BISHOP WAS STRIPPED

Russians Attack a Greek Bishop During His Sermon and Strip Him of His Apparel Before the Congregation,

WINNIPEG, Man., Tuesday, Nov. 22. -In a religious disturbance that occurred in the Russian colony here a bishop of the Greek Church of America was stripped of his vestments and left practically nude before his congregation by Galicians, a dissatisfied faction of the body, and in a battle that followed the cathedral was practically destroyed.

A number of the Galicians, five of whom were afterwards arrested entered the church and while the bishop was preaching started to sing Russian comic songs. The bishop expostulated at this. which incensed the disturbers.

The intruders, it is charged, seized him while kneeling, tore off all his vestments, and cast them from the cathedral, leaving the bishop standing naked before his congregation. His crucifix and beads were thrown through a window, and the church ornaments followed. The vandals then overturned the altar and smashed everything they could get their hands on. Several of the faithful, who stood by in silence, then made an attack on the intruders and rallied around the bishop, with the result that the Galicians were Bishop Serafin is looked upon as an imposter by some of the Greek Church, despite the fact that he has been permitted to ordain many priests.

There is very little left standing of the bishop's cathedral, which was razed to the ground by the onslaught.

$100,000 LOST

Texas to Look for It-Will Drain a Lake to Recover Lost Treasure,

AUSTIN, Tex., Tuesday, Nov. 22.-The search for lost treasure amounting to more than $100,000 of Mexican silver, which is said to be lying at the bottom of Collins Lake in Leon county, stock company, composed of a number of business men of Oakwoods, Texas, been organized for the purpose of conlucting the search for this buried or hidden silver in a systematic way. The company will drain the water from the lake by means of powerful steam pumps. The lake is situated about fifteen miles south of Oakwoods. It covers twenty-five acres of land and the water is five to twelve feet deep.

According to the legend of this treasure a caravan of Spaniards were on their way north in the early days and the silver filled the bed of a large wagon. which was being drawn by six mules. When near this lake an attack was made on the travelers by a band of hostile Indians. In order to save the silver the wagon was driven into the lake and its precious contents dumped out. Only one member of the party escaped from the savages and it took him many years to make his way back to the City of Mexico, where he told his story, but it was not believed and he could get no assistance in recovering the treasure.

This survivor is said to have left a description and a crude drawing of the spot where the silver was hiden and this he handed down to his son. Still no effort was made to recover the treasure and it was not until the great grandson of the survivor of the massacre came into possession of the document that any movement was made to secure the fortune. This great grandson was without means himself, but he managed to make his way to Texas, and by means of the records and documents in his possession he easily located the lake where her Child, Mrs. George Robb is Now on Trial.

SEATTLE, Nov. 21.—Gertrude Robb was put on trial in the criminal department of the superior court this morning for shooting and killing George Joye, who had ruined her 16-year-old daughter Camille. Mrs. Robb about an hour and a nalf before the arrival of the boat, went to a saloon and borrowed ten dollars. With part of this she purchased a revolver and a box of cartridges. When the boat arrived at the Colman dock about 5 o'clock in the afternoon she called Joye from the boat and accused him of ruining her daughter. He admitted the charge. She then asked what he was going to do about it and in reply he declared with an oath that he did not intend to do anything. He then turned on his heel and started to walk away. As he did so the woman shot him. Joye fell at the second shot and as he tried to regain his feet he cried:

"Don't shoot me! For God's sake don't shoot me!"

Despite his pleading Mrs. Robb fired three more shots, all of them entering ris. his groin. When the police arrived she said: "I shot him. I meant to kill him. I hope that he dies." This statement she repeated to all who talked with her. Joye lingered until July 21 when he died from blood poison that had resulted from the wounds.

Before Joye died he admitted to Chief Delaney that he had ruined the daugh-He told the officer that he knew the girl's age and had several times taken her from home to cheap lodging He claimed that he would have married the girl but the mother did not want the daughter to marry him, as he did not have enough money.

The defense will be that of temporary insanity. It will be argued that when the mother learned of the wrong done her daughter her mind became unbalanced and that the contemptuous answer that Joye gave to her plea to take care of the girl he had ruined made her porarily irresponsible for her act. Mrs. Robb's husband and daughter sit beside her in the courtroom. The prosecution is being conducted by Deputy Prosecuting Attorneys Gleason and Conover; the defense is in the hands of J. Mesdames Snyder and Phillips.

Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Phillips at the nome of the latter on North Sixth street, entertained a very large number of their lady friends Tuesday afternoon at a reception, and in the evening a very pretty card party was given by the same hostesses at the home of Mrs.

The two big social functions given thus, mark an era of successful entertaining inthis city in which Mesdames Snyder and Phillips have assuredly taken the initiative. Both affairs were on an elaborate scale and the efforts of the hostesses were awarded by success.

The seven men who succeeded in beating their way on a freight train from Pasco to North Yakima and were captured here by the city police, have been held for trial before the superior court on a charge of breaking the seal of a merchandise car. The men refused to be driven off of the freight train and finally broke a seal on one of the cars and crawled inside. As soon as they were known to be within the car several of the train crew succeeded in locking the door of the car and holding the men prisoners until assistance from the police came and the entire bunch was

MAY LOSE HIS SEAT

Mart Maloney's Seat in the State Senate May Be Contested.

Politicians expect a contest to be filed by W. D. Gray of Stevens county for the seat which a canvass of the returns shows Mart Maloney won by a margin of twelve votes. The official canvass of Stevens county returns allows Maloney plurality of twelve votes, but the defeated republican is expected to make a

Four years ago Gray was a candidate for state senator, defeated on the face of the returns. C. A. Mantz was seated of the returns. C. A. Mantz took his contest before the upper house Mantz had the case referred to the judiciary committee, of which he was a member, and if for no other reason than that he was once turned down, he may be expected to push his fight.

There are always plenty of grounds for an election contest when a fight is lose. It is immaterial that none of them is serious, for a partisan hearing is invariably granted. This consists principally in the reading of the claimant's petition and a motion to seat him. It is a fact, however, that Stevens county elections are a fruitful source of questionable tactics. It has been so in the past and is claimed to be so now.

Prohibition votes elected the Stevens county democratic warhorse. The prohibitionists had a state and national ticket, but no county nominations. Politicians who know of the vote declare that between fifty and 100 prohibitionists voted for Mart Maloney. If this is true, the fact is at least interesting.

Maloney knew he had a hard fight for re-election. To friends he said so when he was on the Sound. He believed he could spend the early part of the campoign working in the interests of the state ticket and protect himself as well during the closing days as though he devoted all his atention to the fight. But in confidential explanations Maloney declared he would not be surprised

FUTURE OF DEMOCRACY.

A number of Republican papers, notably the Oregonian, are devoting a great deal of their valuable editorial space to a discussion of the future of the Democratic party. Opinions differ materially among these editorial critics as to what the future may have in store for the party of Jefferson. Some seem to tionk that the party will disintegrate after the overwhelming defeat of Parker, others think that the party will live but change its principles, returning to radicalism. There are still others who prophesy that the ultimate fate of the party is to be absorbed by the "growing force of socialism," without perhaps changing its name.

In one assumption these critics all agree and that is that whatever may happen the Democratic party will never pose before the country again as a conservative party. In this view of the case they are doubtless right. The leadership of the New York Democrats, which was secured by misrepresentation, false pretenses and appeal to the morbid prejudices of the southern people will be repudiated. Western Democrats never did aprove of the unnoly alliance between the hightoned trust exploit ers of New York led by Belmont and the radical leaders of the south who were drawn into the winning combination at St. Louis through their bitter animosity to Roosevelt, a fact for which the vicious and unwise southern policy of the president is wholly responsible. Now the southerners are sick of that bargain and will have no more of it. They wil turn again to the matchless Bryan for leadership. A man who understands them and the peculiar conditions with which they have to deal in the south.

While Bryan by almost common consent will be restored to the leadership. campaign by unfair means, there is little probability that he will again be the nominee of his party in 1908, although that is a long look ahead. The Missouri, if that very able young man's dead, was the Republican dictator in stock continues to rise in the political this county and held the bailiwick market and it is very apt to do so.

Oh, no, gentlemen, the Democratic ism. It will continue to do bus iness at the old stand, advocating prinof the greatest number. It may see fit to change its leaders when the occasion warrants, but that is the party's own affair. Whatever it does it will do without regard to the carping critics of the it out of existence for the greater part of the century, especially after the great feat. The Democratic party has out- forcast. We believe that it is almost lived the old Federalist, the Whigs and safe to bet on. the short-lived Knownothing party, all of which were the lineal ancestors of the present Republican party. There are good reasons to assume too that it will for that great organization is honey combed with rottenness that sooner or later is sure to bring about its downfall. In spite of its late overwhelming victory due mainly to the agency of accident, the party contains within itself the germs of disease which are sure to bring about disintegration in the fullness of time. Rooseveltism is not a cure! it is merely a palliative.

WAR WITHIN THE PARTY.

Mr. Roosevelt has already given out the tip that he will call the next congress together in special session and set the members to work to pass a new tariff bill and already there are signs of mutiny and rebellion against the presdential edict in the camp of the tarifffed barons of the east.

It doesn't require a prophet or the son of a prophet to discern the coming storm in the g. o. p. family. Next to option markets of the world during the Andrew Jackson, Theodore Roosevelt is the most self-willed and autocratic man who has ever occupied the White House. He is either going to control the party policy or there will be a row.

Mr. Roosevelt has been "good" during the campaign, but now that he has been elected with a greater popular majority than any President before him ever had, matters are very different. Such an endorsement as he has received naturally makes him feel that he is the real thing and he has reason to think so. The people have declared in a lusty voice that they want Teddy to run the government and Teddy is going to run it or know the reason why and if the

The Yakima Daily Democrat tariff-barons don't like it they can go

There will be something doing during the next four years. Roosevelt will be president in his own right and out of a dead man's shoes. He has theories and he has ideas and proposes to put them into practice. In doing this he will tread on the corns of the "standpatters" and an army of men who have been used to milking the government in some form or other all their lives.. Natarally these men will resent having any of their special privileges cut off or even threatened and they have the sinews of war with which to make a fight.

The chances are that Roosevelt, from the Democratic standpoint, will prove more useful tenant of the White House than Judge Parker ever would have been. M. All

One can hardly realize that we are about to hold another city election so quiet has been the situation up to this time. A year ago there was more excitement, more activity and more bitterness displayed over the municipal presidential campaign just closed.

It is fortunate that there is, as yet little indication of bitterness in the approaching election. There should, how ever, be more interest shown by the average citizen. We want good men to fill the positions under the city and the best way to get good and suitable men is to canvass the situation in advance and glean them out. Unsuitable men are often sprung upon a convention by some party interested in their nomination and they frequently succeed for the reason that no one cares to take the trouble or the chance of making an enemy by opposing them.

The city election will be held Dec. 6. The sewer bond proposition is to be submitted again to the voters in a somewhat modified form from what it was when voted on at the special election last June when it lacked by a few votes the three-fifths majority necessary to carry. This is a proposition that each citizen should study out for himself. Proper sewage facilities is more necessary even for the welfare of a city than streets or sidewalks. The people of North Yakima would do well to wake up to the fact that the coming election is one of tremendous importance to the city and its future.

The price of wheat in Chicago has falen to below $1.10 a busnel, which is outlive the present Republican party, high as compared with last season's prices, but some 10 cents below the highest prices that have ruled in the wheat pit during the last two months. An important factor in the price during the remainder of the season will be the quality and quantity of the Argentine wheat crop and the amount available for export. OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17. This city is as tranquil today as if there never had been an election. Commiselection here than there was in the whole sioner Ware has perhaps made a mistake in not concealing the fact that he has written poetry and in permitting himself to perpetrate a joke now and then. It is probable that, like Dr. Holmes' hero, he will henceforth "never dare to be as funny as he can."

> Van Duzer, Congressman, of Nevada, was believed to have pulled through by handful of votes, but at this writing it looks as if he too was beaten, like Shafroth of Colorado. If this should be true, there will be thirteen states beyond the Mississippi without any Demo cratic representative in the natioal House of Representatives-North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, and California. Why do they not constitute the Solid West in the same sense as the thirteen inflexible Democratic states constitute the Solid South? If Van Duzer is beaten, he will be greatly missed, especially by Nevada, for he never opens his mouth without uttering a vociferous eulogy on that commonwealth. He was formerly a Congressman's clerk and he is quite as valuable and volatile as Johnny Fitzgerald of Boston who was long the only Democratic member from New England.

The Hon. John Morley philosopher and statesman, has left the city. While enentertained here he made a lot of pleasant speeches to the President and his Cabinet who treated him just the same as if he had not during the last five years made himself very odious in some quarters by denouncing imperialism and colonialism. He is optimistic and assumes that everthing will come out right It is understood that John Hay did not introduce into the conversation any remarks about England's seizure of Tibt and dismemberment of Coina, whose party will not disintegrate, neither will It is an open secret, however, that territory the United States and Great think that his silent concurrence in the outrage is justified by the impudent and offensive referrence which Joseph Chamberlain made in a public speech to "this compact, this understanding, this alliance, if you please"?

> If the President insists on this new demand for a revision of the Philippine tariff, and free shipping he will make himself very unpopular in some commercial quarters. It is one of Secretary Taft's chickens. His successor, Luke Wright, Governor-general of the Philippines, issues another warning to the peo ple of Manila that they cannot be permitted to discuss the possibility of ultimate independence—the same "superior classes" who have just returned home from a visit to the United States at our expense! But this same Governor Wright told your correspondent in an interview two years ago, that "the islands ought, of course, to be independent as quick as they are able to govern themselves, and the whole purpose of my work there will be to make them ing the next two or three months and fit just as quick as possible." I suggested at the time that this was fearfully inflammatory talk, and the recent demand of the banqueters in Manila indicates that his words have not been whol-

The new primary election law which was recently accepted by the voters of Wisconsin will do away with nominating conventions altogether. All the candidates to be voted for at each election must be chosen at a primary held in the preceding September. Candidates for United States senator must run for nomination at a primary election. The candidate who wins at the primaries will be recommended to the legislature as the party's candidate. This latter arrangement practically secures the election of the United States senators of Wisconsin by popular vote, as it is assumed that legislators will not disregard the mandate of their party as expressed at the polls.

Under the Minnesota law, which has been in force several years, the primary elections of all parties are conducted by public officers and election boards at the expense of the city or county, as the case may be. Under this law the primary elections of all parties are held on the same day and in the same places in conjunction with the registration of voters for the general election that is to follow. Primary election days, like regular election days, are made legal holidays, and every voter entitled to participate in the succeeding election is given an oportunity to register his name, andTomorrow evening the President at the same time and place express his

THE FLIGHT OF THE POETS.

Is there no Delilah handy to call to President Roosevelt: "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson?"

The Administration is rapidly losing the fine flower of art and sinking into bourgeois mediocrity. No sooner have we lamented the threatened departure of one poet from the Treasury Department than we are called upon to mourn the actual loss of another by the Pension Bureau.

The President particularly needs a poet in the Pension Office, because nobody can do all the things he requires of a Commissioner of Pensions without taking out a poetic license.-N. Y.

THE HEART OF HUNGARY.

Pest, Which is Joined by a Hyphen

and Five Bridges to Buda. Situated on a river which hears more tongues than any other on its long journey to the sea, feeling the influence of the orient as well as the occident, expressive of the progress of a race whose heart is young, is Pest, one of the newest of cities, joined by a hyphen and five bridges to Buda, one of the oldest of capitals. Here there need be no cism. strife between the sentiment that would preserve an ancient building and the enterprise that would put something more serviceable in its place. In much the same way that one may have portraits of his ancestors hung on the walls of a steam heated house, without interfering with the utilities, so the Magyar from a comfortable chair in his cafe, while he listens to stock exchange quotations or the opera over the telephone, may look across the Danube at the monuments of the Hungarian past. On our part we should have a parallel if Washington were the commercial metropolis as well as the capital and we moved the heights of Arlington farther down the Potomac and crowned them with Liberty hall Castle William and Old South church.

In other European cities where an old municipal site adjoins a modern, though hills are leveled and moats filled, the cramping effect of narrow alleyways and crooked streets still remains. The heights of the Buda side formed a natural stronghold in the middle ages. There the first Hungarian king was crowned; there the Turkish janizaries were encamped for the hundred years that the walls of Vienna were an unyielding bulwark against the tide of Moslem invasion; there in later times the patriots inspired by Kossuth made a gallant stand. The successors of the old warriors and their people had only to cross the stream to find a plain which was equally suitable for a twentieth century city, where in peace they have won successes that they failed to win in war.-Frederick Palmer in Scrib-

WHEN MAN IS ENVIED.

When he doesn't have to twist his arms to hook his bodice up the back. When he can wear his best hat in the rain without getting the curl out of the feathers.

When he gives his hair a neat little slick with a comb and, presto! his coiffure is complete. When the children cry and he can whistle a tune, get his hat, bang the door and go out. When he stows things away in his multitudinous pockets and saunters on with unincumbered hands. When he trips up the street on a rainy day with his trousers jauntily turned up and no skirts to kick. When he swings easily on and off a moving car without danger of tangling his heefs in his petticoats. When the dinner is spoiled and he chats unconcernedly and all the guests pity him because he is married to an incompetent, fussy, discomposed woman.-Chicago Journal.

Beauty's Varieties.

The French say there are several ages" as well as kinds of beauty—the beauty of mere youthfulness, which they call la beaute du diable; also a beauty of "ugliness," of "old age" and of "thinness," called la beaute du singe. Frederika Bremer, the Swedish novelist, had the beauty of "plainness." She was so very plain of face that her expression of trustfulness, as though appealing to you to find some other qualities in her than mere "looks," shone out with a perfect radiance that ennobled her face and drew friends to her, because she had no other beauty. But Miss Bremer took pleasure in her well kept hands, of which she used to say, "Even hands have their moments of charm."

Wild Animals and the Human Voice. Gordon Cumming was perhaps the first to discover the effect of the human voice upon wild animals. On one occasion he had a lioness in full retreat before him. He called loudly to her, whereupon she squatted like a huge dog and permitted him to approach. In a similar venture he checked the charge of a lioness by yelling at her and continued to do so, while she remained perplexedly sniffing the ground and allowed him to escape.

THE HANDKERCHIEF.

There Was a Time When It Was an

Unmentionable Article. The evolution of the pocket handkerchief is odd and interesting. There was a time when it was an unmentionable thing, says Modern Society of London -an article to be kept out of sight and referred to only in a whisper. In polite conversation it was carefully avoided, and as to one's being caught using a handkerchief it meant social ostra-

This state of things obtained up to the time of the first Napoleon, when the Empress Josephine brought it forward for a personal reason. The only defect in her beauty was an irregularity of the teeth, and to hide this she used a delicate little handkerchief, which from time to time she raised to her lips. Thus she was enabled to laugh occasionally. Seeing that it was a case of either laughter going out or handkerchiefs coming into fashion, the court ladies adopted the pretty pieces of cambric and lace.

In England the evolution of the article which is now so openly displayed by women was equally slow. There was a time when it was forbidden to mention it on the stage or to make use of it even in the most tearful situation, while the people in the gallery and the pit shed their tears into their laps. Even when it was mentioned for the first time in one of Shakespeare's plays it was received with hisses and general indignation by the audience. Little by little, however, the prejudice gave way, and a time came when the handkerchief could be flourished in broad day-

A Coin In the Sea.

A coin dropped into the sea will sink to the bottom, however deep it is, owing to the fact that the metal is heavier than the volume of water that it dis-

It is a common but mistaken notion that the density of the sea increases with its depth and consequent pressure, as does the density of the atmosphere. which we all know is greatest at the earth's surface. The air, however, like all gases, is elastic, and, when under pressure (as with its own weight) shrinks in volume and gains in density.

Water, on the other hand, is absolutely incompressible, and, although the pressure in the sea increases at the rate of about one pound for every two feet we descend, the density of the water remains the same; consequently the penny continues to outweigh the water it displaces and the coin sinks until it finds a solid resting place. The pressure of the water has no influence at all on the coin, acting as it does on all sides equally.

Fast Days In Russia.

Fast days in Russia are numerous Besides the ordinary Lenten period. which, however, in Russia is forty eight days long instead of forty, they have three shorter periods of fastingone of nineteen days in June, one of fourteen days in August, and another of thirty-three days in November and December. There are also three single days of fasting, of which two are also holidays.

Fasting is a serious matter in Russia. for fish, milk and eggs are forbidden as well as meats. The result is that the producte markets for such cut off for about one-third of the year and dairy farming becomes unprofitable, as strict observance of fasts is a weightier matter with the people than honesty or any other feature of our system of morals.

Charles Lamb's Grace.

On one occasion when Edmund Clarence Stedman was visiting in New England he was called upon by the head of the house while at dinner to invoke the divine blessing. "I was rather surprised and for half a minute sorely tempted," said Mr. Stedman in relating the incident. "Then I rose to the occasion and asked a grace which I remembered." "But, Mr. Stedman," demanded a young woman of the party eagerly, "to what were you sorely tempted?" "To do as Charles Lamb did under similar circumstances." "And that was?" "He looked about the board and asked in surprise, 'Is there no clergyman present?' The host shook his head. Then Lamb prayed, 'For this and all other mercies, O Lord, make us truly thankful!"

When Wit Is Perfect.

When wit is combined with sense and information, when it is softened by benevolence and restrained by strong principles, when it is in the hands of a man who can use it and despise it, who can be witty and something much better than witty, who loves honor, justice, decency, good nature, morality and religion ten thousand times bet ter than wit-wit is then a beautiful and delightful part of our nature .-Sydney Smith.

> The city election, to be held Dec.6, vill not be a very wide-awake affair uness something be done to stir up interest in the campaign.

Councilman D. M. Rand is thus far the only avowed candidate for Mayor in the field. O. A. Fechter, the present incumbent, is said to be averse to serving the city again in the mayor's office although it is believed that he would not refuse to serve if his fellow citizens were to unitedly demand the sacrifice. The mayor's hobby is to thoroughly sewer and drain the city and it is not unlikely that he would be willing to take another chance at the mayorality if there is a strong possibility that the proposed bond issue will carry on elec-

Embarrassing to the Guest.

A tourist in the Welsh mountains who had been caught in a storm and who after much difficulty had succeeded in making his way to a solitary cottage congratulated himself on his good fortune when he was asked to stay for the night. After donning a suit of his host's clothes, so that his own might be dried, he proceeded downstairs and on his way met the mistress with a big Bible in her hand. In the fading light she mistook the stranger for her husband and gave him a thump on the head with it, remarking, "That's for asking the man to stay all night."

POULTRY POINTERS.

Stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry is a good feed for young ducks. Only medium sized eggs should be set. Extra large or small ones are apt to produce deformed chicks. Turkeys are not so sure to come home as other fowls; hence it is a good plan to mark them in some way. Feed the young chicks often if you would have them growing rapidly, but do not feed more at a time than they will eat up clean in a few minutes. Destroy the old nest; as soon as the hens come off with the chicks. The safest and best plan is to burn all of the old material. Healthy fowls pick up their food quickly and relish it. When they go at it lazily, pick up a grain or two and then stop something is wrong.

Never shut the fowls up in such close quarters that they cannot take enough exercise to promote digestion. Hens treated in this way will soon become too fat to lay.

The Stems of the Priculy Pear. In most plants, to put it simply, the leaves are the mouths and stomachs of the organism; their thin and flattened blades are spread out horizontally in a wide expanse, covered with tiny throats and lips which suck in carbonic acid from the surrounding air and disintegrate it in their own cells under the influence of sunlight. In the prickly pears, on the contracy, it is the flattened stem and branches which undertake this essential operation in the life of the plant-the sucking in of carbon and giving out of oxygen, which are to the vegetable exactly what the eating and digesting of food are to the animal organism. In their old age, however, the stems of the prickly pear display their true character by becoming woody in texture and losing their articulated, leaflike appearance.
