OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE administration of Mayor Humes in Seattle is bearing the fruits of his own planting. Immunity to crime is the parent of countless offenses against the moral code of which murder is but an incident. No infraction of law can be suffered to go unpunished without a train of evils following in the wake. The killing of ex-Chief of Police Meredith by John Considine Tuesday evening is the climax of the sensational arrest recently of the editor of the Republican by the former for libel. The tragedy can be traced indirectly to the "wide open policy" pursued by the present mayor. Both participants in the fatal duel were "wide open" partisans, and their personal quarrel resulted in the removal of Meredith from office and hence the fatal ending to the controversy. The moral atmosphere will be clearer for a while in Seattle, but unceasing vigilance on the part of the law and order league will be necessary to keep it so. Efforts of a community to single out any particular form of gambling, leaving other and worse forms to run unmolested, will come to naught. Gambling is a vice interdicted by law which any citizen is at liberty to suppress by a proper complaint. Neither officers nor citizens, however, should be encouraged to single out a particular gambler or a particular game for punishment. No genuine reform can be worked that way.

IT appears that there is to be a duplication of the Oklahoma rush for homes in the opening of settlement of the Kiowa-Comanche-Apache reservation in Indian territory. An eye-witness thus describes conditions near the "dead-line": "Only last Monday two friends and myself drove over to the border from Oklahoma City, and the sight that greeted us was one of terrible destitution. Twenty thousand men, women and children are massed on the border, and half of them are utterly destitute. Only a small percentage have even tents to sleep in, but huddle under the wagons and such sheltering trees as they can find. At least 5,000 of them have been there a year and a half. They went with possibly $200 or $300 and have made nothing since they arrived. Simply waiting—waiting."

IN order to keep in touch with cities of larger growth, certain citizens of Yakima are agitating the organization of a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. To be successful in such a humanitarian enterprise, much common sense must be exercised. Along conservative lines the society would be of great service in protecting dumb animals from unnecessary cruelty or harsh treatment. No sectarian bias or cranky ideas should be permitted to permeate or influence the order. Properly conducted the movement will be popular and of great and lasting benefit to the community at large.

CHARLIE FOSTER, ex-secretary of the treasury, is up against the real thing now. Charlie has been summarily retired from Ohio politics by Mark Hanna's political trust. He inveighs bitterly against the "dangers of local imperialism," as represented in the persons of Hanna and Foraker. Foreign imperialism in the Philippines and Puerto Rico are all right in Charlie's estimation, but local imperialism in Ohio with him left out in the cold ought not to be countenanced in the slightest degree. Charlie is evidently at variance with himself, as well as with Hanna.

RAILWAY consolidation of today sets the pace for the formation of all other trusts. Time was when the oil, steel and coal octapuses were regarded as the "hydra-headed monsters" that sapped the life-blood from the body politic; but now these small "incubuses" are but "trifles light as air" compared with the weightier growth promulgated by J. Pierpont Morgan et al. As was remarked by the farmer who had an exasperating calf that required only a lengthened tether with which to break its own neck, the people can only say of the trusts, "Give the calf more rope."

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY, the great and life long apostle and exponent of high protection, has changed front to such an extent that he thinks this country is now practically ready to adopt the old democratic theory of a tariff for revenue only. One by one are the tenets and slogans of the old republican party gradually slipping away, and now we hear the small-fry of the republican party falling over themselves to get in line with McKinley—that is, all but those who derive a direct benefit from articles protected from foreign competition by the Dingley bill.

REPUBLICAN journals are in great glee over the harmonious session of the Ohio state republican convention last Tuesday, when the present incumbents were renominated for the offices and Foraker and Hanna endorsed as U. S. senators. Marcus A. was chairman of the aggregation, and if there is anything he is particularly long on besides the "green" it is in displays of "harmony" when the political occasion arises. Of course, Mark touched the button and there was nothing for the other chumps to do but the "rest."

THE damaging floods in West Virginia this week vividly recall the Johnstown disaster in reports of loss of life and property. In the coal sections of the state large settlements are built in narrow river gorges and when a cloud-burst or heavy rainstorm occurs at the source of the little mountain streams they swell to raging torrents and carry everything before them, leaving death and devastation in their wake.

People should learn by experience the danger of locating villiages in death-traps, from which there is hardly a chance of escape.

FROM the fulsome reports sent over the cable of the hobnobbing between our multi-millionaires who are doing (or trying to do) London and the blue-bloods of England, including the king himself, it would appear that the entente cordiale has recently been advanced several degrees. Speaker Henderson, of the house, is the latest "distinguished American" to have his fame increased by the open recognition of Edward III., and he returns home as proud as a seven-year-old boy with new red-top boots. We're gittin' thar.

THE marvelous growth of this city in the first year of the new century is a common observation of the onlooker. Stately blocks of business houses and elegant and tasteful residences are springing up on every hand. The streets are being repaired and extended, with the adjuncts of water and sewer mains and countless shade trees line the walks, affording comfort and adding to the beauty of the thoroughfares. The addition of a dozen restaurants and hotels also attest the rapid increase in population and wealth.

EACH succeeding battleship added to the United States navy makes a new record for speed and efficiency. There appears no limit to the inventive genius of the Yankee, and if the improvement continues we may hope eventually to perfect a war machine which will do away with men and guns, and abrogate the old saying, "Rule Britannia rules the waves," for we are fast becoming one of the war-like nations, and to maintain supremacy as such requires the perfection of the implements of war.

THAT canny Scot, Carnegie, has revoked his determination to die poor by having a string tied to a hundred millions, which he will settle upon the sole heir to his house and heart, his daughter. Twenty years from now the newspapers will team with the announcement of the ducal engagement of Miss Carnegie and a scion of the reigning family of England.

H. A. BIGELOW, of Stevens Post No. 1, Seattle, was elected department commander of the G. A. R. for Washington by that body in session at Tacoma this week, and Mrs. Jennie Wiscomb of Spokane is the new president of the W. R. C. The two organizations will hold their next annual meeting at Everett.

A Tacoman named Lillywhite, charged with murder in London, has been released, it being a case of mistaken identity. He threatens John Bull with a damage suit. John would do well to try his nursery rhyme plan of taking him by the "Lily white hand and lead him o'er the water."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

J. M. Baxter and wife returned from the Sound Wednesday.

Sells & Grays circus is booked for North Yakima about August 1st.

Commissioners court will meet in regular quarterly session next Monday.

Mrs. A. Schindler has been visiting friends in Ellensburg for several days.

F. H. Plumb has been confined to his bed with sickness for the past ten days.

Robert Mehaffy and Charles Rodman came down from the Nile the first of the week.

Roy Rogers returned Tuesday from Dawson where he has been for the past ten months.

The circus last Saturday brought out the largest crowd North Yakima has had for a long time.

Mrs. Walter F. Tuesley and Miss Nora Plumb are delegates to the state convention of Christian Endeavor societies in Tacoma.

Mrs. Dick McDaniel and daughter, Nita, left Monday for Dawson, where Dick McDaniel has been for several years past.

F. L. Wheeler and bride returned home Wednesday from an extended bridal tour east and through British Columbia.

Next Monday will be motion day in the superior court for the purpose of fixing matters for trial in the court on the following week.

Last Tuesday Justice Taggard administered the nuptial vows to Benson R. Henry, of Washington county, Oregon, and Mrs. Adeline Purdin, of North Yakima.

The many friends of R. K. Nichols will be pleased to hear of his appointment as superintendent of the Rainier forest reserve, at a salary of $100 per month.

Capt. Kingsbury has just finished platting the cemetery, and it will be ready for the public as soon as Mr. Chisholm has the fence completed.—Prosser Record.

H. Kampeter on Tuesday brought into town what is claimed to be the largest load of mixed green vegetables ever disposed of here. The load at wholesale netted $33.

Owners of slot machines have been notified by Prosecuting Attorney Guthrie that the machines must be closed at once if they wish to escape prosecution under the state law.

Died, at North Yakima, June, 24th, Inez, the 8-year-old daughter of Daniel and Ellen Van Norman. Death resulted from a surgical operation to remove a tubercular growth in the throat.

Contractor Burlingame has been on the Sound this week securing rails and other necessary materials for the construction of a tramway for hauling rock to the crusher along the hillside at the Yakima gap.

The first cutting of alfalfa has been generally completed and proved an enormous yield. It goes into the various stack yards in fine condition, the weather having been most favorable for properly curing the crop.

Mr. A. J. Splawn returned here from Seattle with his wife who is much improved in health. Mrs. Splawn will remain here with her mother for a few days, and then go to her home in Yakima.—Ellensburg Localizer.

No definite news has yet been received of the whereabouts of R. B. Johnson, the Nob Hill rancher whose mysterious disappearance from home was reported last week. It is supposed he has gone to his old haunts in Honolulu.

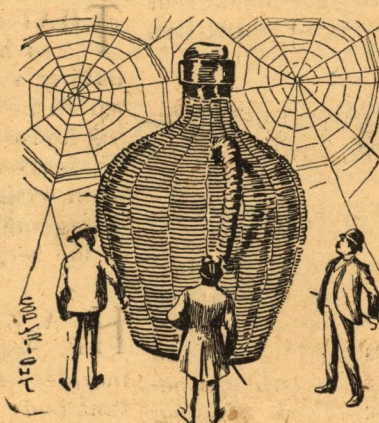

A chapter of accidents befell a Mr. Justice, living on the Wenas, last Friday. His house was burned and in attempting to quench the flames, he fell over a wagon tongue, breaking an arm necessitating a stay in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

The similarity in the fines imposed in the police court would seem to indicate that the offenses against the ordinances of this city were uniform in character. A drunken Indian, an assault on an officer or a circus ruffian who strikes a citizen on the head with a rock, each appear to get the same dose—five dollars and trimmings.

Mr. Jake Pahl, the man who was shot by McGrath some days ago on the south border of Yakima county, and who went to Ellensburg after the preliminary trial before Justice Taggard, returned yesterday very much improved. Mr. Pahl will probably always have to carry the lead left in his person because of his conflict with McGrath, as the doctors say his life would be imperilled by the operation necessary to extract the bullets.

Rev. Martin Panghorst, mentioned in last week's DEMOCRAT as being in the city in hopes of benefitting his health, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital Saturday morning, June 22. Father Panghorst was 38 years of age, a native of Germany, having several years ago been located in North Yakima in charge of the Catholic church here. At the time of his death, which was occasioned by consumption, he was in charge of the Couer d'Alene mission.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

W. P. Guthrie and wife left Wednesday for a month's visit to their former home at Bethany, Ill.

Randolph Scudder has been appointed by Congressman Jones as a cadet to the Annapolis naval academy.

Walter J. Reed has lately laid out a new addition to Cle-Elum, and the lots are said to be in good demand.

Mrs. F. B. Shardlow left for Tacoma Monday as a delegate to the W. R. C. in session in that city this week.

W. A. Privett, wife and two children, of Ellensburg, spent several days with relatives in North Yakima this week.

John Walters last Saturday sold his beautiful team of dappled grays to Campbell Bros.' circus for about $300.

Rev. Dr. Hayden on Wednesday united in marriage C. A. Bell, of Minneapolis, and Miss Alice N. Thomas, of Parker.

Mrs. J. P. McCafferty, with her son and daughter, left Wednesday for Cleveland, Ohio, on a visit of several months with relatives.

County Treasurer Dudley will on July 3 sell at the stockyards 67 head of horses belonging to a non-resident, for unpaid personal taxes.

Fine music has been secured for the ball of the Woodmen of the World at the new armory, July 4th. All who attend will be sure to have a good time.

City Marshal Boyle has had his dwelling moved to lots on the corner of Nat-cheez avenue and Maple street and is making quite an addition thereto.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grissom, of Ellensburg, died at the residence of her son, Thomas Grissom, on the Ahtanum, Thursday, June 29, aged 70 years. The body was shipped to Ellensburg for interment.

Representatives from the local G. A. R. post to the meeting of the state organization at Tacoma this week, were L. Hatfield, C. V. Bissell, Wm. Badger, Levi Canfield, J. E. Schwartz and J. M. Jackson.

The county auditor last Saturday issued a marriage license to Ernest S. Hill and Mrs. Mary B. Case, both of the Moxee; and on Monday to George Rice, of Horse Heaven, and Miss Jennie Wilgus, of Prosser.

The contract for grading the approaches to the new bridge across the Yakima at Alfalfa has been awarded by the county commissioners to M. Sisk. About 4000 yards of earth will be moved at 10½ cents per cubic yard.

Peter Pengruber, J. Ponti and wife and Mrs. D. S. Sprinkle, of Prosser, were in the city last Friday to attend the closing exercises of St. Joseph's academy, where each had a daughter in attendance upon school.

N. E. Stanton, a recent arrival from Little Falls, Minn., has purchased a lot on the north side of West Yakima avenue and is now constructing a frame building 25x30 feet in which he will shortly open up a stock of general merchandise.

Judge W. R. Bell, of Seattle, came in yesterday afternoon to hear arguments on motions for new trials in cases heard before him during his sitting here in May term of court and to settle other matters before him as special judge during that term.

The recital of the piano pupils of Mrs. Guy McL. Richards at the Congregational church, Thursday and Friday evening was a pronounced success. About thirty pupils pleased the large audiences with their proficiency in music. In the various grades of music, from the most simple to the most difficult, the skill of Mrs. Richards as an instructor of the piano, was apparent and appreciated by her patrons.

J. M. Hall and family will leave next Monday, with team via The Dalles, for their new home near Salem, Ore. Mr. Hall has been a resident of the Yakima valley for the past sixteen years, and the numerous strong friends of himself and family wish them abundant success in their new home, but hope they will not prove exceptions to the recognized rule that people having once lived here can not stay away from Yakima.

W. H. Vessey, the well known sheep man of Yakima county, has recently visited Idaho with a view of locating there. After a careful investigation Mr. Vessey has concluded that the Yakima valley is much superior to any of the Idaho country. However, Mr. Vessey says that owing to poor railroad facilities alfalfa hay is so cheap in Idaho that he will put a band or two of sheep in that section during the next winter, though he will continue to make Yakima his permanent headquarters.

L. H. GALE, Press Supt.

Thinking perhaps our reading public would like to know something of "Fortress Monroe," and the "National soldiers' home," we will give the letter of Mrs. Ellis in this week's "Signal", if our kind editor will publish.

Dear Signal:—As we approach Old Point Comfort our attention is drawn to two fine hotels standing boldly out—the Chamberlin and the Hygeria, built on the government reservation, overlooking the magnificent sheet of water known as Hampton Roads, where was fought the famous battle between the Monitor and Merrimac; and where at the close of our war with Spain the war vessels of Uncle Sam's navy were anchored while donning their usual garb of white, which had given place to the dull grey they assume when in fighting time.

Just beyond, a little to the right, the frowning ramparts of Fortress Monroe with guns pointing seaward is noted. A little farther, on the cupola and roofs of many large buildings are nestling amid the dense foliage, and a ride of twenty miles by trolley brings us to the grounds of the National soldiers home of Virginia. Still farther and but a short walk from the home, is located Hampton Normal school, that noble institution whose fame has gone out over the nation and across the seas. Here it was that Booker T. Washington received his education, tramping all the way from his home in Alabama to satisfy the longing of his heart, and now, his school at Tuskegee is carried on along the same general lines. Three splendid institutions side by side are all carried on to the highest point of excellence. Six hundred young soldiers at Fortress Monroe, strong, brave, alert, ready for service; three thousand old soldiers in the Home, who have given their best service to their country, now cared for by a grateful people; six hundred students at Hampton, many coming from the humble cabin of the negro, others from the wild free life of the prairie Indian.

The "Ella M. Thacker Temperance Union" is doing well. It was my privilege to address a large audience of veterans one evening during my stay, and I rejoiced in the good work Mrs. Bradley is doing. But here as everywhere, no matter how beautiful the surroundings, "Satan came also." Here the beer hall is doing a thriving business, I saw kegs of beer going by, wagon loads of them—Uncle Sam laying in beer for his wards! And then there is Phoebe! No one, until they see the conditions can realize what Phoebe is, and what it is doing. A little town with a small population and over one hundred saloons! On one side only a short walk away are the young soldiers; on the other only a short walk away the old soldier, and less than half a mile Hampton school, while crouching between, lies the town of Phoebe, like a lion in his lair, ready to devour. As I rode by these saloons the long porches were filled with old soldiers, who from appearances were steady patrons of the bar. And when on my way later to the boat landings there were these old decrepit men tottering in a drunken stupor into their graves. They had been pelted with cold lead, faced death; but had surrendered to despotic alcohol. One day before the house committee on military affairs, a veteran member said gruffly, "You can't expect to keep an old soldier sober." I answered, "That is the very reason we want to keep the young soldiers sober." The government that these men have so bravely served putting before them that which enslaves is a mystery, and we are grateful for the anti-canteen law, which removes temptation at least in the army post.

MARGARET DYE-ELLISS.

Marriage Anniversary.

On Thursday evening, at the parsonage of the Congregational church, on South Sixth street, Rev. P. B. Jackson and wife were the recipients of hearty congratulations from numerous friends on the occasion of the celebration of the eighteenth anniversary of their marriage. The reception rooms were handsomely decorated with flowers, and light refreshments were served. Those present to tender congratulations during the evening were:

Mesdames, Whitson, Lombard, Dixon, Cornett, Horseley, Readle, Coe, Mattoon, Moore, Warner, Stair, Conner, Vance, Graham, Norton, Keck, Mabry, Donald, McDermot, Woolf, Elliot, Weed, Kneer, Stacy, Smith, Barge, Davidson, Brooker, Cleman, Rankin, Plumb, Lemon, Hoyt, Hoffman, Englehart, Moran, Ayres, Richie, Gilbert, Lum, Misses, Heller, Davidson, Lum, Myer, Lombard, May, Elliott. Messrs. Horseley, Bell, Tuesley, Readle, Coe, Mattoon, Moore, Warner, Conner, Vance, Graham, Keck, Donald, McDermot, Weed, Kneer, Barge, Brooker, Rankin, Plumb, Lemon, Hoyt, Hoffman, Englehart, Moran, Richie, Gilbert, Lum, Baker, Wells, Myer, Wilson, Ayres.

Mesdames Whitson and Horseley assisted in the reception, and Miss Lombard and Miss Lottie Lum served the ices.

Public School Matters.

C. W. McCurdy has resigned the superintendency of the city schools to accept a professorship in a Philadelphia college. This action came as quite a surprise to the board and the public generally. No successor of Prof. McCurdy has yet been chosen, although several applications for the position have been received. Miss Heller has tendered her resignation as principal of the Latin department, as has also Miss Tripp as teacher of the sixth grade in the High school building. These, with the vacancy in the position of assistant in the eighth grade of the Central school, leave three places to be filled, in addition to the appointment of a successor to Superintendent McCurdy.

A Yellow Journal's Dream.

Imagination is the life-blood of the yellow journal. The basis of its success is a continued succession of weird, startling, sensational or scandalous stories. As in the ordinary course of events a sufficient number of these stories do not turn up weekly to satisfy the exacting demands of the perverted taste exhibited by the readers of the yellow journal, it must needs resort to invention to fill up the gap between the latest scandal in high life and the latest brutal murder in low society.

All this is not new. It is merely used as prefatory to a discussion of one of the most originally impossible emanations from the disordered brain of the yellow journalist. This emanation, which has apparently been put forward in good faith, treats of the probability of an approaching alliance between all English-speaking nations, in what it chooses to term a "star-spangled empire," with its head at Washington. The inducements toward such an alliance, or federation, are given as the growing importance of the United States as a power among the nations, the decadence of British commerce, the general superiority of American-made goods in the markets of the world, and the theory that these conditions are becoming constantly more important factors.

A very simple, natural and easy way is suggested to England by which to end the ill's which are now said to encompass her. This remedy is application for admission to the United States. This, it is argued, would save Englishmen many worries. If Ireland were a state, for instance, there would be no more home rule disputes. If British Columbia were a state there would be no more Alaskan boundary troubles. If Wales were a state her tin plate manufacturers would be placed on an equality with those of this continent, and so on.

But why not carry the argument further? If a few commercial advantages alone are to be reckoned, why should not the entire known world apply for admission to the United States? If, for example, Turkey were a state she would have no more worry about indemnity claims. If Venezuela were a state she would not have American warships threatening to settle the asphalt dispute. If Cuba were a state the Platt amendment would worry her no more. If Russia were a state Nicholas would cease to fear waking up some morning on a celestial journey resulting from a dynamite explosion. If France were a state her tailors could sell their "creations" in America free of the duty which puts them above the reach of the common herd.

The phenomenal prosperity which the country has enjoyed in the past few years has led our contemporary of the saffron tendencies into extraordinary extravagance.—Courier Journal.

Not Anxious.

"You have quite a number of the poets," said Goodby, who was inspecting Woodby's library. "Ah, there's Browning. Do you understand him?"

"No; I don't," said Woodby.

"Ah," said Goodby, continuing his examination, "have you Præd?"

"Certainly not. What's the use of praying? I ain't anxious to understand him."—Philadelphia Record.

Yakima has been celebrating with a great deal of joy the completion of a new irrigation ditch. Those people know that it means more life blood in their veins, and they are justified in exhibiting pleasure. They are on the right track, and it is said their enterprise will show no lagging until they have another larger and better canal.—Ellensburg Capital.

Senator Foster has broken his promise made to State Senator Baker, by endorsing C. B. Hopkins of Spokane, for United States marshal and Crocker, of Walla Walla, for collector of customs.

Senator Foster is trying to ride two horses by giving a good plum to both of the political factions of the republican party in this state. Hopkins is Wilson's political manager in Spokane and Crocker holds a life position for Ankeney in Walla Walla. Baker made a square deal with Foster and delivered the goods according to promise, and there is no reason why the latter should betray the trust imposed in him.—Goldendale Journal.

The Royal Fruit Jar

The climax of perfection has at last been reached in the manufacture of fruit jars and the far famed Mason jar and in fact all other makes are simply back numbers in comparison with The Royal.

No More Corroding of Fruit.No More Screwing of Tops.

The excellent feature of this jar is that it is ALL GLASS. No tin or metal whatever, except the Patent Automatic Clasp which secures the ALL GLASS COVER. Only an instant is required to fasten this clasp and the task of preserving your fruit is finished. Does away with the out-of-date screw tops; does away with the practice of punching tin covers full of holes and then having to solder them up when you use them again. Call and see them and you will use no other. For Sale by

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 21, 1901.

The same interests—the sugar and tobacco trusts—which made Mr. McKinley turn such a sudden somersault on the Porto Rican tariff question are now working to make him nullify the provisions of the Foraker act. That act provided that whenever the legislature of Porto Rico notifies the president of the United States that a system of internal taxation has been put into effect that would meet the expenses of the government of the island, the president should issue a proclamation declaring free trade with Porto Rico, and that in any event the tariff on Porto Rican products should cease to exist March 1, 1902. An extra session of the Porto Rican legislature has been called to meet July 4, for the purpose of giving the president the notification provided for in the Foraker act and requesting him to issue a proclamation declaring free trade. This the trust interests are working to prevent on the pretended ground that the system of internal taxation provided by the legislature of Porto Rico will not provide the necessary revenue, but in reality because they intend to prevent free trade between Porto Rico and the U. S., if they can. Their plan is to compel Mr. McKinley to decline to issue a free trade proclamation, and then to get congress to amend the Foraker act, extending the tariff on Porto Rican products, before it expires by limitation. It is difficult to say what the result will be. Mr. McKinley wants free trade with Porto Rico, as he did when he sent his annual message to the last congress, but the trusts compelled him to eat his words and do their bidding then and they may be able to do so again.

Russia is hitting back at this government, which the short-sighted policy of the administration has involved in a tariff war. First, the Russian duty on American machinery was raised and now the duty on American resin and bicycles goes up a notch or two. When it is remembered that what we buy of Russia is not a drop in the bucket compared with what we sell her, the silliness of a system of tariff retaliation between the two countries is apparent. It is quite certain that this sort of policy will not result in extending our foreign markets, an object that Mr. McKinley constantly professes to keep in view. Secretary Gage has just ordered a countervailing duty placed on sugar from Italy.

The industrial commission has received a number of affidavits concerning the Standard oil trust, which will be printed in its permanent report. Following is an extract from one made by F. S. Monett, former attorney general of Ohio: "Campaigns come and go; commissions investigate and legislatures meet and adjourn, and magazine articles are written and read, and yet, through their monopolistic and criminal exactions, the Standard oil combination of transportation and distribution thereof levy tribute upon the owner of the oil rock and exact from the consumer of the refined oil and its by-products an unnatural profit. The public are its victims; the little band of law violators owning the controlling shares are the beneficiaries of the plunder. The public for a short time stand aghast at their very boldness and defiance. The government alone can check their abuses."

Senator Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic National committee, has been in Washington all the week. He talked freely of the political outlook, but said he wished it understood that he made no pretense of representing anybody but himself in the opinions expressed. He thinks that the next session of congress will devote a great deal of time to the Philippine question with which the supreme court has said congress alone has power to deal, and that out of the discussion will grow the principal issue of next year's congressional campaign—"Ought the constitution to follow the flag?" Senator Jones thinks the democrats will take the stand that we should not control any people who are not considered good enough to enjoy all the rights and privileges of American citizens; that we should assist the Filipinos to set up an independent government, notify the powers that we will brook no interference with it, and then withdraw our flag from the Philippines, but believe that a majority of republicans will stand by the programme of holding the islands for the money that can be made out of them. He said that the democrats would fight the ship subsidy bill, which he expects to see pushed to the front again, just as hard as ever; that he doubted whether Babcock's much talked of anti-tariff bill would ever get out of the house ways and means committee, and rather expected the order of the trans continental railroad bosses, to smother Nicaragua Canal legislation, to be obeyed by the republican leaders.

Representative Clayton, of Ala., who has just returned from a visit to the constitutional convention now sitting in that state, says the elimination of the negro vote is certain. As to its effect upon the state he said: "I have seen it suggested that with the elimination of the negro vote some of the states in the south will go republican. This is certainly not true of Alabama. It has not been true of Mississippi, Louisiana or South Carolina. Alabama will remain a democratic state." Of the republican threat to reduce southern representation in congress and the electoral college, Mr. Clayton said he had no fear. He called attention to the fact that Massachusetts had had a limited suffrage for many years, and no suggestion had ever been made to reduce its representation.

Count Cassini's View.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, in discussing today the latest phases of the tariff issue, said that the issues do not seem to him to be very grave, and he is hopeful that they will be satisfactorily adjusted. He said that the action of Russia is an economic move, pure and simple, and is quite certain that it is due to no antagonism against the United States.

Count Cassini said that no political significance could attach to a matter of a purely commercial nature. He said he knew nothing of any European movement against American products.

A Few Don'ts

Don't imagine that good clothes will hide a despicable disposition. You can't always be on dress parade.

Don't think you have the true brand of religion as long as you get up from morning prayers and kick the cat.

Don't think all women are stuck on you because your wife tells you that you are good looking. She may be working you for a new spring hat.

Don't imagine the devil is not pleased when you abuse dumb animals. He knows you would be just as mean to human beings if you weren't a coward.

Don't think because you are old and well known in business that there is no use in advertising. The people may get to thinking that your goods are also old and well known.

Don't think you are fooling God by punctually attending church each Sabbath. Perhaps the neighbors have heard you curse your wife during the week, or you have let your husband do the housework while you read novels.

Don't fool yourself in the belief that your party newspaper struggles for existence through the year without your support just for the privilege of whooping things up for you when you come up for office. The paper owes you no more support than you owe it.

Don't imagine that because you are cock-of-the-walk in your own barnyard you are the gamiest bird on the perch. There are eagles in the world, while you may be of the dunghill strain of fowls.—Exchange.

Cuba's Opportunity.

Now that the president of the constitutional convention of Cuba has officially notified Governor-General Wood of the acceptance by that body of the conditions imposed by the United States under the "Platt amendment," Cuba is at last ready to proceed with the organization of a government for and by herself.

As the first step in this direction the electoral committee of the convention has begun the work of drafting an election law. It will be based on the Australian ballot system as modified in this state, and will, it is said embody universal manhood suffrage without regard to race or color, and will also provide for minority representation. An election for president and other officers created by the constitution will be held, it is expected, within ninety days after the publication of the electoral law.

This experiment of the Cuban people will be watched with keen interest not only in this country but in Europe. There are not wanting those among us who hold that the Cubans are "not fitted for self-government"—an opinion to which Spain held tenaciously during the long years when the Cuban people were giving the best proof of fitness for freedom: a willingness to fight and suffer and die for it. But those everywhere who believe in a people's inalienable right and inherent capacity to govern themselves will hope and expect to see the Cubans realize their dream, and under the protection of the great Republic organize and successfully conduct a little republic of their own.—N. "Ouch!"

That is about the mildest form of outcry a man makes when rheumatism suddenly tweaks him. In its worst forms rheumatism is a living death. The victim, incapable of moving hand or foot, has no part in the great procession of life, on which he gazes with hopeless eyes. It is terrible for the man who has been the bread winner, strong, active, energetic, to suddenly find himself helpless as a babe, and dependent on the kindness of others for almost every necessary of life.

There is no need to urge the rheumatic to seek a cure. He has probably grown discouraged in the search, having tried many medicines without relief. Yet there is hope and help for every rheumatic who will use the medicine which has cured so many who were in a like case. That medicine, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, has cured a great many sufferers who were without hope and for whom physicians had said there was no help. A medicine which will cleanse the blood from uric acid and other poisons, will cure rheumatism. "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal in its power to cleanse the blood and to enrich it. It absolutely eliminates from the blood the poisons which cause the disease, and by increasing the activity of the blood making glands it increases the supply of pure blood upon which physical health and strength depend.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, nor opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

If your dealer says he has something "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" why not tell him that the remedy which cures rheumatism is good enough for you.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C., "so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips, and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels and so preserve the balance of health. They do not become a necessity to the user as they cure disordered conditions of the bowels, and are not thereafter required.

He Got the Wrong Foot.

It was in a Pullman sleeper, and just across from the bachelor's berth was a handsome little woman and her three-year-old boy. Early in the morning the two were laughing and playing together, and the good natured bachelor smiled to himself as he rose to dress. Suddenly a little foot peeped out from the curtains of the opposite berth, and with a twinkle in his eye, the bachelor grabbed the plump toe and began: "This little pig went to market, this little"—"That is my foot, sir," said the indignant voice of a woman. The silence which followed could be heard above the roar of the train.—Chicago News.

"A Thundering Price for Beans."

A good many years ago I was connected with a morning newspaper in an Illinois city, and out custom was to go to the restaurant in the railroad station for our midnight lunch, that being the only place open at that time of the night.

There were three morning papers, so quite a number of the newspaper boys made the place a rendezvous, and we used to sit and talk over all the things that had happened and a good many that had not.

This restaurant was run by a man named Cull, and he had held up enough trains with his lunch counter to make himself pretty well fixed in this world's goods.

One night when we were all gathered there the 12:07 train pulled in, and among them was a passenger who regaled himself with a plate of beans.

The lunch counter in Cull's absence was in charge of a young man who had his eye distinctly on the main chance.

The conductor called "All aboard!" and the man in great haste asked what he owed.

"Fifty cents."

"What! Fifty cents for a plate of beans?"

"That's the price."

"You are joking—how much?"

"Fifty cents goes."

"Well," said the man as he paid the money in with little evidence of temper, "that's a thundering price for beans." And again as he went through the door he turned and said impressively—"a thundering price for beans."

Cull's trouble began with that moment.

While we were still sitting there the railroad operator brought in a telegram to Cull, who had come in in the mean time and was chuckling over the profit on those beans.

Cull read the telegram. All it said was: "A thundering price for beans. John Q. Smith," but on the envelope was the significant inscription, "Collect 25 cents."

This was the opening shot. From every station between that town and St. Louis came the wail to Cull, "a thundering price for beans," and each time Cull got madder and madder over the "Collect 25 cents." In the morning Cull notified his boy not to receive or pay for any more telegrams, and also read the riot act to the telegraph company.

The next day our friend John Q. Smith started on a new game. He would pack a dozen choice bricks in a box, with the same old message inclosed, and ship them to Cull. This he did by both freight and express, "charges collect," until Cull was fairly frenzied with rage.

Now at this time Cull was playing the market through a Chicago broker, and it happened that there was a sudden and severe slump. The broker wired Cull to put up more margins. Cull's boy, under instructions, declined to receive the message. Getting no answer to his telegram, the broker closed Cull's account at a whopping loss.

This was the last straw. Cull went plumb crazy in earnest this time. He was taken to the asylum and spent the rest of his days there.

He used to sit day by day with his head between his hands, repeating by the hour the five fatal words, "A thundering price for beans!" "A thundering price for beans!"—St. Paul Dispatch.

Rarefied Humor of the Rockies.

High up on the Laramie range there is a little station called Sherman—a mere watering place for trains on the Union Pacific railway. Near by it is a gigantic pyramid of stone 60 feet high and 60 feet square at the base, which was set up by the railway as a monument to Oakes Ames and Oliver Ames.

In the latter eighties there arrived at Sherman a shabby person of melancholy aspect, who put up a "shack"—western for shanty—not far from the monument. Ostensibly, he was prospecting, and he continued to prospect for three years without accomplishing any results, so far as could be observed. At the end of that period the management of the Union Pacific received from him a communication demanding the immediate removal of the monument from the premises, which he claimed as his under the homestead law.

The matter was regarded in a humorous light at first, but subsequent proceedings developed the fact that the squatter had what lawyers call a "case."

The stranger, it seems, had located on a section of land which did not belong to the Union Pacific—the same section on which the monument had, by an inadvertence, been placed. He knew very well what he was about, and the upshot of the affair was that the railway had to pay $5,000 for the squatter's tract in order to make its title good.

The monument, by the way, is distant only about 100 yards from the station, and it is a favorite trick of experienced persons to induce green travelers to attempt a run to the pyramid and back during the two minutes of the train's wait. In nine cases out of ten they fall on the way back, bleeding at the nose, the air being so rarefied at that elevation of 8,300 feet as to forbid such exercise.—Saturday Evening Post.

Making It Rather Personal.

This is credited as one of General Lew Wallace's Turkish jokes: There lived in Stamboul, Turkey, a well to do Turk named Ismail Ismail Hassam. He was endowed with oriental wit that stood him well in hand when he was in a tight place. A neighbor called on Ismail one day and wanted to borrow his donkey to use an hour. Ismail made a low salaam and said:

"Neighbor, I am sorry, but my boy started on the donkey an hour ago to Scutari. By now he is gayly trotting over the hills far from the sacred precincts of Stamboul."

Just as Ismail finished his speech a donkey's loud bray was heard in the stable, which was under the same roof as Ismail's house, but in the rear. The neighbor said:

"Ah, I hear your donkey bray."

Ismail protested that his neighbor's ears were deceived and that the noise was not a donkey's bray. Then the donkey, which was supposed to be jogging along toward Scutari, brayed twice loudly. It was too much, and the neighbor cried:

"Oh, that is your donkey, Ismail. Allah help me. I can now borrow him."

Then Ismail said:

"Which do you believe is lying, the donkey or me?"

The neighbor had to give Ismail the benefit of the doubt and went away.

A Heavyweight.

"And then," she said in telling of the romantic episode, "she sprang to his arms."

"She did?"

"Of course. Do you doubt it?"

"Oh, no," he replied, "but after seeing her I can't help thinking that it must have jarred him quite a bit."—Chicago Post.

Use for the Columbia.

Already there 75,000 irrigation ditches in the United States, which have involved an investment of $200,000,000, and they are found to be good, paying propositions. In Texas and Louisiana during the past few years irrigation has made productive an area of arid land larger than all the New England states combined, and this new productiveness has increased the actual value of the land from $5 to $50 an acre.

In the great Columbia valley there are many miles of land now practically unproductive except for scattered spears of grass and worthless sage. All this land needs is water to make it produce bountiful commercial crops. A magnificent river flows through at a lower level than its bench land and some day science will simplify the matter of raising this water to levels where it will do great good, and then there will be thousands of new homes for the people, and the world's supply of food will be vastly increased.

For ages the vast volume of water in the great Columbia has been used almost solely for swimming, steamboats and ducks, while the government has sat up nights studying how to improve its mouth.

It is about time that a share of the millions spent and to be spent in the name of the great river were devoted to making it possible to use in a productive way the wasting waters of its upper reaches.

She Wasn't Certain.

A Kansas school board received the following letter the other day from one of the teachers: "I would like to have the refusal of the school as long as you are willing to hold it for me, though I can't say positively that I will not teach, nor positively that I will. If I am married, as I think I will be, of course I will not want the school. But you know the old story about many a slip, and I would hate to be out of a job as well as the other."

SEATTLE'S SENSATION.

Killing of Ex-Chief Police Meredith by the Considine Brothers.

On Tuesday evening a private dispatch here announced the death by shooting of ex-Chief of Police W. L. Meredith by John W. Considine.

The Yakima public generally has followed with interest the libel suit of Chief Meredith against the colored editor of the Republican, a Seattle publication which charged the chief with "grafting" in his official position. The various definitions of the word by the many witnesses examined in the trial, coupled with the testimony of John W. Considine against Meredith, resulted in hanging the jury considering the case.

Considine has for a long time been regarded as the "boss" gambler of the northwest, and his testimony in the libel suit served to embitter the enmity heretofore engendered between Meredith and himself.

On Tuesday afternoon the animosity culminated in the killing of Meredith by John and Tom Considine in one of the most prominent drug stores in Seattle.

The latest reports, boiled down, seem to indicate that Meredith had been notified by Considine's attorneys that he would have the retract statements made by him concerning Considine or subject himself to the penalties of the law for libel. John Considine and his brother Tom were waiting for Meredith's appearance from the attorney's office, where he was known to have gone for consultation earlier in the day, but Meredith passed out by another door, and thus a meeting was at that time averted. Meredith then provided himself with a "sawed-off" shotgun, a couple of revolvers and a dirk knife, and found John Considine in consultation with a policeman in front of the store where the killing afterward occurred. A shot was fired by some person unknown, Considine rushed into the drug store, when Meredith discharged both barrels of the gun, one shot making a slight scalp wound on Considine and the balance of the charge going into the walls and ceilings of the building. Tom Considine, a brother of John, then grappled with Meredith, and after succeeding in getting a revolver away from him, hit him with the weapon a number of times over the head, and after he was beaten into insensibility John Considine put three bullets into Meredith's body, with fatal effect.

Investigation shows that Meredith was, to all intents and purposes, a dead man when the shots were fired, his skull having been crushed by the powerful blows administered by Tom Considine.

The coroner's jury, after hearing the evidence as to the killing, on Thursday brought in the following verdict: "We the jury find that said William L. Meredith was murdered by John Considine, assisted by Tom Considine, by being struck on the head with a revolver, fracturing the skull in two places, by Tom Considine, and being shot in the body three times by John Considine, either gunshot wound being sufficient to cause the death of said William L. Meredith, same taking place at Guy's drug store, June 25, 1901."

A warrant has been sworn out charging the Considine brothers with murder in the first degree.

Meredith had only a few days previously tendered his resignation as chief of police, owing to the antagonism aroused by the allegations of bribe-taking preferred before the city council. Both Meredith and Considine have families residing in Seattle.

IN ALASKAN WILDS.

An Ambitious Pencil Pusher's Search for the Elusive Yellow Metal.

SQUAW CAMP, BEAR CREEK, B. C., June 9th, 1901.

J. R. COE,
North Yakima, Wash.,

Dear Sir:—

Our party is slowly journeying towards its destination, which is eighteen miles above the mouth of Bear creek. It is mighty slow and hard work I can tell you, as we have to pack our provisions and working tools on our backs most of the way. The five of us are taking in about 1500 lbs of stuff. The country is beautiful, but extremely mountainous. The creek, or river as it should be called, has such a great fall that it flows like a mill race making boat navigation impossible. This district has not been prospected thoroughly, nobody as yet having succeeded in getting to bedrock on account of the trouble had with water. The surface indications, however, are the best that I have seen in any country. The discovery of the yellow metal was made in this valley last October and already over 2000 claims, each of 100 feet in length, have been staked.

We are located in the heart of the "disputed strip" over which Canada and the United States have been haggling so long. Under the "Modus Vivendi" the country is governed by Canada—a fact of which we become painfully cognizant when we run up against a little custom house in the woods where, as Bruce Milroy would say, "we were robbed under the guise of law." The official was very courteous, however, and took our word for everything. B. C., which province reserves exclusive control over its own mineral lands, exacts compliance with most unreasonable conditions governing mining, although its legislature has finally showed the good sense to repeal the prohibitory clause against foreign miners.

Every American prospector in here—as you may well imagine—feels sore at the McKinley administration for surrendering this territory. Over in the United States we were constantly told that Canadian occupation of this territory was only temporary and that it would revert to "Uncle Sam", but what "Canucks" that are in here don't talk that way. On the contrary they ridicule the idea that they will ever give it up and assert that their government will insist on still further concessions.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

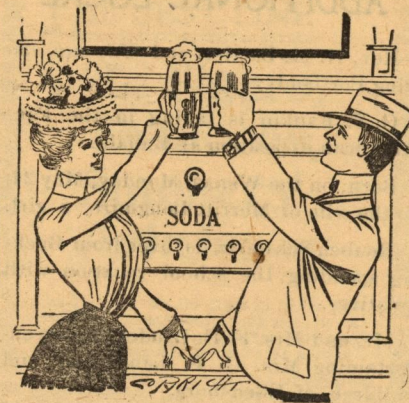

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The work of placing the names and numbers on the streets and houses is progressing rapidly under the management of Merwin & Hazel.

J. C. MacCrimmon is nearly through taking the school census of this district. It is thought the total number of children in the scholastic age will reach fifteen hundred.

A big supper will be given next Wednesday evening by the team of Woodmen of the World headed by John A. Williams to a like team of the same order of which W. W. Pettijohn is captain. This banquet is the result of a contest between the two teams to increase the membership of the order.

A transient traveler of the "Weary Willie" stripe, whose adopted patronymic is probably that of John Smith, was arrested by Officer Starrett Thursday night on a charge of "going through" an old man in the Lillie house and appropriating sundry valuables. A serious interview with Judge Taggard Friday afternoon resulted in the involuntary retirement for a term of days on the part of the light-fingered gent.

On Sunday morning Sheriff Tucker took up a horse that had been tied in the neighborhood of the court house for fully twenty-four hours without food or water. Such incidents as this have occasioned the agitation of the proposition to organize a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals here, and there is every prospect that an effective organization will be had. To make an example of a few two legged brutes will have a salutary effect in teaching them that they cannot be wantonly cruel to their animals without incurring a heavy penalty.

The Clothes Moth.

We may marvel at grubs growing fat and succulent upon such unpromising fare as old timber affords, but that achievement is improved upon by the insects that prefer to draw their entire nutrition from woolen fabrics, fur, horsehair, feathers, tanned leather and the like and apparently without ever a desire to "wet their whistles" by anything of a juicy nature. Any small, silvery winged moth that is seen flitting about the house is regarded as a "clothes moth," but every one killed is not an enemy, for there are a number of moths of similar size and appearance that come from outdoors and have been occupied as grubs in destroying green leaves. It is a common error to suppose that it is the clothes moth that does the mischief, though by destroying the moth we prevent the laying of innumerable eggs from which come the consuming larvae, whose cutting jaws would be actively and incessantly employed in mutilating choice fabrics and valuable furs. These caterpillars are rarely seen by the housewife because their first care on leaving the egg is to disguise or hide themselves.

The clothes moth proper has yellowish gray wings, with three or four indefinite brownish spots upon them, and in consequence of its marked preference for furs it is known to science as Tinea pellionella.—Good Words.

Had Lost His Fourth.

One of Judge Howland's stories had to do with the old Maine farmer who had been married four times. Shortly after the death of his fourth wife a neighbor stopped him and said:

"Mornin', Cyrus. How's the wife this mornin'?"

"Waal, to tell ye the truth," replied Cyrus, "I'm kinder out of wives just now."—Detroit Free Press.

Contests of Eggs.

From the remotest ages the egg has been looked upon as the symbol of creation, or new birth. According to the Persians, the world was hatched from an egg at that season of the year which corresponds to the vernal equinox. Hence the Parsees still exchange gifts of colored eggs at the new year festival, which they celebrate at this date. Among the Jews the egg entered into all the mysterious ceremonies called apocalyptic and occupied a prominent position on the household table during the paschal season. Christianity invested the paschal egg with a new significance—namely, that of the resurrection of Christ, and it was colored red in allusion to his blood shed for sinners on the cross.

A curious custom in mediæval churches, for priests and choristers to join in a game of ball at Eastertide, took its rise from the Easter egg, which was thrown from one to the other of the choristers in the nave of the church while an anthem was being sung. As a missed egg meant a smashed egg, the more durable handball was substituted.

But the smashing of eggs continued as a form of outdoor sport. Survivals are to be found among all Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon people. A popular game in England and Germany consists in hitting one egg against another, the egg that survives uncracked winning for its owner the weaker antagonist, until an entire basket of eggs may have changed ownership. Another game is to trundle eggs down a hill or slope, those which reach the bottom uncracked being similarly victorious over the others.

Tale of a Frugal Bishop.

"There used to be in a city in which I lived," said a Cleveland man, "a certain bishop who, while possessed of the highest principles and whose aims and ambitions in life were of the highest character, at the same time united with these a penuriousness in money matters that caused innumerable stories illustrative of this failing to be tacked upon him. One of these related to a certain church conference which the bishop and other dignitaries of the church at one time attended.

"At one of the meetings the bishop in endeavoring to open a letter neatly with his penknife was so unfortunate as to allow the latter to slip and to cut a finger severely. The injured member bled profusely, and a hasty search for court plaster ensued. There being none forthcoming, a clergyman standing by fished out his cardcase and, extracting from it a 5 cent stamp, the smallest priced stamp he had, offered it to the bishop to use as a substitute for the much needed court plaster.

"The bishop accepted it gratefully and in his turn took out his own cardcase. In it he placed the 5 cent stamp and then, producing a 1 cent specimen of his own, he pasted it over the still bleeding wound."—New York Tribune.

Molesting Wagner.

Wagner when a young man wrote a sonata which had a fair success, but in after life he made every effort to suppress it. Going to the publisher, he said, "Have you any copies of that miserable thing still unsold?" "Yes," was the reply; "I have quite a number of them in stock." "Send them to me at once, with a bill," said the composer. A thousand copies were soon afterward delivered at his door. The bill was a big one, but it was paid, somewhat grudgingly, and Wagner thought he had done with the thing. What was his surprise, then, at receiving two or three months later on another consignment, this time of 500 copies.

"I thought you had only a thousand of these things," he protested. "That was all I had in stock," explained the dealer, "but these have been returned by my agents, to whom I wrote that you wished to have the sonata suppressed." Wagner winced, but there was nothing for it but to pay the bill. And thereafter whenever business was dull with this crafty publisher a few hundred copies of the sonata would be struck off on shopworn paper and delivered at the composer's door, with a memorandum to the effect that they had just come back from remote places where they had been sent for sale.

John Allen's Pair.

When the house voted to prohibit liquor selling in army canteens, John Allen of Mississippi was not recorded. Some good women of Mississippi noted the fact that he did not vote and called on him for an explanation, knowing that Mr. Allen had been at one time quite active in the Congressional Temperance society. Mr. Allen replied that he was paired on the canteen question. "You see, ladies," he said, "the situation was this: My wife thinks very much as you do about this legislation in regard to the canteen. I have some doubts as to whether congress will really promote temperance among soldiers in this way. So I paired my judgment with my wife's conscience and decided not to vote."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Misplaced Letter.

The transposition of letters in the same word sometimes produces the most ludicrous results. In "The Still Hour," which was written by Professor Phelps, is the fine line, "The stillness of the hour is the stillness of a lead calm at sea." A large number was printed and disposed of before it was discovered that "clam" had been printed for "calm."

An Early Riser.

"Pat," said a manager to one of his workmen, "you must be an early riser. I always find you at work the first thing in the morning."

"Indade and Oi am, sor. It's a family trait, Oi'm thinkin'."

"Then your father was an early riser too?"

"Me father, is it? He roises that early that if he went to bed a little later he'd meet himself gettin up in the mornin'."

A Rabelais Hoax.

Rabelais, being out of money, once tricked the police into taking him from Marseilles to Paris on a charge of treason. He made up some packages of brick dust and labeled them "Poison for the royal family." The officers took Rabelais 700 miles, only to be told at the end of their journey that it was April 1 and the affair was a hoax. Of course, as Rabelais was the privileged wit of the royal family, he was forgiven.

A Cherokee Dish.

An article of food much used by the Cherokees is made from corn. The process is first to soak the corn in strong lye made from hickory ashes, just as white people in the country make hominy. This removes the hulls. The corn is then put into a large mortar made by hollowing out the end of a large log and is pounded by a huge pestle.

As the process of pounding goes on the crushed corn is removed from the mortar and riddled with a sieve made of cane and then fanned in the wind to remove the hulls. The "grit," as the course meal is called, is then replaced in the mortar and pounded into a fine meal. It is then boiled up with cayenne pepper and other ingredients. A small amount of lye is left in the meal, and it has a tendency to preserve it for a long time. However, if the stuff sours, it is regarded as a great delicacy. It is known as "con-a-hanna." The food is sometimes varied by the addition of nuts, which is considered especially fine. With the nuts it is called "ca-nutch."

In the olden times cakes were made of "con-a-hanna" by baking the substance in rudely constructed rock ovens or in hot ashes. These cakes would keep for a long time and, in connection with the wild game, provided nourishment for the Indians on their long hunts. Many of the older Cherokees still use the mortar and pestle to make the dish.—Kansas City Journal.

FUN ON THE DIAMOND.

The Various Local Contests of Baseball "Cranks" Recently.

There was ease in Dexter's manner, there were twists in Dexter's legs, As he ambled to the rubber like a man who walks on eggs. And when responding to the gibes, he made an awful face, You would have thought 'twas poker, and he hadn't drawn an ace! Four hundred chumps applauded while he tilted back his hat, Eight hundred hands got busy as he swung his little bat, But when the ball came whizzing, and the umpire yelled "Strike one!" The thin crowd wailed in anguish, for the game seemed surely done! Again the pitcher poised the ball, again he let it fly, And Dexter, with an awful swat, drove leather to the sky! Around the bases skipped the runs, the pitcher's feet grew cold, And the game was won by Dexter—that swat was good as gold!

Baseballists have had what to any but a "crank" would be a surfeit of amusement in their line lately, but their enthusiasm seems yet undiminished.

The game last Saturday afternoon between the nines of the High school and the Fort Simcoe school lost some interest on account of the absence of the Indians' crack pitcher, and proved a regular incubator for runs. The High school made a score of 29 to 19 for the descendants of the "noble red men."

The game between the Stars and Cowychee nines was altogether one-sided, the tallies standing at the end of seven innings 17 for the Stars to six for their country opponents. The country boys are recommended to intersperse more frequently their practice with the plow-handles that of the stick and spere, if they wish to do successful business with their town brethren.

The match-game between barbers and saloon men on Sunday afternoon was largely attended, and proved a genuine surprise to the mixologists, who had previously been offering all kinds of money that they would everlastingly "wax" their tonsorial opponents. When the scorers footed up the tallies, it was found that the gentlemen of the "razor and shears" had accumulated 19, while their over-confident antagonists had only 16 to their credit. The latter now laugh it off by saying that there were "only three barbers playing in the nine, while the balance were professionals."

The much-advertised league game on Tuesday between the Spokanes and Seattles fell so far short of expectations that it placed a temporary damper upon the ardor of the most enthusiastic "rooter." The only cheers heard from the bleachers was when one of the players would get a severe fall, and regrets were expressed that the falls were not more frequent and with more disastrous results. These great "league teams" came to give an exhibition of "professional ball" to what they considered an aggregation of "sage-brushers," but to the discredit of admirers of the national sport they only made an exhibition of themselves in the most atrocious playing. For the credit of the new grounds, we will not give the score nor go into the details of their "horse play," but can, with 99 per cent of the large crowd present, "pray God, that we may ne'er see their like again."

The Stars have got their men in good trim and finally regularly positioned, and as the High school nine is broken considerably since vacation set in a new nine, composed principally of old members, was organized Wednesday evening and will take the field against all comers.

Following is the personal of the two nines as recently reorganized:

Stars		Shamrocks
Stacy	catcher	R. Shaw
Hincklin	pitcher	Kinyon
Grafton	1st base	Taylor
Kohls	2nd base	Guinn
Morrison	3rd base	Neal
Hazel	short stop	Dustin
Behrens	right field	H. Morrison
Stanton	center field	Wise

A game will be played Sunday afternoon between the two nines at the Capitol Hill grounds.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Isaac Robbins, of the reservation, was before Justice Taggard this week charged with attempting bodily harm to his better-half. He was placed under $100 bond to keep the peace.

Fair Commissioner Weed, who has for the past week been "doing" eastern Washington for the benefit of the State Fair, writes that he is meeting with such encouragement that he will spend some time in his missionary work.

The Log-Rollers' association has chosen Joel Shomaker to work up the big meeting here on July 26. Mr. Shomaker is now in Roslyn for the purpose of inducing the people who are getting up the big excursion from that place to North Yakima to advance their date so as to be here for the big "blow-out".

Fruit Inspector Beck on Wednesday condemned two crates of California apricots displayed for sale by a local firm. The fruit was the worst infected mass yet seen here, and how it escaped the eyes of Sound inspectors is a mystery. This is the second lot condemned by Mr. Beck in the last few days, and was in such a bad state that he had the fruit photographed for the benefit of the box inspectors on the west side.

J. M. Girr, a shepherd, shot and killed Sam Keel in Ellensburg last Friday night. From the meagre details received here, it seems that Keel went up to Girr's room over Jack Lyon's saloon with the avowed intention of putting the shepherd out of the building, and Girr, mistaking the interloper for a burglar, shot him with fatal effect. As Girr was released on a $500 bond, it would appear that the examining justice did not view the act as of very serious nature.
