SOCIETY

April 4, 1964

PROGRAM

Welcome by the President	Mr. Reno Odlin
Minutes of Last Annual Meeting
Director's Report	Mr. Bruce Le Roy
Summary by the President	Mr. Reno Odlin
Report on Election	Mr. John M. McClelland Jr.
Annual Address: "The Writer's Use of History"	Mr. Murray Morgan
Announcements (Pacific Northwest History Conference)	Mr. Robert Hitchman
Adjournment

We invite you to visit the new exhibits in the Museum. On the 5th floor, in our Art Gallery, the paintings and prints of Milda Hopkins are being shown. At the entrance to the Gallery, above the stairwell, are permanent additions to our Northwest Art Collection -- paintings by Kenn Johnson, Hewitt Jackson, O. T. Grunden. The Music Room off the Gallery is also new and additions have been made to the Victorian Room.

The Historic Guns and Uniforms exhibit on the second floor is much advanced since last April, containing Fort Nisqually and Fort Vancouver, plus Civil War broadsides and posters. In McCormick Hall, a magnificent new model of The Flyer is on display. This was the ship which logged two million miles on the Seattle-Tacoma run. On the second floor, in the Natural History Wing, we have "Mr. Steelhead" on display, a new John Gipple creation. There are more new things, but if you will stroll through you will get a better idea than words can convey.

Annual Address: "The Artist and Maritime History"	Mr. Hewitt Jackson
Announcements (Pacific Northwest History Conference)
Adjournment

Today marks the official opening of the new exhibit "GROWING PAINS: EARLY WASHINGTON COMMUNITIES IN ART." The exhibit is shown on two floors: McCormick Hall (main floor), and the Gallery (5th floor). This is the first time an exhibit featuring this theme has ever been shown.

In McCormick Hall, the new TODD COLLECTION OF HISTORIC FANS also is on display for the first time today.

Our traditional luncheon, served again today in the crowded quarters of the Main floor, may one day be served in the convenient facilities of a New Wing on the Museum. You can help us bring that to reality through more members and private donations to assist this important program.
