

OFFICE OF
STANDARD PUBLISHING CO.

22 East Ninth Street.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 20, 1889.

Dear Friend:

We inclose herewith our list of STANDARD subscribers, which for greater convenience you will find pasted in a small memorandum book.

We trust that your interest in the paper has increased as the magnitude of the work that lies before it becomes more and more apparent. The rapid increase in our circulation in all quarters, assures us that our friends generally are more in earnest than ever, and that we have in larger measure their confidence and support.

In this assurance, we are pressing forward, and beg that you will give us all the assistance in your power, both by renewing our present list and by the enrollment of new subscribers.

The dates on the printed list indicate the time to which each subscription is paid. All other marks are for our convenience. Our rates are unchanged since last year:

Per Year. $1.75.

One Extra Copy with each Club of Six.

Thanking you for all the favors of the past, and earnestly hoping that you will be able to report an increased list for next year, we remain, as ever,

Faithfully yours,

STANDARD PUBLISHING CO.

P. S.—In remitting, please take out postage expenses and cost of money order or check.
