OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

For President,

WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

For Vice-President.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

BOSS HANNA is said to have gathered together a little slush fund of some thirty million dollars, contributed almost entirely by the trust magnates of the east, with which he confidently expects to bring about the re-election of McKinley. Without the use of this gigantic corruption fund, by the use of which it is hoped that enough floaters can be bought in doubtful states to turn the scale, there would be absolutely no hope of republican success. What a sad commentary is this showing of affairs on what we boast of to the world as a republican form of government. What better proof can be offered than such evidence as this that the republican party is endeavoring to betray free government effectually into the sordid hands of organized wealth? The question, however, is now up to the people. Are they ready to turn this government, which has been handed down to them as a sacred heritage by their fathers, over to the unscrupulous trust magnates, who will use the power thus bestowed to further oppress the people. If they would stop at that the outlook would not be so bad in the event of Hanna's success, but they will not. They must needs change the form of government itself into a monarchy—the better to protect their ill-gotten gains. This partly obscured question of monarchy is the supreme issue. Let the people remember that.

IT will become our local contemporary the Herald to take upon itself the task of reading men out of the local democratic party. Even though that journal's own record was spotless from a party standpoint, which, it is not, the fact remains that it is mighty poor politics to heap abuse upon the two or three local stragglers who have concluded to unite their fortunes with the opposition party. THE DEMOCRAT which every week in the year preaches the principles of pure democracy, has studiously refrained from such a course, for the primary reason that we do not claim the right to dictate to any man how and with what party he should align himself. And secondly, for the reason that we mentioned before that it is poor politics to do so. We would say instead to these erring but mistaken brethren: Go, if you must, but go in peace. We know of plenty of changes the other way that will much more than counterbalance such losses. We have not deemed it wise, as a rule, to publish the names of these new recruits, for the reason that we well know that if we did so, unfair partisan pressure would immediately be brought to bear upon them to coerce them back into line. But we desire to reiterate the sentiment that we started out with and that is that our valued contemporary is not itself so almighty democratic that it can afford to throw stones at anybody for dereliction to the true faith.

THE democratic candidates for the various offices were selected with a view to their special fitness for the different positions for which they were placed before the people. In no case is this more true than in that of D. L. Druse, the nominee for auditor. This gentleman has spent most of his life in office work, an experience that has made of him a most skillful accountant. Neither should the fact be overlooked by the voters that Mr. Druse is an old soldier with a splendid record of service rendered his country. As the unwilling candidate of his party, he is not appealing for votes on the ground of his being an old soldier; but that fact should have its due weight in the decision of right minded voters.

FOR the very important office of prosecuting attorney of this county the reform convention submitted the name of Hon. E. B. Preble. Mr. Preble is not only a man of great learning—a student of law—but is an able practitioner, and in the event of his election he will neither need the services of an assistant or a substitute. There have been times in the past when the vital interests of this county and the cause of justice have suffered by reason of gross incompetency in this office. This would never be truthfully said of Judge Preble's administration, for the reason that he is an able and conscientious lawyer.

IF further efforts to procure an appropriation for the State Fair prove abortive, as will doubtless be the case, the people of this community can lay the failure at the door of local "knockers," who have deliberately planned to destroy the institution for the purpose of scoring a point in the contemptible game of politics that they are playing. So much for the Wilsonian method. How do the people of Yakima like it?

THE republican party of this county has fallen upon evil days. It is not enough that the leadership and direction of its affairs be monopolized by a little coterie of ex-democrats, who failed to achieve distinction in their own party, but it must also become a party representing and favoring a special interest. Since the Wool Growers association of this county has seen fit, as an organization, to contribute a large sum of money to the republican campaign fund, made up by assessments on its membership, according to the number of sheep owned, it is safe to assume that this was not done without a thorough understanding in regard to the benefits to be derived by the generous contributors. Thus we see the republican party of this county, like the party in the nation, being used as the tool of a special interest, without regard to the welfare of the people at large.

THE P.-I. is carrying its fight against Governor Rogers and his appointees to a disgraceful extreme and like the school book bugaboo these attacks will react against its own party. In its zeal to serve its masters the discredited McGraw and Wilson, it descends to persecution of respected citizens of this city and Ellensburg. Its assertion that Attorney Snively is a lawyer without clients is a contemptible and malicious falsehood and is so recognized by every person in this community. This is a fair sample of Wilson politics. If that unprincipled gang are to rule the state for four years, God help the people of Washington.

ONE, L. C. Whitney, a renegade democrat from Everett, has been stumping this county during the week in the interest of the republican ticket. This man Whitney is not entitled to a hearing at the hands of honorable men, until he can first clear himself of the serious charges brought against him in the Seattle Times of the 13th inst. A man who not only offers, but actively seeks to sell his signature to a pardon, is apt to be mercenary enough to sell himself to his political enemies, and that is just what Mr. Whitney seems to have done.

THE speech of Hon. J. T. Ronald, delivered here recently, was a masterpiece. It was a most carefully compiled effort, the logic and truths of which were so clearly demonstrated that it must have struck terror to the hearts of the members of the opposing party, who improved the opportunity to hear it. If all the small fry spellbinders who are going about misrepresenting the position of Mr. Bryan and his party, would study the Ronald speech and attempt to tear down its telling points, they would then indeed have something to think about.

A COMMUNICATION appears elsewhere in this issue from Miss Young, the democratic nominee for superintendent of schools. We invite special attention to this statement, for the reason that it effectually answers the stories being circulated from interested sources, that the young lady candidate lacks the necessary qualifications to hold the office.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

The heavy rain of Thursday night interfered somewhat with potato digging.

A. S. Dam will have a neat eight room residence constructed on Natches avenue this fall.

The infant child of Rev. W. S. Crockett and wife died on Sunday. Interment took place on Monday.

The will of the late D. H. Guiland was admitted to probate this week. The will provides for an equal division of the property among the five children. Mrs. Marie Guiland is named as executrix to serve without bond.

Hops have shown a decided upward tendency in price this week. Dell Hiscock reports having sold by wire this week three carloads of his crop at 16c, the purchasers being eastern brewers. This, however, is a full cent and perhaps a shade more better than the local market.

The silver loving cup presented by the members of the Seattle business men's excursion to this city last month for presentation to the Yakima commercial club, has arrived and is on exhibition in the window of the Yakima national bank. The cup is a beauty and is most handsomely engraved.

J. J. Mackinson, an old resident of the Ahtanum valley, died at the Sister's hospital on Friday, the funeral occurring on Saturday from the Catholic church. Mr. Mackinson had reached the venerable age of 83 and until within the past year had always enjoyed fairly good health. His two sons Jimmie and John are in Dawson City.

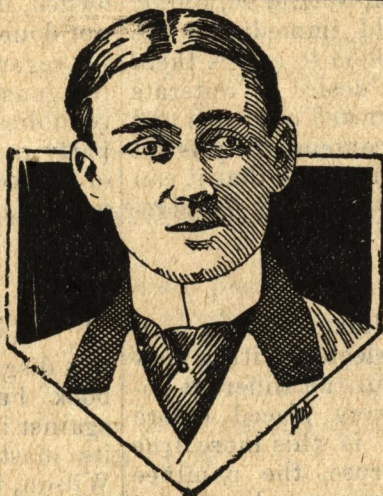

The big hop house on the Morford ranch was completely destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. Tom Wheeler, the tenant on the place lost about 1500 bushels of grain that was stored in the building on which there was an insurance of $450, and the insurance on the house itself was $500. This year's hop crop had just been sold and delivered before the fire occurred. The cause of the fire is unknown.

F. H. Denny and E. F. Blaine, of Seattle met General Emigration Agent Mott, of the Northern Pacific, at Prosser on Tuesday and the following day went over the Sunyside lands with him, arriving in town on Thursday. Mr. Denny remained over a day here, but Mr. Blaine was obliged to return to Seattle on Thursday. These gentlemen all expressed themselves as highly pleased with the condition of things in the Sunyside, but particularly with reference to the new improvements being made there.

It so happened that both republican and democratic meetings were announced for Nob Hill school house on Thursday evening. The two committees then arranged for a joint meeting and a debate between Messrs. Whitney and Yale. A number went out from town on both sides to hear the debate. The republicans evidently did not want a debate for they arbitrarily selected the chairman of the meeting who introduced Mr. Whitney. That gentleman then began a long winded tirade which lasted two hours and at its conclusion the speaker and Miles Cannon and his following walked out. The democrats then went ahead and held their own meeting.

Hoyt's "A Stranger in New York."

The story of Hoyt's great success, "A Stranger in New York," is most ludicrous, telling as it does, how Cumming Swift has invited his Chicago friend, I. Collier Down, to visit him in New York, and spend a night at the French ball. Suddenly he is called away to Philadelphia on business, and leaves a letter for Downe to present to his New York club friend, Wright Innit. Downe drops the letter on the floor, and a stranger in New York finds it and decides that he should deliver it to the man to whom it is addressed. He does so, and Wright Innit recognizes him as I. Collier Downe, and introduces him to his friends. There arises the complication, for Wright Innit refuses to allow the stranger to explain. In the second act comes the scene of a private room at the French ball. I. Collier Downe and his friend, Cumming Swift, appear and decide that it will not do to disclose the mistake, but it is shown that I. Collier Downe's wife is suspicious and has come to New York, employing a detective and a fake society leader to trace her husband. Complications follow fast and fun waxes furiously. I. Collier Downe tries to respond every time his name is called, but has no opportunity as the "stranger" pushes him to the rear. A side element of fun is furnished by the fact that Mrs. Virginia Pryde, a married woman and a belle of Richmond, decides to go to the ball attended by her friend's brother. The outcome of the various complications is that Mrs. I. Collier Downe goes to the ball, finds herself mistaken, because her husband is locked in the elevator, and the man bearing his name has no resemblance to him. She tries a waltz with the "stranger" and is caught in the act by her husband, all ending happily for everybody except Mrs. I. Collier Downe and the woman spy. The only performance will be at Larson's Theater, Wednesday the 24.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed con-dition of the mucous lining of the Eus-tachian Tube. When this tube is in-flamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is en-tirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for-ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous sur-faces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TONIGHT, SURE

The Royal Marine Band.

Speaking of the Royal Marine Band of Italy, the Times of Philadelphia says: The evening of Thursday, August 9, 1900, will certainly be memorable in the musical annals of Philadelphia. It was then that the famous Royal Marine Band of Italy gave a special concert at Willow Grove Park in memory of the late King Humbert. The program was chosen from among the master works of Italy's immortal composers, Rossini, Verdi, Donizetti and Bellini, those men whose melodies cannot be matched. Rossini was represented by his "Tell" Overture. Verdi by the superb fourth act of "La Traviata," Donizetti by the wonderful finale to the third act of "Lucia," and Bellini by an excerpt from the first act of "I Puritani," ending with the quartet "A Te, O Cara," one of the most exquisite pieces of pure melody ever composed.

In the same remarkable program was a new funeral march by Rivela entitled "Pensiero Elegiaco," Handel's immortal "Largo," Braga's "Angel's Serenade," Chopin's "Funeral March," and the "Marcia Reale" or National March of Italy.

This imposing program was interpreted with splendid effect by the Italian band in the presence of the vast throng of cultivated people, who rewarded the artistic work of the musicians with great outbursts of spontaneous applause. The program was doubled with encores and the concert was declared in Philadelphia the following day to have been by far the greatest band concert ever heard in America. This will doubtless be the verdict of Larson's theater patrons after Oct. 20.

It Follows the People.

While it is fair to reason that the change of policy which has led the Philadelphia Times to abandon Mr. McKinley and support Mr. Bryan will exert a favorable influence for democracy in the Time's territory in Delaware and New Jersey, it is equally true that the same healthy influence which dictated the newspaper's brave action was already being similarly felt by the American public.

The conviction is daily growing stronger that the time is now at hand when the dangerous policies to which the republican party has pledged itself through Mr. McKinley and Mark Hanna must be condemned by the people at the polls.

This conviction is the net result of four years of Hannaism, McKinleyism and trustism, culminating in the unbearable climax of imperialism and militarism.

You may rest assured that the American people recognized the necessity for republican defeat earlier than did the Philadelphia Times or any other American newspaper. It is the American people who are most bitterly feeling the cost of Hannaism, McKinleyism, trustism, imperialism and militarism.—St. Louis Republic.

Bismarck's Iron Nerve

A Democratic House.

The republican plurality over the democrats in the present house is only 21. Their majority over all, including 5 populists and 3 silverites, is only 13. A gain of a dozen seats will give the democrats control of the next house.

There is a very good prospect that the democrats will gain more than this. The republicans were unquestionably greatly helped in the elections of 1898 by the popular enthusiasm over the swift and successful termination of the war with Spain. The party in power naturally gained by this victory, and the discreditable and dangerous Philippine policy had not then developed. Nor had the money question then been settled, as it was in 1899 by legislation calculated to give effect to the popular verdict in 1896.

This year the issue against imperialism, militarism and trusts is sharply drawn. It dominates the campaign. Under its stress thousands of sound money democrats have returned to their party, and a very large number of independents and former republicans are supporting Mr. Bryan.

Under these conditions it ought to be possible, and we believe it is possible, for the democrats to obtain a good working majority in the house. They should make special efforts everywhere to do this, as we said yesterday, as a brake upon Mr. McKinley's headlong advance in imperialism, should he be re-elected, and as a means of giving effect to the democratic policy on the paramount issues should Mr. Bryan win.—New York World.

NORTH YAKIMA, OCTOBER 20, 1900

Trust Onslaught.

Mr. Bryan is not by any means alone in the belief that from now until the day of election the gigantic slush fund collected by Mark Hanna from the trusts will be lavishly expended in overcoming the will of the people by preventing its full expression at the polls.

For some weeks past Hanna has been hard at work completing the collection of this fund, which aggregates millions of dollars. In Chicago he held up trust magnates and capitalists with an autocratic resoluteness amazing even to the men whose contributions he commanded. In New York City he pursued a similar course. Out through the west he sent certain big trust leaders to gather in money for the final onslaught. His cry was that there was danger of Mr. McKinley's defeat—the trusts must rally round their presidential instrument.

It was for immediate use that Hanna got all this money together. He knows as well as does Mr. Bryan that if the election were held today the democratic party would have a majority in the electoral college and in the popular vote. It is to prevent this that his big slush fund will be employed. Purchasable votes will be purchased. Timid voters at the mercy of the trusts will be intimidated to the point of voting against their convictions. Trust money and trust influence will be used to their fullest in Mr. McKinley's behalf. It is the trusts against the people.—St. Louis Republic.

What Mark Hanna Said.

In a speech last week in the city of Chicago, Senator Mark Hanna, proprietor of the present McKinley administration, said:

"I would like Mr. Bryan, or any other democrat, to tell me what a trust is. I believe there is not a trust in the entire United States."

Mark Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee, says there are no trusts in this country! These are his exact words, quoted by telegraph and printed in the Oregonian. Now what we desire to know is this: Is there a republican voter so extremely verdant that he will vote for McKinley in the hope that the trusts may be shorn of their power to rob the laborer and bleed the consumer? When the trusts put up millions to help corrupt the ballot and buy McKinley's re-election, and Hanna holding the sack declares there are no trusts, what shall be said of the republican who is opposed to trusts and yet votes to sustain them?—Olympia Standard.

Don't Forget Illinois.

It will be well for persons who desire a reasonable basis for the calculation of party chances in Illinois to keep an attentive eye upon the campaign being made in that state by Samuel Alschuler, the democratic candidate for governor.

There is a very notable significance in the enthusiasm with which this able young German-American is being received throughout his state. The enthusiasm is not limited to partisan democrats. It is shared by many men who voted the republican ticket four years ago. It extends to many Illinoisans who are wearied to the bone by Tannerism and Cullomism. It is especially felt by German-Americans who recognize Mr.

Alschuler as the consistent representative of the soundest German-American sentiment on the issue of imperialism.

The candidate and the platform alike are winning votes for the democratic party in Illinois. Republican maladministration of state affairs, and the interference of the republican national administration in state dissensions, are also helping the democratic party. The visible sign of the growth of democratic sentiment in Illinois is found in the splendid campaign being made by Alschuler, Watch Illinois. She seems to be getting in line for the three Illinoisans—Bryan, Stevenson and Alschuler.—St. Louis Republic.

The Flag.

Speaking to an Illinois audience Gov. Roosevelt proclaimed the doctrine that—

Where once the American flag has been hoisted in honor it shall not be hauled down in dishonor.

This is good doctrine. The American flag was not hoisted "in honor" over a war of conquest and subjugation in the Philippines. It will not be "hailed down in dishonor" when it is lowered—as it is to be first in Cuba—in recognition of the inalienable right of the inhabitants to freedom and self-government.

The American flag is the symbol of a republic. It can never be made the emblem of an empire.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Quier & Ayres Drug Co's.

Aphids, or Plant Lice.

Aphids are sucking insects, taking their food through a slender tube which is thrust deep into the tissue of the plant. For this reason any arsenical poison that may be deposited on the surface of the plant will do them no harm. They will thrust their beaks clear through the poison into the plant and will suck the sap from beneath the surface. To kill these little robbers it is necessary to use contact poisons, such as kerosene emulsion, whale oil soap, tobacco water, pyrethrum, or some application which kills by closing up the pores or by irritation, or else to use some vapor, smoke or gas, such as tobacco smoke or carbon bisulphide. In exceptional instances, as in the case of lice that live underground, it is necessary to use some special treatment.

The Osservatore Romano thus explains why the pope does not appear on the streets of Rome: "If the pope went about in Rome, he would inevitably be made the object of demonstrations of respectful enthusiasm on the part of the faithful, and by a natural reaction these demonstrations would be followed by others of a hostile character. The pope would be simultaneously applauded and hissed and surrounded by tumults and faction fights. The government would render military honors to him, but it could not long tolerate in the streets of Rome demonstrations in favor of the pope, who, after all, is a dispossessed sovereign."

On a Pretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

MR. M'KINLEY'S RECORD.

Has Recognized Slavery and Polygamy in the Sulus.

Major McKinley is a man with a record. It is too long and too varied to recount in a single article, but a few salient points may be recalled with profit.

He has made war without legal authority on our allies, the non-slaveholding christian monogamists of Luzon.

He has recognized slavery and polygamy in the Sulus.

He bought peace for the Mohammedan barbarian a slave-holding polygamist despot and is paying him and his retainers large subsidies for the maintenance of their harems.

He has said in an interview that he could deny the right of suffrage, of trial by jury, of the writ of habeas corpus, the right of representation and all other rights to the inhabitants of "our new possessions," while imposing upon them arbitrary taxes.

He declared in a message to congress that forcible annexation under our code of morals would be criminal aggression. He then engaged in forcible annexation.

He told congress that it was our "plain duty" to give Porto Rico free trade.

Immediately thereafter he exerted all the power of his administration on congress to impose a tariff upon Porto Rican commerce both ways.

He paid Spain $20,000,000 for a title she had lost and secured an insurrection in which Spain had been whipped.

He has since spent more than $200,000,000 in trying to get what Spain is supposed to have agreed to deliver.

And now he is asking the people of the United States to ratify his illegal and immoral acts and to give him a chance to complete his schemes of imperial conquest and exploitation. — National Democrat.

Reason vs. Prejudice.

If you were to hire a man to take complete charge of your business for a period of four years, you would not select him because of his name; you would first inform yourself as to his honesty, sincerity and competence; you would look up his record and learn whether or not he is a true, brave consistent and independent man having convictions and courage to stand by them; you wouldn't engage a man who had repeatedly proclaimed high and noble truths and, because he was owned and controlled by other and viler men, had as repeatedly and as publicly, but more materially, repudiated them. Without passion or prejudice, study Mr. Bryan and Mr. McKinley; compare their records, their public utterances, their characters, the influences surrounding them, the forces that brought them to national celebrity; then say on November 6 which one of these men you would hire to take complete charge of your business affairs for the next four years. — Whatcom Blade.

From the Home of the Trusts.

Senator Sewell, of New Jersey, the home of the trusts, has the effrontery to say, "I don't know of such a thing as a trust."

Yet last year two thousand corporations were chartered in New Jersey, authorized to issue stock to the amount of $3,500,000,000. Six hundred of these were capitalized at $1,000,000 or more, and fully one hundred were absolute monopolies. The state derived a revenue of $1,000,000 from chartering those combinations under a law which practically licenses them to do anything they please—to buy, sell or lease real estate and to issue bonds without limit, and without giving publicity to their operations.

Senator Sewell says that the Standard Oil Company, one of the New Jersey corporations, "was perhaps at one time a trust, but it has been reorganized under the new laws and is now as legitimate as any other business."

This is the republican defense of the greatest and most arbitrary monopoly in the world—that because not technically a trust it is perfectly "legitimate." But this is not the view of the common law, nor of the act of congress which declares that "every contract, combination in form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade, is hereby declared illegal."

There are hundreds of such combinations chartered by New Jersey to prey upon the country, and yet Senator Sewell has the gall to say they are "legitimate and even beneficial?"

What do the voters think of this. — N. Y. World.

"Yakima" Jones on Strikes.

Congressman Jones said in his Everett speech last week that the strike of the anthracite coal miners is an evidence of prosperity because the miners have something to strike for and they can afford to strike since prosperous times have enabled them to lay by enough on which to live while they are striking. This is a sample of republican argument. According to this the numerous strikes in Cleveland's administration were an evidence of prosperity, and even Coxey's army must be regarded in the same light. If Congressman Jones believes such rot as this he is an unsafe man for the people of Washington to trust at the national seat of government. It was better to send some man whose judgment and whose reasoning ability is in better shape. Anybody who knows anything at all knows that laboring men do not strike when they are getting good wages. And anybody who knows anything at all about the conditions in the Pennsylvania hard coal region knows just the reverse of this to exist; he knows, moreover, that thousands of families were suffering on account of starvation wages, and thousands of children were forced to work long hours for a mere pittance. Children of eight and nine were forced to go into the mines and spend a few short years until death came to their relief. And all this is due to prosperity. O, prosperity, thou art a thing to be dreaded by the anthracite coal miners! — Everett News.

Mr. Globetrotter—Yes, that was his profession when I saw him. He was one of the most rapid sardine canners in the place. — London Answers.

Extravagance.

"Here's a case," she exclaimed indignantly, looking up from her paper, "of a man who actually had the nerve to put his wife on an allowance of 10 cents a day."

"What did she do with it all?" he asked absentmindedly.

It was several hours before she felt that she was calm enough to discuss matters with him dispassionately. — New York World.

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

THE BOND QUESTION.

A Statement Issued to the People by the Board of Commissioners.

Inasmuch as the board of county commissioners have deemed it proper and expedient, from a financial standpoint, to submit to the qualified electors of the county the proposition of bonding the county for the purpose of taking up and funding the warrant indebtedness now outstanding, they also deem it proper to place before the voters their reasons for so doing and the advantage to accrue to the tax payers from such action.

The indebtedness of Yakima county at the present time amounts to the sum of $217,500, distributed as follows:

Bond issue of 1888, maturing in 1918 .....	$80,000
Bond issue of 1892, maturing in 1912 .....	75,000
Warrants outstanding, with accrued interest .....	62,500

The first of these bond issues bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum; the second at the rate of 5½ per cent per cent per annum and the warrants 8 per cent per annum.

By the terms of the law under which these bonds were issued, the county commissioners must, commencing in the year 1901, levy an annual tax sufficient to redeem the second bond issue prior to their maturity in 1912. This annual tax will amount to $7,500 or about 2 mills on the dollar on the taxable property each year. They must likewise, in 1907, commence an annual tax levy to take up the first bonds at their maturity in 1918. This annual levy will amount to $8,000 per annum or about 2 mills on the dollar.

The present year the tax levy for state purposes and for running expenses in the county amounts to 18 mills on the dollar without making any provision for the warrant indebtedness or the redemption of the bonds outstanding except the annual interest accruing thereon. The annual tax levy to be made for the purpose of redeeming the bonds at maturity cannot be avoided, and in our opinion, it would not be wise to attempt to do so, for the reason that bonds can be negotiated at this time bearing a much lower rate of interest. For the foregoing reasons the board can find no means for making provision for the payment of the warrant indebtedness of the county now outstanding before all bonds outstanding are redeemed without levying exorbitant taxes for some years to come. So far as can be seen at present, the tax levy in the future will not be less than this year, without making any provision for the warrant indebtedness.

There are two obstacles in the way allowing the warrant indebtedness to stand in its present form: First, the warrants are due and we are advised that any warrant holder may compel the board to levy an annual tax of 5 mills until all are paid. This cannot be prevented as under the decisions of our courts many of the warrants cannot be questioned and the party bringing the suit need hold but one warrant. This tax would be in addition to the other taxes above mentioned. The second objection is the fact that these warrants bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum on their face, or $3600 annually while bonds can be substituted for them bearing only 4 per cent per annum, or a saving of $1100 annually. In addition to this, if the county desires to pay its bonds more rapidly they can take up the 5½ per cent bonds and leave the 4 per cents outstanding, saving 1½ per cent off all bonds thus taken up.

It may be added that at the present time there are but very little delinquent taxes to meet any demands against the county; never before have taxes been so well paid up. The entire delinquent tax list including the last half of the 1899 tax which is not yet due, does not amount to two-fifths of the tax levied for the year 1899 alone.

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that the commissioners are not attempting and have no desire to increase the indebtedness of the county. Their sole object is to put the finances of the county in better condition and save the tax payers from paying unnecessary interest or exorbitant taxes for the next few years. They see no objection to this course because as stated above the county will commence to redeem its outstanding bonds next year and if the laws of the state are complied with these outstanding bonds will all be redeemed in 1918. At the expiration of ten years the commissioners must also commence to make provision for the redemption of the bonds contemplated at this time. It must therefore be apparent to every property owner in the county that the demands against the treasury for some years to come will be sufficient without compelling the commissioners to make provision for the redemption of the present warrant indebtedness.

Believing therefore that the step proposed to be taken by the board of county commissioners will be for the best interest of all concerned and that it will place the finances of the county in a more satisfactory condition and save us from the necessity of exorbitant tax levies in the next few years and unnecessarily high rates of interest on the outstanding indebtedness, we submit the question to the voters for their approval at the next ensuing election.

They Threaten the Drummers.

A Chicago dispatch states that McKinley's managers have undertaken likewise to coerce the traveling salesmen, the so-called "drummers." The big trusts are of course helping them out in their plan. Salesmen in every section of the country are receiving circular letters bearing the names of the trusts controlling their respective fields of trade. They are asked to accept positions subject to the election of McKinley.

Here is a part of one of the letters sent out by the Montclair Rubber Co., of New York, a branch of the rubber trust, to a Chicago man:

"Dear Sir: We would like to have you consider the following conditional proposition, subject to the election of McKinley and other trade conditions.

"We wish to secure a number of good salesmen to sell our goods exclusively during November, December, January, February and March, or as much of that time as possible, and also during the entire year of 1901, if mutually satisfactory.

"Our idea is, if McKinley is elected, to start our salesmen the following Monday, November 12th, and push hard for trade as long as any can be found to pay for the expense and effort. We do not know if you are situated so that you can travel exclusively with our goods during the months mentioned, but should like to hear from you."

SUPPORTS GOV. ROGERS.

Spokesman-Review Comes Out Strong for the Governor.

In his campaign speeches Governor Rogers makes a fair, candid, earnest appeal to the voters. He proves that his administration has been economical, honest and business like. It is doubted if the chief executive of any other state can exhibit a financial record comparable with his. When he entered office the state treasury was two and a half years in arrears. It is now within seven months of a cash basis. State warrants were drawing 8 per cent and selling at 90 cents on the dollar. Throughout his administration warrants have stood at par, and the interest rate has been reduced from 8 to 5 per cent. Bond buyers stand ready to take the state's bonds at a three per cent basis.

From the beginning Gov. Rogers has shown a thorough grasp of the affairs of the state and its various institutions, and as a result of his painstaking efforts these institutions have been exceptionally free from scandals and internal dissensions.

"I do not believe the people of the state are ready to turn over the government and management of affairs to practically the same men who mismanaged them in the past," said the governor in his recent speech at Colfax. It is hoped not. The people have proof that the state's interests are under strong, safe, conscientious guidance. They know that John R. Rogers is the real governor, and that no hidden wires run from the executive chair to the hands of designing men and selfish interests of the producing classes, and that he cannot be bribed, bulldozed or wheedled from the courageous and conscientious performance of his duty.

There is reason to believe that large numbers of republican farmers and business men, who intend to vote for the republican national ticket, have made up their minds to vote for four years more of Governor Rogers' splendid administration.—Spokane Review.

The Canker Worm.

The canker worm has in some seasons done much harm to apple trees, and when its ravages have been unchecked for two or three years it has even killed the trees. There are two kinds of canker worms—one form deposits its eggs during October and November upon the twigs of the apple trees, while the other appears during warm spells in late winter and early spring. The female moths are wingless, and as they have passed their pupal form in the ground the only way they can reach the branches is by crawling up the trunks of the trees. Some endeavor to trap the moths as they ascend the trees by placing bands of paper about the trunk and smearing them with printers' ink or tar. Others use various other bands and traps, but to be effectual they must be applied before the moths ascend the tree and must be kept in a condition to act as a barrier whenever the ground is not frozen from October to May. As this is a serious task and as, even at the best, some of the insects may evade the traps, the principal reliance is upon persons spraying with arsenites.

G. S. Rankin's hop yard of 14 acres in Parker, yielded this year an average of 2535 lbs, equal to 95 boxes to the acre. Mr. Rankin feels sanguine that his is the banner yield in the county.

The ladies aid society of the Baptist church gave a delightful reception to Rev. Robt. Thomson and family at the church on Friday evening. Refreshments were served and a good time had by all present.

Ellery P. Parsons, of the Ahtanum, a lifelong republican and an old soldier, announced this week that he would vote for Mr. Bryan this fall. Dissatisfaction with the foreign policy of the national administration is believed to be the cause of his change of heart.

A very pretty marriage ceremony took place at the Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon when Rev. J. H. Condit united in marriage David Pryse MacKaye and Rachael Crowe. The handsome groom is a leading member of the Dailey company, playing the part of the villain in all their performances, while the charming bride had but recently arrived from the east. The members of the company attended the ceremony in a body.

The Daily Co. occupied the boards at Larson's theater during the first three nights of this week, playing to large houses. "The New South," "The Wife" and "Paradise lost" were the pieces presented. The company is a good one and puts up a splendid show. May Nannary, the leading lady in her emotional rolls commanded general approval. Her support was good throughout.

The illustrated "souvenir" pamphlet descriptive of the Sunnyside country, lately issued by the Washington Irrigation Co. for circulation throughout the east is one of the best works of the kind that we have yet seen. It is a booklet of about 75 pages profusely illustrated and abounding in reading matter written along conservative lines. The little book is calculated to do good missionary work for the Yakima valley wherever it circulates. The illustrations are especially good.

Jim Dickson, the popular young man who officiates behind the counter of the Columbia market, met with a most serious mishap while out driving near Yakima City on Sunday evening with a young lady friend. The horses it seems, became frightened and suddenly started to run. A collision with a barb wire fence was the result, the buggy upsetting and the driver was precipitated onto the savage barbs which lacerated the unfortunate man's face and clothes to a considerable extent. The young lady fortunately received no injuries. The rig is said to be pretty well battered up.

Gorton's Minstrels Coming.

Good minstrel shows are always popular, and Gorton's Famous New Orleans Minstrels form one of the best burnt cork combinations that has taken the road since the time when Jack Haverly was in his prime and Billy Emerson's jokes were new.

The performance given by this most excellent company is highly appreciated everywhere, the laughter and applause being almost continuous, the magnificent new first part being a revelation, in that the songs are prettily sang, the jokes without the corners showing signs of wear and the orchestra far above the average. The quartette singing is a prime feature. In the olio the songs, dances, musical acts and comedy specialties are of an exceptional character.

The audience will depart at the conclusion of the performance with the conviction that for once in their lives they have seen a show that produced what it advertised and that they have received their money's worth.

Look out for Gorton's World's Best Minstrel Band in a noon-day concert on Monday, Oct. 22.

A MONSTER MEETING

A Big Outpouring of Yakima People

To Hear Governor Rogers, Honorable J. T. Ronald and O. R. Holcomb.

What is generally conceded by fair men of all parties as the largest and most successful meeting yet held in this city during the present campaign, took place at Larson's theater on Saturday evening last. Nearly every bit of available space from pit to gallery including the boxes, was filled with people anxious to see and hear the future as well as the present governor of the state, and the eloquent and vigorous giant, who will represent this state in the next congress.

The meeting was called to order promptly at 8 p. m. by Supt. Plumb, who first introduced Mr. O. R. Holcomb, of Ritzville, the democratic candidate for the important office of state land commissioner, who in a very brief speech announced his candidacy for the office to which he aspires, stating his familiarity with the duties of that office and pledging himself if elected to faithfully serve the interests of the people. Mr. Holcomb's straightforward remarks were well received by the audience, and when he finished the young man was given a most hearty applause.

Gov. Rogers was then introduced to the audience, and if anyone present had previously entertained any doubt of his excellency's popularity in this community the hearty reception he received as he arose to speak ought to have settled the matter.

Gov. Rogers occupied but about 25 minutes in his speech, in which there was no reference whatever to national politics. He spoke entirely on the subject of state matters and particularly to the necessity of the eastern Washington farmers procuring a reduction of freight rates to points on Puget Sound. He stated that throughout his present term he had himself persistently endeavored by every means in his power to bring about a proper rate reduction, citing attention to his different messages to the legislature on that subject. He stated that continual agitation along this line would finally bear fruit and urged his hearers not to give up the fight.

The governor then took up the capitol question and candidly gave his reasons for vetoing the three bills providing for the construction of a capitol building to be paid for out of a fund which had no existence as a matter of fact.

The people had repeatedly been told of the great value of the capital lands, which were depended upon to pay for a great building to cost at least one million dollars. During the past year in traveling about the state he had taken the opportunity of examining many of these lands and had found that large portions of it are not worth the taxes, composed mainly, as it is of scab land of a very rolling nature.

Had the capitol bill passed the state government would, of course, been compelled to have guaranteed the principal of the bonds and have stood good absolutely for the interest which would have been eight per cent. These thirty-year bonds would have made for the people a pretty expensive capitol building before it would have been paid for, as the land being mainly of a worthless character, would in all human probability never pay the bonds and the state as guarantor would eventually be compelled to pay the principal.

He, (the governor) had no regrets in the capitol matter. He realized the desirability of providing better quarters but he could not conscientiously approve the bills placed before him for executive approval, as they were manifestly not in the interest of the tax paying citizens of this state.

When the governor concluded his address he was given round after round of enthusiastic applause.

The Hon. J. T. Ronald, of Seattle, democratic candidate for congress, was next introduced, and the big brainy orator at once put himself on good terms with the audience. As is usual with democratic speakers while discussing national issues in this campaign, he divided his able discourse which required one hour and fifty minutes in its delivery, into three sections—money, trusts and imperialism. All these subjects were handled with the skill of a master and in such an interesting way as to closely hold the attention of the big audience until the end.

Mr. Ronald declared that the democratic party under the leadership of that matchless statesman, William Jennings Bryan, was going to win this year at the polls and that the Hanna regime of which the people had become so excessively weary, would have to move out. The speaker frequently illustrated his point with a well told tale which always entertained the audience.

Coming to the trust question, he bitterly denounced the present republican party for its open championship of the whole vicious system and in the same connection riddled the "full dinner pail" argument with which snare the republicans were endeavoring to entrap the labor vote of the country.

The condition of the striking miners in Pennsylvania and elsewhere was then depicted and their miserable lot commented on. The terrible plight of these people gave the lie to the story that prosperity existed everywhere under the benign reign of McKinley.

Prices of commodities were then introduced by the speaker to show that many producers were positively worse off today than they were four years ago under the administration of Cleveland. Wheat, the great staple of commerce, was used as a basis and the prices of wagons, stoves, barbed wire and numerous other articles were quoted to show the marked advance that had been made in the prices of these trust made articles, compared with the fall in the price of wheat. As a rule more than twice as much wheat was required to buy the trust goods as was the case four years ago. The point in the argument was so plain that none failed to understand.

It was on the paramount issue of imperialism, however, that the great orator was at his best. In a calm and dispassionate manner he reviewed carefully all the events that led up to the American occupation of the Philippines. He showed by documentary evidence, with which he was plentifully supplied, that the unhappy Filipinos had sincerely regarded themselves as our allies, and that under the circumstances they clearly had warrant for thinking so. The big syndicates with an eye single to plunder had demanded the absolute ownership of the islands and the president against his own better judgment had weakly consented. Then on the strength of the rotten title received from Spain we proceeded to assert ownership of a country to which we had no more right than to a portion of the coast of Guinea. Of course the outraged inhabitants resisted our occupation. Why should they not? Had they not been struggling for their independence for 300 years? It was doubtful if a parallel case of such treachery could be found in all the pages of history.

If France, the glorious and noble ally of our forefathers had adopted such a course towards the helpless colonies at the conclusion of the war for independence, that would have been a parallel case to our wretched policy in the Philippines. But thank God, France was too generous to do that and as a result the greatest and grandest republic that the world had ever saw, came forth to bless mankind. Why could we not do the same with the new born Filipino republic, the first to put up its head on the benighted shores of Asia.

The infamous treaty with the savage Sultan of Sulu, was read by the orator and commented upon in the most scathing language. The twin relics of barbarism slavery and polygamy are justified by the treaty, notwithstanding the fact that both were plainly inhibited by the constitution. Think, said the speaker, of the humiliation that has been brought upon the American people, by being forced to pay a tribute of $9000 per annum to this lecherous old scoundrel to induce him to keep the peace. And worse yet, that American soldiers who have the misfortune to be stationed in Sulu, being compelled under this infamous understanding to chase the unhappy fugitive slaves and bring them again before their bloody masters for punishment. Great God! to what a pass have we come when such things are possible.

Tremendous applause greeted the speaker as he closed his eloquent peroration. The speech was generally voted by everybody as the ablest that had ever been heard in Yakima.

The Traveling Frenchman.

The Petit Journal of Paris says the nothing is so curious and instructive as to observe the Englishman when traveling as compared with the Frenchman. The former is calm, punctual, precise and with only the necessary quantity of baggage. He will journey through China with merely a valise. He is not impatient. He loves travel. It is to him an inclination and a felt want. On the other hand, the Frenchman when journeying is restless, nervous, impatient, bored; the entire time he spends looking furtively at his watch or consulting the railway time table. He is always crowded up with parcels in addition to his portmanteau. He is, as a rule, incumbered with many useless articles. In fact, he dislikes travel, which he finds an ennui and a fatigue.

A Reliable Cowcatcher.

By this whimsical incident the Chicago News reminds us that in real life as well as in the dictionary words have more than one meaning:

"Pardon me," said the tourist as he gazed at the country's first locomotive, "but why is that lasso hanging under the smokestack?"

"That," responded Amber Pete, acting engineer, "is the cowcatcher. That was an iron concern that came with the engine, but the boys didn't exactly understand how it could catch a cow, so they unscrewed it and put on one that they knew something about. It's the best cowcatcher this side of Denver too."

Superior Court Items.

Judge Davidson on Monday granted full citizenship papers to the following persons: John O. Netherlund, Edward Denning, John S. Martin, John Plaude and Alex Carlson. The application of F. O. Gibbons a native of England was denied on the ground that the petitioner having arrived in this country a short time after having passed the age of 18, made it necessary to take out a double set of papers.

Matt Nooner, the young boy convicted of horse stealing, was brought into court for sentence. Considering his extreme youth, the court decided not to send him to the pen, but gave him a fatherly lecture and a fine of $100, which he will lay out in jail.

A Noted Visitor.

C. W. Mott, general emigration agent of the Northern Pacific Railway company, has been spending several days in this city and vicinity, gathering facts for prospective eastern homeseekers. The colonel is much enthused over the future of Yakima county, and predicts that North Yakima will soon be a city of 15,000 prosperous people. He receives with much pleasure the showers of gratitude tendered him by the scores of happy and contented families who have made their homes in this vale of sunshine upon his advice. The fact that his work has been appreciated by those now comfortably located, stimulates the genial emigration agent to greater efforts in bringing more people to this valley. He says they are coming from all parts of the middle states and hopes the people here will extend to the strangers the hearty hand of welcome. This the Yakima people, noted the world over for their hospitality, will certainly do.

Agent Graham got a wire from Supt. Gilbert on Friday that Northern Pacific car No. 36487 was broken into on that day enroute to Ellensburg, and goods consisting of cutlery, liquors and optical goods abstracted. Robbery is supposed to have been committed by suspicious looking characters who boarded the train at Kiona.

A $350 wager was made the first of the week between Wm. Stewart and Dr. Hill on the governorship. The former had still more wealth to risk on the governor, but the latter, it is said, showed no disposition to cover it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Turner gave a delightful social at their cosy home on the west side Thursday evening. Card playing and other games were the principle amusements. Elegant refreshments were served.

The city registration books were closed at 12 o'clock on Tuesday night with a total of 885 names of qualified voters enrolled. The registration two years ago was 606.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Quett & Ayres Drug Co's.

THE LIGHTSHIP.

When boats come home across the bar
And winter's sunlight dies afar,
When green and purple dusk creeps down
And hides the harbor and the town,
Each night far out to sea a beam
Of pale, wan light sends forth its gleam
Across the peaceful, dark'ning tides
And marks the lightship where she rides.

When, tempest tossed, the ships slip by
The foam hid headland, and the sky
Is torn with wrack of scudding cloud,
And winds of winter cry aloud,
Lo, through the roar of crashing wave,
Above the tempest's moan and rave,
A voice comes o'er the troubled tides
And marks where yet the lightship rides!

A DEAL IN WHISKY.

The Profits Were Not So Large as the Buyers Expected.

"There are tricks in the whisky business as well as in others," said the drummer for a large compounding house, "and I remember once how the firm I was with got stuck. One day a man drove up in a one horse wagon carrying one barrel of whisky, which he wanted to sell. He told us some kind of a story about an old uncle dying and leaving it to him; but, as he couldn't afford to use as good liquor as it was, he had concluded to sell it.

"We took the barrel into the house, and, prying out the bung, we slipped in the siphon and drew off a glass of it to sample. And it was fine. The barrel showed age, and the liquor tasted it. It was worth $10 a gallon if it was worth a cent, but we didn't give the man any such pointers. We knew by the weight that there were at least 40 gallons of it, and we made him an offer of $150 for the barrel. He higgled awhile, but took the money at last and drove away.

"In the course of a couple of weeks we concluded to put that whisky in bottles and sell it as case goods, so we set the siphon to work at the bung and began to draw it off. After the fourth bottle had been drawn the siphon refused to work, and we examined it to find what was wrong. We could not get at it that way, and, as the contents seemed to be all right, we set the barrel on end and bored another hole in it. Then the siphon worked, but the liquor was much paler, and one of the men tasted it. By George, it wasn't whisky at all! It was only water, colored somewhat from the charred inside of the barrel.

"That scared us, and we smashed the head in to see what was inside, and we saw in a minute. The wily cuss had filled a can with fine old whisky to the bung where we made the examination before purchasing, and when that had been emptied the whole story had been told. He had probably paid $8 for the gallon to fill the can, and we sold it for $2.50 a bottle, but we didn't get a blamed cent for the 39 gallons, more or less, of water that filled the rest of the barrel."—Washington Star.

The Tamahac or Tomahawk.

Tamahac eventually came to designate the "war hatchet" of the Indian, supplied by the military commanders of the whole continent in equipping the warriors on the many expeditions in which French and English were constantly engaged, and was furnished the Indian allies of the English in our war of independence.

This weapon was either in the form of a spear or hatchet blade on one side, while upon the opposite side there was a cuplike cavity, with a small hole extending into the eye of the weapon, into which a tough handle of wood was fitted 18 inches or two feet in length. The handle was perforated almost its entire length, and below the hollow of the bowl it was bored at right angles to this perforation, a suitable stemhole for the passage of the tobacco smoke when the implement was in use as a pipe.

PRETTY FROSTY

Was the G. O. P. Rally on Tuesday Night.

The republican meeting advertised for Mason's hall on Tuesday evening was a rather chilly affair. Spellbinder Humphries of Seattle and ex-Judge Graves of Ellensburg, were expected to speak, but the witty lawyer of the "Windy City" failed to show up and as a result Humphries had to stretch himself out pretty thin in order to fill up the whole program.

Humphries' speech was one long, lugubrious howl against the democratic party. In his over heated imagination, one-half of the citizenship of the country is ignorant, vicious and incompetent and therefore unfit to govern, at least that is the sentiment that ran through his whole harangue. A good deal of the speaker's time was spent in a discussion of the petty details in the makeup of Harr Wagner's geography. It was a villainous book, he said, and would cost the people of the state $200,000 before they get rid of it.

The democratic party, he declared, was entirely responsible for the trust evil, if evil it is. Was not New Jersey, where all the trusts originated, a democratic state? This powerful argument was loudly applauded by the audience, notwithstanding the fact that New Jersey went republican in '96 by 90,000 majority.

The above was a fair sample of numerous misstatements made by the orator who seemed more disposed to catch votes than to candidly discuss any of the issues of the campaign. The audience was quite small to begin with, but kept gradually dwindling away until but comparatively few were left at the close.

Funeral of A. H. Wilgus.

The remains of ex-Councilman A. H. Wilgus arrived on Monday from Grand Rapids, Mich., where the deceased died on the 10th inst.

The body was met at the depot by a committee of the K. P. order, of which Mr. Wilgus in life was a valued member.

The funeral occurred on Tuesday afternoon from the residence of the deceased's mother on the west side, a large number of friends and neighbors being present. The services at the grave were conducted by the K. P. order.

Mr. Wilgus was born at Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 15, 1860, and was therefore at the time of his death nearly forty years of age. He came west while yet quite a young man and settled down in this city, carrying on a most prosperous business as a blacksmith and wood worker. Ill health, however, gradually stole upon him in the shape of the insidious "brights" disease which in the end took his life.

Relief was sought at a sanitarium at Grand Rapids, Mich., a few weeks ago but it seems that the treatment was undertaken too late.

Exaggeration is the sin of the age, and the most guilty sinners are those whose advertisements mislead the public. If all they write were true there would be no second class merchandise.

A Serious Accident.

Robert Johnson, who lives near the Fruitvale school house, met with a most serious accident on Saturday evening, which might have had fatal results.

Mr. Johnson was hauling a load of hay, when suddenly one of the wheels of his wagon collapsed as the result of losing the tire. A stop was made at the Tom Nelson place in the search for a substitute wheel. Meantime the fractious horses left standing at the gate became excited and proceeded to break the wagon tongue and become entangled in their harness. Mr. Johnson who was some distance off, rushed to the scene and in the effort to get the fallen horse to his feet received a stinging kick full in the face from the frightened animal. The wound is a most painful one and will leave the unfortunate man marked for life.

Please Take Notice.

A fair to raise funds toward a handsome Catholic church in the near future, will be given by the members of St. Joseph's congregation in Schott's old store, Oct. 29, 30 and 31. Those patronizing the fair will have an opportunity to purchase many useful and beautiful things, as there will be a number of booths filled with articles of fancy work, including embroidery and lace work besides aprons, cushions, sofa pillows etc. etc. A postoffice will be among the necessities, and a candy booth for those having a sweet tooth. Meals will also be served at 25c. A voting contest for the most popular business house in the city will prove not only an attraction at the fair but also a fine ad for the contesting firms. Another voting contest will decide who is the most popular young lady in the city; still another will give two fortunate little girls a beautiful doll apiece.

The contests finish the third evening of the fair. The first evening the Sisters will give an entertainment, and on the second Mrs. Richards will entertain those attending. Music by Prof. F. X. Nagler's band. Admission 10 cts.
