TO FIGHT FROM AIRSHIP

Proposal to Drop Dynamite on Russians.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—The Republic tomorrow will say:

Dr. August Greth of San Francisco, inventor and navigator of the airship California Eagle, which has repeatedly made successful flights, has received a tentative proposal through representatives of the Japanese government, and, if arrangements are perfected, as suggested, his craft will be shipped to the orient to be used in exploding dynamite and other high explosives over the ships of the Russian fleet and over the cities and forts within the circuit of hostilities.

Dr. Greth, who is in St. Louis, said: "These men of whom I speak are well known figures in the commercial world and have a very close connection with the diplomatic affairs of their own country. They visited me at my workshop and laboratory in San Francisco, and I thoroughly demonstrated to them that my airship is practicable for the purpose desired, and made a complete test of the apparatus for their benefit.

"I have perfected a mechanism which provides for firing 25 pound charges of dynamite or nitroglycerin, and is so constructed that correct aim and range can be secured as easily and as successfully as if we had on board our sky cruiser one of the navy's big guns with a well trained crew. In case I go to the far east this mechanism will form a part of my equipment."

An Even Game.

The North Yakima high school football team which left here Friday afternoon to play the Sunnyside team on Saturday afternoon on the latter's grounds, did not defeat their opponents as was confidently expected. The two teams were very evenly matched and the score resulted in a tie. Yakima 6, Sunnyside 6. There was a good crowd out to see the game and the boys not only made their expenses, but had money left as a result of the gate receipts.

Prof. Bever of the high school accompanied the team coach.

RUSSIANS TAKE VILLAGES

Bayonet Charges Necessary to Dislodge Japs.

MUKDEN, Oct. 28.—(Delayed.)—At daybreak the Russian guns on Lone Tree hill began shelling the villages south, where the Japanese were noticeably active. Similar activity was remarked along the whole front.

A detachment of the Russian western column, under command of Colonel Giesser, on the night of October 26, attacked a couple of villages lying a few miles south of Sinchinpu. Russian mortar batteries had previously shelled them throughout the preceding day. Nevertheless the Japanese offered a desperate resistance.

It was only after a determined bayonet charge that the assailants cleared the villages. The name of one village is not given, and the other is known as Hanlinpu.

A tour of the hospitals in Mukden shows that the accommodations for the wounded are far inferior to the hospitals at Liaoyang. This is particularly true of the Red Cross barracks.

Democratic Victory in Montana.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 29.—The campaign in Montana is drawing to a close, with both Republicans and Democrats claiming certain victory. H. F. Frank, chairman of the Democratic state committee, in an interview today, said:

"Never before in the history of Montana has the outlook for success for the national, state and legislative tickets looked so bright. There is not a discordant element in our party, and I have no hesitancy in predicting the election of Governor Toole by 15,000. The election of the Parker delegates will not be by so large a vote, probably, but there is no doubt as to their election, as well as our congressional candidate, A. C. Gormley."

Chairman Mantle, of the Republican committee, also claims the state, but Governor Toole's election being virtually conceded on all sides, the belief is quite general that he will also pull through the Parker electors by a handsome majority. Every element of the former warring Democratic factions are represented on the stump, Senator Clark, F. Aug. Heinze, the several Daily leaders, the spellbinders and even the Populists, all speaking for the Parker electors, and there is apparently no reason to doubt the result.

ENTIENCE IS DEAD

An Old Indian with a Wonderful Career Leaves for the "Happy Hunting Grounds"—Spoke Ten Different Languages.

Antoine Entienne (who was called Antwine), a noted character of the Yakima Indian reservation, died there Friday morning about 11 o'clock from old age. He was 84 years old and was quite conspicuously connected with all the stirring and adventurous times of the early pioneer days.

Antoine was not a full blood Indian. He had French and English blood in his veins and he spoke those two languages fluently. He was also the master of the Spanish language and spoke seven different Indian dialects. Antoine was a scout in the olden days and it is said that for daring he was the peer of the bravest, not even excepting the traditional "Killedeer" of J. Fenimore Cooper's Pathfinder. During the Indian wars of the fifties Antoine was the friend of the white man, and through his ability to cope successfully with the Indian, many, indeed, were the massacres averted and seemingly unsurmountable obstacles to the mind of the pioneer were overcome.

When Grant and Sheridan made their exploits trip to the far west Antoine was one of the interpreters and scouts who befriended the white troops and rendered them invaluable service. The government recognized the merit in their old friend and warrior, and for the past twenty years he has been drawing a pension. He resided three miles below Mabton on his ranch, but at the time of his death was visiting friends on the reservation.

The life and history connected with the career of this old warrior would fill pages of the most fascinating literature. He has made his peace with the keeper of the "Happy hunting grounds." Antoine lives no more, but so long as a single memory of the early days in Washington remain with us, Antoine's name will be linked with every reminiscence tale.

He was buried here Sunday afternoon in Tahoma cemetery from the undertaking parlors of Shaw & Flint.

TWO BODIES FOUND

Out of the Twenty-two Lost in a Colorado Coal Mine.

TRINIDAD, Col., Oct. 29.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon two bodies, those of Fire Boss Frank Satler, and an Italian coal digger, were found in room 28 of the wrecked Colorado Fuel & Iron Company's mine which was blown up here yesterday afternoon, killing, it is estimated, not less than twenty-three men.

The work of rescue is proceeding very slowly and the tunnel has been penetrated only 700 feet.

The bore is 2,000 feet long, and none of the bodies are within 800 feet of the rescuing gangs, which are working in short relays because of the foul air and the severity of the work.

An official list of the dead will not be issued by the company until tomorrow.

It is generally accepted that the explosion was caused by some ignorant miner who exploded his own blast without taking precautions to prevent an accident, and that the concussion caused the coal dust, which is very heavy in the mine, to become ignited and explode.

Changes in Parker's Program.

Rosemont, Esopus, N. Y., Oct. 29.—It is possible that Judge Parker will make one or two speeches next week in addition to those already arranged for. George F. Parker, chairman of the literary bureau of the Democratic national committee is at Rosemont and will remain over Sunday planning the details of the candidate's itinerary.

Some changes in the original program have been made, but will not be announced for the present. Judge Parker spent the day preparing speeches for use next week. He has received numerous letters and telegrams of congratulation upon Friday's speech to the delegates from Greene and Rockland counties, in which he replied to Senator Knox's countercharges of campaign abuse.

At Rosemont tonight it is denied that Judge Parker has received a letter from Chairman Taggart suggesting that after the Hartford speech next Thursday night he start for the west and deliver there two addresses, thus changing territory with Mr. Bryan, who was to be sent east for the same purpose. No such plan, it is added, has been contemplated or is likely to be broached.

W. H. Patterson left Sunday evening for Prosser. He intends to hunt for a couple of days with Ed Merwin.

L. H. Linbarger recovered his wolf hound Saturday which was lost in the coyote chase near Kennewick Wednesday. The hound in following a coyote got far away and was lost for a while day. He is a pedigreed Russian wolf hound.

The funeral of little Evelyn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, occurred Sunday afternoon. The funeral was held from the residence on south Fourth street. The remains were laid to rest in Tahoma cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McDonald of Parker left here Saturday night for St. Louis where they will attend the world's fair. They will then leave for a two months visit at Mr. McDonald's old home on Prince Edwards Island, Canada. The Daily Democrat will keep them posted on Yakima news during their absence.

A DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY

Chairman Cowherd Estimates that Democrats Will Elect 225 Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—W. S. Cowherd, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, said tonight before starting west:

"My estimate of the congressional results at the coming election is:

"Alabama, 9; Connecticut, 3; California, 4; Colorado, 3; Delaware, 1; Florida, 3; Georgia, 11; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 10; Indiana, 7; Iowa, 2; Kansas, 2; Kentucky, 10; Louisiana, 7; Maryland, 5; Massachusetts, 5; Michigan, 2; Minnesota, 2; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 14; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 3; Nevada, 1; New Jersey, 5; New York, 19; North Carolina, 10; Ohio, 9; Pennsylvania, 8; Rhode Island, 2; South Carolina, 7; Tennessee, 8; Texas, 16; Utah, 1; Virginia, 10; West Virginia, 3; Wisconsin, 6; Wyoming, 1; total, 225.

"As the situation stands at present the prospects are that the Democrats will carry 225 out of the 386 districts in the United States. In the above table I have included the states of Utah, Idaho and Wyoming. These are all doubtful as matters now stand. The Democratic chances are excellent in two of the three. Our gains in the east will be due largely to the strength of the national ticket. In the middle west, they will be due more particularly to local dissensions in the Republican ranks. The long hold on patronage has brought much trouble in Republican districts and the Democrats will profit correspondingly by reason of it.

"The members of the present house consist of 205 republicans and 175 democrats, there being four vacancies on the republican side. The majority of that party may be said to be thirty-four."

W. R. HEARST'S POSITION

Owens No Stock in Homestake Mine—Scathing Reference to Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The following telegram was received by Mr. Hearst from the Chicago Inter-Ocean:

"CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—W. R. Hearst, personal. A Deadwood, South Dakota, dispatch says the Homestake mines are placarded from the surface to the lowest levels with signs which read:

"Vote for Roosevelt. Don't forget that in voting for Roosevelt you vote for a continuance of prosperity."

"Is this true? If so how does it affect your attitude personally?"

To this Mr. Hearst replied:

"I personally do not own one share of stock in the Homestake mines and never have owned a single share of stock in them. I do not know what is being done there. My 'attitude' personally, however, is that anyone who votes for Roosevelt is voting for a continuance of trust extortion, public corruption, the big stick and the big head."

The Postoffice Moved.

The North Yakima postoffice is now located in its new home in the Cadwell block. Postmaster Lemon and his entire force were busily engaged Saturday night in removing Uncle Sam's property to the new location and were ready to deliver mail to patrons Sunday morning.

The new office with its handsome oak fixtures looks very neat and inviting and it is thought that the North Yakima office will compare favorably with any in towns of this size in the country.

The old fixtures were left in the former location in the Syndicate block. They are the property of J. H. Lasswell who owns the building. It is not known what disposition he will make of them.

Honest But Misguided.

Edward Remy of Fairview, who was one of the 19 delegates from this county to the Republican state convention, in a communication to the Yakima Herald, attempts to take this paper to task for having asserted in a recent editorial that Yakima county was traded off to the railroad lobby in the Tacoma convention. Mr. Remy very indignantly denies the charge made by this paper.

The editor of this paper has enjoyed the good fortune of knowing Mr. Remy well ever since he has resided in Yakima county. It is needless to say that we entertain a great deal of respect for him both as a man and a citizen. Our friend is a man of strong prejudices but honest in his opinions. When he practically accuses this paper of lying therefore, we know that our Fairview friend is intolerant.

Mr. Remy says: "If there was a railroad lobby, large or small, present in Tacoma at the time of the convention its presence was not known to any of the Yakima delegation and I am pretty sure they would have known of it in case it existed."

It is very likely, of course, that Mr. Remy did not himself run up against the lobby in his perambulations about Tacoma at the time of the convention. The Yakima delegation at its first meeting appointed a steering committee, consisting of Messrs. Whitson, Robertson and Boardman. To all intents and purposes this steering committee was the delegation. It made deals with men representing the railroads whereby it agreed to deliver the 19 votes of Yakima county in return for votes for Jones and Rudkin. In doing this the steering committee, acting for the delegation, agreed to support for nomination some of the most unworthy men who have ever been put up for public office in the state of Washington. Doesn't Mr. Remy think this was trading off the county? If not, what on earth would he call it?

With all due respect to Mr. Remy The Democrat is convinced that he did not know what was really going on at Tacoma, although he, himself, was a delegate to that ill-starred state convention. What is more, we are of the opinion that he does not yet know of the infamy that marked the inside history of that gathering when the leaders of his party bowed their necks to receive the corporation yoke. As we said before, Mr. Remy is an honest man. As such we do not believe that he would approve of the methods employed to nominate Mr. Mead and his associates if he knew all the truth. That the truth was concealed from him by some of his fellow delegates at Tacoma is at least an apparent fact.

Mead is for Wilson.

There is no longer any room to doubt but that Mr. Mead, the Farrell-railroad nominee for governor, is fully committed to the support of John L. Wilson's candidacy for United States senator.

If there was no other evidence at hand the fact that Wilson is making herculean efforts to elect Mead would be enough. Wilson is a narrow-minded and selfish politician who thinks of nothing but his own advancement. If Mead were not tied up to him, therefore, in the strongest bonds it would be impossible that Wilson should be making such a frenzied effort to land his man in the governor's chair. If he had reason to think that Mead, if elected, would favor the candidacy of any other man he would knife him unhesitatingly.

If the people of this state could ever get a direct whack at John L. Wilson they would soon put him out of the political arena, for they know him and they detest him. He has shown himself throughout his entire public career to be merely a corporation tool. Through Wilson's connivance, while in congress, the biggest land steal ever perpetrated by the Northern Pacific was jobbed through at Washington.

Walter J. Reed, Republican nominee for state senator for this county is counted and is generally regarded as a Wilson supporter. The people of this county, we are sure, don't wish any of their representatives in the legislature to vote for such a man as John L. Wilson, the perpetual candidate. The Democrat does not desire to misrepresent Mr. Reed. But if he is for Wilson the public has a right to know it. The columns of this paper are free to him to state his position on the senatorship if he so desires.

About Grant's "Shortage."

The Republic attempts to make political capital out of the fact that Sheriff Grant had failed to turn over to the county treasurer fees earned by his office to the extent of $282.90, which, of course, goes to the county. When the attention of Deputy Sheriff Cox was called to the matter last Friday a check for the amount was promptly turned over in the settlement of the matter.

Mr. Cox explains the matter on the ground that he, as chief deputy, had not been able to devote the time recently to the full collection of such accounts. In some cases he had been asked by patrons of the office to wait for a few days and wishing to be accommodating refrained from enforcing payment. The sheriff has the right to demand the payment of all fees in advance and that he has not done so is due to the fact that he has been accommodating to the public. Under the law the sheriff and his bondsmen are responsible for the collection of all fees due the county and as a matter of fact he is fully justifiable in insisting that they be paid in advance.

The Republic raises a great hullabaloo about the matter and endeavors to have the public believe that the sheriff is himself a criminal. It speaks of the "shortage" in his accounts and rolls the word under its own slanderous tongue as though it were a very sweet morsel.

The sheriff's office here is always particularly busy during the fall months, just as everybody else is busy during the same period. The office, as a result, was a little behind in its collections. It is, perhaps, true in this case that the law was technically violated. Still the county lost nothing and could lose nothing. The Republic would have never wasted the space in its columns by referring to the matter if it were not for the fact that the ring organ is mighty hard up for material to use against Grant and the ring crowd needs the sheriff's office in its business.

A straw vote was taken last Saturday among the inmates of the Oudawa Inn, Spokane, showed the following result:

Turner, 200.

Mead, 42.

Burgis (socialist), 3.

It looks as though there might be a landslide Nov. 8.

KING COUNTY TRAITORS IN SADDLE

The Same Old Gang that Betrayed Harold Preston Are Running the Party—Senatorial Politics Being Played.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29.—All the Republican political leaders of King county who participated prominently in the betrayal and defeat of Harold Preston in the senatorial contest of 1903 have combined in a conspiracy to secure control of the patronage of the county for the senatorial contest of 1905. Under the inspiration of these false leaders of the past so-called business men are walking the streets of the city urging business men to pledge their support to Albert E. Mead, the gubernatorial candidate of the Great Northern railroad and supported by the very men and interests instrumental in Preston's defeat.

Chief of the betrayers of Preston is John L. Wilson, owner of the Post-Intelligencer, who, in the 1903 contest, advised the King county senators to enter into negotiations with the Ankeny senators looking to securing support for Mr. Wilson as King county's candidate in the coming contest. Acting under this advice the senators did enter into such negotiations, deserted the cause of their own candidate and their own county, and contributed to Mr. Ankeny's election. Mr. Wilson's purpose in organizing the present conspiracy is, as is well known, to boost himself into the senate, crowding out Samuel H. Piles, the county's regularly endorsed candidate.

With Mr. Wilson in the present conspiracy are State Senator A. T. Van de Venter, that "South district" paragon of political virtue, who, at the conclusion of the last senatorial contest, addressed a letter to The Times in which he assumed entire responsibility for Preston's betrayal and announced that eventually the people of the county would approve of what he had done. In one sense Mr. Van de Venter's prognostication has been fulfilled, for the Republican county convention of May 3 did approve of that action, by inference at least, by turning over the patronage of that convention, nominations for county and legislative offices, to Mr. Van de Venter and his fellow members of the last legislature who deserted Preston.

Aiding and assisting Wilson and Van de Venter are John Wooding of Auburn, who remained at Olympia during the last session as an Ankeny lobbyist, the five unfaithful members of the legislature who have been renominated this year, Chairman Knickerbocker of the Republican county central committee, and a host of lesser lights who draw their political inspiration from corporate sources seeking the political advancement of private interests.

Preston is Silent.

It is conspicuously notable that the more active promoters of Preston's senatorial canvass are silent or inactive in the present contest to induce the business men to contribute to the election of John L. Wilson or some equally satisfactory Great Northern candidate. Mr. Preston himself has given the conspirators plainly to understand that he will not be a party to this effort to again debauch the county's political virtue. John H. Powell, Mr. Preston's principal advisor, has maintained a silence so marked as to clearly indicate that he has no sympathy with the present campaign of his party. J. D. Lowman, one of the most prominent Preston workers, has taken no part. A. B. Stewart, another, is absent on a tour of the world made for the purpose of escaping the present campaign. William H. Lewis the Preston leader in the lower house, while supporting the republican state ticket is spending his time in eastern Washington and declines to appear on the stump here to advocate the election of the false legislators renominated. Reuben W. Jones, another loyal member of the house was not renominated and is not supporting the Republican state ticket. State Senator Stanton Warburton, Mr. Preston's most loyal supporter in the senate two years ago, is stumping the state for Judge Turner with telling effect.

A significant difference between the Preston campaign of two years ago and the senatorial campaign this year lies in the fact that the Preston managers appealed to the voters themselves. A Preston senatorial club was organized with some 12,000 members and the active work of promoting his candidacy

The Public is "Next."

Democratic nominees on the county ticket who have been out among the people make some rather interesting reports as to political conditions. Without exception all these reports are to the effect that there is widespread disaffection among the rank and file of the Republican voters towards the local party ticket. This disaffection, they say, does not exist in spots only, but extends to every precinct of Yakima county. We all know that there will be a big sloughing off in the Republican was done through that organization. The campaign this year has been conducted by small committees in back offices and had its inception in the famous midnight conference in April at which the three candidates agreed to the terms upon which they were resolved to traffic in the senatorship and in King county's political power and unity.

Wilson Was Disloyal.

John L. Wilson's disloyalty to Preston is not entire yforgotten among the Republicans of this county. It came as a critical period of the contest. The Ankeny leaders were openly claiming that a number of the King county senators were disloyal and would go over to Ankeny whenever that course was demanded of them. This story was repeated to Preston who refused to give it credence. His advisors insisted that he investigate it for himself. For a time he declined to do so.

Then there began to be circulated the report that the senators were actually negotiating with Ankeny for terms for their betrayal of their own candidate. This story also was carried to Mr. Preston and by him discredited. But these stories were injuring Preston's strength by discouraging his supporters outside of King county. So to secure documentary evidence with which to disprove them Preston invited a conference with the senators.

This conference was held in one of the rooms of the Preston headquarters on the evening of Monday, Jan. 26. In the course of it Mr. Preston stated that he had heard these stories but that he did not credit them, but that he desired some authority from them with which to effectually refute them. He then asked them to sign a statement that they would not vote for Ankeny. This the senators refused to do. They were asked for explanations and replied that they might decide to vote for Ankeny rather than prolong the contest. They were then asked if they had been negotiating with Mr. Ankeny or his supporters and replied that they had.

Wilson Advised Them.

Mr. Powell asked them why they had done so and they replied that they had been advised by friends of Mr. Preston to take that course in order to secure support for a King county candidate this year. Asked to who among Mr. Preston's friends had advised such a course they named John L. Wilson and E. C. Hughes.

After this conference the particulars of it were related to the writer by Mr. Powell. The fact that Mr. Wilson had so advised the senators became well known at Olympia and was published at the time in the papers of Seattle and has never since been denied by Mr. Wilson. That in undermining the then King county candidate he did so in the expectation of profiting himself by his course by becoming the candidate this year is easily apparent to all who know the man.

The last King county Republican convention was given into the control completely of the men who betrayed Preston, and the candidates in the county for county and legislative offices were nominated by them. In speaking of the convention on the day after it met John H. Powell said:

Traitors in the Saddle.

"At the conclusion of the last senatorial contest a great wave of indignation swept over King county at the action of certain members of the legislature from this county in that contest. Yesterday those men had their exoneration, complete and to spare. They made the ticket.

"Members of the house who desired it were renominated. The senators hold over and did not need to be renominated. They put on their friends and relatives. One member of the last legislature, Edgar C. Raine, wanted the nomination for county clerk and had his fight won. But it leaked out that in the legislature he had been true to his pledges and to the party platform, and he was defeated on that issue.

"King county certainly has reason to expect that these men will be true and loyal this time. They have given their word again, and such pitiful self-abasement at the hand of the people, certainly deserves some consideration at their hands."

vote of this city on local candidates and that the reasons for such a falling off are most excellent. This is a year for independent voting and don't you forget it.

That Mr. Theodore Roosevelt will receive a heavy vote in Yakima county is admitted. But a number of local statesmen who are frantically endeavoring to hang on to that eminent gentleman's political coat tails are very apt to be sadly disappointed. In the language of the street, the public is "next" to them.

Bailey Has the Nerve.
S. S. Bailey of Seattle bears the reputation of being a very shrewd man. Feeling much interested in the election of Judge Turner as governor he set out deliberately to make a tour of the state and sound public sentiment in order to make an intelligent forecast of the result.

When the Mead boosters, therefore, started in to run bluffs in the betting market Steve Bailey was promptly on hand with the coin to call them. His last wager was made with Ex-Governor McGraw at Seattle Saturday and was for the princely sum of $10,000 a side. The ex-governor does not pretend that the money he wagered is his own and it is believed to be the property of Samuel Hill of the Great Northern road. The fact that Mr. Hill is betting his money on Mead is significant.

Some Good Advice.

"It is better to be a bolter from a party than a traitor to the state," says William Allen White, the famous republican editor of Kansas, in a letter advising Missouri republicans to vote for Joseph W. Folk, the democratic foe of corruption, for governor.

That remark applies to present political affairs in Washington as well as Missouri. Folk stands for public purity in old Missouri and George Turner stands for the same principle in the young state of Washington. Make your choice, gentlemen.

Will Give Democratic Nominee
a Majority—Justice White for Turner.

Judge White spent a portion of the afternoon endeavoring to induce fellow republicans to organize an independent republican club in the interest of Judge Turner's candidacy.

S. S. Bailey Calls Ex-Gov. McGraw —Latter Believed to Be Betting Great Northern Money.

"I understand," said Mr. Bailey to-night to the Spokesman-Review correspondent, "that the money which Governor McGraw bet is the property of Samuel Hill, son in law of James A. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad. Governor McGraw did not tell me so, but I have reliable information to that effect from a source which I can not disclose. I have another $10,000 which I am willing to bet, and I would prefer to bet it on one bunch."

"I was connected with George Turner while he was United States marshal in Alabama. The indictment of Paul Strobach made no reflection on George Turner, nor Mr. Strobach—for he was acquitted. Turner's character was above reproach."

"Just returned from country and read Post-Intelligencer's cowardly attack upon Judge Turner in purporting to give his Alabama record.

It is the coldest part of the country and honest people are sent there when the country becomes too hot for them. When the innocent tourist asks, "Where are your honest people?" Siberia is pointed out to him. If he asks more questions, he is himself sent there. The government objects to questions on general principles. Russia refuses to be interviewed.—B. G. Richards in Reader's Magazine.

Women are growing quite embarrassingly frank about the basis and the crown of their charms. On Saturday afternoon a pretty young married woman, with her five-year-old son—so much we could infer—jumped into a first-class carriage on the underground. After her came three friends, two girls and a man. "Yes, I'd never be without my wig," said the pretty woman. "It isn't as if I hadn't enough hair of my own." Celia can vouch for that." Celia nodded—we all looked for Celia's nod. "Why, the other Sunday we were lunching at Wimbledon, one of those damp, muggy days. Margaret was there—with her fringe all over her eyes. Mine was all right, and yet Margaret had a maid and I haven't. I've worn a wig for three years, and I don't care who knows it." The rest of us—strangers—held our breath till the tale was told.—London Chronicle.

It is in fact a grave sanitary question whether the handkerchief does no more harm than good as it is ordinarily used. When we assume that the healthy nose does not need to be wiped we face a reasonably broad proposition as to the danger of the handkerchief as a disease propagator. Most of nasal catarrhs are of an infectious character, notably those of grip origin.

the handkerchief saturated with disease germs, instead of being promptly washed, is stowed for hours in the pocket, with a result that can be easily imagined. Is it any wonder then that catarrhs are constantly fostered by system of auto-infection?—Medical Record.

Anybody who knows how to take the altitude of the sun or a star with a sextant and wishes to take that of a distant hill, steeple or the like should put a tea tray on the ground, fill it with water and then retire from it until the top of the hill, steeple or whatever is not reflected in the liquid. Now take the sextant and make the image of the summit coincide with its reflection in the liquid. The angle of elevation was, thus, obviously, have been measured double. Half of this will give the measurement required.

United States of America, Stat

To the clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Yakima County.

I, Sam H. Nichols, Secretary of State of Washington do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the bill of the Legislature of the State of Washington, on the 9th day of March, 1903, and signed by the Governor on the 16th day of March, 1903.

Witness my hand and seal of the State Constitution and reads as follows:

"Section 1. That it is proposed to amend the Constitution of the State of Washington, by adding the following:

(1) of the Constitution to read as follows: Section 11. Absolute freedom of conscience in all matters of religious sentiment, belief, worship, and practice, is guaranteed to every individual, and no person shall be molested or disturbed in person or property on account of his or her religious liberty or of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness or justify practices inconsistent with the peace and safety of the State. No public money or property shall be appropriated for or applied to any religious worship, practice, or instruction, or for any religious purpose, however. That this article shall not be so construed as to forbid the employment by the State of a chaplain, or such of the State reformatories as in the discretion of the legislature may seem justified. No religious test shall be required for holding any public office or employment, nor shall any person be incompetent as a witness or juror, in consequence of his or her religious belief. No religion nor be questioned in any court of justice touching his religious beliefs to affect the weight of his testimony."

That the said proposed amendment is to be voted on at the general election to be held on the eighth day of November, A. D. 1904.

A natural curiosity captured on the coast of Africa on May 5, 1854, by Signor Cavana and exhibited in all the great cities of Europe during the years 1850, 1860, 1861 and 1862, where it was advertised as the "talking fish," was in reality a species of the African sea well known to naturalists on account of its wonderful powers of mimicry. This particular animal was about twelve feet in length and weighed something over 300 pounds. It had a fine, doglike head and large, beautiful black eyes, which seemed to sparkle with intelligence whenever the creature was spoken to by any one. It was very docile and when told to dance would roll over and over in its bathtub, with first tail and then head above the water, all the time chattering, though enjoying the sport as much as the spectators did. It soon learned many odd tricks and, it is claimed, learned to articulate at least three words very plainly—viz, "mamma," "papa" and "John," the last being the keeper's name. When told to pray, it would clasp its flippers in the attitude of supplication and put on a sanctimonious look.

An old tradition says the Aztecs were one of seven powerful tribes that emerged from seven caverns in a region called Aztlan, or place of the heron. They wandered away from their fellows after a great confusion of tongues and settled in the region they are known to have inhabited. The tradition may be partly fabulous, but it is sure that the Aztecs settled in the country before the eleventh or twelfth century.

considerable time with the strong-gan to encroach upon the territory the weaker. Then a fierce war for premy over the whole territory sued and lasted many years. Under the leadership of their military chief the Aztecs obtained control of the whole territory and established a ve-enlightened form of government. This was consummated in 1324 or 1325.

The brown skins of the natives of Liberia are often daubed with red clay, white clay, the effect of the latter being rather startling. This is called dressing. Sometimes a vertical black mark is seen across the forehead. This is a sign of freedom. The Kroomens have it more than others. They are largely employed as extra hands on the steamers. When a man is suspected of murder, theft, etc., he is made to drink sassa wood. This being deadly poison, his innocence is declared by the draft not proving fatal. It is said, however, that this is only form. When the fatal moment arrives some expedient is generally adopted or else it is considered that only an innocent man would be willing to approach the deadly draft.

At a Korean marriage every one on horseback and in single file. First comes a manservant, who carries both hands an imitation life sized goose, covered by a red scarf. Then come the bridegroom, his friends; all the servants he possesses or is to borrow. At the bride's house a servant first deposits the goose or bowl of rice; then all dismount, leaving outside their outer robes, their hats and their boots, they enter house and make as much noise as possibly can. The pandemonium does not cease till the guests are paid to away. A feast follows and then the bridegroom is taken to his bride, who sees for the first time.

Delaware has a curious collection of odd surnames. There is a family of Coits in Kent county. The Peppes and Mustards have long lived neighbors in Sussex, and there are Peaches in Newcastle county, inauspiciously tied north of the peach belt. One named his three sons for the seven counties of the state, and Delaware an occasional Christian name. A whose name was Leonora Miss Cannon provoked from a stranger prompt declaration that the name was sentimental, patriotic and explosive.

The real balm of Gilead is the juice of a low shrub, it is said, which grows in Syria. It is very valuable and scarce, for the amount of balm yielded by one shrub never exceeds sixty drops a day. According to Josephus, the balm or balsam of Gilead was one of the presents given by the queen of Sheba to King Solomon. The ancient Jewish physicians prescribed it evidently for dyspepsia and melancholia.

ONLY ONE WEEK REMAINS

TO CONSULT DR. DARRIN AT THE HOTEL YAKIMA.

His Visit to This City Expires Next Sunday, November 6th.

Dr. Darrin, the celebrated specialist, well known throughout the northwest, after a very successful visit to this city for the past week, during which hundreds of sufferers from all manner of diseases have been relieved and cured, wishes to announce that he will positively close his office in North Yakima next Sunday, Nov. 6.

Dr. Darrin has formulated a method of "Home Treatment" for the afflicted that live at a distance and those who can not possibly place themselves under "Office Treatment," whereby the suffering may be favored with his latest modes of cure, which in many cases gives instantaneous relief and soon effect a permanent restoration to health—which includes building up and reorganizing the whole constitution.

Dr. Darrin makes a specialty of all diseases of a chronic and obstinate character that have for years or a lifetime resisted the ordinary modes of practice, and are the classes of maladies in the treatment of which he has become pre-eminent throughout the American continent, and especially on the Pacific coast, and by his success has achieved for himself an enviable reputation.

He gives free and confidential examinations and consultations to all at the office in the Hotel Yakima from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m., daily. The doctor treats all curable acute, chronic, nervous and private diseases of whatever nature in either sex.

All female troubles, deafness, catarrh, bronchitis, consumption, dyspepsia, skin diseases, heart, liver, kidney and piles a specialty. Surgical operations scientifically and successfully performed if necessary. Out of town patients treated with unfailing success after one visit to his office.

Numerous testimonials have appeared in this paper during the past few weeks from those who thought they owed it to the doctor as well as hundreds of like sufferers to speak of the good work that had been done for them.

Few doctors have had such a large practice as this physician who has been visited by scores of people of this vicinity, and it is well to note that the doctor is not out alone for money as is proved by numerous cases of poor people he has treated, who were unable to pay for the restoration of their health.

The Gnome's and Sprites who usually make their appearance on Halloween night according to rumors circulated in the police department may get into trouble tonight if they are not very careful.

The teachers association of Yakima county held a very successful meeting Saturday afternoon. Questions of vital importance in school work were discussed freely and several interesting papers were read.

Real Estate Sales.

There was considerable speculation in local real estate last week and a good deal of property changed hands. Although prices on city lots are constantly advancing there seems to be plenty of takers at any old price for choice locations. A. B. Weed purchased last week the ten acre tract owned by A. D. Charlton and located just north of the north end of Kittitas, Wenas and Ranier streets. The price paid was $4000. The property lies just within the city limits. He will plat the ground in the spring and put the lots on the market.

Following are some other sales: Lots 32, 33, 34, 35 and 36 in Yakima Acres tracts, to W. E. Hurd; consideration, $1370.

Lot 12, block 333, on Capitol Hill, from B. G. Wolfe to P. H. Hertzog, $550.

Lots 28, 29 and 31, in Yakima Acres tracts, to Joseph McLeod, $750.

Lot 19, block 10, by A. L. Aikens, to L. D. S. Patton, $1250.

S. J. Lowe bought lots 21 and 22 in block 10, paying $3,500. These lots are situated on North First street.

Clara Koreski bought lot 2 in block 249 from Andrew Anderson, paying $1000.

McCrinmon & Needham were busy real estate agents last week and closed several important deals. Barnes & Sons, Briggs, Grant and Walker and others report great activity in local real estate.

BIG HOP SHIPMENT

Banner Lot Is Forwarded to London From Portland.

Fifty thousand dollars worth of hops, all bought in the past week, were shipped to London yesterday by H. L. Bents for M. H. Durst. This is the banner shipment made from the northwest this season. The lot comprised 715 bales, aggregating 140,000 pounds. They were bought at from 30c to 31c. Several large single shipments have been made from Portland since the season opened, but nothing to equal this in quantity or value. The lot sent to London by Mr. Bents filled nearly ten cars.

In addition to making this shipment, he found time to buy 180 bales of Yakima hops, excellent exporters, at 31c, and also secured 50 bales at Dayton at 30c.

The publication of the Durst letter in the Oregonian yesterday came as a bombshell in the camp of the hop bears. They had feared that some such effort would be made to line up the farmers, but hoped the event would be staved off until more of the crop was out of first hands. As it is, only about 15,000 bales remain unsold in the state, but half this amount, or even a third of it, withdrawn from the market would cause prices to advance. It will be a few days before it can be ascertained whether the pool can be formed, and in the meantime some buying from growers may take place, but it is not likely, under the circumstances, that there will be much of a movement. No one doubts Mr. Durst's ability to carry the scheme through to a successful conclusion, if the pool is once formed. He stands high with the hop farmers of this state, and his willingness to put his own heavy holdings—1650 bales of his Wheatland crop—into the pool shows his confidence in the success of the movement.

It did not require the announcement of the pool project, however, to alarm the shorts. They have been getting very nervous in the last few days over the way things have been going, but all their efforts to bear down the ideas of growers have been unavailing. They received quite a jolt yesterday when a private telegram was shown at the Belvedere from New York saying that choice "stales" there had sold at 41c. This was a jump of 3c over the former New York Price. On the same basis, Oregon hops of the same quality should be worth 35c to the grower.—Oregonian.

If you want to buy something you don't see, if you want to sell anything, if you want help or if you want employment try an "ad" in The Daily Democrat.

YANKEE DOODLE.

The Original Version Dates From the Time of Oliver Cromwell.

The lively strains of "Yankee Doodle" are heard at every patriotic celebration, says a writer in Collier's Weekly, yet perhaps few of those whose pulses stir at the sound of the familiar notes are aware that it dates from the time of Oliver Cromwell and crossed the seas with the Puritans.

"Nankee Doodle" was one of the nicknames bestowed by the Cavaliers on the hated Roundhead, and a verse written upon Cromwell's entry into Oxford, riding on a small horse with a plume twisted into a sort of knot called a "macaroni," runs as follows:

Nankee Doodle came to town
Upon a little pony,
With a feather in his hat
Upon a macaroni.

The transition from Nankee to Yankee—which came from Yengee, the Indian word for English—was a very easy, and the Royalists used it as a jeer at all New Englanders.

When the Colonials in Boston, preparing for the coming war, smuggled muskets into the country, concealing them in loads of manure, the Tories sang to the old tune of "Lucy Fisher:"

Yankee Doodle came to town
For to buy a firelock;
We will tar and feather him,
And so we will John Hancock.

When the British forces marched to the battles of Concord and Lexington their approach was heralded by "God Save the King," but when the "Yankee farmers" saw the foe in full retreat the strains of "Yankee Doodle" accompanied their flight, and from that hour, wherever the stars and stripes have floated, the once despised tune has been heard.

A Fearful Night

[Original.]

A boy of fourteen stood before a tent with a bucket of water in his hand that he had just brought from the stream below. He was much excited. A woman came out of the tent, and the little fellow said to her:

"Mother, there are panther tracks on the trail to the river."

"Sure?" said the woman, paling.

"Sure?"

Two little girls came out with frightened faces. They had heard the news and, young as they were, understood it. The Maxcy family were pioneers who had come to the country to settle, but had not yet built their cabin. The father had gone to the nearest county seat to enter the land and would not be back till the following day. The mother and son consulted what they should do. The panther would likely be back again, and there was no certain defense. True, little Tom Maxcy had his rifle and for a boy was a fair shot, but supposing the panther should come upon them suddenly or that Tom should miss him? In that case the family would be at the mercy of the little girls watched their mother's face and, seeing the anxiety depicted there, clung to her skirts.

Since there were no neighbors to help, there was nothing to do but make the only preparation possible—that is, gather wood for the purpose of building a fire. Tom got his rifle in good shape, but it was of small size, and his mother feared to have him use it lest its tiny ball would only enrage the panther. Tom worked all the morning gathering wood and spent the afternoon seeing that the pens containing the cattle were secure.

The sun went down, and darkness stole over the land. An awful dread came upon the family as night drew on. Would the panther find another meal and let them alone? They hoped for the best. Tom lighted the fire, which he had laid directly before the tent, and he had driven a forked branch into the ground on which to rest his rifle. The little girls were put to bed, and Tom and his mother kept watch.

There was stillness except the occasional snapping of the fire or the cry of a distant loon. Hour after hour the mother and son sat waiting for the night to pass, and soon after midnight the boy fell asleep. He was awakened by a thud upon the earth a short distance away, as of some heavy animal jumping from a tree. Opening his eyes, he saw terror in his mother's face. She caught his wrist and held it as in the grip of a vise.

"Look!" she cried.

Tom, on following the direction of her eyes, saw two glaring balls out in the darkness. Tearing himself away from her, he kicked the burning logs, sending up sparks and flame that illumined the dark figure. He hoped that this would drive it away, but he was disappointed. The panther was doubtless hungry and loath to give up his prey. Tom went to his rifle.

"Mother," he said, "throw a firebrand at him."

But Mrs. Maxcy was not equal to such an act, and Tom, resting the butt of his rifle on the ground, seized a brand and, first waving it over his head, threw it straight at the beast, who shrank away for a time, but it was not long before Tom saw those two glaring eyes again fixed upon him. Again he tried the expedient of tossing a brand, but this time the panther paid but little attention to it.

The realization of the horror threatening them was what paralyzed the mother. One of the blessings of youth is the absence of such realization, which accounts for the absence of fear, and Tom Maxcy was at an age when one doesn't picture dreadful things to come. His faculties were all bent on his work, which was to drive the panther off or kill him. But the beast declined to be driven off. Indeed, Tom noticed a certain undulatory movement of his body, which was stretched flat on the ground, that indicated he was crawling gradually nearer for a spring.

Tom seized a last brand—a big one—and threw it with so true an aim that had not the panther dodged it would have struck him, then the boy without waiting to see the result sprang for his rifle. Mrs. Maxcy rushed frantically into the tent and hugged her little girls to her. Their cries seemed to whet the panther's appetite, and Tom saw him rising on his fore paws ready for a spring. The boy's eye was looking down the barrel of his rifle, bringing the two sights in line with the center of the brute's eye. The distance was not great, not more than a dozen yards. He had a rest, and his young heart was beating scarcely more rapidly than usual. He was sure if he fired before the panther sprang he could hit his head and believed he could hit the eye he aimed for. At a moment when the beast was perfectly still and the bead at the muzzle of the rifle in line with the breech sight and the panther's eye Tom pulled the trigger. The animal gave a spring into the air and fell back motionless.

Tom waited to see if he would stir, but as he did not he called to his mother that he had killed the monster, then walked forward to inspect him. When he came near enough to see a stream of blood pouring from the eye he knew surely that he had pierced his brain.

The little marksman vainly endeavored to induce his mother to come and see for herself, but she would not. Neither would she go to sleep with the horrid form lying so near the tent. But it was not long till daylight and the terrible night had passed.
