OUR Sack Suits, designed according to advanced fashion's predictions for Fall and Winter, are here. The accompanying drawing is a faithful illustration of three styles of particular cut and elegance made by Crouse & Drandegge. Notice the length of coat—the distinctive cut of the three-button Newport—also in our Normandie the same regard to detail of style and finish. *We

Keep in mind the fact that a tall man cannot wear a suit that a short man should wear. This is the satisfactory feature on both the Newport and Normandie. They are absolutely correct in every and all requirements. But the man who is not over six feet tall is not overlooked; the same careful attention has been given him. The result is our Arvon, which also has much elegance of make and gives the short-man extra inches in appearance. We have these styles in the NEW BROWNS—in beautiful and choice materials, those new patterns of slight over-plaids almost indistinct. These cost what you would expect, $10.00 to $35.00.

BEN HANFORD SPEAKS

Socialist Nominee for Vice-President Draws a Very Good Crowd at the Opera House—Ar-raigns both Old Parties.

Ben Hanford, socialist nominee for vice president of the United States, spoke Wednesday night at the Yakima theater to a crowd of about 350 people, the majority of whom were laboring men. The speaker held the rapt attention of his audience throughout his discourse.

Hon. H. D. Jory presided as chairman of the meeting while upon the stage with the speaker sat a number of prominent socialists in this county. Mr. Geo. E. Boomer, editor of the Prosser Record, preceded the speaker of the evening with a few brief remarks along the lines of socialism. Mr. Boomer is a leader among the socialists of this county.

The speech of Mr. Hanford was largely an arraignment of the Republican and Democratic parties. He criticized with vehemence the late letter of acceptance of Theodore Roosevelt and also of Judge Parker. He says the country has not been prosperous during the republican administration. He says that when 3,600,000 women and 1,570,000 children in the United States are compelled to go to work every morning at the blow of the whistle that he doesn't call that prosperity. The speaker cited a few statistics about the railroads of the United States. He said the earnings of the railroads for 1903 amounted to $632,000,000. That the railroads employed 1,100,000 men in 1903 and paid these men $621,000,000. This money which the railroads earned went to the men who do no work upon them. In other words the men who take it easy inside the Pullman cars received $11,000,000 more than all the employees of all the roads. He thinks this isn't right and should not be so. The socialist would decrease the working hours of the railroad workers one-third, would thereby give employment to one-third more idle men and at the same time increase the wages one-third. Mr. Hanford said everything would soon be in the hands of corporations unless the working class awake to the true realization of the existing conditions and put a stop to it. He said that Morgan, Rockefeller, Hill, Carnegie and a few others would eventually trustify every foot of land and every mile of railroad in the United States unless a remedy which the socialists have is applied to the situation. When Mr. Hanford, in the course of his remarks, exclaimed in forensic tones that "all the people of all the country should own all the means of production," he received liberal approval.

Mr. Parker and the Democratic party stand for the freedom of the Philippines, said Mr. Hanford, while Eugene V. Debs and the socialist party stand for the freedom and emancipation of the Americans. Mr. Hanford referred to the incarceration of Eugene V. Debs in the Chicago jail when he was sentenced by Judge Woods of that city to six months imprisonment for contempt of court. He said the act of the court was contemptible and that long after the name of the Chicago Judge was forgotten the name of Debs would be a household word on the tongue of every child in America. In conclusion Mr. Hanford said that the motto of the socialist party was, "The tools of production to those who use them," and until that time every nickel, every dollar we pay for sustenance will go as a tribute to swell the coffers of some trust.

Buying Sheep.

Coffin Brothers this week closed two deals for 4600 head of sheep. They bought 2300 head from Dan Goodman and 2300 head from E. P. Sandford, paying $2.25 per head. It is their intention to turn the sheep on pasture for about thirty days and then ship them east to Chicago. They expect the market to be good about the first of December.

A Few Hop Sales.

Joe McNeel bought from C. Padgett Tuesday afternoon a lot of 96 bales of hops. H. A. Whitman, for Isaac Pincus & Son, bought the balance of the Ernest Hill crop of 160 bales last night. The dealers would not give out the prices paid in these purchases.

These were the only deals made Tuesday, October 25.

Born, Tuesday evening, October 25, to Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Roach of 607 North Third street, a son.

Frank Williams of Toppensish and his neice, Miss Ethel Hallett of Ellensburg, took in the "Wizard of Oz" here Thursday night.

CONTROL WATER SUPPLY

Interior Department Decides in Favor of Washington Irrigation
Co. in Regard to Irrigating
State Lands in Yakima County.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 25.—Over 55,000 acres of Yakima county land will be turned over to the state by the federal government for reclamation by an extension of the Sunnyside canal, under a contract to be entered into between the state and the Washington Irrigation company, owning the canal. Petition for the selection of lands by the state was made early in the year, but serious opposition was aroused by the Yakima Development company, which planned another irrigation scheme involving the same lands. The latter company enlisted the sympathy of prominent business men in North Yakima, and public meetings were held and resolutions passed declaring against the expediency of the proposed selection by the state. Protests were filed in Washington City by the Yakima Commercial club and the Industrial Protective association of Sunnyside on the ground that a larger area could be reclaimed by the proposed plan of the Yakima Development company and on the further ground that the Sunnyside canal did not carry enough water to supply the new area. On the other hand, resolutions and petitions favorable to the selection and the proposed manner of reclamation were filed by the people of Kiona and Kennewick, the Sunnyside Commercial club and the Prosser board of trade.

Protests Dismissed.

The decision in favor of the state is in the form of a letter dated October 17, to the land office at North Yakima dismissing the protests and approving the selections. It quotes from reports of government experts showing that an adequate volume of water can be supplied by the Sunnyside canal and declares that no conflict exists between the plans of the state and the plans of the Yakima Development company. Other matters presented in the protest are declared not proper subjects for consideration by the department.

The decision practically ends the fight against the extension of the Sunnyside canal to this large area of state lands, as approval by the secretary of the interior only awaits a correction of the minor details in the plats filed at Washington.

Sixty Mile Extension.

The contract between the state and the Washington Irrigation company, which will be entered into as soon as final action by the interior department is taken, will provide for an extension of the canal a distance of 60 miles. In addition to 55,585 acres of lands thus awarded to the state, the canal will reclaim an equal number of acres owned by the Northern Pacific Railway company upon which the canal company has options. It will also reclaim a score or more of common school land sections.

The selected state lands will be sold by the state at a flat rate of $10 per acre and the water right will be obtained for $30 per acre. State lands will thus be secured with water rights at about two-thirds of the present price for similar lands now under the Sunnyside ditch. One hundred thousand acres of state and railroad lands to be reclaimed are in the eastern part of Yakima county and it is stated that the rivalry between the two sections of the county and the possibility of county division resulting from the upbuilding of the undeveloped portion caused much of the opposition to reclamation of the land under state supervision.

Work to Begin Soon.

Work on the extension of the canal will be begun within six months after the signing of the contract by state officials. Copies of the department's decision were brought here today by Assistant Land Commissioner John L. Murray, who has been urging action on the state's petition at Washington for several weeks.

Timothy J. Lynch and son Attorney John Lynch, returned Monday morning from Chehalis where they had been to attend the funeral of the former's mother-in-law, who died at the age of 106 years.

William Loudon of Yakima City and Miss Ruby Dickerson of this city were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian manse, by Rev. F. L. Hayden. The young people left immediately for their future home in Yakima City.

SPENCER GOES FREE

Indian Who Held Up a White Man and Robbed Him According to His Own Admission Is Released by the Courts.

Several days ago on the Yakima Indian reservation near Wapato two Indians held up a couple of white boys at the point of a pistol and robbed them of all the money they had, which amounted to about $10 in cash. The Indians were arrested shortly after the crime had been committed and were held at Wapato until Deputy Sheriff John Edwards went down and brought them here for trial. Chester Spencer, one of the offenders, confessed to Deputy Edwards and took the deputy to where the money taken from the white men had been thrown when they were arrested. The money was found by the side of the road and the exact amount. Spencer and Edgar were taken before Justice Taggard. H. J. Snively defended the Indians. He succeeded in getting the case of Spencer dismissed on the grounds that said Spencer was a full blooded Indian and the proper court to try his case was the federal court. Accordingly Spencer's trial came up before Co. Howlett in the U. S. commissioner's court Saturday afternoon. All the evidence was introduced by the prosecution and it looked very dubious for the Indian. The defense proved that defendant was a full blooded Indian as viewed by the law (the law holds that an Indian always takes the status of the father and although Spencer's mother is a halfbreed his father is an Indian), and as there was no federal statute governing a case of this kind the court had no jurisdiction in the matter. The court assented in the attorney's opinion and let the Indian go free. The state court had no jurisdiction, the federal court could not handle the case, and a highway robbery goes unpunished because the offender is a full blooded Indian.

It was different in the case of Edgar, who was Spencer's accomplice. Edgar's father is part white man and Edgar therefore, whose mother is a fullblooded Indian, takes the status of his father and is considered by the law to be white. He was bound over to the superior court and will probably go to the penitentiary. Such is the present condition of the laws. An Indian may commit highway robbery upon his own land and upon the person of a white man and never be molested by the government for the crime.

Miller vs. Burrows.

The North Yakima athletic club has arranged a first class boxing contest, to be held at the Armory on Thursday evening, November 3, between Fred Miller, the champion welterweight of California, and Jim Burrows, the champion of Canada. Both men have good records, Miller having met and defeated such good men as the "Dixie Kid," 20 rounds to a draw; with Tommy Tracy, 15 rounds; with Al. Neil; draw, Dick Case; won over Perry Queenan and a host of others. He is one of the cleverest men in his class boxing today. In Burrows one will find a man just as clever and a rugged boxer. He has met such good men as Nick Burley, Jerry McCarthy, Tommy Reilly, Mose LaFontaine. Those who wish to see some good, clever boxing should not miss this contest. Both men will weigh in at 144 pounds at 3 o'clock. The men will box for a purse of $200, put up by the club. The boys will be here to put on the finishing touches next week.

Here to Solicit Contracts.

P. J. Prein of Denver, Colorado, arrived here Tuesday morning to take in hand the work of soliciting acreage for the North Yakima beet sugar factory.

It is Mr. Prein's purpose to begin at once upon the task of soliciting acreage of farmers who will positively put in a certain number of acres each year in sugar beets. The company must have actual contracts calling for the cultivation of 4000 acres before the project is an assured thing. The committee appointed to work with Mr. Prein is composed of Frank Horsley, E. J. Wyman and Stanley Coffin. They feel very hopeful over the present situation. Mr. Prein is the agriculturist of the North Yakima Sugar Beet company.

Can You Eat?

J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by C. C. Case.

CHINAMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Gib Len, a Mongolian, Dies by His Own Hand—Left a Note of Explanation—Was a Christian.

Gib Len, a Chinaman 56 years of age, took an overdose of some preparation of opium Wednesday night with suicidal intent and died Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock as the result of his rash act. There is no cause attributed for the suicide of the Chinaman. He was apparently in good health, was a Christian and had about $20 in cash upon his person. He came here from Grand county, Oregon, about two weeks ago and has been doing odd jobs around town. He slept at the G. L. Co.'s Chinese store where he was found in an unconscious condition Thursday morning about 10 o'clock. A doctor was summoned immediately, but an examination disclosed the fact that he was beyond medical aid. The following note, written in very good English, was found upon a table in the room:

"I am suicide, good-bye to all friends in the world, and I were belonging to the Presbyterian church 32 years and now I want to see my father which is in heaven, then save me from sin, dear Lord Jesus, for I did put my trust in thee from the rest of all my life, Amen."

"GIB LEN."

The Chinese was fairly well educated and was said to talk the English language with remarkable correctness. He had just purchased a new Bible which was found with him.

The remains were taken to Shaw & Flint's undertaking parlors and the funeral will be held from there this afternoon (Friday) at 2 o'clock. He will be buried by the Chinese in Tahoma cemetery.

Echoes of a Dinner Party.

The Rural Spirit of Portland pays a very handsome tribute to Mr. and Mrs. L. V. McWhorter of Fairview for the hospitality extended by that couple to the stockmen who visited the recent state fair. Mr. and Mrs. McWhorter entertained the whole company of stockmen at a superb dinner on the grounds during the fair, for which the visitors were very grateful, so much so in fact that they clubbed in together and purchased for Mrs. McWhorter an elegant silver tea service, which was presented to the surprised recipient by A. J. Splawn in his usual happy manner. The Rural Spirit in its issue of Oct. 7 has written the dinner party up in very handsome style concluding with some very excellent poetry, evidently dedicated to the hospitable hostess, who formerly resided in West Virginia. The initial verse runs thus:

"From the green fields of Virginia,
From the land of far away,
Came our hostess to our West land,
To fair Yakima to stay."

Yakima City Meeting.

A Democratic meeting, largely attended, was held at Yakima City last night. H. J. Snively was the principal speaker and made a telling address in behalf of the state and county tickets. J. D. Medill, nominee for the legislature, John D. Morrissey, nominee for auditor, and H. E. Croso, nominee for commissioner in the second district were present and addressed the gathering. There was a good turnout and plenty of enthusiasm. It is estimated that Judge Turner will carry the Old Town precinct by a 2 to 1 vote.

Mr. Strahorn says that after riding about the county for two days he is more thoroughly impressed than ever of Yakima's great possibilities.

Royal Shaw, who is playing left half back on the University of Washington football team, was given a great sendoff in the Seattle papers for the magnificent style in which he played in the game between Utah and Washington Saturday. Washington's victory is attributed to Shaw's great work.

RAILROAD TICKET SHOT TO PIECES

Was Doomed to Defeat From the Day It Was Nominated—Old Man Coon Ostracised by Party Leaders.

SEATTLE, Wash., Thursday, Oct. 27.—The withering breath of personal and political scandal and the open and public charge of railroad and corporate subservency have combined in an assault upon the railroad state ticket sufficient to shatter the confidence of the people of Washington in each and every act of the convention at Tacoma.

The dictation of the convention by J. D. Farrell and the railroad influences has become the most notorious public scandal that ever disgraced the pages of Washington history. Nominations for state offices were doled out by the convention's dictator as rewards for railroad service without serious regard for fitness or ability, and the ticket has been referred to by the special traveling correspondent of the Republican Record-Herald of Chicago as one of the weakest that could have been nominated, and doomed to defeat from the start.

Barring Judge Mark Fullerton, one of the candidates for the supreme judgeship, there is not a single candidate on the ticket who has not become the subject of personal or political scandal since the opening of the campaign. Charges of vice, corruption or incompetency have been made against each one of them and those charges have not, in any single case, been disproven, in some cases they have not even been denied, and in others they are confessed, either by open admission or by silence.

The most notorious of these scandals is that which has assailed Charles E. Coon, the candidate for lieutenant governor. Early in the campaign charges involving moral degeneracy were made against Mr. Coon by men connected with the Wilson-Palmer-railroad state committee and an effort was made to induce him to withdraw from the ticket. This effort failed of its purpose, since which time Mr. Coon has been practically ostracised, not only by the leaders of his party, but by his close personal political friends as well. The charges against Mr. Coon have been published in a form more or less direct in a score of newspapers, including the Portland Oregonian, and they are vouched for by State Senator A. S. Ruth of Thurston county. They have never been denied, either by Mr. Coon or by anyone else in his behalf.

C. J. Lord's Graft.

The manipulation of the state funds in the interest of the Capital National Bank of Olympia, of which C. J. Lord is president, has become so notorious in the present campaign that it has come to be commonly referred to in public and in the press as "C. J. Lord's graft." Mr. Lord has enjoyed this graft for a number of years and it is reliably estimated to be worth from $20,000 to $30,000 a year to him. In order to keep it in his possession for another term of office Mr. Lord last spring became a dummy candidate for governor, and through the aid of his candidacy delivered Thurston county to the railroad forces in the state convention. In return for this service he was permitted to name George Mills as the candidate for state treasurer, the understanding, of course, being that Mr. Mills will continue to permit Mr. Lord's bank to enjoy the privilege and profit of the state deposits.

Clausen an Embezzler.

C. W. Clausen, the candidate for state auditor has been accused, on the authority of the official records of Worth county, Iowa, of having, while county clerk of that county, failed and refused to account for $637.36 in public funds. This charge was circulated in a more or less definite form for several weeks and finally on Sept. 25, was openly charged in several of the leading newspapers of the state.

Since the publication of the charge Mr. Clausen has never offered a public explanation of it. A Republican newspaper has on one occasion attempted to excuse it on the ground that he was not prosecuted for the offense charged, but this is accounted for by the fact that his bondsmen advanced the money to cover the shortage.

When it was announced that the Farrell private car caucus had agreed to give the nomination for attorney general to State Auditor John D. Atkinson, even Mr. Atkinson's closest friends began to ask themselves and each other whether Mr. Atkinson had ever appeared in a court as a prosecuting attorney. Since he was nominated it has been frequently charged that he never has. This charge has never been denied by any person with authority, or with the substantiation to back up such denial.

On the evening of Oct. 1 Mr. T. M.

Vance, former assistant attorney general, in an address at Everett charged that Mr. Atkinson had never even been admitted to practice before the supreme court of the state. This charge was denied by the Post-Intelligencer and the Olympia Olympian whereupon Mr. Vance wrote to each of the newspapers detailing the facts. The letter to the Post-Intelligencer was written on October 11. On Oct. 13 Mr. Clausen confessed the truthfulness of Mr. Vance's charge by appearing before the supreme court and applying for admission, and by being admitted. His admission removes the legal disqualification to holding the office under the state constitution, but, in the absence of any experience in the practice of law in any court it affords no assurance of the candidate's qualifications in other respects.

E. W. Ross, candidates for state land commissioner, is the only man on the ticket who has risen to the dignity of denying the charges advanced against him, and has for years been a member of the notorious and corrupt railroad lobby which has held biennial sessions at Olympia during the sessions of the state legislature. In his own home county, Cowlitz, he is so unpopular that his nomination by the Tacoma convention has done more even than the part played by J. D. Farrell, to arouse the Republican voters to a sense of indignation.

State Boards Accused.

The state board of equalization, of which Sam H. Nichols, secretary of state and candidate for re-election, and John D. Atkinson, state auditor and candidate for attorney general, are members, has been accused of using the influence of the board to keep down the assessments of railroad property, of reducing those assessments from the valuation of $10,540 per mile, maintained by the preceding board, to $6,600 per mile, and of reducing the valuations returned this year by the county boards by practically $2,000,000, or about $450 per mile, at the same time increasing the valuations on several classes of farm and personal property. These charges have been substantiated by citing figures from the annual reports of the board and no explanation of them has been offered.

The state land commission, of which Secretary of State Sam H. Nichols and School Superintendent R. B. Bryan are members, has been accused, in a suit brought in Seattle by Frank H. Paul, of manipulating the permanent school fund in such a manner as to enable a personal and political friend to collect a commission of $5,500 for inducing the board to make a loan from the fund to a municipal corporation of the state. The suit in which this charge is made was filed several weeks ago and the facts concerning it have been widely circulated through the public press. No denial or explanation of them has yet been offered by either of the men thus charged, or by anyone else in their behalf.

Mead's Foot-Mouth Habit.

Albert E. Mead, the "Farrell" candidate for governor has in the course of his campaign developed the foot-mouth habit to an alarming degree. He told the people of Colfax in his speech there that his party having violated its pledges of 1902 felt that it would be safer to make no promises this year lest they be again violated. He told the people at Clarkston that there was a very dangerous man running for governor on the Democratic ticket, a man who had actually threatened to use all the power of his administration to get the people what they wanted, a state railroad commission. He has told the people in several places that a Republican legislature will never pass a commission bill giving the appointment of the commission into the hands of a Democratic governor. He told the people of North Yakima that when Mr. Farrell was asked to go to Tacoma to advise and counsel with the Republican state convention he declined to do so making it necessary for the convention to get along without the counsel and advice of that distinguished democrat.

In contrast with these weaknesses and these blunders made by the railroad candidates the Democratic candidates stand out in bold relief, unsullied, unsullied and unshaken, making a dignified campaign in a clean and honorable manner, taking the people of the state into their confidence, and discussing the issues of the campaign with them in plain and unequivocal language.

Rev. F. L. Hayden joined in marriage Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 713 North Front street, Albert S. LaMonte and Miss Inez G. Raymond.

M. L. Liggett and H. F. Marble left Wednesday afternoon for the head of the Wenatchee valley to be gone a week or ten days on a government engineering expedition.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schott and Mrs. Ditter left here on the early morning train for St. Louis to take in the exposition. They will also visit their old homes in Minnesota.

The dwelling of John A. Walker, 208 North First street, caught fire from a spark from the kitchen chimney Monday morning and before it could be extinguished the roof of the front part had burned off causing a loss of about $150. The fire department responded promptly and by its efficient work saved the house from further loss. The fire occurred about 9 o'clock.

The following people have taken out hunters' licenses: F. E. Webber, M. N. Dimmick, C. A. Bradley, Nick Cullen, Jack Osgood, Ed Merwin, A. M. BETTING ON TURNER

Steve Bailey of Seattle Goes to Spokane and Covers all the Mead Money.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 26.—Steve Bailey of Seattle, arrived in town yesterday looking for some of the easy money which he had been informed was lying around at several of the republican branch headquarters.

For several days past it has been given out that there were "thousands of dollars" to be wagered on Mead but Bailey was able to find only about $2,500, all the rest being withdrawn as soon as it was learned that there was a man in the city with a big roll to bet that Turner would carry the state.

Bailey promptly covered everything in sight, asking no odds, the only condition being that he would take no single bet of less than $100. The largest bet made was one of $1,300. The backer of Mead is unknown, the money being placed by a local cigar dealer, who said he was only acting as agent. In all Bailey covered about ten bets and is looking for more, but the Mead money all seems to have vanished.

Bailey declares his unshaken opinion to be that Turner will win, and says he is willing to back this opinion for all the money the Mead backers can raise. He is making his bets on the gubernatorial contest alone.

Turner Is Mead's Superior.

Thousands of voters in Washington will support George Turner for governor irrespective of the railroad issue, because of his intellectual superiority over A. E. Mead, his opponent. It is rare that a man of Judge Turner's acknowledged abilities and qualities of statesmanship consents to make the race for the governorship of a state. But now that such a man is in the field it is not surprising that many republican voters want to secure for the state the services of a chief executive so well qualified for the duties he will be called upon to discharge.

Judge Turner has lived in Washington for over 20 years. He came here when this state was a territory with a small population, and he has witnessed and participated in its growth to a commonwealth of impressive magnitude. He has lived in both central and eastern Washington. He knows the resources and needs of every section, almost of every hamlet and voting precinct in the state. He was a member of the constitutional convention, and had more to do than any other member of that body with shaping and molding the fundamental law of the state. As a constitutional lawyer, Judge Turner's associates at the bar, irrespective of politics, concede almost universally that he has no superiors and few if any equals in the whole northwest.

Nor has Judge Turner's field of statesmanship been limited to the confines of the state. As Washington's representative in the United States senate he commanded the respect and admiration of his colleagues on both sides of the chamber. He soon made it known to his fellow senators that one had come among them from the far west who in learning, legal knowledge and statescraft was the peer of any man on the senate floor.—Spokesman-Review.

CURING THE SICK

Certified Evidence that Dr. Darrin Restores the Afflicted to Health.

No Reason for Anyone to Suffer When Relief Can be Had.

Nearly everyone has heard of Dr. Darrin who is now visiting North Yakima, and hundreds can testify of their own experience to his great skill and wonderful success in treatment of all forms of chronic and obstinate diseases.

The certificates of cures made by this celebrated physician would fill a volume. They embrace every disease to which humanity is exposed. His remedies and method of treatment is painless, almost pleasant and infallible. Dr. Darrin is entitled to great credit for his almost miraculous discoveries in the art of treating disease and there is no curable known malady that he cannot conquer.

The doctor can be consulted free from 10 to 8 p. m. daily at his office in the Hotel Yakima, Room 2, where he will remain till Nov. 6. His fees for treatment are low and reasonable, and all business relations strictly confidential.

The following open statement is like hundreds of others that take pleasure in praising what the doctor has done for them:

Yakima, Wash.

Mr. Editor, Dear Sir: During the past three or four months I have been suffering from intense and severe pains in my back and hips, so that I was not able to work. I placed myself under Dr. Darrin's treatment and was immediately relieved and have recovered my former strength so that I can now return to my occupation.

HOW TAXES WERE EQUALIZED

How the Present State Board of Equalization Jobbed
the Farmers and Favored the Corporations.

HOW TAXES WERE "EQUALIZED."

Cattle were increased.....	2 per cent
Hogs were increased.....	4 " "
Wagons and carriages were increased.....	6 " "
Watches and clocks were increased.....	15 " "
Railroad tracks were DECREASED.....	8 " "

OLYMPIA, Wash., Friday, Oct. 21.—
That J. D. Farrell and the railroad bosses generally made no mistake when they renominated Secretary of State Sam H. Nichols and gave State Auditor John D. Atkinson the nomination for attorney general, although he had not been admitted to the bar, is amply demonstrated by the most casual reference to the minutes of the last state board of equalization which have just been issued in printed form.

In the equalization of the assessments of the state the railroad interests were given very tender consideration by the board of which the two candidates named are members. The figures published in the minutes of the proceedings of the board show that the valuations placed by county boards of equalization on cattle were increased from $5,761,608
to $5,887,085, an increase of approximately 2 per cent; that the values returned on hogs were increased from $286,970 to $298,341, an increase of approximately 4 per cent; that the valuations returned on wagons and carriages were increased from $1,513,954 to $1,614,600, an increase of approximately 6 per cent; and that the valuations on watches and clocks were increased from $216,384 to $301,960, an increase of 15 per cent.

In the very face of these significant increases in the valuations of these classes of farm and personal property,
and as if to demonstrate beyond question the source of the inspiration of their action, the board lowered the valuations returned on railroad tracks and right of way from $21,916,647 to $20, 087,818, a decrease of approximately 8
per cent.

Apologists in the present campaign
for the present method of valuing railroad property for the purpose of assessment and taxation point with much pride to the claim that railroads in this state are now assessed at $7,900 per mile on their tracks and right of way. Reference to the official minutes of the equalization board absolutely overthrows and refutes this claim. The figures given by the board stand for themselves. They show that there are in the state 3392 miles of main track and 744 miles of side track in the state returned for purposes of assessment, a total mileage of 4136. These railroad tracks were returned by the county boards of equalization at a total value, for tracks and right of way, of $21,916,647, or approximately $5,300 per mile. Out of their tender regard for the interests of the railroads the members of the board reduced these valuations to $20,087,818, or approximately $4,850 per mile, a reduction by the state board on all the railroad tracks of the state averaging approximately $450 per mile.

In their arguments before the state board the representatives of the railroad companies advanced the claim that although the assessment on their tracks and right of way was low it was very greatly increased by the assessment on railroad personal property. For instance Mr. G. S. Fernald, who appeared before the board in behalf of the Northern Pacific, said:

"In addition to the property of the railroads which has been assessed and to which I have referred, the Northern Pacific has, and the other roads also to a greater or less extent, a vast amount of property which is assessed and pays taxes which is not included in the figures I have given. This property, while not assessed as right of way and track, is in a large measure used in connection with the operation of the road, as shops, shop grounds, docks, warehouses and other property without which a railroad cannot be operated, and the assessment of this property, if added to that of the railroad and its appurtenances as assessed this year, would produce an assessment approximately $18,000 to $20, 000 per mile."

The final statement in the quoted pa-graph is positively disproven by the figures given in the official minutes of the board. While warehouses, docks and such buildings, not located on railroad right of way, are assessed as real estate, in many if not in most of the counties such property is assessed as right of way only, the buildings in some instances paying taxes as personal property. The total value of all railroad rolling stock, machinery and equipment in railroad shops, and all other railroad personal property returned for assessment by county equalization boards this year, according to the official minutes, is but $6,165,221. This added to the equalized valuation of all railroad tracks gives a total of $26, 253,039 (page 49, official minutes of the board). This is an average per mile on all railroad property in the state returned for taxation as such of approximately $6,340. Official reports of many of the roads of the state show that the gross earnings of the roads per mile exceeded last year this average assessment
per mile on all railroad property.

The "Wilson-Palmer-Railroad" press bureau, which supplies the press campaign matter for a number of the Republican newspapers of the state, has been attacking the assessment returned by the county assessors of the agricultural counties of the state on farm property, and has shown much concern because the wheat produced in eastern Washington is not caught by the assessment. But the assessment returns show that it is nowhere the custom of assessors to assess the product of productive industries, except such of it as is found to be on hand on April 1, the day the assessment is supposed to be made. The product of productive industries is taken by assessors to be in the nature of income and no more entitled to be assessed than the income on bank stock, bonds, warrants of railroad and other corporate property.

Charges Proven True.

Repeated declarations made through the press by delegates and others that J. D. Farrell, agent of Jim Hill, appeared at the state convention upon invitation, and arrogantly forbade King county's 115 delegates and through them
a majority of the delegates in the convention from entering into any agreement by which McBride should become the Republican nominee for governor, or which endorsed his fight for a commission, absolves Republican newspapers Republican voters from all obligation to support such a ticket. McBride has charged the railroad lobby with corruptly legislating and dominating political conventions. The action of the west side delegations in inviting, caucusing with and bowing to the will of J. D.
Farrell, a Democrat and a railroad official, proves his charges to have been true.—Lincoln County Times (Rep.).

The Car Famine and a Railway Com- mission.

The Post-Intelligencer criticises
Judge Turner for saying in his Yakima speech that the present car famine in this valley could have been obviated with a regulatory railway commission law in force. The Wilson organ ridicules the statement and reiterates the railway company's oft told excuse that the shortage of cars exists because of the fact the company is required to furnish cars in order to transport the wheat of the Palouse and Big Bend districts to eastern points, which naturally has the effect of creating a shortage of cars for traffic within the state. The P-I ridicules the statement that such a condition of affairs could be cured by a railway commission and says that the claim made by Turner that it could be is a typical piece of demagoguery on his part.

The P-I is a railroad newspaper in sentiment, at least, if not actually owned by Jim Hill, which many people assert is the case. It is therefore to be expected that it is always ready to defend the railroads, right or wrong,
and its position ought not to surprise anybody. The P-I cannot help it, owing to the circumstances in which it is placed.

The assertion that a state railway commission, properly clothed with power, cannot regulate the railroads along reasonable lines within the state is the veriest rot. A properly constituted tribunal can regulate the railways as common carriers and the supreme court of the United States has said so in the most unmistakable language. That a proper and just distribution of cars according to demand, at the different points along the line is a proper subject for "regulative" action no one but a fool would attempt to deny.

The railroad managers say that the present car famine in the Yakima valley is due to the extraordinary demand made for cars in which to ship wheat from this state to eastern points, notably Minneapolis and Duluth. They further state that this demand is unusual and was entirely unlooked for and that as soon as that rush is over that they will have ample facilities with which to handle their local business in this state.

This information is rather cold comfort for the Yakima farmers and shippers who are looking vainly for cars in which to send their produce to market.
Hay, grain, apples, potatoes and other products are stored here by the hundreds, yes thousands of tons, awaiting shipment, with few, if any, cars in sight.
This condition of affairs, it is needless to say, has a paralyzing effect on business here. Farmers, in many instances, are unable to realize on their crops and are therefore unable to meet pressing obligations. Dealers, for the most part,
have their money tied up in products stored in their warehouses at a time of the year when they ought to turn their money quickly. It very frequently happens, too, that the dealer loses money by not being able to take advantage of the sound market at a time when prices temporarily advance. One local dealer, in fact, informed the editor of this paper only yesterday that he knew that he had lost $2000 this season in just this way.

The local merchants feel the pinch caused by the car famine too. The most of them will admit that their business is not what it ought to be or what it usually is at this season of the year. Under the present conditions it is natural that this should be so. The farmers, as a rule, are not heavy purchasers of merchandise until he has sold his own stuff
and has the price in his pocket.

We merely go into these details in order to show how damaging are the effects of the present car famine. It is a matter that not only affects the farmer and shipper but every man, woman and child in this valley.

Now, if the Northern Pacific Railway company is unable to look after its own business it ought to turn it over to somebody who can. The plea that the wheat shippers of the Palouse should take precedence over the shippers of perishable products in the Yakima valley is not a good one and won't go down with the people here. The facts in the case are that the railroad people think it to their interest to favor the wheat grower at the expense of Yakima shippers. The explanation is that the Hill interests are trying to hold the wheat shipping business against the Harriman lines. There is no shortage of cars, from all reports, in the wheat district where the two roads meet and are in competition.

However, a car famine is no new thing in the Yakima valley. There has been a marked scarcity of cars here every fall for seven years, although the condition is probably worse now than ever before. Every year excuses have been made with the assurance from the officials that it would not occur again.
But it is always the same old story.

The people want a railway commission and they want one bad. It may be true that once they have it that they will discover that such a board will not prove a panacea for all the ills of the transportation system, but that it would alleviate the annual complaint about a shortage of cars here is perfectly reasonable to assume. At any rate the people want to see it tried and they have a right to have it tried.

Col. Robertson and Mr. Farrell.
"The Farrell private car episode" is a little incident in state politics that worries the soul of Editor Robertson of the Yakima Republic. It seems to worry the Colonel even to a greater extent than it does even some of the gentlemen who have charge of the g. o. p. campaign in this state.
However, there is good reason why Col. Robertson should fret over the "private car episode." The Colonel is a man of very acute perception. He sees what a great many other politicians of his own party fail to see, that the offensive personality of Mr. Farrell in the campaign is ruining his party's chances for victory in the state. The Colonel therefore is engaged in making a herculean effort to stem the tide of popular disapproval. However, it is like whistling against the wind. The public mind is apparently already set. Whether a man is a Republican or a Democrat if he is a true blue American citizen he will resent being dictated to by a coarse grained railroad worker who is used to herding Chinamen. They simply won't stand for it, and they know that they don't have to.

It is little short of ridiculous for the Republic to claim that Mr. Farrell did not dominate the state convention through the medium of the King county delegations and his numerous horde of claqueurs on the ground. That this man, Farrell, defeated Governor McBride and was chiefly instrumental in the nomination of Mr. Mead is now a matter of common knowledge even among the schoolboys of this state. Col. Robertson, who is himself a man of extraordinary intelligence was on the ground when the deed was done.

It would not be polite, of course, to assume that the Colonel is not honest in his vigorous denial that Farrell bossed the job, but the weight of evidence on that point is so heavily against him that he should not complain if the public takes his numerous assurances with a good deal of salt.

Democratic Legislature Badly Needed.

Since it is already quite evident that Judge Turner will be elected governor of this state next month principally because of the fact that the people want some restraining influence laid on the railroads it should not be amiss to make a suggestion in connection with Turner's election. That suggestion is that Turner when elected will find himself almost powerless to deal with the railroads unless backed up with a legislature, the majority of whose members favor and will vote for a railway commission law.

Judge Turner himself has said repeatedly in his speeches that there would be little use in electing him as governor unless the people also elected a legislature that will pass a commission law. We have the word of Congressman Jones, John L. Wilson and a number of other leading lights in the Republican party of this state that if a Republican legislature shall be elected that it will never pass a railway commission bill for Turner as governor to sign. Not only do these men publicly say this but the Republican state committee is circulating all over the state a statement to the same effect. That the Republican leaders are making no idle threat when they say this is patent to all men versed in the politics of this state.

If the people want the railroads controlled the way by which to do it and the only way is to elect George Turner governor and give him a Democratic legislature to back him up. They will get substantial results if they do this and they will get them in no other way. All the talk about a Republican legislature passing a commission bill and Mr. Mead, as governor, signing it is all tommyrot. The Republican leaders have been promising to do something for the people along this line constantly since statehood began, but they have done nothing and will do nothing for the simple reason that the railroads virtually own the party organization in this state and a great many of the men who make these promises to the people every two years are themselves owned by the railroads, body, boots and breeches.

George Stevenson and J. D. Farrell.
George Stevenson is now a lobbyist out of a job. His name is a stench in the nostrils of all honest men in this state who know his record. The Democrat has no sympathy for him and never did have.

It is worthy of note, however, that a few of the people who are now deriding Stevenson and abusing him shamefully were his friends in the heyday of his prosperity and had railroad passes and other favors to pass around. Then Stevenson was a prince, a capital good fellow and the most influential politician in the state. He was king of the lobby, a king maker. With his tremendous "pull" and Ankeney's money he secured a senatorial toga for the sleepy old banker of Walla Walla and presented it to him. Great was Stevenson in the days of his power.

Now it is different. A new king has arisen and his name is Farrell. The old king has been uncrowned and kicked out of both the inner and outer courts of the lobby. The numerous courtiers, which includes the editor of the Yakima Republic and some other local statesmen, now bend the "pregnant hinges of the knee" to the new chief and chant praises in his honor. To please him the more they now revile and spit upon his dethroned predecessor.

Stevenson, in a spirit of vengeance, now seeks to pull down the lobby temple, which he himself builded with much skill and care. His power, though greatly hampered, is not yet entirely gone. He is still connected in a way with his first love, the O. R. & N., and is said to be using what influence he still has to defeat A. E. Mead, the Farrell nominee for governor. Hence, all these tears and bitter words from the lobby organs.

Doc Hare and His Record.

The Prosser Bulletin says that the fact cannot be denied that Doc Hare can do more for this county than any other man who could be sent to Olympia and that the genial Doc is a man of remarkable ability whose opinion carries great weight. The Bulletin then goes on to say that Doc is a sincere commission man and that he can be depended upon to vote for a railway commission bill and that in all probability he will be elected speaker again, etc., etc.

Editor Boardman of the Bulletin apparently has changed his opinion of Doc Hare very materially since the date of the county convention. However, as to that The Democrat has no concern. The editor of that paper, though presents a few bald statements under the guise of facts that challenges the attention of this paper.

Why, we ask, is the statement made and constantly reiterated that Dr. Hare is the most influential man that could be sent from this county to the halls of legislation at Olympia? Is such an assertion based on the fact that Doc is a railroad man and stands in with the railway lobby? If that is not the meaning of this oft quoted expression, then what does it mean? Have we of Yakima come to such a pass that we can receive no recognition from our state government except by the grace of the notorious railroad lobby? If that is so we are in a pitiable condition indeed, but this paper refuses to believe that it is so.

The claim that Dr. Hare would again secure the speakership in the event of his re-election to the house is, of course, possible, but it is not probable. The next house may not and probably will not contain a majority of Democrats, but that it will contain a majority of railway commission men is a reasonable certainty. If such should prove to be the case Doc would have no reason to expect to be re-elected speaker. Dr. Hare may be a railway commission man, so to speak, but he is not one at heart and never was. It is true that under a pledge he voted for such a bill in the last session, but when he did it he knew, or at least he certainly had the opportunity to know, that the bill would never run the gauntlet of the railroad "bunch" that controlled the senate. When the bill did reach the senate it was pigeon-holed as everybody knew that it would be.

Dr. Hare was elected speaker of the house by the grace and through the connivance of George Stephenson, the then king of the railroad lobby and manager of Levi Ankeney's senatorial candidacy. In the caucus contest for the speakership Hare defeated Wilson of Kittitas, the open and avowed candidate of the railway commission Republicans. As speaker, Hare's administration was in every way satisfactory to the lobby. He appointed the men and the number of men that Stevenson and Grosscup wanted on the committee on railroads.

In praising Doc's legislative record to the skies the Bulletin fails to mention the fact that he voted for the iniquitous reservoir bill, prepared by Attorney Blaine of Seattle. Had it not been for the vigilance and fighting ability of Senator Splawn of this county and Senator Sharp of Kittitas, this infamous measure would have become a law and sooner or later every man who takes water from the Yakima river for irrigation purposes would have found himself paying tribute to a soulless corporation.

It is true that Dr. Hare exercised much influence in securing appropriations for Yakima county. With the exception, however, of the state fair appropriation this was all rendered nugatory by Governor McBride's vetoes. The fact that Messrs. Hare and Dunn of this county were openly at war with the governor doubtless had something to do with these vetoes.

Without the speakership and with a Democratic governor at Olympia and the commission men in control of the house we fail to see where Doc's great influence will come in, but probably the Bulletin man can see.

Help the Sugar Mill Project.

The local committee appointed by the Commercial club to solicit the needed acreage for the proposed beet sugar factory is no wat work.

Every man in this community should at least give this committee his moral support. The needed acreage for the factory must and can be procured. North Yakima and the surrounding country simply must have this institution and will have it unless our people are a great deal more selfish and unprogressive than this paper is prepared to believe that they are.

The location of the beet sugar factory near this city means not only a marked and decided growth for the town but that every acre of tillable land within a radius of many miles will be substantially enhanced in value. It means a great deal more than this. Such a factory will furnish needed employment for an army of workers through a great part of the year and if there is anything that this city and section really needs it is an enlarged payroll and we will never have a city here of great consequence until we have it, for it takes something more than brick blocks filled with stocks of goods to make a real city.

Every one should make an effort to aid the committee in securing the contracts for the 5000 acres of beets that the company needs. That is the first step towards securing the factory.

Krutz Aboard the Elephant.

The esteemed Republic in publishing the "obituary" notice of the Hon. Ira M. Krutz says that that gentleman received his early political education in Indiana under the tutelage of such splendid old masters as Governor Thomas A. Hendricks and Senator Dan W. Voorhees. The local paper further says that Mr. Krutz continued to be a Democrat down to four years ago at which time he was thrown down hard by local Democratic leaders and that he then announced that he was tired of carrying on a struggle with them and especially so that he was dissatisfied with Bryanism and had remained in the party after 1896 only at the solicitation of his friends and against his own will and judgment.

It is a far cry from associations with such eminent and spotless leaders as Hendricks and Voorhees down to the little coteries of machine leaders that control Yakima county politics, but our friend Krutz seems to have made it without breaking his political neck. The assertion that Mr. Krutz left the Democratic party because that he grew weary of his unsuccessful fight against the party leadership there is much truth. It would probably have been nearer the truth to say that the Democratic party of this county rebelled at Mr. Krutz' attempted leadership. The Republic might have added in the interest of truth that Mr. Krutz in 1900, after the Democratic convention had declined to nominate him for the office of prosecuting attorney, stood up manfully in that body and pledged his fealty to the party ticket. Within 48 hours, however, he was most industriously engaged in an effort to knife it.

The Democrat is no more convinced now than it was four years ago that Mr. Krutz is a competent and fitting man to be elected prosecuting attorney. Why the Republican party of this county should take him to its bosom and nominate him for this important office in preference to a number of its own "true blue" sons is one of the strange things in the realm of politics that is past finding out.

Notwithstanding all this The Democrat has no quarrel with Mr. Krutz. On the contrary there are some points about that gentleman that we very much admire, not the least of which is the agility and quickness that he has displayed in mounting the back of the Republican elephant and taking the reins into his own hands. A daring feat of this kind calls for some degree of admiration.

A Ring Ticket.

The local Republican ticket as a ticket is of very peculiar and wonderful construction. It would not be true to say that it is wholly bad for there are some redeeming features to it.

Two thirds of the ticket, however, is machine made. The nominee for superior judge, the entire legislative ticket, the nominee for prosecuting attorney and the nominee for treasurer are all spokes in the Yakima county political machine and the Yakima political machine is an integral part, although by no means a leading part, of the state political machine, which is essentially a railroad machine.

The local Republican ring furnished the candidates for all the above mentioned places on the ticket. In order to control the county convention the ring resorted to questionable practices, at the primaries of this city. The town was scoured thoroughly for men who would consent to attend the primaries and vote the ring ticket. If Republican could not be secured in sufficient numbers Democrats and Socialists were run in order to swell the vote. As a result the ring won out over the Boxers in the primaries and by reason of its control of the city delegation controlled the county convention.

These facts are fresh in the minds of the people and they will remember it too at the polls.

While we somewhat admire the genius of the manipulators, who put up the ring ticket, we feel like damning their conception and this is the view that hundreds of voters take of it.

Jack Splawn and the Republic.

The Republic has turned its attention from Sheriff Grant long enough to open up its mud batteries on Senator Jack Splawn, who is a candidate for re-election.

Senator Splawn will probably welcome this diversion for that gentleman well knows by experience just what the opposition of that paper is worth to a man while running for office in this county. The senator acquired that experience two years ago when he would have been beaten by Mr. Englehart after his gallant fight had not Robertson of the Republic come to his rescue just in the nick of time by drawing on his wealth of sarcasm to put the finishing touches on the campaign and put "Jack" out of business. The voters replied to this indecent attack in a way that the Republic man ought to remember.

The Republic accusing Jack Splawn of being secretly a railroad man is enough to make men smile. It insists that he was ready at any time when called on in the last legislature to vote with the railroads and that it has good Democratic authority for making such a claim. The local organ in addition to these revelations promises to print the number of Mr. Splawn's annual pass.

If the Republic is in a position to furnish the public with reliable information regarding the number of Mr. Splawn's pass it ought to do so. And if it wants to be fair for once in its life it ought to give the number of Walter J. Reed's pass in the same paragraph. There is no good reason for holding back anything of this character unless the editor of the Republic has good reason to believe that the railroad people might get hot about it and take up his own pass.

Mr. Mead a Disappointment.

Albert E. Mead, Republican nominee for governor, has come and gone. Being a new man in public life in this state and unknown up to a few months ago, his coming was awaited with interest by the people of this city and surrounding country. Since his nomination for the high office by the Republican state convention they have read and heard a great deal about Mr. Mead, much of which, perhaps, is not altogether creditable to the candidate, and naturally they were anxious to see and hear the man. Mr. Mead was therefore greeted by a large audience fully as large as the one that greeted Judge Turner, a few evenings before.

So far as we have been able to observe the impression left by Mr. Mead upon the minds of the doubtful voters in his audience was not a good one. In spite of all the vehemence with which he spoke there was an air of insincerity about the man that strikes people unfavorably. His explanation of his attitude on the railway commission measure was not calculated to satisfy any man who believes in the wisdom and justice of enacting such a law. It is true that he said that if elected he would sign any commission bill passed up to him from the legislature. In saying this, however, he was taking no chances for Mr. Mead must certainly know that if he should become governor or his good friends, the railroad men, will see to it that he is not embarrassed by having any commission bill passed up to him to sign. His attitude on this question, the most important in the state campaign, pleased nobody except such partisans of whose support the candidate was sure in advance.

Mr. Mead does not impress people with being in any sense a great man. He really is not a big enough man mentally to make a fitting governor of a great state like Washington. Any unprejudiced man who looks the candidate over carefully and hears him speak can see that this is true. We have no desire to make invidious comparisons between the two gubernatorial candidates and we don't know as it is necessary to do so any way, but certainly any comparison that is fairly made can not be to the detriment of Judge Turner.

That Mr. Mead's appearance here was a good deal of a disappointment, even to his most ardent supporters, is unquestionably a fact.

Not Afraid of Comparison.

The Republic says editorially that this paper is edited principally in Seattle and that its own local columns are "rehashed" every morning for the benefit of our readers.

Ordinarily both The Daily and Weekly Democrat contains twice as much home produced editorial as does the corresponding issues of the Republic, and as for a comparison of the quality we are willing to leave that to unbiased readers. As for "rehashing" the Republic's local news we are willing to leave that charge also to common readers for a settlement and only add that we receive fresh compliments nearly every day by reason of having published the local news "first."

We are very much afraid that our ancient contemporary down the alley having got into a fixed habit of prevaricating in defense of a weak, ring ticket, never will be able to tell the truth again.

W. T. Dovell, the Seattle gentleman who occupied so much time at Mr. Mead's meeting here and really said very little, was one of the 115 delegates from King county to the Republican state convention at Tacoma. As is generally well known the delegation from King county wore the Farrell brand, and in all things did the bidding of Mr. Farrell and his managers. It was the King county delegation, it will be remembered, that started all the trouble at Tacoma by sending for Mr. Farrell to tell the convention what to do. Mr. Dovell, of course, played an unimportant part in all that took place, but his associations at that time probably reconciled him to go before the public as he is now doing with a plea for the railroads.

Wilson and Millionaire Sweeney.

The Seattle P.-I., in an editorial leader Wednesday, warns the people of King county that Spokane is after the senatorship and that there is a conspiracy afoot to elect Sweeney, the millionaire of that city.

Well, the election of Sweeney would be a misfortune all right, for the man evidently doesn't know anything about the duties of a senator, but as between the Spokane millionaire and little Johnnie Wilson, the people, we think, would be willing to take chances on the former. Sweeney, it will be remembered, has until recently been a devoted supporter of Wilson, but now that he is out after the toga himself Wilson's newspaper is the first to turn upon him.

Will the Organ Answer?

If Doc Hare is such a tremendously useful man in the legislature, as the Republic alleges, why did the editor of that paper in his capacity of chief fuleman of the local machine go to Doc before the primaries were held and inform that gentleman that he would not be permitted to run for the senate and that he might take his choice of running for the house or of being a private citizen? If Doc hasn't got an equal in the county in the way of "influence," why is it that the local "bunch" wouldn't let him go to the senate where an influential man who stands in with the "push" can accomplish something. Will the Republic answer?

It is needless to say that the remarks of Mr. W. T. Dovell were not very well received in this city. It may be true, as Mr. Dovell claims, that a good many people fail to give in all their property to the assessor, but that fact doesn't excuse the railroads for doing the same thing. Dovell made votes here for the Democratic ticket.

Able and Reliable.

The people of Yakima county would make a serious mistake in failing to re-elect A. J. Splawn to the state senate. The county never was better represented in the legislature than it was by Senator Splawn. As the records of his votes will show, he stood "pat" on every question in which the people of this county are interested. Everybody knows where Jack Splawn stands on every question. They know, too, that there isn't money enough in the state to buy him to vote against his convictions or what he believes is the interests of his constituents.

The old timers all know Mr. Splawn's character and without exception will substantiate this statement. This is written more therefore for the information of the new class of voters of which there are several hundred in this campaign.

The Beef Trust and the Administration.

The beef trust in the last eight years has advanced the price of meats at retail 40 per cent.

It has advanced wages about 12 per cent.

It has maintained the price of cattle at a figure practically stationary for five years.

The administration has obtained a temporary injunction restraining the companies in the trust from combining to control prices.

The bureau of corporations has been "investigating" the trust.

Prices are still fixed and controlled by the trust.

J. Ogden Armour, one of the ruling factors in the trust, says: "We are going to support Roosevelt most emphatically. We have been satisfied with his administration and will be well satisfied to have him continue in office."—New York World.

A communication published in Friday morning's Democrat and signed "A Republican" apparently caused quite a ripple of excitement among our friends, the ex-Democrats. The Republic insists that the communication was written by none other than H. J. Snively, its own particular friend, while others insist that it was written by a certain prominent "Boxer." All wrong, brethren, the man who threw the brick, which, by the way, seems to have hit several, exposed heads, is a loyal Republican, not only loyal but prominent.

Judge Parker at last is beginning to inject a little life into his campaign. His criticism of the administration's policy in the Philippines as well as its needless extravagance at home has brought forth an angry retort from Washington. It seems to be recognized that Parker hit the bull's eye in both cases. Secretaries Shaw and Taft are declaiming on the stump that the charges from Esopus are not true.

A well known local Republican writes The Democrat how he intends to vote this year, the letter appearing in another column. He is an old line, dyed in the wool Republican, but it is quite evident that he is unable to bolt the whole dose prepared for him by the recent county convention of his party. We merely wish to add in passing that there are hundreds of others just like Bro. Whitmore.

The Yakima Republic ridicules the proposition to establish a railroad commission. At divers times in its checkered career the local organ of the Republican party has assumed to favor a railway commission but now it recklessly goes on record against it. The Republic seems to change its course with every fitting breeze.

J. N. Pickereil of Colfax, ex-prosecuting attorney of Whitman county and a prominent railroad politician of that county, spoke at Toppenish last night in company with Dr. W. H. Hare, Republican nominee for the legislature. It's a wonder Doc don't take his running mate, Rev. Lee Johnson along with him.

The campaign of abuse and vilification that the Seattle P.-I. is making against Judge Turner is unquestionably having the effect of aiding that gentleman in his race for governor. At any rate that is the report by a number of gentlemen who travel about the state and have a first class opportunity to sound public sentiment.

Col. Robertson shies a stone at Joe Smith. The Democrat's political correspondent at Seattle. The reason for this is probably due to the fact that Joe Smith in his letters refers to the Colonel's paper as "the Yakima Republic, railroad lobby Republican." Very unkind of him, indeed.

North Yakima's registration of 1449 indicates that the city is making a healthy and most satisfactory growth. Taking the number of voters registered as a basis it is fair to assume that the town now has a population of over 7,000.

The Tacoma Forum says that Walter J. Reed, Republican nominee for senator in this county, may safely be classed as a Wilson man.

Yes, that is the way the gentleman referred to is classed over here, neighbor.

REPUBLICANS ARE GUESSING

Hot Air Estimates Are Being Made to Bolster Up Claims for the Election of the Farrell-Railroad Nominees.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 26.—Republican estimates on the outcome of the approaching election are fearfully and wonderfully made. Out of a mass of conflicting and unreasonable guesses, it is possible to gather but one general impression, that the leaders of the railroad cause realize that they are beaten and have undertaken to bolster up their lost cause with purely "hot air" figures, in the hope of saving something from the general wreck of the state ticket.

Three general estimates of the result in the state have been compiled by newspapers from reports received from the various counties. One by the Post-Intelligencer, one by the Portland Oregonian and the third by the Seattle Star. The Post-Intelligencer figures, based on the returns from Republican state committeemen and chairmen of county committees, showed that according to Republican confessions Mr. Mead would run not less than 18,000 votes behind the Republican electoral ticket. The Oregonian estimate, based on reports received from that paper's special correspondents, claimed the state for Roosevelt by 34,275 and for Mead by 4,810. The estimate made by the Star was non-partisan in both form and figures and gave the state to Judge Turner by 2,374.

Since these estimates were published two special correspondents have been touring eastern Washington for Republican papers, A. W. Brown for the Post-Intelligencer, and E. W. Wright for the Oregonian, and they, in their stories, have added to the first estimates others equally varied and interesting.

Analysis of the Oregonian's original figures shows that in the calculation that Mr. Mead would carry the state by 4,800; eastern Washington had been conceded to Judge Turner by but 4,200. The majorities for Turner by counties were given as follows: Adams 200, Douglas 300, Ferry 100, Franklin 150, Garfield 200, Lincoln 600, Okanogan 100, Spokane 1750, Whitman 1250, total 4,650. The Oregonian claimed eastern Washington counties for Mead by these majorities: Asotin 50, Walla Walla 100, Yakima 300, total 450, leaving for Judge Turner net, 4250.

Revises By E. W. Wright.

Mr. Wright in his letters has revised these figures somewhat. He gives the Democratic claims in Whitman county as 2,000 for Turner, but adds that the Republicans concede only 200. He, himself estimates Turner's majority as 700. The Post-Intelligencer's only estimate on Whitman county was that Dr. E. A. Stunt, chairman of the Republican county central committee offered to bet that Turner's majority would not exceed 500. Mr. Wright says the Republicans claim Walla Walla for Mead by from 600 to 1000, while the Democrats claim it for Turner by from 300 to 1500. Mr. Wright makes his own estimate on Spokane county which is that Judge Turner will carry it by 1250.

But the most significant feature of Mr. Brown's estimates from eastern Washington is contained in his letter from Spokane, published Oct. 23, in which he says that if the election were held next Monday Judge Turner's majority in eastern Washington would be about 6,000. This is 1,800 more majority than the Oregonian conceded Judge Turner in eastern Washington in its general story Oct. 17, and if accepted as

GEO. F. MCAULAY

Democratic Nominee for the Office of Prosecuting Attorney.

We print below a sketch of the life of George F. McAulay, Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney:

Mr. McAulay was born in Huron county, Michigan. He was compelled at an early age to make his own living, and although forced to give much of his time to wage earning, graduated from the high school of his home town at the age of 15. He became a teacher in the public schools of Michigan and in that capacity was successively principal of some of the best high schools of the state.

Became a student of Ohio Northern university, received the degree of Bachelor of Arts and graduated with highest honors in scholarship and research conferred by the university.

Received his training for the profession of law at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, and was the recipient of many honors from both his classmates and the student body in general. President of one of the leading literary clubs of the university and a member of the oratorical board of the institution.

Has made his home in the west since 1895, and came to North Yakima the summer of 1902, from Baker county, Oregon, where he was a very active practitioner prior to returning to Ann Arbor for the completion of his law course.

Mr. McAulay is a man of sterling qualities and his character and his private life and professional conduct are alike above reproval. Incidentally, it may be remembered, he is a Democrat from principle. His firm, McAulay & Meigs, is among the most successful of the younger firms of the county, and its practice equal to that of many of the older firms. They have a large clientele and extensive acquaintance in the lower part of the county, being attorneys for the farmers in the well known case of E. J. Young et al vs. The Washington Irrigation company.

Although confronted with a large Republican majority, Mr. McAulay is hopeful of success at the polls, and if elected, he pledges himself to an honest, careful, conservative management of the county's interests.

Lumbermen in Politics.

The lumber interests of Washington, which have for the past year been making a systematic campaign for a 40-cent rate on lumber from the Coast to Missouri river points, without success, have taken the fight into politics and are asking the legislative candidates of all parties to pledge themselves, if elected, to vote for any and all measures at the next session of the legislature that may secure for the lumber interests the desired rate.

The Times has on several occasions during the past summer taken up the fight for the lumbermen, and now that the demand for a lower rate is to cut a figure in the election of legislators, it is well for the voters of western Washington, whose interests are so intimately connected with the lumber industry, to consider the most practical political method of bringing about the lower rate.

It can be assumed at the outset that any candidate in western Washington will promise in a general way that he will assist the lumbermen to secure the 40-cent rate, but anyone who is familiar with the methods of legislation can readily understand that a general promise signifies but little when the time comes to secure results. No matter how good a legislator's intentions may be, when the moment comes that he must cast his vote he is controlled by the combination of members of which he forms a part.

Enough has been disclosed already in the present campaign to show that all legislation the coming winter which will in any manner affect railroad freight rates—whether it relate to lumber, or to wheat—will have a direct bearing upon the creation of a railroad commission.

A legislator elected on the Republican ticket will find himself lined up with men who have been pledged in advance to oppose the creation of a railroad commission. No matter how much he would like to favor the lumber interests, he will find himself impotent because of the position taken by the majority of the political combination of which he is a member.

The individual voter in the campaign who would cast his ballot to aid the lumber industry will be more sure of having his intentions carried into execution if he votes for legislative candidates who are committed in advance to the creation of a railroad commission. So far as the public knows, there are no such candidates on the Republican ticket in any of the counties of western Washington, whatever position the party may take in the eastern part of the state.

With the Democratic candidates, the opposite is true. They are all committed to the passage of a railroad commission bill, not only affecting the rate on agricultural products, but rates on lumber ores and all lines of merchandise.

A railroad commission in the state of Washington could not be empowered to afford the lumber interests all of the relief which they demand, but the commissioners would be in position to consider the grievances of the lumbermen and to exert a pressure upon carrying companies to do justice.

While all legislators are friendly to the lumber industry, the friendship that counts in the pending emergency is the kind that will support the creation of a railroad commission.—Seattle Times.

A. J. Splawn and W. J. Reed.

In some respects Mr. Reed resembles his democratic opponent, Senator Jack Splawn, against whom as a man and a citizen, this newspaper has not a word to say. Both are pioneers of the county, are honorable and able gentlemen and will do their duty as public servants as they see it. But it should not be forgotten that Mr. Splawn belongs to the party that has demonstrated its inability to successfully conduct the affairs of the nation, and in the contest in this county this fall national politics are involved.—Prosser Bulletin.

Ye gods, what reasoning! Even if the Bulletin's assertion of Democratic incompetence in national affairs is true, which it is not, what has that got to do with the election of a state senator from Yakima county?

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. SOME EXPERT OPINION

What Republican Papers of this State Have Said about Their Party State Ticket and the Man-ner in which It Was Nominated.

Damns the Convention.

"The convention which masqueraded as Republican has met, conquered and adjourned. It was a railroad ratification meeting from start to finish. * * * In attempting to wipe Governor McBride from the political map of this state the leaders in control of the railroad element have unquestionably left McBrideism stronger than it ever was before and his following will have to be reckoned with in the future. * * * The Ledger stands by the ticket and admires the genius of its manipulators, but it does not hesitate to say it damns their conception."—Tacoma Ledger (Rep.), Tacoma, May 12.

Silence is Oppressive.

Thus far not even a shadow of denial has come from any of the accused who are alleged to have nominated the Republican state ticket in the palatial private car of a railroad duke. * * * The silence is oppressively convicting. From various sources come the disgusting description of this night conference in a railroad yard, where half a dozen railroad magnates, absolutely ignoring the wire working of 600 Republican delegates, determined to make a governor out of a man who had never been thought of."—Everett Record, (Rep.), Sept. 9, 1904.

Must Do Their Bidding.

Governor McBride has met defeat at the hands of the railroads and in his place has been elevated a man barely known outside of his own county. * * * Why? Because, in the words of Harold Preston, he has dared to oppose the control of his party by the corporations; because he has time and again offered to stand or fall with that issue; and because, being the strong man that he is, the man of pre-eminent ability in his party, the man of positive character and uncompromising ability, it has seemed necessary to those companies to crush him in order to demonstrate anew to those having political ambitions that no Republican in the state of Washington can aspire to political preferment unless he is willing to bend the knee to them."—Vancouver Independent (Rep.).

Making Democratic Votes.

"When such papers as the Colfax Gazette, and there are several in its class, sneer at men who have been loyal as many years as they have seen the light, they are sneering at better Republicans than themselves. * * * Farrell-Ankeny-Atkinson Republicans may sneer as much as they like, but they only drive more votes to the Democratic ticket, by putting disgruntled members of the party on the defensive."—Wilbur Register (Rep.).

Good Advice for Mead.

"As a friend of Mr. Mead, and wishing him nothing but the best of luck, we desire to offer him a little advice. It is without price, but it will be useful. Mr. Mead, if you have a backbone, have it pulled. The dictators of the Republican party stamped at the height of vertebra. Remember the platform is not to stand on. Don't trust your weight upon it. It is not intended for your guidance. If you accept the platform as meaning anything your future hopes are doomed to blight. Trim your sails to every breeze. Cast away your manhood, and play the puppet to every hand that pulls the strings. Then will your administration look good to the king-makers, and you will retire to private life honored and respected."—Palmer Mountain Prospector (Rep.).

Farrell the Uncrowned King.

"The railroad forces had complete control of the convention. They made the slate and put it through with consummate ease. J. D. Farrell was the uncrowned king who ruled things with an iron hand, the railroad forces (King and Pierce), included, having to obey his mandates. Had it not been for this Henry McBride would have been renominated governor, as a trade had all but been completed with King county, when Farrell arrived on the scene and quickly nipped it in the bud, and thus all hopes of the friends of Washington's model chief executive went glimmering."—LaConner Mail (Rep.).

Charges Proven True.

"Repeated declarations made through the press by delegates and others that J. D. Farrell, agent of J. M. Hill, appeared at the state convention upon invitation, and arrogantly forbade King county's 115 delegates and through them a majority of the delegates in the convention from entering into any agreement by which McBride should become the Republican nominee for governor, or which endorsed his fight for a commission, absolves Republican newspapers and Republican voters from all obligation to support such a ticket.

"McBride has charged the railroad lobby with corrupting legislatures and dominating political conventions. The action of the west side delegations in inviting, caucusing with and bowing to the will of J. D. Farrell, a democrat and a railroad official, proves his charges to have been true."—Lincoln County Times (Rep.).

this part of the state feel that they have been buncoed by the Tacoma convention, and they will not soon forget it. They are not apostates, as the political bosses are pleased to characterize them. * * * But the state machine must not expect to palm off a railroad pass for a ride on the national bandwagon. Tickets won't be worth a dollar a dozen on a Roosevelt special. If the political machinery has got out of order in this state, the republicans may be depended on to make all necessary repairs. They have the nerve even to vote in a Democrat once in a while as a relief measure."—Pomeroy East Washingtonian (Rep.).

The Common Enemy.

"True, the solidarity of the party should be preserved, and all true Republicans stand shoulder to shoulder against the common enemy. But who is the common enemy, or, rather, the worst type of enemy? The rank and file of Democracy, demanding the same principles for which Republicans stand, or a democratic lobby king, who yields the scepter of tyrannical rule over a Republican convention? Eastern Washington Republicans are loyal to the party—the yare more—they are loyal to the interests of their people and refuse to sell their principles for petty offices. The Post-Intelligencer urges them to support a ticket of lobby ridden time servers; but that they will decide in their own good time and way."—Wilbur Register (Rep.).

Democracy a Religion.

"I have had people ask me why Democrats seem to be so intensely earnest about their Democracy. I have had men say, 'Why, with some Democrats Democracy is a sort of religion. My reply is that with every Democrat who knows what Democracy means it is a religion, and when you hear a good Democratic speech it is so much like a sermon that you can hardly tell the difference between them. And why? Because a good sermon is built upon the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, and the Eleventh Commandment, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor like thyself.' And a good Democratic speech is built upon the doctrine of human brotherhood and equal rights and self government. When you get down to bed rock you find that love of mankind is the basis of both, and Democracy can never die while there is in Democracy a love of mankind.

"Democracy does not go as far sometimes as we would like to have it; but, my friends, we must not expect that we will have everything as we would like it. Ask a mother as she holds in her arms her baby boy what her hope is, and she will tell you that she hopes his heart will be so pure that it could be laid upon a pillow and not leave a stain; that his ambition shall be so holy that he can whisper it in an angel's ear, and that his life will be so clean that his mother, his sister, his wife, his child can read a record of his every thought and act, without a blush for what he has said or done. That is the ideal that every mother has for her child. But ask her if she is going to require that perfection in him, and her great heart tells you. No; that that is her hope, but that she will make him as good as she can; that she will follow his footsteps with a daily prayer; that her blessing will rest upon him wherever he goes throughout the world, and that she will hope, she will hope, yes, hope, that when he dies the world will be better that he has lived. That is about all she can say to you.

"And so, if you ask me if my platform has all that I want in it, I say no. You ask me if my candidate stands for all I would like to have him stand for, no. But shall I throw away the good he promised because I cannot get all that I want? By what other means can I secure more than I can secure from the election of Parker and Davis. There is no other means by which I can bring to my country at this time more of good than will be brought through their election."—Speech of W. J. Bryan at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Senator Gorman Calls This a Peculiar Campaign—Many Democrats Do Not Agree With Judge Parker That Imperialism is Leading Issue.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—Senator Gorman spent a few hours in Washington today and the representatives of the Democratic press flocked to him for predictions which they hoped would gladden the hearts of their editors, but the senator was extremely conservative in his statements. "I cannot tell you any more about it than you know yourself," he said. "There is apparently an apathy throughout the country and men are attending strictly to their business and saying nothing. Yet the registration in those cities where it has been held is larger than ever. What does it all mean? I have never yet been able to find a man who would accurately feel the public pulse under these conditions. I do not know how it is going to turn out. I am confident there are going to be some big surprises. Whether it will be the other side that will be surprised or whether it will be our side I cannot tell. And I don't think anyone else can tell you either. Four years ago about one third of the Democratic party went over to the other side and some 7,500,000 votes were polled. Where are these Democrats now? Have they gone back and what does the big registration mean? There are exceptions to all rules and this may be an exception, but no one can tell what the result will be."

Surprise is expressed that the President should have had to order Secretary Taft of the war department to the Isthmus of Panama to pacify the Panamanians. This order is regarded as certain evidence that Minister John Barrett has not been telling the whole truth to the newspapermen when he has declared that there existed no friction between the republic of Panama and the United States. The truth is that the tariff of this country is going to make trouble with the Panamanians and it is doubtful if even "the great pacificator," Secretary Taft, can persuade the people of Panama that it is to their interest to have the Dingley tariff law enforced at each end of and all around the canal zone. However, the promised visit of the secretary will probably postpone any outward show of dissatisfaction on the part of the isthmians until after the election and that is the motto of the administration with regard to all things now, "keep it dark until after election."

By his latest public speech Judge Parker has made it plain that from now on the great issue of the campaign will be anti-imperialism. Many of the candidate's friends and advisors believe that there are issues which could be more profitably exploited but Mr. Parker is a sincere man and is unwilling to advocate policies in which he has not the utmost faith. He has rendered impossible any active tariff reform campaign by his announcement that the Republicans will inevitably control the senate throughout the next presidential term so that no changes in the tariff unacceptable to the Republicans could be effected, even if he were elected. He has, by his speech of acceptance, shown a disinclination to any radical anti-trust movement, although he would doubtless do all in his power to control the great aggregations of capital, and now he has shown greater enthusiasm in his denunciation of the un-American policy pursued by the present administration in the Philippines than on any other issue, so the Philippines it will doubtless have to be.

The most encouraging reports reach Washington regarding Mr. Bryan's work in Indiana. It is asserted that he has saved the party at least 10,000 votes among voters who would have voted for Watson, or Debs, or remained away from the polls had not the eloquent Nebraskan come among them and told them that, while Parker was not originally "his kind of a man" he was a vast improvement over Roosevelt. It is also believed that West Virginia will go Democratic and New York is generally regarded as certain, but opinion differs as to the rest of the country and these states added to the solid south do not aggregate enough electoral votes to insure Democratic success by 42 votes. The best way to get those essential 42 votes is the problem that the Democrats think they can successfully solve.

One of the latest evidences of the "big stick" policy is the effort being made to extend the facilities for rifle practice to the ordinary citizens. Volunteers, it is urged, must be relied upon in time of war to supplement very largely the standing army and for that reason every man should know how to shoot and shoot straight. Congress will be besieged with petitions, during the coming session for appropriations for establishing rifle ranges, loaning army rifles to military schools, establishing shooting galleries and providing instructors, not only for the militia but for rifle clubs which will be organized in all parts of the country if the present plans are carried into effect. Such preparations for war afford little ground for faith in President Roosevelt's peace pretensions, but the public may get some fun out of the proposition and a certain amount of that open air exercise of which the president is such an advocate and these are practically the grounds on which he pretends to advocate the plan.

Mr. Mead as a Lawyer.
It is no disrespect to Mr. Mead to say that he is a third rate lawyer. The bar of Bellingham, where he practices law, is a strong one, but even Mr. Mead's closest friends and personal admirers will not pretend that he ranks among the leading lawyers of his home city, much less that he has any material rank among the lawyers of the state. The records of the supreme court disclose that he has had few cases before that tribunal outside of cases where he appeared as prosecuting attorney representing the state.

Mr. Mead has attained no distinction, either in the business or professional life of the state, though he has practiced law in Washington for about 15 years. When the republican state convention met nobody, save, of course, the inner coterie of corporation bosses who controlled that body, even dreamed that Mr. Mead would be nominated for governor; and it is notorious that he was not nominated on account of his ability or his qualification for the office, but because of his serviceability to his corporation creators.

Outside of the issues of this campaign, Judge Turner should be elected because of his great superiority over his opponent in all the qualities which go to make up a strong, able, clear headed, broad minded and capable executive.—Review.

Martian and Lunar Canals.
Prof. Pickering of Harvard in the magazine Popular Astronomy makes an explanation of the canals on Mars and the moon that is both novel and interesting. His theory of the cause of this common phenomenon is founded directly upon observed facts.

The canals on Mars have long been a puzzle to astronomers. They have but lately been discovered on our own satellite. The extreme brightness of the lunar light and the depth of the shadows of the lunar night have presented more difficult conditions for favorable observation there than on Mars, even though the latter is 2,000 times farther away. There is more atmosphere and more water on Mars than on the moon. The canals are therefore more plainly marked.

Prof. Pickering thinks the lines called canals are lines of vegetation along cracks in the surface of Mars and the moon, through which water vapor issues. Terrestrial volcanoes lie along defined lines. This is caused by the fact that any weakness of the outer crust will develop a crack, and the crack usually opens in a straight line across the weakened area. In the case of the moon, the cracks apparently open from craters or from craterlets to craterlets. They are less defined than the canals on Mars because of the fact that water and air are almost extinct on our satellite. Carbonic acid and water vapor escape in sufficient quantities to produce vegetation on a small scale.

The planet Mars, in physical conditions seems to occupy an intermediate position between the earth and the moon. It has more atmosphere and more water than the moon and less of both than the earth. The belief is that practically all of its water is in these canals, it having no seas worth mentioning.

Of course this may not be anything like a correct theory. An inexplicable phenomenon often has a wealth of explanation. The fact that a new theory has been advanced by Prof. Pickering simply proves that he has been unable to accept any existing hypothesis as an explanation of the phenomena of which he has been a careful and a close observer.—Post-Intelligencer.

THURSTON REPUBLICANS IN REVOLT

Like Yakima, Thurston County Has a Ring That Controls It that the People Will Endeavor to Shake Off at the Coming Election.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 25.—(Special correspondence)—Thurston county, in common with almost every other county in the state, harbors within its borders an organized Republican revolt from railroad and corporate dictation of the party, and coupled with it there is an organized protest against local conditions of ring rule. As is the condition in many other counties in western Washington, more particularly perhaps in southwestern Washington, the activities of the revolt are carried on under the pretensions of "regularity" making it impossible to ascertain or estimate with any degree of reliability, the extent of the revolt and the number of votes which will be influenced by it on election day.

As in Pierce county the revolting Republicans, better known perhaps as the "Boxers," are well organized and are working harmoniously among themselves in the common purpose of defeating such Republican candidates as are clearly the subservient tools of corporate interests, and of putting an end to the leadership in this county of the men who are responsible for delivering Thurston county to the railroad forces in the recent Tacoma convention. The leaders of the "Boxer" organization claim that their organization has a membership of 335 Republicans in Olympia and Thurston county, chiefly in the country precincts. The leaders of the organization are well recognized, a campaign fund has been raised by subscription among the members of the "order" and paid workers are employed to carry on the campaign. Just what Republican candidates on the county ticket this organization is making its campaign against the leaders decline to say at this time, but their campaign is very generally against the Republican state nominees, but a few favored men on that state ticket escaping their displeasure.

The most prominent man in the "Boxer" organization is T. F. Mentzer, formerly a Republican member of the legislature from this county, who cut the Gordian knot of regularity and made a powerful and telling speech for Judge Turner and the Democratic state ticket as the presiding officer of Judge Turner's recent meeting at Tenino. Mr. Mentzer is one of the substantial farmers of Thurston county and his move has attracted widespread attention throughout the state, and has carried conviction to many of the wavering Republicans in Thurston county.

The grievances of the independent Republicans in Thurston county are many, but the principal one is the manner in which the machinery has been manipulated for many years in the interests of furthering the personal political fortunes of a few local leaders. These local leaders have feathered their own nests, politically, by trading the influence of the county in state conventions and in the legislature to the railroads and to senatorial candidates for personal advantage.

The present revolt had its inception four years ago and to quiet it the local Republican machine leaders brought out J. O. B. Scobey as a candidate for governor and appealed to the Republicans of the county to give their support to their "favorite son." This was done and Mr. Scobey, having the delegation and the legislative candidates for trading purposes, so used the power thus given to land himself in the berth of receiver in the local land office.

Two years ago, again, the machine leaders brought out a candidate for a state nomination in the person of A. J. Falkner, a pretended congressional aspirant. The delegation to the state convention secured under the guise of being for his nomination was promptly delivered to the railroad forces against the proposed commission plank, and the campaign so managed as to land S. A. Madge in a federal berth, that of deputy collector of internal revenue.

This year the same game was worked, with decorations. C. J. Lord, president of the Capital City National bank, was political machine for himself? I would not, and you need not expect the Republican party to do it, for how would we stand in the next campaign, it would ruin us!

Subsequently in private conversation Mr. Humphrey in referring to the Tacoma convention said:

"Any man who says J. D. Farrell, for the railroads, ran the Tacoma convention, or dictated the platform, or nominees, is a d—o—l—"

No comment is necessary.—Wenatchee Advance.

brought out as a candidate for governor with the understanding that in the melee the local leaders would make the effort to land for him the nomination of a man for state treasurer who would give Mr. Lord's bank the state deposits, a perquisite worth from $15,000 to $25,000 a year in interest. In this campaign Mr. Lord was induced to contribute liberally to the fund for repairing and keeping in order the fences of the organization.

Again this hoodwinking campaign was successful, and in a convention of delegates selected on this major issue the local machine leaders nominated a county ticket which is notoriously weak in several places. The state delegation was delivered in advance to the railroad forces, the county was made a party to the disgraceful subservience of the Tacoma convention to the railroad influence, and the railroad leaders rewarded the local leaders and Mr. Lord by giving the nomination for state treasurer to George Mills, a gentleman whose name had not been mentioned in connection with the office until John H. McGraw of the King county steering committee refused absolutely to consider the name of Mr. Scobey in connection with the nomination.

Senatorially Thurston county is counted in the Foster column. Both Mr. Scobey and Mr. Madge received their federal appointments through the grace of Mr. Foster and they have nominated a legislative ticket consisting of men pledged to support that gentleman for re-election. In Pierce county the impression has become almost universal that the elevation of Mr. Mead to the governor's chair is clearly in the interests of the senatorial candidacy of John L. Wilson and the Foster Republicans of that county are pretty generally lined up against Mr. Mead. As the campaign progresses and Ex-Senator Wilson's paper, the Post-Intelligencer continues to devote its political columns to the exploitation of Mr. Mead to the absolute exclusion of all the elements of the campaign which do not contribute to the advancement of Mr. Wilson's personal fortunes, this impression is beginning to penetrate the minds of the Republican voters of Thurston county.

Naturally those of the local leaders who are political pirates pure and simple and working their political games for personal gain and advantage are but little concerned in these conditions. But the sincere Foster supporters who are beginning to appreciate that in Mr. Mead's success there lies an element of danger to Mr. Foster's candidacy are doing some hard thinking about the matter, and some of them are even ignoring the advice of the local machine leaders and throwing their influence in the balance against Mr. Mead's election.

Locally the Democratic county campaign is being aggressively managed on the lines of a general attack all along the line of county mismanagement and incompetency of Republican county officials. In a campaign document which has been given almost universal circulation over the county the Democrats proclaim the issue in these words:

"The issue before the taxpayers of Thurston county is whether a coterie of men who have seized upon the local Republican organization to feather their own nests at the expense of the taxpayers, shall retain control or be succeeded by honest men, fresh from the people, who know their grievances and are not tied to corporate chariots or controlled by self-appointed political dictators."

And again:

"Under the leadership of this exotic bunch, the local Republican organization has developed into an organized conspiracy for plunder, over the protests of the best elements in the Republican party, and they depend on the cohesive power of plunder to keep their rank and file of the party, if they agree to assist in the raid on the taxpayers' hencoop."

JOE SMITH.

BAILEY ON TURNER

The Man who has Already Bet $10,000 on the Democratic Candidate Says He Will Carry the West Side.

"It is a question of how large a majority Turner will get in western Washington, and not of how many Mead votes the eastern part of the state will have to overcome," said S. S. (Steve) Bailey, the well known wealthy property owner of Seattle, yesterday. Mr. Bailey, who always makes a close study of political conditions and backs his judgment with his money, has already wagered about $10,000 on Turner, and is traveling over the state searching for more Mead money.

"I have found the Turner sentiment much stronger west of the mountains than in Spokane," continued Mr. Bailey. "Pierce and King counties will give Turner about 3000 majority. Turner sentiment is growing rapidly and 3000 is a very conservative estimate. In western Washington people are not supporting Turner as much on account of the railroad commission as on the east side, but seriously object to railroad domination."

"The west side people like Turner on several different accounts. They like him because he is a good, conservative man and will do what he says he will. They like him because he was honored by President Roosevelt when he was appointed on the Alaska boundary commission. The business men like him because they have confidence in him and think he will serve all to their best interests and serve the state conservatively."

"At the most Mead will only carry Whatcom county by 200 or 300 votes, and it is doubtful which way the county will really go. The republicans claim about 1500 majority in Whatcom county, but on election day they will find but a few hundred and possibly none."

"If Skagit county goes republican at all it will be by a very small majority, and I would not be surprised to see it go democratic."

"Shoshone county is doubtful, and will go republican by a very small majority if by any."

"I feel sure that Thurston county and Chehalis county will give Turner small majorities."

"I leave the eastern part of the state to the people of this side. If they strike the mountains with any kind of a majority I am sure Turner will be elected."

Betting for Yesterday.

"Steve" Bailey and John Condon took all the Mead money they could find yesterday. The first bet taken was at the Los Angeles Wine company's. This was also a commission bet and the takers of the Mead end would not let their names be known. The second bet was for $60, all the money deposited at the Donnelly cigar store. This was also a commission bet and no names could be mentioned. After these two bets the Mead men did not show their money till late in the evening, when it was known that Mr. Bailey had gone to his home in Seattle.

The Los Angeles Wine company still holds $500 to be wagered on Turner. Part of the original bet was taken, but Mead men backed down when it was learned that the cash was ready for all takers.—Spokane-Review.

A Republican's Opinion.

Editor Democrat: Mr. Robertson of the Yakima Republic, remarks in a recent issue of his daily, that "no democrat will be elected in this county this fall except by republican votes." And further, that "every man on the republican ticket is worthy of support by republicans." Mr. Robertson's first statement is entirely proper, and I can only add that certain of the democratic nominees are just as sure of receiving sufficient republican votes to elect, as that the election is to occur Tuesday, November 8.

But the second statement of the editor of the Republic is of little consequence. It is not difficult to understand how such an appeal could be consistently made to republican voters, if there were no question in the public mind as to the genuineness of the republicanism of the gentlemen comprising the republican ticket; but with five or six of those worthies in the doubtful column—the candidate for superior judge an erstwhile Mississippi democrat whose sincerity as a republican should be weighed with his own admission that "to be in good society in the south it was necessary to be a democrat," and the nominee for prosecuting attorney a Cleveland democrat so hungry for office that he thought it not below his dignity professionally nor his honor as a man, in previous years, to work for the nomination before the conventions of both old parties in the same year—republicans for revenue only, if you please—it is hard to see how such an appeal can have much weight with the intelligent, free-thinking element of the republican party. When it comes to a choice, as it has in this campaign, between men, on the one hand, who are democrats on principle—who are fighting in the open and trusting only to their individual merits for success—and on the other, men who have forsaken their former party for no better reason than that it is the party of the minority in the county, and who are now masquerading their treason under a republican veneering or onion skin thickness, the writers faith in the Americanism of the man who casts the ballot justifies him in concluding that the preference will easily lie with the first named. It is about time to eliminate such acrobaticism from both parties. The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde type of politician and office seeker, the truckler and demagogue, should, and in the opinion of the writer will receive a mighty rebuff and condemnation at the hands of the people of this county on election day.

Of course Mr. Robertson is wholly consistent in his article above quoted. He has not been a resident of Yakima county many years, but it is a notorious fact that he changed his politics when he changed his residence, and has evolved from a ranting Clevelandite to ringmaster of the republican party in our county. He attempts only his own justification.

IS HERE AT LAST

The Famous Dr. Darrin Arrives at Hotel Yakima.

Will Remain Only a Limited Time and Should be Consulted at Once.

Testimonials of the Wonderful Cures the Doctor has Effected.

"Come unto me all you that are sick and I will make you well."

The famous Dr. Darrin, whose coming to North Yakima has been announced in these columns has arrived and has taken rooms in the Hotel Yakima to remain a limited time—till Nov. 6th. The unprecedented number of cures that have been effected by his treatments when all others have failed stands as a monument to his skill as a physician.

We are in receipt of the following testimonials, which speak highly of the doctor's ability and skill, more than anything we could say:

Roy, Pierce Co., Wash.

Dr. Darrin—Dear Sir: I commenced treatment with you some time ago for heart disease, constipation, dyspepsia and enlargement of the liver. When I first commenced my head was dizzy and mind so confused that I could scarcely think of anything. Now my mind is clear, my heart troubles me very little. The palpitation is about all gone, the pain and distress in my heart and stomach and bowels cease to trouble me. The enlargement of the liver is gradually going down. So I begin to feel like a new man.

My friends are surprised to see me look so well. When I commenced treatment I weighed only 95 pounds, now I weigh 113 1-2. I cannot thank you enough for the relief you have given me. I am sincerely your friend.

WM. MCUTCHERON.

Dr. Darrin—Dear Sir: For seven years I have been a victim of catarrh, bronchitis, dyspepsia and kidney troubles. Also diseases peculiar to my sex. Through your treatment I can say I am well of all the above complaints and heartily recommend your treatment to the afflicted. My boy is also nearly cured under your care for a disagreeable skin disease. My postoffice address is Boise, Idaho, Wash.

MRS. R. GRIFFITH.

Mr. Editor—Dear Sir: I am not in the habit of puffing advertising doctors, but I have tested the skill of Dr. Darrin, and am so pleased with his treatment that I am willing to give the public the benefit of my experience.

When the doctor visited Pendleton some time ago I took his treatment for granulated eyelids which had troubled me for many years. I was cured in a few weeks much to my satisfaction. I can be referred to concerning this most remarkable cure at the Pendleton post-office.

J. F. JOHNSON, Postmaster.

According to his time honored custom Dr. Darrin will give free treatment to the worthy poor, from 10 to 11 a. m. daily. Those who are willing and able to pay will receive treatment between the hours of 11 a. m. and 5 p. m.; Sundays 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. Consultation free. Charges for treatment low and reasonable according to circumstances and ability to pay. All business relations strictly confidential.

It is to be remembered that his stay is limited to Nov. 6th, therefore the afflicted should lose no time in availing themselves of his professional services.

114 YAKIMA AVENUE

A TRUE SPECIALIST

Who Has Met With Phenomenal Success in Curing the Sick.

Dr. Darrin's Great Triumphs are in Chronic and Deep Seated Diseases.

That Dr. Darrin is a true specialist of the very highest attainments can no longer be a question of doubt. That he is so regarded by the sick people of North Yakima and vicinity is indicated by the vast number of them who continue to seek his professional services from day to day at his office in the Hotel Yakima. They go to him for help because he is an educated, conscientious, big-minded gentleman, as well as a great physician who is able to cure every curable disease with which humanity is afflicted.

Among his patients are bankers, lawyers, merchants, clerks, mechanics, ministers, miners, mill men, loggers, shingle weavers, ranchers, laborers, and people from every station of life and from all parts of the country.

While they go to Dr. Darrin weighted down under a secret load of disease, despondency and despair, they come away from him full of hope, confidence and joy, and feeling better in every way. From the very hour that they commenced treatment they begin to permanently improve. What the great specialist does to them, or the kind of treatment he administers to them, is a secret known only to himself—the secret upon which his remarkable success is founded.

The doctor gives free consultation and examinations from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily at the Hotel Yakima, Room 2. His fees for treatment are low and reasonable according to circumstances and ability to pay. Therefore the rich and poor can equally avail themselves of his services. It is to be remembered that Dr. Darrin's stay in this city is limited to Nov. 6th, therefore the afflicted should lose no time, call on him at once.
