OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

President Wm. McKinley Assassinated!!!

The report reached this city just as the Democrat was being put to press that President McKinley had been assassinated shortly after noon on Friday in the city of Buffalo, N. Y., where he was attending the exposition. Inquiry at the local telegraph office developed the fact that such a report had gone over the wire. After some delay on account of the wires being in use the Spokane office was communicated with and the truth of the rumor briefly confirmed.

LATER.

Special to YAKIMA DEMOCRAT.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 6.—President McKinley was shot in the stomach and the chest here this afternoon in front of the Ethnological building. His condition is serious. He is now at the hospital on the Pan-American grounds. He was shot by a stranger who first shook hands with him. The man afterwards was found out to be Fred Newan, a Pole, of Detroit. The assassin was captured by the police and hustled away to avert mob vengeance, and lodged in jail, where he is strongly guarded. He said: "I am an anarchist. I have done my duty." The bullet that lodged in McKinley's chest was extracted. It was stopped by the breast bone. This wound is not serious. Surgeons are now probing for the bullet in the abdomen, which may prove fatal.

CONGRESSMAN JONES, who returned recently from a trip through the mining districts of Okanogan county, speaks feelingly regarding a deserted mining camp that he visited in his travels. The place referred to is or rather once was the flourishing mining town of Ruby City, which only a few short years ago boasted of a population of some 4000 souls. Today the town is entirely deserted, and is given over to bats and wild animals in which to make their homes. The scene that greets the eye of the approaching traveler as he enters the silent city is calculated to make a deep impression and remind him of touching lines in Goldsmith's "Deserted Village." Another thought, also, perhaps, crossed the mind of the genial congressman as he pursued his investigations to reach the cause for the premature ruin he saw all about him. Presumably, he soon discovered the fact that Ruby City was once a center of activity in silver mining, and that apparently all went well with her people until their only industry was struck down and ruthlessly sacrificed by an arbitrary edict of their government. It is no wonder then that bats now abide in the habitations of men. It would be interesting to know if Mr. Jones has located the responsibility for this sad condition of affairs.

JOHN L. WILSON, who once enjoyed the distinction of being a U. S. senator from this state, has had himself interviewed lately by his own newspaper, the P.-I. As this is a frequent and convenient custom of politicians who own newspapers, this incident would not otherwise call for comment were it not for the obvious fact that the Spokane man has deemed it necessary to go into print to defend himself against the machinations of his enemies. John, for some time past, has been accused openly by the Foster-Ankeny push with the crime of using his influence at Markanna's court to hold up their appointments, thus keeping many of the faithful from what they regard as their rightful places at the public crib, which places by the way are still occupied by members of Wilson's political household. The ex-senator in his long statement pleads guilty to being on most intimate terms with Mr. McKinley and his chief adviser, but denies emphatically each and every other allegation in the indictment. In fact he is so vigorous in his denial that the casual reader is very apt to be reminded of the language of Shakespeare wherein he said, "Methinks the lady doth protest too much."

THE news comes from Walla Walla that the Hon. Levi Ankeny, a standing candidate for the high office of U. S. Senator, has been arrested for an alleged violation of the state game law. The amusing feature of the case is said to be due to the fact that Mr. Ankeny had previously manifested much interest in the enforcement of the law, and had quarreled with the game warden because of his lax manner of administering the duties of the office. That official, doubtless spurred to action by reason of the disinterested advice given him by the great man, immediately began to spread his net to catch offenders, and lo, and behold the result! The first victim was none other than the standing candidate himself.

IT is rumored that the editor of the Yakima Republic after exhaustive and prayerful consideration of the matter has concluded to make his bed in the future with the Levites. If true, such a determination on the part of Colonel Robertson should cause no surprise. In the first place the Colonel is a politician and an unusually wise one for one of his tender years. He clearly sees that the Wilsonian boomlet is now in a most dilapidated condition, and therefore a most undesirable thing to longer tie to; besides, it don't pay. Local pride can be tickled to some extent by calling attention now and then to the candidacy of "Yakima" Jones. And thereby is offered a safe and easy line of retreat into the Ankeny camp.

THE recent rains that have visited this state have proved an unmixed blessing in many respects. Not among the least is the fact that they have to a large extent extinguished the disastrous forest fires that have been ravenously consuming our standing timber. Apparently, except to a few, the wholesale devastation by fire and waste of the valuable timber resources of this state is a matter of perfect indifference. Forestry experts estimate that at the present rate of denudation the supply of marketable timber in Washington will be exhausted in fifty years. Fifty years may seem a long time to some people who are accustomed to think only of the present and their own selfish wants. Two generations of men may have the legal but they have not the moral right to the whole of the harvest that has occupied nature many centuries in preparing for the use of mankind.

THE State Fair commission has made an arrangement with the N. P. Ry. Co. to run excursion trains from Sound points to the State Fair. Commissioner Benson, who has this particular matter in charge, states that fully 2000 people will avail themselves of the low rate offered to visit this valley and the Fair. This being the case, it is now up to the good people of this city to take the proper measures to provide the necessary sleeping accommodations and suitable entertainment for our visitors. The work of organization should commence at once.

IT is apparent that the last hope of European intervention in the Transvaal embroglio must be abandoned by President Kruger and friends of the erstwhile Dutch republics. France and Russia have recently shown that they are in harmony with Germany's policy of non-intervention; so the fight must continue between the massive bull dog and the small terrier, until the larger animal is satisfied or the smaller one annihilated.

THE Yakima valley, now the recognized hop center of the state, is at present the Mecca for thousands of hop-pickers who come hither annually to aid in harvesting the crop. Hop-picking is not only a healthful but remunerative employment and offers to many families in the cities the only opportunity for an outing that they get during the entire year.

IF democratic organs will confine their editorial utterances to the upholding of democratic doctrines they will not have space to abuse and decry men who were supporting democratic platforms and candidates when some of the loudest advocates of reorganization were supporting the republican ticket.—Commoner.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

Rev. Geo. Wallace will preach in the Christian church next Sunday morning.

Norman Wallace on Wednesday sold his Sunnyside farm of twenty acres for $2000.

The Florence Crittendon Circle will meet at the Christian church next Tuesday at 8 p. m.

A rain and wind storm of almost unprecedented fury was reported from the Cowychee Wednesday evening.

H. J. Rand on Wednesday brought in from the reservation sixty fat cattle and a number of calves for the local market.

A. J. Splawn on Thursday shipped a carload of his prize-winning Hereford cattle to Spokane to enter the competition in the fruit fair.

Fairchild, the hero of the hold-up in the southern part of town last week, left with his wife last Saturday for newer and "greener" fields.

Joe Riddle, an Indian, sent to Medical Lake July 15 for treatment for insanity, was released on Wednesday from the hospital for the insane.

An incipient fire in the rear of the Yakima Hardware Company's store was squelched Wednesday morning by the prompt action of Officer Wilhite.

Labor day was observed here Monday by the closing of the banks and public offices, but no demonstration was attempted, because the people were too busy.

H. B. Doust this week purchased the residence property of A. B. Pearson on North Third street. Mr. Pearson will reside on his ten-acre fruit farm north of the city.

It is probable that the National Guard of Washington will be taken out early in October on a seven days' practice march. The state is to furnish the subsistence for the outing.

Dr. L. L. Hill a dentist from St. Paul, Minn., has fitted up offices in the Ward building and will make this city his permanent residence. We extend to Dr. Hill a hearty welcome.

A marriage license was issued last Saturday to Bernard J. Pascius and Miss Mary L. Marsh, both well known in North Yakima. It is understood the couple will reside in Pasco.

The time for the setting of the federal grand jury at Spokane has been postponed to the 17th inst. The date formerly set was September 3, but it was found necessary to postpone it until the later date.

A. F. Deremo, of the Moxee, brought to the DEMOCRAT office last Saturday a vegetable curiosity in the shape of a twin summer squash. Two large, fully developed squashes were joined together at the outer edges, but both were grown on one stem.

There will be a meeting at the Episcopal rectory Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to organize a Humane society for the city of North Yakima, by a lady organizer of Seattle. Everyone is cordially invited to come and give support to a much needed work.

The state supreme court has recently decided the case of Walter F. Morrison jr. et al. vs. W. F. Morrison sr. in favor of the heirs of the estate. This decision will go a long way toward unsettling titles to real estate in this vicinity, the Hiscock ranch on the Moxee and large holdings southwest of town being involved.

Hon. W. L. Jones returned Monday from a two weeks' trip through the northern counties of the state. He talks most interestingly on the scenery and wonders of that section. The town of Ruby City which once had a population of 4000, is now, he says, entirely deserted. The vacant houses and empty streets, once teeming with life and animation are now as still and quiet as the grave. Badgers and prairie dogs are now the only inhabitants of the once busy little city.

The Seattle Brewing & Malting Co., of which Thomas Lund is the local representative, have just completed their new hop house in the Moxee which was built at a cost of $2500. Senator Hemrich, president of the company, will be here next Monday in person to superintend the drying, which will be done in strict accordance with the Bohemian plan, which is everywhere acknowledged to be the best system in use. This experience with Yakima hops will be watched with much interest by local growers.

The editor of the Republic, according to some of his associates, has developed recently marked populist tendencies. They mournfully point to the fact that the colonel has determined on having a hirsute adornment for his classic features as ample evidence of a contemplated change of political base. It is but just, however, to state that the suspected scribe denies the truth of this allegation and gives a rather more rational reason for desiring to cultivate a luxuriant crop of whiskers. He states in effect that having discovered that not only his business but his reputation was being injured by constantly being taken for Prosecuting Attorney Guthrie, he was compelled at last in self-defense to change his facial appearance as much as possible.

To the Ladies.

The undersigned has in contemplation the securing of the services of an experienced tailor from Seattle for the purpose of making for those who desire, fashionable made to order ladies' tailor suits and jackets. Those interested should call at once as we will have the services of this tailor for a month or six weeks only.

Yours truly,
J. M. CURRY,
Between Yakima avenue and post-office. 41

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Born, on Nob Hill, Friday Aug. 30, to the wife of S. H. Fraser, a son.

Col. W. F. Prosser is over from Seattle this week, visiting his family.

Born, Sunday, Sept. 1, to Mr. and Mrs. George Arrowsmith, a daughter.

Miss Bessie Hall has returned home from her visit to the Buffalo exposition.

Herman Leeper and bride, nee Miss Grace Lorentz, arrived from Spokane yesterday.

H. Sigmund is building a large new house adjoining the one recently sold by him to Prof. A. R. Jolley.

C. J. Lynch, M. D., has opened offices in the Ward building, from which he will practice his profession.

The State Fair commission has assurance of a $3 round-trip rate from the Sound during the coming exhibition.

S. J. Cameron and family arrived home Tuesday from Westminster, B. C., where they have been on a protracted visit.

John Sawbridge spent a few days at Toppenish this week looking after his crew of threshers. He returned home Thursday evening.

Miss Julia E. Davis, for a number of years a Western Union telegraph operator here, died at her rooms in the Carpenter residence on North Fourth street last Friday evening, from congestion of the lungs.

Indian Agent Jay Lynch was in the city Thursday from Ft. Simcoe, and reported that Thomas Pearne, one of the oldest and wealthiest Indians on the reservation, was almost in a dying condition from the effects of an injury recently sustained by being thrown from a horse.

Tom Tompson, regarded by the police generally as one of the toughest negro desperados, was taken into the toils last Monday. He was in company with his white paramour, and being given a few hours to leave the city, they obeyed the edicts of Judge Lince and left the city shortly after being released.

John Michels, proprietor of the Hotel Bartholet, disposed of several mining claims in the neighborhood of Lake Kat-cheez. It is stated that for his interest in one claim Mr. Michel received $7000 cash, and the others were bonded for $150,000. H. H. Hunter, a mining expert and capitalist of Spokane was the purchaser.

Sidney Arnold, who belongs to the geological survey party operating in the Cascades west of the city for the past several months, was in the city this week. He stated that a bronze tablet had been placed upon the exact summit of Natcheez Pass, showing the actual elevation of that point above sea level to be 5191 feet.

The Federated church edifice at Sunnyside will be dedicated today and tomorrow. The DEMOCRAT is in receipt of quite an elaborate program gotten up for the occasion. The building was constructed by co-operation of the Christian, Congregational, Progressive Dunkard, Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist organizations.

William E. Lovell and Miss Frances A. Palmer were united in marriage, last Saturday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. F. E. Shaw, on South Third street, Rev. P. B. Jackson officiating. On Monday evening the Yakima band, of which organization the groom has for years been a member, serenaded the young couple, who are the recipients of hearty congratulations of numerous friends.

The supposed mother of the infant discovered on Natcheez avenue last week left for parts unknown last Monday night on a delayed west bound passenger train. She was accompanied by an elderly woman, who is thought to have been the prime mover in the disposal of the child. The evidence pointed strongly to the guilt of the woman, but was not sufficient to warrant an arrest. The couple were the observed of all observers while sitting in the depot, as the story of their departure was whispered around. Neither of the women were known here, and as the babe died on Wednesday it is probable nothing further will ever be brought to light in the case.

Public School Matters.

The county treasurer is at a loss for an explanation as to the non-arrival of the state apportionment for the last quarter, now overdue for two weeks. The proposition has proved one of temporary embarrassment for several districts, but the condition will no doubt be released in a few days.

The board of the city district this week received a letter from Mrs. Henrietta Enyart, who had been appointed teacher of the sixth grade in the High school building, in which she stated that she is teaching in the Seattle schools and could not fill her engagement here. It is probable the board will take the matter before the state superintendent and it may be that Mrs. Enyart will lose her position for the term.

Eugene Garrison, recently from Chicago, will receive the appointment as janitor of the Central building.

It is feared that hop-picking and fruit packing will so interfere with the first few days of school in the matter of attendance as to materially diminish the apportionment and retard progress, as a large number of pupils will be engaged in the fields and packing houses.

Stood Death Off.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave-digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys, and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50c at W. E. Ayre's drug store.

Dr. W. D. Hall, a veterinary surgeon, from St. Paul, Minn., arrived in the city this week and will make his residence here in the future. Anyone desiring his services will find him at 203 West Yakima avenue, or at the Central hotel. 51-3t

The Roslyn Excursion.

The long expected excursion from Roslyn will arrive at nine o'clock this morning. The crowd, it is stated, will number at least seven hundred people.

A game of ball will be played this afternoon at three o'clock at the Capitol Hill grounds, and this evening a hop will be given at the big armory, where the Roslyn band will play. Sunday afternoon another ball game will be played between the Roslyn and Yakima nines.

This is the first excursion of the kind from the coal city, and our citizens should vie with one another in making the visit of our guests as comfortable and pleasant as possible.

The accommodations of the hotels and lodging houses cannot be relied upon to furnish entertainment for all the visitors, as the large number of "strangers within our gates" has for some time strained their capacity. The committee having this matter in charge therefore request that any and all private citizens having rooms to rent for Saturday night will leave their names and locations either with Ditter & Mechtel or Fred E. Alter.

The Roslyn band of 25 pieces will give a concert at 7:30 this (Saturday) evening at the new band stand and will then proceed to the Armory to attend the ball.

Miss Mabel Vest, of Sprague, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Helm, of Fort Simcoe.

John W. Thomas and family returned yesterday from a summer's stay at the Swauk.

A. B. Sweeney is temporarily in charge of the down town office of the Western Union.

A. E. Howard has been awarded the contract for the Clogg building, but the price has not yet been made public.

Messrs. Doty and Patterson, lately of Rossland, B. C., are this week engaged in remodeling the Miller building on the avenue for their use as an up-to-date cigar store.

City Marshal Boyle now has in his possession a grip full of clothing and other articles found in an alley Thursday evening. The owner can have same by proving property and paying for this notice.

In the superior court this week Frank Ward was appointed administrator of the estate of B. F. Ward; G. A. Gano was appointed guardian of James B. Delbert and Aden Gano, and an appeal was taken to the supreme court from the verdict in the case of George Gervais vs. Alex McAllister.

H. D. Harkness who has been mining for several years in the Swauk, came down Wednesday bringing with him a number of very fine specimens of placer gold. The largest nugget of the collection weighs out $140. They are on exhibition in the window of Redneld's jewelry store and attract much attention.

E. F. Benson of the State Fair Commission, was in town Friday and announced that he had secured an excursion rate from the N. P. Co. of $3 from Sound points to Yakima through Fair week. The tickets will be good for three days and will, Mr. Benson thinks, bring at least 2000 people here to see the Fair.

Hop growers are, as usual at this season, apprehensive least pickers will be scarce. Picking generally will begin about next Monday. The first installment of pickers arrived from the Sound Friday afternoon, to the number of several hundred, and many more will follow daily. The market has not yet opened, but it is thought the price will start at about ten cents.

Tenana and Columbus, the Indians arrested last week as suspects in connection with the murder of Honewassie, whose badly decomposed body was found on the Shanno ditch last Monday week by R. A. Grant, had a preliminary hearing before Justice Taggard yesterday afternoon. Tenana has only one leg and goes around on crutches, while Columbus is but a stripling. While these Indians apparently know something about the murder, they evidently did not perpetrate the crime themselves, but will make important witnesses against the real culprits. Agent Lynch was in attendance upon the trial, and is earnest in his efforts to bring the guilty parties to justice. The prisoners were discharged.

The Quaker doctors returned to North Yakima from Ritzville Thursday, and having secured the lease of a lot on First and A streets, proceeded to defy the city authorities by selling a single bottle of their medicine in contravention of the old city ordinance, the amended ordinance having been vetoed by the mayor. A large crowd was in attendance at their Thursday afternoon challenge, and little difficulty was occasioned in securing a buyer for one bottle offered, it being understood that this offer was to induce the officers to make an arrest and thus give an occasion for a test of the constitutionality of the ordinance. Fred S. Walton, the Quaker doctor making the deft, was arrested and tried before Judge Taggard, having secured a change of venue from the court of City Justice Lince. He was fined $5 and costs, and the matter has been taken to the U. S. district court by his attorney, H. J. Snively. Mr. Walton states that in the event of the ordinance being knocked out his company still stands ready to pay the city the $100 provided for in the ordinance recently vetoed by Mayor Fechter.

Saved His Wine.

The palace of Emperor William I. in Berlin has been kept in the condition in which he left it. In the bedroom there is still the simple iron bedstead in which he always slept and in which he died. It is suggestive of his simple tastes in all respects. His economical habits are illustrated by the fact that when, in his old age, the physician advised him to drink a glass of champagne at lunch, the Emperor always had the bottle corked again, and the remainder saved for his dinner.—New York Post.

THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT

NORTH YAKIMA.....SEPTEMBER 7, 1901

Titles.

The editor of a newspaper in this state takes exception to the name of "queen" having been given to the young lady who presided over the festivities of carnival week in Tacoma. He fears that the use of the queenly title in a democratic country shows a drifting of public sentiment toward imperialism. The gentleman is worrying unnecessarily. There is no immediate danger, or future danger, of the United States departing from the form of government at present in vogue. The American people, however, have no objection to titles, and as a matter of fact it is difficult to find an American citizen who does not enjoy one. Every male teacher is a "Professor;" every editor is a "Colonel;" every two-by-four justice of the peace is a "Squire;" every judge is "Your Honor," and every policeman is an "Officer." There is nothing alarming in these titles. A "Professor" is not necessarily an imperialist because his hat fits him more snugly than is absolutely necessary for comfort. An editorial "Colonel" who has never seen a battlefield save in print, rises about two inches in his stocking feet when addressed by his full title, but he does not necessarily desire to transform the President of the United States into an emperor. Mr. Street Paving and Lightening Commissioner McMurphy is not a dangerous man outside his own ward, and he prefers his cumbersome title to any coronet that ever graced the brow of a belted knight, but he is no more an imperialist than he is a socialist, and the latter he will never be so long as he stands well with his constituents.

The American people are great lovers of secret fraternal societies, and when they find themselves in the seclusion of their "lodge" rooms their love for titles run riot. There are Sir Knights, Worshipful Chancellors, Grand Masters, Sachems, Keepers of Privy Seals, and Knight Templars. And the government at Washington still lives and the democratic institutions of the country show no signs of weakening.

Poker is essentially an American game and yet no one has ever suggested that kings and queens are objectionable and that they tend to raise a throne in the White House. Some poker players, whose enthusiasm has dulled their consciences, have been known to keep an extra king up their sleeves for use in cases of emergency, but even their patriotism has never been questioned. Some of the political enemies of Mark Hanna have accused him of carrying a President up his sleeve, but their suspicions are only the outcome of jealousy and the accusers can at any time be quieted by appointment to some fourth class postoffice and they are no more patriotic at heart than the gentlemen who try to induce five kings into a friendly game.—Centralia News-Examiner.

Shamrock II. is performing in a way that gives qualms to American yachtsmen. It is evident that the reports about her sent over from the other side were colored by modesty, and that she is an exceedingly swift sailor and a good boat for all weathers. With the evidence before us, in the result of the trial race already sailed, that we are no better off for a cup defender than we were last year, the international contest will be looked forward to with an interest not unmixed with apprehension.—Seattle P.-I.

The American Fraternal Club.

This organization has selected an emblem for the order. In the contest that closed on Monday there were over one hundred designs submitted. The first was awarded to the New Jersey badge firm of Whitehead, Hoag and Company, and the second was given Rev. F. L. Hayden, of North Yakima. Many designs were taken from the older orders and could not be recognized in the contest. Those receiving special recognition were Miss Belle Cass, Alice M. Chandler, Mrs. Emma Farmer, A. L. Churchill, Mrs. A. L. Churchill, H. L. Hauser, Mable A. Gorden, Winfield S. Clark, of North Yakima, and W. A. Sanders, of Corvallis, Oregon; Mrs. A. E. Knerr and Miss Daisy Boyle, of Seattle. Several nice designs were submitted by members and their families, but were not permitted to enter into the contest.

The design receiving first prize is a map of North America as a background, with clubs crossed through the center. In the crosses are the letters A. F. C. and at the bottom a hand holding a lighted torch sends up flames over the United States and Canada, the field of operations of the order. Badges and buttons having this design have been ordered and in a short time the subordinate club will be organized. Those receiving special mention for their excellent designs have been tendered complimentary membership in the society in recognition of their services.

Several organizers are being sent into different districts of Washington and Oregon and subordinate clubs will be instituted at many points when the first one is established in this city. The towns of Zillah and Sunnyside will be canvassed by representatives of the society within the next few weeks and branch clubs organized. The officers are in receipt of complimentary letters from many prominent society people in various sections of the country, every one endorsing the plan and predicting success for the order.

The offices of the superior president, secretary and surgeon have been located in the First National bank building.

They Pay No Postage.

Nearly everyone knows that United States senators and representatives have the privilege of writing or stamping their signatures on their letters, and that all such letters go through the mails free; but it is not so generally known that two women have the same privilege. They are the widows of former Presidents Grant and Garfield.

All mail sent by Mrs. Julia D. Grant and Mrs. Lucretia R. Garfield, with their signatures upon the envelopes, goes without postage stamps. This courtesy is extended to them during their lives by our government. In addition, all letters addressed to either Mrs. Grant or Mrs. Garfield require no stamps.—Young People's Weekly.

The crusade against the tobacco cigarette has brought out a competitor, and possibly a worse menace to the health of the strippling than the weed itself. The latest thing is the cinnamon cigarette which recently made its appearance in Chicago where little tots four and five years old spend their stray pennies for the new "smokers" which sell two for a cent, and go marching down street as big as Billie, puffing away "just like dad." Now the physicians are studying the effect of cinnamon smoke on the system, to determine the evil that may be expected to come from the new fad, aside from the demoralizing effects it will have on the youngsters conduct.—Everett News.

Sir Henry Had the Last Word.

It was during the rehearsal of one of Sir Henry Irving's great Shakespearean reproductions that a representative of a certain firm of upholsters called to see him respecting certain decorations which the great actor wished to be done.

"I think I will have green plush curtains across there," said Sir Henry, indicating the place with a wave of the arm. "Certainly, Sir 'Enery. Wonderful idea of yours!" said the delighted commission agent.

Before he left Irving called him back. "On further consideration, Mr. So-and-So," he said, "I think I will have something darker than green plush—say, very dark blue."

"Beautiful, Sir 'Enery! Your taste is admirable! 'Twill suit the ladies' dresses so well." And he proceeded to alter the order in his notebook.

He then turned to go, but only got as far as the wings when he heard his name called again.

"After all, Mr. So-and-So"—it was Sir Henry's voice—"I think very dark curtains are too heavy. We will have pure white."

"The very color you want!" gushed the agent. "Show up the beauty of the stage." And he prepared to make his final exit.

He had not gone far, however, before Sir Henry called him back again.

"After further consideration, Mr. So-and-So," said the actor thoughtfully, "I don't think we'll have any curtains at all."

This time the agent did not return to congratulate Sir Henry on his admirable taste.—London Answers.

The Devil's Mortgage.

The Devil had a mortgage;
It was given by a man
Whose business was managed
On a most improper plan.
Quoth he: "Of present pleasures
I'll take what suits me best,
And the Devil and posterity
Are welcome to the rest."

The Devil had a mortgage;
It was not on real estate,
But was given on the future,
On such and such a date.
It bore the seal of Destiny,
The signature of Fate,
And the interest agreed on
Was a most unlawful rate.

And the man who gave the mortgage
Strove to lift it, but in vain;
He labored in the sunshine,
He labored in the rain;
But still with mushroom swiftness
The mortgage grew and grew,
And the interest was always
And forever falling due.

The Devil had a mortgage;
The tale is nothing new,
But it has at least the virtue
(Or the vice) of being true.
The sequel it is likely
That the very wise foresaw,
But the moral, gentle reader,
Is left for you to draw.

The Devil had a mortgage
(He foreclosed it long ago!);
But the document was binding
When the fool went down below;
And his children and grandchildren,
As the proper records say,
To the seventh generation
Had the interest to pay.

POOR AND BIG HEARTED.

Specimens of the Hospitality of the Southern Mountaineer.

The latchstring hangs outside every cabin door if the men folk are at home, but you must shout "Hello!" always outside the fence.

"We uns is pore," you will be told, "but y'u're welcome ef y'u kin put up with what we have."

After a stay of a week at a mountain cabin a young "furriner" asked what his bill was. The old mountaineer waved his hand. "Nothin," he said, "cept come ag'n!"

A belated traveler asked to stay all night at a cabin. The mountaineer answered that his wife was sick, and they were "sorter out of fixin's to eat, but he reckoned he mought step over to a neighbor's an borrow some." He did step over, and he was gone three hours. He brought back a little bag of meal, and they had corn bread and potatoes for supper and for breakfast, cooked by the mountaineer. The stranger asked how far away his next neighbor lived. "A leetle the rise of six miles, I reckon," was the answer.

"Which way?"

"Ch, jes' over the mountain thar."

He had stepped six miles over the mountain and back for that little bag of meal, and he would allow his guest to pay nothing next morning.

I have slept with nine others in a single room. The host gave up his bed to two of our party, and he and his wife slept with the rest of us on the floor. He gave us supper, kept us all night, sent us away next morning with a parting draft of moonshine applejack, of his own brewing, by the way, and would suffer no one to pay a cent for his entertainment. That man was a desperado, an outlaw, a moonshiner and was running from the sheriff at that very time.

Two outlaw sons were supposed to have been killed by officers. I offered aid to the father to have them decently clothed and buried, but the old man, who was as bad as his sons, declined it, left for that, and if not, why, he had.—"The Southern Mountaineer," by John Fox, Jr., in Scribner's.

WASHDAY WISDOM.

A very hot iron should never be used for flannels or woollens.

Calicoes, ginghams and chintzes should be ironed on the wrong side.

Clotheslines are made much more durable by boiling for ten minutes before they are used.

Table linen should be ironed when quite damp and ironed with a very hot and very heavy iron.

Irons should not be allowed to become redhot, as they will never retain the heat properly afterward.

Embroideries should be ironed on a thin, smooth surface over thick flannel and only on the wrong side.

Linen may be made beautifully white by the use of a little refined borax in the water instead of using a washing fluid.

Wash fabrics that are inclined to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very salt water, to set the color, before washing in the suds.

Silken fabrics, especially white silk handkerchiefs, should not be dampened, but ironed with a moderately warm iron when taken from the line.

His Test.

A dealer in pictures who makes it his business to find as many new painters as possible, both in this country and abroad, was asked in regard to his methods of selecting pictures to buy. He was very frank in his talk, and one thing which he said is shrewd enough to be worth quoting.

"Of course," he said, "with my expe-

School Teacher's Headache.

It's not a new variety of headache. It's the old pain consequent on conditions which result from study, confinement, and careless eating. It is, in fact, only one symptom of a derangement of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself, is an axiom. More diseases originate from a diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs than from any other cause. If the stomach is foul every particle of food which passes through it must be fouled. But the food is the source of the blood supply and if the stomach fouls the food it must foul the blood. Then nerve and muscle, bone and brain which are nourished by blood must suffer the consequences. Sound health cannot be produced from foul blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, and so cures headache, heart "trouble," liver "trouble," and every other trouble which has its cause in a diseased condition of the stomach and the consequent impurity of the blood.

"I was troubled with very frequent headaches, often accompanied by severe vomiting," writes Miss Mary Belle Summerton, of San Diego, Duval Co., Texas. "Bowels were irregular, and my stomach and liver seemed continually out of order. Often I could eat almost nothing, and sometimes absolutely nothing for twenty-four hours at a time. I was entirely unfit for work, and my whole system seemed so run-down that I feared a severe sick spell and was very much discouraged. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and did so with such satisfactory results that before finishing the third bottle I felt perfectly able to undertake the duties attending public school life, and contracted to do so. I most heartily advise those suffering with indigestion, and its attendant evils, to give this great medicine a fair trial."

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it contains no opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, 700 illustrations, is sent free, on receipt of stamps to cover expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

rience I am able to judge whether there is promise in a painter's work, but I never buy with any idea of putting the painter on my list until I have seen the man and talked with him myself. I always watch him closely, and I never buy his pictures unless his eye lights up when I talk to him about his work and about his profession."

The artist whose heart was really in his work could not discuss it without kindling, and the man who did not paint from the heart was not the one whose pictures the dealer wanted.

A Brief Interview.

The late Rev. R. S. Storrs was a very hard man to interview, for he resented the inquisitiveness of the press and was icy to its agents.

One evening a reporter attended a reception at his house and in the course of the evening touched his arm and whispered: "Doctor, I'm from the —. I want the names of guests and all the particulars."

"Yes," Dr. Storrs whispered in return, "this way, this way." And, taking the young man's arm, he escorted him to the front door and put him out.

It Takes Time.

"Your wife," we said to the husband of the great authoress, "is the woman of the hour."

"Indeed she is," he responded, with a tinge of sadness in his voice. "She is the woman of the hour and a half when she is dressing for the theater."—Baltimore American.

SANTOS-DUMONT, AERONAUT.

His Ambition is to Become the Magellan of the Air.

A recent cablegram from Paris says: Walter J. Kingsley declares that fear does not exist for M. Santos-Dumont. The start at the menace of danger, the sudden numbing shock that comes at the heels of alarm, are known no more to this little Brazilian who—the son of the coffee king—is king of the air. He is a fearless man. Cruising above Paris in his sinister craft that looks for all the world like a great torpedo mediating attack on the roofs 1,000 feet below, M. Santos-Dumont is as calm, as cool, as completely master of his movements as the sun-browned lounge of the Seine, who lies on his back in his drifting boat, and looks upward at that other vessel which is sailing with clatter of motor and whirr of propeller in the uncharted and unsounded blue.

The interpid navigator, whose horizons are so much vaster than those of the deep sea sailor, feels, he tells me, supreme happiness, a fine, delicious, glow always when far above the world, and swinging under the long balloon from tiny piano-wires that hum in the wind and sing shrilly when the chattering motor drives the screw and the airship darts like a projectile for the Eiffel tower—that great mark of the Aero club. M. Eiffel did the science of aeronautics a great good when he erected that tapering steel beam on end beside the Seine.

It was at lunch at the Pavilion Royal on the Bois de Boulogne that M. Santos-Dumont said to Mr. Kingsley:

"I wish to be the Magellan of the air—the first circumnavigator of the globe independent of earth and water. I would rather do that than anything else I can conceive. Kingdoms and victories and gold would be nothing beside the glory of that deed. I am told that it is a mad dream, that it is folly. I do not think so.

"Given a start, a science is developed at racing speed in this age of ours, so full of excitements, of romance, of innumerable interests. I cannot endure the man or woman who says that this is a prosaic time. Did past time ever know a thrill comparable to that I feel soaring as a bird soars in the air so pure, so clear, so lonely?

"It is the one stainless element of the world. I know now why birds sing. It is because they fly, and to fly is a divine intoxication, an exaltation of every sense. Racing they call the sport of kings. Well, if that be so, I can only say of flying that it is the sport of the gods. Have not the angels wings?

"Now you can understand how I feel when half a mile above fair, glittering Paris, I am enjoying one of the pleasures of Paradise.

What a supremacy it will be to go around the world in the air—to pass over all the nations, to look upon cities, to laugh at the waters impotent to harm one, to share with the homing pigeon, the eagle and the swallow the sovereign delight of the universe! And I will do it, too. I will go round the earth. It was my boyhood's dream in Rio de Janeiro. I first imagined the journey in the tropics. Here, in the north, if God is good, I will make its realization possible.

"Ten years ago where were the motors that are going by us? De Dion, and Mors, and Panhard had all their fame to earn. Where a generation ago were a thousand and one accomplished and necessary facts of today? As these things were then, so are aeronautics now. Believe me, before I am gray you will see fleets of aerial yachts beating out toward golden sunsets, squadrons of pleasure craft in the sky, and it may be, huge battleships will throw their sombre shadows upon the earth."

The most vivacious of talkers, M. Santos-Dumont smouldered with enthusiasm. His words flew from his lips as from a quick-fire gun, and they were spoken with little snappy detonations. He gestured, he laughed immoderately, he was as full of tireless movement as the motor that drives his pet and pride. Small and lithe, with glittering, beady black eyes, straight, lank hair, prominent upper teeth, he is one South American who has forgotten how to say "Manana", who has imagination, executive ability and energy. His splendid forehead is the solitary feature, however, that gives a clew to his power.

M. Santos-Dumont is rich, his apartments on the Champs Elysees are exquisite, he has a motor car, the fair women of Paris are fain to know him, the aristocrats delight in him, but he gives no time to aught but his airship. Like a peasant, he arises at daylight, and goes to his work in the little balloon park beside the Seine, where he toils all day like a mechanic.

Hundreds come to see him. He turns no one away. He smiles alike upon the schoolboy and the marquis; he is pleased with praise; he answers all questions; he is absolutely unspoiled. You would go far to find another nature so honest, so open, so winning as M. Santos-Dumont's and his activity is astounding.

He volleys orders to his helpers, he climbs ladders and cleans machinery, he starts the motor into noisy life, and pets and fondles it; he goes over his gossamer rigging of wire like a piano tuner. The airship is his sweetheart, and he treats her like a deep-hearted love with but a single passion.

It is a delight to see him ascend. Standing in his tiny basket, the ship borne on men's shoulders, he makes a quick but microscopic scrutiny of the balloon, the steel threads that drop from it to the tiny triangular frame of slender sticks that bears himself and his machinery; he bows to the cheering crowd, laughs the hearty laugh of a boy, and, smiling still, goes gently upward, his red necktie a gleam of color.

He moves about in his basket with a velocity of movement that passes description. At the same moment he seems to throw out ballast, to manipulate his guide rope, to start his motor, to steer, to shout at the spectators, to do a score of necessary things without making a single mistake. When he comes to earth again he stands in his wicker case and tells the eager excited folk all that happened, how this rope caught and how he burned his hand, how he lost his hat and how the city looked.

He laughs and gestures all the time; he is completely happy. The people laugh, too, and applaud him. Who could help liking this brave and happy youth, who at 28 is the admiral of the atmospheric sea?

The sight of Santos-Dumont going about in the air whither he listeth is singularity thrilling. The Parisian, usually so voluble, is silent when Santos-Dumont is up aloft. The wonder of it is that he is content to gaze there, and talk later when the aeronaut is safely home. And he is proud, too, that his lovely Paris is the city wherein M Santos-Dumont, a Latin though not a Frenchman, has gone so far in conquering the air, the capricious, ever-shifting air wherein the birds held solitary but not undisputed dominion for so long.

Vice Santos-Dumont! He is unafraid in every truth.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, August 29, 1901.

Washington would be peaceful at present were it not for the Sampson-Schley controversy, but both sides are so busy in considering what they will do to each other that there is a semi-sulphurous suggestion of war. The adherents of Admiral Sampson have thus far been kept occupied in explaining as much of their chief's erratic conduct as they can without giving their case away before hand. Some of the explanations do not explain.

The latest development in the case is the discovery of the fact that the Cuban, General Garcia, knew or surmised that Cervera was coming out of the harbor of Santiago on the morning of July 3. His information came from the refugee French consul at Santiago, and was, presumably, wigwagged to Sampson, as there was a code of signals arranged between Garcia and Sampson for that precise emergency. It would appear therefore, that Sampson not only thought that Cervera might come out at that time, and, as he has already claimed, made all arrangements to stop him should this happen, but that he actually knew that the sortie of the Spanish fleet was about to take place, and knowing, deliberately absented himself with one of the best ships of the squadron, and was hull down behind the horizon, seven miles away, when the time came for him to make his everlasting reputation. On ascertaining this, Admiral Schley's friends took immense delight in arising and asking with one voice, "Why?" It really seems, sometimes, as if the Schley press of the country, which means most of the newspapers, were one big interrogation point addressed to the unlucky Sampson.

That Schley is the hero of the enlisted men there is no doubt. The "jackies" on his ship swear by him, and so do the gunners and the sailors on other ships, not including, of course, the New York. Schley was the only one of the three prominent admirals (Dewey, Schley and Sampson) who attended the banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria given for the enlisted men during the New York celebration. Schley made a speech which took the sailors by storm.

It has been suggested that General Shafter should be called as a witness when the court of inquiry meets. It is not known just what Sampson's supporters in the navy department think of this suggestion, and for obvious reasons it is not likely to be known. They cannot endorse it with good grace, and they cannot regard it with open disfavor without hurting themselves. That Shafter's testimony, if taken, would be one of the most interesting chapters in the record cannot be doubted. The big General is not good at fabrications or evasions, and he was in a position to know Sampson very well. He would have to relate, under oath, the story of the Santiago campaign as he saw it from the rear.

Little can be learned at present, from any authoritative source, of the actual facts in the controversy. The reason is that Secretary Long has ordered every man connected with the navy department or with the service to keep his mouth shut. In this the secretary has again shown the tact which has always been one of the qualifications for state-manship. It will really do no good to have the whole matter thrashed over on the statement of every little officer who knows, or thinks he knows, something about it, and the battle of Santiago was an affair in which a great many officers, big and little took part, and on which practically every one in the service has an opinion. There are people, however, who note the fact that Captain Chadwick, of the New York, one of Sampson's devoted adherents, said a number of things about forbidden subjects a few days after the order was given, and was not punished, while Captain Forsyth, who came out on a Schley interview, is said to be in danger of a serious reprimand. They are asking "Why?" again and again, in this connection. It is probable that that little word was never more badly overworked in Washington than it has been during the preliminary proceedings of the Sampson-Schley investigation.

In his leisure moments, the secretary of the navy has been considering the matter of certain vouchers submitted by the Bethlehem Steel Company and the Carnegie Steel Company for royalties paid by these companies to the Harvey Steel Company for the use of the Harvey process in hardening steel. The matter is in some ways a test case, for if the government refuses to pay these royalties the decision will effect all royalties upon battleships constructed since 1893. The only plates directly involved are those of the battleships Illinois and Wisconsin.

The steel companies claim that the government had a contract, in which it agreed to reimburse them if they were "required to pay" these royalties to the Harvey people. Secretary Long has withheld his approval until the court of claims decides whether the government process infringes on the Harvey system. Acting Attorney General Beck has now given an opinion on behalf of the department of justice, sustaining Mr. Long in his refusal. The case has been dragging along for some time. Secretary Herbert refused to pay the royalties when he was secretary of the navy.

The Anti-Trust league is trying to reach Attorney General Knox and bring charges against the big steel corporation, which it wants prosecuted under the Sherman act. Thus far Mr. Knox has calmly ignored the whole business. The committee of the league has not even been able to see him. His law partner is a director of the billion-dollar corporation, and that, or something else, makes him feel very secure.

There is a rumor that the British foreign office has some sensational news to give out regarding the Nicaragua canal; but Washington is not giving as much credence to the rumor as if it did not come from Birmingham. Thereby hangs a tale, savoring of Munchausen's. It has been the practice of would-be wily English correspondents for long, these many years to try to give credence to stories about the affairs of the government by making them originate in Birmingham. Now, Birmingham is the home of Joseph Chamberlain, and the supposition seems to be that when he has Downing street news to disclose he tells it to his home papers. This is as if stories of Mr. McKinley's public policy should be hallmarked "Canton." By experience correspondents have discovered that most of these yarns are pure creations of their author's fancy; and hence, to say that a sensational disclosure about the British foreign office hails from Birmingham is now about the same as saying it is a natural born lie.

that England will abandon the position she has held for some years, and acknowledge the right of the United States to construct, maintain and fortify the Nicaragua canal. If such things were really going to happen the chances of its leaking out beforehand would be extremely small. But when Lord Pauncefote returns and begins to discuss with Secretary Hay the result of his conference with Salisbury, it will be known, perhaps, whether there was any truth in the rumor or not.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

What the "Fathers" Accomplished at the Latest Meeting.

As Monday was a legal holiday, no business could legally be transacted that evening, and no attempt was made to meet.

On Tuesday evening no quorum appeared and an adjournment was taken until Wednesday.

Wednesday evening all members of the council were present except Sinclair and Reed, who are visiting in the east.

On petition from residents along the street a resolution was passed to grade First street from Chestnut to the disputed tract in the southern part of town.

A petition from residents of Moxee avenue asking that that thoroughfare be graded was passed.

A petition was presented asking for an arc light at the corner of A and First street and was granted.

A petition was read from property owners on the west side, asking that the channel of the Schanno ditch be changed by running it down Rainier avenue; referred to committee on streets and ditches, in conjunction with the city engineer.

A remonstrance was read, signed by a number of property owners on Second street objecting to the proposed improvement by macadamizing.

The city sexton's report for August showed seventeen interments.

The city marshal's report for August showed 21 head of stock impounded; 24 nuisances abated; 91 arrests; $352 cash in fines collected for various delinquencies. Other matters in relation to city affairs were variously treated, it being shown incidentally that eleven gambling games, eleven slot machines and twenty-two denizens of the half world were paying tribute to the city.

The city justice made a report, confirming the main items of the marshal's statement, the fines collected amounting to $352.25.

The street commissioner reported twelve street crossings laid and various other improvements, the total cost of which amounted to about $400 for the month.

The city engineer reported recommending the removal of the electric light poles within the curb line of the streets to be improved and that sewer connection be enforced before the work is inaugurated.

Hall reported for the committee on house numbering that Mr. Merwin found such difficulty that the city would find it better to pay the amount (20 cents per number), the work to be completed by October 1st. On motion it was ordered that the work be done on these terms by Mr. Merwin, under the supervision of the committee on streets and ditches.

The usual grist of monthly claims against the city were audited and allowed.

An ordinance amendatory of the ordinance relating to merry-go-rounds, reducing the amount of license from $25 to $10 per day or $150 per month, was introduced and passed, all councilmen except Shaw voting aye.

D. A. Stone appeared to protest against a nuisance in the shape of straw and sawdust being thrown from an ice-house on the railroad right-of-way south of the depot. The city attorney gave an opinion that the matter was one between the ice-house people and Mr. Stone. On motion of Mr. Hall the city marshal was ordered to notify Thos. Lund, agent, to remove the objectionable matter and to sin no more in that direction.

M. A. Holden was again in attendance and asked for an opinion from the attorney relating to the street commissioner holding the office when not a resident of the city. On motion of Hall the position was declared vacant, as the attorney said it was necessary for an officer to be a resident, but no new commissioner will be elected, the matter being placed in the hands of the committee on streets and ditches, to conduct the work as they see proper.

The mayor stated that the saloons of Turner & Fletcher and Sanberg were not conducted according to ordinance, being disorderly and causing more trouble and expense than all the other saloons in the city. The marshal made a statement that while these houses had been very troublesome in the past, there had been considerable improvement lately. On motion of Donald the mayor was empowered to act in the matter. Both houses were represented by their proprietors, who had evidently been forewarned.

The mayor reported the veto of the ordinance reducing the license for patent medicine peddlers. Allen and Shaw made inquiry as to the mayor's reasons for vetoing the ordinance, and an interesting colloquy ensued, quite a lot of new matter being introduced, and the crowd was highly entertained for a short time. On motion of Donald the vote on the ordinance was reconsidered, Allen, Hall and Shaw voting for the ordinance and Donald and Weed against. Four votes being necessary to pass an ordinance, it was declared lost. Council then adjourned.

State Fair Notes.

The State Fair Commission has a force of men engaged in decorating the pavilion and arranging for the many exhibits promised for the fair this fall. The men will be kept at work for the next three weeks and the pavilion made more attractive than at any former exhibition. The decoration is under the supervision of W. H. Wroe, an expert in that work, and a surprise awaits all who attend the fair this year. For the accommodation of the ladies, several glass cases are being put in place to make a suitable place for exhibiting the fancy work, works of art, curios, culinary and other goods requiring glass protection.

The Northern Pacific has practically assured a rate similar to that given the Tacoma Elks' Carnival and many thousands of people from the cities of the Sound will be visitors during fair week. Yakima will have a much larger crowd to entertain than at any time in her history and immediate preparations should be made for rooms and boarding facilities. A special excursion train will be run from Seattle and Tacoma and several hundred people who never saw Yakima will be among the visitors.

As only three weeks' more time for preparation is allowed before the opening of the fair those interested are coming to the city and engaging stalls, booths and places for entertainment. The secretary reports selling more concessions at better figures than ever in the history of the fair. The attractions now billed are more and better than at previous fairs and many are in correspondence with the management for new features. Hops and fruits will be harvested and the people of Yakima valley will have an opportunity to witness the entire fair this year.

Joseph Robbins, aged 76 years, died at Toppenish last Saturday from the result of a fall.

Miss Grace A. Bulluck, a resident of Nob Hill, died on Sunday after a short illness from heart failure.

The fine rain of last Sunday so settled the dust and filled the "chuck-holes" in the country roads as to improve traffic facilities wonderfully.

All of the macadam work of the five-block contract on Yakima avenue has been completed, and the result shows a street comparing favorably with the best paving in the larger cities.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Dilley on Wednesday conveyed to Spokane for trial Lamont and Jones, charged with selling liquor to Indians. The parties have been confined in the city jail for several weeks.

Frank Jackson, at the Monogram cigar store, has a section of the tusk of a mastodon found on Dominion Creek, Y. T., at a depth of 175 feet below the surface of the ground. The full length of the tusk when found was 13 feet, 5 inches.

A set of breaking harness lost in a runaway several weeks ago, and advertised for by the loser, Ed. Bland, has not yet been returned. The finder is known and if he desires to avoid legal consequences he should return them at once.

Pearson & Watt, J. A. Cook and Ditter Bros. have finished moving into their new quarters in the Miller and Ditter buildings, and are arranging their goods in place. The First National bank store room will be occupied by the Dudley Shoe Co., and the old location of Pearson & Watt is being refitted for use as a cigar store.

LOVE AMONG SAVAGES.

Ability to Stand Torture a Test of Masculine Devotion.

Among the Arabs of upper Egypt the youth who proposes to a girl must submit to a whipping at the hands of all her male relatives, and, says a dry narrator, "if he wishes to be considered worth having he must receive the chastisement, which is sometimes exceedingly severe, with an expression of enjoyment."

Not infrequently it is the maiden herself who imposes the test. The Sakalava girls of Madagascar make their lovers stand at a short distance from a clever spear thrower and catch between the arm and side every weapon flung at them. If the youth "displays fear or fails to catch the spear, he is ignominiously rejected, but if there be no flinching and the spears are caught he is at once proclaimed an accepted lover."

Worse than this is the trial enforced upon their suitors by the Dongolowee girls. When in doubt as to the respective merits of two rivals, the young lady fastens a sharply pointed knife to each elbow; then, seating herself between her lovers, she drives the blades slowly into their thighs, and the hero who takes the greatest length of steel without a murmur wins the bride.

Major Mitchell in his "Expeditions Into the Interior of Eastern Australia" says of the natives on the river Darling that all their ideas of fighting are associated with the possession of gins or wives and that after a battle the wives "do not always follow their fugitive husbands from the field, but frequently go over, as a matter of course, to the victors." "None but the brave deserve the fair" is a maxim well understood of most barbaric races. — Chambers' Journal.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE State of Washington for Yakima county, in the matter of the estate of William Rowe, deceased.

Whereas, said court has made its order in said matter of the following tenor (omitting title):
"B. L. Baker, administrator, with the will annexed of said estate having filed with the clerk of said court his final account as such administrator and his petition for distribution of the residue of said estate, it is now hereby ordered that October 7th, 1901, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon at the court room in the court house in North Yakima in said county be and they hereby are appointed the day and place for the hearing and settlement of said account and petition and that notice of such hearing and settlement be given by posting the same in three of the most public places in said county for the period of four successive weeks before said day and by the publication of said notice for four successive weeks before said day in 'the YAKIMA DEMOCRAT', a weekly newspaper of general circulation in said state and county, and printed and published in said county. Done by the court in open session this 6th day of September, 1901.
FRANK H. RUDKIN,
Superior Judge."

Now therefore in pursuance of said order notice is hereby given that said B. L. Baker as such administrator will at the court room in the court house in said county on October 7th, 1901, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon, the day appointed for the hearing and settlement of his final account and petition for distribution as such administrator of said estate, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, call up for hearing and settlement by said court his said final account and petition for distribution of the residue of said estate filed with the clerk of said court on the 6th day of September, 1901.

Ordinance No. 316.

An ordinance to amend section 2 of ordinance No. 298 entitled "An ordinance to amend 1 and 10 of ordinance No. 265, entitled an ordinance relating to licenses" approved 4th day of September, 1901.

The City Council of the city of North Yakima do ordain as follows:

Sec. 1. That section 2 of ordinance No. 298 entitled "an ordinance to amend 1 and 10 of ordinance No. 265, entitled an ordinance relating to licenses," is hereby amended to read as follows: The license fee for each riding gallery, commonly called a merry-go-round, shall be Ten ($10) Dollars per day, provided however that if a license for such riding gallery or merry-go-round is taken out for one month or more the fee therefor shall be $150 per month.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after five days after its passage and publication.

Passed the Council Sept. 4, 1901.
Approved Sept. 4, 1901.

(Seal) City Clerk.

Resolution.

Be it resolved by the city council of the City of North Yakima that said city intends and hereby declares its intention to improve FRONT STREET in the city of North Yakima, from the north line of Chestnut Street to the south line of B. street in said city by grading, guttering and curbing, and macadamizing said street between said points, said grading, guttering and curbing, and macadamizing, to be done, constructed and completed according to the grade marked out and established along said street by the city engineer and according to the plans, specifications and detail drawings of the city engineer for the completion of said improvement, which said specifications, detail drawings, plans and details are now on file in the office of the city clerk of said city, said improvement is to be similar to the improvement now being made on Yakima avenue in said city. That the estimated cost of said improvement is $4000.00; that the cost of the same is to be assessed against the property abutting on said street and included in the following assessment district, to-wit:

Lots 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 of and in Block Number NINE.

Lots 1, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 of and in Block Number TEN.

Lots 1, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31 and 32 of and in Block Number ELEVEN.

Also the following described property. Beginning at a point on the east line of the Northern Pacific Railway Company's Right of Way, at a point where the south line of B. street intersects said east line, and running thence southerly 880 feet to a point on said east line of said railway company's right of way where said line is intersected by the north line of Yakima avenue, thence running westerly along the north line of said Yakima avenue 120 feet, thence running northerly and parallel with the said east line of said Northern Pacific Railway Company's Right of Way 880 feet, thence running easterly along the south line of B. street to the place of beginning.

And also the following described property to-wit:

Beginning at a point where the south line of Yakima avenue intersects the east line of the Northern Pacific Railway Company's Right of Way, running thence southerly along the said east line 400 feet, to a point where the north line of Chestnut street, if continued would intersect said east line, thence running westerly 120 feet, thence running northerly and parallel with said east line of said Northern Pacific Railway Company's Right of way 400 feet, to the south line of Yakima Avenue, thence easterly along said south line of Yakima avenue to the place of beginning.

All of said Lots, Blocks, Property, and Streets and Lands being in accordance with the plat of the City of North Yakima, as the same appears now on file and of record in the office of the county auditor of said Yakima county.

That protests against said proposed improvement may be filed in the office of the city clerk of said city of North Yakima at any time before the 16th day of Sept., 1901; that said city clerk give due and legal notice of said proposed improvement.

Passed the council Aug. 19, 1901.
Approved Aug. 16, 1901.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Flora Kampeter returned home from the Sound Wednesday.

T. S. Philips, the genial sage of Mabton, was a county seat visitor Monday.

W. J. Roaf and family are expected home from the seashore about September 15th.

Judge Rudkin went to Ellensburg Monday to open the September term of court in the windy city.

Mrs. Gordon, sister of A. B. Weed, left Tuesday with her daughter for their home in Pasadena, Cal.

Mrs. T. R. Fisher and children returned last Saturday from a ten days' visit with friends in Tacoma.

R. E. Smith, Guy Allen and Ed. Nokes arrived home Saturday from a two weeks' tramp in the mountains.

State Senator Hemrich, of Seattle, was here on Tuesday making arrangements for the care of his hop crop on the Moxee.

J. D. McDaniel arrived home Sunday from his old Webfoot stamping grounds, having spent several weeks visiting relatives there.

John Kingsbury left for Seattle Monday to begin the school year in charge of the Van Asselt school in the suburbs of that city.

S. A. Dickey this week visited Pullman to participate in the meeting of county school superintendents from all over the state.

Floyd and Ward Hatfield returned home Wednesday, after several months' absence, the former in Seattle and the latter at Whatcom.

J. C. MacCrimmon left Thursday with his four children for Shelton, Wash., where he will leave the little fellows in the care of their aunt.

E. J. Hardison is this week visiting relatives in North Yakima and Parker, after a three years' absence, spent principally in the Klondike.

Miss Bessie Patton returned home Friday of last week from a two months' visit with relatives and friends in Tacoma, Seattle and Whatcom.

Tim Manahan having accepted the superintendency of E. C. Burlingame's 320 acre ranch near Walla Walla, moved his family to that place the first of the week.

W. W. Doty, the bowling alley man, was made happy Saturday by the arrival of his wife and child from Pullman. They will make their home on Fourth street.

Walter Reed and wife, accompanied by their niece and nephew, left Tuesday to attend the national G. A. R. encampment and to take in the big Buffalo exposition.

A. S. Dam returned yesterday from a hurried visit in Minnesota, where he was called by the serious illness of his father. The old gentleman is now much improved.

Mrs. Fred Parker and children, Miss Nora Plumb and Miss Edith Howarth, who have been spending the summer at Fish Lake, in Kittitas county, returned home last Tuesday.

Prof. Watt, at one time superintendent of the North Yakima schools, but now engaged in holding a professorship in the Pullman Agricultural college, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mattoon.

H. J. Snively made a trip to Pasco the first of the week to straighten out a legal tangle which had arisen between the county commissioners of Franklin county and Charles Geizentanner, editor of the Pasco News.

Dr. W. H. Hall, a veterinary surgeon, of Darron, Wis., arrived here with his family Sunday and will make Yakima his future home. Dr. Hall is a cousin of Louis Joerdens of Tampico, whom he had not met for over 20 years.

Alex Miller returned Sunday from a ten days' trip to the Gold Hill district. He is highly impressed with the value of the ore in that section, but thinks development will be slow until a smelter will have been established there.

Ex-Postmaster Bernard Wilkinson expects to move his family this month over to Seattle, where Bernard Jr. will enter the State University. Mr. Wilkinson will probably remain here or at most divide his time between the two places.

Prof. F. H. Plumb this week received word from his wife, who is visiting relatives in Wisconsin, that she had been taken down with typhoid fever. The latest advices state that she is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Miss Caddie Lesh gave a horseback riding party Wednesday afternoon to a number of her young female friends. Mrs. Hamilton Bartlett, chaperoned the merry throng, who went gaily through the streets of the city about 3 o'clock p. m. Refreshments were served later at the Mikado.

Sam Chappell leaves overland Monday for the Klamath Lake country in southern Oregon, where he will join his family. It is their intention to remain in that vicinity until at least next spring. Mr. Chappell is one of the oldest settlers of the Yakima valley, having come here in 1866. He assisted in the organization of the county, and has been closely identified with the advancement of this section.

C. P. Wilcox, wife and daughter arrived home from their eastern trip on Saturday. They left here July 10th and visited their old home at Little Falls, N. Y., the Buffalo exposition and other points of interest. To illustrate the extensive way that Yakima is being advertised by its products, Mr. Wilcox cites the fact of having visited many places where he found fruit on sale that came from his own and neighboring orchards.

A Night Of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from Pneumonia before morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at W. E. Ayre's drug store.

The celebrated Rainier beer, in quarts, pints and half pints delivered to all parts of the city. Thomas Lund, sole agent. Telephone 131.
