OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE following is from an editorial in last week's Republic: "Imperialism is a bugaboo. It had its beginning and will have its end in the exuberant fancy of Mr. Bryan and other gentlemen who are now more or less distinguished citizens in private life disturbed with the ambition to fill public life." Such has ever been the language of sycophants in the hire of despots and schemers for despotic power since in remote ages first began the struggle of man for his natural rights. While bending all their energies to sap the foundations of free government, while with one hand plunging into the bleeding body of liberty the assassin's knife and with the other hand reaching the "itching palm" to some arch conspirator for the wages of their crime, these betrayers of their country ever try to lull their fellow citizens into false security by clamorously abusing the defenders of liberty and shouting: There is no danger to freedom; the people are secure in their rights; imperialism is a bugaboo. Like our Yakima Imperialist, (miscalled Republic) its very name a false pretense—these obsequious tools of despotism, to dupe their countrymen, ever shout, that the shrieks of liberty expiring beneath their foul blows, are but the nightmare exclamations of her patriotic defenders. True to this historic law that despotism, while with sword in hand wreaking destruction upon liberty, ever from her treacherous mouth pours honeyed words of love for the people, to sweeten their tempers to their undoing, the republican party, having established despotism in Porto Rico, and with the sword having cleared the ground for imperial despotism in the Philippines, now, by its papers hypocritically protests itself the friend of freedom and declares that imperialism is a bugaboo. Imperialism a bugaboo! To what base use has the republican party descended, to turn against the American people from its many thousand tongues of paper, this barefaced, hateful lie—a lie, if believed by the people, loaded with destruction to their liberties. So far from imperial despotism being a bugaboo, it now looms upon the political horizon, portentous of destruction to our free institutions, so big and black and menacing that none can fail to see it, save those blinded by selfish interests or servile party prejudice. More than this: Imperialism is not merely a menace against the future. Imperial despotism is an established fact; an actual working feature of our government; a hateful reality. By the law denying to Porto Rico the benefits of the provision of our constitution that "all duties shall be uniform throughout the United States," and compelling the Porto Ricans to pay a tariff tax not paid by the rest of our people, the present administration has enforced and is enforcing despotic government over Porto Rico; has actually made and is enforcing over a part of the United States a law which is acknowledged to be contrary to the constitution of the United States, if the constitution applies to Porto Rico. But pending the passage of this law for taxation without representation in Porto Rico, the republican leaders in and out of congress, argued that the authority of congress over Porto Rico and all our newly acquired territory was absolute and without any constitutional restraints whatever. These views prevailed with this administration and in pursuance thereof the tariff law against the Porto Ricans was passed and they are now groaning, as groaned our revolutionary sires, beneath the burden of taxation without representation, and that a tax imposed against them, but not upon the rest of our people. Bear in mind that this invidious tax imposed upon the Porto Ricans is acknowledged by all to be contrary to the constitution of the United States, if the constitution is applicable to the Porto Ricans, and that this administration, after long discussion, adopted the false theory that the constitution does not apply to our newly acquired territory, and in passing said law acted upon the theory that congress can make any law it wants to for such territory, without paying any attention whatever to the constitutional restrictions upon congress. Thus is established by this administration, a government by congress over Puerto Rico without any constitutional restrictions whatever—a government that can deny the people the right to bear arms, the right to peaceably assemble for redress of grievances, the right of jury trial, the right to freedom of speech and religious worship, in short, all those sacred constitutional rights and liberties to secure which our revolution was fought and our constitution adopted. That kind of a government now actually enforced over Porto Rico is despotism, pure and simple. The Century Dictionary defines despotism to be "Authority unlimited and uncontrolled by constitutional restrictions." Now, that is exactly the kind of authority the republican party expressly claims congress has over our newly acquired territory, and exactly the kind of authority that congress, controlled by that party is actually exercising over the Porto Ricans, in taxing them invidiously and without representation, even as our revolutionary fathers were taxed. Porto Rico, reeking the blood of Spanish despotism, welcoming us as saviors, with outstretched hands, and eyes suffused with tears of joy and gratitude for deliverance, is, by this perfidious administration cruelly, ruthlessly, crushed back again upon the rack of despotism, condemned to the same kind of government that she had groaned under for centuries, government by another people unrestrained by constitutional restrictions. Despotism in Porto Rico was doubtless established to serve as a precedent for despotism in the Philippines. And if the republican party is not hurled from power, it will no doubt smooth its way to despotic rule in the Philippines by this precedent of outraged Porto Rico, and for what outrage upon the fair person of liberty will the Philippines serve as a precedent? Cuba? Very likely. And who next may feel the weight of the precedents of despotism? With despotism established upon our islands, it will be but an easy step to plant it upon the mainland. For precedents of tyranny, by numbers and time, gain momentum to sweep away the strongest holds of liberty. With imperialism actually established in Porto Rico, with the way paved to imperialism in the Philippine Islands, with our political atmosphere charged with the spirit of imperialism, with our political horizon rent by its lightnings, and its thunders rolling from pole to pole, the republican party, itself committed to despotic rule, true to its hypocritical traditions, rears its iniquitous head and shouts above the din, that imperialism is a bugaboo!

THE republican national platform promises to the people of the Philippines "the largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties." Abraham Lincoln disposed of this specious plea, used in his time, as it has been in every time, by the apologists of government without the consent of the governed. In the course of one of his famous series of speeches replying to Douglas the first republican president said: "These arguments that are made, that the inferior race are to be treated with as much allowance as they are capable of enjoying; that as much is to be done for them as their condition will allow—what are these arguments? They are the arguments that kings have made for enslaving the people in all ages of the world. You will find that all the arguments in favor of kingcraft were of this class; that they always bestrode the necks of the people, not that they wanted to do it, but because the people were better off for being ridden. Turn it whatever way you will, whether it comes from the mouth of a king, an excuse for enslaving the people of the country, or from the mouth of men of one race for enslaving the men of another, it is all the same old serpent." Thus clearly and emphatically has Abraham Lincoln bequeathed to us his judgment on the Philippine policy of William McKinley.—N. Y. World.

THE spectacle of Marcus Hanna pacing along the stage and waving a long plume, and trying to work up a great demonstration over the renomination of William McKinley for president is entitled to take a place as a solemn omen of the campaign. The fact seems to be that the convention was so listless that the Boss and a bass drum were all that saved it from being a funeral.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

CLOUD BURST DID IT

In Union Gap a Mile Below Yakima City.

Hurls a Great Mass of Earth and Rock on the N. P. Railway Track.

On the afternoon of the Fourth word was received from Yakima City that there had been a landslide east of that burg and that the Northern Pacific track was covered up for a distance of sixty feet and four or five feet deep.

A reporter visited the scene of the small flood and found that at the last end of the gap a mass of earth spread over the track for quite a distance, and train No. 1, struck hard and fast with the tender and a baggage car off the track. The engine pilot was knocked off, which was about all the damage to be seen. A force of men were put at work on the wreck and were not long in clearing the track so that traffic could be resumed.

The cloud burst which caused the accident occurred between 1 and 2 o'clock, only a short time before the west bound North Coast Limited was due and as there is a very sharp curve a short distance east of where the track was obstructed, it is a miracle that the entire train was not wrecked. Some of the passengers were considerably shaken up, but no serious injuries were received.

Up the draw in the mountain side down which the volume of water came, for a distance of half a mile or more the greatest effects of the cloud burst are discernable, and it shows plainly that in the narrow parts of the canyon the water was from six to eight feet deep. Great boulders have been raised from the beds of the dry gulch and hurled up the mountain side, while tons of earth and rock had been sent down on and across the railroad track. The wagon roadway is much cut away and is in a dangerous condition.

On the east side of the Yakima river the waters played havoc with the wagon road. At the approach to the bridge an immense quantity of debris was washed down and obstructed traffic in that direction. A gentleman on his way from Parker to this city was caught in the storm about a mile below the bridge, and he thought his time had come. He stated that the water came down in a sheet and with terrific force. The storm's path was probably a mile in width, with its center in the gap, while the rain fell as far west as Wenas and as far east as Toppenish. No damage other than on the railroad has been reported.

Warning to Bicyclists.

The bicycle ordinance is being violated by a great many people, and Marshal Grant wishes it stated that on and after Monday, July 9, the ordinance governing this matter will be strictly enforced. All must obey it.

An Unconscionable Bigot.

Mark Hanna said in opening the Philadelphia convention, the other day: "There had been no mistake made in bringing the convention to this city. There was the cradle of liberty, the birthplace of the republic and the republican party." It seems a little strange that the party which repudiates the declaration of independence, and tramples upon the constitution, should boast of anything else that is left of patriotic memory. Mark is just a little mistaken, however, in his statement. The "cradle of liberty" has been transferred to Kansas City, and on the anniversary of that glorious day when the independence bell pealed the glad tidings of the birth of a new and free nation, will be reaffirmed the grand principles which gave us strength to achieve victory and acquire place among the leading nations of earth. It is a wonder the great fraud did not repeat his sacrilegious boast that "God reigns and the republican party still lives."—Olympia Standard.

At the Fair Grounds.

There were probably more people at the State Fair grounds on the Fourth of July than at any one time previously. It had been thought that as there was so much going on at other places this year—with celebrations, picnics, and the large number going to Tacoma and Seattle—there would be no celebration in this city; but the stay-at-homes concluded to raise a few dollars for prize money, go to the fair grounds and have a nice little picnic. They did not calculate properly, however, as the large number of people present testified. At the noon hour the grove was filled with merry lunch parties, who had barely finished eating when a thunder storm came up, and before all could get to shelter, some pretty toilets were ruined. The storm was of but short duration, and at 1 o'clock the program was begun.

The literary program was cut short by rain, but it did not interfere with the sports which were fully carried out.

For all kinds of horse feed go to the Yakima Mill company's store.

Summer Rates to the Seaside.

Larson's Theater July 10th.

There is no more enjoyable or wholesome form of amusement than negro minstrelsy. It marked the happiest hours of our younger days and let sunshine into our juvenile lives. The advent of the circus with its street parade, and its clowns, with their funny antics, and the arrival of the minstrel show with its merry end men were two events which will always be fondly remembered.

The announcement of a minstrel show will always awaken interest, and particularly if the company stands foremost in the field of this line of amusement, which is the case with "Wright's Original Nashville Students" and Gideon's Big Minstrel Carnival" which appears at Larson's theater Tuesday, July 10.

This big show has been twenty-five years before the public. It shows its progressiveness by evolving from a southern college Glee club into a mammoth organization that requires its own train of special cars to travel in. It carries two big Peerless bands, one Grand Symphony orchestra, forty-five in its roster: comedians galore, and acts of every description known to both minstrelsy and vaudeville; acrobats, quartettes, sextettes of male and female voices; jugglers; slack wire walkers; tumblers; buck and wing dancers, and a host of features novel and original never before seen in a minstrel show. The best of the "old style" of minstrelsy is retained, and the brightest of the present day ideas added. Every detail in the management of this mammoth organization bears evidence of strength and thorough business methods. Twenty-five years in this particular line of amusement is a sufficient guarantee of the manner in which it treats its patrons—giving them the best for the least money—presenting with the same care the same identically magnificent performance in the smaller cities that it crowds houses with in the large cities. No vulgar feature, or its suggestiveness is permitted and the programme is selected with a view of particularly pleasing the lady and children patrons, as well as the male. The sale of seats is now on at Briggs & Dam's music store.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer about one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for its list of testimonials. Address,

FROM THE GOLD HILLS.

An Expert's Opinion of Some Yakima Mining Properties.

J. C. Carter, the mining expert, who recently returned from the Gold Hill district, makes a very flattering report on the properties examined by him. He regards it as a wonderful mining district—one that will before long attract the attention of the mining world.

Mr. Carter went into the hills in the interest of the Yakima Gold Mining company; but while there made an inspection of a number of other properties. Of the report on the Yakima Gold Mining company's properties, made last summer, the public are informed. This company will put a force of men at work immediately driving a tunnel one hundred feet, at which depth it is thought the vein will be tapped.

In speaking of other properties Mr. Carter stated that one—the Blue Bell was a wonder, as regards the quantity of ore. There is a whole mountain of it, and further stated that it was the richest mine he had ever inspected. Capital and transportation facilities are all that are needed to make the Gold Hill the greatest mining camp in the northwest.

In the meantime what is Yakima doing to corral the trade of this district when the capital does come. Is she going to improve the means of transportation, or is she going to allow some other town to secure the trade of this rich section? No one is going to help us in this matter and if we delay the golden opportunity will be forever lost.

At Tacoma and Seattle.

The Yakima contingent at Tacoma and Seattle on the Fourth was greater than any previous year, probably 150 people attending the two celebrations. Among those who went by Monday mornings train were the following people.

James and daughter, B. E. Parton and family, P. Ager and family, Mrs. D. M. Chanks, Mrs. A. N. Sinclair, Mrs. M. E. Merwin.

On Thursday morning the following were passengers for the Sound cities:

Fred Pennington and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dudley, Miles Cannon and son, Wm. Lee, jr., and daughter, and Company C composed of 50 men, and a number of others whose names the reporter was unable to obtain.

What a Woman Needs.

In the preparation of this article we made many examinations and investigations of the different methods of treatment and remedies for all the ills so common to the female sex, and our investigation has brought forth the fact that nothing proves so uniformly successful in restoring health and happiness to worn out women as the "Viavi Treatment," and we also found that this was the opinion of the most careful and scientific medical men of this country. This system of treatment has been remarkably successful in all cases of chronic diseases peculiar to women. No more trouble, misery, and suffering are among the speedy results after its use, as it certainly represents the latest and best treatment for all complaints of women's diseases. It has been proven by years of success and the testimony of thousands of ladies, including the highest and most noted of the women of the United States and England, who have been restored to health and the enjoyment of life by reason of "Viavi Treatment" even after all other methods of treatment had been tried and found wanting. The "Viavi remedies" are composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, and are manufactured under conditions of perfect cleanliness. Upon entering the system it supplies at once a clean, wholesome food to the muscular tissues and nervous fibres. It makes the circulation full and vigorous, and in this way enables the veins to carry to the organs of elimination all the impurities which it is their function to remove from the body. It acts as a prompt specific for all nervous and other troubles common to women, including irregularities, prostration, headache, anemia, palpitation of the heart and the thousand and one ills peculiar to the sex.—Extract from the National Health Journal.

Vampires Not Bloodsuckers.

Mr. James Rhen, who is engaged in a special study of bats, says that it is a fallacy that the vampire is a blood-sucker. Travelers and story writers are responsible for the story of the terrible bloodsucking vampire bats of South America. Nearly all general writers on this subject agree with them as to its criminal record, and they all concur in laying the blame on a large grotesque looking bat with an enormous leaf nose, the Vampyrus spectrum. This bat is common in South and Central America and, from his great size, being about two feet across the outspread wings, is a suggestive and repulsive enough object to impute the blood loving habit to.

As a matter of fact, this is a somewhat useful animal and is totally innocent of these charges, the bloodsuckers being two much smaller and rarer bats. The front teeth of these two latter are enormous lancets occupying over half the tooth row of the animals and possessing very sharp edges, which can easily penetrate the human skin. The teeth of the big vampire, on the other hand, are simply adapted for a diet of insects and fruit. The true bloodsucking bats are much rarer than the vampire.—Philadelphia Record.

Changed by Circumstances.

"Where's your watch?" asked the observant man.

"Why, here it is," replied the man whose prosperity had slipped a cog or two recently.

"But that's a silver one. The one you used to carry had a handsome gold case."

"Well—er—circumstances alter cases, you know."—Philadelphia Press.

Slow Work.

"Maria, you let that young Bobster stay last night until 1 o'clock."

"But, mamma, you told me I must give him time to propose."

"But five hours!"

"Why, mamma, you know he stutters."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Philadelphia platform is a flat, vapid, platitudinous and slovenly stump speech. Just one thing the republican party has done for which credit is due it. It has established the gold standard. This is the source of the national prosperity about which the platform says so much. The gold standard has given confidence in money and business, and the people do the rest. The chief fruits of "protection" on which the platform makers have spent their record is support of great trusts and further enrichment of great millionaires.—Portland Oregonian.

THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT

NORTH YAKIMA, WASH., JULY 7, 1900

A Young Democrats Talks.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT—It has long been known that the republican party is the originator and protector of trusts and monopolies, and that almost every article of commerce and public utility is controlled by trusts whose managers are growing rich at the expense of the great mass of consumers, under the fostering care of republicanism, but it remained for the platform adopted at Philadelphia to declare to the republican party the exclusive ownership and control, or in other words a monopoly of a commodity or attribute of civilization, that has hitherto been regarded as an inherent birth right of man. This latest addition to the long list of trust controlled articles and which bears the official stamp of Hanna is no less an article than the brains, good sense and ability to conduct public affairs which was at one time possessed by the American people in general.

Here are the words which proclaim to the world this latest republican acquisition. "In asking the American people to indorse the republican record and to renew their conviction to the republican party, we remind them of the fact that the menace to their prosperity has always resided in democratic principles and no less in the general incapacity to conduct public affairs.

The prime essential of business prosperity is public confidence in the good sense of the government and its ability to deal intelligently with all new problems of administration and legislation. That confidence the democratic party has never earned. It is hopelessly inadequate and the country's prosperity, when democratic victory at the polls is announced halts and ceases in mere anticipation of blunders and failures."

Let us recall the facts that have occasioned the astounding declaration. History gives no vindication of this statement except the occurrence of 1893; hence this must be the occasion these wise statesmen had in mind when prosperity halted and ceased. The republican press and orators have devoted their entire time and energy during the intervening seven years explaining to a long suffering public that this panic was due to changes in that convenient carryall and controller of a nation's prosperity (?)—the American tariff laws. But now this platform in convention adopted repudiates the past teachings of its supporters and tells us that it was due solely to a mere anticipation of blunders that might be committed.

In the preceding thirty years of practically uninterrupted republican control, almost every principle which they advocated had been placed in the statutes.

Posing as the liberators of the slaves and defenders of equality among men, they were returned again and again to power, and unwatched by the confiding people, were enacting law after law tending to place our currency, the life blood of the nation, under control of those who were unscrupulous enough to use it to their advantage. The people finally saw where they were drifting to and demanded a change. Within two months after the change had been accomplished and before any adverse legislation had been enacted the country was in the throes of a panic whose details are too harrowing and yet familiar need recounting here.

Then we must honor these Philadelphia sages as the discoverers of the one true, great and all-controlling factor in the affairs of nations, and we must surrender to them full control of our brain power and acting on this newly discovered force we must set our imaginations at work to conjure up wonderful anticipations of prosperity and we will soon be engulfed in such waves and floods of prosperity that we will be able to appreciate the words of Nerissa to Portia. "For ought I see they are as sick that surfeit with too much as they that starve with nothing. It is no mean happiness then to be seated in the mean."

A Hint to Letter Writers.

The practice of writing private letters from the first to the third page of a letter sheet and then going back to the second page is a matter of taste, but it will not do to follow that course of procedure in writing legal documents.

The New York courts have disallowed the provisions of a will written in this way. The testator wrote the will on three sides of a folded paper, commencing on the first page and continuing on the third page, at the top of which was written "second page," and completing and signing the instrument on a page marked "third page," which, in fact, was the second page of the sheet.

The court held that the will was not signed at the physical end, as required by the statute. The law does not contemplate going backward in order to get forward, and the will was refused probate. The New York court of appeals sustained the decision throwing out this form of will.—Boston Herald.

A Discouraging Entry.

The performance of the Shakespearean drama of "Hamlet" was dragging itself slowly along.

The time had come for the appearance of the ghost.

There was a slight delay owing to the tardiness of the ghost in responding to its cue.

The profound stillness that followed was broken by a loud voice in the front row of the main balcony:

"Mamma, there are 37 men down there with round white spots on top of their heads."

And no stage ghost ever made its appearance under more discouraging auspices than the armor clad phantom that came stalking upon the stage at this moment.—Chicago Tribune.

Parrots Natural Gymnasts.

The curious gymnastic feats which parrots sometimes perform in their cages have been ascribed to the desire of the birds to vary the monotony of their life in captivity. That was the opinion of Mrs. Mandsley, the wife of the Central American explorer, until she lived in the forest region near Copan, where she saw the parrots in a state of perfect freedom indulging in all the feats practiced by their caged cousins.

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 29, 1900.

Naturally, Mr. McKinley is being harshly criticised for going away from Washington for an indefinite stay just after he has issued orders which commit this government to a participation in the war which the combined European powers are preparing to wage on China. He must have felt that he was doing wrong in going to Canton, where he and Boss Hanna are to fix up his letter of acceptance and other campaign matters, as before leaving he tried to give out the impression that he regarded the trouble in China as about all over, after the Chinese minister announced the safety of diplomats and other foreigners who were all reported killed in Peking by the European manufacturers of news. But the Chinese minister made another announcement, which made it plain that the trouble is just beginning, and that was that the fight at Taku was started by the demand by the European fleet for the surrender of the Chinese forts, and not by the firing of the forts on the fleet. Europe is going to break China up, and Mr. McKinley is going to help. That is the way things now look.

All the monkey business in the postal service is not monopolized by the Cuban branch, not by a whole lot. There is much gossip in Washington concerning the purchase of time clocks for all free delivery postoffices and expensive type writers for offices having receipts of $30,000 and over by the postoffice department, and much of it implies that private individuals have had big "rake offs" out of the purchase money. The odd things about the time clocks is that they are of the same make as those introduced in the treasury department several years ago and which stirred up the indignation of congressmen to such an extent that they were by vote of congress ordered taken out. Then it was that the man with the big "pull" got the postoffice authorities to see what a good thing those same time clocks were and to agree to pay the regular retail price, $1.25 each for them, although about 800 of them were purchased. Letter carriers and other postoffice employees have to have their time records made by these clocks, which congress declared degrading and disgraceful when used in the treasury department. They can ask their congressmen to explain the administration code of ethics which makes it right and proper to deal with postal employees of free delivery offices in a manner which congress declared to be degrading and disgraceful when applied to employees of the treasury department.

China isn't the only country in which foreigners are sometimes wrongfully treated, as may be seen by the following experience in Washington, told by himself, of Mr. F. V. Postels, an architect from St. Petersburg, Russia: "I have been traveling in this country quite extensively, studying the architecture of American cities and observing American methods of constructing big buildings. I noticed a building in course of construction, in Washington, where a steam elevator was being used to hoist the brick. I was much interested, as in Russia the builders have the bricks carried aloft by manual labor entirely, and having a camera with me, I accosted a workman and explained that I would like to take some pictures of the building, especially the elevator. Hardly had I adjusted my camera when a big chunk of dirt was thrown at me by one of the laborers. I was somewhat surprised, but brushed my clothes and again adjusted my camera. Then there flew at me a great bunch of mortar, which ruined my hat and came near spoiling my clothes." It is fortunate for the good name of our country that such ill mannerly treatment of strangers is exceptional with us.

The deeper the public gets into expenditures in Cuba since the occupation of the island by our troops the plainer it becomes that there has been the wildest extravagance in every direction. The latest exposure concerns the military hospital near Havana. $200,000 have been expended on this hospital, all the plans being on the basis of furnishing accommodations for 2,500 patients, while at no one time has it had more than 80. In order to shift some of the responsibility for maintaining this extravagant establishment the military authorities, by a little juggling among themselves, have leased it to the city of Havana, to be used as a general hospital, although everybody familiar with conditions over there knows that the city was already amply supplied with hospitals.

There is a persistent report around Washington that Perry Heath has been asked to resign the position of first assistant postmaster general, because of the publication of fact that he was one of those who vouched for Neely and procured his appointment. According to this story, this is not to punish Heath, but to bamboozle the public. He is again to have charge of Hanna's literary bureau, and if Mr. McKinley is re-elected will be given something "equally as good" next year.

In New York's New Rich Society.

A salient feature of the reign of the new rich is the habit of estimating a man's success in life solely by the money he has acquired. There are gatherings of society in New York where if the question were asked about a fellow citizen, "Has he been successful?" the answer would be in the negative had the person inquired about not accumulated wealth. No matter whether he had served his country as a soldier, statesman or philanthropist, had led the youth of his generation as a college president, had been an educator of the people in school or pulpit, had achieved wide renown as a jurist, had written a great book, had held multitudes enthralled by his poetry, had painted noble pictures, had advanced science or surgery, had created a leading newspaper or magazine! Nothing of all this tells. He is not a "success" because he has not piled up dollars to flaunt in the world's face!—Saturday Evening Post.

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

STAVING OFF A BILL.

THE GRAND PROMOTER EXEMPLIFIES IT AS A FINE ART.

Major Crofoot Organizes a New Scheme of Gigantic Proportions and Generously Takes In His Printer on the Ground Floor.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

It was the printer with his bill for $3,000 office cards, and he knocked on Major Crofoot's office door in that half hearted way adopted by creditors who feel that they must call and yet have no faith that the bill will be paid.

"Come in, and good morning to you—good morning!" shouted the major as he sprang up and extended his hand and shook so heartily that the caller's hat was nearly jostled off his head. When the shaking had been concluded, he said:

"I have been expecting you up here every day for a week, and if you hadn't called today I should have sent a messenger to hunt you up. Did you remember to bring the bill?"

"Yes, sir," replied the printer as he handed it over.

"Good! Let's see. It's for $4.50, and I pronounce it correct—absolutely correct. There never was a more correct account rendered—never in this commercial world. And now you want a check for it, of course? I must ask you to excuse me that this trifle has run so long, but when a man is dealing in millions he is apt to forget dollars."

"That is all right, major," replied the printer as a soft smile stole over his face, and he began wondering why he had ever called the promoter a dead beat.

"Thanks for your confidence—your financial confidence. I like men to have confidence in me. Let me tell you, sir, that the man who puts his trust in Major Crofoot, grand promoter, gigantic originator and tremendous consolidator, loses nothing by it. Here is a bill for $4.50. It has run for weeks and months. Instead of wearing out the stairs and pounding on my door, you have been content to let time slip along. You felt that your money was safe. You believed that I would pay on presentation. Ah, sir, but I love to witness such exhibitions of confidence—I love to do it! Let us shake hands again."

"I'm in a bit of a hurry this morning," remarked the printer as a doubt suddenly entered his mind and sent a chill up his back.

"Ah, yes, of course you are—of course—and my time is also limited, but do you know what I am going to do? Instead of debating about a bill for $4.50, I am going to talk to you of thousands and hundreds of thousands and millions. My dear man, you have arrived at an opportune moment. It almost seems as if the hand of Providence was in it. Having displayed your confidence in the financial integrity of Major Crofoot and arrived at an opportune moment, what follows?"

"You pay the bill for $4.50," replied the printer.

"It follows, sir—it follows as naturally as night follows day, but with a heap more cash in it—that I take you in on the ground floor. Behold those papers on my desk. I had just ceased to figure when you came in. I had finished the last line of my prospectus. Behold, sir—behold the organization of the Wide World Chicken and Infant Raising company with a capital of $20,000,000!"

"Major, I called!"

"You called, sir—you called at an opportune moment. By calling you put it in my power to prove my gratitude in something besides words. What is the Wide World Chicken and Infant Raising company? As its name implies, the object is to raise chickens and infants. How, sir, how? Ah, that is Major Crofoot's great discovery, which has enabled him to organize a company on a basis of $20,000,000. The discovery is not original, but we apply it as it has never been applied before. We incubate chickens, but by the million instead of the score. Take your pencil and figure a little."

"But I came up for my $4.50," said the printer in ugly tones.

"Take your pencil and figure. Eggs can be bought for 20 cents a dozen. For 2 cents additional one dozen chickens can be produced. Four cents more and you have a dozen spring chickens worth 50 cents apiece at the incubator; total for eggs, incubating and feeding, 30 cents; total for chickens, $6; clear profit to divide up on every dozen, $5.70. Can Cripple Creek or the diamond mines beat it? We produce 20,000,000 dozen chickens per year. Figure it out, man, figure it out. Do you want greater dividends than 70 per cent on your capital? If you do!"

"What about this bill?" demanded the printer as he lifted it off the desk and laid it back again.

"If you do," continued the major as he walked about the room with hands crossed under his coattails, "then you shall have it. We incubate infants in

Two Widows and a Salted Mine.

A good story is told about how two prospectors had salted a mine in the Galena district in order to rob a couple of rich widows, which resulted in the aforesaid widows becoming much wealthier.

The prospectors had spent their last cent in digging a hole in the ground to the extent of 60 feet without striking anything but yellow clay. But one of them knew of two rich widows who were just spoiling to have their money sunk in a mine. Accordingly they spent two nights in salting their mine. They hadn't sufficient money to buy some paying dirt, but they stole this from a neighboring mine and hauled a lot of it over to dump into their mine. When several tons of this "paying dirt" had accumulated in the bottom of their mine, the widows were sent for, and while one was talking about the increasing value of the district the other was dumping out all kinds of lead and zinc ore before their astonished eyes.

The widows bought a half interest in that hole in the ground for $1,500. The next day there was no more ore in the shaft, and the fellows declared they would dig no longer. Then the widows bought the other half interest at a total cost of $2,000, and the men hiked out for Missouri, laughing in their sleeves. But the women, blindly believing that there must be more ore, continued with the digging and at a depth of ten additional feet struck the richest vein of the whole belt, realizing $75,000 in less than one year's time.—Kansas City Journal.

The Republican Ticket.

The nomination of Roosevelt for vice president, and his reluctant acceptance of the nomination indicate two facts. First—That the republicans, despite all their boasts, anticipate a desperate struggle in the present campaign and realize the weakness of their candidate for president and so forced the nomination for vice president upon the most popular man in their party, against his protests. Second—That the republicans recognize New York as a doubtful state.

The slogan of the republican party in the coming campaign will be "gold and glory." Mr. McKinley can stand for gold or silver or international bimetallism, or any old thing which his party may desire but they needed a war hero to stand for "glory" and very properly selected Mr. Roosevelt.

The ticket is unique in that the tail is stronger than the head. Mr. McKinley is a politician who is managed by other politicians. Mr. Roosevelt is a fighter, who wants to manage and declines to be managed. He is probably the most popular republican leader in the nation today. But even in the height of his popularity, while the laurels he won in Cuba with the Rough Riders were still fresh, and the people of the nation still intoxicated with military enthusiasm, he had a hard fight to carry New York state. He is probably the only republican who has a chance of carrying that state this fall and for that reason the nomination was forced upon him.

The insistence with which the republican leaders forced the nomination upon him and the reluctance with which he accepted it, indicate that both they and he regarded the result in New York state as doubtful, and if the electoral vote of that state goes for Bryan, McKinley is defeated.—Colfax Commoner.

McKinley for president was a certainty for the Philadelphia convention, but Roosevelt for vice president was a remarkable demonstration of a political machine dominating a man who has been more than loud in defying the political machine—especially the Platt machine of New York which finally brought the thundering Roosevelt to his knees. "You will either accept the nomination for vice president, or you will be defeated in your ambition to be re-elected governor of New York," declared Platt, and Platt being a bigger man than Hanna for the nonce, Roosevelt hopped off the perch. Hanna's machine tried to nominate Secretary Long, failing in which Hanna grandiloquently declared for Roosevelt, adding that the administration had up to that time fostered no man's boom. Such is politics where a couple of cunning heads run things.—Whatcom Blade.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 26c. Sold by Quiett and Ayres druggist.

It's easy—polishing silverware with Schindeler's polish.

He Saved the Bridge.

"At Harpers Ferry on one occasion the flood in the Potomac was so great that it threatened the destruction of the costly railroad bridge, which was seen to shake in its unsteadiness," said former Governor Thomas G. Jones. "When everybody present was looking each moment to see the bridge go down, President John W. Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad arrived upon the scene. Appreciating the necessity of instant action, he gave an abrupt order for a loaded train of freight cars standing on a side track to be run with the locomotive on to the bridge and kept there.

"But, Mr. Garrett, that is a train-load of silk," said the local superintendent.

"I don't care; run out the cars!" commanded the great master of railroads. "It would be easier to pay for the silk than to build a new bridge."

"The 'silk train' was run on to the bridge, and the structure was saved. The silk was being sent by rail across the continent from San Francisco, at which port it had been received from China and Japan. Garrett was a great man, one of the greatest of those who have aided in the material development of America. In emergencies he was very resourceful, as was demonstrated in perhaps a small way by the Harpers Ferry incident."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Cards on the Cars.

"Cards are not played as much on the cars as they used to be," said the commercial traveler. "A few years ago it was a common sight to see three or four games, whist, euchre, poker or seven up, going on in a car, and wherever four or five drummers were gathered together there was sure to be a lively game of draw in progress. Suburban trains were turned into whist clubs, and morning and night the commuters were engaged in a rubber. "But all this has been changed. Nowadays it is the hardest thing in the world to get up a game of any kind in a train. Ask a stranger if he would like to take a hand at whist or euchre, and he will freeze you with a suspicious look. And, what is worse, he is entirely justified in his suspicions.

"In the last ten years the railroads of this country have been the harvest for gamblers, bunko men and short card experts. They have worked the field to the limit, from New York to California and from Vermont to Florida. They have worked all kinds of filmflam games, until now it is almost impossible for a man to flash a deck of cards in the smoking compartment of a Pullman without the atmosphere growing a dozen degrees colder. A man who has been bitten once doesn't care to have the experience repeated."—Rochester Post-Express.

Why So Many Young Men Fail.

"One trouble with many young men who start out in business is they try to do too many things at once," says Hetty Green. "The result is that they don't know as much as they ought to about any one thing, and they naturally fail. The trouble with young men who work on salaries is that they're always afraid of doing more than they're paid for. They don't enter into their work with the right spirit. To get on and be appreciated a young man must do more than he's paid to do. When he does something that his employer has not thought of, he shows that he is valuable. Men are always willing to pay good salaries to people who will think of things for them. The man who only carries out the thoughts and ideas of another is nothing more than a mere tool. Men who can be relied upon are always in demand. The scarcest thing in the world today is a thoroughly reliable man."

A JAPANESE DINNER.

HOW THE DISTASTEFUL FOOD IS SERVED AND EATEN.

Squatting Before Tables Six Inches High, One Wrestles With Chopsticks and Tiny Bowls, the While Waited Upon by Barefooted Maids.

To an American given to stiff joints and corpulency a Japanese dinner is a tedious experience, especially when he's used to business lunches and the like. But it is worth trial and discomfort if one is fortunate enough to be the guest of a rich man, for in Japan hospitality is one of the cardinal virtues.

Western customs and usages have found their way into many homes of the wealthy, whose dinners and lunches are the counterpart of those with which we are all familiar. But a real Japanese dinner, including chopsticks, lacquer trays and tiny cups, is a thing never to be forgotten.

Japanese houses are made up of sliding screens instead of our solid partitions and in summer are all left open, so that, seated at dinner, one looks out over the gardens, seeing the lights of the city in the distance, and the scent of a thousand flowers blows in with every breath of air.

The guests remove their shoes on entering the house and, except when provided with a pair of cotton overshoes, must spend the evening in stocking feet unless happily the host has an extra pair. The wife of a Japanese gentleman does not preside at his table unless there are ladies in the party, but appears with the tea and sweetmeats, which always precede a dinner, as do our cocktails and sherry, etc. She merely greets the guests and appears again only when the goodbyes are said.

Silken cushions are scattered about the floor and the guests are arranged according to rank, for the Japanese are, of course, great sticklers for form and ceremony. Little tables, some six inches high, are placed before each one and barefooted waiting maids in graceful and prettily tinted kimonos bring in lacquer trays with several tiny covered bowls.

Before leaving the trays on the tables they set them on the floor, and, dropping on their knees, make their best bow, touching their foreheads to the floor. Chopsticks take the place of knives and forks; but, unlike our weapons of attack, are made of wood. They are never used twice, unless family heirlooms, when they are of carved ivory of the most exquisite workmanship, as are also the lacquer trays, bowls and cups.

The host sets an example by removing the covers from the tiny bowls, and the guest, doing likewise, finds an assortment of food quite new and generally most distasteful. Mustering up much skill one attempts getting the food on chopsticks from the tables to one's mouth. The first few times most of it falls on the floor or on one's lap. The wretched sticks wobble and cross each other as if focused. When almost desperate, the good host is apt to come to the rescue by suggesting lifting the bowls, and, with the aid of a chopstick, shoveling the food in, as one would potatoes into a barrel.

In each course there are half a dozen dishes, and the host tells what they are. First, suimono, a bean soup; kuchitori, chestnuts boiled and crushed into a mush; kamaboko, fish picked fine and rolled into little balls and baked; sashimi, raw fish cut into thin slices and covered with ice. This is dipped into rich sauce called soy, and is really very good. Little cups of warm sake, the native brandy made of rice, are served with each course. Napkins and bread are unknown quantities.

The second course is a small fish boiled whole. One has a chance here to get in some fine play with the chopsticks—umami, bits of fowl boiled with potatoes or lotus roots, a salad of onions, peas and string beans, with a few leaves of lettuce; sunomono, sea snails served with eggplant mashed, and chaman mushi, a thick soup made of fish and vegetables, with mushrooms for a relish.

The third course is a curry of rice and picked vegetables, and for a fourth and final course you have sobo, a sort of buckwheat vermicelli served with soy and a sweet liquor called mirin; shiruko, rice cakes, seaweed and confectionery of all sorts, which are very sweet and tasteless.

During the dinner each guest rises and proposes the health of the host and one other guest until the whole party is disposed of. This custom is rather hard on the guests, for sake is fiery stuff and goes to one's head more quickly than our own brandy. To make matters worse, after one has drunk the health of all the company it is customary to drink the health of the waitresses, who bow their foreheads to the floor in acknowledgment.

At the close of a dinner the tabako bon, a tray holding a hibachi with live coals in a cone of ashes and a section of bamboo for an ash receiver, is put before each guest, and cigars and cigarettes are passed around. When all is over, one feels very hungry, stiff in the joints and, if the dinner has been a large one, very much in need of a stimulant.—Boston Transcript.

All About a Signature.

Tellers and clerks of savings banks have a rare opportunity to study human nature. All sorts of people, with many strange notions of the methods and purposes of banks, come before them. A teller of a Boston savings bank tells a true story of a good Irishwoman who came to the bank to open an account.

"Please write your name on that line," said the official, pushing toward the woman a book and a pen.

"Do yez want me first name?" she asked, taking the pen in her hand.

"Yes, your full name and middle initial if you have any."

"Do yez want me husband's name?"

"Yes, his last name, but your own first name."

"Oh, me name before I was married?"

"No, your given name—Ellen or Bridget?"

"Sure, then, me name is nayther wan o' them!"

"Well, what is it then?"

"Sure, it's Mary."

"Very well. There are others waiting for you, so please hurry and write your name."

"Ah, sure, do yez want the 'Mrs.?'"

"No, never mind that. Now go ahead."

"Ah, sure, mister, I would, honest, but ye see I can't write!"—Youth's Companion.

The Osservatore Romano thus explains why the pope does not appear on the streets of Rome: "If the pope went about in Rome, he would inevitably be made the object of demonstrations of respectful enthusiasm on the part of the faithful, and by a natural reaction these demonstrations would be followed by others of a hostile character. The pope would be simultaneously applauded and hissed and surrounded by tumults and faction fights. The government would render military honors to him, but it could not long tolerate in the streets of Rome demonstrations in favor of the pope, who, after all, is a dispossessed sovereign."

A Lake That Eats Boats.

A strange lake exists in the center of Sulphur island off New Zealand. It is 50 acres in extent, about 12 feet in depth and 15 feet above the level of the sea.

The most remarkable characteristic of this lake is that the water contains vast quantities of hydrochloric and sulphuric acids hissing and bubbling at a temperature of 110 degrees F.

The dark green colored water looks particularly uninviting. Dense clouds of sulphuric fumes constantly roll off this boiling caldron, and care has to be exercised in approaching this lake to avoid the risk of suffocation. On the opposite side of the lake may be seen the tremendous blowholes, which, when in full blast, present an awe inspiring sight.

The roar of the steam as it rushes forth into the air is deafening, and often huge boulders and stones are hurled out to a height of several hundred feet by the various internal forces of nature.

A boat can be launched on the lake, and if proper care be observed the very edges of the blowholes may be safely explored.

Some idea of the strength of the acid saturated water of this lake may be gathered from the fact that a boat almost dropped to pieces after all the passengers had been landed, as the rivets had corroded under the influence of the acids.

Mr. Aliaferro Talliaferro.

"I suppose," said a government clerk to the man across the table, "that you have heard of the Virginia family of Derby which spells its name E-n-r-o-u-g-h-t-y, as well as the Chumleys of England, but I came across one the other day that I'll bet a hat you never heard of. The subject of the sketch was a Virginian or claimed that he was, and he was so youthful and unsophisticated that I guess he was telling the truth. Children and fools, you know, have a weakness in that regard."

"I met the young fellow on a train between Richmond and Petersburg, and we struck up quite an acquaintance. He told me his name was Tolliver—Oliver Tolliver—and I very naturally asked him if he spelled his name as did the famous F. F. V. Talliaferros, and he said he did and seemed to be proud of it. I was rather proud to be friendly with one of the name myself and made myself extra agreeable."

"When he left me at a way station and bade me goodbye, he tendered me his card and told me he hoped I would not forget him. I didn't look at the card till he had gone, and, would you believe it, the young fellow had his name spelled to match, as it were, and it appeared thus, 'Mr. Aliaferro Talliaferro,' which, in my humble opinion, was getting Oliver Tolliver down pretty fine. Don't you think so too?"—Washington Star.

Where Wool Is Grown.

The most significant movement in textile industry is the rapid building of cotton mills in the south. It pays to manufacture the cotton where it is grown, and Orange Judd Farmer asks, "How long before the west and southwest will wake up to the fact that it pays to manufacture woollens where the wool is grown?" At present more than half (56 per cent) of the wool produced in the United States is hauled across the continent to New England mills.

Hair Trigger Language.

"So you finally proposed?" said his chum.

"Well, to tell the truth," returned the thoughtful youth, "I really didn't know that I proposed, but she accepted me, so I guess that settles it. I tell you this language of ours is not to be used lightly."—Chicago Post.

HE STOLE HIS WIFE

She Unwillingly Accompanied Her Rascally Husband.

J. O. Dubois Makes It Lively in North Yakima—A Fugitive From Justice.

On Saturday evening Sheriff Tucker received a telegram from Sheriff W. M. Blakely, of Pendleton, asking him to arrest one J. O. Dubois, who was supposed to be in North Yakima. On Friday a young woman came in on the 7:35 train from the east and registered at the Bartholet. She visited in a number of stores in the city seeking employment, stating that she was destitute, but met with no success. Her appeals for work attracted the attention and sympathy of Claude Briggs, who informed her that she could go to his home where his wife would take care of her until she could secure employment. She gave her name as Mrs. J. O. Dubois and stated that her husband was in trouble, but would soon be in this city.

On Saturday evening Dubois, who represents himself to be an agent for the Detroit Safe Co., showed up at the Briggs residence, and shortly after was the recipient of a telegram which seemed to agitate him very much and caused his sudden departure. The officers were unable to locate their man Saturday night or Sunday and concluded he had given them the slip.

Sunday night about 11 o'clock Mr. Briggs noticed the sheriff that Dubois in company with another man with a team and buckboard came to the house and demanded his wife and her trunk. He was informed that he could have neither, whereupon he drew a gun and informed his wife that if she did not accompany him he would shoot her and then kill himself. The woman went away with him, but the trunk is still in Mr. Briggs' possession. The country has been thoroughly searched but the outfit seems to have vanished from the earth.

Dubois, it seems, had been in trouble in Ritzville, where he had passed a worthless draft on a merchant, and was captured at Pasco and taken back to that town and straightened up the matter, Mrs. Dubois coming on to North Yakima. The man is wanted in Pendleton for larceny by bailee.

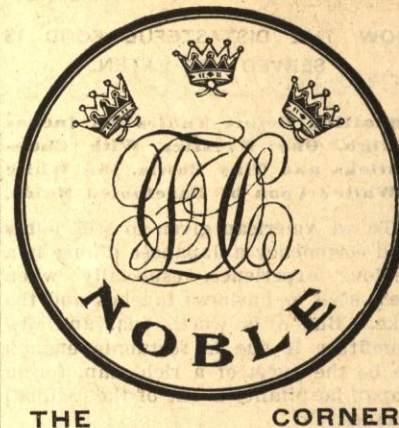

Dubois has been married to his present wife but about four months. The marriage took place in Pocatilla, Idaho, where the parents of the lady live. The lady's maiden name was Grace Davis, and she comes of a highly respected family. She had no desire to accompany her husband from this city and evidently felt her situation keenly.
