OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THE death of ex-President Benjamin Harrison removes from the arena of political life one of the greatest characters produced in our later national history—i.e. during the last quarter of the nineteenth century. It is needless to say that his death is regretted by all classes of his countrymen, even those who most earnestly opposed him politically, for there are none among them except it be the densely ignorant or the bitterly partisan who will not concede to him a reputation for honesty, ability and lofty character absolutely unspotted both in official and in private life. Still with all this in his favor Harrison was by no means a favorite among the politicians of his time, or with the people, for the stern and austere nature of the man forbade that. His qualities and mannerisms were such as may inspire respect and confidence, but never love or affection. As a public man he was vastly the superior of Blaine in all that stands for real statesmanship, yet a breath of Blaine's popularity would have hidden him from the public gaze. It is true that he defeated the "plumed knight" for the presidential nomination in 1892, but it must be remembered that the die was cast in Harrison's favor before the enfeebled Blaine was dragged into the fight by his fool friends, who merely used the latter to vent their petty spite upon the autocratic president whom they both feared and hated. It was Harrison's misfortune to live in a state that was reliably democratic until recent years and he therefore received no opportunity to enter public life until he had nearly reached his fiftieth year, his entrance into the U. S. senate in 1881 being his first experience as a legislator. Possessed of natural ability of a high order, however, and making the most of his opportunities he soon became a national figure. The defeat of his party in Indiana in 1886 cut short his senatorial career and retired him to private life from which he was rescued two years later by being picked out as a safe compromise candidate for the presidential nomination. The remainder of his history is to well known to require repetition. His term as president, taken on the whole, is perhaps the best that the republican party has given the country since the close of the civil war. He made a much better executive than most people believed possible before his election. He was the creature of no man and quarreled with the corrupt leaders of his party rather than bend a suppliant knee. The one dark spot on an otherwise able administration was his ill-advised attempt to gag the southern states with his odious force bill, which was neatly blocked by his enemy Quay in the senate. Since his retirement from the presidency he seems to have attained his full maturity as a constitutional and inter-national lawyer and was regarded as authority on intricate points in those branches by almost the entire bar of the country. He was clearly out of sympathy with the policy of Mr. McKinley and his advisers regarding the attitude which the administration has assumed not only towards the dependencies lately wrested from Spain, but the indifferent and un-American treatment accorded to the two dying republics in South Africa. In a late article in the North American Review he used the lash unsparingly on the backs of McKinley and Hanna and plainly manifested his grief that the true and purely American idea of liberty had been lost sight of amid the vulgar scramble for territory to which we have no moral right and which we cannot acquire without repudiating the sacred principles which made us great and all powerful as a nation. Indeed so deeply affected was this grand old man at the humiliating position assumed by his country that he raved about it incessantly on his deathbed, which fact ought to convince even the skeptical of the goodness of his heart and the purity of his conscience. Harrison deserves and will be accorded a leading place in the galaxy of American statesmen. The ambitious youth of the nation may well follow such an example.

OUR Ellensburg contemporaries whenever they find the business of news-getting dull in the local field, are in the habit of regaling their readers with breezy information regarding the possible construction of an alleged cut-off to extend across the desert between the windy city and a place called Lind. The Capital, particularly, in its almost every issue for a year or two past has imparted most valuable news—which it has received direct from headquarters—that the dirt is about to fly. Well, well, let it fly, for what does it signify? The people of this community are indifferent about the matter for they cannot see how any cut-off is going to affect them. Their only solicitude in the matter is for the welfare of the little sister town up the creek, because of the danger it would incur of losing its present railway patronage to its dangerous rival farther up the valley and that would be a misfortune hard indeed to bear. This seems like borrowing trouble, however, as such a calamity is impossible so long as the cherished cut-off is merely a newspaper enterprise. As for the cut-off itself, it can hardly be regarded at any time, much less the present, as a serious proposition, for nature has placed a veto upon it well nigh insurmountable. Railroads are not built in this matter-of-fact age for sentimental reasons, but to get business. The Yakima valley is today furnishing more business to the N. P. company than any like extent of territory adjacent to its lines and the traffic is as yet only in its infancy. What it will amount to a few years later is almost incomprehensible. To slight such an important field would be to invite and inevitably secure a dangerous competitor with which to share its business. Let our esteemed neighbors in Ellensburg contain themselves and be content to let well enough alone. If they really had what they purport to want it would bring upon them in the end nothing but disaster.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON, who is himself the son of a ditch digger, would deny a worthy gunner in the navy merited promotion to the grade of ensign simply because of a fear that the applicant lacked the polish necessary in officers of that rank. Senator Allen of Nebraska, who brought the matter to the attention of the senate, denounced Sampson as a "conceited ass" which seems to have been the view generally held of him in the senate, as that august body straightway refused to sanction the promotion asked for Sampson by the administration. Sampson is today probably the most unpopular man in the navy, as he is in the country at large, which fact is due entirely to his snobbishness and conceit. The people have had him sized up correctly since the real facts of the naval battle off Santiago have become understood. They well remember how Sampson pushed himself forward as the victor when he knew that the credit for winning the great fight really belonged to Schley and the different captains. Schley on the other hand has evinced characteristic modesty and has said repeatedly that he was willing to leave his record in the hands of his countrymen, satisfied with whatever verdict might be rendered. The verdict has been rendered and is in his favor. He will be known in history as the hero of Santiago, long after his snobbish rival has been forgotten.

EVEN that rock-ribbed partisan organ, the Post-Intelligencer, finds but little to commend in the record made by the late legislature, which by the way, is the view taken by practically the whole republican press of the state or at least that portion that is still capable of expressing an independent opinion. Taken as a whole it was perhaps the most useless body of lawmakers that the state has yet had, which is saying a great deal. Still it contained a number of good men in both parties who seemed to be actuated from first to last by duty and kept themselves clean from the contaminating influences about them on every hand. It must be said too that a few good laws were passed during the session, chief among which is the inheritance tax law, the credit for the passage of which is due mainly to Senator Hallet of Spokane. The failure to pass a bill dividing the state into congressional districts was a serious dereliction of duty which may yet cost the state dearly, as the next national house of representatives may if it chooses reject the congressmen from this state on the ground of not being elected according to law. The republican majority would have promptly passed the bill if it had not been actuated by the fear of creating a democratic district.

The residence of Charles Gillett at Prosser was burned Tuesday, the origin of the fire being unknown. The house was a total loss, there being no insurance, but most of the furniture was saved. Mr. Gillett is a brother of Mrs. F. H. Plumb of this city.

Dick Ball returned with his crew of men Sunday from the upper Natchez, having completed the bridge across the Natchez river, near the mouth of the Tietan, for the Natchez Cattle & Land Co. The bridge, main span and approaches, measures 200 feet.

The authorities of Kennewick, according to Deputy Sheriff Lum, have adopted a system formerly practiced by frontier justices of the peace in banishing legal offenders. A few days ago a burglar was caught in that little burg, and not desiring to put cost upon the county he was booted across the Columbea river.

The big wool warehouse at Yakima City is being remodeled and enlarged for the accommodation of several industries, among which are a creamery, an evaporator and fruit drier, and some of the most optimistic old settlers whisper that a corner will be set apart for a distillery.

The Uncle Tom's Cabin troop, which showed in North Yakima on the 14th, met with a sad misfortune near Missoula Sunday morning. Their special car in some manner caught fire, and besides the loss of their scenery and other valuables, three men and one woman of the company were burned to death.

Many people here will learn with regret of the death of James Ward, which occurred last Monday at Butte, Mont. Mr. Ward was the father of Mrs. Frank Nagler, and made many friends during his stay here five years ago. According to his desire, he is to be buried at his old home in Boise, Idaho, and Mrs. Nagler left here Thursday afternoon to attend the obsequies at that place.

Police Judge Taggard on Saturday saddened the hearts and lightened the purses of four bicyclists who have insisted on using the sidewalks for pedaling purposes. Owing to the pleas made and in consideration of their being the first offenders they were let off easy, but the judge gives it out flat that the next victims will be given the full limit.

Following is a list of successful Yakima aspirants for school certificates in the recent examination before the state board of education: Nellie Adams, Belle Bacon, Bessie M. Bruce, Rena L. Blood, Minnie Downs, Eva Green, Letty L. Kingsbury, Ivan N. Macy, Myrtle E. Peck, Caroline H. Rogers, Della Wiley, Earl E. Pier, Edith Zediker, Elvira Patterson, Emily Gibson.

A letter received from Congressman Jones this week, informs the DEMOCRAT that Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has positively refused to modify his recent order prohibiting Yakima Indians from leasing their lands for a longer period than five years. Mr. Jones states that he has brought every possible influence to bear to obtain a modification of the absurd order, but without avail.

J. G. Johnstone, the marbleman, this week drew a beautiful design for a soldier's monument at the instance of the Red Cross. That society is working most zealously on the proposition to collect a fund sufficient to purchase a suitable granite shaft to be erected in some public place to perpetuate the memory of Co. E. Subscription books have been placed in a number of business houses.

Contractor Burlingame has the earthwork on the new Selah-Moxee ditch practically finished. The several miles of fluming around the mountain side is being pushed as fast now as a large force of workmen can do it. The contractor has been considerably handicapped by the slow arrival of lumber from the Sound, but if there is no further delay he thinks that water may be running the full length of the ditch at the expiration of 30 days.

W. H. Carpenter has purchased all the stock of fine Belgian hares owned by Fred Parker and E. R. Leaming, comprising about 300 head, among which are some of the best breeds to be had on the coast. Mr. Carpenter is building a large paddock on his Ahtanum farm, and will start in with hutches sufficient to accommodate 450 does. He proposes to go into the business on a large scale, selling the bunnies in competition with fowl, for home consumption principally.

On account of exaggerated reports of the number of smallpox cases in this vicinity, Health Officer Frank desires to emphasize the statement made in his report to the city council last Monday, that there are only four cases in the town and probably double that number in the outlying districts, and all of these are under absolute control, being either guarded at the pest house or under strict quarantine; so there is absolutely no danger from contagion from patients now afflicted here, who are mostly convalescing.

About five hundred persons, representing all the churches in the city, on last Sunday evening joined in a union meeting of the State Anti-Saloon League, at Mason's opera house. Rev. J. C. Thomas, late of New York City, but now a resident of Seattle, delivered a lecture upon the aims of the league, claiming for its object the educating of people so that saloons would finally be dispensed with altogether. Rev. Thoms is an interesting speaker, and promises to return to Yakima as often as convenient, which will be every few months, as he is in charge of the north coast branch of the National Anti-Saloon League. A local branch of the league has been organized here and subscriptions for its maintenance were taken Sunday evening.

WONDERFUL IF TRUE.

H. F. Forest Claims to Have Discovered a Huge Cave, Rich in Gold, in the Cascade Mountains.

The people of Chehalis, according to the Advocate of that place, have been much excited during the last week over the story told by a man giving his name as H. F. Forest.

Forest claims to have discovered a cave in the eastern part of Lewis county in the heart of the Cascade mountains, which if his description of it be true, deserves to be classed among the wonders of earth. Although many people in Chehalis believe in the truth of Forest's story, there are others who regard the man as either a clever romancer or else stark mad. The following is the Advocate's account in part:

"The cave is described as being about twelve feet in height and from eight to 100 feet in width. The walls have been polished and contain many hieroglyphics and figures made by human hands. The main passage was explored for a distance of five miles. Passages led out in many directions from the main cave, in one of which was a spring of boiling water, a cold water spring and one of sulphur. Two tubs had been cut into the stone near these springs. In this same passage was a well about 30 feet deep and around the well a circular stairway led to the bottom. After reaching the bottom of the well an immense underground lake was discovered and at the very entrance point a canoe, apparently made of cedar, petrified, was chained to a heavy metal staple driven in the wall. The chain was five feet long made of metal swivels and square links woven together. The bank of the lake was explored nearly a mile and a half one way and a little over that distance in the other direction but its extent could not be determined.

Another passage leading from the main boulevard led the explorer to flights of stone steps leading down about sixty feet. At the bottom was a long passageway ten feet or more wide. Here was found a vault having a small lid lying loosely against the slab which enclosed it. The lid was removed and the explorer entered. The chamber seemed dry but was very cold and there was much ice inside. On a huge slab side by side were two human figures, that of a woman measuring over seven feet in length and a man seven feet and ten inches long. Both bodies were frozen solid and in a perfect state of preservation. The man had a black beard and long, dark hair and on his left wrist was a gold band an inch and a half wide and a quarter of an inch thick. On the band was an engraving of an antelope and numerous characters. The woman is described as having hair that would reach to her feet and in one ear hung a penant of gold. Near the bodies were the dismembered skeletons of two children and there were numerous bones throughout various parts of the cave.

A large number of metallic tablets were found. These were very closely inscribed in what Mr. Forest says resemble Assyrian or Egyptian inscriptions. He also says that the bodies above mentioned resemble Egyptians.

Seven hammers, weighing twelve to fifteen pounds each, and a great many chisels were among the many discoveries. The cave is very rich with splendid white gold quartz and there is much copper. The story is told with minuteness of detail and great plausibility. The narrator says he is going to file mining locations on the property and that when his brother arrives they will go in and make further examinations.

He says he is not trying to raise money nor will he consent to taking a company up with him. But he wishes to take one Chehalis man to verify his story, and Dr. Smith has been chosen to go."

Deaths of Presidents.

It is interesting to note that pneumonia, the disease with which Former President Harrison was stricken, brought about the death of the first president of this Republic, Washington succumbing to that ailment on December 14, 1799.

Of the other Presidents, four—John Adams, Madison, Monroe and Fillmore—died of debility; two—Jefferson and Polk—succumbed to chronic diarrhoea; two—John Quincy Adams and Andrew Johnson—died of paralysis.

Rheumatic gout carried off Buchanan and consumption caused the death of Andrew Jackson. Harrison, Tyler and Taylor died of bilious troubles, and Van Buren of asthmatic catarrh. Pierce died of inflammation of the stomach. Grant of cancer and Arthur of Bright's disease.

Two died at the hands of assassins—Lincoln and Garfield.—Ex.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 15, 1891.

Mr. McKinley has squally times ahead on the Isthmian canal question. The patronage he has at his disposal is keeping republican senators and representatives from publicly talking now, but that will not hold good long. He is accused of having acted in bad faith, in order to prevent the Senate passing the Nicaragua Canal bill, by withholding semi-official knowledge he had before the adjournment of Congress that the British government had decided to reject the amended Hay-Pauncefote treaty. And worse yet, he is accused of standing in with the ring that is trying to unload the Panama Canal on this government. The last accusation seems hard to believe, but circumstantial evidence is certainly in its favor. Whatever may have been his object—preventing the passing of the Nicaragua Canal bill is the only logical one—he did withhold until the present week the rejection of the treaty from the public. The rejection was not officially handed to Secretary Hay by the British Ambassador until early in the present week, but Secretary Hay admits that the administration knew of it before Congress adjourned. Mr. McKinley's future troubles are not likely to be lessened by his having instructed Secretary Hay, who was so completely bamboozled by Lord Pauncefote in the old treaty, to open negotiations for a new one. It is among the probabilities that the Isthmian Canal question will split the republican party in the near future, probably during the next session of Congress.

It is evident that the administration isn't altogether satisfied with the reports of the situation in Cuba, sent to Washington by Gen. Wood and other administration agents, which differ so radically from reports sent by competent and reputable correspondents of American newspapers. In order to get another view of the Cuban situation, Mr. McKinley has sent Senator Proctor as his personal and confidential representative to see what he can find out about the intentions of the Cubans. That Senator Proctor's trip was made unexpectedly by him was shown by the fact that he had called a meeting of the sub-committee of the Senate Military Committee, of which he is chairman, charged with the duty of investigating the alleged connection of Lt. Col. Heistand and a number of prominent War Department Officials with the Philippine hemp scandal, for this week, and left Washington without notifying the other members of the committee of his change of plans. After it was learned that Senator Proctor had gone to Cuba, Senator Hawley was made chairman of the sub-committee and the investigation, which already shows the earmark of a whitewash, was started.

Mr. William J. Bryan passed through Washington this week, on his way home from New York, where he went to get pointers for the betterment of his newspaper plant. He declined to be interviewed on politics, but said of the late ex-President Harrison: "He was always respected by his political opponents as a clean, conscientious and able statesman. Those who differed from him could criticize his politics, but they could not attack his motives. His conduct after retiring from office was such as to strengthen his hold upon public esteem. The death of such a man is a distinct loss to the country."

Hon. Martin Maginnis paid this high compliment to Montana's new democratic Senator: "The state of Montana could not have settled upon a more suitable man to represent it than Paris Gibson. Mr. Gibson is a man of fine parts and a staunch democrat. He has been the best sort of a democrat all his life. He is now nearly seventy years of age, but is robust and hearty, and in full vigor of his mind. He will make, in my opinion, as good a senator as the commonwealth of Montana has ever had."

It seems to be the general opinion in Washington that the failure of the republican legislature of Delaware to elect two senators will result in restoring that state to the democratic column. Speaking of that failure a well known business man of Wilmington, who was in Washington this week said: "The people of Delaware have become resigned. They have been for a considerable period of time with only one senator in Congress and I suppose they can get along for a while without any. I think that Delaware has learned what it has to expect from the republicans and will be found in the democratic column the next time it has an opportunity."

Senator Depew is known as a smiling conciliator rather than a fighter, but if his own words are to be depended upon he is likely to figure as a fighter if the announced intention of Mr. McKinley to appoint Col. Sanger, of N. Y., assistant secretary of War, in spite of the protests of Senators Platt and Depew, be carried out. Speaking of threats of what the administration would do if he opposed the confirmation of the nomination of Col. Sanger, which have been heard in administration circles, Mr. Depew said: "If a fight is to be declared against me in this matter I will be prepared for it, and I will fight it to the bitter end. I do not intend to sacrifice my constitutional right or responsibility through fear of losing favor with those in authority." There are reasons for the belief that Senators Platt and Depew are merely making a big bluff for the purpose of landing some appointments and that they have no idea of making a fight on Sanger.

Because their shoes are always soled with a finish
Why shoemakers and shoes are always plain
They are never cranky nor clanish.
We don't sole shoes in a half hearted way;
We don't often half sole a sole, but will do so if you say;
That we will do "not" in a whole soul way.
But will do it so that the one soul who wears so
Half-soled soles will be comfortable all day.
Our half sole job does carry the banner, (While we call it a half sole job we do it in a whole soul manner)

Little of Everything.

All unoccupied public lands containing salt springs or salt in any form now come under the provisions of the law relating to placer mining claims. This law was passed by congress during its late session and will affect many people over the country.

Kauffman & Frost have received thirty "Bob White" quail from Kansas, and they will give them every opportunity to multiply on their ranch. The birds stood their trip of five days very well.—Ellensburg Capital.

Natural gas is all the talk now at Cle Elum. While boring for water at his residence last week, Col. Gamble opened a healthy vein of the real stuff at a depth of 384 feet. The blaze is about 40 feet high and has burned continuously since first ignited. The well is located about a quarter of a mile from the railroad and travelers on the night trains says that it reminds them of the gas belt in Indiana. The Colonel intends to prospect down 2000 feet and then open the gas veins with a torpedo after which he expects to secure more than enough fuel to supply the state at a minimum cost.—Ellensburg Localizer.

The regular doctors need to be a little careful in trying to legislate against the faith-curists. How would they like to be punished for every patient who dies under their treatment?—N. Y. World.

A guardian has been appointed for a Kansas City octogenarian because of his inclination to flirt with young women. If such a predilection were to be regarded as a symptom of insanity in Washington, not only would a dangerous precedent be established, but the number of insane asylums would have to be multiplied.—Tacoma News.

A newly arrived Irishman was standing at the depot looking at a train of freight cars, which were all marked "Michigan Central Railroad." He was spelling out the words. "M-i-c-h, Mick; i-g-a-n, Egan. Mick Egan! Well, well; shure, I knowed the spalpeen in the ould country whin he hadn't a coat to his back, and now he owns a whole big railroad."—Ex.

Hadley—"The Traitor."

President Hadley of Yale University is quoted as having just declared, in the historic Old South Church at Boston, that "we shall have an Emperor in Washington within twenty-five years unless we can create a public sentiment which, regardless of legislation, will regulate the trusts."

From the point of view of the trusts and the trust president, this is anarchy, lese majeste, treason and copperheadism all in one. That such an utterance should come from the lips of the president of Yale will unquestionably be taken by the powerful and arrogant McKinley administration as well-nigh warranting the closing of that great institution of learning. And the newspaper mouthpieces of the administration—ah, just watch them proceed to crucify this dangerous and revolutionary teacher!

Nevertheless, it is a good thing that Mr. Hadley and brave men like him see fit to speak their minds. Even if the president of Yale University takes an extreme view of the menace contained in trust dominance of the American Government, it is better to be on the safe side when a great danger confronts the country. And is it not a great danger,

A WORD OF CAUTION.

The old saying that "a man, who is naked can't give away his shirt," is only another way of saying that you can't give what you haven't got. The man can't give "free medical advice," or any other kind of medical advice who hasn't got a medical education and a certificate to the fact, in the form of a diploma. And in this particular a woman has no more privilege than a man. She can't give medical advice without medical education and medical knowledge.

The offer of free medical advice made by Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has been imitated by so many, who without any medical qualifications claim to give "medical advice" that a word of caution is necessary.

Don't write for medical advice to any one, man or woman, who is not a physician. If they are physicians they will take the title of physicians or doctors so that you may recognize them. If they don't claim that title it is because they dare not, for fear of the law.

Do not forget that there is just as much difference in doctors as in artists. Every little town has its artist who draws and paints. But these "artists" generally paint copies of the works of great artists like Millet. There was only one Millet.

There is only one Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, such as Dr. Pierce presides over. Thousands of women come or write to Dr. Pierce who have found no help at the hands of doctors of lesser skill and narrower experience.

Any sick or ailing woman, suffering from the distressing forms of disease peculiar to women, is invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Such consultations are absolutely private. Each letter is treated as a sacred confidence, and each answer is sent in a plain envelope, bearing no printing upon it.

In this way offensive questions and repulsive examinations may be avoided. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, BUFFALO, N. Y.

this tremendous and ever-growing power of the trusts? There is probably no American of ordinary intelligence in all this wide land that has failed to perceive the nature and extent of the danger. It is too plain to be ignored. It must either be faced and overcome or we must sink content to the degraded level of a people whose Government is a Government of the privileged class by the privileged class for the privileged class, with the people paying tribute for the overthrowing of the popular government.

President Hadley of Yale University is to be commended for his bold and essentially patriotic utterance. He may be a traitor to McKinleyism and Trustism, but he is faithful in his allegiance to the true Americanism. It is infinitely better to speak plainly now than to wait until it will be useless to speak. The American people must resolve to do away with the trusts if they are to remain a free people.—St. Louis Republic.

State Fair Appropriation.

Owing to the unceasing efforts of friends of Yakima and the State Fair, the appropriation for that institution held out to a finish in the legislature, even when the sharpest edges of the pruning knives were used to lop off appropriations which carried the amount far in excess of the state's income.

The amount allowed is $10,000, $5000 to be used this year and a like amount in 1902. This appropriation, while somewhat under the amount asked for, insures a creditable fair for this and next year. Thanks for the successful work in securing the appropriation are largely due to Representative Wilson, of Kittitas county.

Grover Cleveland continues to give advice to young Democrats. It is difficult to realize that only four years have passed since that gentlemen ceased to be president of the United States; but he helps to remind us of his existence by now and then projecting upon the daily news a speech or bit of advice, with which nobody cares to find any particular fault, while some may be pleased to detect a serene and wholesome philosophy. Numbers of young Democrats may listen respectfully to this sad voice from the past, but they are not profoundly stirred as of yore. The youngest know that the man who thus offers advice refused to take any, and in his attitude toward the Democracy illustrates the parable of the fly on the cart wheel.—Sumner Herald.

IMPROVIDENT LAWMAKERS.

How the Legislature Has Humbugged the People.

The Tacoma News, itself a staunch republican organ, makes the following comment on the record left by the late legislature:

"The farmers of the state succeeded in passing through the house a number of meritorious road bills. Every one of them were killed in the senate. Funds for the state university to the amount of nearly $200,000 were provided but not a dollar were the farmers and miners allowed for the construction of good roads over which the product of the mines and farms could be hauled to market.

Farmers in Eastern Washington, with less consistency, clamored for a railway commission and maximum freight and passenger rate bills. Not one was allowed to become a law. A well trained and expensively maintained lobby killed them off as fast as they were introduced.

Almost every positive wish of the attorneys and every negative wish of the railroads was enacted into law. Appropriations to the amount of $2,000,000 were parcelled out during the last hour of the last day to the representatives who had been subservient.

The farmers and the miners and the laboring men might as well not have been represented. The attorneys, the general freight and passenger agents and the professors dealt the cards and held all the trumps. The firm of Ankeny & Bbl, directed the game.

If the farmers and miners and workmen are wise they will have a few tried and true representatives of their own in the next legislature."

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

A Protracted Meeting of the City Dads Results in the Trans-action of Much Important Business.

The city council met in regular session on Monday evening, all members being present except Councilman Lombard, whose resignation as councilman-at-large was read and accepted, A. B. Weed being elected by an unanimous vote to fill the vacancy.

A written offer of 150 feet of hose in payment for the old hand engine, by A. G. Long, of Portland, was accepted when it was found that the chief of the fire department had already shipped the apparatus.

A petition from F. B. Shardlow was read, asking the renewal of his saloon license which was granted, the city treasurer's receipt for $1000 accompanying the application.

A petition for a bridge across Union ditch on Second street, was referred to the committee on streets and ditches.

The mayor here stated that he had appointed Mr. Allen, the new councilman from third ward, to take the place on all committees held formerly by Mr. Chappell.

A petition from M. Shorn asking reduction of one half of 1889 taxes on certain lots was granted.

Claims were allowed, St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., $15.08; Yakima Democrat, $35.90; Yakima Wood Yard, $15.25; H. Ditter warrant, $47.98; Wm. Curry hauling engine to fire, $2.50; C. M. Hauser chief fire department, $1.50; A. E. Howard building pest house, $157.50; Lombard & Horsley supplies, $27.25; G. L. Allen complaints filed by city in superior court, $12.00.

An assessment district for laying sidewalk was formed of the east side of block 67, on Third street, thus making a continuous sidewalk to the new school building.

A resolution requiring all sidewalks on Yakima avenue from Front to Third street to be constructed of asphalt, brick, stone, cement or other fire proof material, was passed, all members except Shaw voting in favor of the measure. This is one of the longest and most tiresome documents ever presented to the council, abounding in figures and a mass of verbiage, and the stocism displayed by the council when the several readings of the long winded document were droned out, was truly remarkable.

After prolonged debate, in which all members of the council and a large number of visitors took an animated part, the council agreed to allow Wm. Kivor the contractor, $50 above the contract price for desired changes in the improvements being made on Sixth street.

An ordinance excluding Park addition from the city limits, in accordance with the result of the recent election, was introduced and after being read laid over under the rules till next meeting.

An ordinance requiring the grading, macadamizing of Yakima avenue from Front street to Natchez avenue, was passed.

A local improvement district was organized for the grading of Yakima avenue from Natchez avenue east to the city limits.

Bids for lumber for the ensuing year were received from a half-dozen local dealers, but as the rates given were all the same the council rejected all bids.

Bids for city advertising were read and referred to the committee on printing.

The clerk was instructed to draw a warrant for $100 to be paid to the state under the law requiring that 10 per cent of saloon licenses shall go to the commonwealth.

Health Officer Frank reported small-pox cases absolutely under control, four cases in the pest house and eight in the county at large, representing all that are known to exist. He reported the hearty co operation of the Ellensburg authorities in stamping out the disease, which is known to have been spread from a wood camp up the river called Paetow.

R. A. Grant was allowed $2 50 per day for care of pest house. It was stated by the mayor that the county would settle one-third the cost of construction of the pest house.

A motion by Hall that official communication, signed by the mayor and all members of the council, be transmitted to Andrew Carnagie, requesting a $10,000 donation for a public library, was enthusiastically received by all but Donald.

The mayor publicly censured himself, the clerk and the chief of the fire department for exceeding their authority in the various functions and warned all of them not to let it occur again.

The street commissioner was instructed to secure necessary tools and proceed at once to clean the ditches and if necessary trim all the shade trees.

When the witching hour of twelve was close at hand the council adjourned after a busy and interesting session.

ALDERMANIC CHANGES.

A. B. Weed Succeeds H. H. Lombard as Councilman-at-Large.

As will be noted in the record of the city council proceedings, H. H. Lombard at the last meeting of the city fathers tendered his resignation as councilman at-large, the vacancy being filled by the election of A. B. Weed.

Mr. Lombard gives as a reason for resigning that the position made heavy demands upon his time, which he could ill afford to give, considering the fact that his business partner in his capacity as county commissioner is obliged to devote much of his time to public business.

Mr. Lombard's real reasons for resigning are given in order to correct the erroneous report that the bachelor member-at-large was unable to see himself in a satisfactory light in the role of a father.

The selection of Mr. Weed to fill the vacancy, is regarded as particularly fortunate for the city. Mr. Weed has taken the pains to acquire much special knowledge regarding street paving and grading which will doubtless prove of much value to the city now that long delayed street improvement is about to begin.

School Art Loan Exhibit.

In behalf of the teachers, pupils and board of education we desire, in this public way, to thank all friends of the schools who in any way contributed to the success of the evening entertainments and to the exhibition in its entirety. Particularly are we grateful for the kindness and generosity of the Congregational society, the St. Paul Lumber Co., Briggs & Dam, Electric Light & Power Co., the city press, the Women's clubs, without whose cordial and helpful assistance the exhibit would not have been the success it proved; and to Messrs. Geo. Donald, W. A. Bell, Alex. Miller and the county officers for presentation of choice pictures to the High school department.

The fund accounting of receipts and disbursements has not been completed but we can report 39 pictures and frames purchased to the amount of $196.50, which will shortly be distributed among the several buildings. Each school room will have one choice picture, several rooms will have two, while the High school will have 16, being able to frame out of its sale of tickets 12 pictures presented last year by Mr. Steinweg.

The exhibit was certainly a success educationally, which was primarily the purpose in view in giving it. Teachers, pupils and patrons have had their interest in art quickened, and their knowledge of the old masters and modern artists largely increased by the talks of Mr. Thompson and the week's study of the scores of pictures displayed. Our school rooms have been made more cheerful, facilities for language study enlarged, the desire for pure and artistic scenes nurtured in the child life, and all our minds cultured and broadened by this visit of silent friends to our city.

Commission Appointed.

Gov. Rogers has named the members of the Pan-American exposition commission, as provided for in the bill passed by the recent legislature, and among the number Yakima is one of the sections honored by the appointment of a representative. The commission consists of eleven members, three of whom the governor chose from among the state senators and two from the representatives. The commissioners are: Senators L. B. Andrews of Seattle, D. E. Biggs of Whatcom, L. B. Sumner of Everett, Representatives F. O. Erlich, of Mount Vernon, and H. D. Merritt of Spokane. The others are: Lee B. Hart, Seattle; A. R. Titlow, Tacoma; A. C. Little, Tacoma; Levi Ankeny, Walla Walla; H. J. Snively, North Yakima, and Capt. C. H. Thompson, of Spokane. The law under which the commissioners are appointed allows them only actual expenses in performance of their duties and attending the meetings of the commission.

Seed Potatoes.

Farmers if you are going to raise potatoes for outside markets you must change your seed. I have several cars of Columbia river Burbanks to arrive from Portland, and ask that all who desire to assist in redeeming the reputation of Yakima Burbanks to place their orders as early as possible. Prices depend on quantity desired.
