F. J. TICKNER

JURY IN THE BOYD CASE FAILED TO REACH AGREEMENT

Were Dismissed After Being Out Twenty-Three Hours—A Verdict Was Generally Expected.

Prosecuting Attorney Parker: "Of course, the result of the trial wasn't what I had every reason to expect, in view of the testimony that was offered, but I think the position of the state is now a stronger one than it was before the trial was held. I sincerely believe that when the case comes on for trial again the result will be a conviction of Boyd for the murder of that infant."

"I cannot say when the case against him for seduction will come to trial. It will not be during my term of office, which ends on January 9, and it rests largely with the incoming prosecuting attorney whether it will come up before or after the re-trial of this case."

H. J. Snively, attorney for Millard Boyd: "I was greatly surprised that there was not a verdict of 'not guilty.' There was every reason, in my opinion, to look for that as a result. I don't think the state made a case, and I believe that the testimony of the defense demolished that of the prosecution on the material facts presented. The girl, Blanche McCallum, was contradicted by twenty witnesses, not one of whom had ever shown the moral delinquency that she herself confessed. That's all I care to say about the case."

The end of the bitterly contested trial of Millard Boyd on the charge of murder in the superior court last week was a surprise to a large majority of the people who heard the evidence in the case. Opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused was very much divided, but neither those who accepted the theory the state attempted to prove nor those who believed Boyd innocent looked for a disagreement. The former looked for a verdict of murder in the first degree, while the latter were equally confident that the jury would acquit the defendant. The whole case seemed to hinge upon the identity of the infant found in the Schanno ditch in June last. If the jury believed that this child and the child born to Blanche McCallum in the Kangaroo lodging house on the afternoon of May 25th, 1903, were one and the same, then no one could understand how, in view of the testimony and instructions the jury could do otherwise than find in accordance with the facts alleged in the information.

It was reported to Judge Rudkin in the afternoon Friday that there was little chance for an agreement, and the jury were instructed to endeavor to come to an understanding if possible, the judge holding that they had not deliberated a sufficient length of time to warrant a disagreement. The jury then asked for further instructions. They wanted to know if it was necessary for the state to establish whether the child found in the Schanno ditch was the one alleged to have been killed by the defendant, and whether it was necessary to show that the child was a male. The court stated that it was necessary for the state to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the child alleged to have been killed by the prisoner was a male child. He said that as far as he could remember the testimony Blanche McCallum did not look at the child after it was born and that she did not know its sex.

The jury again retired and continued discussing and balloting upon the case. Judge Rudkin was compelled to go to Pasco on the 11:17 train to conduct a term of court; late in the evening he sent word that unless they were able to agree by 10 o'clock he would dismiss the jury. At that time, no word having come from the jury room, the judge, attorneys, defendant and a few others filed into the court room, and Judge Rudkin took his place.

"Gentlemen," he asked, "have you agreed on a verdict?"

"We cannot," said Mr. Leach, replied.

"Will you be able to reach an agreement?"

"We cannot," Mr. Leach replied. "Are you all agreed as to that?" asked the judge.

Each juror stated that it was true, and that he did not believe an agreement was possible. Judge Rudkin then stated that he would dismiss the jury and excuse the jurors from further service, as he himself did not believe they would ever reach a verdict. The defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, and court was adjourned to Wednesday, December 21st. Boyd heard the report of the disagreement without the least apparent concern, and accompanied the bailiff back to his cell with the same indifference that has marked his demeanor throughout the trial. On the following morning he inquired if he would not now be allowed his liberty upon giving bond, but made no comment when informed that bail was as impossible now as before the trial, and that he would have to remain in the county jail until the next term of district court, which may not be held until next June.

The Closing of the Case.

It was late Thursday afternoon when the taking of testimony was concluded. After a brief recess, Vestal Snyder, who assisted the state in prosecuting, opened the argument for the state. He consumed nearly an hour's time, in which he presented a strong argument in favor of the state's theory, and urged a conviction. He reviewed the evidence introduced, and overlooked nothing that had any bearing upon the entire matter. An adjournment until 7:30 in the evening was taken, when Mr. Snively, attorney for the defendant, began his argument. The point upon which he laid the greatest stress was that the state had not made out its case to the extent that was necessary in order for a verdict of murder to be warranted; he insisted that even if the testimony tended to show that a child had been born to Blanche McCallum on the day alleged, and that its remains were afterwards thrown in the Schanno ditch was true, the child must have died from natural causes or lack of proper care and attention.

Prosecuting Attorney Parker made the closing argument for the state. In substance it was a review of the evidence on both sides, a comparison of the same, and an illustration or explanation of the defects in the defense. The story of the Boyd's and their witnesses, he believed to have been manufactured and rehearsed, the evidence of their side was contradictory and some of their main witnesses had been impeached. Although the court room was packed to the doors with an uncomfortable, restless crowd, Mr. Parker held their almost breathless attention for over two hours, and many have been heard to declare that his argument was the best and ablest they have ever heard him make.

Judge Rudkin read his instructions to the jury, taking but about fifteen minutes time. He said that in accordance with the evidence introduced at the trial, the jury would be allowed to return any one of three verdicts, or to acquit the defendant. The verdicts were of murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree and manslaughter. Each of these was fully explained and the jury retired at 11:20 to try to agree upon a verdict.

Thursday's Proceedings.

The testimony introduced Thursday was largely expert—Drs. McNair, Rosister and Lynch went into details regarding the hydrostatic test as a method of determining if an infant had been born dead or alive. Each also gave his opinion regarding the probability of an infant living from 2:30 in the afternoon until 11 in the evening, unattended and in the condition it is claimed the child was which was born to the prosecuting witness.

Counsel for the defense introduced the testimony of William Clark to show that Boyd, the defendant, was not in town at the time alleged by Miss McCallum. He said that Millard Boyd left town for his home in the Natchez valley in a buggy the evening of the day Roosevelt was here. That he (Clark) rode behind him on a horse; that Boyd left the buggy at the Natchez bridge, and went on home alone on his wheel. Witness admitted he was a great friend of defendant's, and wanted "to see him get out of the scrape."

Asa Schwartz testified that he conducted the examination which prosecuting witness swore she attended shortly before her child was born. In a corrected statement he gave the date of this examination as April 18 and 19, 1903, which corroborated her testimony.

Mrs. Hanna Smith, a neighbor of the McCallum's, swore that she examined the prosecuting witness in February or March, 1903, and came to the conclusion that she was suffering with some form of dropsy. Her stomach was badly bloated, as was nearly her entire body. She saw her later, and examined her in April. The swelling or bloating had entirely disappeared.

Levi Smith, husband of the last witness, said he assisted in the examination. He merely corroborated his wife's testimony. Later the prosecuting witness was recalled, and testified that

BOYD ADMITTED TO BAIL: BONDS PLACED AT $5000

Court Overruled the Objection of the Prosecuting Attorney—Only Question was Amount.

In the superior court this morning, after a number of equity cases had been set for trial, Attorney Snively asked that his client Millard Boyd, be released from custody on bail. Prosecuting Attorney Parker objected, but the court ruled that in the event of a hung jury in a murder trial the defendant was entitled to bail, the only question being the amount of the bond. He placed Boyd's bond at $5000.

The father of the defendant is engaged in securing the signatures to the bond today, and Mr. Snively states that it will be filed and Boyd released before night.

Smith was not in the room at the time the second examination was made.

Frank Clark testified to overhearing a conversation in Barton's store, in which Blanche McCallum asked for money to take her to Portland, and in which she stated that she had previously given birth to a child, and that the birth was premature, brought about by the use of medicine. LeRoy Barton corroborated him in part.

Bill Biggins, by whom the defense tried to prove an alibi for the defendant, swore as he did in the preliminary hearing, and denied ever having been in a room at the Kangaroo house with Blanche McCallum and Millard Boyd.

Wesley Boyd, father of the defendant, stated that his son was at home with him on the ranch in the Natchez valley at the time the prosecuting witness says he was with her, at the birth of her first child. He accounted for the young man's whereabouts for each half day during the week in question. When asked by the prosecuting attorney if he did not attend a school meeting on one of the days he had testified he and his son were at work on the farm, he replied that he did not, and that he had not attended a school meeting for three years. Evidence was later introduced which proved that both he and his wife did attend the meeting in question, and that they stayed at the schoolhouse for two or three hours.

John Clark, Ray de Layman and McGee, all young boys, admitted they were Boyd's friends, and stated that they saw him on the street near the Yakima National bank at the hour that the prosecuting witness swore he was with her in the Kangaroo house.

Mrs. Wesley Boyd was put upon the stand to prove his presence at home at the time he is said to have been in this city.

Mrs. Mamie Garrett, sister of the defendant, swore that she took the eighth grade examination at the time Blanche McCallum did, and on one of the nights slept with her. She saw nothing to indicate that the girl was pregnant. That was just a week prior to the time the child is said to have been born.

Drs. Burns and Crompton were examined in regard to the hydrostatic test, referred to above, and in regard to the probability of an unattended child being born and living from 2 till 11 o'clock.

The defendant, Millard Boyd, took the stand, and denied positively that he was with Blanche McCallum at the times she alleged, or at the time her first child was born; said he was not with her in the Kangaroo on the day of Roosevelt's visit here; that he did not smother a child born to her, and that he never put an infant's body in the Schanno ditch.

Following some unimportant testimony by various witnesses, mostly for the purpose of corroborating other testimony, the state in an attempt to impeach the witness Wesley Boyd, placed upon the stand Isaac Hayes, Grant Wilson, Ed Vandever, and John W. Morgan. Each swore that he knew Wesley Boyd's reputation for truth and veracity in the community, and that it was bad. Counsel for the defense then placed upon the stand Sheriff Grant, who did not know the reputation of Mr. Boyd, good or bad. He was followed by George Donald, J. D. Cornett, Mr. Hardy and H. H. Schott, all of whom stated that so far as they knew, the reputation of Mr. Boyd for veracity was good.

This closed the testimony of both sides. A few minutes' recess was taken, and then the attorney for the state began his argument, promptly at 3:45. The court allowed three hours for the argument, the time to be divided between the attorneys for the state and defense. The instructions to the jury were brief, and the jury retired at 11:15 to consider the testimony and render their verdict.

BUSINESS OF IMPORTANCE TRANSACTIONED BY COUNCIL

Curfew Ordinance Will be Strictly Enforced—Burns & Tucker Finally Granted a License.

All members of the council were present Monday evening. Aside from the routine business, a great deal of importance to the city was transacted. The ordinance granting franchises to the Northwest Water & Light Company were passed; Burns & Tucker were granted a saloon license; a petition signed by nearly a hundred taxpayers and property owners for a resubmission of the bond issue at a special election was received; J. J. Chambers' acceptance of the gas franchise was read and his bond in the sum of $1000 received; bids were read and contracts awarded for the building of wooden sidewalks; Charles Rodman was discharged from the police force for getting drunk while on duty; and E. M. Hawkins was appointed to succeed him.

The petition of Jas. M. Burns and John M. Tucker for a license to conduct a saloon in the building on Front street adjoining the city hall was granted after the reading of a letter signed by a large number of well known citizens of Ellensburg, attesting to their good character and the fact that they had always conducted an orderly saloon in that city. Their license dates from the 24th of December.

The petition from the property owners asking that the council set a date for a special election at which the only matter submitted to the voters is to be the issue of bonds for the purpose of building the trunk sewer system authorized at the recent election was read and discussed. All the councilmen were in favor of the special election, but in the absence of the city attorney, who would have to draft the call, the matter was laid over until the next meeting. It is believed that the call will be made for the election at an early date.

A formal acceptance of the franchise for a gas system was received from J. J. Chambers, and accompanying it was a bond in the sum of $1000 to insure the faithful carrying out of the contract entered into by Mr. Chambers. The bond was submitted to City Attorney-elect Forsythe, who will examine it and report at the next meeting.

Mary A. Espey presented a claim against the city for $50 to cover the cost of medical attendance, etc., made necessary by a fall on the sidewalk on North Second street, and which she states was due to a defective sidewalk. The claim was referred to the committee on streets and ditches.

The ordinance providing the manner of construction of cement sidewalks within the city of North Yakima was voted upon and lost. The ordinance which has been before the council for some time providing that only cement sidewalks shall be constructed within certain prescribed limits was laid over.

The work of grading and macadamizing west Yakima avenue was reported complete, and upon the recommendation of the street and ditch committee the same was accepted and the contractor ordered paid.

A notice from the state treasurer was read asking that the city immediately remit the 10 per cent of the amount collected by it in the last three years from saloon licenses, which sum is due the state in accordance with a recent decision of the Supreme court. The finance committee was instructed to find out the amount due and remit the same.

Upon the report being made that a number of parents had asked that the curfew bell be rung each night at 9 o'clock and all children found on the streets at that hour sent to their homes, the marshal was ordered to ring the bell promptly at 9, and to give his attention to the strict enforcement of the curfew ordinance.

Bids were opened for the construction of wooden sidewalks and contracts awarded as follows: For a walk on North Seventh street, between A and H streets, to Searles & Bristow for 35½¢ per foot; for a walk on Chestnut street between Third street and the east line of the alley in block 52, to E. E. Yeager, for $48.15 for the job; for a walk on the west side of First street, between Walnut street and the northeast corner of lot 3, block 12, to Searles & Bristow at 37¢ per foot.

The city engineer was instructed to investigate the cost of street paving of various kinds, and report to the council at a later meeting the cost in general, and also give an opinion as to the adaptability of various kinds of paving to the uses of different parts of the city.

Councilman Sinclair stated that he had received a number of complaints in regard to the conduct of Charles Rodman, who was appointed policeman during the state fair, and asked for a report from the city marshal. Mr. Curran stated that on one occasion while on duty, or supposed to be, Rodman became intoxicated. His brother officer was powerless to control him or send him home, and was compelled to take his keys from him and lock him up. It was ordered that Mr. Rodman be discharged and E. M. Hawkins appointed in his place. The appointment was confirmed.

The council will hold one more meeting before the newly elected members take their office.

THE SNAKE RIVER VALLEY IS COMING TO THE FRONT

Will E. Willis, Formerly of This City, Tells of the Wonderful Progress it is Making.

Will E. Willis, formerly editor of the "Washingtonian," but now publisher of the Clarkston "Republican," was mingling with old-time friends here Saturday. He stopped off between trains while enroute to southern California, where he goes to spend the holidays with his family. After being away from North Yakima for over a year, he was able to notice quite a number of substantial changes in this city and he thinks this place is bound to have a great future before it.

Editor Willis hails from the new town of Clarkston, which is located in the celebrated Snake river valley, the irrigated region which so much resembles the Yakima valley, and which, like our own favored section, is coming very rapidly to the front. North Yakima citizens will be doubly interested in it from the fact that it may be said to be almost wholly the outcome of the labors of E. H. Libby, who was at one time engaged in newspaper work in this city. Mr. Willis says to Mr. Libby's individual efforts is largely due the great success which has been attained in that locality. Mr. Libby, he says, had faith in the big undertaking from the start, but that he had to labor long and hard, before he could convince the doubting Thomases down east. As a matter of fact the company was only incorporated for one hundred dollars, until just recently, although the business had long since grown to immense proportions. Now the capital stock is placed at two million dollars and it is all subscribed and taken, indicating how desirable it is considered by those seeking choice investments.

Originally about thirty-five hundred acres were included in the irrigated section, but now an additional four thousand acres has been procured and will at once be placed under an immense ditch, making that a very large irrigated tract. That the Lewiston-Clarkston company, of which Mr. Libby is president and also general manager, means business, is evident from the fact that it is now proceeding to put in an elaborate system of cement flumes and conduits at the enormous cost of a million and a half of dollars. Work on this gigantic undertaking will soon commence and will give employment to an army of workmen. Mr. Libby visited and inspected the Sunnyside canal, and also examined the great irrigation systems of California, and he has had expert engineers at work perfecting the plans, until now, he hopes to have one of the most complete and perfect systems that can be found anywhere.

Editor Willis tells of the rapid and substantial growth of Clarkston and Vineland, the one section which has two names. He says there are no vacant houses or stores, but, on the contrary that a veritable building boom is on. Many desirable eastern families are coming there, while not a few people from Spokane and various eastern Washington points come there to enjoy the delightful winter climate, which rivals California. Health is so good that the few physicians who are there spend a part of their time in growing fruit. It is a strange fact, but nevertheless true, that there is not a mile of railroad in the whole of Asotin county, in which Clarkston is located, and the leading issue of the recent political campaign was the railroad commission, both parties strongly advocating it in their platforms. While there is no railroad now, in that county, yet this condition will, so Mr. Willis thinks, soon be a thing of the past, for a survey has already been made for an electric line, and both the Northern Pacific and O. R. & N. people are preparing to come into this very promising field, and with their coming Editor Willis thinks there will be such a boom as has never been heard of, in that neck of the woods.

Bessie Phillips in Rudolph and Adolph.

...Things... THEATRICAL.

"Rudolph & Adolph," the new musical farce by Charles Newman, that Broadhurst & Currie will present at Yakima Theatre on Monday, Dec. 26, has been before the public for three seasons and in all that time has not met with any adverse criticisms. The chief reason for this is that it is never claimed that the show is what it is not and invariably gives satisfaction. "Rudolph & Adolph" comes with no boasting and horn-tooting of claims that mislead. It is all it claims to be: A clean, humorous, side-splitting musical farce, well played by a capable company with adequate scenic adornment and specialties of the highest class, and as proof of this it has the unqualified endorsement of captious public and careful critics.

Orpheum Theatre.

A large, enthusiastic crowd attended the Orpheum theatre last night to see the great southern play, "Roanoke." In this production the sad story of a southern gentleman mortgaging his farm to the old miser, Morse, is very beautifully told. This play is so well written that every shade of human life is vividly depicted from the arch fiend murderer to the philanthropist. Col. Peyton becomes indebted to Morse, a miser of the staunchest type. Morse is very desirous of marrying Col. Peyton's daughter, "Roanoke," and in order to get her he tries to make it impossible for the colonel to pay the mortgage. In spite of his efforts the mortgage is paid and to carry out his fiendish ends he poisons the colonel. Roanoke's brother, Joe, sees his father murdered and the miser also strikes him down. The blow leaves the boy half-witted. The shock of both crimes throws Roanoke into a fever which causes the loss of her eyesight. Roanoke and Joe are placed under the guardianship of Aunt Peyton. She makes life so miserable for them that they leave their own home, which the miser has taken possession of and they go to the home of Col. Tom Bailey, a poverty-stricken southerner. On discovering his poverty they leave his home and go to Richmond and make their living on the streets. Col. Bailey tries to find them but fails. Later they are discovered on Xmas day by their old black mammy, Aunt Dinah. She tells Capt. Forrest, who is in love with Roanoke and also Col. Bailey, who has now fallen heir to a vast estate. Col. Bailey employs the best physicians in Richmond, who succeed in restoring the girl's eyesight and restoring the boy to his reason. On returning to their old home the brother secures the will and mortgage from the miser, who had stolen them from the colonel at the time he murdered him. The miser determines to take the life of Roanoke by fixing a false trap in the bridge, but he himself falls a victim to the fate he intended for Roanoke. After the miser's death the blessings of peace and happiness come to the unfortunate children.

The illustrated song, "Follow the Crowd on a Sunday," is a most beautiful production. The moving pictures are very interesting and instructive.

RECOGNITION OF LONG AND CAPABLE SERVICE

North Yakima School Teachers Present
Prof. B. F. Barge With a Gold-headed Cane Monday.

In accordance with the program of the teachers' institute, Prof. B. F. Barge was to preside over the exercises on Monday. Just as the work was about completed in the afternoon County Superintendent stated that a great many of the teachers and visitors had requested that Prof. Barge address the institute on the subject of "Co-operation Between Teachers and Parents," and asked him if he would make a few remarks on that topic. The veteran friend of the schools replied that this was a very important matter, and one to which he had given a great deal of thought; but, as the hour was late, he would defer speaking at length on the subject until a more convenient period. He said that there was no conceivable subject of greater gravity, and that at another time during the institute he would take time to properly present the matter at length and in all its various bearings. He was about to add another statement when R. K. Nichols, clerk of District No. 7, arose and interrupted him with the following:

"President Barge: Keep right on, keep right on; you have commenced a splendid speech already; others have been quoting scripture, and I will now make a quotation from the same sacred source: 'In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand.' 'For over half a century you have been obeying this sacred command; for over fifty years you have been sowing the seed of moral and intellectual development among the youth of our republic. Hundreds and thousands of our best men and women in daily life attest the value and efficiency of your labor, and today, when the snows of over three score years and ten are silvering your locks, you still withhold not your hand; but by patient, wise and timely counsel are explaining to, and teaching others how to do what a life time study and experience has taught you so well how to accomplish. Words cannot express the value of your counsel.

"Your good deeds are not to be measured by gifts, but the teachers of school district No. 7, the teachers of the North Yakima Public Schools, speaking through me, their humble representative, ask in all loving kindness that you accept from them this little heart offering, trusting that as you have been a staff and comfort to them in times of trouble when perhaps they might have stumbled and fallen, so may that beautiful little staff be a comfort to you as you are traveling down the vale of life; and as the inspired psalmist says, that 'goodness and mercy may follow you all the days of your life, and that you may dwell in the house of the Lord forever,' is their earnest and heartfelt prayer."

With these words Mr. Nichols presented Prof. Barge with a beautiful, massive ebony cane, crowned with a gold head. On the side of the head or handle was engraved: "B. F. Barge: from the teachers of the North Yakima Public Schools; Christmas, 1904." On the ends were engraved the date of the presentation.

Mr. Barge was evidently taken entirely by surprise; he was completely non-plussed. When Mr. Nichols commenced he did not appear to know whether to rebuke him for interfering with the regular program of exercises or to laugh or to cry. He accepted the beautiful gift and evidently very deeply felt the warm feeling of regard which prompted it and the eloquent manner in which it was presented; he stated that, "although it was true that for nearly half a century he had been interested in the cause of education, his devotion to the matter, was deeper today than in his younger years and although over three-score years and ten, he hoped it would be long before he would be obliged, from necessity, to use the gift so unexpectedly, beautifully presented to him."

The Institute repeatedly applauded Mr. Nichols during his short address and at the close of Prof. Barge's remarks a general clapping of hands, smiles and cheers showed the feeling entertained by all present for the "Old Nestor" of education in Central Washington. The Herald is indebted to Miss McIlvaine for the stenographic report of the presentation speech.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

A PUBLIC TRIAL.

Good actors and good architects draw good houses; but, as an attraction, they are not to be compared with a salacious criminal trial. As proof of this statement note, not the crowded but stuffed condition of the county court house during the progress of the Boyd trial; jammed full by curious humanity eagerly drinking in the history of a boy's depravity and a girl's shame; craning their necks to lose not a single disgusting detail; listening with avidity to each horrible disclosure and apparently relishing the whole filthy story. The accused is entitled to a "speedy public trial by an impartial jury"—but it certainly is not the purpose of the provision that all persons, in all cases, shall be permitted to attend criminal trials, particularly when from the nature of the charge, their motives must be low character, and where a due regard for public morals and decency requires that spectators be excluded from hearing the evidences of human depravity which the trial must bring to light.

A "public trial" is guaranteed to the accused in order that the public may see that he is fairly dealt with and not unjustly condemned; and is not violated if those drawn thither by a prurient curiosity are excluded. Any judge on the bench, who frees his court room from that class of spectators is making an order in behalf of the better morals of the community, is violating no constitutional requirement and is doing for others what they should do for themselves without compulsion, making them preserve their own self-respect and decency.

WHERE PARENTS ARE TO BLAME.

There is a lesson to be drawn from the trial of Millard Boyd in the superior court here last week, the enforcement of which upon the minds of the young would no no harm, and might do a great deal of good. This is true whether the defendant in the case was guilty or innocent of the numerous crimes charged against him. The lesson is equally aplicable to the parents of young girls and boys, who are more to blame for the wrecked lives, the wrong doings and a large share of the suffering in the world than their children are.

The real school for crime is the street, and the teachers in the form of evil associates are ever ready and willing to give to the younger and waywardly inclined the benefit of their ripper knowledge of things they should not know. Too many parents rear their children on the theory that if they clothe and feed them their duty is done, and that if the children prefer the streets at night to their own homes, they should be allowed to inhabit them. The increase of crime from year to year indicates that with each successive generation the parents exercise less authority over their children, and care less for their welfare, other than physical. As a result the children of a large percentage of parents are growing up more wilful, more precocious and more inclined to follow the broad and easy paths of life in this generation than in any that has preceded it. To err is human, and to err is to follow the natural inclinations of humanity.

In reference to the case mentioned, neither the prosecuting witness nor the defendant would ever have been placed in the trying positions they occupied if they had spent their unemployed time in their homes during the last two or three years; certainly neither is so old that this would have been too much to expect. The Herald does not aim to censure these parents in particular, but is it not reasonable to suppose that in any similar case the evils that result from the ignorance and willfulness of children might have been lessened if not avoided entirely by the watchcare and oversight of the parents? How many men have slid from the scaffold where their unprofitable lives were ended that their fate came about through a failure on the part of their parents to control and guide them while they were young? How many women who are leading lives of abandonment and despair might say the same thing? A very large percentage, beyond doubt.

The neglected child does not grow into a good and useful man or woman any more than the bent twig grows into a straight and symmetrical tree. Parents whose children are going and coming at will, with companions of their own choosing, unrestrained and unguided, have no one but themselves to blame for the failures that can but be expected. The children of today are the hope and dependence of the future, and it is a duty that parents owe to the world, to their children and to themselves to see that they are guided, counselled and properly reared.

With an improved drainage system in the central portion of the city, North Yakima's streets would be in far better condition than they are now. Let's have the proposed sewer.

SPECIAL SCHOOL MEETING.

The Board of Directors of this school district have called a meeting of the voters of the district at the Central School House on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the tax-payers wish the Board to provide additional school buildings for the pupils of our common schools, and if so the style of the building to be erected and the cost the district is willing to incur for such object.

That the call is a timely one and the object worthy is apparent to anyone acquainted with the crowded state of almost every school room; and the proposition to erect the new building on the Natchez lots is also wise, when one stops to reflect that after this year nearly all of the Lincoln building will have to be used exclusively for high school purposes, thus forcing the school board to procure other school rooms in that vicinity for grade pupils.

As the building is to be one of the most thickly settled parts of the city it should be of a permanent character, and some attention should be paid, in the erection, to the appearance; that is convenience should not be sacrificed to looks, but the structure should be made attractive in form.

In view of the rapid increase of population, it will not be long before the district will have to erect school buildings on the Capitol Hill and Leaning additions, and it will be a wise step if the board are empowered to secure building sites in these localities before the price of lots become prohibitive.

The school proposition, in a city increasing, growing as fast as this, is a very serious problem. The present board are careful, economic and at the same time far-seeing officials, and it behooves the citizens and tax-payers to give them every possible assistance in carrying on their good work. The meeting on Friday evening should be well attended, the statement and the plans of the board listened to and examined; and then ratified by the necessary resolution empowering them to act.

THE BEST DAY OF ALL.

If all the holidays observed throughout the world were taken away but one, and that remaining one were chosen for its beneficial influence upon mankind, Christmas day would be the best to choose. Men and women who are not disciples of Christ admit this to be true; even non-believers, atheists, of the better class do not hesitate to say that no other day has so real and beneficial an influence on the minds of the people of the world. Yielding with childish tears and stubborn little heartaches to the happy belief in Santa Claus, we accept with gratitude and joy the broader, better belief in the Christ. The coming and wearing away of the centuries have not detracted from the glad joy of Christmas time—they have added to it, and all because the inspiration, the Savior of mankind exists in the world just as much as He did before the day became sacred to His worshippers. His influence is felt and enjoyed today just as it was eighteen hundred years ago when He went about among men doing good, and when His pitying tears fell upon the upturned faces of the children of Galilee.

Whatever may be said in prejudice or unbelief, investigating minds agree that the nations whose people live nearest the ideal Christian life are those whose moral standards are the highest and whose civilization is the most advanced. The further away a people gets from the teachings of the Christian religion the lower their ideals. In the history of the world there never has been a force like it, so strong or so abiding. Hence the sincerity with which we wish each other joy and happiness on this day. What better blessing can we ask than a "Merry Christmas?"

The Herald extends the greetings of the season to its readers, its advertisers and friends, and wishes all a Merry, Merry Christmas, with the fullest measure of the joy that attends each recurring Christmas anniversary.

A circular has been distributed among the members of the house of representatives urging the expulsion of Congressman Heflin of Alabama. He is accused of having alluded in a speech delivered at Tuskegee to President Roosevelt's entertainment of Booker Washington at the White House, in the following language: "There they sat, Roosevelt and Washington, and if some Czolgoz or one of his kind had thrown a bomb under the table no great harm would have been done the country." And he is further charged with having said in the same speech when referring to the lynching of negroes at Statesville, Ga., that it was "the sending off of a few more republicans ingring 'Nearer, My God to Thee.'" The circular charges that the first remark was calculated to incite attempts on the life of the president, and that the second was a brutal insult to the assassination of McKinley. Heflin claims that these remarks were intended to be taken as a joke, but his ideas of humor show clearly that he is lacking in ordinary common sense.

The presses in The Herald office have been kept busy the past ten days turning out calendars for 1905 for the business men of North Yakima and other places in the county. It may be a surprise to many to learn that as good calendars as can be had anywhere in the United States have been turned out of this place and we believe were more generally known that the work and prices compare very favorably with any other city much of the money that is now sent away would be left at home. We trust the business men of the city and elsewhere will keep this fact in mind another season. See samples in our window next week.

Mrs. Chadiwek showed not despair at the frustration of a few little financial schemes in which she was interested. There ought to be any number of good openings for a financier of her ability with some of the institutions she has assisted in swindling out of fortunes. Yet, why all the abuse that is being heaped upon her? She is not before the public more prominently than thousands of other "financiers" of the same class because she did the things that are alleged, but because she has been found out and they have not.

It is learned that the people living in the vicinity of Prosser will go into hop raising quite extensively next year. There is no reason, so far as the best informed know or believe, why the lower county should not add several hundred thousand dollars a year to its growing receipts. Those who go into the business next year for the first time need not fear too low a price for their initial crop, if present indications are any criterion.

Statistics for the grain acreage and estimate of the yield in the state of Washington for 1904 have been prepared by S. S. King, chief deputy state grain inspector. The total acreage of wheat is placed at 1,400,000 acres; total yield, 23,500,000 bushels. Oats, 62,000 acres; yield, 2,400,000 bushels. Barley, 116,000 acres; yield, 3,700,000 bushels. Great is Washington!

It looks very much as if the Japanese general had his plans pretty well laid when he stated that he and his army would eat Christmas dinner in Port Arthur.

MANY CHRISTMAS PACKAGES BEING SENT THIS YEAR

Business Is Unusually Heavy—Carelessness in Addressing Causes Much Annoyance—Letters to Santa Claus.

"You would be surprised at the number of packages that are left at the postoffice for forwarding that have no address, an address that no one could decipher or insufficient postage," said Postmaster Lemon yesterday. "The same thing comes up year after year in every postoffice in the United States, and the postal employees get blamed for a great deal that is not their fault. I can assure you. And yet, in view of the very great number of packages sent between the 15th of December and the 1st of January, the number that fail entirely to reach their destination is very small. No package is sent to the dead letter office until every possible means of finding where it should go and forwarding it have been employed.

"The great cause of trouble is the failure of persons sending the package to place thereon their own name and address. The majority of people, or at least a large per cent of them, guess at the amount of postage that a package requires, or trust to their own weighing and their own knowledge, often incorrect, of the rate of postage. They put on the stamps that they think should carry their package, drop it in the box and are gone. When we gather the packages for mailing and find that a package that would require 20c postage, for instance, has but 16 cents in stamps upon it, it is thrown out for investigation. We look it over carefully, and if we find no name other than that of the person to whom it was intended to be sent, we write to that person and inform him that we have the package described which will be forwarded promptly upon receipt of the amount of stamps necessary to cover the deficiency. Even if he replies promptly there is a delay of several days, and possibly disappointment; but the department is in no way to blame for that. Of course, if we do not get a reply within a reasonable time, the package is sent to the dead letter office in Washington, D. C.

"No small number of packages are left that do not bear all the address of the person for whom it is intended. For instance, we may find one bearing this partial direction: 'Henry Smith, Newton.' Now, there is probably a Newton in nearly every state in the union. We cannot notify Henry Smith any more than we can send his package, and if we haven't the name of the sender, the package brings up in the dead letter office. Then when Henry and his friend who designed his happiness at Christmas time get together and it comes out that the package never reached him, there is blame and censure for the postal authorities and clerks, you may rest assured.

"The business of the North Yakima office incidental to the holiday season increases from year to year, and this year is heavier than ever. I have put on an extra clerk, and we are all busy. All Yakima people seem to have money this year, and they are evidently willing to spend some of it.

"We nearly always get letters addressed to Santa Claus; so far this year only one of these has been mailed here; this is it," and Mr. Lemon produced a dirty, much handled little envelope sewed with white thread across the end, and addressed:

"To Santa Claus
"To the North Pole."

The enclosure was written on a piece of yellow manilla paper and worded as follows:

"North Yakima Washington December 16 1904. Dear Santa Claus will you please bring me twelve Magic lantern piepores good by."

The good old fellow will be as much puzzled as the postal clerks often are, however, for the young applicant for favor was one of those who fail to sign their name or give their address. And yet, who knows but Santa Claus is wiser than human beings? He may have heard the petition and be even now on his way to the writer's home with a dozen of his finest "piepores" in his pack for him. It is to be hoped that such is the case.

As will be seen in the notice in another column, the postoffice will be closed next Monday except from 9 to 10 in the forenoon and 4 to 5 in the afternoon. The carriers will make one delivery, and the people living on the rural routes will be served as usual.

PREPARING A BILL TO REGULATE IRRIGATION

State Commission Working Day and Night to Frame a Law—Water to Appear to Land.

An irrigation law for the state of Washington is being framed by the state irrigation commission, which met in Spokane last Saturday. It is an adjourned meeting from Seattle, where the men labored day and night for 10 days. They held three sessions Saturday and adjourned at 10:30 p. m. The bill is voluminous, but less bulky than the Idaho irrigation law. The work will take two days more.

Harold Preston of Seattle is chairman of the commission. The other members present are J. A. Shackleford of Tacoma, W. B. Bridgman of Sunnyside, E. A. Bryan, president of the agricultural college at Pullman; Austin Mires of Ellensburg and C. P. Lund of Spokane. The commission was entertained at luncheon Saturday by T. A. Noble of the United States geological survey.

Mr. Preston said: "We are framing a law that is designed to make it as easy as possible for the federal government to undertake irrigation projects in this state, and which will at the same time invite the investment of private capital."

"We are making economy in water the main consideration, believing that an economical use of water is best for the land and will best distribute the public rights to be appropriated. We also aim to prevent the loose and speculative appropriation of water rights where the water is not applied to the land at once. That is accomplished by making the appropriation of water a matter of license or permit to be obtained from an efficient state expert, who shall be the state irrigation engineer."

"One of the important things is to establish uniformity in irrigation practices. An expedition ascertaining of the existing rights of individuals and companies to the water of the streams is also necessary. The bill will provide for the protection of the water users against the water companies by making the companies common carriers and subjecting them to a reasonable amount of regulation under state control."

"The state irrigation engineer will have to be an efficient man and an expert irrigator. The whole irrigation of the state will come under him, if the bill is adopted, and he will be the court of appeal in many questions of rights and needs of lands. He will have assistants and the state will be divided into four districts, each of which will have an irrigation commissioner during the irrigation season."

"One of the basic principles of the measure is that the water right once appropriated belongs to the land and not to the individual. When the land is sold the water right goes with it and it can not be transferred to any other land. When its use is abandoned the right lapses to the state. The storage of water for irrigation purposes is to be under state authority, too. The law prevents it being stored for haphazard use, but only and always for particular lands."

The commission was appointed by the governor and will report the bill to him. He will have it introduced at the legislature.

Council Canvassed Election Returns.

In accordance with the law's provision that the returns from any election shall be canvassed within ten days from the date of such election, the council committee composed of H. K. Sinclair, W. B. Dudley, L. L. Thorp, B. L. Bull and D. M. Rand, met in the city clerk's office last Friday afternoon and went over the ballots cast at the recent city election. The results announced on the morning after the election were not changed, although it was found that a few votes had been cast for citizens' names that were not on either ticket. The new officers will qualify before the city clerk at any convenient time before the date of the first regular council meeting in January, when they will Fast Through Train Planned.

Advices from St. Paul state that at the conference ending last Saturday of the division superintendents of the Northern Pacific, it was decided to put a fast, limited train on the run to the Pacific coast. The present running time of the North Coast is to be reduced one hour after January 1. A thorough test of the system is to be made, with a view of placing in commission the fastest train in the transcontinental service. This will be operated during the Lewis and Clark exposition. It will make but twelve stops between St. Paul and Portland. Assistant General Superintendent A. E. Law of Seattle is said to be one of the advocates of the movement, and he took a prominent part in its discussion at the conference.

Will Be a Record Breaker.

The annual convention of the Washington Educational association, which occurs in Spokane December 28, 29 and 30, promises to be the largest and most important educational convention ever held in the state. An excellent program has been prepared and elaborate preparations have been made for the entertainment of those in attendance. Many important questions are to be discussed which are of vital importance to the public generally. The lecture at the high school auditorium on Wednesday evening, December 28, by State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman of Oregon on "The Public School Season," and President David Starr Jordan's lecture at the Auditorium theatre, Thursday evening, December 29, on "The Call of the Twentieth Century," are features of the convention which will attract large audiences.

Ladies' Musical Club.

The attendance was large and the deepest interest manifested in the regular meeting of the Ladies' Musical club last Thursday afternoon, being held on this occasion at the home of Mrs. A. D. Sloan, 312 North Third street. The program:

Vocal solo—"Angel's Message"..... Willis Mrs. H. D. Baylor.

Brilliant Social Event.

Conspicuous among the season's social events were the two receptions given last Friday afternoon and evening by Mrs. Frank Bartholet at her home at 209 North Second street. The rooms were beautifully decorated in red and green, ivy, evergreens, designs from red paper and colored lights being artistically employed to give the unique effect. At the afternoon reception the hostess was assisted in entertaining by Mesdames Fechter, Cline and Moore. Miss Hatch and the Misses Bartholet, Carl's constituted the amusement, the first prize being won by Mrs. Bell, and the second by Mrs. Phil Ditter. Refreshments were served consisting of oyster patties, wafers, pickles, coffee and cake. The guests on this occasion were Mesdames Ditter, Bell, Fechter, Hill, Horsley, Whitson, Donald, Sloan, Lombard, Moore, Miles, Johnson, Moran, Tetraue, Schott, McArthur, Beebe, Schorn, Grover, Hatch, Rigg, Krutz and Cline and Misses Lombard and Furlong. The hostesses' assistants at the evening reception were the Misses Bartholet, McDonnell, Schorn, and Hatch. Refreshments were served, and by way of amusement the party was ordained to be a "character party." The guests wore costumes to designate the characters they represented, some of them being both elaborate and original. Ronald McArthur won the prize offered for the best dressed gentleman and Miss Rossman the ladies' prize. Miss Brown won a handsome prize for guessing the characters assumed by the guests. Those who enjoyed the evening event were Dr. and Mrs. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Berry, the Misses Wait, Larson, Bartholet, Bisbee, Schorn, Kilgore, Koontz, Brown, Rossman, Marchildon and Messrs. McClure, Loudon, Young, Sharkey, Lynch, Owens, McArthur, Ed McCoy, Fred McCoy, Steinweg and McDonald.

May Yet Learn the Facts.

When Wilson Teio was discharged from custody of the sheriff a few weeks ago, having been accused of shooting Emma Parker, an Indian woman, on the reservation during a drunken orgie gotten up by a lot of whites and Indians, it was feared that the murderer would never be discovered. It may be that further facts will be disclosed by Ed Marshall, an alleged bootlegger who was before Commissioner Howlett last week to answer to the charge of having liquor in his possession on the reservation, contrary to law. On proof being submitted that Marshall carried liquid refreshments with him in the form of a bottle each of alcohol and whisky, he was bound over to the federal court, the February term of which will be held in Tacoma. His examination brought out the statement that he saw the shot fired that killed Emma Parker. This may or may not be true; the officers are of the opinion that the woman was not killed by the bullet that struck her in the jaw, but that her death was caused by drinking booze of some kind which had been doctored with wood alcohol.

It is essential that the league have the moral as well as the financial support of all good citizens in combatting the evil influences of the saloon and the saloon element. We shall endeavor to accomplish good work during the session of the legislature, and after that is over I expect to return to North Yakima and deliver at least one address here for the purpose of further acquainting the people with the objects of the league."

D. 1904, for the purpose of determining whether or not said School District shall build and furnish an eight-room school house of brick and stone on the Natchez Avenue lots in said city owned by said School District.

And also to determine whether or not said School District shall purchase any school house site or sites.

And also to determine whether or not said school district shall incur expense for any or all of the above purposes, and if so to what amount; and to determine the manner in which the said District shall pay for the same.

By order of the Board of Directors of School District No. 7, of Yakima county. Dated at North Yakima, Washington, December 13th, 1904.

R. K. NICHOLS,
District Clerk.

Order to Show Cause.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, in and for the County of Yakima.

In Probate.
In the matter of the Estate of Minnie Cariveau, deceased.

Now, to-wit, on this 13th day of December, A. D. 1904, this cause coming on to be heard before the Court, in open Court, upon the

of Richard Cariveau, the administrator of the above entitled estate, for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate in said petition more fully described, situate in said Yakima County, State of Washington:

And it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court from the allegations contained in said petition that there is no money in the hands of the said administrator out of which to pay the claims filed against said estate, the debts, expenses, state and county taxes, and charges of administration, and that there is no personal property in his possession or belonging to said estate out of which any money can be realized for said purpose, or at all, and that it is necessary to sell said real estate to provide funds for the payment thereof; and it further appearing from said petition that it would be most beneficial for said estate and all the parties interested therein, that said real estate be sold as aforesaid, and the whole of it be sold at private sale.

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered that all persons interested in said estate be and appear in the Superior Court of the State of Washington, in and for the County of Yakima, in the Court Room at the Court House, in the City of North Yakima, on Monday, the 16th day of January, A. D. 1905, at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to show cause why an order should not be granted to said administrator to sell said real estate situate in Yakima County, State of Washington, and described in said petition, now on file with the Clerk of said Court (reference being hereby made to said petition for a better and more complete description of the real estate asked to be sold), for the purposes above mentioned.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks in the Yakima Herald, a weekly newspaper published in the City of North Yakima, Washington, and of general circulation in said county and state, before said time appointed for hearing upon said petition.

Dated this 13th day of December, A. D. 1904. 50-5t

INDICATIONS GOOD FOR A LARGE ATTENDANCE

The State Fruit Growers' Meeting Promises to be a Very Interesting One in Every Detail.

The next meeting of the fruit growers of the state will be held at Wenatchee on the 4th, 5th and 6th of January and from present indications it will be largely attended by the fruit growers from this section, quite a number having already signified their intention of attending. Efforts are being made to get the growers at Sunnyside, Kennewick, Kiona and Prosser also interested, as much depends on a representative showing from this, the banner fruit growing district of the state, principally among which is the securing for North Yakima the meeting in January, 1906. The Spokane people are anxious to see the convention here that year and will lend every effort in securing it for us, but state that much will depend upon the efforts of our own people and the representation from here.

Another important matter that will come before the Wenatchee meeting is the recommendation of the association of the appointment of F. A. Huntley of North Yakima for State Commissioner of Horticulture. There is little doubt but that Mr. Huntley will get the endorsement of the Association and it would be a matter of pride as well as satisfaction to the people of this valley to have a man of Mr. Huntley's qualifications fill so important a position to the fruit interests of the state. An effort will also be made to have the law changed which now provides that the commissioner shall keep his office at Tacoma, so that he may have his office at this point where he makes his residence or, may designate. Besides this there are other matters of legislation of vital interest to every grower of fruit in the state to be discussed and every man who has these interests at heart should make a special effort to attend the meeting at Wenatchee on the dates set forth above.

They Want a Grand Jury.

Some of the largest taxpayers and best citizens of the county are seriously talking of petitioning Judge F. H. Rud-kin to appoint a grand jury to serve Kittitas county. This is a thing that ought to be done. A grand jury could do a good service for the county, and there is plenty of work for a grand jury to do. The plain provisions of the law are violated every day and the violators by their actions defy the people to enforce the law. By all means let a big petition go up to Judge Rudkin for a grand jury.—Ellensburg Dawn.

Preparing for the Institute.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange the details of the fruit growers' institute to be held in this city under the auspices of the Yakima County Horticultural union on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th of January: Exhibits—W. L. Wright, L. B. Kinyon, F. A. Huntley and F. Walden of Zillah. Finance—Edward Remy, Robert Johnson, Orlando Beck, and Amos Bush. Program—J. M. Brown, E. G. Peck, E. E. Samson, W. H. Cline, Music—L. O. Meigs and Harry Brown. A number of prominent speakers will be secured, and the institute will close with a banquet. The effort will be made to make this the best institute ever held here. The attendance is expected to be large.

Change in Time Table.

The time of arrival and departure of trains at North Yakima was on last Sunday changed as follows: No. 1, the North Coast Limited, will arrive from the east two minutes earlier, at 2:25 p. m.; the Pacific express, west bound, also comes a few minutes earlier, at 6:40 a. m. instead of 6:45; the Burlington train comes ten minutes earlier, at 1:15 instead of 1:25 in the afternoon. The arriving time of the east bound trains is earlier in the case of each, their new schedule being as follows: No. 2, the North Coast Limited, 4:50 a. m.; No. 4, Twin City express, 2:45 p. m.; No. 6, Burlington train, 11:02. The west bound local freight is now due at 2:45 p. m., and the east bound local freight at 2:00 a. m.

Two actions for divorce were commenced in the superior court last Friday. A. J. Allison prays for a separation from his wife, Annie, because, he alleges, she is possessed of a violent and ungovernable temper, and makes life a burden for him. Possibly the court will consider this sufficient excuse, although it is feared that the establishment of a precedent might result in the filing of more cases than the clerk's office could handle with the present force. The other unhappy husband is W. Collins Reed, who has been married to Dora A. Reed since 1881. He alleges desertion as the ground for suit.

TRAGIC DEATH AT TOPPENISH.

Ina Martin Killed By a Freight Train While on Her Way to School.

Ina Martin, the 11-year-old daughter of John Martin, met a frightful death beneath the wheels of a freight train at Toppenish last Thursday morning about 8:30 o'clock. In company with a number of other little girls she was on her way to school. Two freights were at the station at the time, one upon the main and the other upon the side track. Just as the children were about to cross the main track, the train started to move. The little girl was frightened and confused, and without noticing that the train on the side track was also moving, ran directly in front of it. She was thrown under the engine and ground to death in the sight of her helpless companions.

John Martin, the little girl's father, is foreman on the Lyons ranch, about a mile below Toppenish. Mrs. Durgan, wife of Lot Durgan of this city, is her sister, and went to Toppenish as soon as informed of the accident.

INCREASES VALUE OF LAND.

Experiences of Rocky Ford, Col., Sugar Beet Growers.

Extensive tests have convinced the promoters of the North Yakima Beet Sugar factory that the climate, soil, water and all other essential conditions in the beet sugar business are more favorable in the Yakima valley than are those of the section around Rocky Ford, Col., and in view of that belief the following letter received a few days ago by Wm. Shearer of Toppenish will be read with interest by those who are hesitating before planting beets:

Rocky Ford, Col., Nov. 28, 1904.—Mr. W. L. Shearer, Toppenish, Wash.: Dear Sir—In regard to our beet sugar factory I will say to start with that it is a success here and a very big paying proposition for our farmers, especially under our present basis of payments.

Our land produces a superior quality of beet, containing a large per cent of sugar. The company pays the growers $5.00 per ton straight unless they run below a certain per cent of sugar, which does not occur here. They also receive a portion of the pulp, which is a very fine feed for stock. Our yield is from 12 to 30 tons per acre. On good land and with proper cultivation and care crops will average from 18 to 22 tons per acre. Some growers will bring their yield up to 25 and sometimes 30 tons. It is an expensive crop to raise on account of so much hand work to weed and thin the young plants which has to be done, and to top them. If labor is high it costs from $25 to $30 per acre to care for and harvest a crop. But even then, with a fair to good crop, you will see there is money in it for the grower. Besides, since the factory started our land has increased in value more than a hundred per cent.

The capacity of our plant is 1000 tons every 24 hours. This fall the factory commenced grinding beets October 1st and will run full capacity until about March 1st. During this time they employ about 450 men at the factory, wages being from 15c to 35c per hour.

HOP YARDS ARE TO BE PLANTED NEAR PROSSER

Business Men of That Vicinity Believe That Satisfactory Returns Will Result.

Prosser is going into the hop raising business, and no section of the country, in the opinion of this newspaper, offers a more inviting field for that profitable industry. With the long summers here, the hot weather and the fine soil, the conditions appear to be ideal for this branch of agriculture and the only wonder is that it has not been extensively engaged in before. Williamson Bros., Wesley Houck of McMinville, Ore., father-in-law of O. K. Williamson, F. H. Gloyd and Jos. Burchett last week purchased of H. J. Jenks a 20-acre improved tract one mile up the river, opposite the J. W. Carey place, for $140 an acre, it being their present intention to put it in hops in the spring. It will be the first hop yard in the vicinity of Prosser, but the time is coming and it cannot be far distant, when there will be others.

One reason, probably, why hops have not been previously grown here, is that the capital is lacking to engage in the business, but there is now no difficulty on that score, and, added to the other wonderful products of the Prosser country, the hop crop will be a feature and source of revenue well worth considering. Hon. Nelson Rich, the Bulletin believes, owns a hop yard near Kiona that is leased to McNeff Bros. of North Yakima, and which is paying handsome returns on the investment.

The gentlemen named above, as the Bulletin understands it, are going into the business at present simply as an experiment, and if it proves to be successful, as it no doubt will, they will likely engage more extensively in the industry. The present high price of hops, the wonderful yields reported from North Yakima last summer and the amount of money made by the growers, have all combined to open the eyes of the people of this portion of the valley to the possibilities in that crop and the experience of these gentlemen will therefore be watched with more than ordinary interest.—Prosser Bulletin.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone as the only remedy for these distressing common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 31 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y. Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

An Interesting Meeting.

Dr. J. C. Thoms, of Seattle spent Sunday in the city. The doctor preached at the Presbyterian church in the morning and the Methodist church in the evening. In the afternoon at the Presbyterian church he conducted a meeting in the interests of the Anti-Saloon League, which was largely attended. His remarks were along the line of past legislation attempted by the saloonkeepers of the state and legislation likely to be attempted by the same forces at the opening session at Olympia, and in which he appealed to all lovers of law enforcement to be on their guard lest bills giving a wider scope to the liquor traffic, gambling and the brothel, be enacted. He gave an idea of the workings of the league, which he said was undenominational, and which had for its mission the enforcement of the present laws and the securing of better ones as fast as public sentiment will permit. He paid a glowing tribute to women and insisted that if the home is to be kept pure and the young of the nation safe-guarded the saloon and its attendant evils must go. Dr. Thoms was for a number of years a practicing physician in the Western district of New York and stated that over 70 per cent of the diseases treated in his dispensary were from the direct effects of the liquor drinking habit.

Cosgrove Will Probably Go.

On Monday, January 9, the five presidential electors chosen at the general election November 8 will assemble at Olympia and cast the vote of this state for Theodore Roosevelt for president, and Charles W. Fairbanks for vice president. Two of the five electors are gentlemen who were college mates with Mr. Fairbanks. These are Hon. Herman D. Crow, of Spokane, and Hon. S. G. Cosgrove, of Pomeroy, Garfield county. It is expected that Mr. Cosgrove will be selected to act as messenger and carry the vote of the electors to Washington.

Four years ago Mr. Cosgrove was on the electoral ticket and had been expected that he would be chosen to act as the messenger to carry the vote. The electors, however, or a majority of them, voted to make Charles Sweeney, of Spokane, now a candidate for the United States senate, the messenger. This time it would appear that Mr. Cosgrove is more certain of going. The electors are Judge L. B. Nash of Spokane, George W. Bassett of Adams county, and A. L. Munson of Mason county. The position of electoral messenger, while carrying with it considerable honor, is worth in the mileage and allowances about $1,200.—Olympia Recorder.

Flour Made from Macaroni Wheat.

A late dispatch from Walla Walla says: "Isaac's mill has just completed grinding half a carload of macaroni wheat raised in the semi-arid region near Whitman station, west of Walla Walla. Last season P. J. Olson, agent for the United States agricultural department, brought seed to the valley and the smallest yield reported was thirty-five bushels to the acre, spring sown and grown under the most unfavorable conditions. The flour is very different from the ordinary. Instead of feeling smooth to the touch, it is hard and gritty as powdered emery, although ground as fine as possible. It is rich in gluten and contains a high per cent of saccharine matter, so much that it is perceptible to the taste. The bran and shorts obtained from this variety are far richer in nourishment than that from ordinary wheat. The appearance of the grain is somewhat like bluestem wheat. The berry is a rich amber color, but slightly more elongated than bluestem. The amount of flour obtained from this variety is not as great as obtained from other varieties, but the premium received more than makes up the difference in weight."

Postoffice Hours Next Monday.

The city carriers will make one complete delivery in the forenoon, and all rural routes will be served as usual.

THE LOCAL HAY MARKET IS MOST DISCOURAGING

Alfalfa Can Be Bought for Almost Any Price—Potatoes are a Little Higher—Butter Seventy Cents a Roll.

The condition of the hay market is the most discouraging thing that confronts the Yakima rancher in looking over the results of the season's work. If he has only alfalfa, the chances of realizing any profits from his hay land in the near future are remote indeed. There is a fair demand for timothy and clover and even grain hay, but alfalfa can't be sold at any price. Several farmers have offered to the hay dealers large quantities of fine alfalfa at their own price, whatever it might be, if they would take it off their hands. But not being able to find a market for what they have stored, the dealers will not buy alfalfa at this time.

The dealers have looked into conditions as far as they can with reference to the future, and can see nothing to warrant an expectation of higher prices any time soon. The press dispatches of Saturday stated that the Russian government had placed with San Francisco commission firms large orders for hay to be delivered at the earliest possible date, but it is thought that this order will not include a great deal of alfalfa, or that it will be so large that California will not be able to fill it without assistance, and it is therefore not expected to cut any great figure. A few days ago one of the largest hay dealers on the Sound was in North Yakima and in talking to a local dealer said that the purchasing agents for the United States government would soon place an order for 6,000 tons of hay on the Sound. He stated that the dealers there would not have the slightest difficulty in filling the order, and made the assertion that he would be willing to fill the order at actual cost if it would result in taking the surplus out of the market, in order that a better condition might prevail throughout the state. There is no quotation given out for alfalfa, but the finest quality would not bring $6.50 a ton. Good timothy is worth $12.50 to $13, and clover or grain hay from $9 to $9.50.

Onions are still in the lead for high prices, and wholesale dealers are paying $40 and better for good quality. A prominent merchant stated Monday that he expected to see onions sold in North Yakima for $60 a ton before spring. They are so scarce that dealers will go a long way to buy an extra good lot.

Potatoes are a little higher, but so little that the difference is not noted except in the buying or selling of ton lots; $15 is a good price, and large quantities are being offered. A good many are being shipped in refrigerator cars, some to the Sound and some to eastern markets. The eastern shipments at this time are confined mainly to Montana points. Sweet potatoes are advancing in price, and are rather scarce. The latter condition indicates that they will be still dearer, although they are retailing for 3c a pound in the stores.

Turkeys advanced in price, as was expected, and are selling readily for 15c a pound, live weight. It is not thought the price will be higher than this, and it will doubtless take another drop after the holidays. Chickens, geese and ducks are unchanged.

Creamery butter asserted its independence by climbing up to the 70c mark last week, and according to some of the retail merchants it will hold this position for some time. Seventy cents is too much for even the best creamery butter, and comes too near being a prohibitive price for many, but that cuts no figure with the man who sets the price.

HOW THE VARIOUS CHURCHES WILL OBSERVE CHRISTMAS

Programs of Song, Readings and Recitations Prepared by Sunday School and Church Workers.

The customary beautiful and impressive services will be held at the Catholic church. High mass will be solemnized at 5 o'clock in the morning. At 8:30 a second mass will be held for the French speaking portion of the congregation. High mass will again be celebrated at 10:00, at which time Father Brusten will deliver a sermon. The music will be especially fine, and at the second mass will consist of Farmer's mass in b flat. The regular choir of the church, under the direction of Charles Donovan, will furnish the music.

The little folks of the Congregational Sunday school will be given the long anticipated treat, the good old-fashioned tree, on Sunday evening. A program will accompany this entertainment, but will be brief. Special music has been arranged for the morning and evening services on Sunday, Miss Rossman being in charge. The morning service will be prefaced by the pastoral symphony from Haydn, during the two services a number of selections from "The Messiah" will be given. The music will consist largely of vocal solos.

The Salvation Army has prepared the following program for Christmas, which will be given Monday evening, December 26th, in the headquarters at 8 p. m.: Jolly Santa Claus The Boys Recitation—"A Christmas Puzzle"

Song—"Hurrah for Christmas Time"

On Sunday evening an appropriate program will be given and Rev. Webb will deliver an address. All are welcome.

"Christmas Joy Bells," a beautiful exercise of class drills, school songs, solos, and recitations will be given by the Sunday School of the Christian church on Saturday evening, beginning at 7:30. Supt. McClure and his associates are busy arranging to give the children a good time and success is assured. Mrs. Clemmer has charge of the music and Mrs. Anna McNeel, whose studio is in the Yakima National bank building is instructing those who are to give readings. The tree and decorations are in charge of a large committee under the direction of Miss O'Neal and Mr. Bever.

A fair sized audience greeted the Green children at the Christian church last Friday night. Their concert is one of quite superior merit. The children all pleased the people as was shown by the repeated encore they received. Claire, the violinist, gives great promise and already plays remarkably well. Ruth looks almost like a baby as she sits at the piano, but the ease and beauty with which she renders really difficult numbers quite carries the audience with her. It was evident early in the recital that Master Kent with his wit and pathos was a general favorite. His solos are remarkable for a boy of his youth. And little four year old Marguerite fairly took the audience by storm with her recitations and songs. Every number on the program is good and it is reasonable to believe that should the Green children be announced to give another concert in the city they would have a much larger audience than they had last week, tho' a more pleased and appreciative one would be hard to assemble.

Following are the Christmas exercises to be held in the Presbyterian church, Monday, December 26th, at 7:30 p. m.: Responsive reading. Invocation, Dr. Hayden; Song by School—"It came upon the Midnight Clear"; responsive reading; short address, Mr. Hugh Sinclair; song by Stella Hale; recitation, Edith Groefsema; recitation, Alice Englehard; violin solo, Ernest Kershaw; primary school exercises; song, Martha Douglas; recitation, Grace Mayer; song by school, "Ring the Bells, the Christmas Bells"; recitation, Mary Coffman; recitation, "Suffer Little Children" by four girls; song, "O, Ring the Bells," by Bernice Doust, Ella Halsted and Frances White; recitation, "Peace on Earth," Noel Thompson; recitation, Alice Hayden; song by members of Young Ladies' class; recitation, Mabel Sawbridge; recitation, Lloyd Lovell; cantata by six little girls; recitation, Dorothy Coffin; recitation, Margaret Coffin; Christmas carol, Charlotte Smith; recitation, "The Star That Shone on Christmas Night," Cora Vanderarde; reading by Miss Morton; song by school; five minute talk by Dr. Hayden; distribution of gifts.

COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE HOLDING PROFITABLE SESSION

Convened Monday Morning in Central School Building, With One Hundred and Sixty Present.

One hundred and sixty-one teachers employed throughout Yakima county were present at the opening of the annual institute Monday morning, and more have since been enrolled. The institute is proving even more interesting and instructive than had been anticipated, and is a schooling that all the teachers feel they could not afford to miss. Great disappointment was felt over the inability of Professor F. M. McCully, department superintendent of public instruction, to be present. He was to have presided at Monday's session, but was kept at home by sickness.

City Superintendent Selleck called the institute to order, and "America" was sung, Miss Rossman presiding at the piano. This was followed by singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," and Rev. M. L. Rose offered an appropriate prayer. The instructors then all joined in repeating the Lord's prayer, and the institute was declared open and ready for work.

Responding to a request from Superintendent Dickey, Rev. Rose gave a brief but forcible talk along the line of work laid down for the institute which was well received. He urged the danger of giving wrong impressions to children, illustrating by an instance of a little child who was in the rooms of two teachers in one term. She came home much puzzled one day and told her parents that the two teachers must be of different religious belief, because one of them had told her that it was mother nature who made the leaves grow, while the other one said it was God.

Following another song, County Superintendent Dickey delivered his address. He followed the theme "What People are Expecting of Us," advocating changes in the present educational system that would give more practical results. He urged upon the teachers the necessity of being more in touch with the lives of their pupils, and of striving to be more practical, and stated his belief that a demand existed for an educational system that would enable the students to graduate younger in life, to the end that more time might be spent in acquiring a manual training.

Section work by the teachers of the primary and intermediate departments was then taken up. Prof. Morgan of Ellensburg delivered an address on "Current Events," which was as beneficial as it was interesting. Miss Floy Rossman gave a comprehensive talk on "Music" to the teachers of the primary department.

Tuesday's session was even more interesting than Monday's, in many ways. The attendance and interest were gratifying to all. Rev. H. P. James opened the session with prayer, and afterwards responded to an invitation to address the teachers with a short talk. He said that the teacher was the school, in effect, and that the school house and equipment are merely incidentals. He spoke of the increasing respect and appreciation that the public has for the profession of teaching and for those who engage in the calling, and said that there was no kind of public service that deserved the encouragement and support of the public than teaching. His remarks were highly appreciated by the teachers and visitors.

The section work for the day was interesting and profitable. E. Bowles presided in the high school department.

Prof. Oliphant gave the teachers in this department a very instructive talk on the "Pronunciation of Foreign Proper Names." Dr. Gault lectured on "Latin," and J. H. Morgan spoke on "Essentials in Algebra."

Miss Rossman devoted a good share of the day to instructions on music in the primary department. C. S. Kingston spoke on the methods of teaching primary geography and history, and was followed by Prof. Selleck with a lecture on "Primary Arithmetic."

S. McIlvanie presided at the session of the intermediate teachers. C. S. Kingston gave an instructive lecture on "Some Helps to Teachers of History." The greatest interest was taken in Prof. Morgan's talk on the every day life of the children. Dr. Gault followed him with an able discussion of "Psychology of Environment."

imous Vote Last Night.

The ordinances granting a new franchise to the Northwest Water & Light company were finally disposed of at the meeting of the council Monday evening, the council voting unanimously in favor of both. The ordinances came up on their third reading, and under a suspension of the rules were placed upon their third reading and final passage. The following report from the committee appointed to look thoroughly into the matter and to investigate the cost of water and light service in other cities was read before the final vote was taken:

North Yakima, Wash., Nov. 28, 1904.
To the Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, your special committee appointed to confer with the officers of the Northwest Light & Water company with a view to securing an adjustment of the differences between the city and the company, beg leave to report as follows:

We have spent considerable time and labor in gathering and compiling statistics as to water and light rates prevailing in other cities of the northwest for purposes of comparison with the rates charged here and to furnish an intelligent basis upon which to work in securing reasonable concessions from the company for our city and its inhabitants.

We have had several meetings with the officers of the water and light company, and they have treated us in a courteous manner and have met us in a spirit of fairness which has tended to bring about an understanding as to rates and the settlement of other questions. As a result of our negotiations with the company, an ordinance has been prepared and is now before the council, which, in the main, embodies our ideas as to just rates and reasonable terms upon which a franchise should be granted to the company.

While, owing to the great diversity of conditions in the different cities from which we have sought information, our investigations were not entirely satisfactory as indicating just what method should be adopted and what rates should be charged under the conditions prevailing here, we are satisfied that the meter system for both water and light, as proposed in said ordinance, at the rates therein specified, will prove to be the most satisfactory and result in a saving to every careful consumer, and that this is really the only equitable method of charging. Of course, it will require at least twelve months to demonstrate this, but of its truth we have no doubt after careful consideration.

The hydrant rate of $3.75 per month, as specified in the ordinance, will result in a saving of $300 per year to the city for its fire protection with the number of hydrants now installed. It is not likely that there will be a need for many more hydrants for several years to come; and, in the judgment of your committee, it is more economical for the city to pay for the old flat rate per annum of $3000, with provision for increase as the population of the city increases, as was provided in the last franchise granted this company; for, undoubtedly, with the present extensive distribution of hydrants over the city, the increase in number will not keep pace with the increase in population. We would also call attention to the fact in this connection, that the average hydrant rate of the cities of the northwest is $4.40.

In view of the unfavorable advertising which this city has received during the past few years on account of the alleged impure water supply, we beg to call attention to the provision made in said ordinance for supplying the city with water from a source several miles higher up the Naches river and the conveyance of the same through pipes directly to the city, thus doing away with the open ditch and open reservoir and insuring an absolutely pure water supply. If no other result had been accomplished by this council through these negotiations than this guarantee of a purer water supply and the increased fire protection by the greater pressure resulting from the higher source, we would feel that our labors have been amply rewarded.

While our work has covered several months, it was impossible to accomplish the results sooner, because of necessary delay in securing data and the only occasional presence of the officers of the company in our city.

Believing that the water and light company should receive a reasonable franchise at the hands of the city, and in view of the fact the ordinance introduced at the last meeting of this council embodies in its main features our ideas as to conditions and rates, we would respectfully recommend that it be passed, with such amendments as the council may see fit to adopt.

Respectfully submitted,
D. M. RAND,
L. L. THORP,
W. B. DUDLEY,
Special Committee.

In the discussion that followed, during the reading of the ordinance by sections, the question of the place of taking the water from the Naches river with which to supply the city with water for drinking purposes as well as all others, received considerable attention. Mr. Strahorn on behalf of the company stated that it would be necessary to go at least seven miles above the city in order to get the fall that would give a pressure of seventy-five pounds to the square inch in the mains in the city, which is one of the conditions upon which the franchise is being granted. This would be several miles above the mouth of the Cowlitz, and would obviate the possibility of contamination from the annual overflow of that creek. A few minor changes were made before

INDICATIONS GOOD FOR A LARGE ATTENDANCE

The State Fruit Growers' Meeting Promises to be a Very Interesting One in Every Detail.

The next meeting of the fruit growers of the state will be held at Wenatchee on the 4th, 5th and 6th of January and from present indications it will be largely attended by the fruit growers from this section, quite a number having already signified their intention of attending. Efforts are being made to get the growers at Sunnyside, Kennewick, Kiona and Prosser also interested, as much depends on a representative showing from this, the baner fruit growing district of the state, principally among which is the securing for North Yakima the meeting in January, 1906. The Spokane people are anxious to see the convention here that year and will lend every effort in securing it for us, but state that much will depend upon the efforts of our own people and the representation from here.

Another important matter that will come before the Wenatchee meeting is the recommendation of the association of the appointment of F. A. Huntley of North Yakima for State Commissioner of Horticulture. There is little doubt but that Mr. Huntley will get the endorsement of the Association and it would be a matter of pride as well as satisfaction to the people of this valley to have a man of Mr. Huntley's qualifications fill so important a position to the fruit interests of the state. An effort will also be made to have the law changed which now provides that the commissioner shall keep his office at Tacoma, so that he may have his office at this point where he makes his residence or, may designate. Besides this there are other matters of legislation of vital interest to every grower of fruit in the state to be discussed and every man who has these interests at heart should make a special effort to attend the meeting at Wenatchee on the dates set forth above.

kin to appoint a grand jury to serve Kittitas county. This is a thing that ought to be done. A grand jury could do a good service for the county, and there is plenty of work for a grand jury to do. The plain provisions of the law are violated every day and the violators by their actions defy the people to enforce the law. By all means let a big petition go up to Judge Rudkin for a grand jury.—Ellensburg Dawn.

Preparing for the Institute.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange the details of the fruit growers' institute to be held in this city under the auspices of the Yakima County Horticultural union on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th of January: Exhibits—W. L. Wright, L. B. Kinyon, F. A. Huntley and F. Walden of Zillah. Finance—Edward Remy, Robert Johnson, Orlando Beck, and Amos Bush. Program—J. M. Brown, E. G. Peck, E. E. Samson, W. H. Cline. Music—L. O. Meigs and Harry Brown. A number of prominent speakers will be secured, and the institute will close with a banquet. The effort will be made to make this the best institute ever held here. The attendance is expected to be large.

Change in Time Table.

The time of arrival and departure of trains at North Yakima was on last Sunday changed as follows: No. 1, the North Coast Limited, will arrive from the east two minutes earlier, at 2:25 p. m.; the Pacific express, west bound, also comes a few minutes earlier, at 6:40 a. m. instead of 6:45; the Burlington train comes ten minutes earlier, at 1:15 instead of 1:25 in the afternoon. The arriving time of the east bound trains is earlier in the case of each, their new schedule being as follows: No. 2, the North Coast Limited, 4:50 a. m.; No. 4, Twin City express, 2:45 p. m.; No. 6, Burlington train, 11:02. The west bound local freight is now due at 2:45 p. m., and the east bound local freight at 2:00 a. m.

TRAGIC DEATH AT TOPPENISH.

Ina Martin Killed By a Freight Train While on Her Way to School.

Ina Martin, the 11-year-old daughter of John Martin, met a frightful death beneath the wheels of a freight train at Toppenish last Thursday morning about 8:30 o'clock. In company with a number of other little girls she was on her way to school. Two freights were at the station at the time, one upon the main and the other upon the side track. Just as the children were about to cross the main track, the train started to move. The little girl was frightened and confused, and without noticing that the train on the side track was also moving, ran directly in front of it. She was thrown under the engine and ground to death in the sight of her helpless companions.

John Martin, the little girl's father, is foreman on the Lyons ranch, about a mile below Toppenish. Mrs. Durgan, wife of Lot Durgan of this city, is her sister, and went to Toppenish as soon as informed of the accident.

INCREASES VALUE OF LAND.

Experiences of Rocky Ford, Col., Sugar Beet Growers.

Extensive tests have convinced the promoters of the North Yakima Beet Sugar factory that the climate, soil, water and all other essential conditions in the beet sugar business are more favorable in the Yakima valley than are those of the section around Rocky Ford, Col., and in view of that belief the following letter received a few days ago by Wm. Shearer of Toppenish will be read with interest by those who are hesitating before planting beets:

Rocky Ford, Col., Nov. 28, 1904.—Mr. W. L. Shearer, Toppenish, Wash.: Dear Sir—In regard to our beet sugar factory I will say to start with that it is a success here and a very big paying proposition for our farmers, especially under our present basis of payments.

Our land produces a superior quality of beet, containing a large per cent of sugar. The company pays the growers $5.00 per ton straight unless they run below a certain per cent of sugar, which does not occur here. They also receive a portion of the pulp, which is a very fine feed for stock. Our yield is from 12 to 30 tons per acre. On good land and with proper cultivation and care crops will average from 18 to 22 tons per acre. Some growers will bring their yield up to 25 and sometimes 30 tons. It is an expensive crop to raise on account of so much hand work to weed and thin the young plants which has to be done, and to top them. If labor is high it costs from $25 to $30 per acre to care for and harvest a crop. But even then, with a fair to good crop, you will see there is money in it for the grower. Besides, since the factory started our land has increased in value more than a hundred per cent.

The capacity of our plant is 1000 tons every 24 hours. This fall the factory commenced grinding beets October 1st and will run full capacity until about March 1st. During this time they employ about 450 men at the factory, wages being from 15c to 35c per hour.

According to announcement our social and entertainment took place Saturday eve. A short program was rendered at the church, being assisted by talent from North Yakima and Wapato. Miss Alice Knerr of North Yakima favored us with instrumental music. Miss Hinman of Wapato rendered a solo which was highly appreciated. Miss Campbell of Wapato played a violin solo accompanied by Miss Hinman with the organ, which received a hearty encore.

Harvey Dachler of North Yakima gave us a vocal solo and was also encored and he responded with another solo equally as good as the first and afterward gave us a recitation. D. C. McKee treated us with a violin solo and met with a hearty encore. Mrs. Lynne gave a select reading. Iva Lynne also recited.

Last but not least was the recitation by Miss Eula Hardison—and she could not have appeared more natural if it had really been true. Besides those from Wapato that took part in the program were present Prof. Schrader and Charlie Palmer and Mrs. Dix. After the entertainment we all repaired to the basement of the schoolhouse and with Al Bell as auctioneer the baskets were sold for the neat little sum of sixty-seven dollars, the proceeds to be appropriated to pay for singing books and Christmas tree and treats for the little folks.

JUMBO'S HEART IS ON FILE.

Treasured by Cornell University Which Has No Glass Jar Large Enough to Receive It.

The largest heart in the world, which once beat in the generous bosom of Jumbo, the great elephant, is one of the treasures of the museum in the department of neurology at Cornell university, says the New York World. The heart is so large that there is no glass jar large enough to receive it, so it cannot take its place in the ranks of other hearts which stand on record in the museum.
Instead, it rests in a barrel stowed away in the cellar of the museum waiting its turn for dissection. When it is finally dissected by the students it will be destroyed.

Jumbo's heart is 98 times as large as the average human heart. It now weighs 36½ pounds, after having stood several years in alcohol. A human heart, which weighs a little more than a pound, soaked in alcohol for the same length of time, weighs ten ounces.

The human heart is less than six inches long. Jumbo's is 28 inches long and 24 inches wide. The ordinary heart will go inside the main artery of Jumbo's heart. The walls of the artery are five-eighths of an inch thick and the walls of the ventricle are three inches thick.

A Japanese Soldier's Luggage.

Lieut. G. S. Turner, Tenth United States infantry, who accompanied some Japanese troops in a three days' reconnoissance south and east of Peking, says:

"Each soldier carried on his person 100 rounds of ammunition, an overcoat for bedding, a haversack, water bottles and three days' rations. The ration consisted of rice and dried fish. The soldiers, however, depended mainly on the country for their subsistence. I am of the opinion that in a country where there was no foraging the amount of food carried would be insufficient. Before leaving camp each morning the food for dinner is prepared and packed in a ration box made of lacquered wood, similar in shape to our meat ration can, and consists of rice, dried fish and sometimes small pieces of mutton or beef."

Clever Dog Thief.

It was found the other day in London, that a stolen dog, which failed to identify its owner, had been dosed with aniseed by the thief. Aniseed destroys the sense of smell temporarily. The dog did not recover for two or three days.

Falconry in Turkestan.

In a remote part of Turkestan Dr. Sven Hedin, the explorer, a few years ago discovered the ancient art of falconry in full flower. "Among the horsemen were eight falconers," he writes, "two of whom carried eagles, the others falcons, all duly hooded. In this part of the world falconers form an indispensable adjunct in any formal parade or procession. Later in the day they gave us an exhibition of their birds' powers by letting them kill four hares and a deer, all of which were presented to me."
