As Politicians Say,

is just as necessary in the grocery business as in politics. We've the pull in this town—that's sure. There are tricks in the grocery business, just as in politics, too, but that isn't our way of running a pure food emporium.

This Is Our Way:

Every article we sell we guarantee. It's up to you to say the brand you want; we'll tell you just what it is, what it will do and if it will please you. If you buy something that is unsatisfactory, bring it back and we'll exchange it. If you have anything delivered that is not up to par, return it. Look at everything that's sent you. We give you satisfaction or the goods are ours. Wouldn't you like to have a "strong pull" with us?

Two Colonels Slept Together.

In this paper last week a suggestion was made to the Yakima delegation to the republican state convention that Col. Robertson and Col. Boardman, two of the delegates, be required to sleep together at Tacoma. Of course, the suggestion was made to our republican friends as a "josh" but it seems to have been taken seriously by some of the delegates. So, after the big show was over Wednesday evening and the members of the Yakima crowd were all as tired as happy after their fatiguing labor from grabbing at everything in sight a motion was made by one of the delegates and duly seconded by another that the Colonel of the Republic and the Colonel of the Herald should occupy the same bed in order to properly celebrate their joint victory. The motion carried, not unanimously perhaps, but nevertheless carried, and there was nothing to do on the part of the two fighting editors but to comply. So the lion and the lamb lay down peacefully together to pleasant dreams. So mote it ever be. Selah!

Special City Election.

As previously noted a special election will be held in this city on Saturday, May 28, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m. to vote on the question of authorizing the issue of bonds in the sum of $50,000 as proposed by the city administration in order to pay the cost of installing a new sewer system according to the plans drawn by City Engineer McCulloch and Consulting Engineer Cotterill of Seattle.

The polling places for the special election will be as follows:

First Ward Precinct—At Lincoln school building; Second Ward Precinct—At city hall; Third Ward Precinct—At Columbia school house; Fourth Ward Precinct—At room over McKay & Elmore's blacksmith shop, corner of west Yakima and Altman avenues; Fifth Ward Precinct—At Central school; Sixth Ward Precinct—In the Wilson block, No. 5 south Third street.

Congressman Jones Home.

Hon. W. L. Jones returned home Sunday morning from Washington, D. C., having been delayed for a few days after the adjournment of congress by business with the departments. Mrs. Jones remained in Illinois and will return with her son at the end of his school term. Congressman Jones left here Monday for Tacoma to attend the republican state convention.

Frost Did Some Damage.

The heavy frosts that visited this section nearly every night last week. The growing strawberry crop in this vicinity suffered most, reports from Fairview, Moxee, Fruitvale and other districts being to the effect that the crop would be shortened perhaps one-half. The tree fruits do not appear to have suffered to any great extent, not enough at least but what a good average crop is yet assured.

Caught a Big Fish.

Z. Y. Coleman pulled a 64-lb rainbow trout out of the Naches river last Sunday with a small fly hook, one hour and 20 minutes of time being consumed in the landing operation. The speckled beauty measured 28 inches in length. The fish was on exhibition in Moore Clothing Co.'s window Monday and was admired by the passersby. Mr. Coleman says that landing the fish was for him a more exhausting labor than his late two round go with "Shorty" Farquhar in the prize ring.

Death of Mrs. Nash.

Mrs. Charles W. Nash of Fruitvale died at the family home two miles northwest of town, early Tuesday morning after a severe illness of several months. The end was not unexpected. Deceased leaves to mourn her loss her devoted husband and three daughters, Mrs. Waller of Minneapolis, who is now here, Mrs. Guy Allen and Miss Birdie Nash. The funeral was held from the residence Thursday.

Naches-Wenas Ditch Survey.

Civil Engineer C. G. Wands with a force of men left Monday for the Nile country to begin the survey of the proposed Naches-Wenas irrigation canal. A meeting was held at Kandle's store in the Wenas last Sunday at which it was finally decided to have the preliminary lines run for the proposed canal, it being announced that over one half of the necessary expense of $1000 to be incurred for the cost of the survey had been raised.

M'BRIDE TURNED DOWN

Republican State Convention Has No Use for Reform Governor or His Commission Platform--Unknown Lawyer Named as His Successor--Railroad Slate Goes Through Easily--Yakima Delegation Lands Jones, Rudkin, Donald and Englehart -- "Grand Old Party" Is Split in Twain-- Thousands of Republicans Will Not Stand for Ticket.

The republican state convention which assembled at Tacoma last Wednesday, May 11, called out what was probably the largest crowd that has ever attended a state convention in the history of Washington.

As foreshadowed for many months Gov. Henry McBride was turned down with a dull thud and with him his railroad commission plank.

The convention was controlled from start to finish by the combined railroad interests of the state represented by the lobby with which was allied at every stage of the proceedings the delegation from Yakima county, which accounts for the generous consideration shown the candidates from this county, Messrs. Jones, Rudkin and Donald, who were all safely landed by the delegation.

Representative Jones was nominated for the fourth time for congress, Judge Frank H. Rudkin of this city was nominated for a supreme court judgeship and George Donald was selected as one of the ten delegates from this state to the republican national convention which meets at Chicago June 21. In addition Col. Ed. Whitson was accorded the honor of being selected as both temporary and permanent chairman of the convention. The Yakima "push" was certainly in the swim from start to finish. In fact the delegation from this county came very near being the whole show. H. B. Scudder was chairman of the delegation and he, Edward Whitson, Capt. Dunn, W. W. Robertson and E. L. Boardman composed the steering committee. Some 15 or 20 politicians from this county were on hand to help boost the local candidates and according to all accounts done some effective work.

The following is the ticket nominated as well as the delegates elected to go to the Chicago convention:

For Presidential Electors—

S. G. Cosgrove of Garfield county.

George W. Bassett of Franklin county.

Judge L. B. Nash of Spokane county.

Col. J. M. Fish of Stevens county.

A. L. Munson of Mason county.

Delegates to National Convention—

Charles Sweeney of Spokane county.

J. M. Ashton of Pierce county.

John G. Lewis of Chelan county.

George Donald of Yakima county.

Dr. A. B. Eastham of Clarke county.

Chas. E. Bingham of Skagit county.

Levi Ankeny of Walla Walla county.

Erastus Brainerd of King county.

John S. McMillin of San Juan county.

Alternates: George B. Kandle, F. C. Harper, C. F. Miller, Alonzo Taylor, E. G. Ames, J. R. Welty, Philip Hill, R. F. Hartley and George Dilling.

For Congressmen—

Francis W. Cushman of Pierce county.

Wesley L. Jones of Yakima county.

Wm. E. Humphrey of King county.

For Supreme Court Judges—

Mark A. Fullerton of Whitman county.

F. H. Rudkin of Yakima county.

For Governor—

A. E. Mead of Whatcom county.

For Lieutenant Governor—

Charles E. Coon of Jefferson county.

For Secretary of State—

S. H. Nichols of Snohomish county.

For Treasurer of State—

George Mills of Thurston county.

For Auditor of State—

C. W. Clausen of Kitsap county.

For Attorney General—

John D. Atkinson of Cnelan county.

For Superintendent of Schools—

R. B. Bryan of Chehalis county.

For Land Commissioner—

E. W. Ross of Cowlitz county.

It was a railroad slate selected at a caucus of the steering committees in the combine at least 24 hours in advance.

Edward Whitson of this city was chosen temporary chairman by acclamation, having been nominated by a Snohomish delegate. He was afterward made permanent chairman. Regarding the chairman the Tacoma Ledger says:

"Mr. Whitson was one of the defeated candidates in his own county of Yakima, and was in the convention by courtesy, being the holder of a proxy. As the committee on credentials reported unfavorably to voting proxies, he did not have a vote in the convention, and was therefore in a peculiar situation. Only a few knew of it, however, and as these made no protest he continued to act as chairman."

The platform adopted utterly ignored the railway commission issue. As a sop to the voters, however, a tax commission is declared for in mild terms. President Roosevelt is eulogized, and the delegates from this state instructed to vote for his nomination. The repeal of the new road law is favored as is also the passage of the Brownlow good roads bill, the congressional delegation from this state being instructed to vote for the same. The platform is not a particularly brilliant declaration of principles, but is short and concise.

The 220 delegates instructed for Gov. McBride and his railway commission plank went down with their leader into the last ditch of defeat. The McBride men brought in a minority report in favor of the commission and made a gallant though losing fight for it on the floor of the convention. The McBride orators one after another begged and pleaded for the passage of the commission plank, but the majority was deaf to their entreaties and the cause for which they labored so strenuously was turned down by the vote of 406 to 252, a majority of 154. Lund of Spokane declared before the motion was put that if the plank was turned down George Turner would be the nominee of the democratic party for governor and that he would sweep eastern Washington like a whirlwind and that likewise a democratic legislature would in all probability be elected as the people of that section regardless of party were determined that the railroad interests should not continue to rule the state. Mr. Lund was only laughed at, the west side orators asserting the majority on their side of the mountains was sufficient to carry the ticket through in any emergency.

Gov. McBride's name did not go before the convention as his supporters realized the uselessness of bucking the slate program. Thus A. E. Meade, an unknown lawyer of Whatcom, was nominated for the high office of governor with no opposition and the rest of the slate went through in rapid order, Chairman Whitson facilitating matters as much as possible and ruling out obstructions. The McBride delegates for the most part sat in their seats sullenly and allowed matters to go by default as they realized that none of the prizes were for them as the political cards were stacked against them. Attorney General Stratton and State Land Commissioner Callvert were both sacrificed, the former's place going to Atkinson of Chelan, whilom candidate for governor, the latter's position being given to E. W. Ross, a railroad politician from Cowlitz county.

After the adjournment of the convention Wednesday evening the McBride delegates in a body called on the governor to offer condolences over his overwhelming defeat. The governor in his speech appeared to take his defeat graciously but when he came to the point of thanking his followers for the loyal support they had given him he broke down utterly and shed tears as did many others in the room. The scene, says the Spokesman-Review, was a very touching one.

In addition to securing everything that they wanted from the state convention the 19 delegates from Yakima county scored yet another victory. They nominated Ira P. Englehart of this city for superior judge to succeed Hon. F. H. Rudkin. This, however, was easily accomplished as this county had 19 votes in the judicial convention to 16 for Kittitas and Franklin counties combined. There has been a move on in this county for several weeks to nominate Mr. Englehart for the place in case Judge Rudkin should be named for the higher place on the supreme bench, so it did not probably come as a surprise to Mr. Englehart, who did not attend the state convention. He received a telegram from Col. Robertson on Tuesday asking him if he would accept the nomination. To this Mr. Englehart replied that he was willing to do anything that was for the best interest of the party, which, of course, was construed to mean that he accepted the honor.

A portion of the Yakima delegation accompanied by Judge Rudkin, George Donald and a number of spectators who attended the convention, returned home on Thursday afternoon's train. All were smiling serenely and seemed content with the part played by the delegation at Tacoma. Messrs. Rudkin and Donald were given the glad hand and received the congratulations of their numerous friends over their success. All that was needed apparently was a brass band to celebrate the home coming of the victors, but the band, sorry to say, was not in evidence.

While local republicans, as a rule, express themselves as pleased with the recognition accorded the county in the state convention quite a number do not hesitate to condemn the manner in which it was brought about, i. e., the unholy alliance concluded with the railway lobby. This, in their estimation, detracts much from the glory with which the delegation seems to have covered itself at Tacoma.

Friday morning it was announced by some of the local g. o. p. leaders that a grand ratification would be held at Larson's theatre Friday evening to celebrate the victory won by the Yakima delegation. The band was hired and arrangements were made with a number of local speakers to be on hand to let loose a flood of oratory.

Negotiations Are Off.

All negotiations for the re-instatement of the old volunteer fire department now seem to be completely off. The citizens committee labored hard on the proposition to bring the city council committee and the department together and for a time it looked as though the committee would succeed. Certain councilmen, however, are said to have objected on the ground that a new company had been organized and that it would not be fair to the new members to cut them out now. So the whole matter stands where it did a week ago and the old company appears to be out of it and the boys say that they don't care. Alex Sinclair will be chief of the new department.

Sent to Asylum.

Mrs. Clara E. Kendall, aged 22 and a resident of Sunnyside, was committed to the Medical Lake asylum by Court Commissioner Day Monday after being given a medical examination by Drs. Dulin and Gunn. The woman's story is rather a sad one as she seems to have got the worst of it from the world. She was married only last November but the affair seems to have terminated unhappily, a fact that had much to do with wrecking her reason.

To Reclaim Pasco Desert.

A Washington, D. C., dispatch of May 10, says:

"The secretary of the interior has set aside out of the reclamation fund, $1, from 50,000 to 100,000 acres north and large tract of land in the vicinity of Pasco. It has been determined that at a cost of about $25 per acre, anywhere from 50,000 to 100,000 acres north and east of Pasco can be reclaimed by diverting the waters of Snake river. As yet no definite plan for reclaiming these lands has been evolved, although investigations in that vicinity are being pressed, and efforts will be made to prepare a final plan during the present summer. This Pasco, or Palouse project, as it is known, is really part of the vast Big Bend project.

The entire Big Bend scheme contemplates the reclamation of about 2,000,000 acres of land, and is one of the largest projects in the United States. The commencement of work near Pasco does not commit the government to the large work, although it is expected in time it will be undertaken. Probably not more than 60,000 or 70,000 acres will be reclaimed under the allotment just made."

Ernest E. Petty and Miss Belle Critchfield received a license to wed from the county auditor Wednesday.

Australian Papers.

Through the courtesy of R. D. Read of this city, who returned a few weeks ago from a trip to New Zealand and Australia, the editor of the Democrat has had the privilege this week of examining number of newspapers from those countries which he brought back with him. Among the assortment is the Melbourne Truth, the Melbourne Leader, the Hobart Mercury and two papers published at Suva, Fiji islands, the Times and Pacific Herald, respectively. These papers were issued during the months of January and February of the current year.

Of the lot the most interesting is the Truth, which despite its flamboyant style fails to inform the reader of where it is published. This particular issue of Truth is devoted almost entirely editorially to abuse of the Rev. Elijah Dowie of Holy Zion City in far off America, who at that time was doing Melbourne for the purpose of converting the sinful. There is a severe financial depression now on in Australia and as a result the industries of the settled portions of the island continent are in a rather badly demoralized condition. The Hobart Mercury in commenting on the conditions in Victoria states that over 1300 applications had been filed for 19 vacant places on the police force of that city. The depression, it seems, is due in a large measure to the long period of drought experienced in many parts of the continent and in part to what is termed the exorbitant demands of the labor party which is apparently strong enough to control the government through its balance of power in parliament.

The Fiji papers afford but little insight into the conditions existing there as but little news of any character appears in them, their space being occupied mainly with advertisements of steamship companies, English wine merchants and others.

Very Likely Drowned.

H. B. Chapman, N. P. telegraph operator at Bristol, between Ellensburg and Cle Elum, is presumed to have lost his life by drowning in the Yakima river. Chapman was about 20 years of age.

On the morning of May 5, Chapman told some friends that he was going to cross the river on a raft and spend the day at hunting. He was advised, it seems, not to make the attempt to cross the swift flowing water, but the young man thought there was no danger and started off gaily. That was the last seen of him. As he did not return that evening a searching party was organized and started to look for him. Quite a distance below where he started the searchers found his hat and gun on the river bank but no further trace of the missing man, although the river was dragged in the effort to find the body and the banks of the stream searched for miles. The people of that neighborhood are apparently satisfied that the boy lost his life. Chapman had been in the employ of the Northern Pacific only since last summer, having come to this road from the Canadian Pacific.

Accused of Rape.

S. J. Graham of the Cowiche, a farmer of that valley and a married man, was brought before Justice J. A. Taggard Wednesday afternoon to answer to the charge of rape on the person of Ella Morton, the 16 year old daughter of Mrs. Lucinda Johncox, neighbors of Graham. The complaint on which Graham was arrested was sworn to by Mrs. Johncox. The evidence offered showed a disgusting state of affairs as Graham and the girl had been consorting together secretly for some time. On one occasion Graham spent the night with the girl at a Yakima hotel representing that she was his wife.

The justice fixed Graham's bail at the modest sum of $10,000 in default of which he went to jail. The prisoner is about 40 years of age.

RED MEN'S GREAT COUNCIL

Annual Convention of Washington and Idaho Jurisdiction Held Here This Week With Large Attendance—Thursday Spent at Fair Grounds.

The Red Men have come and gone and have taken with them pleasant memories of their visit to Yakima. About 120 delegates were present from the different parts of this state and northern Idaho to take part in the seventh great session or grand council of the order here, many bringing their wives. They began coming on the first train Monday and kept coming that day and the next.

The first meeting was held at Odd Fellows hall Tuesday morning with Frank Dowd of Seattle, grand sachem, presiding. At the evening session important business was considered and the annual election of grand officers was held. The following officers were elected:

Great sachem, H. E. Robbins, Everett; great senior sagamore, W. G. Ackerman, Tacoma; great junior sagamore, Louis G. Meeks, Spokane; great prophet, Frank Dowd, Seattle; great chief of records, J. C. Cass, Tacoma; great keeper of wampum, H. H. Kulies, Seattle; great representatives to great council, U. S. T. J. Bell of Tacoma, W. H. Metcalf of Vancouver, Lee A. Shaw of Walla Walla, J. C. McFadden of Cathlamet.

That same evening a grand street parade was given headed by the Yakima cornet band. About 140 Redmen being in line. They were a fine looking body of men and many compliments were passed on their appearance by spectators on the crowded streets.

Thursday evening 23 local candidates were initiated into the order by the grand officers after which a banquet was held at the hall, a number of invited guests being present who reside in the city.

Thursday, as planned was the festival day. In the afternoon a large crowd went out to the fair grounds to witness the Indian races and other sports on the program. The weather being perfect all present enjoyed the occasion there being a fine field of Indian horses on hand to contest for the various prizes. The celebration wound up Thursday evening with a grand ball at the armory which was largely attended.

The committee from the local lodge of Redmen are entitled to much credit for the success of the big meeting as they labored arduously to make it a success.

A Positive Necessity

Having to lay upon my bed for 14 days from a severely bruised leg, I only found relief which I used a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. DETECTIVE INSTINCT.

Civilians Frequently Are Better Sleuths Than Professionals.

"The detective instinct is inborn in some people," observed an old detective, "and it is a rather curious thing when you think about it. I have known good detectives, naturally so, who were never connected in any manner with the service. They possess all the mental qualities of a sleuth—keen perception, rapidity of thought, strongly developed power of deduction and extreme nervous activity. While it is true all great detectives have acquired distinction through hard work and unflagging application, it is also true that many men have the detective impulse so firmly welded into their natures that it will crop out in spite of themselves.

"And I may say in passing it is useful to them in many ways, for not only operatives, but business men of every description, frequently need those peculiar faculties which go to make up a criminal chaser. I once knew a man who had the instinct so strongly developed that he thought of nothing else than the unraveling of mysteries and chasing clues. He found something of interest in the slightest case of theft and would amuse himself by working it out. It became a mania with him, and he was a source of much amusement to the officers. There was never a murder day or night that he was not among the first on the scene, and his peculiar talents frequently enabled him to lend valuable assistance to the regular force."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Rufus Choate Was Beaten.

As one of the very few occasions when the wit of Rufus Choate was foiled an incident is recalled when that brilliant lawyer was examining one Dick Barton, chief mate of the ship Challenge. Choate had cross examined him for over an hour, hurling questions with the speed of a rapid fire gun.

"Was there a moon that night?" "Yes, sir." "Did you see it?" "No, sir."

"Then how did you know there was a moon?"

"The 'Nautical Almanac' said so, and I'll believe that sooner than any lawyer in the world."

"Be civil, sir. And now tell me in what latitude and longitude you crossed the equator."

"Ah, you are joking."

"No, sir. I am in earnest, and I desire an answer."

"That's more than I can give."

"Indeed. You a chief mate and unable to answer so simple a question?"

"Yes, the simplest question I ever was asked. I thought even a fool of a lawyer knew there's no latitude at the equator!"—Success.

Snake Killing Cats of Cairo.

A native woman living in old Cairo was entering her house when, to her great terror, she perceived a snake of formidable dimensions, which had taken possession of the hearth during the woman's absence. The woman fled, leaving the door open. Her cat then appeared on the scene, entered, saw the cobra, put up its back and tail, spat and otherwise manifested its hostility and in turn went out. A few minutes afterward it returned in company with a second cat. After a similar exhibition both went out and returned with a third, and similarly went away, returning finally with a fourth. Considering that sufficient force had been recruited to kill the snake, the four at once fell on the reptile, and after a short but fierce struggle the latter was literally torn to pieces.—Egyptian Gazette.

Embarrassing to the Guest.

A tourist in the Welsh mountains who had been caught in a storm and who after much difficulty had succeeded in making his way to a solitary cottage congratulated himself on his good fortune when he was asked to stay for the night. After donning a suit of his host's clothes, so that his own might be dried, he proceeded downstairs and on his way met the mistress with a big Bible in her hand. In the fading light she mistook the stranger for her husband and gave him a thump on the head with it, remarking, "That's for asking the man to stay all night."

A Woman's Wish.

Mrs. Housekeep—My husband has been complaining a good deal of late because his dinner has not been served on time.

Mrs. Clubb—Gracious! I wish mine would.

Mrs. Housekeep—You do? Mrs. Clubb—Yes; because he'd have to come home earlier to do it.—Philadelphia Press.

Lack of Judgment.

"Was you really plannin' to run away with the hired girl?" asked the old farmer disgustedly.

"That's what I was thinkin' of doin'," admitted his son.

"Ain't you got any sense at all?" demanded the old man. "Don't you know that hired girls is harder to get than daughters-in-law?"—Chicago Post.

A Bright Thought.

"Yes, ma'am," said the obsequious grocery clerk to Mrs. Bridget, who was ordering her first bill of supplies, "I've put down parlor matches. What next?" "Well—er—I suppose I ought to have some kitchen matches, too, oughtn't I?"—Detroit Free Press.

The Good Fellow.

"He's what I call a good fellow." "At home or at the club?"—Exchange.

Shrinking modesty is an attractive trait of character, but it seldom gets a raise of salary.—Somerville Journal.

SERVANTS IN ECUADOR.

The Traveler Is Forced to Hire Many to Serve Him.

If you were living in Ecuador and wished to hire a servant you could hardly get one by yourself or herself, but would be compelled to take up with a drove of them, probably far outnumbering your own family. For example, with a cook you would have to receive her husband and children, and perhaps also her father and mother, into your house to bed and board, and each would bring along all his or her portable property, consisting mainly of domestic pets, such as pigs, chickens, rabbits, dogs and other "live stock." The husband may have some trade which he follows during the day, but at meal times and when night comes he returns to the bosom of his family and yours. It would be considered downright inhumanity to refuse them food and shelter, and not a servant in Ecuador would work for so mean a master or mistress. The children of your cook may be utilized for light services, such as running errands, weeding the garden and tending the baby, but the numerous brood is apt to be "light fingered" and certain to be lousy, dirty and probably diseased. There is no help for it, however, because "el costumbre" has decreed that for every servant you hire you must expect at least a dozen extra mouths to feed.

Nor is this the worst of it. Occasionally the cook's relatives from another village come to pay her a visit of a fortnight or two—lasting as long as you will tolerate it—men, women and children, bringing more dogs, pigs, chickens, etc., to be housed and fed. Fortunately, they are not accustomed to "downy beds of ease" or sumptuous living, but consider themselves in clover if plentifully supplied with beans, corn meal and potato soup, and will sleep contentedly on the stones of the patio or the straw of the stable. The danger is that some of the stranger hangers on may not be as "honest" as the cook herself is supposed to be, and cases are known where thieves and even murderers thus gained admission to the inside of the casa with disastrous results.—Philadelphia Record.

There are sixteen ounces to the pound still, but two of them are wrapping paper in a good many stores.—"Letters of a Self Made Merchant."

I used to think that marriage made men old, sour and suspicious. I find I was mistaken. It is not the wife; it is the money market.—Love and the Soul Hunters.

I believe in havin' a good time when you start out to have it. If you get knocked out of one plan you want to get yourself another right quick, before your sperrits has a chance to fall.—"Lovey Mary."

How Climate Has Changed.

In Switzerland a mean temperature equal to that of north Africa at the present time is shown by its fossil flora to have prevailed during the miocene or middle tertiary epoch. Anthropoid apes lived in Germany and France; fig and cinnamon trees flourished at Dantzic; in Greenland, up to 70 degrees of latitude, magnolias bloomed and vines ripened their fruit, while in Spitzbergen and even in Grinnell Land, within little more than 8 degrees of the pole, swamp cypresses and walnuts, cedars, limes, planes and poplars grew freely, water lilies covered over standing pools and irises lifted their tall heads by the margins of streams and rivers.—Edinburgh Review.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Congress Adjourns—Hearst Speaks Up and Ridicules Knox—Samples of Justice.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 7, 1904.

The congress which "has done nothing but spend money" has dispersed itself to forty-five states and four territories and two islands of the sea. Beyond making appropriations it has done barely two of the forty or fifty important things which it came to do. The required legislation must wait upon party exigency. Four territories applied for admission to the Union as states. They can wait. The Panama canal zone is in a state of anarchy. Laws it gravely needs; but it can wait. Alaska is practically without courts of justice and Senator Nelson declared the other day in a burst of righteous wrath that congress had "not done a damn thing" for Alaska. (Allusion was thus probably made to the tinker's dam—a slight obstruction which tinsmiths make in their soldering pot to prevent the solder from spreading.) But Alaska can wait. Porto Ricans will enjoy for a while longer their inability to be naturalized as American citizens or to practice law. Congress must hurry home. Porto Rico can wait. The people were promised that trusts would have a terrible overhauling. But the trusts have given notice that they can wait. Republicans felt that to tackle any of these matters was playing with fire—dangerous business. Besides, they hadn't time.

It has been settled at last that Mr. Hearst is not confined to the Journal and American as a means of expression. He was cornered in the Judiciary Committee the other day to defend his resolution calling for the punishment of the more rapacious trusts, and he showed clearly, in a few well directed sentences, that he knew what he was talking about and could give the committee a variety of points. He was self-possessed, tactful, and vigorous, was not too dignified to use slang or too grave to crack jokes, keeping the purpose of his resolutions all the while in mind. It was discovered that he had vocal organs and even lung power, and was not merely a "yellow peril." His epigrammatic remark about the attorney general having sat on the coal trust evidence for eighteen months "like an old hen trying to hatch a door knob," has taken its place among the tropes of history.

Columbia University in this city is being revolutionized. To avoid the ambiguity occasioned by the resemblance of its name to the Columbia University of New York City, the trustees have resolved that it shall hereafter be known as the George Washington University. Moreover, it will be moved from its present site half a mile southward, down back of the State, War and Navy Department; and it will get enough for its old building opposite the Smithsonian to erect several far finer ones on the new locality. Eight magnificent marble buildings will be constructed, surrounding the site of David Bern's cottage, and it is believed that the university will assume a new position among the educational institutions of America.

The old Riggs bank opposite the Treasury is being demolished and the historic structure is now little more than a memory. It was built by Nicholas Biddle during Monroe's administration and sheltered the famous United States bank. Its public functions ceased when Roger B. Taney by direction of Andrew Jackson removed the deposits. On its site will be erected the most spacious financial temple in Washington.

A couple of months ago Governor Taft, proconsul to the Philippines, told your correspondent that he was in favor of freedom when the Filipinos were "fit for it." Now, he charges the hundreds of statesmen, scholars, and college presidents with "intermeddling" because they favor self-government there. Intermeddle, indeed, upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed? Is this the language of a servant of the republic?

The enforcement of the exclusion act against Chinese immigration is accompanied with serious abuses. A case is before the Immigration Bureau here of the editor of a Chinese paper in San Francisco. After living in this country many years he went to Pekin on business and on his return was forbidden to land, on the ground that he was "neither a teacher, a student, a merchant, nor a tourist," as the law requires. He protested that he was a teacher, being an editor, and also the teacher of a Chinese Sunday school. Knox and Cortelyou have combined to turn him down, and he is at this moment imprisoned on the wharf at San Francisco almost within sight of his property, and has been there for four months.

Another case is even more exasperating. A Chinese boy was brought here by his parents when a child. He went to the public schools, and grew to be a man; married an American girl, became the father of a large family of children, attained the position of a banker, of wealth and standing. His business affairs made a trip to Alaska necessary, and on returning from Skagway by steamer he was forbidden to land in the city of his residence, for he had been over 3 miles from shore and therefore out of the country! It seemed incredible to him. "I am an American," he protested. "I speak English almost exclusively. My interests are all here. My family is up yonder. My father and mother are here. My bank is but four blocks away. All my property is here. All my acquaintances are here. I know nobody in China or out of the United States." The authorities decided against him and this very administration has compelled him to sacrifice his property, to leave his home, parents and friends, and with his wife and children clinging to him to go from our shores an exile to China, a strange country where he has no interests whatever. How is this for a story of grievous wrong?

Miss Clara Barton is very anxious to get out of the tangle resulting from not reporting or auditing the Red Cross funds. She is willing to compromise if she can remain president.

Senator Burrow's committee investigating the Smoot case has adjourned its hearings indefinitely but will go junketing to Utah.

Utilities of Mormonism.

Sheriff Abbott of Davis county, Utah, has been before the senate committee that is engaged in Smooting. Mr. Abbott managed to shed some light. He was telling about the wives of Apostle Taylor. These ladies are five in number. In deference to the law they do not assume the name of their lord and master, but merely the motherhood of his numerous children.

One wife is known as Todd, a second as Woolley and two more wives are domestics in the employ of this pair. Thus the servant-girl question is solved in Utah. Supposing, for example, that the servant puts too much bluing in the wash or too little soda in the biscuit, the mistress need not shrink from rebuking her. "Mary," she can say, "if you do not do better I shall complain to our husband." At once the servant would be under the moral obligation involved in duty toward her conjugal apostle. She could not "give notice" and she could not quit without defying the Church and putting in peril her chance of entering heaven, as she believes.

The wife as a domestic gets no wages, so the apostle is ahead of the game. By having promised to obey she has deprived herself of the right to create a storm-centre about the domestic hearth of which she is at once the ornament and the scrubber.

Taylor must be a sly dog in other ways, too, for he can't be found. Perhaps he is out with No. 5 intent upon marrying a cook for her.—N. Y. World.

Rank Decision.

A recent ruling by the land department works a great hardship on homesteaders who desire to make proof on their claims.

According to this ruling the entrymen must make proof at the district offices to have their proofs passed upon at once.

If proof is made before the local land commissioner it cannot be approved and final receipts issued until the government's special land agent sees the land and reports favorably upon the proof.

For the homesteaders, this means that they must go to the expense of taking their witnesses to the district offices to make their proof, or make their proof before the local commissioners and wait the convenience of the special agent to visit their homesteads and make his report. The agent for the Spokane district says he now has work enough to keep him busy a year.

As it will make an extra expense of about $50 to the homesteaders around Lind to go to Spokane to make proof it may be imagined what they think of this decision.—Lind Leader.

The Yakima Democrat

Combined with the Yakima Washingtonian January 1, 1904.

BY J. D. MEDILL

Subscription $1 Per Year in Advance

Published every Saturday at the Democrat Printing House, No. 7 First street, North Yakima, Wash.

Entered at the North Yakima postoffice as second class mail matter.

The Yakima Democrat is the only Democratic Journal in Central Washington.

North Yakima, Wash., May 14, 1904.

Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of Theodore Roosevelt, and a prominent democrat of New York was nominated by Senator Hill's convention to fill a place as presidential elector on the democratic state ticket. The nomination was without Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge or consent and was presumably made at the instance of the foxy and redoubtable Senator Hill. Mr. Roosevelt promptly declined the honor stating that while he differed with the president and his party on questions of principle he had the highest regard for his nephew personally and that for personal and family reasons he would not for a moment entertain the idea of taking an active part in the campaign against him. This was the manly and natural thing for Mr. Roosevelt to do. Had he consented to have allowed his name to be used for the position he would have subjected himself to endless criticism. The elder Roosevelt may not belong to the strenuous type of politicians but he has the ear marks of a gentleman.

If Mr. Bryan was correctly quoted in referring to Judge Parker as a "simpleton" he has done vastly more harm to his own cause than to the New Yorkers' candidacy. It is clearly a case of slopping over. There can be no doubt but that Mr. Bryan's temper has been sorely tried by the contemptible campaign that has been waged against him by his political enemies calling themselves democrats, but to retaliate by applying such an undignified epithet to Judge Parker, who appears never to have had anything but a kindly feeling for him, certainly doesn't help matters any, it only makes them worse for Mr. Bryan.

The distinguished Nebraskan has received great honors at the hands of his party even though he never attained the goal of his ambition. He owes something to the party and should avoid a course that can only have the result of making the gulf that has divided the democratic party in recent years wider and deeper. Bryan is a great man but the democratic party is greater than any one man or set of men within it.

Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer, died at his London home last Tuesday morning from an attack of pleurisy, aged 63 years.

Stanley made a name that will live long in history chiefly because of his African expeditions. He was essentially a self-made man. Left an orphan at the age of three he was sent to a poorhouse where he remained 10 years. He then went to sea as cabin boy. At New Orleans he was adopted by a rich merchant named Stanley, whose name the young adventurer assumed. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in the confederate army was captured an afterwards joined the federal navy, presumably as the price of his liberty. After the war he became a war correspondent on the staff of the New York Herald and in that capacity followed the British army through Abyssinia and Egypt. His later history including his three expeditions into the wilds of Central Africa are well known. Stanley certainly leaves behind him a wonderful career, considering that he began it and laid the foundations for his future greatness in an English poor-house.

There is good reason to doubt that either Parker or Hearst will receive the democratic presidential nomination at St. Louis in July. It takes a two-thirds vote to nominate and neither is likely to come anywhere near securing the required strength. The lines are being drawn so tightly between the adherents of these two candidates that it seems inevitable that both must fail. The convention will likely be dead locked for a time between the two and the delegates on both sides will finally grow weary of the fruitless struggle and will look for a new Moses. It is likely to turn to either George B. McClellan or Charles A. Towne. That the ultra conservatives will name the candidate there is not now the least danger.

The boasted army as well as the navy of "Christian Russia" seems to be helpless and powerless pitted against the courageous heathen Japs. So far in every engagement on land as well as on sea the Russians have been routed disastrously by their despised foe. When the war begun three months ago scarcely any military or naval critic in the world would admit that Japan had any chance to win as against powerful Russia, but now the experts are apparently not doing much prophesying.

Every day the Japs appear to be doing something that astonishes the world and upsets all the fondly cherished theories of the experts in war. Although provided with all the modern implements of war the Japs are proving right along that the individual bravery and patriotism of their soldiers is just as much a factor in winning battles today as it was in the time of Alexander the Great or of Julius Caesar. How else can the bloody battle on the heights of the Yalu be accounted for?

The Roosevelt Administration has acquired the distinction of being the most expensive in our history.

The second Administration of Madison, including the war of 1812, cost $130,542, 794.

The Administration of Polk, including the Mexican war, cost $173,299,266.

The Administration of Lincoln, including the civil war, cost $3,347,802,909 in paper money, equivalent to from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 in gold.

The first Administration of McKinley, including the Spanish and Philippine wars, cost $1,906,136,611.

The Administration of Roosevelt, in unbroken peace, has cost $2,449,228,545 in gold. That is nearly four times as much as was spent under the scandalous first Administration of Grant and three times the cost of the first Administration of Cleveland.

President Roosevelt certainly comes high. Must we really have him?—N. Y. World.

The farmers of the Wenatchee valley or a considerable number of them have adopted the practice of naming their places which is certainly commendable. Our own farmers of the Yakima valley would do well to do the same thing, especially our fruit growers. By sending out their product under a label informing the public where it was produced and by transmitting their correspondence on stationery bearing the name of both the ranch and its owner they advertise their produce and their business as it should be advertised. The farmer must necessarily use business methods to attain complete success as well as any other man. His business is of a great deal more importance both to himself and the public generally than that of many other men who do employ strictly business methods.

It is a cowardly trick on the part of the republicans to charge the defeat of the commission to the railroads, says the Davenport Tribune. The last legislature was over three-fourths republican. A glance at the journals will show that democrats introduced the regulatory commission bill; the anti-pass bill; legislation which would bring about equality of taxation upon the corporations and the people alike. They were presented in good faith and met their death at the hands of the republicans. Then shift the responsibility on the railroads instead of the republican party. This is cowardice intensified.

It is now claimed that leading democrats in many of the eastern states are opposed to Judge Parker as a candidate for the presidency. These people are grooming Mayor McClellan of Greater New York, and if Tammany were to get any real following in behalf of Mayor McClellan some results might be accomplished. But under the "unit rule" New York will be compelled to vote for Parker until a majority of the delegates consent to the contrary. It is evident, therefore, that there must be a large effort made for McClellan in order that his candidacy may overshadow that of Judge Parker.—Seattle Times.

The press dispatches say that Mr. Carnegie has announced his willingness to contribute liberally to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign funds, and a million has been suggested as the possible amount. Well, why shouldn't he? Mr. Carnegie is interested in the steel trust, and as he draws a large amount of money annually from that trust he is naturally grateful. This explanation is sufficient unless some more reasonable one can be given. As Mr. Carnegie is not an imperialist he certainly cannot be supporting the president on account of the president's imperialistic views.—Commoner.

The Seattle Argus alleges that the following letter was received by a Seattle physician from a "doctor" living in Clallam county: "Dear Doc I have a pashunt whos Physical signs shos that the winpipe is ulcerated of and his lung hav dropped into his stumick. He is unabel to swaller and I fear his stumick toobe is gone. I hav giv him everything without effect his father has money is honble and influensul. He is active member in the M. E. church and God noes I don't want to lose him, what shal I do?"

J. D. Farrell of the Great Northern through the big King county delegation seems to have completely dominated the republican state convention and to have dictated the ticket practically from top to bottom.

A superstitious subscriber who found a spider in his paper, wants to know if it is considered a bad omen. Nothing of the kind. The spider was merely looking over the columns of the paper to see what merchant was not advertising so that it could spin its web across his store and be free from disturbance.—Maple Falls Leader.

The Yakima democrats have reason to feel well pleased at the selection of Senator Splawn of this county as a delegate to the democratic national convention. The fact that he received the highest vote of any candidate in the field is evidence of his worth as well as his popularity among the leading democrats of the state.

The Red Men and their visitors owned the town this week. The meeting of the great council of that order for the jurisdiction of Washington and Idaho in North Yakima was a complete success in every way, the attendance from abroad being as large as anticipated. The Red Men are all right and are welcome to come again.

The editors of our two local republican contemporaries took a lay off this week from their arduous labors and hid themselves away to the "city of destiny" there to lend their aid in the political crucifixion of Gov. McBride. It is to be hoped at any rate that during the performance of this "painful duty" the brethren of the local press were for once in full and complete harmony.

County Superintendent Dickey bobbed up serenely at the Tacoma convention as a candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, making four avowed candidates from Yakima besides those under cover. Yakima seems to produce candidates this year with the same prodigality that she does alfalfa and potatoes.

Col. Robertson wired his paper from Tacoma Wednesday that Frank H. Kidkin would be nominated my acclamation for supreme judge and that Ira P. Englehart would be named as his successor as superior judge of this district. Perhaps it is to be Judge Englehart instead of Senator Englehart.

General Grosvenor is supporting President Roosevelt with such vigor and verbiosity, says the Commoner, that it is quite evident that the president was right when he alluded in his book, "American Ideals," to Grosvenor as "a champion of foul government and dishonest methods."

The congressmen from this state, Jones, Cushman and Humphries, apparently had no trouble in securing renominations at Tacoma this week although a number of aspiring statesmen were on hand ready to step into their shoes. Luck seems to pursue some men in politics.

Messrs. Dunn, Whitson, Robertson and Boardman composed the steering committee of the Yakima delegation at Tacoma. From all accounts these gentlemen tied the republicans of this county up so tight to the railroad lobby that the squeezing process is likely to hurt.

Prof. Barge on leaving for the republican state convention last Monday was asked if he was one of the five (McBride delegates). "I am one of the 19," replied the crafty old veteran in politics.

The Yakima delegation seems to have been properly in the swim at Tacoma. Col. Ed. Whitson was elected chairman of the state convention and presided with characteristic dignity and grace.

Retreat is painful but now indispensable, wires General Kuropatkin to the Czar. Of course, "Kuro," of course. While the world is looking on with a grin it appreciates your position.

The knocks at the trusts by Attorney General Knox, says the Olympia Tappayer, are like the gentle tappings of a lover on the window of the chamber where his love lies dreaming.

The heathen Japs by their considerate treatment of the wounded and dead Russians are giving an object lesson in humanity to the so-called Christian nations.

At this writing it appears that A. E. Meade of Whatcom county would be the republican nominee for governor. Who the d— is Meade?

HAROLD PRESTON OBJECTS

To the Political Murder of Gov. McBride—Shall the People or the Lobby Rule?

The following is a copy of a communication written by Hon. Harold Preston of Seattle to the editor of the Post-Intelligencer and published in that paper May 8th:

To the Editor—Inasmuch as I have been the recipient of many kindnesses from Gov. McBride at a time when I was the representative of this county in a pending contest, as well as at other times, I will be pardoned for feeling and expressing dissatisfaction with your editorial of May 6. The editorial has for its text the statement that "Gov. McBride is defeated as a candidate to succeed himself. He will not be nominated," and you follow that statement with what you consider the reasons for that result. It is not my purpose to discuss whether or no he will be defeated. The convention will determine that, but I will assume for the purposes of this communication that he is to be defeated, and so assuming, I ask how, by whom, and why is he defeated, and what will be the result of his defeat?

The King county delegation to the state convention (115 strong) is to be named by King county's candidate for United States senator. It is to be voted as a unit. If that vote be cast for McBride it would nominate him. Inasmuch as he is to be defeated, it follows that that vote is to be cast bodily against him. An attempt to obtain an expression from the republicans of this county in favor of McBride was frustrated by the plea that it was necessary that the senatorial candidate should be privileged to name and vote as a unit the delegation of 115 in the interest of his candidacy. Now it frankly develops (see your editorial) that these 115 votes are to be cast solidly against McBride. The conclusion is irresistible that Mr. Piles' candidacy has been used in this county to secure from the county a solid anti-McBride delegation to the state convention. It was put into form through the machinery of a county convention, which at the same time permitted the renomination for the state legislature of five of the nine house members, who had violated the instruction of the last preceding county convention, and had betrayed the then candidate for United States senator, whose candidacy had received the unanimous endorsement of that (last preceding) county convention.

Inasmuch as the 115 votes of King county, added to the votes which are instructed for McBride from other counties, would nominate him, the query how McBride is to be defeated? is plainly answered; but I ought not to conclude without mentioning the fact that the "favorite son" plea has been used in somewhat the same manner and to the same end in other counties; e. g., Whatcom, Snohomish, Jefferson, Thurston and Chelan.

By the railroad companies owning or operating lines of railway in the state. The answer is so plain in the light of the political history of the state of Washington for at least four years last past that I apprehend no discussion of it is necessary.

Because he has dared to oppose the control of his party by these companies; because he has been brave enough to denounce their political methods and purposes without cessation; because he has time and again publicly offered to stand or fall with that issue; and because, he being the strong man that he is, the man of pre-eminent ability in his party in the state, the man of positive character and uncompromising fighting ability, it has seemed necessary to those companies to crush him in order to demonstrate anew to those having political ambitions that no republican in the state of Washington can aspire to political preferment unless he is willing to bend the knee to them, and that to him who will do their bidding in office and in convention and elsewhere, no political ambition may be too lofty.

The mistake is often made of stating the principle for which Gov. McBride stands to be the establishment of a state railroad commission and insinuating of that as "his hobby." In fact, the desire for the creation of a railroad commission, while genuine, and in my judgment praiseworthy, is but a drop in the bucket. The issue is larger—it is tremendous. Shall the state be governed by the people of the state, or by the great corporations? For, as the dominant party is controlled, so is the state. McBride happens to be the exponent of one side of the question. McBride the man, may be defeated, but the issue still lives; it will not die. Party lines do not and will not contain it. So truly and fully is McBride the representative of the issue that his defeat will be regarded, generally, and justly, as the defeat of the principle involved.

The state is full—certainly some localities of the state are full of republicans who are determined some day or other to free their party from the railroad yoke at any cost. Will not those men and their representatives in the legislature attribute the continuance of the existing condition primarily, or in large part at least, to the one county in the state whose vote in the state convention is large enough to have removed the yoke? If they do, what good will have been accomplished for King county, and how will its efforts for the senatorship have been aided by the defeat of Henry McBride?

Respectfully,
HAROLD PRESTON.
Seattle, Wash., May 6.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Adopted by the State Convention at Olympia May 5, 1904—An Able and Terse Statement of Party Principles.

"The democrats of Washington in convention assembled declare our devotion to the principles of free representative government laid down in the Declaration of Independence and in the other writings and state papers of Thomas Jefferson; insist that those principles shall be applied in the conduct of the government, both at home and abroad wherever the flag of the nation floats, and condemn the republican party for its contemptuous disregard of those principles.

"We believe that those principles were correctly applied in the platform declarations of the national democratic party in 1896 and 1900, and so far as those declarations are applicable to present conditions we reaffirm them heartily and cordially and insist on their reaffirmation by the national democratic convention, soon to assemble at St. Louis.

"We likewise insist on the nomination of candidates in sympathy with those declarations and whose lives and records constitute an assurance that they will loyally and earnestly give them effective application in the conduct of the government.

"The nation is administered with extravagance and its departments honeycombed with corruption; it is being embroiled in the contentions and controversies of the old world; its domestic affairs are controlled by an oligarchy of wealth which insists on laying contributions on all other classes while exempting itself from the just burdens of government, and it has been made to follow in the footsteps of the tyrannical governments of Europe in the attempt to establish an unrepresentative colonial system abroad.

"This condition of affairs calls emphatically for a return to the tradition of Jefferson, and these embrace as especially applicable to the present situation, simplicity and economy in government, wise and safe conservation of the interests of the American people at home, no grants of special privileges to any class and no exemptions from public burdens, and a rigorous application of the principles of freedom as enunciated in the Declaration of Independence in all the dealings of the government at home and abroad.

"The unnecessary and burdensome tariff wall erected around the country in the interests of the manufacturing classes must be broken down; the trusts which have grown up as the result of the tariff wall, must be destroyed; the system of compelling the consumer to bear all the burdens of government by the payment of tariff taxes must be departed from; wealth must be compelled to contribute to the government in the shape of an income tax, an inheritance tax and in increased internal taxes, and, finally, there must be a cessation of militarism, imperialism and colonialism as presented by the Philippine policy of the republican party.

"Upon these principles we appeal with confidence for the co-operation of all conservative and patriotic American citizens.

"We express our continual confidence in the capacity, the character, courage and fidelity to true democracy manifested by our standard bearer in the contests of 1896 and 1900, William J. Bryan.

"We, therefore, direct our delegates to the national convention at St. Louis to act as a unit upon all questions under the following instructions:

"First—To work and vote only for such national platform declarations as are consistent with the declaration of this state convention in letter and in spirit.

"Second—To oppose any policy of declaration which involves or implies any surrender or compromise of principles as above set forth.

"Third—To cast their influence and vote only for the nomination of such candidates for president and vice president whose active loyalty to democratic principles as set forth in the platforms of 1896 and 1900 is a safe guarantee of their fidelity to those principles applied to the problems of 1904.

"We heartily endorse as our candidate for vice president, George Turner, a jurist of high rank, a peerless citizen, in sympathy with the declarations of this platform, and a statesman whose efforts in behalf of the people make him entitled to be considered as worthy of the highest honors within the gift of the party."
