Dear Mr. Relander:

Thank you very much for your letter of April 18, giving me information as to the Indian name of the Columbia. I am doing a special article on the Columbia Power System - but it is so statistical that I doubt if I can sell it. As I am limited to 5,000 words, I do not have space in which to quote authorities, but I will keep your letter for reference. I am grateful to you and hope to meet you some day. I will enjoy reading your book. I trust you have recovered from your recent indisposition.

Best wishes,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Henry L. Gray". The signature is stylized with a large, looped initial "H" and a long, sweeping underline.
