Champlain Line

Robert Selden Garnett (5) was born at Mount Pleasant 26 April, 1789, the youngest son of Muscoe (4) and Grace Fenton (Mercer) Garnett. He was educated at the College of New Jersey (Princeton) then studied law in Virginia and practiced at Lloyd's in Essex County. On December 20, 1812, he was married by the Right Reverend William White in Philadelphia, to Olympe Charlotte de Gouges, born in Paris, France, May 5, 1796, sister of the governor of the French West Indies and a daughter of General Jean Pierre de Gouges of the French Army, and a relative of Olympe de Gouges, one of the leading feminists and pamphleteers of the French Revolution, a woman of remarkable force and talent, who for her offer to defend Louis XVI was guillotined on Nov. 4, 1793. Robert Selden Garnett, like his brother, James Mercer Garnett, of Elmwood, early entered the political arena. He served as a member of the Virginia House of Delegates, 1816-17 and was elected to the United States House of Representatives as a Democrat to the Fifteenth and four succeeding congresses March 4, 1817--March 3, 1827. He was a personal friend and supporter of General Andrew Jackson. His father had devised to him the estate which he called Champlain, and which embraced the tract which Muscoe Garnett had inherited in 1741 from his grandfather, Salvator Garnett, and also the plantation which had been called "The Stone Chimney" whereon Robert's older uncle William Garnett (4) and his wife, Anne ~~Rouxie~~ Rouzie had lived. The estate was about ten miles below Elmwood at the post-office now bearing the name of Champlain and adjoined the "Rose Hill" estate of his brother, William. Here Mr. and Mrs. Garnett resided until their deaths--his on August 18, 1840, and hers on August 8, 1856, both being interred in the burying ground on the estate. Champlain then passed into the hands of unmarried daughters and sons who continued to reside there during their lives. The last surviving son was Captain Alexander Somervail Garnett who died in 1907 at the age of seventy-six.

Champlain passed into the possession of strangers and in 1924 the old house was destroyed by fire, only the gaunt ruin of the old stone and brick chimney remaining to mark the site of a home noted for its charm and hospitality in the ante-bellum days. The present owner, in the course of cultivation, has ploughed under the family burying ground, and all the graves have disappeared except that of Mrs. Olympe de Gouges Garnett, which is enclosed by an iron fence.

The children of Robert Selden and Olympe Charlotte (deGouges) Garnett (8) were:

1-Mary Hyacinth Garnett (6) b. Dec. 13, 1813, died May 12, 1893, unmarried.

3-Robert Seldon Garnett (sic) b Dec. 16, 1819, died July 13, 1861.

4-Louise Anacharsis Garnett (6) b born at "Champlain" May 5, 1821, died in San Francisco, California, June 25, 1901.

5-Henry Laurens Garnett (6) June 1824, died Dec. 1827.

6-Alexander Somervail Garnett (6) Captain C.S.A. b. Feb. 1, 1831, died May 1907, unmarried.

7-John Francis Mercer Garnett (6) Captain C.S.A. b Sept. 17 1823,
d. April 9, 1899, unmarried.

Robert Seldon Garnett (6) was the third child of Robert Seldon
Garnett and Olympe Charlotte deGouges Garnett (Seldon sic)

Born December 16, 1819 was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1841 (info from Va. Quarterly)

Louis Anacharsis Garnett (6) born at "Champlain" May 5, 1821 died in San Francisco, California, June 25, 1901, married March 17, 1853 his first cousin, Maria Champe Garnett (1826-1909) daughter of Muscoe and Maria (Battaile) Garnett (5) of Prospect Hill.

Louis and his wife went to San Francisco in the early stages of its development; he became interested in various mining activities and accumulated a substantial fortune. He organized the San Francisco assaying and Refining works, later the Shelby Lead Works.
He was an ardent advocate of the gold standard, contributing articles to "The Forum" and other periodicals. He was a member of the Monetary Commission created by the Indianapolis Monetary Conference in 1897, and suggested the creation of the Mint Bureau in Washington, the repeal of the gold coinage charge, the adoption of the trade dollar and the law establishing and regulating the intrinsic value of foreign coins.

The children of Louis Anacharsis and Maria Champe Garnett were:

1-William Hammond Garnett (7) born Feb. 28, 1855, died unmarried 1925.

2-Louis deGouges Garnett (7) born February 10, 1858, died unmarried while a midshipman at the Naval Academy, Annapolis.

3-Yelverton Triplett Garnett (7) born December 8, 1860, died unmarried while a student at the University of Virginia.

4-Robert Selden (sic) Garnett (7) born December 10, 1862, died in his teens.

5-Edgar Malcolm Garnett (7) born November 13, 1864, died unmarried about 1917.

6-Marion Lee Garnett (7) born 1866, died young.

7-Mercer Brooke Garnett (7) born 1868, died young.

8-Kennedy Porter Garnett (7) born March 12, 1871, and educated at private schools and tutors. He early developed a marked taste for art and literature and became music and dramatic critic and later literary editor of the San Francisco Call. He also edited "Le Petit Journal des Refusees" and was associate editor of "The Argonaut." He was Assistant Curator of the Bancroft Library of the University of California and was producer of the Bohemian Club grove plays and other outdoor masques. Becoming deeply interested in fine printing and book design, in 1922 he was appointed assistant professor of graphic arts at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, where the following year he established the Laboratory Press in conjunction with his work, the only private press connected with an educational institution. He is the author of several books, a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and in 1932 was awarded the Gold Medal of the American Institute of Graphic Arts. On June 1, 1907, he ~~was~~ married Edna Foote of Kellog, California.

GENERAL GEORGE WRIGHT

CHANGE IN THE DEPARTMENT OF THE PACIFIC.--Major-General Irwin McDowell yesterday, July 1st, assumed command of the military districts of the Pacific--Oregon, California, Arizona and Utah. The respective districts are commanded as follows: Oregon, Brigadier-General Alvord; Arizona, Brigadier-General Rawlings; Utah, Brigadier-General Connor; and California, Brigadier-General Wright, whose headquarters have been removed to Sacramento. We understand that General McDowell is accompanied by Captains Haven and Cutting, as Aids, and that Colonel Drum retains the same position on General McDowell's staff as he formerly did on General Wright's staff. We presume the Department at Washington, in consideration of General Wright's health, transferred his headquarters from San Francisco to Sacramento.

From: San Francisco Alta California, July 2, 1864. p.1, col.3.

RECOVERY OF THE REMAINS OF THE LATE BRIGADIER-GENERAL WRIGHT.--Colonel Drum yesterday received intelligence of the recovery of the remains of the late General Wright at Bay Flat, near Shelter Cove, Mendocino county, 150 miles from the scene of the Brother Jonathan disaster. The remains were badly decomposed, but have been fully identified from clothing and otherwise. The remains of Mrs. Wright, which were recovered soon after the disaster, are now at Gray's, on Sacramento street, awaiting the arrival of those of her gallant husband, by the Del Norte last night. The body of Major Eddy also came down on the Del Norte.

After Sunny Jim left us we had a rough time of it finding water and the proper route, but we finally got to the head of Pitt River where there was plenty of water. I remember well that there had been a lynching party in Beaber a few days before we got there. They had buried one of the men face down, with his spurs sticking out of the ground, so his body could be easily found. I didn't witness this but it was told to me as a fact.

The younger generation will have difficulty in realizing how we survived those times. Cowboys wages were $25 a month with board, if they were good riders. Meals were 15¢ and 25¢. Everybody carried their own blankets, either on their back or on a packhorse. One of the things we bought a lot of was bacon, and we paid all the way from 10¢ to 25¢ per pound for good dry bacon. On this trip there were 14 men and a cook, and 100 pounds of bacon didn't last long. We baked our own bread in dutch ovens and thought we lived pretty well. We had plenty of dried prunes, potatoes, and very little else. We couldn't pack butter, and canned milk was unknown. I recall buying the larger portion of a quarter of beef for 3¢ a pound; honey for 25¢ a gallon; eggs 5¢ a dozen; flour at 60¢ a sack; and potatoes free if we dug them. There were some real pioneers living in that country. They didn't seem to have much need for money. They raised horses and cattle and sold them in the Sacramento Valley. I bought a pair of overalls in a store there for 55¢ -- Boes of the Road Brand. The readers will recall that this was during the Cleveland administration and times were mighty tough, although it wasn't hard to get plenty of good food.

We reached Chico, where I delivered the horses, and when they were counted we were four short. We never knew when or where they were lost.
