Dear Sir:

Nothing very startling took place at the road convention, recently held. Believe all of the politicians were present, most all of the county commissioners, and a multitude of new road agitators. These birds were left to roost on their own limb, while the rest of the delegates enjoyed the convention.

We had some very able reports, some good speeches and meals, and some fun, all coming away perfectly satisfied to leave the matters with the old guard and your friend, Sam Hill, to work out.

Yours very truly,

WM-C

P.S. You ought to of heard Vice-President Dawes. It was a great treat. He seems to be going good and on the right track. I shall watch with interest the action of the Senate when it next convenes.
