Dear Tom:

A couple of years ago we met at the Northwest History Conference at Mrs. Gose's home at Walla Walla. We had quite a talk about Indians.

I'll admit I've been out of touch with Portland, radio and TV stations, but I've been busy with Indians.

Attached is one result, a promotion sheet for a tribal publication. If this makes contact, and you drop me a note, I'll be most happy to send a copy to you, as I know it is the wish of tribal leaders you have one. In spite of its unretentious appearance (paper cover) it contains 63,000 words of extensive research. And parts, if you are interested as you were in history etc. you will find interesting, and it may give you some ideas.

And if you are reached by this, remember tribal officials come to Portland from time to time to the area office. They would be glad to bring along a bit of "regalia", if you have some idea, or they would be glad to cooperate with you "on the reservation". "The booklet" Strangers on the Land, may give you some ideas.

Sincere regards
