Enclosed are the typescripts on horses, I mentioned at the conference at Spokane. I think I have others batting around but can't put my hand on them right now.

I'm wondering if you're familiar with the Columbia Basin news series on horses that was published in some dozen installments last month. It was from an old pamphlet about a horse roundup there in the old days and a pamphlet I'd never heard about. I haven't read it but from a quick scan of some of the articles concluded it was outstanding.

And I've just received several ethnographical books. One of them I think might give you a few ideas and should be in the library. It is The Horse in Blackfoot Indian Culture, John C. Ewers, BAE (Bureau American Ethnology) Bulletin 151. I'm sure the way they handled horses had many similarities in the Yakima Valley, but here again, I've not read the item.

Keep the typescripts sever 1 weeks if it suits your purpose, but please be sure they are returned.

Just finished checking for ~~axxx~~ another folder that had a couple of inches of horse material in it but I think that is stored downstairs and hasn't ~~gax~~ been re-filed. It was loaned out to a reporter to prepare some horse stories for free-lancing. So I stuck in a few of the cattle and cowboy items.

Glad to have had the pleasure of meeting you. Sorry I'm rushing this through and am still tired from night trip home, little sleep yet today but wanted to get this out right away.

Regards
