or trouble will be spared to make their stay at North Yakima not only profitable to them from a professional standpoint, but pleasant and attractive socially.

The city councilmen are entitled to and will without doubt receive the thanks of every parent in the city for having instructed the marshal to ring the curfew bell and to see that the ordinance prohibiting children from running the streets after 9 o'clock at night is strictly enforced. Children who are out after that hour of the night find that there are but few places where companionship and amusement can be found, and they gravitate towards these places as a moth to the candle. The majority of places thus open are not such as may be frequented by children in safety to their morals, to put it most mildly. Parents are, of course, most to blame, but if they have not the welfare of their children at heart sufficiently to prompt them to keep the youngsters off the streets at night, the officers of the law should do it.

The announcement that James A. Drain is to be retained in his present position, adjutant general of the National Guard of Washington, gives genuine pleasure to all members of the guard throughout the state, and to a great majority of all who take enough interest in the guard to know the merits of the men who are at the head of it. Mr. Drain's retention is a compliment to his integrity and ability, and politics as such had little to do with it. He is popular with the guard on account of the work he has done to build it up to its present state of efficiency, and it is gratifying to the members of Company E to know that their petition to Mr. Mead for the retention was among the first received by the governor-elect.

A kidney or bladder trouble can always be cured by using Foley's Kidney Cure in time. North Yakima Drug Store, A. D. Sloan, Prop'r.

REV. HENRY'S ADDRESS TO MASONIC FRATERNITY

An Eloquent Discourse, Treating the Different Standards for Judging Men, and of Man's Intrinsic Value.

The Masons of the city met in their hall Sunday evening and marched in a body to the Methodist church, where Rev. Henry delivered the following sermon in an impressive and forceful manner. The Herald has been requested by a large number to publish it, and takes pleasure in doing so, believing that all will be interested in reading it. Taking for his text Isaiah xlii:12, "I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir," Rev. Henry said:

"By a man's intrinsic value I mean his value simply as a fully equipped man. Not as a rich man, as distinguished from a poor man. Not as a man of genius, as distinguished from a man of mere common sense. Not as a man of executive ability, as distinguished from a man of feeble will and inactive purpose.

"These elements enter into the consideration of a man's value to society. I want you to consider his value as a man, created in the image of God and endowed with certain faculties and powers that he possesses by right of his humanity and in common with all other men.

"A man is to be valued wholly and solely for that which he is in himself, for that which stands up in the four fleshly walls of him, apart from clothes, rank, fortune, and all externals whatsoever.

An Irresistible Conclusion.

"I believe that, when you set before yourselves squarely what it means to be a man, the conclusion will be irresistible that he is worth too much to prostitute his powers to a low and ignoble purpose, to live his life aimlessly or to squander his time and energy as a spendthrift squanders his inheritance. I believe, also, that if we recognized the true value of man, as God has created him, we would not be so indifferent to his welfare or so careless of those destructive agencies by which he is surrounded.

"The chinch bug, the army worm and the grasshopper are objects of study by our most eminent entomologists. The state has taken an interest in their investigations. Experiment stations have been erected by public money. The constitution and habit of life of these minute creatures have been made the objects of profound and close investigation. Why?

"In order that a means of exterminating them may be discovered. They have proven their destructive nature. How terrible when the entire states of Nebraska and Kansas were ravaged by locusts; when an entire wheat crop in Dakota or corn crop in Illinois is eaten up in a few days. There is a crop subject to blight, mildew, rust, and inroads by a thousand agents of destruction, that is of infinitely greater intrinsic value than all these, and yet the destruction of which does not attract one-half our attention.

"I refer to the children and young people growing up in our cities and villages—a crop for which all other crops are grown. I do not marvel at the fiery zeal of the reformer, who recognizes man's intrinsic value and sees that value being constantly and terribly depreciated by agencies directly under the control of society.

Elements of Value.

"Let us consider some of the elements of man's intrinsic value. His body is worth something. As an automatic industrial machine it has its value in the marts of commerce. From the days when the pyramids of Egypt and the military roads and immense aqueducts of ancient Rome were constructed by the hand labor of millions of laborers, to the days when the great southern plantations swarmed with nimble cotton-pickers and the cities of the north were employing an army of unskilled factory hands, strength of muscle and suppleness have always been at a premium and have been assigned a certain value in the world of industry.

"For many centuries man was considered simply as a beast of burden, a tool, a slave, but his capacity for labor was duly appreciated. We always experience a new sensation of astonishment when we consider 'the marvels of man's bodily dwelling.' What a magnificent physical frame is his! Strong, well knit, supple, elastic, beautifully molded! Capable of enduring incredible hardship and privation; yet delicately, sensitively responsive to the slightest thought!

"We express our admiration at the skill that has fashioned the wonderful lenses of microscope and telescope, and yet they are but imperfect imitations of the perfect lens of the eye. Think of the marvelous capabilities of the organ of the inner ear, attuned to all the melodies of nature—the sighing wind, the murmuring stream, the song of bird, the hum of bee, the sweet cadence of the voices of loved ones.

"Think of the brain—the wonderful storehouse of registered impressions, the seat of memory, with its grasp upon the past; of reason, with its power to analyze the present; of imagination, with its capacity to reach out into the future. Shut away within its narrow box, the skull, it deals continuously with the doing of the world outside.

Brain Central Office.

"The brain is the central office to receive, translate and transmit messages that come from the outer world along the multiplex network of wires that constitute the nervous system. The ear receives a message that betokens sorrow or joy. It is transmitted along a slender hidden wire. An impression is made upon the brain, which translates it. Immediately the face is flushed and the eyes fill with tears or laughter.

"Contemplate the hand, the most wonderful mechanical tool in the universe; strong, subtle, cunning, and more delicate than the stroke of a vagrant feather in its touch; used as a sledge by the boxer, as a cup by the savage, wielding the ax of the woodman, guiding the brush of the painter and the chisel of the sculptor; used instead of eyes by the blind and in place of lips by the dumb; strong to save a man from death and tender to calm the troubled dreams of a babe.

"Think of the voice—articulate and capable of infinite modulation. Have you never marveled as you have heard some consummate orator or listened to some rarely sweet singer? What power there is in the human voice to weave a spell over all the senses; to hold the attention, and even, at times, to compel the reluctant consent of reason itself.

"By its vibrations alone, even without the aid of spoken words, it is capable of interpreting the subtlest emotions of the heart. Rising in ecstasy, triumph and joy; discordant in passion, hatred and jealousy; low and gracious in love, gentleness and tender sorrow. The voice of the nightingale and the fierce snarl of the tiger cheated of his prey are born imprisoned in the human throat.

"Man's body has been called the house beautiful and the temple of the living God. The more we study it the more we marvel and the deeper reverence we have for Him who has endowed us so richly. But after all this body is not the man, and its various and wonderful workmanship forms but a small part of his intrinsic value.

"You may lose a hand or an arm or a limb. You may be maimed or disfigured, and yet the real man may still remain untouched. Many a dauntless soul has lived a noble life, strong, inspiring, helpful, even though imprisoned in a body broken by misfortune or wasted by disease.

"How many have blessed the name of Jennie Cassidy, who have known nothing of her weary vigil for years stretched out upon her little iron bedstead in Louisville, Ky. The history of the past is rich with the names of brave men and brave women who have conquered and risen above their physical weakness and impotence and have achieved great things for God and humanity.

"Are you not conscious of the existence of an inner being which can live on almost entirely independent of the life of the body?

"The body is at church, the mind may be pouring over absent ledgers. It may be casting up store accounts; in the stock exchange engineering some new deal. It may be engaged in recounting last week's gains or losses; living over again some scene of pleasure, or bending anxiously by the sickbed of some loved one. Your body has been on a moving train. Your mind left the station only to return again to scenes of parting or to linger lovingly, perhaps regretfully, among the familiar things of the life that is past.

"The body may be a great stay-at-home and the mind a great traveler. Your outward man may never move from its position in your great armchair before the fire. It may never lose its delightful sense of warmth and comfort, while your inner man is taking successive journeys to Arctic regions with Franklin and Nansen and Peary. "You may be looking at the glowing coals in your grate. You may be seeing fields upon fields of drift ice, the glistening peaks of mighty ice mountains, men struggling against the hostile elements or yielding in despair against the pressure of tremendous odds in the frozen north. Can you estimate the intrinsic value of the mind? It can march with Alexander and Napoleon upon their campaigns. It can look upon the fall of Jerusalem and the burning of Rome.

"It can penetrate to the hearts of Africa with Livingstone and Stanley. It can mourn over the terrible suffering in India, Armenia, and Cuba. This inner man can make the past live again—he can listen to words long since spoken and be thrilled by deeds of self-sacrifice and heroism that were performed in ages long since past. You can walk with Jesus by the shore of Galilee.

"You can hear again the sweet story of his life as you first heard it at your mother's knee. One word would be sufficient to send you back through the years to some distant scene. 'Mother,' This spoken word calls up a vision of the tender hands that guided us; the tender lips that taught us.

"By what standard will you estimate the value of this inner man?

"What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? or what will a man give in exchange for his soul?

"To him God speaks and waits to receive an answer. To him eternal truths are revealed. God shows his estimate of man's value by seeking to hold communion with him. By seeking to inspire him with loftiest, noblest, holiest aspirations. Man's intrinsic value is seen in the victories that he has won.

"He is the destined conqueror of the earth, because of his potential genius for civilization. When we compare the present with the past we are compelled to pause with wonder and astonishment. Present conditions of civilization wear such an air of permanency that we scarcely ever think of the time when they did not exist.

"But turn your steps backward and sweep away, as you go, the evidences of man's triumphs in nature and society. Cities vanish. Cherished institutions disappear. This country soon becomes a vast, unexplored tract of virgin forest. Cross over to England and the continent.

"How soon the work of the last few centuries is swept away. We come to the feudal period, with its castles for the nobles and the huts for the common people. With its petty wars, strife and violence, with its ignorance, superstition and brutishness.

"Back still further! For in order to see man as the conqueror you must know him at the beginning and know also the tools that he had to work with. Think of the savage, our ancestor, living in forests primeval, guided by instinct, looking, with dull wonder, upon a world whose mysteries baffle him, whose secrets seem utterly beyond his power of penetration.

"His knowledge is limited to his scanty needs. He knows the path through the forest, the course of the streams, the haunts of beasts and the flight of birds. He is conscious of the pressing need of food, slight clothing and shelter. These are the objects of his existence. Hunting and fishing are his labor. War is his pastime.

"The life of the human beast of prey is not much above the lives of the birds of the air or the beasts of the field. His body is supple and strong. His mind seems to bear closer kinship to instinct than to reason. His soul is a dim stirring of superstitious fear, wondering awe and awakening self-consciousness. He is ignorant of the uses of fire, knows nothing of the properties of matter. He never dreams of the occult forces of nature in full activity about him. When he does begin to dream he must coin words to express his ideas. He must create a language to embody his thoughts.

Constructive Ability.

"His constructive ability is manifest in the crude fashioning of rude weapons and tools out of materials that lie nearest his hand. See him as he stands helpless on the bank of a forest stream. He is unable to cross, until the current lodges a bit of driftwood at his feet. He is more helpless than bird or beast, and yet, when his genius shall awaken we shall see him building cities, constructing empires, forming governments, shaping policies that shall reach far into the future, spanning rivers, crossing continents, traversing seas, exploring every corner of the earth, subduing nature, reading her secrets, solving her mysteries, employing her forces to his own ends, studying the stars, analyzing the drops of water, ransacking earth and sea for those things that shall minister to his awakened sensibilities.

"What is the intrinsic value of a being possessed of such conquering genius? Behold this man—standing helplessly beside the forest stream! Then look at the suspension bridge spanning Niagara river! See him as he laborously digs out his first log canoe! Then witness the launching of a modern battle ship, the product of his genius!

"Enter his home in a rocky cave or rude, temporary hut. Then plunge into the teeming life of a great city! Note the massive buildings that line the streets! Walk down the aisles of some great cathedral! Or lose yourself in the luxurious labyrinth of some merchant-prince's palatial residence.

"See his clumsy handling of rude stone implements! Then examine the delicate workmanship of the marvelous designs in gold and silver ornaments, and the exquisite tracery of the great masterpieces of painting and sculpture, that are the work of his hands. All the glory and triumph of the nineteenth century was potential in the genius of our savage ancestors, who hunted and fished and made war under the shadows of the primeval forest.

"Such are some of the elements of man's intrinsic value.

"But this is a small part of his value.

"What a piece of work is man! How noble in reason! How infinite in faculties! In form and moving how express and admirable! In action, how like an angel! In apprehension, how like a god!" —Hamlet.

He is a being created for two worlds. When God breathed into him the breath of life, there entered into his soul the spark of immortality.

He can rise above the things of this life. He can cherish hopes and ambitions that are not limited by the boundaries of this earth.

He can conquer nature, but he can do more—he can subdue himself.

He can bring his physical passions under subjection to spiritual forces, and, as he does this, he is seen for what he is. Something more than a splendid animal, gifted with imagination, endowed with intellect and equipped with the genius of an earth conqueror. Something infinitely more than all this. For, as he works out his destiny, there comes to him the call to fellowship with God.

It was in recognition of man's value as a potential heir of God that Christ came into the world.

Outside Christendom human life is held cheap—

The savage cares nothing for it.

The heathen has no appreciation of it.

"The ancient world with all the splendor of its art and literature made little account of the individual man."—Guizot.

Ancient civilization failed because it ignored "the fundamental truth of the social order"—"the doctrine of the human equation" the truth of human brotherhood resting upon the fact of divine fatherhood.

The centuries show that the Christian ideal, the worth of man as man, is the only sound political philosophy. Not fully recognized as yet, but some day it will be and then—"Honor all men"; all men simply because they are men. However degraded or defiled, they are still men, bearing the divine image, and to be revered. It was this sense of the dignity and value of the individual man that lay at the heart of all reforms of Christendom and created them. It destroyed slavery; it abolished the gladiatorial shows; it guarded the lives of little children; it elevated woman; it puts an end to trial by combat, and is banishing dueling from the face of the earth. It has been at the root of all the beneficent legislation of modern times; of the slavery acts, and acts for the prevention of injury to workmen, and is responsible for all in our civilization that goes to the building of character.

Shall we celebrate the day of Christ and fail to honor the Christ?

Chief Justice Brewer has this testimony to give concerning Christ:

"Whatever may be the truth as to the nature, relations and purposes of Christ, no one doubts that his life stands as the mightiest and most uplifting force that has entered human history."

Are these words of the great jurist true? Under the transforming power of the gospel the face of the world has changed.

Before it as the wonderful story of divine love—"selfishness has lost its power; passion has softened and hate has faded away; love has blossomed as the fragrant flower of the soul; purity has become possible; all human relations have grown more sweet and tender, and the home has become a heaven upon earth."—Brewer.

Yes the value of life has been infinitely increased by the coming of the Babe of Bethlehem.

Increased for the world. Increased for the great mass of men. Increased for each one of us individually.

And as the thought comes home to us there steals over our spirits the spirit of adoration of the wise men who followed the star—the reverent awe of the shepherds who heard the angel's song.

Notice of Stockholders' Meeting, New Schanno Ditch Company.

Notice is hereby given that the regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the New Schanno Ditch Company will be held at the City Hall in the City of North Yakima, Washington, on Saturday, the 7th day of January, A. D. 1905, at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year and transacting such other business as may come before said meeting.

Dated December 27th, 1904.
JOHN J. RUDKIN, Secretary.

Notice of Special School Election on Issue of Bonds.

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held at the Central school building, in School District No. 7, Yakima County, Washington, on the 7th day of January, A. D. 1905, between the hours of 1 o'clock p. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of determining whether or not the Directors of said District shall issue and sell the bonds of said School District in the sum of Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars, thereby borrowing money in said amount for the following purposes: To erect on the North Natchez Avenue site, owned by said School District, in the City of North Yakima, an eight-room school building of stone or brick or brick and stone, and completely furnished and equipped; also to select and purchase on or about the Learning Addition and the Capitol Hill Addition to the City of North Yakima, suitable school house sites, and to have placed thereon for present use school buildings for the primary grades; all of said buildings to be completed and ready for use by the opening of schools, of said District in September, A. D. 1905. Said bonds, if issued, to bear a rate of interest not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable annually; said bonds to be payable and redeemable in twenty years from date thereof—provided, that said School District reserves the right to pay or redeem said bonds or any of them at any time after ten years from date thereof.

IRRIGATION COMMISSION DRAFTS COMPREHENSIVE BILL

It Proves for the Equitable Distribution of Impounded Waters to Corporations and Individuals.

The fourth meeting of the Irrigation Commission of this state met in Seattle early in the month remaining in session until the 16th, a period of twelve days, when it adjourned and again met in Spokane on the 16th inst., holding a four days session. The members of the commission are: Harold Preston, Seattle, chairman; J. A. Shalkelford, Tacoma; Geo. E. Cottrell, Seattle; E. A. Byran, Pullman; Dr. Blalock, Walla Walla; Walter Granger, Zillah; W. B. Bridgman, Sunnyside; C. B. Lund, Spokane; John Smithson and Austin Myers of Ellensburg.

At these meetings discussion was had on proposed legislation and a bill was drafted which will be introduced at the coming session of the state legislature. A copy of the bill which will soon appear in printed form, is in the hands of Mr. Bridgman, of Sunnyside. While in the city the latter part of last week he had the following to say regarding it:

"By the proposed bill there will be created the offices of state engineer and water masters. The state engineer, who will be a technically qualified engineer, will have charge of the hydrographic surveys of the state and with the commissioner of each division will ascertain the amount of water needed for the various tracts of land now or hereafter irrigated and these two officers as referees of the board, will, under their own rules of procedure, make preliminary investigations of each irrigated section to gather information upon which to determine the extent of the water rights of various persons and companies.

"The bill provides for the division of the state into four water divisions in each of which will be one water commissioner having charge of the distribution of the waters therein. The state engineer and water commissioners are to be appointed by the governor for a term of six years. This part of Washington will be in what is known as water division No. 2, and embraces all the land draining into the Columbia river from the right bank between Sentinel Bluffs and Cascade Locks.

"The federal government will undertake no reclamation in the Yakima valley until the water rights in the valley have been adjudicated, so that they will be safe in making an appropriation of the natural waters of the river and will be able to store waters in the mountains and carry them past other ditches to the intakes of their own canals. The proposed bill provides for the adjudication of the water rights for irrigation in this state, beginning with the stream system most used for irrigation which as a matter of fact is the Yakima valley. When these rights are determined the gates of the canals can be fixed so as to allow of the passage of storage water down to the canals entitled to such storage waters and private parties of the federal government will know what water there is for them to appropriate from the river.

"An extensive hydrographic survey will be first made by a state engineer, an office created by the bill, so that the adjudication of water rights may be as accurate as possible. In the case of those who have begun to use water, but who have not fully utilized their appropriations the following provision is made: "Provided further that the court shall, where proper, decree an incepted, incomplete or inchoate right to the use of water, which has not yet been applied to beneficial use, such right to mature upon completion of the application thereof to a beneficial use within a reasonable time."

"In regard to the storage or impounding of waters the bill will contain the following provisions: 'In considering the question of public interest in passing upon the applications for a permit to impound waters the state engineer shall take into consideration the future development of the storage site and the future development of the full practicable amount of irrigable land of that drainage area.'

"A permit may be granted under and conformably to the provisions of this act for the storage in any lake, pond, stream, river, draw, coulee, ravine or other suitable place of water for beneficial use upon specified lands. The control of all storage works shall remain in the state engineer, and the control of the gate or gates and the regulation of the flow from each reservoir shall be in the water commissioner in whose division it is located, subject to the supervision of the state engineer who shall establish rules and regulations to secure to each owner of the right to use water, the quantity allowed in his permit at the time required for the use thereof. All waters impounded and not applied to beneficial use under permit or license shall be considered as public waters."

"The above and other provisions of the bill in regard to permits will allow a private company to use only those lakes for storage which it can fully utilize upon lands it expects to reclaim. All other storage sites will be reserved for other private companies or as seems likely for the use of the federal government itself as soon as the water rights of the stream system are adjudicated.

"In regard to the relation of the large carrying companies and the consumers of water under them the bill provides that settlers under the carrier's ditch may receive water at a reasonable price per acre and maintenance fee to be fixed by the state board of water commissioners the same being based upon the value of the works and the cost of maintenance thereof together with a fair profit to the owner and the price or 'water right' may be paid in a number of equal annual installments to be fixed by the purchasers, not to exceed fifteen, with legal interest."

Order to Show Cause.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, in and for the County of Yakima.

In Probate.
In the matter of the Estate of Minnie Cariveau, deceased.
Now, to-wit, on this 13th day of December, A. D. 1904, this cause coming on to be heard before the Court, in open Court, upon the

of Richard Cariveau, the administrator of the above entitled estate, for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate in said petition more fully described, situate in said Yakima County, State of Washington:

And it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court from the allegations contained in said petition that there is no money in the hands of the said administrator out of which to pay the claims filed against said estate, the debts, expenses, state and county taxes, and charges of administration, and that there is no personal property in his possession or belonging to said estate out of which the money can be realized for said purpose, or at all, and that it is necessary to sell said real estate to provide funds for the payment thereof; and it further appearing from said petition that it would be most beneficial for said estate and all the parties interested therein, that said real estate described as aforesaid, and the whole of it, be sold at private sale;

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered that all persons interested in said estate be and appear in the Superior Court of the State of Washington, in and for the County of Yakima, in the Court Room at the Court House, in the City of North Yakima, on Monday, the 10th day of January, A. D. 1905, at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to show cause why an order should not be granted to said administrator to sell said real estate situate in Yakima County, State of Washington, and described in said petition, now on file with the Clerk of this Court (reference being hereby made to said petition for a better and more complete description of the real estate asked to be sold), for the purposes above mentioned.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks in the Yakima Herald, a weekly newspaper published in the City of North Yakima, Washington, and of general circulation in said county and state, before said time appointed for hearing upon said petition.

Dated this 13th day of December, A. D. 1904.
50-5t FRANK H. RUDKIN, Judge.

ALFALFA LAND GOOD FOR SUGAR BEET CROP

Figures Showing Its Extent and the Profits Resulting—Conditions Less Favorable Than Here.

The following is an article that appeared recently in the Orange Judd Farmer and is from the pen of Dr. C. O. Townsend of the United States department of agriculture:

"The beet sugar industry has played an important part in the development of the agricultural interests of Michigan during the past 15 years. The first half of this period was spent in determining the fitness of the soil and climate of Michigan for the production of sugar beets and in preparing, in some measure, the people in the agricultural districts of the state for the introduction of a new crop into their system of rotation. The second half of this period has witnessed a marvelous development of this new industry. It is true that sugar has been made from beets on a commercial scale in this country for more than 30 years. The progress of the industry was very slow during the first half of this period, so that in 1887 only 900,000 pounds of beet sugar were produced in this country. From that time on, however, the development of the industry has been rapid and the foundation upon which it rests has become more and more secure.

"Beet sugar has been made in paying quantities in other states for more than a quarter a century before the manufacture of this important article was taken up by the people of Michigan. Several conditions were responsible for this delay: 1, the uncertainty in regard to the fitness of the soil and climate of Michigan for the production of sugar beets containing the requisite amount of sugar and having the proper degree of purity; 2, the capital necessary for the development of the new industry was already invested in the production of other important commodities, especially in the manufacture of lumber; 3, the farming operations necessary for the production of sugar beets are in some respects so different from the ordinary agricultural methods that farmers were loth to branch out into the new industry until assured that it would be in a measure successful. Among the factors that were directly responsible for the establishment of the beet sugar industry in Michigan the most important was the state experiment station. It was necessary to determine by actual tests whether or not the soil and climate of Michigan would produce beets capable of being utilized satisfactorily for the manufacture of sugar. At an early date the experiment station, aided by the United States department of agriculture, undertook to solve this problem.

"In 1890 nearly a ton of sugar beet seed was distributed among a large number of farmers in Michigan, who grew trial plots of beets. Samples were tested for sugar and purity, giving an average of over 13 per cent sugar and upwards of 80 per cent purity. These tests were repeated several seasons with equally satisfactory results. As early as 1881, the state legislature, desiring to encourage the manufacture of sugar in Michigan, offered a bounty of 2 cents per pound for all sugar made from any source, and exemption from taxes for five years upon property used in making sugar. No claim was made, however, under this law, for the bounty for beet sugar. In 1897 a bill was passed offering a bounty of 1 cent per pound for sugar made from beets. In the meantime the experiment station had been testing cane, sorghum and beets, and had reached the conclusion that beets promised the best results. The end of the lumber industry was in sight and capital was seeking new fields. Farmers had become encouraged by their successful efforts to grow beets on the trial plots, and altogether the time was ripe for the new industry to be launched in Michigan.

"A company was formed and in 1898 the first beet sugar made in Michigan was turned out by the Michigan sugar factory at Bay City. As a result of the first year's experience, the managers decided to double the capacity of their factory, and eight other factories were erected and equipped for the campaign of 1899. There are this year 18 factories in operation, two of which were built for the campaign of 1904. In three instances two factories have combined for various reasons and two factories have been removed to other parts of the beet sugar area. The 18 factories in operation this year are capable of slicing 12,950 tons of beets per day, and from these beets should be obtained not less than 1400 tons of sugar. These factories represent an invested capital of not less than $13,000,000 in buildings and machinery devoted exclusively to the production of sugar from beets. The factories in Michigan are, as a rule, well distributed over the state, one being located in the upper peninsula. There is room in the state for several more factories if they are wisely located and properly inaugurated. Steps are being taken to establish other factories in the upper peninsula and in parts of the lower peninsula where the train haul is now too long for profit."

The above will cheerfully be paid in lawful money of the United States, by the undersigned, proprietors of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing attesting the superior curative properties of their several medicines, and thus proving the genuineness and reliability of all the multitude of testimonials volunteered by grateful people, in their behalf.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE REASON.—There is no medicine equal to Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for purifying the blood. It carries off the poisons which contaminate the life fluid. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands and gives the body an increased supply of pure, body-building blood. It builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh instead of flabby fat, promotes the appetite, feeds the nerves, and so gives to weak nervous people vitality and vigor.

"This is to certify that I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and think it's the greatest medicine in the world," writes Mrs. V. M. Young, of Weir, West Va. "I took down sick six months ago and called in my physician and he gave me medicine but I grew worse. He said I had dyspepsia in its worst form. I decided to try your medicine and began to improve. I used five bottles, two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three of 'Purifier Prescription,' and now I am doing my own housework. A number of my lady friends also are using Dr. Pierce's medicine and they recommend it highly. May God bless and prosper you in your grand work."

The Event of the Season in its Line
Will be Given in the Armory on
New Years Eve, Dec. 31st.

The members of the Woodmen lodge of North Yakima are determined that their grand mask ball to be given on New Years' eve, December 31st, in the Armory, shall eclipse anything in its line ever given in the city. The entire membership of the lodge has been engaged in preparing the details in connection with the event for some time, and there is no reason to doubt that the intentions of the promoters will be fully realized. The invitation is general, and all who dance or enjoy looking on at a gay scene such as will be represented on that evening are invited; all who mask, however, will be required to raise their masks or in some manner identify themselves at the door. No improper characters will be admitted. Admission has been placed at $1, ladies free. Lady spectators will be charged 25 cents. Wright's five-piece orchestra will furnish the music and the grand march will begin at 9 o'clock, sharp. The decorations will be gorgeous, and are being now placed in position at a great deal of expense of time and labor. The committees are as follows:

Arrangement—Stanley Coffin, H. J. Rand, E. J. Wyman, C. C. Case, J. J. McDonald, J. T. Bragg, A. Holstien, A. D. Sloan, H. W. Mull.

THE HOME OF VINOL

To Nursing Mothers

There is no time in a woman's life when she needs strength more than when she is nursing a child. She must sustain the life of two persons. We never sold a remedy equal to Vinol to create such strength. We cordially invite any weak and run-down woman to try Vinol on our promise to return her money if she is not fully satisfied. Isn't that fair?

Respectfully,

FRED L. JANECK, Druggist.

In connection with this greeting permit us to thank our patrons of the past year. We know you have appreciated our efforts to serve you honestly with honest goods, judging from the splendid showing our business has made over the previous year. We trust we are entitled to a continuance of your patronage. The same ready-to-please principles will prevail during 1905. Again thanking you, we are yours truly,

The store where you get the greatest values for your money.

That picturesque and colorful musical comedy, "A Chinese Honeymoon," owned by Sam S. Shubert, will be the attraction at the Yakima Theater next Tuesday. In this melodious and merry musical comedy, with its brilliant scenic and costume equipment, there is a large company headed by John L. Kearney, as Mr. Pineapple, a much-worried and still cheerful bridegroom. Mr. Kearney, it is said, gets much fun out of the part. Miss Georgia Bryton, the Fifi, says the New York Sun, "plays her role in a most interesting and diverting manner. Miss Regina McAvoy, as Mrs. Pineapple, is pretty, vivacious and dainty, and makes a decided hit. George Broderick, as the Admiral, Albert Froom, as the self-contained Emperor, Jos. E. Miller, as the Lord High Chancellor, and Mabella Baker, who assumes the roll of the official mother-in-law, are all seen to great advantage, together with the eight handsome bridesmaids and a chorus of seventy-five. They have given "A Chinese Honeymoon" the name of the best musical comedy "show" seen in years.

The management for the last two weeks was promising the patrons of the Orpheum theatre a great treat for the holidays and the promises are certainly made good in the production of the beautiful fairy tale of "Cinderella." This beautiful piece will be presented each night during the week. It is one of the grandest productions that was ever presented in the city. Twenty people take part in this play.

"You never spoke to me like that before," was rendered by Mr. S. O. Orton. The moving pictures are a very interesting series, including "Driven from Home," and "The Bewitched Traveler."
