OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

IN ANOTHER column will be found a resolution that was passed by the board of county commissioners just prior to their adjournment on Monday. The intent of the resolution is of course evident. It is to make an additional bond issue of an indefinite amount—presumably about \$93,000—for the purpose of funding the floating warrant indebtedness of the county into 20-year bonds to bear interest at not to exceed seven per cent. It is claimed by those advocating the bonds that the funding process will save the county in interest from \$1200 to \$2000 per annum, that is if the new issue can be sold to parties who are willing to accept an interest rate of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on their investment. It is not to be denied that this old warrant indebtedness puts the finances of the county in an awkward shape to handle. A portion of these warrants have been outstanding for nearly 10 years and are drawing the exorbitant rate of 10 per cent interest, although the larger part are of more recent date drawing 8 per cent interest. Thus, the interest accrued on these old obligations already amounts to nearly \$30,000. Under the proposed funding process this accrued interest must be added to the principal, which means compound interest—which the bond advocates claim the county can better afford to pay than the prevailing high rate. It must be borne in mind that this debt has already been incurred without any provision being made to meet it. It must be paid. The resources of the county not being such that it can be paid now, futurity will have to foot the bill. Under the circumstances, funding becomes a question of mathematics. The taxpayers are in for it anyway, and if it can be demonstrated that funding is the cheapest, then funding it ought to be. The interest, however, will have to be paid annually, while heretofore it has been allowed to accumulate. There is one thing, though, that the commissioners will do well to insist upon and that is that these bonds be made payable in "lawful money of the United States" and not in "gold coin." Neither the county commissioners nor any other officials have any moral right to bind those who are to come after them to pay this legacy of debt in any specified kind of money.

WHARTON BARKER, the venerable gentleman who edits the Philadelphia "American," and who, by the way, bears the distinction of being a candidate for the presidency—having been duly nominated by a small faction of middle-of-the-road populists at Cincinnati about a year ago, is attempting in a very ingenious way to supplant Bryan as the great leader of the reform forces in 1900. Having no press bureau or other evidence of organization to present his claims as the standing candidate, the old gentleman is compelled to do his own hurrahing through the columns of his own little paper. Editor Barker's main grievance is due to the fact that the rank and file of the populists have given his candidacy the "marble heart," preferring to follow the fortunes of Mr. Bryan. The "American's" chief thinks he sees an opportunity in Gorman's ambition to rule the democracy, which, if successful, would redound to his own advantage. He therefore sympathizes with Gorman and calls on populists to aid the Maryland politician in overthrowing Bryan wherever possible. Mr. Barker figures out that if a gold democrat should down Bryan that he, Barker, would then be the logical man, and would come in as Bryan's legatee with a mighty good chance of going to the White House. Candidate Barker, if he keeps on will soon acquire as great a reputation as a dreamer as he already has as a political gymnast, although he is entitled to the palm in the latter character—having belonged to every political party in this country within the last three years. It must, indeed, require a lively imagination to transport a man bodily from the office of a middle-of-the-road populist paper into the White House. If "Uncle" Wharton succeeds in his ambition, the example thus set to a wondering world will offer a powerful incentive to other great men to establish reform (?) papers and boost themselves into the presidency. When Bryan finds out, as he undoubtedly will, that he has so dangerous an adversary in the field as "Uncle" Barker, he will doubtless be overcome with fear and trembling.

OUR two local contemporaries, as well as divers local correspondents of the daily press of the state have, knowingly or thoughtlessly, done irreparable damage to the material interests of this county by publishing and commenting on the trifling grievances of certain new settlers under the Sunnyside canal against the management thereof. People who have lived here for some time readily understand the feelings of the average newcomer in his worries about water during his first season—worry which is generally caused by lack of experience in irrigation, and naturally sympathize with him, but they cannot be expected to sympathize with or condone malicious attacks on the whole system of irrigation, on which the prosperity of all the people of this community is founded. An editorial that appeared in a recent issue of the Portland Oregonian, which is based on the exaggerated reports given of the Sunnyside difficulty by local papers and correspondents, is grossly untruthful and unfair, and calculated to seriously damage not only a great enterprise in this county but every material interest of this locality. This Portland paper, throughout its long and devious career, has been noted for its consistency in but one thing, and that is to belittle and misrepresent the interests of any community in the Northwest not tributary to its own city. The people of this county, through years of hard work, involving much self-denial, have built up the finest and best system of irrigation to be found in the Northwest—the great value and completeness of which is attested by the local prosperity resulting therefrom. Our people therefore feel that their interests have been most unjustly and maliciously attacked by such articles as appeared in the Oregonian, which are based on malice, ignorance and a perverted interpretation of petty existing difficulties, which are mainly of a personal character.

WILLIE Wallie Astor, or Astorga, as he now calls himself, having lately discovered that he is descended from the princely Spanish house of that name, has been cruelly snubbed by the "deah Pwince" of Wales. By refusing to associate with such an un-American snob and "bore" as Willie Wallie has proven himself to be, has raised the August Wales several notches in the estimation of the people of this country. Any scrub such as Astor, who renounces for such motives as he did, the land of his birth, deserves not only to be laughed at, but public execration as well.

IT IS to be hoped the farmers of Yakima county will take more than a passive interest this year in the state fair. The management is offering very liberal premiums, particularly on farm products, and desire that Yakima products be fully represented. Our products this year, as every other year, can not be excelled anywhere for quality, size and beauty and if exhibitors from other sections capture the prizes this year, it will be owing to indifference on the part of our own people.

IN AN interview while at Trieste, which has not been officially denied, Admiral Dewey is reported to have said that "our next war will be with Germany." If such a statement really was made by him it constitutes a breach of official etiquette that the administration can hardly overlook, especially since the department called Captain Coghlan so sharply to account for a less offense. It is the first indiscretion, however, with which Dewey has been charged.

KURNEL Robertson is much concerned over Mr. Whitney's pantaloons. As that gentleman is a very aristocratic gold-bug, it is safe to assume that he has the other Paris goods to match.

STATE PRESS OPINION.

Gov. Rogers announces that he will appoint any responsible citizen of the state to attend the eighteenth annual session of the National Irrigation Congress at Missoula, Montana, Sept. 24, 25 and 26, that will go and pay their own expenses. This state is entitled to eight delegates.—Ellensburg Dawn.

The game law has been notoriously violated in Kittitas valley in the past, but a strong effort is being made this year to protect the birds. If the law cannot be enforced the quicker the game is killed off so there is none to quarrel over, the better. The law has simply been a farce heretofore.—Ellensburg Capital.

For the benefit of those republican editors who have been so anxious and because of that anxiety have lied so villainously about Governor Stone's attitude on Mr. Bryan. The ex-governor took a fall out of these people last night by affirming positively, what everybody knew to be true when the National Convention met in Chicago, that he was, and will be, head, heart and hand for Mr. Bryan for President in 1900.—Seattle Times.

One of the laws passed by the last legislature, which is especially burdensome, and was entirely uncalled for, is that requiring the posting of notices on property to be sold at sheriff's sale under foreclosure. To require the posting on town lots or farm lands might be all right, says the Montesano Vidette, but when an experienced cruiser is compelled to travel for days in the woods to post a notice which will be seen by no one, it is simply a farce, besides being expensive.—Centralia News.

An Eastern editor says that a man in New York got himself into trouble by marrying two wives. A Western editor replies by assuring his contemporary that a good many men in that section had done the same thing by marrying one. A Northern editor retorts that he found trouble enough by promising to marry, without going any further. A Washington editor says a friend of his was bothered enough when simply found in company with another man's wife.—Centralia News.

Old Ex-Senator and Ex-Secretary John Sherman probably smiled resignedly when he read of the Detroit zealots frantically cussing President McKinley as a panderer to venal and vicious forces and praising Alger as the soul of honor and moral character. Sherman wrote a book in which he flatly denounced Alger, specifically declaring that the soulful Alger openly bought votes in a republican national convention. Of course, this is not as serious as if it had been a democratic national convention.—Whatcom Blade.

The flag is used as a club by the imperialists every time they say "who would haul it down." Perhaps as an abstract proposition it ought to be hauled down from such places as it don't belong, like hell and Manila, but any but superficial people will look at the flag, not as a red, white and blue rag fastened to a stick, but for what it stands. Old Glory is the flag of the free and typifies liberty. If it floats in triumph over a land whose inhabitants fought against it for the sake of liberty and who owed us no allegiance, the flag flaunts a lie and is in disgrace. Bunting is not all there is to patriotism. The symbol of America is not America.—Vancouver Register.

Linderman vs E. S. Calender and C. W. Whedon—foreclosure. Jones & Guthrie, attorneys for plaintiff. The amount involved in this suit is nearly $20,000.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11, 1899.
"There is only one Alger" was displayed on two immense banners at the reception given to Ex-Secretary Alger upon his return to Detroit. This inscription stated the situation in a nutshell. If there had been more in the past eighteen months, it is painful to imagine what would have become of the country. One Alger demoralized the army, several of them would have shaken the foundations of the Government and reduced the country to a state of chaos. The people outside of Detroit regard the existence of "only one Alger" as a merciful dispensation of Providence. This Republic has to carry many burdens, heavily weighted as it is, it has still managed to keep above water. With the tribe of official Alger increased however, its burden would become greater than it could sustain. There is national rejoicing over the fact, that there is "only one Alger." Now that he has retired to private life let us hope his species will become extinct as a factor of American government. The reception accorded to Gen. Alger in Detroit was only remarkable for the utterances of Gov. Pingree. The Governor has been acting as mouth-piece of Gen. Alger and saying what the latter thinks but refrains from uttering. Through Pingree's receptive and agile mouth he can anathematize Mr. McKinley and hold him up in contempt. Gen. Alger will find Gov. Pingree a valuable medium for expressing his views of those who have relegated him to the dullness of a provincial existence at Detroit, after allowing him to taste the joys of official power of Washington. Mr. Alger will have an excellent opportunity to get "even" with the Administration who made a scapegoat of him. He has not had his money's worth, if he was, as it is asserted, a heavy contributor to the purchase of the Republican election of 1896.

As for the Philippines, there is no doubt that an entirely new deal in the matter of leadership and policy must take place soon. Gen. Otis clearly does not grasp the situation, or don't know how to deal with it. He has not men enough under his command and he is responsible for that condition of affairs, for the President has accepted his advice and judgement in the premises. Unfortunately he seems to continue to do so. Gen. Otis should be set aside at once. Mr. McKinley will have to be forced to the step by public pressure. There is plenty of better material in our army to take the place of the incapable Otis.

The recent assassination and disputed succession of Pres. Heurax of the Dominican Republic are likely to bring new problems at our doors. It is alleged that a powerful American syndicate has practically control of the finances and affairs of that country. Two warships have been ordered to San Domingo to protect American interests. Syndicates have been very well cared for by the present Administration and there is no reason why we should not take in San Domingo, if the seizure of the Philippines can be justified. All territorial syndicates ought to look alike to Mr. McKinley and "manifest destiny" ought not to make any discrimination between friends.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruption and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth velvety skin and rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Louis O. Janek's drug store.

Fine Groceries for fine people.

Four reasons why many of our first families go out of their way to trade with Pearson:

Do you know that many of our customers are the wealthiest and most particular in this town? They are the people who have tried other stores but were never fully satisfied until they came here.

WHY?

FIRST—Because we sell "guaranteed groceries." No auction goods; no seconds.

SECOND—Because we give your money back the minute you want it.

THIRD—Because our groceries are fresh and clean and pure. Nothing allowed to become shelf-worn.

FOURTH—Because our prices are lower than any other grocer who sells good groceries.

If you are not fully pleased with your present grocer, give us a trial order. You can go back to him—if you choose.

Worse Than Ellensburg.

W. R. Fithian, a relative of J. M. Brown of this city, visited Yakima last summer, hailing at that time from northern Kansas. He has since located near Edmonds, Oklahoma, and judging from the tone of a letter recently received from him by Mr. Brown, he must either live in a most remarkable climate or else Oklahoma contains an aggregation of liars impossible to beat in the whole universe. Profiting by what he has heard, Mr. Fithian has wisely made up his mind to leave that "cave of the wind" and come to Washington to reside. We quote from his letter, he says: While the wind has blown pretty hard this season, the people say it is nothing compared with what they have seen here before. One man tells me that the wind once blew a cow up against the side of a barn and kept her there for 12 days, during which time she starved to death.

The same wind blew the cracks out of the fences, sucked a cistern from the ground and moved the township line. Another man tells me that the wind here once yanked the bung-hole out of a barrel and buried it 80 miles away. A traveler out in this wind took refuge with a farmer in the latter's cellar. The house went, and the cellar soon followed, leaving them without a hole to hide in.

Another man was caught out on horseback with a jug of whiskey tied to his saddle horn; when the storm was over the man examined his jug and to his surprise found the handle on the inside, the wind having literally turned the jug inside out without spilling the precious contents." Mr Fithian thinks that if the above stories be true and he has seen much to confirm them, that he is justified in quitting the country.

Many of the leading stock men of the Pacific northwest are planning to visit three big fairs this year. It has been so arranged that they can go first to the Oregon state fair at Salem early in September. There will be plenty of time to ship the stock to the Washington state fair at Yakima, and at the close of this fair there will be plenty of time for them to get their stock to Spokane before the Spokane Industrial Exposition opens on the 3d of October.

An Enjoyable Affair.

Despite the inclement weather, the largest crowd that the Upper Natches Valley has ever had, gathered in the Kincaid school-house on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the annual social of the the Ladie's Aid Society of this place.

The exercises began at 8:30 P. M. and an excellent program was rendered. Among the many good things, the following deserve especial mention; dialogue "A Morning Call" by Mabel McPhee and Jean Sinclair, and two motion songs by six bright faced little girls of the valley. The feature of the evening however, was an impromptu speech by Hon. John H. Sinclair, one of the leading lawyers and politicians of Nova Scotia, who is here visiting his brother and other relatives. Mr. Sinclair is a ready and very entertaining speaker and his remarks were loudly applauded. Mr. H. K. Sinclair and Rev. M. Thompson also made short addresses. Another feature was music by the phonograph. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and peaches were served afterwards, and the net proceeds of the affair amounted to $17. All pronounced this the most enjoyable evening that the Natches valley has had for a long time.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong, I can't say to much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at Louis O. Janeck's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

Charles Johnson, or Charles Delaney, which Marshal Grant states is his right name, the young colored man who attempted to beat his way out of town on the brake beam of the belated westbound passenger train on Thursday, died at the hospital at 4 p. m. of the same day. Last Friday evening Professor and Mrs. St. John were pleasantly surprised by about forty members of the eighth grade and High School, who wished to spend a final evening with their old teachers. The friends of Miss Jennie McNeil in this city, were shocked on the receipt of a telegram Wednesday evening, announcing her death which occurred that day in Victoria, B. C. Miss McNeil had gone there some three weeks ago on a visit to relatives. Death is said to have been caused by diabetes. The remains it is said will be returned here for burial.

There is but little new this week in the hop outlook. No contracts that we could learn of have been made lately, and as a matter of fact there is at the present time no fixed price. The big buyers are said to be watching the outlook for a crop very closely, this being the critical time in hop season and will soon have the situation sized up sufficiently to justify them in making offers. The outlook for the English crop is said to be excellent.

The handsome brick residence of the Garrett family, on the west side, near the Columbia school house, was discovered to be on fire about 9 o'clock on Monday evening. The fire department immediately responded and made a heroic effort to save the house, but were unable to do so on account of the start the flames had secured. The insurance on the house amounted to $800 and but $200 on the furniture. The brick walls of the building are still in good condition and the house will probably be speedily rebuilt. The origin of the fire is unknown as none of the family were about the premises at the time.

Bonds will be Issued.

Before final adjournment on Monday last, the board of county commissioners passed the following resolution, which is self-explanatory:

WHEREAS, The board of county commissioners of Yakima county, state of Washington, deem it advisable to fund all the outstanding warrant indebtedness against the general county fund and the road and bridge fund, and to issue bonds to be exchanged for such warrants under the provisions of an act entitled "An act authorizing the counties of the state of Washington to contract indebtedness and to issue bonds for funding the same, approved March 21, 1890." Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the bonds of the said county to an amount sufficient to take up said warrant indebtedness be issued by said county; said bonds to be of the denomination of one thousand dollars each or in any other amount of not less than one hundred dollars each, at the bidders or purchasers, to be issued as of October 1, 1899, payable in 20 years from from date of issue and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding 7 per cent, payable annually, and the chairman of the board of county commissioners is authorized to sign the said bonds and coupons and each bond and coupon shall be attested by the clerk of said board.

Resolved, That the county treasurer publish notice in the official paper of said county that said bonds will be exchanged for the above warrants with accrued interest with such parties as will make such exchange at the lowest rate of interest, all such bonds to be taken at their face value. The interest on all such warrants shall cease on October 1, 1899, and the bidder shall make good to said county any loss or damage which it may sustain by reason of such warrants not being presented and surrendered on or before said first day of October, 1899. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The treasurer shall also state in said notice, as near as can be ascertained, the amount of said warrants outstanding, with the accrued interest thereon up to October 1, 1899.

Deputy Sheriff C. F. Lauderdale returned from Fremont, Ohio, yesterday morning where he saw Billow, the murderer, landed safely behind prison bars. State Fair Notes.

The secretary of the State Fair Commission has received the premium lists, and is busy sending them out to prospective exhibitors. Those desiring copies should call on or address the secretary, Dr. T. B. Gunn.

By arrangement with the horsemen it is expected that the large purses offered for the several races will be doubled, and additional entrees secured. This will insure a large entry list, and enable the Commission to pay the purses even though they be doubled. The secretary of the Oregon State Fair states that over one hundred entries have been made at Salem, for the harness races, and the running horses will probably number as many more. It is expected that nearly all of those horses will come to North Yakima.

As the date for this entry closes Sept. 1 all having horses for the harness races should make application to the secretary at once speed programs can be obtained from the secretary at any time. For the information of all interested, announcement is made that the program has been changed to make a 2:25 trot on Thursday, the fourth day of the Fair. The American Trotting Association rules will govern on the track.

Those who have heretofore decided not to patronize fairs should change their minds this year and visit the State Fair, for it will certainly be a success in every particular. The people of the entire State are interested more than ever before, and are coming by the hundreds to the Fair. The secretary has daily applications for exhibit space and scores of new exhibitors are promised. The dates are Sept. 25 to 30. Make preparations now to attend.

Lieutenant Maceo Here.

Lieutenant Santiago Maceo, the 21-year-old son of the famous Cuban cavalry general, Antonio Maceo, who was treacherously slain by the Spaniards under a flag of truce in 1897, arrived in this city on Tuesday on his way to New York. The young man has been in this country about four months, having been brought from Santiago in April last by Mrs. Katherine Tingley, of the International Brotherhood League, who promised to do great things for him, especially in the way of an education. The great woman brought her protegee on a trip to the coast, but owing, he says, to the harsh treatment he received, the young man felt justified in quitting her at Victoria.

Lieut. Maceo is now engaged in delivering lectures on the subject of Cuba and her suffering people, in order to accumulate the necessary amount of funds to take him back to New York, where he expects to receive some financial assistance in procuring an education. He says that his father's estate in the province of Santiago and his mother's landed property in Matanzas, was so thoroughly looted and overrun by Spanish soldiers that they are in no condition to yield returns for some time to come.

The young lieutenant was attending school in England when war broke out between his country and Spain, whereupon, though but a boy, he hastened home and offered his services to his country. He was given a commission as lieutenant under his distinguished father and rendered good service against the Spanish oppressors, as is evidenced by the fact that he carries at least four rifle wounds upon his body.

The young man has attracted a good deal of attention during his stay in the city.

To Parents.

There is no more injurious practice than that of holding toys close to a baby's face to attract his attention. More cases of cross eyes are caused in this way than from all other causes combined. The strain necessary to focus the eye for so close an object injures the muscles and throws them out of harmony. The more a child can be out of doors, looking at distant objects, the better for his eyes. He should be encouraged to hold his books and playthings at least 15 inches away. If he cannot see so well at that distance do not punish him, but have his eyes carefully examined. He needs glasses, and the sooner they are worn the better it will be for him. If your child shows the slightest tendency to cross his eyes, do not put the matter off a moment. Glasses will cure him at first, but if you wait too long nothing but an operation will do him any good. Glasses ground to fit the eye. Consultation and examination free.

Topics of the Times.

It now looks very much like "the new democracy" is growing more popular every day even in the Tammany stronghold, and that Bryan will be chosen as standard-bearer in spite of the efforts of the eastern wing of the democratic party.

Tammany sachems had prepared, with infinite pains, to launch a boom for Augustus Van Wyck at their celebration on July 4th, but at an unlucky moment the managers allowed Gov. Hogg of Texas, to spoil their whole plan. This is the sentence in Mr. Hogg's speech that did the business.

"In this great contest we want the aid of united Tammany, the greatest local political organization on earth. We want you to close up ranks, to settle your local differences, if they exist, and to go arm in arm with the stalwart breadmakers of the South and West to victory next year under the leadership of the chivalrous, the dauntless, the matchless, great American, William Jennings Bryan."

Nothing else was needed, says a dispatch. Bedlam was set loose. There were cheers for Bryan and silver. Such cheers, too. The rank and file screamed. Men leaped on chairs, yelled, shrieked and threw their hats in the air, never looking to see where they fell. Bryan's name was like an electric spark. It set off all the enthusiasm that was in the hall.

Through it all the leaders who had worked so hard and so long to avoid just such a crisis sat back and gritted their teeth and wondered why on earth they had allowed the man from Texas to come along and spoil all the game.

Augustus Van Wyck the man who was put up by Croker to beat Theodore Roosevelt in the run for governor, was to be the recipient of any and all presidential booms that were launched. He was to be the beneficiary of the eloquence of the imported men with silver tongues. "For president, Augustus Van Wyck" was the only motto that was to be hung on the outer wall.

An attempt to cheer Judge Van Wyck resulted in only a little feeble piping. Bryan was the name on the lips of nearly all of the rank and file. The enthusiasm could not be checked.

Mr. Hogg, who had evidently permitted the Tammany leaders to infer that he was with them, looked placidly about him while the structure of anti-Bryan schemers clattered about his ears. He had told some one before he went upon the platform that he would turn something loose, and he did. Even when Amos J. Cummings took occasion to chide the former governor the rotund Bryanite smiled and gave no sign of irritation.

Mr. Hogg evidently had more on his mind, but he got no chance to cast it forth. The name of Bryan was the grand climax to his speech.—The coming nation.

Kissed the Hired Man.

A Union lady, suspecting that her husband was in the habit of kissing the hired girl, resolved to detect him in the act. After watching for a few days she heard him coming home the back way one evening and passing quietly into the kitchen. Now the hired girl was out that evening and the kitchen was dark. Burning with jealousy, the injured woman took a few matches in her hand hastily putting a shawl over her head, as the hired girl often did, she entered the back door to be almost immediately seized, kissed and embraced in the most ardent manner. It was with a heart burning with rage and jealousy that the woman prepared to administer a terrible rebuke to her faithless spouse, tearing herself loose from his fond embrace she struck a match and stood face to face with their hired man! Her husband says that his wife never treated him so well since the first month they were married as she has during the past few days.—Cove (Or.) Ledger.

American Goods in England.

It becomes more and more evident every year that the sale of American goods of various kinds is steadily increasing throughout the United Kingdom. This fact is especially noticeable in the things that are wanted daily. One cannot walk down any principal street in London where first class articles are sold without seeing a notice in a store that "American hats and shoes are sold here." while in several instances the leading American manufacturers of footwear have found it necessary to open stores of their own in this country for the sale of their goods. Ten years ago such a thing was unknown. The English makers have now awakened to the true position of affairs, and, wherever their precious trade unions permit, they are adopting American methods and American shoe-making machinery.

"American tailors" is often to be seen over a clothing store. Until within the last year or two the bootblack boys on the streets used a small, square box (almost one and one-half feet square) on which the customer had to place his foot, standing meanwhile on the sidewalk, while the boy blacked the boot. Now the American style of a raised armchair has been adopted, so that one can have this little operation performed in comfort.

If you are fatigued and want refreshment you find American drinks on sale at all the leading hotels; and if you want to know the time an American watch meets you at every turn.

Nearly all of the organs and pianos used are American made.

The bread you eat at your hotel is largely made of wheat from the United States, while the beef at table is undoubtedly American. The best and easiest of English horse cars (called "tram cars") are made in America; the typewriting machine which you hear clicking in thousands of English offices is American. The water which Londoners drink (to quote only one district) is pumped through pumps made on American designs, if indeed the pumps do not actually come from the United States.

So in the most celebrated park in London, among the innumerable graceful carriages you will quickly notice the American vehicles, distinguished by their beauty and superior construction.

At the last great cycle show held in London, American machines were noticed everywhere, and the number of United States makers showing in this country on such occasions is increasing.

English railroad companies are remodeling their carriages on American methods.—Tacoma News.

Was Brief Enough.

G. A. Graham, the genial station agent of this city, who by the way is a prince among story tellers, perpetrates the following:

Jarnigan was a roadmaster on the Montana division. Lonegan was a section foreman under him, who in rendering reports to his chief, had the bad habit of making them too voluminous. Lonegan was so much given to words, in fact, that he would write long essays on trifling matter of ordinary routine. This habit of his inferior always angered Jarnigan, who had warned him repeatedly to boil down his reports. Finally, when patience had ceased to be a virtue, Jarnigan flatly informed Lonegan that he would discharge him if he sent in another long winded report. Shortly after this an accident occurred on Lonegan's section—some cars getting off the track. When the road was cleared, Lonegan, remembering his peremptory instructions, sent the following report to the roadmaster:

"Off again; on again; gone again.
"LONEGAN."

The Sunnyside Canal Trouble.

A good deal of interest has been excited and a considerable amount of indignation as well in this city over the published reports sent out from Yakima to state papers concerning the management of the Sunnyside Canal and its relations to the Dunkard colony that has settled under the big ditch, during the past season. The reports referred to would probably have been allowed to pass almost unnoticed, had it not been for a scurrilous editorial article that appeared in the Portland Oregonian of Aug. 12th, which is construed here to be a direct slap at the vital interests of Yakima, by the erratic individual who edits that organ. The accuracy of the reports sent out from here that inspired this malicious attack, have been largely denied by Mr. H. M. Lichty, one of the leading Dunkards of the colony, who when interviewed by THE DEMOCRAT in this city on Tuesday, expressly stated that while some serious differences existed between himself and other members of the colony on the one side and W. N. Granger, the general manager of the canal on the other, owing to the quantity of water being furnished, that he had never stated or authorized a statement made that he had attempted to influence some 100 other Dunkards now on their way to this country from the east to look for homes under the canal.

Mr. Lichty further stated that while he had had occasion to lay the grievances of the colony concerning the water supply, before federal Judge Hanford that he had in no way lost faith in the great future of his locality, realizing that the present dispute over water was of a merely transitory nature which could and would be speedily adjusted, according to assurances given him by Judge Hanford. As Mr. Allen was absent from the city, his efficient secretary, Mr. A. L. Slemmons, was interviewed in order to get the management's side of the controversy. Mr. Slemmons stated in effect:

"The receiver is absent and will not be able to reply this week to the falsehoods sent out in the dispatches. I saw Mr. Lichty on Tuesday and he said the dispatches were almost wholly false—that he had never given anyone such information and he was sure no other Dunkard had done so; that the receiver and Mr. Granger, the manager, had done everything in their power to give satisfactory water service to his people. I saw Mr. Boyle, who sent out the dispatches. He stated that he had not had his information from the Dunkards, and I was surprised to learn that his informant was a prominent citizen of North Yakima, who had called him into his office and given him the matter contained in his dispatches just as he sent it out.

"The matter will doubtless be sifted on Mr. Allen's return and if it is found that anyone has acted maliciously in the matter, it will be called to the attention of Judge Hanford."
