Dear Mr. Peltier:

I'm back from vacation and digging into my work again.

I hope you have had time to scan through the Yakima Treaty Centennial booklet which I sent as a compliment. And as I told you, my only regret is that it was a "rush" proposition--I had to write three of the sections and edit it in 12 evenings, to get it to the printer in time.

I'm enclosing, now, an advance circular of my book, Drummers and Dreamers in the hope you will place an advance order. I am satisfied this is a good regional item, and it will be well publicized in Spokane. While it is not due for publication until next spring, the scattering advance orders from dealers will help the publisher estimate the number he is to publish.

In event a Caxton salesman calls on you, there would be no conflict, since your order would be credited to him. But I would appreciate receiving any advance order you care to place, to help me with my own estimation. I believe in trying to do a good job by anything I tie into and while the publisher is doing his part, I believe in giving it all I have.

In case you have not dealt extensively with Caxton, you get a 40 per cent discount and the usual returnable arrangement.

In event you should wish a small supply of circulars to acquaint your "Indian clients" with this book, please advise me and I will send them. As you know, when the book is issued, I plan to visit Spokane with some of the "anapums."

Sincerely Click Relander
