OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

A LL indications point to the fact that our government in treating for peace with Spain has practically decided-with the exception of insisting on a naval stationto give up all claims of soverignty in the Philippines. This leads the Portland Oregonian, the leading organ of the Expansionists on this coast, to bawl forth its disapproval of the course of the administration in the following vigorous language: "It is impossible to say with certainty what these influences are that has changed the policy of the government. Probably there is a desire to concilliate the anti-imperialist vote in the November election. Probably there is a fear to offend jealous rivals in Europe. Probably there is that same prediliction for peace at any price which dismissed the murder of the Maine as a mere incident." This from a paper that has been a thick and thin supporter of the administration, The poor old Oregonian had almost gone datt on the advantages to be derived from the acquisition of the islands, and had worked itself up to such a state of expectancy that it now finds it hard to give up its dream of conquest. But we believe notwithstanding all the logic of the expansionists, that the administration is eminently right in renouncing all claims to the Philippines in the interest of peace. If we had those unfortunate islands they would probably prove a curse to us. We have Admiral Dewey as authority for the statement that it would take 150,000 men to conquer the islands and establish our authority. In that case many a good American would have to bite the dust before the benighted natives would yield to us. They are not worth the sacrifice. If the natives do not appreciate our aid let them work out their own destiny, Besides, such a scheme of conquest is un-American, to say the least.

THE death of Prince Bismarck has probably had the effect of causing Germans wherever they may be to mourn his end, for Bismarck was unquestionably the greatest and ablest man that the Fatherland has produced since the days of Frederick the Great; but the world at large, while it ad-shed no tears over his demise, as they did crippled man and the woman with "seven in the case of Gladstone. The character of Bismarck more nearly resembled that of Napoleon than any other in current history. His antipathy to free government was such that Americans have little cause to remember him with gratitude. Bismarck, like all men possessed of great genius and extreme ambition, has probably done the world more harm than good. He welded Germany into an empire, but it is still nothing but a military despotism, acknowledging the divine right of kings. In short, Bismarck stood for everything in government that a good American is supposed to hate.

NEGOTIATIONS for peace with Spain are dragging their weary length along. The terms of peace dictated by our government appear to be on the basis of the freedom of Cuba and the cession of Porto Rico to the United States and the early evacuation of both islands by the Spanish troops. Regarding the fate of the Philippines, the intention of our government is not so clear as the maaner of their disposition is to be left until after the preliminary terms of peace have been arranged. It is evident, however, that the administration has (in view of Admiral Dewey's gloomy report of the necessity of having 125,000 troops to subjugate the islands) about given up all idea of permanent occupancy, and will, no doubt, relinquish all claim to them, except the reservation of what territory is needed to establish a naval station. A cash indemnity, in all probability, will not be asked, as its collection would be hardly possible, under Spain's bankrupt condition.

DROFESSIONAL beggers are very much in evidence these days, much to the annoyance of our citizens. There are a multitude of them from the legless man to the woman with "an invalid husband and seven children" to support. There is certainly something radically wrong with the laws of a country that permits this miserable element to pass from door to door plying their unlawful avocation on a sympathetic people, and in a majority of cases the collections are spent in debauchery. Yakima has honorable citizens who are as unfortunate as the legless man who was making a canvas of the avenue one day this week, that are making an honest living by honest toil. The writer knows of a number of women who are supporting large familes and are not compelled to ask financial mired the man, feels no sorrow and will aid without rendering value for value. The munity. Only fifty cents a year.

small children"-conceived probably in iaiquity-are not subjects for charity; are not honest citizens, and we can see no reasonable excuse for their tolerance.

THIS is the season of the year when the people are glad to leave behind them the work and worry of every day life in the city, and either travel to the seashore or hie themselves to shady mountain retreats. The average man innately knows the necessity of for a time, laying business cares aside, and after having done so, feels better both in mind and body, All men, even the untutored savage, intitively knows that to nature we owe our existence; therefere, they find or take time to commune with and love their kind and affectionate old mother-Nature,

THE voluntary restoration by the Northern Pacific Railway company of the old scale of wages in effect until 1895, is, to say the least, creditable to that corporation, We believe in giving the devil his dues under any and all circumstance. If the company would now voluntarily reduce its enormous freight and passenger tariffs; thus showing the same consideration to the farmer that it does to the workingmen, it would speedily and effectually disarm all all opposition, NORTH YAKIMA has a responsibility resting upon her shoulder that she should not overlook-the entertainment of visitors to the coming State Fair, There will be an immense crowd in this city on that occasion and none should be allowed to depart with any but the most kindly feeling for our fair city and her hospitable people.

WE often hear these days of papers chang-ing their politics from Fusion to Republican or Middle-of-the-Road, but in the case of the Cheney Free Press, the change is the other way, it having been transformed from a g. o, p. to a reform journal.

The Editor in the Insane Asylum

THE EPIGRAM scribe, through the courtesy of Sheriff Shaw, made a trip to The Money They Spend Amounts to Medical Lake last week in company with the genial official and his demented prisoner, John H Ellis. The latter, while clear daft on the subject of religion and some minor matters, proved to be a pleasant and agreeable companion, espacially when his mind was switched out of the usual channels. He gave his word of honor to the sheriff when put eboard the tran that he would make no attempt to escape if the handcuffs were removed, and he faithfully kept his

After having arrived at Medical Lake without incident, and poor unfortunate Ellis had been handed over to the authorities at the asy lum, the sheriff and the scribe were given an opportunity, under the guidance of the head keeper, to look through the great madhouse, and view with compassion the hundreds of mental wiecks who are confined there and cared for by the state. Men and women of all ages and of many nationalities were there. Some were old and feeble, others apparently strong and healty; some were reading, some were ceaselessly tramping like caged animals up and down the long corridors, while others were amusing themselves as best they could, like little

In the ward occupied by the harmless, but hopelessly insane, we found Uncle George Remnant, of this city. The unfortunate old man, so the attendant said, walked constantly to and fro mumbling to himself; but recognizing no one. He evidently imagines that he is still acting in the capacity of tyler or sentry of a Masonic lodge, which post he had faithfully filled for many years.

The institution seems to be kept in the best of order and the discipline is as perfect as could be expected in a madhouse. Superintendent Lockhart and his assistant, Dr. McLean, seem to be the right men in the right place. They are affable and agreeable gentlemen and show visiters every courtesy. When we came to leave the unhappy place behind the spanking asylum team, many of the demented inmates gathered at the windows

TOURISTS ABROAD.

$700,000,000 a Year.

The amount of money expended by tourists in Europe has, if official records abroad are to be accepted as authentic, increased enormously of late years. There has been recently filed with the Swiss minister of finance and customs at Bern a detailed statement of hotel receipts in that country, from which it appears that the gross receipts of Swiss hotels rose from 52,800,000 francs in 1880 to 114,333,000 in 1894. The entire innual expenses of the Swiss republic amount in a year to between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 francs (the budget for this year is given at the latter figure), and it would seem, therefore, very much, as if the hotels of Switzerland take in in a year more than the government it-

The Swiss figures are not the only ones furnished in Europe recently on this point. A French record shows that every year there are 270,000 foreigners who pass from a fortnight to a whole winter on the Riviera. Every person is supposed to expend on an average 1,000 francs, or $200, in the country. In other words, the foreign visitors spend in the country every winter the sum of $54,000,000 The English are put down as contributing one-third of this amount; the French themselves contribute another third; Germans, Belgians, Dutch, Russians and Americans contribute the remainder. From being a poor country when it was annexed to France in 1860 Nice has become one of the richest departments of the republic.

Some figures recently compiled of the revenues to hotels from tourists in Paris show the average number of foreign visitors to be 60,000. It is customary to estimate at 10 francs, or $2, a day the hotel bills of strangers in Paris. Estimating at $2 a day each the hotel bills of 60,000 tourists and at about as much more their other outlays it is to be seen that tourists in Paris can be put down for an expenditure of nearly $250,-000 a day.

The total sum expended by tourists in Europe in a year is probably not very far from $700,000,000, and a very considerable portion of this comes from the pockets, the purses and the bankers' balances of Americans, who are proverbially the most liberal among travelers. Russians come second, Brazilians third. - Exchange.

Gratitude In Women.

Are feelings of gratitude absent in women? That clever gentleman who does the Private Diary in The Cornhill Magazine is not quite satisfied upon the subject. This is his way of putting it: "As gratitude depends upon imagination, it may well be that women, having less imagination than men, are less grateful. The doctor to'd me 'intermittent heart' is a not uncommon female ailment." To sugar the pill, however, the diarist says: "In defense of the maligned sex I should like to record a case of gratitude in a woman that left me a little mournful. I had sent Charlotte a book for her birthday last autumn, and at breakfast today she said. 'Oh, thank you for that delightful book you sent me!' 'Oh,' I said, 'what was it?' 'Dear me, 'said Charlotte, 'I have quite forgotten.'

Notice to farmers. The Fair commissioners have secured through the Northern Pacific Railway company, a sufficient number of jars to prepare an excellent exhibit of fruits and vegetables to be exhibited first at the State Fair and then taken to Omaha. Farmers are asked to bring in the very best they have of truits and vegetables to the office of Secretary Gunn or to the rooms of Mr. Leckenby, just across the street, where he is prepared to put them up. This fruit is to be labelled with the name and postoffice address of the party bringing it in. Wrap the fruit carefully so it will not become bruised. Farmers are urged to do this at once, as it is the most effectual advertisement that we could possibly have. Under this arrangement tarmers are allowed to enter their fruit for premiums, it only passing from their hands after fair closes.

SLEEPWALKING.

Strange Things Men Do While In a State of Somnambulism.

Readers of that charming work of my late friend Wilkie Collins, "The Moonstone," will remember the sleepwalking feats of Mr. Franklin Blake when under the influence of an opiate. What the novelist describes as a piece of fiction may be paralleled from the sober records of science.

McNish, in his classic volume on "Sleep," tells us of a shepherd lad who, wrapt in slumber, walked miles to the place where his flock was pastured, waded through a river and returned home without waking. In another case a lad in his sleep scaled a precipitous cliff and brought home from it an eagle's nest, which was found under his bed in the morning.

Abercrombie's case of the Scottish lawyer who, when worried over a per plexing case, was seen by his wife to rise from his bed in the night is another illustration of the occasionally purposive character of somnambulism, when, directed by its private secretaries, the sleeping ego is apparently roused from its couch and made to act the part of a pure automaton. This individual went to a writing desk which stood in his bedroom, sat down before the desk and wrote for some time. Then, replacing the paper within the desk, he re turned to bed

In the morning he told his wife of a dream he had experienced, in which he imagined he had given a satisfactory opinion on the case which was troubling his mind. He expressed regret that he could not recall the train of thought represented in his dream. On his wife directing him to his writing desk, he found therein the opinion in question clearly written out and in every respect satisfactory.—Andrew Wilson, M. D., in Harper's Magazine.

Have You Seen It?

Every big railroad in this country has a freight car in its equipment bearing the number 12,345, and yet I'll lay reasonable odds that you may tramp this town over and you will not be able to find a man, I care not how much he has traveled, who has ever seen a car with that number. Among railroad men it is known as the "sequence car or the "one-two-three-four-five car. Perhaps you never looked for it. I have. For years in my travels I made it a practice to get out whenever the train stopped and take a look at the freight cars in sight, and I have met drummers who told me they did the same thing but never a glimpse did I get of that car nor did I ever run across a man who had been so fortunate. Try it. Go up to the freightyards in this city or across the river. You will find hundreds of cars, but it's $10 to a pint of peanuts that car 12,345 will not be among them. -St. Louis Republic.

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veing, which convey the blood to every part of the system. When the liver and kidneys refuse to act the blood is prevented from circulation by poisonous acids, and then comes Rheumatism. Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy drives these poisons from the blood, and Dr. Drummond's Lightning Liniment restores the muscles. Members are not allowed to refer to each other by name in debate. The only member who is properly addressed by name is the chairman who presides over the deliberations of the house in committee. On a member rising to speak in committee he begins with "Mr. Low-ther," and not with "Mr. Chairman," as at public meetings. When the speak er is in the chair, the formula is "Mr. Speaker, sir."

In debate a member is distinguished by the office he holds, as "the right honorable gentleman the chancellor of the exchequer," or by the constituency he represents, as "the honorable gentleman the member for York." Some make use of the terms "My honorable friend' or "My right honorable friend."

In case of family relations the same form is usually observed. Occasionally "My honorable relative" or "My right honorable relative" is heard, but "My right honorable father" or "My right honorable brother," though no doubt allowable, has not been hitherto used. -Nineteenth Century.

Russian Thistle Again.

Prof. C. V. Piper, of the State Agricultural college, was in the city this week. His principal mission is to stir up Yakima county farmers to a realization of the danger threatened agricultural interests by the Russian thistle. A thorough survey of the railway lines of the state is being made under Prof. Piper's direction to ascertain the location and extent of all patches of Russian thistle and, as far as the funds at his disposal will allow tae patches are destroyed. In Yakima county no less than nine separate patches have been located and excepting the large on sat Toppenish and the Sunnyside, the .ve been destroyed. These last two patches are too extensive to be handled by the meagre funds at Prof. Piper's disposal, and it therefore becomes imperative that the farmers in those place do all in their power to stay the progress of the dreaded weed. Strong efforts will be made next winter to get an appropriation from the state sufficiently large to eradicate all the thistle in Eastern Washington. This would require about $5000. If this can be done Prof. Piper says an annual sum of $100 will be ample to prevent the thistle from ever again getting a footheld. Bulletin 34, just issued by the Experiment station, contains a full account of this bad weed and every farmer should procure a copy of it.

A Disastrous Fire.

A little before 12 o'clock on Wednes day the hop house on the ranch of County Commissioner Joseph Stephenson was destrayed by fire. There being no means of checking the flames and as the wind was very high at the time, the flames communicated with the barn and near by hay stacks, which, with the hop house and tool shed were entirely consumed. Mr. Stephenson reckons his loss at about $500. Unfortunately there was no insurance.

Animal Drunkards

Most of the higher animals—as monkeys, elephants, bears, horses and dogs -have a natural fondness for fermented liquors, and suffer from the abuse of these liquors as men do. From the book of Maccabees it is evident that war elephants were maddened of old with new wine, as they have been and are with arrack down to the present time. Managers of menageries and employees at the various zoological gardens know that the elephants under their care are prepared to go on a wild drunk when-ever opportunity offers. Whisky is officially given them when they are ill or low-the quantity varying from five to ten gallons, according to the requirements of the case. This is put into their drinking water. Bears and monkeys drink beer like German students, and love whisky equally well.

In Africa the natives make use of this evil trait to capture their poor relations. The monkeys there are extremely fond of a beer brewed by the natives. So the latter place quantities of the liquor within easy reach of the monkeys and wait until their victims are thoroughly befuddled. In this state they are unable to recognize the difference between negro and ape. When the negro takes the hand of one of them to lead him off, a second monkey takes the hand of the first, a third that of the second, and so on. A single negro may sometimes be seen carrying off a string of staggering monkeys. Fresh doses of beer in decreasing quantities are administered to the captives, so that they may only gradually awaken to the sad results of their spree.—Lippincott's.

Belgian and German Farming.

In Belgium a two acre holding is sufficient to maintain a farmer and his family. The typical two acre farm in that country contains a patch of wheat or rye and another of barley. Another fair portion grows potatoes. A row of cabbage grows all round on the sloping sides of the ditches, with a row of onions just inside, leaving bare walking room between them and the grain. The shade trees round the house are pear trees. Every foot of land is made to produce, and the farmer keeps pigs and chickens.

In Germany, out of 5,276,000 farms, 1,223,000, or 23 per cent of the whole, are each under 2½ acres in extent, and of the farms above 56 per cent are cultivated by the owner himself, over 28 per cent partly so, or about 85 per cent altogether, leaving 15 per cent out of every 100 per cent that are let to ten-ants. In Germany, notwithstanding this small size of a large proportion of the farms, 178 out of every 1,000 inhabitants are nevertheless engaged in agriculture, whereas in England no more than 52 are thus occupied, in Scotland only 61, though 195 per 1,000 in Ireland being thus engaged raises the proportion in the whole United Kingdom to 73 out of that number, less than half, however, the percentage so employed in Germany.

Cuban Bric-a-brac In Vogue

Curiosities and bric-a-brac from Cuba are now slowly coming into vogue. Oddly enough, they were quite fashionable 40 and 50 years ago. and one of the most beautiful objects imaginable is a bunch of crystals from one of the famous caverns in the limestone district. Some of these are as clear as rock crystal, and are not alone many faceted but are often covered with masses of large and small crystals of great brilliancy. When the faceting occurs in certain patterns, the crystal has the fire of a precious stone and, in a well lighted parlor will throw colored lights and fires in every direction. Still another beautiful object is a mass of fine fern leaf coral, which is found near the keys in the middle and eastern part of the island. Some of this is so delicate that it suggests a petrified cobweb.-Margherita Arlina Hamm in New York Mail and Express.
