AGED MAN IS MARRIED

Sensational Case Is Brought to a Satisfactory Close by Wedding Ceremony.

KALAMA, Wash., Oct. 16.—Michael Piertier, aged 67 years, and Mary Garnett Robinson, aged 14 years, both of St. Helens, Wash., were married here at 5:45 o'clock last evening by the Rev. Mr. Temple of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The father of the bride was present and gave his consent to the marriage. On account of the bride's tender years it was agreed that she should remain at home under her mother's care for the present.

This is the ending of a sensational abduction case that happened some three months ago. As the marriage will prevent the girl from testifying against Piertier the officers at St. Helens would not allow the marriage there, as a charge of abduction was against Piertier and he was out under bonds.

Piertier was a hermit who was arrested with the girl while, he claims, he was taking her to a school of the Catholic sisters. Since his arrest he has made an attempt at suicide, which it was believed at the time would prove successful.

Senator Turner Sick.

Senator George Turner has been forced to cancel his engagements for the present on account of illness. He went as far as Cle Elum and turned back for his home in Spokane, where he will remain until his health permits him to again take the field.

Senator Turner spoke at the opera house in Ellensburg Saturday afternoon to a very crowded house. Many were turned away. He was accompanied by Hon. H. J. Snively, who made a short address. When the party reached Cle Elum Mr. Turner was feeling very bad and was unable to speak. Mr. Snively addressed the Cle Elum audience and received a big ovation. He says that Kittitas county will give Turner a handsome majority.

KUROPATKIN ESCAPES

Japs Shell Him out of His Position and Compel Him to Seek New Quarters.

TOKYO, Oct. 15.—General Kuropatkin's southern advance has been beaten back and his army is in retreat. He is, however, still doggedly fighting so as to spare the Russian army from an utter rout.

Field Marshal Oyama's triumphant troops have driven the Russians north to a line along the Shakhe river. They are vigorously pressing the pursuit and will probably inflict still more severe damage on Kuropatkin's forces.

From October 10 to October 14 the result of the continuous fighting has been favorable in every direction, while the enemy's strength was always superior. Not only was the enemy defeated, but he was vigorously pursued by us, our forces pressing him against the left bank of the Hun river and inflicting on him heavy losses.

"The guns captured number over 30 and the prisoners taken number several hundred."

"Thus the object of the enemy has been completely frustrated, and his offensive movement has ended in final failure."

"The corpses left by the enemy at different points are too numerous to be easily counted. The enemy's losses can not be easily ascertained, owing to the continuance of the fighting, but they must exceed 30,000."

"The trophies, besides the guns, include an enormous quantity of ammunition, wagons and rifles. These are still uncounted. The Russian corpses left on the field between October 10 and October 13 and buried by us exceed 2,000 in number. The bodies left after the fighting of October 14 are very numerous. Our casualties October 11 and 12 were fifteen officers killed, forty-six wounded and 1250 men killed and wounded."

SCORES THE REPUBLICANS

John C. Havemyer Roasts the Reign of Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—With a bitter note of criticism running through his words, John C. Havemyer, a millionaire himself and cousin of the sugar king, has written a 4,000 word letter in which he arraigns the Republican party, deprecates their tariff methods and cries out against the absorption of the national wealth by a favored few.

He points to the fact that our prosperity is really a myth, and says that while the laboring man is getting poorer, the few are getting wealthier.

Andrew Carnegie is made an illustration of the argument, while John E. Andrew, the $40,000,000 mayor of Yonkers, where Havemyer lives, is also assailed. Andrew is now a candidate for congress, and Havemyer declares that he has fallen under the spell of Republicanism and cannot be a good representative of this people.

Another reign of Rooseveltism, he says, might result disastrously.

ALARMING WAR NEWS

Indications are That China is on the Verge of a Great Conflict or is Preparing to Aid Japan.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Reynold's News-paper prints an alarming article in which the assertion is made that many indications point to preparations on the part of China which can only mean that the country is in fear of the breaking out of a war, or else that she is preparing to aid Japan.

One of the straws mentioned by the paper as indicating which way the wind blows is the case of a Manchester merchant who found it impossible to place certain orders as the Chinese had ordered many special lines, including half a million yards of cotton duck for tents. Last week a message was received from Shanghai stating that huge government orders for provisions are being sent to Tien Tsin.

British Are Satisfied.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The British government has made minute inquiries relative to the intention of Japan in Korea in the event of ultimate Japanese success in Manchuria and the reply has come without dodging from Tokyo that the mikado will establish a protectorate. Great Britain is satisfied with this program, and the United States, it is believed, will interpose no objection. No other powers need be considered.

Don't Fail to Register. Tomorrow is the Last Day.

RUSSIANS BADLY BEATEN

Tokyo Claims Glorious Victory Near Mukden — Russian Dead Numbers 30,000.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 16.—According to special dispatches received here Gen. Kuropatkin had a narrow escape during the fierce fighting of Wednesday night and Thursday for the possession of Temple Hill and the Double-Horned mountain east of the railroad. With his staff he was personally directing the fight at this point. Orderlies were constantly galloping up with reports from other parts of the field and carrying dispatches to and from the telephone and telegraph stations, which were working behind the hills.

This evidently attracted the attention of the Japanese, who cleverly unmasked some batteries, the shells from which burst all around the distinguished group compelling Gen. Kuropatkin to shift his position hastily and seek shelter.

It is understood that Gen. Kuropatkin before the battle commenced, again designated Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff and then Lieut. Gen. Biderling to succeed him in the command in the event of his being disabled.

THE WAY WIND BLOWS

Mock Ballots in Whitman County Indicate Trend of Public Opinion.

COLFAX, Wash., Oct. 15.—Paul Pattison has returned from the big fruit orchard of W. L. LaFollette, at Wawawai, where he was foreman of the packing house during the season. Mr. Pattison says that people in that vicinity are taking a deep interest in politics especially in the state campaign. He said:

"There were fifteen men employed at the packing house, and one day we took a poll to ascertain the way they would vote."

"On the governor thirteen favored Turner, one favored Mead and a socialist who was of the number favored the socialist candidate for governor."

One of the most prominent Republicans in Whitman county said when he heard of this straw vote: "That is about the way Whitman county will go. Probably not quite so strong in favor of Turner, but he will poll an enormous vote."

"From a poll made of the La Crose precinct it was found that Turner would get about 100 votes and Mead about 50. I can name a dozen old line Republicans who openly declare they will vote for Turner."

King of Saxony Assumes Duties.

DRESDEN, Oct. 16.—Prince John George and Princess Mathilda were at the bedside of King George when he expired at Pillnitz early yesterday morning. The new king, Frederick Augustus, eldest son of the deceased monarch, received the ministers and officers of the royal household later in the day and fixed the period of mourning at 24 weeks.

The king was also occupied with many details of taking over the government and consulting in regard to the funeral arrangements and the mourning.

Sarah Bernhardt Injured.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Sarah Bernhardt, the famous French actress, met with an accident today, which, while painful, may not result seriously, although she had a narrow escape from losing one of her eyes.

While driving at Aachen, her carriage came into collision with another vehicle and the window was shattered. A splinter of glass entered the actress' eye.

She was removed to her hotel, where an eminent eye specialist performed an operation. He reports that she is progressing favorably and no dangerous complications are likely to appear.

Kennewick Club Plans Hunt.

The Kennewick Gun club is advocating a grand wolf and goose hunt to take place in the hills south of that place the last week in this month. The locality selected for the hunt is full of coyotes and it is proposed to spend a couple of days in the old fashioned sport of following the hounds as they chase the fleet game over the level plains. No guns will be used in the wolf hunt. The wolves will be run down and killed by dogs in the same manner as foxes are hunted in the south and hares in England. Four dogs will be put in the slips at a time, and when the wolf is jumped the dogs will be turned loose and the race will begin. Those who have indulged in this sport say it is the most intoxicating of all the outdoor pastimes. Several gentlemen from this city and district have signified their intention to attend the hunt. The second day will be devoted to hunting geese, of which there are thousands in that part of the country.

REGISTRATION HEAVY

Up to Saturday Night There Had Been Recorded 1250 Voters in This City — Shows a Growing Population.

When the city clerk closed the registration books Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock there were registered 1252 voters from the various precincts of North Yakima. This would indicate at the rate they have been coming in the last few days a total registration of about 1400 when the books close next Tuesday night, October 18, at 8 o'clock.

The big registration this year is indicative of a growing population. At the rate of 5 to 1, based upon the assumption that the final count will show a registration of 1400 names, the population of the city must be at least 7000 inhabitants.

Tomorrow night at 9 o'clock all those who have failed to register will not be allowed to vote. There remains but two days more. The books are open from 8:30 in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. BE SURE AND REGISTER!

Bound Over to Superior Court.

W. E. Ryan, a tough character who has operated in these parts for some time and who was recently arrested on a charge of having picked a man's pocket at Toppensish, was given a hearing before Judge Taggard yesterday. The evidence against him was convincing and the Judge bound him over to the superior court under a two thousand dollar bond.

Almost Annihilated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 16.—It is reported in official circles that the Seventeenth army corps has suffered most. So many of its regiments were next to annihilated that the corps had to be reinforced several times.

Saw Man Kill Himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farquahr were in Seattle Saturday walking up Second avenue northward when they had the experience of witnessing a man commit suicide. The Seattle papers contained a graphic account of the spectacular manner in which George I. Miles blew out his brains Saturday afternoon on a crowded thoroughfare in the city and Mr. and Mrs. Farquahr were the only eye witnesses to the deed. They saw him coming across the street with a pistol in his hand. When he had reached the middle of the avenue he placed the revolver against his temple and pulled the trigger. Mr. Farquahr threw up his hands when the man fired and was just about to yell for a policeman when he realized that the stranger had killed himself and had not intended to scare either Mr. Farquahr or his wife. They did not gather with the curious crowd fearing they might be subpoenaed as witnesses.

The Northern Pacific's Excuse.

In a recent letter to the Commercial club of this city from a high official of the Northern Pacific railroad company, it assigns as their excuse for the shortage of cars in this section that they did not anticipate the large shipments of the Palouse wheat to eastern points, but expected the crop to go west instead. As the matter now stands the farmers must not expect immediate relief, according to the head officials of the road.

Japanese Casualties.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Central News correspondent in Tokyo writes that the Japanese lost between the 13th and 14th of October, 15 officers killed and 46 wounded. The total casualties numbered 1250.

Be Sure You Register.

But two days more are now left in which voters may register in North Yakima and the other incorporated towns of the county, which includes Yakima City, Prosser, Sunnyside and Kennewick.

We can't say how it is in these other towns, but it is certain that the registration is not yet near complete in the city of North Yakima. There is good reason for believing that there is quite 200 voters who have not yet registered. If these men's names are not down on the registration books by nine o'clock on Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, THEY CAN NOT VOTE THIS YEAR.

There may be, and doubtless is, a number of voters who may think that they are registered when they are not. As an instance of this the editor of this paper may be pardoned for referring to himself. We thought that our name was down safely on the polling book and was exhorting our friends daily to attend to that duty at once. One bright morning we accompanied a friend up to the city clerk's office to see that his name went on the rolls when the genial official in charge smilingly remarked, "Why don't you register yourself?" We gravely assured the clerk that he had performed that duty months ago, but he good-naturedly disputed that statement and his record proved that he was correct. Of course, we got our name down as quick as the law would permit it; as we wouldn't lose our vote in this campaign for a $100 bill. We merely relate this trifling incident to show how a man's memory may deceive him. And there are probably others who may be having the same experience who will wake up on election day to the fact that they have unwittingly disfranchised themselves in this memorable campaign.

Regarding "Yakima" Jones.

According to the papers Congressman Jones usually begins his speeches by "reviewing the conditions which prevailed throughout the country during the four years of Grover Cleveland's administration." The congressman invariably winds up by exhorting his hearers to vote for Mr. Mead and against the railway commission ticket.

If Mr. Jones were as good at doing things as he is at exhorting he would be a statesman of the first water, instead of merely a smooth, slippery politician who has apparently no stable convictions of any kind except such as he believes that a majority of the people favor.

On the question of railroad regulation in this state Mr. Jones, since his advent into public life, has been afraid to say that his soul is his own so fearful has he been that the railroad bosses would drop him back into obscurity.

With all the splendid opportunities that he has had to get on the right side of this railroad regulation question and representing as he does a home constituency that is clamoring for justice by reason of railroad extortion, Mr. Jones has chosen to ally himself with the pernicious railroad lobby and to use all the influence of his high position to promote the lobby's schemes to effectually control the state.

The voters of this county and state, who favor the commission law, should reason with themselves in order to find out why they should continue to support Mr. Jones, since he sees fit to ally himself with the forces of evil.

Mead Badly Handicapped.

One thing that handicaps Mr. Mead in this campaign almost as much as his well known connection with the railroad lobby is the fact that he has the ardent support of that politically desecrated statesman, John L. Wilson and his Seattle paper, the P-I. Such support was sufficient to defeat J. M. Frink, Republican candidate for governor, four years ago, and it is dragging down Mr. Mead now.

Mr. Wilson appears to think now as he thought four years ago, that the election of the Republican candidate for governor will aid him materially in his fight to get back to the United States senate. The feeling is that a weak man like Mead, if elected governor, would permit his tricky side-partner, Wilson, to peddle the patronage of the governor's office in exchange for votes for the senatorship. This fact being well known will of itself cost Mead a great many votes, for the bare chance of little Johnnie Wilson going back to the senate is a nightmare to thousands of good people in this state. It took mighty strenuous work to get him out when he accidentally slipped into a seat in the senate before and the public won't take any more chances.

Mr. Mead's chances for the governorship look mighty slim at this writing, but there is good reason to believe that the candidate might improve them by publicly repudiating the support of John L. Wilson and his vicious newspaper, the Seattle P-I.

Chairman Coleman and His Guess.

If any man doubted the popularity of George Turner in Yakima county such a man should have been present at the Turner meeting in this city last Friday evening in order to have such doubts removed. The mere mention of his name seemed to almost set the audience wild. If Mr. Coleman, chairman of the Republican county committee, was present he ought to be willing now to revise his estimate of 500 majority for Mr. Mead in Yakima county.

With all due respect to Chairman Coleman his claim that Mr. Mead will receive a majority of 500 in this county is one of the best jokes that we have heard in this campaign. We do not believe for a moment that Mr. Mead will receive a majority in Yakima county, but if he does it will be such a pitifully small one that Chairman Coleman will be very much ashamed of it when he turns it in to Boss Farrell's state committee.

The People Are for Grant.

The hearty and hilarious manner in which the big audience at the Turner meeting Friday night responded when Sheriff Grant was introduced was certainly most flattering to that gentleman and shows that the people, almost regardless of party, are for him. It showed, too, the abuse and misrepresentation which the sheriff has had to stand for has really had the effect of increasing his popularity.

The truth of the situation is that Grant is as good as elected now and his opponents are merely butting their heads against a stone wall in their frenzied efforts to defeat him.

This is a peculiar campaign in many respects. The people, however, especially in this state, are not so apathetic as the Republican politicians imagine. They have been exhibiting plenty of enthusiasm at all of Judge Turner's meetings—a fact by the way that presages that gentleman's election.

MEAD'S RAILROAD RECORD

The Political Records of Whatcom County Show That the Republican Candidate for Governor Has and Does Stand in With the Lobby.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 16.—(Special)—Thorough and complete search of the public political record of Albert E. Mead, the railroad candidate for governor, fails to show a single occasion on which he has acted or voted with the railroad commission forces. Quite the contrary, there has never been a time in his political life when the issues was raised between the railroads and those seeking to regulate the railroads when Mr. Mead has not acted and voted with the railroad forces.

The first serious contest ever waged in Whatcom county between the railroad forces and the commission forces was that of 1902. In that contest Mr. Mead was arrayed so securely on the side of the railroad forces that the leaders of these forces, after they had secured control of the Republican county convention, selected him as the chairman of that body. In that capacity Mr. Mead appointed all of the committees. For the chairman of the committee on platform he selected C. W. Howard, attorney for the Great Northern and B. B. & B. C. railroads. The platform reported by the committee and adopted by the convention contained this declaration on the subject of a railroad commission:

"The Republicans of Whatcom county deprecate any agitation or legislation that may tend to retard or embarrass the completion of the (B. B. & B. C.) railroad, now in active course of construction, and to that end we are opposed to the passage of either an elective or an appointive railway commission bill."

In the same convention Mr. Mead appointed the committee to select delegates to the state convention. The purpose of having the delegation selected by a committee, as admitted on the floor of the convention, was to shut out all railroad commission men. The committee selected a delegation of which Mr. Mead was a member.

In the Republican state convention of 1902 the great contest was between the railroad and the railroad commission forces. The railroad forces were marshalled for the battle under the leadership of such well known railroad attorneys as Will H. Thompson, Samuel H. Piles, E. H. Guie, Frank H. Brownell and C. W. Howard. A vote was taken in the convention and Mr. Mead and the entire Whatcom county delegation which he had virtually appointed voted as a unit against this commission plank:

"We are in favor of the passage of a law by the next legislature establishing a railroad commission of three members no more than two to be taken from the dominant political party, said commission to be clothed with power to regulate freight and passenger rates, to determine the value of railroad property for the purposes of assessment and taxation, to prevent unjust discrimination, and to inquire into and remedy such abuses as may be found to exist."

Railroad Men Supported Him.

In the Whatcom county contest of last spring Mr. Mead was a candidate for congress, brought out by the railroad forces after a conference of railroad leaders held in the offices of Newman & Howard, railroad attorneys. Throughout the primary contest he received the active support of the railroad leaders, even the railroad properties being manipulated and used in such a manner as to contribute to his support. J. J. Donovan, the manager of the B. B. & B. C. railroad and its subsidiary company, the B. B. I. Co. took an active part in the canvass, came out openly in Mr. Mead's favor, closed down the mills of the B. B. I. Co. a few days before the election to coerce mill hands into supporting Mr. Mead, and gave special rates on the railroad to persons desiring to come to Bellingham to vote Mead primary tickets.

The day before the primaries were held Mr. Donovan gave out an interview which was published in the railroad owned Bellingham Reveille in which he said:

J. J. Donovan Speaks Out.

"The result of next Saturday's primaries may mean more to this county than a presidential election. It may prove better to have many miles of roads fairly taxed rather than rob and ruin the few miles already built. Governor McBride's ambition has closed his eyes to justice and to truth. His slogan is rule or ruin and it speaks ill for our future policy if our people endorse that policy. A vote for A. L. Black's candidacy is a vote for McBride. A McBride victory means the paralysis of railroad building for years."

As if this were not sufficiently specific in its endorsement of Mr. Mead's candidacy Mr. Donovan wrote a letter to the Reveille which was published on the morning of April 30, the very day of the primaries, in which he said:

"The B. B. I. Co. and the B. B. & B. C. R. Co. are not in politics. * * * They (the directors and officers of those companies), are citizens seeking to advance the best interests of the county and they are supporting Mr. Mead because he has a good record and is not the tail to the McBride kite.

"Again, I repeat, a vote for Black is a vote for McBride and a slap at the railroad builders."

By these methods of misrepresentation, coercion and open railroad activity, the primaries won for Mr. Mead and the railroad forces, through his congressional candidacy, secured control of the Republican county convention. In compliance with an understanding had between Mr. Mead and the railroad leaders it was arranged so that the convention, "reposing special trust and confidence in the integrity and ability" of Mr. Mead, gave him the privilege of naming the delegation to the state convention. And again in accordance with that understanding Mr. Mead named a full delegation of railroad sympathisers, including all the more active railroad workers and two railroad attorneys, and making Mr. Donovan the chairman of the delegation.

Opposed the Commission Plank.

That delegation to the convention carried out to the letter the understanding had with the railroad leaders that it was to vote against the proposed railroad commission plank. The commission forces in that convention introduced the same resolution that was adopted by the convention of two years before. At the time it came up for consideration McBride had been eliminated and Mr. Mead's nomination agreed upon. The commission law, if passed by the Republican party, would have provided for a commission to be appointed by Mr. Mead as governor. But, even under that condition, Mr. Mead's delegation of railroad workers worked and voted as a unit against it and it was defeated for the want of the vote from Whatcom county. Had the delegation of the gubernatorial candidate of the party voted for the resolution, other railroad counties would have done so in sufficient numbers to have passed the resolution and saved the party from the disgrace which has since come upon it.

Sponsors Oppose Commission.

Again, after the state convention had been held, the contest in the Republican party in Whatcom county reverted to the railroad commission issue and all of Mr. Mead's principal political friends supporters and sponsors, the men who had secured him the endorsement of the county as a congressional candidate, arrayed themselves on the side of the railroad forces. In short the lines were drawn in the second contest exactly where they were in the first, between the supporters of Mr. Black and those of Mr. Mead in the spring contest. For proof of this there is the statement of the railroad-owned Reveille published Sept. 23:

"In the senatorial nomination from the country district the lines are drawn on the Mead-Black contest of the last summer. T. A. Hunter of Blaine was linked with Mr. Fairchild in the fight for Mead, while Fenton Merrill was out for Mr. Black's candidacy."

In the legislative district convention in the country district referred to the Merriss-commission faction elected a majority of the delegates and organized the convention, but their majority was overthrown by coercion, duress and fraud, the Mead-Hunter-railroad minority prevailed. Mr. Merrill was defeated and Mr. Hunter was nominated. The county convention which was controlled by the Mead-Hunter-railroad forces was framed up so as to absolutely prevent the reading or consideration of this resolution offered by State Senator W. R. Moultray, a leader of the commission forces:

"We favor the creation of a regulative railroad commission with power to regulate rates found to be unjust, and to correct such other abuses as are found to exist."

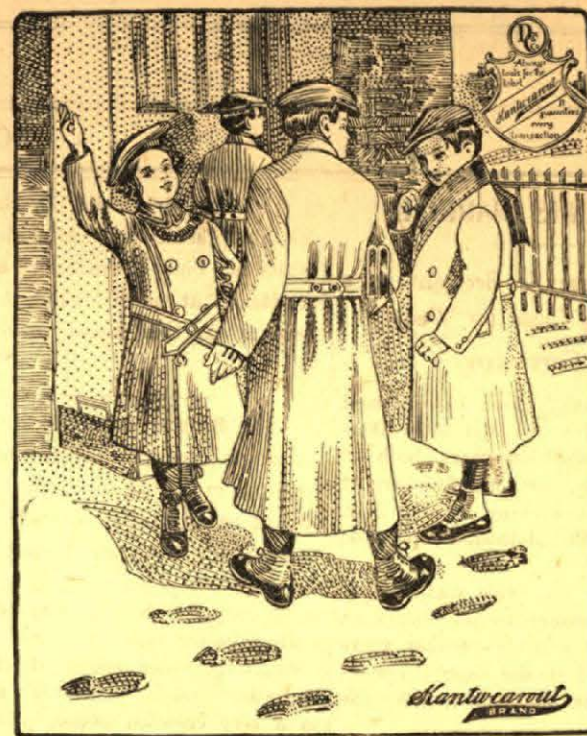

The railroad commission men, feeling aggrieved at having their majority in the district convention overridden, brought out their legislative candidates as independents and Mr. Merrill, in announcing his candidacy proclaimed the platform on which they were running. He said:

"If elected to the state senate I shall work and vote for a regulative railroad commission bill as a means of removing from our politics one of the most corrupting influences surrounding it, that of the salaried railroad lobby."

After this independent ticket had been nominated and this issue raised the Democrats of the district endorsed the commission Republican ticket, but the sponsors of Mr. Mead, including the railroad attorneys and leaders who secured his nomination at Tacoma, and Harry Fairchild, his personal representative on the Republican state central committee continued to give their most ardent support to the railroad ticket.

The logic of all of these facts points unmistakably to the conclusion that the whole trend of Mr. Mead's political conduct is one of subservience to railroad

JOE SMITH.

Dave Larrimer, the "politician" of the Spokesman-Review, who, by the way, is really one of the best politicians in the state, delivers himself of the following remarks anent Mr. Jones of Yakima:

"Congressman Jones and his friends make no secret of their belief that in the event the state is divided into congressional districts Mr. Jones will be defeated for renomination two years from now. Eastern Washington, in the event of districting, would almost certainly be put in a district by itself and those who attended the Tacoma convention know that the leaders of the eastern Washington delegations in that convention regarded Mr. Jones as an ally of the railroad crowd. Those same men will probably head most of the eastern Washington delegations next time, and would control an eastern Washington congressional caucus, with probably fatal results to Mr. Jones' ambition to remain in public life.

"Mr. Jones makes no secret of his opposition to districting the state, and the belief is prevalent that his present attitude of subservience to the Farrell leaders is actuated either by a hope or by a direct promise that when the legislature meets they will take care of him, and either prevent the passage of a districting bill or see to it that Yakima county is not placed in a district with the balance of eastern Washington."

The last beating that the Japs have given the Russians seems to have been worse than any that preceded it, the Russian losses being conservatively estimated at 30,000 men. If Russia is wise she will give it up now as a bad job and leave the brave and determined little brown men in control of Manchuria.

Lou Dillon, the world's champion trotting mare, broke all records one day last week on the Memphis track by making the mile in 2:01½.

George Stevenson, because of his successful work in the same line in the past, has been employed by Charles Sweeney, the millionaire mine owner of Spokane, as manager of his senatorial candidacy. Stevenson is said to be up to his old trick of placing money where it will do the most good in the election of legislative candidates secretly pledged to Sweeney. As a part of his game Stevenson is opposing Mead for governor because Mead is a Wilson man and if elected would do all in his power to send Wilson back to the United States senate. Here we have the whole secret of Stevenson's activity in this campaign.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Yakima Needs Railway Commission.

The Yakima delegates to the Tacoma convention stood with the railroad lobby against a railway commission. The county is now getting its reward from the railroads. Many thousands of dollars worth of perishable products is going to waste because the Northern Pacific railroad will not supply freight cars to shippers. The car famine has existed over three months and conditions are growing worse instead of better. Farmers cannot sell anything that requires immediate shipment and produce is rotting on their hands. One hundred cars a day could be used at North Yakima for the next three months, but they can not be obtained, as the railroad has ordered its agents to send cars only to competitive points. As Yakima is entirely dependent upon the Northern Pacific business is at a standstill. One of the duties of a state railway commission would be to remedy such an unfortunate condition as that existing at North Yakima. Perhaps this severe object lesson will teach Yakima republicans the folly of trucking to the railroad lobby. Congressman Jones should endeavor to enlighten his immediate constituents on this question.—Walla Walla Statesman.

While Mr. Mead and other Republicans on the stump and in the press are denouncing the Democrats for discussing the fact that the railroads dominated the Tacoma nominations they should bear in mind that they are not in positions to make denials that deny. It is also significant that none of them deny the fact of the caucus in a railroad man's private car, nor produce denials from any of the men who participated in that caucus although their names have been frequently published—Seattle Times.

They Confess Their Folly.

The republican managers concede, in signed statements, that Mead will run nearly 19,000 votes behind President Roosevelt. Of course their admission does not begin to tell the full story of the revolt against the Farrell railroad ticket. The disaffection is far greater than they will concede—so widespread and deep-seated that there is the best of reason to believe that the whole Farrell ticket will be swept into oblivion by the voters.

Surely by this time those republican politicians who aided the railroad agents in their reckless assault on the republican party must begin to understand how great was their folly. There is not the slightest doubt that if the Tacoma convention had declared for a railroad commission and nominated Governor McBride and a ticket in harmony with his policies, the state ticket would now be running shoulder to shoulder with President Roosevelt, and its election by majorities ranging from 20,000 to 30,000 would be practically unquestioned.

Unfortunately while a large number of the delegates to the state convention foresaw the impending disaster, they were powerless to save their party from the disgrace and disaster which the railroad agents have brought upon it. Lamentably the control of the party has passed, for the time, into the hands of scheming railroad agents and railroad politicians who were willing to subject the party to any degree of danger if only their own selfish ends could be furthered. These men are not true republicans. At heart they have no party. They are out for spoils, and would drive the party into any depths rather than have it stand for decency and good government.—Spokesman-Review.

They Attack Roosevelt.

The average republican cares nothing about what J. D. Farrell, or John L. Wilson, or B. S. Grosscup thinks of Judge Turner. If he is an old resident of the state he knows of his own observation that Mr. Turner was the most distinguished member of the constitutional convention; that he has stood like a rock for good government and public rights, and that his service as United States senator reflected credit on the state that sent him.

If the voter is a newcomer he knows that when President Roosevelt selected Judge Turner to accompany to London

Secretary Root and Senator Lodge as the third American member of the Alaska boundary commission, he paid the highest sort of tribute to the man and the statesman. President Roosevelt makes no mistakes in appointments of that high character. He is not sending poor material to represent the United States on an international tribunal. For such missions he demands patriotism, and pre-eminent ability, and dignity, and the highest character of citizenship. When the railroad organs and agents try to belittle Judge Turner they but foolishly assail the administration of President Roosevelt.—Spokesman-Review.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

Weak Men Magnify While Strong Men Overcome All Obstacles.

The young man who, after making up his mind what he wants to do in the world, begins to hunt up obstacles in his path, to magnify them, to brood over them until they become mountains and then to wait for new ones to develop, is not a man to take hold of great enterprises. The man who stops to weigh and consider every possible danger or objection never amounts to anything. He is a small man, made for little things. He walks around an obstacle and goes as far as he can easily, but when the going gets hard he stops.

The strong man, the positive, decisive soul who has a programme and who is determined to carry it out, cuts his way to his goal regardless of difficulties. It is the wabblers, the weak kneed man, the discouraged man, who turns aside, who takes a crooked path to his goal. Men who achieve things, who get things done, do not spend time haggling over perplexities or wondering whether they can overcome them. A penny held close to the eye will shut out the sun. When a man lies down on the ground to see what is ahead of him, a rock may hide a mountain. A small man holds petty difficulties so closely in view that great objects beyond are entirely shut out of sight. Great minds keep their eyes on the goal. They hold the end so persistently in view and it looks so grand and desirable that the intermediate steps, no matter how perplexing, are of comparatively little importance. The great man asks but one question, "Can the thing be done?" not "How many difficulties will I run across?" If it is within the reach of possibility all hindrances must be pushed aside.—O. S. Marden in Success.

LOOKED LIKE A TRAP.

Clever Oriental Strategem That Was a Complete Success.

Many a man has failed to guess an easy riddle because the simple solution looked like a trap to him. Here is an instance in which this trait of human nature was cleverly played upon by a Japanese nobleman.

The old lord had been forced to flee with only 300 men before an enemy with 10,000 and barely had time to reach his castle ahead of his foes. There were no re-enforcements near at hand, and he knew that if an attempt was made to storm his defenses he and his men would be dead before help could come.

The enemy's forces advanced rapidly, and scouts rode up near the castle to reconnoiter. To their amazement, they found the gates, doors and windows open and all the appearance of a holiday celebration. They rode hastily back to inform their master that the foe was dancing and that bands were playing music in the castle.

The powerful enemy was too wise a man to put his head into any such trap as that. The defenders of the castle must have some plan to slaughter his forces by wholesale or they would never invite him in that way. He drew back a safe distance and encamped to await developments.

Soon the re-enforcements for the castle came up behind, attacked him suddenly and defeated him, while the garrison which had risked all on its strategem, charged him on the other side.

OLD SUITS OF ARMOR.

They Are Too Short For the Average Englishman of Today.

A walk through the Tower of London will convince any person that the armor clad knights of mediaeval days were puny men compared with the athlete of today.

The experiment of getting into suits of old armor in country houses has often proved that the "legs" are far too short for the average man of the present generation.

A well known anthropologist at the British museum says that undoubtedly the British race is taller than it was several hundred years ago.

"I think, however, that the mediaeval man was deeper chested and broader in the shoulders," he said. "The old armor, if a man of good average height could squeeze into it today, would be found loose fitting in the shoulders and at the chest. The tallest men in the world come from Galloway and Perthshire, and Yorkshire's average is a fine one. Even that of southwest England and south Wales—five feet six inches—is far higher than that of many of the continental nations. The tallest men after the men of Galloway, who have an average of nearly six feet, are the Fulahs of the French Sudan, and the Patagonians are believed to hold a very good average."—London Express.

SPORTING RIGHTS.

Only Source of Income of Many Titled English Families.

Were it not for the enormous sums paid for fishing and shooting rights many people of ancient names and goodly title would, in the most literal sense, have no means of livelihood whatever, and only the other day one of the best known property agents of the west end of London drew up for the writer a list of a dozen people mixing in society of an exclusive kind every penny of whose income is derived from the letting of sporting rights.

Nearly all the money thus expended has been made in commerce, and the agent referred to above showed documentary evidence proving that there are lots of men who do not mind paying as much as £100 for every deer, £3 for every trout and £20 every salmon on they kill, plus the sport of killing them. One of the most remarkable features of this letting is the fact that only about one in every hundred of the owners of ancient sporting rights ever enjoys his privileges as a sportsman. He either prefers or is compelled to part with such privileges, and those who take advantage of them are nearly all people in business.

This renting of fishing and sporting has even extended down to comparatively humble people in the provinces. Many a small Yorkshire farmer is being kept, and well kept, not by his farming, but by the letting of some comparatively insignificant sporting right.—London Tit-Bits.

Holmes' Inspiration.

There is hardly room for doubt that Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was encouraged to write his "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" by reading "Table Talk"—being "The Discourses of John Selden, Esq., or His Sense of Various Matters of Weight and High Consequence Relating Especially to Religion and State." The work belongs to 1634-54 and treats of such topics as articles, baptism, Bible, bishops, books, ceremony, Christmas, clergy, confessions, conscience, creed, duel, epitaph, faith and works, gentlemen, holy days, idolatry, Jews, juggling, king, law, lectures, liturgy, marriage, money, oaths, oracles, poetry, popery, presbytery, proverbs, religion, sacraments, trade, truth, university, wit and women. #### The Beet Sugar Factory.

Melville Stone left Saturday afternoon for Seattle, having been called over to that city by C. W. Adams and others interested in the proposed beet sugar factory.

Mr. Stone said to The Democrat before leaving that in his judgment the prospects for the location of the factory near this city looked bright, although it depended entirely on the local people as to whether or not they would meet the company's conditions. The probabilities, however, were that they would.

As soon as the matter was definitely determined, Mr. Stone said, Mr. Prine of Denver, who has been selected as the agriculturist of the company, would be sent for. That gentleman will aid the committee in the matter of securing the needed acreage and of giving instructions and advice to the farmers in the way of preparing the ground and planting the crop.

HOW TURKS MAKE COFFEE.

It isn't Easy, but the Product is Delightful in Its Flavor.

To make the perfect cup of Turkish coffee is, like many other things, very easy when the maker knows how to do it, but unless the art has been learned in Turkey it is difficult.

No one can make a perfect cup of coffee unless he has been to Turkey. There is as much difference between the ordinary cup of coffee and the exquisite and alluring beverage with all its subtle aroma as made by the artist as there is between horseflesh and the best English beef. The Turks' method is simple. They have many little pots of various sizes. If they want to make two cups only they use the smaller one, and if three cups a larger one. When the water has boiled they fill the little pot almost to the top with water, then put in three lumps of sugar and put the pot on the fire to boil. When it is hot they put in two teaspoonfuls of coffee ground very fine and then stir it round until it is thoroughly mixed with the water.

The next step is to place the pot on the fire again and watch it very carefully until the coffee bubbles up to a froth, and before this froth escapes over the side you take the pot from the fire and tap the bottom gently on the stove till the froth goes down. Once again the coffee is allowed to bubble over the fire, and the process of tapping the pot on the stove is repeated three times.

When the froth rises to the surface for the fourth time the pot should be taken from the fire and the coffee should be poured first into one cup and then into another, so that each cup contains a portion of the froth on the top.

The Englishman cannot make coffee at all. He tries hard, but never succeeds either in making a perfect cup of Turkish or French coffee. The Frenchman, on the other hand, also tries hard to make a perfect cup of Turkish coffee, but he meets with little more success than the Englishman.

One thing must never be forgotten—the coffee must be freshly roasted and ground. It must not be roasted too black. A dark brown is the ideal color. Then the flavor is divine.—Boston Globe.

Perished in Pursuit of Prey.

Among the curiosities of the Northampton (England) museum there is none more interesting than a glass case containing a smoked cat. In her lifetime puss was a respected resident in a hotel in the town and certainly paid for her keep by proficiency in mousing. One day, however, she disappeared—was searched for, lamented, forgotten—till years after a workman repairing a chimney in the hotel threw a sudden light on the mystery of her fate. She was discovered clinging in an angle of the brickwork just as she now appears in the glass case and clinched in each front paw was a smoked, dried mouse. Flying for their lives up the broad chimney, the mouse had led the way not only to death, but to unexpected immortality.

Dickens' School Pets.

When Charles Dickens was a boy a Wellington House academy it was the secret pride of the students there that they owned more white mice, red polts and linnets than any other set of boys within their ken. These were kept in hat boxes, drawers and even in the school desks. A small but very accomplished mouse which lived in the corner of a Latin dictionary in Dickens' desk and could draw Roman chariots, fire paper muskets and scale pasteboard ladders fell at last into an overfull ink pot and lost both its white coat and its life. Dickens nevertheless won a prize for his Latin.
