OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

For President,
WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

For Vice-President,
ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

THE signs are multiplying that point to the election of Mr. Bryan to the presidency. Here in the remote west, and in this state particularly, where the majority of the people have to depend almost entirely upon a bitterly partisan republican daily press for their information, these signs may not be so apparent; but the reader of the eastern independent press can readily perceive the change that is going on in public sentiment. During the past month the political drift throughout the eastern and central states has been unmistakably away from McKinley and his party. Wharton Barker, the middle-of-the-road populist candidate for the presidency, in his paper, the American, says that McKinley is steadily losing ground in his former strongholds and that if the present general movement toward Bryan is not stopped, or at least checked, the latter will win hands down. And it cannot be claimed that Barker is in any sense in sympathy with Bryan, for he devotes much valuable space in his little paper to abusing and vilifying the great Nebraskan. This view of the situation is re-enforced by many other able students of passing events. The fear of Bryan's election is also noticeable in the recent speeches of Mark Hanna, who is beginning to see the hand writing on the wall since the Maine election. The betting in the city of New York also furnishes another sign that things are coming Bryan's way. Two months ago the odds freely offered on McKinley were five to one. According to the World, of that city, McKinley money is now almost impossible to secure at two to one, with the odds steadily declining. The states that voted for McKinley in 1896 that are now counted on as almost absolutely sure for Bryan this year are Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. While the states of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Delaware and New York are to be regarded as extremely doubtful, with the chances favoring Bryan in New York and Delaware. The recent announcement of Jones, the "golden rule" mayor of Toledo, in favor of Bryan, will greatly aid the democracy in the president's own state, as Jones has a large and enthusiastic following. The republicans are everywhere becoming alarmed at the prospect and are already engaged in a systematic effort to stem the tide, but with little chance of success. The reason of this is not hard to find. The party in power during the past four years has ruthlessly trampled upon the Declaration of Independence and ignored the mandates of the Constitution. It has outraged popular government in its dealings with Porto Rico and the Philippines to such an extent that it has alienated tens of thousands of its own supporters and driven them into the ranks of the democracy. By its wrongful and brutal policy of conquest, inspired by the monied cliques within it, it has succeeded in arousing the conservative elements of the country, which can always be depended upon to oppose innovations or violent changes in the present system of government. Had the administration acted wisely and according to American ideals in dealing with Spain's former colonies, the prestige thus gained, together with the favorable conditions, might and probably would have had the effect of keeping the party in power for a series of years; but that hope has now gone glimmering and unless all signs fail the party of Hanna and McKinley may as well prepare to transfer the sceptre of power into hands more worthy.

THE republican state platform of this year is discreetly silent on the subject of a reduction of freight rates. It is asserted on good authority, however, that a plank demanding such reduction was urged by eastern Washington delegates and reported by the committee on resolutions; but was smothered before the platform reached the convention. It was a surreptitious piece of business, but still it is commendable as compared with the tactics employed two years ago when the party went on record and in the most emphatic language, demanded a substantial reduction in rates and fares—a pledge which the party's representatives in the legislature, a few months later, completely disregarded and repudiated.

IF you have produced anything worthy of note on your farm or truck patch take it to the State Fair, where the public can view and admire it. And be sure to attend the exhibition yourself and take your family. To be sure, the Fair comes at a time when the Yakima valley ranchers or at least that class of them engaged in hop growing, are extremely busy; but, as a rule, they can all manage to attend the Fair for at least one day, and also allow their employes to do so. The people of this county, it must be understood, must take a greater interest in the Fair in the future if they would have it continue in their midst.

DELINQUENT subscribers of this paper will confer a favor upon its management by liquidating at their earliest convenience. The trusts having raised the prices of everything that the printer uses an average of forty per cent. during the past two years, makes country papers not run on the grafting system, anything but profitable investments. Hence the absolute necessity of the publisher being paid the pittance due from many subscribers who are merely careless about paying up and not actuated by a desire to injure the paper or to impair its usefulness. But that is what they do.

A. J. SPLAWN, if elected, and he doubtless will be, will make a creditable representative of this county in the state legislature. He is allied with no political clique or ring, and no corporation has or can have strings upon him. While neither an orator or a politician, he is nevertheless well qualified to assume the duties of a legislator, for the reason that nature has richly endowed him with tact and good horse sense, while the experience gained from a busy life, the most of which has been spent in this county, has thoroughly taught him what the people here need in the way of legislation.

COL. LEWIS has gone east at the request of the democratic national committee to begin a speaking tour through the doubtful states and incidentally to shatter the arguments of Teddy the terror. This appointment is a great compliment to Col. Lewis, whose reputation as a great orator has become national. The democrats of his own state, while proud of him, are nevertheless loath to see him go, as they feel that his services are in great demand at home.

THE Yakima correspondent of the Seattle P.-I., who has the reputation of being a practical joker, informs his paper in all seriousness that the republicans will carry this county by 350 majority. If that paper's political news, as a whole, is of the same character as that particular item, the big organ at Seattle ought to be promptly placed under the direction of a censor. But perhaps the local scribe was merely joking.

THE reform element of this county, and in fact a good many republicans as well, are particularly well pleased at the renomination of Hon. John B. Davidson for the exalted office of superior judge. His splendid record on the bench, and his absolute fairness as a presiding judge, insures him a safe majority in this county at the coming election.

OLNEY'S estimate of McKinley's administration seems to be eminently accurate: "A syndicated presidency, got for the republican party by the money of a combination of capitalists intent upon securing national legislation in aid of their particular interests."

THE newly organized Bryan and Rogers club, of this city, has plenty of work to do and ought to go at it with a will. Human and industrial liberty are the issues of this campaign, and eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

BRYAN AND ROGERS

Club Organized in this City
Thursday Evening.

An Enthusiastic Gathering of Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans.

In response to a call circulated on Thursday for a meeting of the followers of W. J. Bryan, a large and enthusiastic crowd of democrats, populists and silver republicans assembled at the court house on the evening of that day and organized a Bryan and Rogers club for the campaign.

The meeting was called to order by J. D. Medill, who was elected temporary chairman, while Dr. C. T. Dulin was chosen as temporary secretary.

The roll of membership was then produced and all present signed it with great alacrity.

The election of permanent officers being the next order of business the following were elected by acclamation: President, Henry Ditter; vice president, J. D. Medill; recording secretary, Richard Strobach; corresponding secretary, Dr. C. T. Dulin; treasurer, T. G. Redfield.

After the election of officers the meeting indulged in a little oratory. By unanimous consent Judge L. T. Erwin was accorded the floor and in an eloquent speech of about 15 minutes duration announced his return to the democratic party, which he left in 1896 on the financial issue. The speaker stated that he was glad to be back again in the party ranks, and that under no consideration would he ever again leave it. The judge then launched out in an attack on the national administration, which he said was controlled body and soul by the trust magnates and the organized wealth of the country and that the people must arouse themselves and shake off such pernicious influences or else all would be lost. He also denounced the administration for purposely humiliating the people of the south by the appointment of incompetent negro postmasters, which contemptible practice would make the south solid again for democracy.

Judge Erwin's speech was punctuated with hearty applause, and at its conclusion many of those present shook his hand and welcomed him back to the party fold.

Hon. H. J. Snively and others then made short addresses, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again next Monday evening at the court house, at which time it is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The agent of the Bittner Theater company has been in town all week arranging for his company which will appear in Larson's theater all next week. The Bittner company has played this town before and never fails to please the people and is one of the oldest and best companies on the road, and have played all the largest towns and cities in the east this season to the largest houses ever drawn by any company. Mr. and Mrs. Bittner are supported by the best people money can secure, playing comedies, dramas, specialties, singing and dancing. No waiting between acts. A continuous performance. The opening performance will take place on Monday evening.

If you want good photographs taken in the hop fields, or of your residence, etc., leave orders at JAMES' GALLERY Schlotfeldt building. 1-3

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Malcom McLennon shipped a train load of lambs to Chicago on Wednesday.

Seven carloads of merchandise was received in this city on Monday consigned to Yakima merchants.

Parties who can accommodate Fair visitors with rooms during the coming week should leave their names and location with Dr. P. Frank, G. S. Hough or J. D. Medill.

J. C. Whitlock, who purchased the undertaking business of Lombard & Horsley, is now comfortably settled in his new quarters in one of the new Current buildings on Second street.

Walter White, of the Natches, this week captured a young gray eagle by first wounding him by a pistol shot. The bird is a pretty specimen and is now on exhibition at Rand's meat market.

Mrs. Virginia Boan, wife of Francis Boan, died at the hospital early on Wednesday morning of chlorosis. The deceased was 23 years of age and came here from Honey Bend, Ill., about June 1st with her husband. The remains were shipped back to the old home on Thursday.

Orlando Beck with a force of men is busily engaged this week in scouring the country for choice exhibits of fruit and other produce to be made at the Fair next week. Mr. Beck stated on Wednesday that he was meeting with good success and the exhibition in that department would be highly creditable.

Rev. J. H. Condit, the popular pastor of the Presbyterian church tendered his resignation to his congregation on last Sunday. Mr. Condit contemplates returning to mission work at Juneau, Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Condit have made many warm friends during their brief residence in this city, who deeply regret their decision to leave North Yakima.

A committee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, according to the P.-I. of the 20th, has purchased and had suitably engraved a beautiful silver loving cup which will be sent to the Commercial club of this city as a token of their esteem and appreciation of the hospitality and courtesy shown their members while visiting in this city last week.

The frisky horse of Penn Huntington, the hop buyer, took a spin up First street at breakneck speed on Tuesday while hitched to a buggy and considerable damage might have resulted had it not been for Will Splawn and Jack Lindsey, of Yakima City, who took after the frightened animal on horseback and stopped him. The opinion among the bystanders was that it was an extremely neat catch, and the boys were highly commended for their good work.

Many of the patrons of both the Athanum and Tampico postoffices are displeased at the fact that their mail days have been changed from Tuesdays, Thursday's and Saturdays to the other three days of the week. The change it seems was made without consulting but few of the patrons and as no good reason has so far been advanced for the change the people are wondering why it was so ordered by the department. As Sunday is the great day for reading in farming communities, the people up there naturally want the latest new they can get and naturally enough resent the new arrangement. An effort, we understand, will be made at once to change the mail days again in accordance with the desires of the people who live along the route.

C. A. Thompson, the barber, and Graham Ker got into an altercation on Monday over the payment of a bill. A fight resulted in which the latter is said to have been pretty well used up.

If you want to see the difference in photographs come and see our up-to-date studio on First street next door to Guililand hotel.

The new courses of study for the High school are nearly perfected, there remain to be made a few minor adjustments before their publication in detail. However there will be three courses—classical, Latin, Scientific, and English Scientific. The first for its completion requires four years of Latin and two of German or French, four years of English and history, three of mathematics and two of science, with options. The second requires two years of Latin and two years of German or French, four years of science, three and one-half years of mathematics including plane trigonometry, three years of English and one of history. Students completing the classical course will be admitted to the A. B. and Ph. B. courses, freshman class, of the university; the Latin-Scientific course fits for the B. S. and engineering courses in the university. The English Scientific course is intended as a preparation for business and for those whose education will be completed with graduation from the high school. No language is required other than English, but the course is specially strong in science and mathematics. Several options are offered in the junior and senior years, permitting the student to elect some subjects that fit directly for business. A circular giving the courses in detail will be available at the office of the superintendent before school opens.

There is some kicking over the democratic state ticket, but it comes principally from the republicans. The democrats and populists, generally speaking, are well pleased.—Wenatchee Advance.

Good Horse Sense.

Man is simply what his environments make him. A Chinese is a Chinese and a Filipino is a Filipino. The inhabitants of the southern states are different from those in the northern states, and the people who are fitted for Alaska are not fitted for the equator. Nature seems to indicate this law and places man and plant to fit every zone. You cannot grow a palm in Alaska, nor can you grow Iceland moss on the equator. Man and vegetable vary with the degrees of latitude. For the United States to undertake the job of acquiring foreign territory to control is a mistake and a serious one. England may rule India but the old native rulers of India knew better how to avoid famines than the white man. When the native Indians had charge they were comparatively free of epidemics and famines. The white man's idea of living doesn't fit in with the yellow man's no more than the yellow man's fits in with the white man's idea. Both are good in their place, but it is folly for either one to undertake to force either his religion or civilization upon the other.—George's Weekly.

Continuous Advertising.

Continuous advertising is the best advertising. Keeping your name always prominently before the people and your goods always in their minds is real, live advertising. Spasmodic publicity is cheaper in dollars and cents, but its results are correspondingly less. "Keep everlastingly at it" is a good motto to hang over the advertising desk.—Shoe and Leather Gazette.

King of the Opium Ring.

"King of the Opium Ring," by Chas. E. Blaney and Chas. A. Taylor, which scored a phenomenal success at the Academy of Music, New York, last spring, will be the attraction at Larson's Theater, Saturday, Sept. 22. It is a four act melodrama. The scenery is very elaborate, and is from the brush of D. F. Dodge of the Herald Square Theatre, New York. The costumes were designed from paintings made by Eaves & company.

The action of the piece takes place in San Francisco about 1890, and deals with the methods employed to get opium into the United States free of duty. The first act shows Dead Man's Dock, with the Golden Gate in the distance. Here the smugglers begin their work, old "Ironsides" begins the search for his daughters, the sisters meet for the first time, the "opium king" is arrested, the yacht "Halycon," with smugglers on board, makes its escape, and the act ends amid terrific applause. The second act shows the Chinese quarters underground, the home of the highbinders and the headquarters of the smugglers. The terrible effects of the opium drug are seen, the devotees of Joss are seen in prayer. The act closes with a raid by the officers. The third act represents the entrance to the Fong Quay Club and the Palace saloon on Sacramento street. The scene changes to the heart of Chinatown, viewed on New Year's night, on the occasion of the great celebration in honor of the day. The street is fantastically illuminated, and presents a scene of oriental splendor. The mart scene, the Chinese theater, and the Joss house are shown in this act. An acrobatic sensation, surprising that of the "Span of Life" occurs here. Act four shows the assembly rooms of the Fong Quay Club a Chinese-American wedding is performed; the wonderful effects of oriental hypnotic influence are practiced, the highbinders have a nuptial feast, at which, as part of the festivities vaudeville acts are introduced. The act closes with a Chinese cake walk and a rag time ball. A number of native Chinese lend an oriental atmosphere to the whole piece, and makes it one of the most complete organizations on the road. It is such an innovation that its originality ought to be rewarded with a large house during its stay in this city.

Of Course They Did.

In the heart-to-heart talk between Boss Hanna, Steel Trust Baron John W. Gates, Barbed Wire Trust Baron Isaac L. Ellwood and others of the western trust aristocracy in New York last Monday it is reasonably certain that Mr. Hanna received every assurance of the heartiest moral support of Mr. McKinley by the western trusts and also of generous contributions to the republican slush fund.

This is indicated unmistakably by the fact that Boss Hanna emerged from the conference with a beaming face and went radiant thence to the republican national headquarters. Mr. Hanna does not beam or radiate unless there is money in it. He has two important missions in life. One is to hold Mr. McKinley a true thrall and bondman to the trusts. The other is to see that the trusts put up the slush funds necessary to keep Mr. McKinley in power. He is fulfilling both these missions nowadays to his complete satisfaction. Hence his beaming and radiating.

Also is it certain that the western trusts, through Messrs. Gates and Ellwood, would not hold back from the republican boss's appeals for the needful. How could they? Aren't they, from sheer gratitude, under obligation to ante up for the Hanna-McKinley game? Isn't it the best of investments for the future—meaning the further development and enrichment of the trust administration in power?—St. Louis Republic.

The Empires Doctor Bill.

It costs the United States government the enormous sum of $720,000 a year to keep surgeons and other medical officers in the Philippines. This does not include nurses, hospital attendants and medicines.

The official records show that there are 400 medical officers in the Philippines at an average salary of $1,800.

The war department bulletined recently a statement that the sickness in the Philippine army was slightly over 8 per cent of 60,000 men, or a total sick of 5,000. This, it is alleged, is the average normal sickness.

If this statement of numbers, which the war department says was cabled by MacArthur was true, then the United States government spends $720,000 for the care of 5,000 sick men, or $144 per man, exclusive of the cost of medicines, nurses and hospital attendants.

Another astonishing fact is that it requires 400 surgeons and other medical officers to take care of 5,000 men, if the official records state the truth. In other words it requires one contract surgeon at $1,800 a year to take care of about twelve men.—National Democrat.

Trusts Safe With McKinley.

As the trusts are in control of the federal administration, nothing can be done to minimize the trust evil so long as this administration is left in power. That fact is as plain as daylight. The Dingley tariff is the foundation of hundreds of industrial combines. Without it the trust organizations could not have been perfected as they have been all over the country. Two things were necessary for the organization of trusts on a great scale—a protective tariff which would exclude competition from abroad and an administration which would favor them and not interfere with their organization and operation. Both needs were supplied.—National Watchman.

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

The State Fair.

Secretary Gunn is busy making entries for the State Fair, which opens next Monday. Every department promises to be well filled with exhibits. An army of men is at work on the pavilion and grounds and everything is being shaped for a grand display of products of the state. Among the outside exhibitors engaging space are the well known Oregon stockmen, Frank Brown and W. O. Minor, who will have a carload each of fine Shorthorn stock. The Spokane Hazlewood company has a carload of stock and farm exhibits packed and loaded for the show. L. K. Cogswell, of Olympia will have a carload of Red Polled cattle here. John Sparks, of Reno, Nev., is on the road with a carload of Herefords.

The people of Yakima county are taking an active interest in the fair and many nice exhibits are promised. Orlando Beck and Rev. F. Walden are collecting some choice fruit and vegetable exhibits and getting the growers interested in making displays of their own products. Prof. W. J. Spillman, of Pullman, will have charge of the agricultural department and judge the dairy cattle. E. A. McDonald, state dairy commissioner, will have the supervision of the dairy department. The poultry department promises to be unusually large and interesting. It will be under the direction of H. H. Collier, of Tacoma. He has secured G. A. Emory, of Missouri, for a judge which is pleasing to all of the poultry people.

The business houses of the city will close during at least three days of fair week, in the afternoons and all be given an opportunity to visit the many shows on the grounds. The Yakima band boys are in fine shape for supplying good music. The advance agent of the Bitter Dramatic company is here making arrangements for a show on the grounds every day and for the list of plays to be given in the Larson theater every night during the week. Every family should prepare to take a week off and rest by visiting the fair. The fine displays will amply repay the outlay.

The season tickets for the fair are now on sale. One ticket admits a man with his family and team during the six days of the fair. Season tickets sell for $3.00 each. This is the cheapest and best way to attend the fair. Every resident in Yakima county should patronize this state institution by purchasing a family season ticket and taking his wife and children to the fair.

The Commercial club has appointed a committee on reception for securing rooms for the people who will visit the fair. Those having rooms for rent should report to J. D. Medill, at THE DEMOCRAT office, who is chairman of that committee.

The American workman is growing weary of the changes that the republicans are ringing on the "full dinner pail" proposition. He resents the inference, which is plain, that he cares for nothing in life except enough food to satisfy his appetite. The American workingman wants not only a full dinner pail, but he wants a comfortably furnished home, good clothes for himself and family, and opportunity to educate his children and give them a good start in life. These he will not have so long as the trusts continue to force down his wages and force up the price of the necessities of life.—St. Louis Republic.

He Owns Himself.

Some republican papers have held Bryan up to a senseless sort of scorn because at times during the past four years he sought to make an honest living lecturing, the Pharisees pretending that this was a degrading, undignified, mountebank kind of occupation for one who aspired to the presidency.

And they point also to the fact that whereas Mr. Bryan's taxable property in 1897 was $1,480, it is now $4,560. Oh what an alarming increase! And what an enormous sum is this for a man of his ability, prominence and simple habits to accumulate! Probably his best earning period for the last four years was when he served as a colonel of a volunteer regiment, which the administration generously took good care should find no opportunity for distinction. At that time he was doubtless able to save a part of his salary of $3,500, for the simple and frugal living of a typical American home like that of Mr. Bryan's does not demand a large income, and there must have been a stoppage of traveling and other expenses which a man in Mr. Bryan's position cannot avoid.

But, at any rate, whose business is it, so long as there is no hint or suspicion that the money was not rightly his or creditably acquired? It is different when a standard oil king or a coal mine and street railway magnate, like Mark Hanna, is commonly reported to have accumulated a million dollars, or many times more, as the earning of a single year. An assertion of that character warrants some curiosity as to the ways and means by which such wealth could under any circumstances be honestly accumulated.

And, finally, it is not probable that many will dissent from the opinion that it is exceedingly to the credit of Mr. Bryan that he has chosen to stick to his principles and remain poor rather than to accept retainers from trusts and corporations which would have brought him princely wealth. At least it can never be said to him that he is a mortgaged candidate, and when he is president no Hanna will own him. He owns himself, and that is his chief and all-sufficient asset.—Sumner Herald.

Reed and Harrison.

Mark Hanna and his compatriots on the republican national committee, have about given up the efforts to induce Thomas B. Reed and Benjamin Harrison to take the stump for McKinley. Having failed to lure these two able, but wily politicians from the brush heap by siren voices. Hanna has tried the more heroic expedient of jumping on the brush and trying to frighten them. They will neither be coaxed nor frightened, and the republican campaign, in the interest of the trusts, and the Cuban, Porto Rican and Far Eastern Development company will have to be carried on without them.—National Democrat.

No Use For Roosevelt.

The cool reception which Theodore Roosevelt received at the hands of the Chicago workingmen on Labor day was not the most encouraging introduction to his grand triumphal tour of the west, upon which he is just entering. Greatly to his surprise, Mr. Roosevelt's prowess as a "broncho buster," and his military laurels as a "rough rider" failed to impress the toilers of Chicago, who gave W. J. Bryan a great ovation, while they practically overlooked the New York governor.—Chicago Chronicle.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14, 1900.

Putting the American flag where it ought not to be is a McKinley specialty which has brought the country trouble and humiliation in big chunks. But that did not prevent his ordering the flag to be raised in the wrong place again this week. It is by Mr. McKinley's order to be raised over the notorious Li Hung Chang, who is to be taken from Shanghai to Peking under its protection, and on board an American warship if he wishes, and when he gets to Peking Gen. Chaffee and his brave American soldiers are to be his body guard. What a use to make of the American flag and American soldiers! This old rascal has been afraid to leave Shanghai—afraid alike of his own countrymen and the powers, with the exception of Russia which is said to own him body and soul. And now Mr. McKinley rushes into the breach and raises the American flag over him and takes him to Peking, regardless of whether the other powers consider such action an affront or not, and he goes even further. He has promised Li Hung Chang that he would use his good offices to persuade the powers to enter into negotiations with him, although several of them have already refused to do so. Mr. McKinley's friendship for Li Hung Chang is really suspicious.

It would be easily possible to get a decision from the United States supreme court before the presidential election on the case involving directly the constitutional status of Porto Rico, and incidentally that of the other island possessions of this government, which has been appealed from the United States circuit court of the southern district of New York; but the administration is too much afraid that the decision will be against its position to take any chances. Consequently it may be accepted as certain that the decision will not be handed down until after election. This is not meant to infer that the court will in any way be a party to postponing action on this important question for partisan reasons. That will not be necessary. In the several legal preliminaries necessary to advance the case to an early hearing it will be an easy matter for the attorney representing the administration, usually the solicitor general, to head off the attempt to get a decision before election without resorting to any extraordinary methods.

Publicly the republicans pretend, of course, that their majority in Maine and Vermont are entirely satisfactory, but they they put a very different face upon the returns when discussing them among themselves. Every man who has been through even the kindergarten of politics knows that if the same percentage of the republican loss shown in Maine and Vermont is shown throughout the union in November that it will mean the election of Bryan and Stevenson by a larger majority in the electoral college than McKinley and Hobart received four years ago. It isn't pretended over confidence that exists among the republican leaders now, but genuine alarm. They realize that the trend of public sentiment is against imperialism, and that if they cannot stop it McKinley and McKinleyism are doomed to a crushing defeat.

Dr. Habercorn, who had charge of the German work for McKinley four years ago and who is now working for Bryan and Stevenson, says of the outlook, as judged from extensive correspondence with prominent German voters: "The Germans know all about imperialism. They know that imperialism can only be maintained by militarism and that militarism means heavy taxation and inroads on the young and producing element of the population and most likely conscription. Following the European models compulsory service in the army or navy for all men might be demanded. The German voter is going to strangle the empire before it strangles him. I don't think the president's letter of acceptance did him any good. The most that can be said of it is that it is the strongest argument that can be put up in a weak cause."

Hon. Rogers Q. Mills, of Texas, who was a leading democrat in the house for 26 years and in the senate for six, indignantly denies the report that he had fopped to McKinley. In his own words: "There is not a word of truth in it. I am a rawhide democrat. I am not taking an active part in politics, but you can bet your life I will vote for Bryan and do all I can for him."

Ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, who enjoys the reputation of a close and conservative political observer, is in Washington. When asked his opinion of the situation he said: "The democrats are now making steady gains. They are gaining strength every day in New York, in Ohio, in Indiana—in fact, all over the country. If the election occurred today the democratic vote would be larger than it would have been yesterday. This far, I think there has been no day when we were not stronger than the day before. Such a condition surely promises well for success."

Sherman's Views.

Hon. John Sherman, ex-secretary of state, has some words of warning to offer to the republicans. What will that party say of him? Will they brand him as a fool or crazy? In a recent interview he said:

"The wealth we are taking out of our own country now to fling after those Philippine islands is fabulous. We have taken away the miners and agriculturists to subdue the Filipino natives. Depend upon it, the other nations do not envy us, but think us foolish."

"I see not the slightest sense in our long excursions to the Philippine islands, 12,000 miles away. There we have no acquaintances or affinities, or anything which gives promise of a happy solution of a most foolish undertaking. The natives show that they do not want us by the courage with which they fight us. I fear that perseverance in this imperial policy will ruin the republican party."

Endured Death's Agonies.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garrettson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He writes his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption wholly cured him. L. W. Haworth, who for the past year has been the efficient news editor of the Republic, left on Thursday morning for Victoria to catch an outgoing steamer for Honolulu, where he goes to accept a responsible position on the staff of the Daily Republican, of that city. Mr. Haworth will be missed not alone by the newspaper fraternity of this city, but by a large number of personal friends all of whom will wish him well in his new surroundings.

Jeff McDaniel, J. W. Brattain and John Fletcher arrived home on Wednesday morning from Cape Nome. Their opinions of conditions at Nome are similar to what has been heretofore expressed by others who preceded them home from that district. The unusually dry season was also a heavy handicap to successful prospecting.

STATE PRESS OPINION

If republicans are apathetic over-confidence is not the only possible cause of their apathy. Instead of being too confident that McKinley will win there is good reason to believe that a considerable percentage of them don't care a hoot whether McKinley wins or not.—Aberdeen Herald.

A democrat or populist who betrays his party and votes for a republican is a patriot in the eyes of Hanna's press, while a democrat who supports his platform is a base traitor. Do you see the difference? Don't let the republicans cajole a single vote out of you, for they will only laugh at you for your generosity.—Davenport Tribune.

The Young Mens Republican club of this city have formed a marching club named after Teddy Roosevelt and to be uniformed in "real soldier clothes." The idea is a decidedly republican one and is calculated to inculcate the spirit of militarism into the young men of the party. At the meetings held to organize this club, a number of young republicans protested vigorously against a military uniform as carrying with it suggestions of militarism and imperialism. These protests were voted down however.—Seattle Review.

The republicans of this state ignored the freight rate question in their platform. A plank favoring a reduction in freight rates was adopted by the committee on platform, but this was left out when the platform was read to the convention. Some sleek work had been done. The graingrowers of eastern Washington are not enthusiastic in their support of the candidates nominated on such a platform.—Walla Walla Argue.

Judge de Mattos has done the very unwise and most inconsistent thing in this campaign. He went to Kansas City as a delegate and endorsed the action of the national convention, especially the principles declared, which accord with his own professions. Then the little judge went to the state convention as a delegate and was on the Tugwell-Baker slate for secretary of state; Governor Rogers, for whom de Mattos voted for United States senator as a member of the legislature of 1897, and for whom he said he would vote to the end of the chapter, was re-nominated for governor, whereat the judge repudiates the state ticket. Judge de Mattos is at war with his own professed principles.—Whatcom Blade.

Trusts.

The democratic party stands pledged to an unceasing warfare against private monopoly in every form. It demands the enforcement of existing laws against trusts and the enactment of laws yet more stringent. It wisely demands publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce.—Mr. Stevenson's Indianapolis Speech.

Don't be Afraid.

To write to A. D. Charlton, A. G. P. A., Portland; A. Tinling, general agent, Tacoma; I. A. Nadeau, general agent, Seattle; J. W. Hill, general agent, Spokane; G. A. Graham, North Yakima, about the Northern Pacific's new train service. They are paid to answer questions. All you have to do is to ask them.

Not All McKinley Men, by a Long Shot.

In commenting locally upon the 140 odd delegates to the late Methodist conference held in this city, the Yakima Republic stated in last weeks issue with a seeming air of authority that the entire number were republicans. THE DEMOCRAT reporter this week took the pains to investigate the statement made, only to find that it was based on the flimsiest evidence.

A. E. Kinsey was referred to as the authority for the published report, but on being interviewed stated that he had merely told the Republic reporter that he "didn't think any of the preachers were Bryan men, but as he had not canvassed the delegates as to their political preferences he could not say for certain."

A number of other members of the local M. E. church were then looked up and asked about the matter. The most of them laughed at the yarn in the Republic and while none of them pretended to have made a poll of the preachers, all of them were sure from remarks that had been dropped in their presence that a number of the ministers were for Bryan, while another element representing a large percentage of the whole were said to be out and out prohibition party men, supporters of John G. Woolley for president.

The ministers, of course having all left for home could not be seen to testify for themselves, but THE DEMOCRAT scribe had heard enough to satisfy himself that the Republic's story was essentially untrue and that the republican party by no means has a monopoly on righteousness as the local organ would have the people believe. The moral of the story, is that you can't believe all that you see in our local contemporary, especially on the subject of politics.

Slavery In Sulu.

Lincoln once said "the republic cannot exist part free and part slave." McKinley claims the Philippines are a part of our country, and Sulu is a part of that group of islands. In Sulu and under the folds of our starry banner there exists slavery of the most degrading kind. If this does not mean the republic is in danger what does it mean? It may be that the administration believes the days of the republic are numbered and imperialism will usher in an empire. It is about time our people, regardless of party, called a halt; for if the brown or black man can be held in bondage in one part of the country in spite of the constitution how long before the poor white man or negro in the states will be bought and sold! This is a serious question and demands serious attention at the hands of those who love a free government. All prejudice should be laid aside and the patriotic part of the people who love their native land and its laws should unite to protect it from the invasion of ideas that can only end in its ceasing to be a republic.—Tacoma Sun.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca (Ills.,) News, was afflicted for years with Piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world. He writes, two boxes wholly cured him. Infallible for Piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by Quiett & Ayres, Drug Co.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

W. T. Clarke returned from Seattle on Wednesday.

E. J. Jaeger, of Zillah, left for the Sound on Thursday.

I. E. Cochran, of Prosser, was a Yakima visitor on Friday.

W. A. Privett, the Ellensburg music dealer is in the city this week.

Buy a season ticket for the State Fair good for yourself and family.

Mrs. J. T. Foster and daughter returned on Wednesday from Portland.

Mrs. Ella Stair has returned home from Honolulu, where she spent the summer with relatives.

Leroy Pease, a prominent farmer, of the Natches returned on Wednesday from the east accompanied by his bride.

W. N. Granger, of Zillah, has moved his family to Tacoma in order to take advantage of superior school facilities there.

Miss Daisy Beach, of Kennewick, has resigned her position as teacher in the city schools on account of the serious illness of her father.

Superior court will meet the first Monday in October. It is thought that a jury will certainly be called as some seven or eight criminal cases are awaiting trial.

Paul W. Law, formerly the business partner of O. A. Fechter, is in the city this week, the guest of his father-in-law, J. T. Armstrong. Mr. Law for the past two or three years has been engaged in mining on the Yukon.

James Kane, a sixteen year old boy from Zillah, was taken before Court Commissioner Preble on Monday and examined as to his mental condition. Application has been made for his admission into the school for defective youths at Vancouver.

A criminal action has been filed in the superior court by County Attorney Rudkin against G. M. Carey, of Toppenish, for cattle stealing. The complaining witness in the case is Nick McCoy, who claims that the defendant appropriated to himself a valuable animal belonging to himself.

Fred E. Miller, the popular clerk of the North Yakima drug store, and Miss Clara Edna Haines were quietly married at the residence of the bride's mother on Third street, on Wednesday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. H. Wood. The happy couple have the best wishes of a host of friends in this city and vicinity.

J. F. Bard, who was arrested on complaint of Thomas Lund on the charge of securing money under false pretenses, was given a hearing by Justice Taggard on Monday and on the evidence secured was bound over to the superior court. Bard is known to be a man of many aliases and is believed to have left behind him a criminal record in several states.

Abram S. Underhill, of Sing Sing, N. Y., who is secretary and eastern manager of the Selah Valley Ditch company, accompanied by his wife, arrived in this city on Thursday and remained until Monday, during part of which time he was engaged in inspecting his company's property in the Selah. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the local management and the flattering prospects of the Selah district. During their stay here the visitors were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Englehart.

The returns received by prune growers in this valley for green shipments to the east as a rule are disappointing. On three cars shipped by C. P. Wilcox the returns on two showed a positive loss while on the third only a slight margin was realized. The growers, therefore, who are drying their own crops feel that they have cause to congratulate themselves, although the prospect at this time for good prices on the dried product is not very flattering.

The Hop Situation.

Hop picking is progressing generally, throughout the county, in a satisfactory way. Some time was lost and it was feared that much damage might be done by mold as a result of the frequent showers early in the week, but the clear, bright weather since has dissipated all danger from mold. There appears to be a dearth of pickers in some quarters this week, but as a number of yards will be finished early next week it is thought that the entire crop will be taken care of in good shape.

There is nothing new about the market quotations, the price remaining at from 13 to 13½ cents.

Boastful.

Roosevelt has discovered, apparently somewhat to his surprise, that there are American citizens who do not share his admiration of his own achievement, which he has so proudly recorded, of shooting a Spaniard in the back at the battle of San Juan. Unfortunately for Teddy's fame as a soldier, the American people hold him to be the bravest who is the least boastful. They like the Wellington or Grant or Sherman type of soldier best, which makes war only to secure peace and forgets the strife as soon as possible, instead of bragging of it in time of peace.

And this is only one of the many unpleasant shocks in store for Colonel Roosevelt during this campaign.—National Watchman.

MCKINLEY CLUB MEETING.

A Feast of Oratory and a Flow Of Soul.

Quite a sprinkling of democrats and populists attended the meeting of the "McKinley club" at the court house on Tuesday evening in expectation of hearing a quartette of noted local orators descant on the blessings of Hanna's brand of prosperity.

Only a few of the "faithful" were on hand and when the graceful chairman, Fred Parker, called the meeting to order it looked as though it was going to be a quaker meeting.

Noticing that some of the enemy were present, the president felt the necessity of apologizing for the small turnout, which he accounted for on the theory that a "nigger" show was doing business the same evening in the same block and everyone could see, of course, that the "nigger" show had all the best of it.

The chair announced that Col. Robertson, Col. Englehart, Captain McCrimmon and Lieut. Lemon had been duly appointed and advertised to speak on this occasion, but unfortunately only the last named gentleman was present.

Col. Robertson it seemed, had escaped from the city and was no where to be found. Col. Englehart evidently was honoring the "nigger" show with his presence in preference to making one of himself, while the returned prodigal, Captain MacCrimmon, accounted for his absence by a note sent to the chairman stating in effect that he was busy at home minding the babies.

The chairman then announced that as Lieut. Lemon was the only one present of the unfortunate quartette, he would now take the floor and speak his piece.

The gallant young soldier then came forward and by way of a preface to his remarks stated that he had never before been called upon to make a speech and that as a matter of fact he was more scared at that minute than he had ever been while facing Filipino bullets. The young man then went on with his maiden address and for half an hour highly entertained his hearers with his observations in the Philippine islands. Aside from the interjection of a few splenetic thrusts at Wm. Jennings Bryan and some ill formed conclusions on the great question of imperialism the speech was a good one, and at its close the young man was given most enthusiastic applause; considering the small number present.

Somebody else was now wanted to kill time for awhile and Col. Taggard, K. W. Dunlop, Willie Prosser and a number of others among the "faithful" present were called upon, but all declined. "Warhorse" Ed Whitson was then spotted by the chairman and requested to come forward and tell what he knew about McKinley's peculiar brand of prosperity. Like Barkis Mr. Whitson was quite willing and began his speech by first jollying Lieut. Lemon on the noble effort he had just made, and gave it as his opinion, that the young man ought to be put on the stump to do service in Mark's holy cause. The speaker probably noticing that no gold democrats were present, then went on to roast the Cleveland administration comparing what he called the hard times of that era with the blessed prosperity sent the people from on high through the influence of the man of destiny, who now occupies the white house. Speaking of Mr. Bryan, he said that the democratic leader was undoubtedly a man of great courage and honesty but that was the very reason why he did not want him elected, as he believed that Bryan was just fool enough to do just what he said he would do.

This statement as every other made by the speaker, was accepted apparently by the small crowd of republicans present as being the proper view of the case, although in the minds of the democrats present the conviction was strong that the good natured attorney was merely "joshing."

Farmer Remy, of Fruitvale, who was almost constantly in evidence, seemed to resent the presence of the three democratic reporters present, evidently not knowing that they were there merely to gather news, and kept repeatedly calling upon them for speeches. The scribes when called upon by the chair finally responded, each merely thanking the assemblage for the courtesy shown, and declining to make any extended remarks.

The meeting then adjourned as many of those present were anxious to visit the "nigger" show.

City Council Meeting.

The city council met in regular session on Monday evening. In the absence of Mayor Redman, Councilman Hough occupied the chair.

After Clerk Doust had read the minutes of the preceding meeting the "burial ordinance" which was vetoed last month by Mayor Redman, was taken up and on motion of Councilman Reed was passed over the Mayor's veto, all the councilman present voting aye except Hough.

T. A. Davis, the marble man of this city, then addressed the council with a good deal of warmth on the impropriety of keeping in its employ a city sexton, whom he charged was also in the employ of an individual here representing a rival concern with headquarters in Spokane.

City Sexton Carvosso, who was present, then took the floor and vigorously defended himself on the ground that he was justified in "pulling" for the Spokane people in the sale of gravestones, because of the fact that he was better paid by them for his services and information than by the local concern. The colloquy between the two men became very heated, whereupon Mr. Reed called a halt and the acting mayor summarily ordered both men to take their seats. The matter was then referred to the committee on cemetery for investigation.

The matter of putting in a system of tilling for the purpose of draining the cellars of the business district of the city was informally discussed, but as the property owners have not yet asked for such improvement no action was taken. It was stated that the city engineer's estimate of the cost of such a system would be about $5000.

Marshal, pro tem., J. C. Liggett, then explained to the council that he had about 20 prisoners in the city jail, the most of whom he was working on the city streets.

The police committee was then given power to act in case it was deemed necessary to increase the force during the progress of the State Fair.

The council then adjourned.

What he Would Not Have.

The McKinley organs are busy constructing a cabinet for Mr. Bryan. No one knows exactly who Mr. Bryan would call into the cabinet, but everyone knows the kind of cabinet he would not have.

He would not have a secretary of state who would lick the boots of royalty.

He would not have a secretary of the treasury who would give to a coterie of national bankers control of the public finances and free use of the public moneys.

He would not have an attorney general who was owned by the trusts.

He would not have a secretary of the interior dominated by land grabbing corporations.

He would not have a postmaster general who would conceal frauds like those perpetrated by Rathbone and Neely.

He would not have a secretary of the navy controlled by the armor plate trust.

He would not have a secretary of war controlled by the beef trust.—Omaha World-Herald.

The Bravery of a Woman

Was grandly shown by Mrs. John Dowling of Butler, Pa., in a three years' struggle with a malignant stomach trouble that caused distressing attacks of nausea and indigestion. All remedies failed to relieve her until she tried Electric Bitters. After taking it two months, she wrote: "I am now wholly cured and can eat anything. It is truly a grand tonic for the whole system as I gained in weight and feel much stronger since using it." It aids digestion, cures dyspepsia, improves appetite, gives new life. Only 50c.
