

PUBLISHING DEPARTMENT

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in Digest Universal, India International Magazine,
Bombay, India, Sept. 1957.

This excellent review occupies almost 2 full pages. From it we quote:

"...a very interesting and well-connected story...a long and laborious task...a valuable contribution to the American Indian life...In Saxtons' long list of interesting books,
'Drummers and Dreamers' is a masterpiece all scholars will love to read with pleasure."

JHG

10-21-57

PUBLISHING DEPARTMENT

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Floyd H. Rodine of the Central Washington Coll of Education in a recent issue of Ethnohistory, Bloomington Indiana.

From this well-written, 3 page review, we quote:

"...a well-written account based heavily on first hand information...

"...It is...in many ways, the symbolic story of the fate o
the American Indian..."

DLS

10-12-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS.

Reviewed by Herman J. Deutsch of the State College of Washington in the July, 1957, issue of the Pacific Northwest Quarterly, Seattle, Washington.

From this well written review, which occupies a full 3/4 page of space, we quote:

"...Click Relander has salvaged significant history and folklore in the nick of time...no one was so well equipped for this task as Relander..."

DLS

9/17/57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Edgar I. Stewart in Montana Magazine, Helena, Montana
Winter issue, 1957.

From this well-written 14" review, we quote:

"...a successful effort to describe the culture of this little-known people...great service...for the benefit of posterity.... a book that needed to be written...excellent...the illustrations alone are worth the price."

1-22-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Nell Womack Evans in the Labor's Daily, Bettendorf, Iowa, June 26, 1957.

From this 4 inch review, we quote:

"...the traditions of...early Americans are handled with understanding..."

DIS

7-1-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Francis Haines of the Oregon College of Education in the Oregon Historical Quarterly, June, 1957 issue.

From this thoughtful review, occupying 3/4 of a page, we quote

"...sympathetically and beautifully presented..."

"...a real contribution to Pacific Northwest history and is a must for students in the field...."

DLS

7-2-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in the Book Review Digest, New York City, June, 1957

This important listing is reproduced in full as follows:

970.c Wanapum Indians. Indians of North America - Religion and Mythology 56-7264

"Story of the last days of the indian tribes of the Pacific Northwest, especially the tribe called Wanapums, who had their headquarters at Priest Rapids, on the Columbia River in the center of the State of Washington. It is thorough study and report of reservation indians, and of their unequal struggle to retain the rights promised them by the government, and of the less glamorous records of the U. S." Library J.

"Well documented story...The author has been a student of the Indians for many years, and has gained the friendship and confidence of the few remaining leaders." L. R. Etzkorn

"Relander has not permitted any of his talents undue weight. has written the story of a people, doomed and knowing it, who have retained the innate dignity that distinguishes men from marsupials or mice. Perhaps his greatest triumph is simply that he has submerged himself in his subjects and has been maudlin in their story. It would seem that this book should live and the Wanapum live thereby." W. H. Hutchinson

JHG
6-19-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in the Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, Washington, D. C., Jan., 1957.

From this excellent short review we quote:

"...a representative account of the future of ~~many~~ reservation Indians...The story is of all Indians for all Americans."

JHG

2-11-57

R_elander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in Smoke Signals New York City, November and December 1956. Published by the Indian Association of American.

This review is short but favorable. From it, we quote:

"...a stimulating and authentic history...masterful..."

JHG

2-9-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Editorial review in the Longview, Washington Daily News, 1-2

The lead editorial in this fine paper is devoted to the book

The editorial occupies 16" of space, and praises DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS highly. From it we quote:

"...a fascinating true story of these native peoples...has recorded in a well documented way much that has escaped previous historians."

JHG

2-6-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Leslie E. Arndt in the Bay City Michigan Times
1-17-57

From this 11" review we quote:

"...a representative account of the future of many reservation
Indians throughout the nation..."

JHG

2-20-57

General review covering four of our titles in the Humboldt
Eureka, California, 12-9-57.

These titles were recommended for special Christmas purchase.
In the introductory part of the review, which appears in the column by Andrew Genzoli, headed RFD, appears a nice mention from which we quote:

"...Since my high school days I have read many excellent titles from the firm's press...their's is some of the best American

The books reviewed are:

Almirall: FROM COLLEGE TO COW COUNTRY
Dryden: BY SEA ON THE TONGVIN
Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS
Saxon: CALIFORNIA CAMEL ADVENTURE

JHG
1-25-57

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Calvert Carroll in the Baltimore, Maryland News-Post 10-8-56. From this 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ " review
we quote:

"This grand book...is highly interesting..."

JHG

10-8-56

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in the Westerner's Brand Book, New York City,
Vol. 3, No. 3.

This fine quarterly contains a good review, occupying some 74 of space, from which we quote:

"...well illustrated...transcends the field of regional history, giving a modern insight into the situation relating to treaty and non-treaty tribes..."

JHG

10-18-56

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in the Ogden, Utah Standard-Examiner 10-8-56.

This is the only review appearing on the editorial page-- 6"--and from it we quote:

"...entertaining...a serious and sympathetic endeavor..."

JHG

10-19-56

Relander: DRUMMERS & DREAMERS

Feature article in Oregon Journal, Portland, Oregon,
10-21-56.

This splendidly illustrated feature story with illustrations occupies the better part of a page, in this great newspaper.

There is nothing particularly to quote from the article but the fact that the Journal gave it the space they did indicates the importance of the review.

JHG

10-24-56

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Joe Baily in the Spokesman-Review,
Spokane, Washington 10-14-56.

This excellent review under a 4-column heading, the 2nd line of which states that the author writes vividly, occupies more than a half page in this great paper.

From the review we quote:

"...will keep alive the story of the Wahapums, the River People of the Columbia...Relander...writes in a vivid and dramatic way...a book that anyone who cherishes
the history of this region should have...Illustrations are outstanding. Caxton has given it an excellent printin
The author's statements are well-authenticated...Relander has added...to the not-so-extensive number of books ably and interestingly depicted phases of the Northwest's history."

The same issue contained a feature story of the book and author, by Ted Van Arsdol, occupying a full page. Both the review and the feature story are illustrated.

JHG
10-18-56

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Herb Jenkins in the Grant County Jornal,
Ephrata, Washington, 10-17-56.

From this very enthusiastic $1\frac{1}{2}$ " review we quote:

"...graphically traces the history of the once-proud band of Wanapums...written in vivid, colorful language, fast-paced and authoritative...The story of creation, the ancient rites, the love of the Indian for his native land - all are told in the flowing picture-studded language of the Red Man...an excellent book with an attractive binding, well arranged, with a very legible type face...We predict an exciting evening's entertainment for any reader interested the pageantry and drama of the West."

10-24-56

JHG

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed by Vance Orchard in the Union-Bulletin,
Walla Walla, Washington, 10-12-56.

From this enthusiastic and well-written 10" review,
we quote:

"...a reference book which belongs on the shelf of the student or casual reader of Northwest Americana...a veritable treasure trove of references, photographs and index to satisfy all who would use this book as a reference...a testimonial to a painstaking labor of love which readily reaches the reader."

JHG

10-24-56

Relander: DRUMMERS AND DREAMERS

Reviewed in the Yakima, Washington Republic, 10-4-56.

From this excellent illustrated 32" review we quote:

"x ...a book of the month for westerners, easterners and all interested in the American Indian. A moving authoritative account...Relander has woven skillfully the present into the long past in this spirited narrative..."

JHG

10-16-56