OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

For President,

WM. JENNINGS BRYAN.

For Vice-President.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

THE lordly P.-I., which is the recognized voice of the Wilson-McGraw ring which has its headquarters in Seattle, and its ramifications in every part of the state, was evidently imbued with the idea, a few days ago, that it had touched off a hidden mine, which would blow the fusion state ticket "galley west." The organ, however, having since taken the trouble to test popular sentiment has apparently learned that the storm created may blow the other way, and is now disposed to say as little about the matter as possible, evidently with the object of letting the school book matter drop. The reason, of course, is obvious. As the people of the state began to investigate the serious charges of malfeasance in office preferred by the P.-I., not only against Superintendent Browne and the State Board of Education, but against the governor as well, they naturally inquired into the motive for the charges, which any person not blinded by prejudice could easily see was published for the political effect it was hoped that it would have. However, more complete information soon revealed the fact that the attack was inspired by that familiar, but most odious of trusts, known as the American Book company, which on a previous occasion, was known to have debauched state officials in the awarding of contracts under a republican administration and which is said to be an outlaw in a number of other states. It develops that out of the fourteen books contracted for by the present board in May last, the trust received the award of but one, which it secured alone by merit. Now, this is just where the shoe pinches the ungainly foot of the trust. The foxy agents of the octopus, through means contemptible as well as corrupt, had failed to carry their point. Blinded by rage, they swore vengeance on the men who had discomfited them and thus as a result came the alleged expose through the columns of the P.-I. It is doubtless true that the Wagner Geography and the Hughes Speller, issued by the Westland company, are defective in some respects. It is also unquestionably true that Superintendent Browne was over zealous in his efforts to encourage the new concern to organize in order that he might be enabled to "play it against the trust." But in the light of events the people are not disposed to judge either the man or the books severely. In spite of all the dirty dust kicked up by the machine organ at Seattle, the central fact remains that Mr. Browne ably and bravely combated the trust and kept it from robbing our people of thousands of dollars. For this, a minor short comings may be readily forgiven. As for the defective books, we understand that it is the purpose of the board to compel the publishers, under penalty of forfeiture of contract, to take up the present issue and replace it with a better one. If this is done, the injury worked will be slight, and the incident soon forgotten. The Seattle paper which exploited this matter with so much gusto, has simply covered itself with filth and placed another obstacle in the way of its party's success in the state campaign.

THE fusion forces are most fortunate in the selection of candidates for county commissioners. Both the nominees are practical, farseeing men. Mr. Matthews has served the county now for four years, and his record in office is clean and sound. His constant aim has been to reduce the expenditures of the county without impairing the efficiency of its service. To turn such a man down, after rendering such splendid service, would be foolhardy and unbusinesslike. The taxpayers of this county should remember that they are more vitally interested in the selection of proper men for the board of commissioners than any other officer in the whole list. Bad judgment on the part of the commissioners may cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars. There are many instances where this has been true here in the past. Mr. Winchester, too, will make a good commissioner. He is a man of good judgment, who takes a practical view of things and doubtless would look after the county's affairs as carefully as he would his own. Besides, the matter of location is in Mr. Winchester's favor, as against his opponent. He lives in a district that is entitled to a commissioner. The town with one-fourth the population of the county, has no right to demand two of the three commissioners and the majority of the voters are very apt to take that view of it.

BOURKE COCKRAN in a recent speech delivered at Chicago, pretty thoroughly riddled in his masterful way, the pretenses and arguments of the imperialists. He clearly exhibited the fallacy in the republican claim, that the Louisiana purchase conceived and carried out by President Jefferson, could be used and pointed to as a precedent for the absorption of the Philippines and their government by unconstitutional methods, that is, without the consent of the governed. The eloquent orator reviewed at great length the history of the negotiations with the government of France for the cession of Louisiana territory and quoted from Jefferson's papers to show that the primary object of that great statesman in desiring the cession of Louisiana, was to gain full control over that great highway, the Mississippi river, and at the same time rid his country forever of a dangerous and contiguous rival power. Jefferson, in his far seeing statesmanship, had yet another and perhaps a better reason for desiring the possession of Louisiana. He plainly foresaw that the time was coming when that vast territory would be needed as the raw material out of which to carve a new series of American states. In the treaty, made with France conveying the territory it was expressly stipulated that this country guaranteed to the inhabitants of the ceded zone their political and religious liberty, and furthermore, the pledge was distinctly made to France that as soon as statehood, carrying with it the full rights of American citizenship, could be granted the inhabitants that they should have it. This was Jefferson's idea of expansion. That it was wise statesmanship results have amply proved. It was legitimate, democratic, honorable expansion and all who were parties to it profited thereby. How false and puerile then is the claim of the present day imperialists that they are justified by the acts of Jefferson in the seizure by force of arms of alien peoples across the sea and their right to govern them as conquered subjects—a right that they can find no warrant for in the American constitution.

THE mobbing of Roosevelt in a Colorado mining camp, was a contemptible piece of business and deserves the condemnation of men of all parties. Such demonstrations, anyway, can only have the effect of lionizing a cheap and shoddy demagogue, who imagines himself the national hero, because of the spectacular part that he played in an opera boufe war and who is so illiberal in thought as to denounce millions of his countrymen who differ widely with him on fundamental questions of government, as cowards and traitors. The Colorado incident is to be regretted from any standpoint; but if it has the effect of reducing the swelling in Teddy's head, it will have its compensations.

THE honorable commissioner of the general land office is reported to have stated at Tacoma this week, when talking with local stockmen, that the interior department never had, did not now, and probably would never in the future contemplate the ejectment of cattle from the Rainier forest reserve. In making this statement the commissioner used such emphatic language that none within hearing could question his sincerity. Now, if this statement is true, somebody is guilty of some pretty tall lying. Can the local organ of the Hanna party explain?

SENATOR TURNER is a broad minded statesman, who reflects great credit upon his state in the national senate. His stand in behalf of human liberty entitles him to the gratitude of free men everywhere.

A WILLFUL MURDER

W. W. Scott, of Kiona Loses His Life at Prosser

At the Hands of a Desperate Highwayman, Who, With His Partner, is Still at Large.

A cold blooded murder was committed at Prosser on Sunday night and as a result W. W. Scott, an estimable and popular citizen, of Kiona, in this county lost his life, being shot to death through the head and heart by a desperate outlaw whom he was seeking to place under arrest on the charge of highway robbery.

The news of the killing was promptly wired to Sheriff Tucker in this city, who, assisted by his two deputies and the five police officers of the city went through every freight train entering town from the south and while several hobos were arrested on suspicion nobody believes that the murderer and his confederate are among the number.

There are many versions of the Prosser tragedy abroad, but the following story as told by Jim O'Connor and corroborated in part by other witnesses is the one that the sheriff's office seems to take the most stock in. O'Connor, it should be remembered, is the man whom local peace officers, namely, Mulligan and Paul, had some trouble with here about six weeks ago. O'Connor's story is substantially as follows: He states that he and his partner entered a box car at Prosser on Sunday evening with the intention of "beating" their way east. Before the train left the yards two more men entered the car and as the train was leaving Prosser, the two strangers jumped up, jerked out their revolvers and forced them to "deliver." O'Connor says he was relieved of about $40 and a silver watch. The holdup job, he says, was done in short order and then the two strangers jumped off.

Both, he states, were comparatively young men, smooth shaven and wearing dark clothes, one being tall, the other short. O'Connor and his partner now being broke, concluded to get off at Kiona, and at the depot there met Mr. Scott to whom they told the story of the robbery. O'Connor asked Scott, who appeared to sympathize with them if he would send a message to the Sheriff at Yakima to endeavor to apprehend the robbers. Scott started to do so, then suddenly changing his mind said: "If your story is true those fellows must still be at Prosser, now I will tell you what I will do. I will go and help you arrest them." This idea suited the men, and as a freight train soon appeared from the east they climbed into a box car, while Scott and a young fellow he took with him rode in the caboose. Scott took with him his shot gun and when he arrived at Prosser, O'Connor and his partner joined him. They saw five men sneaking about the forward end of the train and they went up there. By this time three of the men were inside a box car and two were on the ground.

Scott promptly ordered the men out of the car and asked O'Connor if he could identify the men who robbed him. O'Connor said he had better arrest the whole gang and take them to the Prosser jail, then he would pick out the two robbers. Scott, who held his gun across his breast replied in the negative saying that he must identify them there. By this time the crowd numbered about a dozen including the conductor and the brakemen.

O'Connor on being pressed said, that man there in front of you was one (who was the tall man) and that man over there—pointing to the short man, who stood a few feet to the right and rear of Scott—was the other. At this, Scott, who had been holding his gun on the tall man, turned partially around to look at the short man. This was the other rascal's opportunity and drawing his revolver with lightning like rapidity shot Mr. Scott three times, two shots taking effect in the head and one near the heart. The murdered man fell with a groan, and evidently soon expired. When the shooting commenced the bystanders became alarmed and each man took to his heels.

Ed Woods, one of the crowd, started to run under the train, when the robber shot him, the bullet taking effect in his side. Woods is now in the hospital here and is said to be improving. Dr. Frank having extracted the bullet from his body on Tuesday.

Sheriff Tucker and Coroner Rosser went to Prosser on Monday, the latter holding an inquest on the body of Scott the same day, the remains not being buried until Wednesday morning. The course took by the fleeing murderer and his partner does not appear to be known by anybody, and it seems that there is but little prospect of their being apprehended, although a number of men specially deputized by the sheriff, are on the lookout for them.

The sheriff, on Monday, sent out the offer of an $500 reward for their arrest and conviction.

W. W. Scott, the murdered man was about 40 years of age and leaves behind him a wife and three children. He kept a store and at the same time farmed to some extent at Kiona, while his wife acted as postmistress of that place. Mr. Scott was quite well known in this city being a member of the local lodge of Masons and prominent in republican politics in this county. He was a good citizen and was very popular among all who knew him.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

City Council Meeting.

The city council met in regular session on Monday evening with Councilmen Hough, Keck, Taylor, Sinclair and Reed present.

The minutes of the preceeding meeting were read and approved.

The petition of E. W. Dooley for a renewal of his saloon license in the Hotel Yakima building was read, and on motion the license were granted.

The quarterly report of City Clerk Doust was then read. The report showed that the city's floating and warrant indebtedness was at last entirely wiped out, which now left only the bonded indebtedness consisting of $90,000 which is drawing interest at the rate of six per cent. The report recommended fixing the municipal tax levy for the ensuing year at eleven mills instead of fourteen as in the past year. On motion the report was placed on file and the recommendations adopted.

The total assessed valuation of all municipal property was shown to be $1,074,342.

The usual grist of monthly bills was read and allowed amounting to $1850, this amount, however, covers the quarterly bill of the Yakima Water, Light & Power Co., which amounted to $1150.

On motion the council then adjourned.

"Whose Baby Are You."

The opening engagement at the Mason opera house will be the much heralded farce "Whose Baby are You?" which will make its initial appearance in this city on next Wednesday evening, Oct. 10. Considerable interest is manifested in the approaching event by all lovers of good clean amusement, for this farce is of a high class order with just enough of "horse play" to strike a proper balance to please both parqu岸 and gallery. The author of the piece is Mark E. Swan, who wrote "Brown's in Town," but this, his latest effort, is generally conceded to be the funniest farce on the stage this season. It is not a hodge-podge of nonsense cooked up for an evening's entertainment. The comedy and side splitting situations are not only consistent but carry an even thread of complications and merry mistakes, which admit of the introduction of original vaudeville features, without destroying the continuity of the farce. Manager Murphy has given the piece a pretty scenic investiture, while the costumes are lavish in the extreme. The cast includes such high salaried people as those clever comedians, Francis X. Hope, Lew H. Newcomb, Fred G. Hearn, Fred R. Runnels, Roy Foster and Miss Mabel Meredith, the California nightingale, Miss Franklyn Gale, Miss Ellena Maris, Miss Alice Williams and others.

The open meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the Christian church, Oct. 14. Sunday evening services will begin at 7:40. Come early so as not to miss any of the program. All are invited. Press Supr.

Death of D. H. Guiland.

David H. Guiland, sr., a well known citizen of this county, died on Saturday last in his room in the Guiland house.

Death came evidently without warning for when Mr. Smull, the proprietor of the house, entered his room at night-fall to see what the old gentleman would like for his dinner he was shocked on finding his guest occupying the familiar rocking chair cold in death. Mr. Smull says that at 5 o'clock the deceased left his room and entered the office for a brief spell. The landlord assisted him again to his room and left him. The end evidently came soon after this time.

A physician and coroner were hastily summoned to investigate the matter. The conclusion was reached that death was caused by 'brights' disease. The coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary. The deceased had been a sufferer from rheumatic trouble, which serious ailment he bore most cheerfully. 'Brights' disease also fastened itself upon him in recent years and caused him much additional suffering.

The funeral occurred on Monday afternoon under the auspices of the local lodge of Mason's, of which order Mr. Guiland had long been a faithful and devoted member, having been a charter member of the lodge when it was instituted in the 'Old Town.'

David H. Guiland was born in Switzerland on Sept. 24, 1824 and was therefore, at the time of his death a few days past his 76 year. Coming to this country while yet a comparatively young man he settled in Minnesota where he married and resided for a number of years.

In the spring of 1878 he removed to this county settling at Yakima City, where he built a hotel which he conducted most successfully for a number of years. When North Yakima was laid out in '84 Mr. Guiland removed his hotel hither and personally remained in charge of it until some four or five years ago.

Mr. Guiland was an enterprising and public spirited citizen and did much to promote and encourage the development of this valley and city. He was a strictly honest man and his word was universally regarded in this community as being as good as his bond. He was a man who had many warm and devoted friends, who knew and appreciated his many good qualities.

The deceased leaves behind him his aged wife and five children namely, Miss Matilda, and Mrs. Virginia Barthollet, of this city, Mrs. Eloise Huntington, of Portland, Ore.; D. H. Guiland, of Oraino, Idaho, and George, who is at Cape Nome.

Superior Court Notes.

Judge Davidson opened superior court on Monday morning and while the session only lasted a portion of two days a good deal of business was disposed of especially in the matter of divorces.

By mutual agreement between the court and the attorneys it was decided to hold no jury term this month, there bring only two criminal cases pressing for trial, namely, George Barrick charged with manslaughter and Norman Stevens charged with grand larceny. the court decided to reduce the bail in both these cases from $1000 to $500, and the order was so entered.

The court refused to vacate the order in the case of Edward Grindrod, who has failed to pay the alimony conceded to his ex-wife. The court announced that Grindrod must either pay or go to jail for contempt.

The following divorces were granted: Harriet Jones vs. S. H. Jones—non-support and abandonment.

Addie L. Howlett vs. L. S. Howlett—incompatibility.

Bulah M. Burgen vs. Alfred E. Burgen—non-support and desertion.

Chas. L. Sherwood vs. Jeannie Sherwood—adultery.

Mary E. Masters vs. W. E. Masters—desertion and non-support.

Court adjourned on Tuesday afternoon until next Monday.

Two new divorce cases have been filed with the clerk as follows:

Kate McCaw vs. Samuel R. McCaw.

Lillia M. Cochran vs. Garnett H. Cochran.

In the former case the court after hearing argument awarded the plaintiff $150 for suit money.

Inspired by the Book Trust.

The vicious attacks upon State Superintendent Browne by the Oregonian and Post-Intelligencer in an alleged exposure of a school book scandal are undoubtedly inspired by the American book trust, smarting under bitter disappointment in its failure to hold fast to its monopoly of the school book supply in this state. It was this same book trust that bribed the state board to adopt its books in 1890. One member of the board exposed the scheme by exhibiting in open session a $5000 check that had been given him by an agent of the trust to change his vote. State Superintendent Bryan, who is again the candidate of the republicans and of the American book company for the same office, proved himself to be a corrupt tool in this disgraceful bargain and sale. An agent of the trusts, by the name of Edwards was indicted for attempted bribery, but the information was quashed through the influence of the McGraw administration, in order to hush up the scandal.

The book trust is now moving heaven and earth to defeat Browne and elected Bryan, who will again act as their servile tool. The new text books are not perfect, but they are no worse than the ones they displace, and the people are released from the grip of one of the most obnoxious trusts that curse the country. —Walla Walla Argus.

The Republic a World Power.

The world power which the imperialist invites us to become would be a power based on conquest and violence, a survival of barbarism, a world power consistent with the darkness and ignorance of the tenth century. The world power which we are is a light of civilization and progress, gilding with splendor the dawn of the twentieth century. What patriot would prefer for his country an eminence of force, of violence, or barbarism, to an eminence of peace, of progress and of civilization?

This novel, un-American policy of imperialism should be opposed, because the grounds on which its advocates support it are puerile, inconsistent and dishonest; because it involves the existence of a standing army to menace liberty and to oppress labor by diminishing wages; because it is cowardly to invade the rights of the weak while respecting those of the strong; because it would divorce the American flag and the American constitution by sending the one where the other cannot go; because it is a policy of inconceivable folly from a material point of view, and a policy of unspeakable infamy from a moral point of view. —National Democrat.

The way to Peace.

Mr. McKinley's Philippine commission says that if the president is re-elected "the insurrection will disappear within sixty days."

Sixto Lopez, the representative in Europe of the insurgents, in a letter to Gov. Roosevelt declares that his countrymen will fight to the death for their freedom, but that if Mr. Bryan were elected they would "throw their arms into the sea"—so assured would they be that their right to liberty would be recognized by the American government under his direction.

The way to a quick and honorable peace, after a year and a half of murderous and costly war that brings us no nearer the subjugation of the islands than we were at the beginning, therefore lies in the direction of Mr. McKinley's defeat. To gain sixty days in stopping the war would be much; but the commission has no reason for its belief that the war can be forcibly ended in sixty days after McKinley's election. It says only that this "is conceded by all but men in arms." There is much potency in a "but!" It is the men in arms, representing, as Mr. Robinson says, three-fourths of all the people, who have prevented our 65,000 soldiers from conquering a peace. There can be no guarantee that they will not fight on against our rule as they fought for two centuries against the rule of Spain.

The way to peace and order in the Philippines is to make the inhabitants so sure of justice and of freedom that they will stop fighting because they will have nothing to fight for. —New York World.

Hanna's Chicago Speech.

As the most characteristic feature of the speeches of Mark Hanna is their incoherency, it is hard to decide precisely what the great dictator meant when he said in his Chicago speech:

"I would like Mr. Bryan or any other democrat to tell me what a trust is. I believe there is not a trust in the United States. There is a national law and in every state there is a law against trusts. All these laws are the product of republican law makers, and the credit is due to the republican party. I have no objection to the democrats opposing trusts, but they have not got any patent on it."

One thing, however, appears plainly from this inane incoherent hodgepodge of misstatement and contradiction. It is that the republican party, if Mark Hanna is its leader and mouth piece, as there is every indication that he is, will not move a hand to regulate trusts or to mitigate the oppression which they are putting upon the American people. They will be allowed to flourish in the future as they have during the past four years. They will be allowed to flourish in the future as they have during the past four years. They will be protected by the tariff and hedged round by the Hanna-McKinley administration from the foreign competition which would keep them from becoming oppressive. —St. Louis Republic.

"A Wise Guy."

If a host of pretty girls, a lot of clever comedians and specialty people, and a bright play can be made to please the lovers of laughter who go to the theater, then "A Wise Guy" is a certain success in the western country. It has already been one in the east, for last season it played to the capacity of the eastern theaters. It is a certain cure for the blues and all kindred diseases, for there isn't a single dull moment from start to finish and anyone going to see the performance wants to be certain that their risible muscles are in good working order for the piano mover, who furnishes a great deal of the fun, will keep them all laughing for two hours and better. The company is a very large one and includes some of the best known farcical players in the country. "A Wise Guy" comes to Larson's theater on Monday evening, Nov. 8.

On a Pretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

STATE PRESS OPINION

The 150,000 empty dinner buckets, to say nothing of the starving families, of the miners in the east, is a subject the Hanna organs forget to comment on.—Tacoma Sun.

The newspapers last week related how a Stick Indian, laboring under a superstition, took a young boy of his tribe down to the Yukon, cut a hole in the ice and thrust the youth under, because his God had dictated such a course. And yet President McKinley says that his God's hand is leading him across the Pacific and into the Philippines.—Seattle Mail.

The republican country newspapers are supplying their readers with "boilerplate" supplements full of lies and political rot. These are printed by the Hanna "editorial bureau," paid for with funds subscribed by the trusts, bond sharks and the favored army contractors who are coining money out of our war of conquest eight thousand miles from home.—Vancouver Register.

It is quite fitting that the republican party of this state should take up the fight of the American school book trust. The action of Supt. Browne, in encouraging the manufacture of school books in the state, was a body blow to the trust. The attack on Supt. Browne will not be very cordially received by the working men of the state, especially the printers and binders. Neither will it get much of an ovation from the taxpayers, when they learn that the defeat of the trust means the saving of $120,000 in the five-year contract.—Aberdeen Herald.

The Wilson-McGraw press is making a great hullabaloo over small matter when it is not engaged in propping up straw bogies. The school text book question, which was recently settled without the scandal of wholesale corruption funds by having many of the books published by Washington state publishers, is now subject for flaring columns of sensational bombast. However, these same papers were silent five years ago when it was openly charged that eastern book trusts had raised a boodle fund of $200,000 and were spending it in order to sell their very standard books to the schools of Washington state for the next five years.—Whatcom Blade.

Facts About Trusts.

"There is not a trust in the United States"—Mark Hanna.

The American Steel and Wire company of New Jersey, was formed Jan. 13, 1899. It includes all the wire, wire rod and wire nail mills of the country. Its capital is $90,000,000, at least 50,000,000 of which is water. It is practically a monopoly. This trust it will be observed, manufacturers fencing for farmers and nails, commodities in daily use. Its predecessor, which was an Illinois trust, bore the same name. It was formed in April, 1899. At that time nails were selling at $1.47 per keg. In December, 1899, the price had risen to $3.53. In the same period the price of barbed wire rose from $1.87 to $4.13 per hundred pounds. The duty is specific, and on these prices ranges from about 40 to 60 per cent ad valorem.

The increase of price was so great that consumption was checked. The price was forced down, several plants were closed and hundreds of workmen were thrown out of employment. But even before overproduction and extortion produced this result, John W. Gates testified before the industrial commission, Nov. 14, 1899, that five plants had been closed. The trust raised wages very slightly in some of its departments, but its predecessor trust had so lowered them that they were less in 1899 than wages for the same work in the individual mills composing the combination had been in 1890.

Not only were prices raised and pay reduced, but foreign consumers obtained the goods of the trust for less than was charged the domestic consumer. Mr. Gates testified to this. As a matter of fact, the foreigner bought American nails for one-half the price paid by the American mechanic. In 1899 Canadians bought American barbed wire for 55 cents a hundred pounds less than Americans paid, and plain wire for $11 a ton less.

A director estimated the first year's profits of the trust at $12,000,000. This would have been more than 18 per cent on its common stock. The results of the first six months indicated an actual profit of $15,000,000, more than 24 per cent on its water.

The trust continues, but it is just in a state of depression on account of its greed.—New York World.

Shrewd Trickery.

Being called on by the Secretary of War, acting in behalf of the president, for a report on conditions now existing in the Philippines, the members of the Philippine commission testify to their gratitude for appointment to office at the president's hands by reporting that if Mr. McKinley is re-elected the insurrection in the Philippines will cease at once.

This is faithful service on the part of the Taft commission, and will doubtless be so regarded and remembered by Mr. McKinley. The commission's grateful conviction that the Filipinos count upon democratic success at the polls as their sole hope for the success of their own cause is expressed at a time when it can be used to the best advantage by republican organs and stump speakers. That the members of the commission know it will be so used is apparent in the tone of the report itself. The document has all the earmarks of a campaign document.—St. Louis Republic.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Quitt & Ayres Drug Co's.

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28, 1900.

Mr. McKinley's extraordinary and apparently unaccountable friendship for China, which has been so plainly shown from the beginning of the trouble down to his abandonment of the allies and the order for the sending of the American troops in China to the Philippines, has caused a lot of thinking. Attention has been called to the fact that the republican platform failed to say a word about the continued exclusion of Chinese laborers from the United States, although it must have been well known to the makers of that platform that the present Chinese exclusion law will expire by limitation in 1902, and that unless it is extended by congress our ports will then be open to Chinese coolie laborers. It has been noted also that the Chinese minister to the United States has done considerable talking of late about the probability of the increased friendship between his government and ours resulting in the removal of immigration restrictions. That large employers of unskilled labor in this country, not to mention the sugar planters trust of Hawaii, are anxious to see the restrictions on Chinese immigration removed is well known. By putting all these things together Mr. McKinley is placed in a suspicious attitude toward American labor. Perhaps mention of Chinese exclusion was purposely left out of the republican platform, in order to justify the republican congress in not renewing that restriction, and the reelection of Mr. McKinley may mean the flooding of this country with cheap Chinese labor. The existence of such an intention would account for Mr. McKinley's Chinese policy. It should not be overlooked that the democratic national platform contains this clause: "We favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the Chinese exclusion law and its application to the same classes of all Asiatic races." It is not surprising that those who are interested in the welfare of American labor are doing some deep thinking. It is time for them to think and to act.

Senator Morgan, in a speech before the Jackson democratic association devoted himself to the financial question, which he declared was the most interesting topic to him. He said: "The only way to settle the financial question is to pay the public debt, and it would be very easy to do so by saving some of the wild expenditures we are now making. In the course of a few years we could save over $100,000,000, and we should commence today in order to save the interest which the people are paying. The system created by the last congress is designed to increase the national debt, and under that legislation the debt cannot and will not be paid, but will be increased from year to year. The payment of the debt would not underpin the national banks, but would force them to the old Jacksonian idea of a specie basis, and we would not be dependent for a circulating medium on government bonds. When that is done the financial question will be settled, and settled right."

Mr. Jackson H. Ralston, of Maine, made this reference to our trade with the Philippines, in a speech this week to the Bryan and Stevenson club: "Our exports to the Philippine Islands have been 85,000 men, at a cost of $120,000,000. Our imports from the Philippine Islands have been 25,000 maimed, diseased, and crippled American citizens."

Mrs. S. F. Norton, treasurer of the newly organized Woman's Bryan anti-trust anti-war club made a ringing speech at the first meeting of the club, in which she said: "It behooves every man who is suffering from the results of combined capital to vote for that candidate who at least promises to destroy those conditions which oppress him. Every man whose living is earned by the sweat of his brow is today the slave of the money power. Vote for the man who believes trusts exist and promise to crush them, who pledges himself in no measured terms to the protection of your interests."

Ex-Senator Gorman, whose political judgment is conceded to be as good as that of any man in the country, was in Washington this week, and said of the outlook: "There is a drift—a very decided drift—in favor of the democrats, which justifies the hope that Bryan will be elected. Political conditions seem much as they were in 1892. The men who are managing for the democrats in New York say that they are going to carry the state. They are sincerely confident. They believe they are going to succeed. The democratic managers generally feel confident in the general situation and believe that Mr. Bryan is going to be elected. The drift is strongly in that direction."

The Spanish war veterans, at their annual encampment, held in Washington, this week, paid Gen. Nelson A. Miles the compliment of electing him commander-in-chief by a unanimous vote. Col. James H. Tillman, of South Carolina, was elected senior vice commander-in-chief, over two other candidates, one of whom was Gen. Joe Wheeler.

"A Wise Guy."

where is said to be more solid laughter in "A Wise Guy" than in any farce comedy since Charles Hoyt wrote "A Trip to Chinatown," and foisted it upon the amusement loving public. For an entire year this play, "A Wise Guy," has convulsed the theater goers in the east and it is now making its first western trip. As to plot, there isn't much to worry anyone. There is a piano mover, a rough genial chap, who provides a great deal of fun by getting himself into all sorts of ridiculous situations, in trying to palm himself off as the father of an heiress, who is badly in need of a paternal relative, or who thinks that she is, which with a woman is tantamount to the same thing. Then there is a lot of clever specialties, and more than this, there is a chorus of some exceedingly pretty and shapely young women. "A Wise Guy" is to be the attraction at Larson's theater on Nov. 8.

Handshaking.

In the days of knight hood every man carried a sword and was ready to slash his neighbor upon the slightest pretext. When friends met, they grasped one another by the right hand, thereby indicating peaceable intentions, as each one thus gave up to the other his fighting arm. That is why we shake with the right hand.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Young Freddie Stutsman Loses His Life in a Firetrap.

One of the most saddening and appalling incidents in the history of this city occurred early on Tuesday morning when the fire bell rang shortly after the hour of 2 o'clock.

The members of the volunteer department assisted by a good many others readily responded to the call and hastened to the scene of the fire which was located in the two story frame building on First street occupied by W. H. Stutsman, who for several months conducted a grocery store on the lower floor and used the upper for living rooms. The particulars of the sad affair in which little Freddie Stutsman, the 13 year old son of Mr. Stutsman, lost his life are best told in the words of the unfortunate man himself, who, on being interviewed by THE DEMOCRAT reporter on Tuesday morning said:

"I have had a good deal of sickness in my family of late and to that fact the accident is due. My oldest girl was just recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever when my wife contracted the disease and then I had my hands full, having to look after my business at the same time. On Monday night Mrs. Sperry sat up with my wife until 12 o'clock. She then woke me up to take her place and retired for the night. Some where about 2 o'clock I noticed that the ice in the sick room was exhausted and as I could not well leave my wife's side in the midst of a sinking spell, I awoke Freddie and told him to take a candle and go down stairs and get some ice out of the store refrigerator. He went as directed and returned in a few minutes with the ice after which he returned to bed. Subsequently I detected the smell of smoke and later heard the roar of the fire. I attempted to get down stairs but found the stairway in flames. I then hastily aroused my family and also Mrs. Sperry and taking my wife in my arms told the others to follow me through the window out on the roof of the adjoining building. I awoke Freddie along with the rest and thought he was following and did not know until some time later that he never came out. I took my folks over to the Guiland house and returned as soon as possible to the house. I took a ladder and looked into the open window in the room where the children slept. The room was still in darkness but full of smoke. After hallooing loudly several times and getting no answer I supposed, of course, that the boy was not in there and came away. If I had known that he was still in I might have saved him. That is why I feel so bad about it."

The efficient work of many willing hands soon had the fire under control and the flames were finally extinguished, but not until the building was a wreck and the stock of groceries below was ruined.

The boys then climbed into the upper story with a lantern and sure enough their worst fears were realized. Little Freddie, or what was left of him by the cruel flames, was found lying in the bed with the badly scorched blankets wrapped about him.

The body which was promptly taken to the Second street morgue, was not badly burned, and the features of the lad showed that death had come through suffocation in the dense smoke. The poor boy's funeral which was held on Wednesday, was quite largely attended and many people were forced to shed tears over the terrible and timely death of the bright little fellow. The stricken mother is still to ill to be told of the loss of her boy. It is thought, however, that she will recover.

Mr. Stutsman carried about $800 insurance on his stock and furniture. The house which is the property of J. L. Lasswell, of the Cowiche, was insured for $400.

NOW FOR A MONARCHY.

Republican Organs Coming Out for an Imperial Ruler.

We quote from three McKinley organs:

"There is nothing wrong about 'imperialism.' On the contrary, there is everything in it that is right. It is the rule of those who are fittest to rule, and therefore who ought to rule.—Oregonian, Aug. 6.

"Now is a good time to do away with our obsolete constitution and adopt a form of government that will be logical with our new expansion ideas and will give ample protection to capital. We should not be disgraced in the sight of civilized nations by such a sight as the violence and killing that accompany the operation of street cars in St. Louis now. A constitutional monarchy is probably the most desirable plan that we could now adopt. Everything is ripe for a change. We have a large army and it can be increased under almost any pretext without causing any alarm to the mass. This country has been so prosperous that the voters have lost that spirit of patriotism and honesty that are necessary to the successful operation of republics. The strong iron hand of discipline will have to be used to bring the masses to a sense of proper behavior."—Des Moines, Ia. Globe, May 31, 1900.

"The English executive is an imperial executive. The British parliament is an English legislature. To the same system we are coming by the decree of circumstances as inevitable as that of fate. If this be imperialism, make the most of it. So far as citizenship is concerned, the British empire is one, but beyond the limits of the United Kingdom the citizens live under a rule essentially monarchical and not restricted by the constitutional limitations of the parliamentary system."—Army and Navy Journal Aug. 4, 1900.

These quotations are from McKinley organs and show plainly their drift. In addition, Hanna on his return from England declared that the "English system of government was as good as ours."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

The city clerk gives legal notice in this issue that the registration books will close on Tuesday, Oct. 16, at 11.30 p. m. Residents of this city must be registered or they cannot vote.

Hop picking in the California yard at Parker was finished on Wednesday. The yield was 3220 boxes which amounts to about a ton to the acre—a yield fully as good as last year.

Geo. Stephenson removed to Parker this week, where he will be employed as principal of the school for the coming term. Miss Annie Gibson will have charge of the intermediate department.

Rev. J. H. Condit will be absent next Sunday in attendance upon the synod of Washington which convenes in Tacoma. On account of his absence there will be no services in the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

Marriage licenses were issued on Saturday to W. R. Splawn and Miss Cecil Gervais, of Yakima City, G. C. Hardman and Miss M. I. Perry, of Zillah, and on Monday to Albert Neff and Miss Ida Taylor, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harris mourn the loss of their little son, Robert, who died on Friday the 27th, aged 17 months. The funeral took place on Sunday from the M. E. church. Robert was a bright little fellow and his parents feel their loss keenly.

Miss Edith, the 18 year old daughter of A. A. Manning, of Zillah, died at her home on Friday of last week from quick consumption, which followed an attack of measles. Burial was made in Tahoma cemetery on Sunday. The unfortunate young lady was very popular with all who knew her.

Sam Chong's hop house situated on the old Wilson place on the school section, burned down on Wednesday. The house was not a very valuable one, and was covered with a $200 insurance policy. The hops it contained were worth much more. The insurance on the crop will pretty well cover the loss.

Most of the hop picking in this valley was finished last week. Some of the remaining yards were not cleaned up until the first of this week and a few growers in fact are not done yet, being delayed by the unfavorable weather. The market has shown a slightly upward tendency during the week.

John Cleman, S. J. Cameron and Ira P. Englehart, representing the sheepmen, and A. J. Splawn, P. A. Bounds and D. Sinclair, representing the cattlemen, left for Tacoma on Sunday to personally interview Hon. Binger Herman, commissioner of the general land office, who was billed to make a political speech there on Monday night, on the question of admitting stock to the reserve next season. The secretary is understood to have given the Yakima delegation favorable assurances in so far as he could influence matters. Mr. Herman is said to have been most emphatic in stating that the department at no time had had under consideration any proposition to debar cattle from the Ramer reserve. The local stockmen, most of whom returned on Wednesday, naturally feel quite jubilant over the outlook for next year's grazing.

The Games all Closed.

Gambling games of all descriptions were summarily closed down in this city on Friday night of last week.

The wife of a former operator at the depot came over from her new home on the Sound and through her attorney insisted on the payment to her of a certain sum of money alleged to have been lost by her erring husband in a game of chance a few months ago. As the ultimatum was "pay up" or quit business most of the knights of the green cloth, after a consultation, preferred the latter alternative and closed up.

The proprietor of the Alfalfa was not to be "bluffed" so easy, however, and the games there still continued. Sheriff Tucker and a deputy appeared at the side door about 12 o'clock armed with a warrant sworn out by an unknown person and proceeded to gobble up the furniture and moved it away. The last move is said to be the result of spite work mixed up with local politics. Meanwhile the knights of the green cloth are taking it easy and like Micawber, are waiting for something to turn up.

The woman in the case, it seems, obtained nothing, and returned home empty handed.

Admiralty Weak on Geography.

During the Boer war of 1880 the admiralty was hopelessly ignorant of the geography of South Africa.

The admiral in charge of the fleet at Cape Town received strict orders that he was not on any account to bombard the town of Potchefstroom. Now, as Potchefstroom is a good many hundred miles from the seacoast and lies on the Mooi river, which is barely 200 yards across and dry for three parts of the year, this order was superfluous.

During the same period the fleet was at Port Elizabeth, and the admiral headed dispatches to the admiralty from that seaport. By the next mail he again sent dispatches, but happened to head them Algoa bay.

The admiralty cabled out asking him what business he had to change the location of the fleet without instructions, sublimely ignorant of the fact that Port Elizabeth and Algoa bay are one and the same place.

By the way, the names Algoa bay and Delagoa bay are derived from the outward and homeward voyages of the old East Indianmen who, on their voyages to Goa, in India, were wont to call at Port Elizabeth on the outward voyage and at Lourenco Marques on the homeward voyage. Hence the names Algoa (to Goa) and Delagoa (from Goa).—Stray Stories.

He Saved the Bridge.

"At Harpers Ferry on one occasion the flood in the Potomac was so great that it threatened the destruction of the costly railroad bridge, which was seen to shake in its unsteadiness," said former Governor Thomas G. Jones. "When everybody present was looking each moment to see the bridge go down, President John W. Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad arrived upon the scene. Appreciating the necessity of instant action, he gave an abrupt order for a loaded train of freight cars standing on a side track to be run with the locomotive on to the bridge and kept there."

"But, Mr. Garrett, that is a train-load of silk," said the local superintendent.

"I don't care; run out the cars!" commanded the great master of railroads. "It would be easier to pay for the silk than to build a new bridge."

"The 'silk train' was run on to the bridge, and the structure was saved. The silk was being sent by rail across the continent from San Francisco, at which port it had been received from China and Japan. Garrett was a great man, one of the greatest of those who have aided in the material development of America. In emergencies he was very resourceful, as was demonstrated in perhaps a small way by the Harpers Ferry incident."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Two Widows and a Salted Mine.

A good story is told about how two prospectors had salted a mine in the Galena district in order to rob a couple of rich widows, which resulted in the aforesaid widows becoming much wealthier.

The prospectors had spent their last cent in digging a hole in the ground to the extent of 60 feet without striking anything but yellow clay. But one of them knew of two rich widows who were just spoiling to have their money sunk in a mine. Accordingly they spent two nights in salting their mine. They hadn't sufficient money to buy some paying dirt, but they stole this from a neighboring mine and hauled a lot of it over to dump into their mine. When several tons of this "paying dirt" had accumulated in the bottom of their mine, the widows were sent for, and while one was talking about the increasing value of the district the other was dumping out all kinds of lead and zinc ore before their astonished eyes.

The widows bought a half interest in that hole in the ground for $1,500. The next day there was no more ore in the shaft, and the fellows declared they would dig no longer. Then the widows bought the other half interest at a total cost of $2,000, and the men hiked out for Missouri, laughing in their sleeves. But the women, blindly believing that there must be more ore, continued with the digging and at a depth of ten additional feet struck the richest vein of the whole belt, realizing $75,000 in less than one year's time.—Kansas City Journal.

Mr. William Hawley Smith, in his "Walks and Talks," tells of a remark made by an Irish friend which might be applicable in many cases:

He used to be very fond of hearing the bishop preach and always went to service when that dignitary held forth. I met him on the street one Sunday when I knew the bishop was preaching and asked him why he wasn't in his pew, to which he replied:

"Troth, I don't go to hear the bishop any more."

"Why, what's the matter?" I said. "You haven't 'gone back' on a good man, have you?"

"No," he answered, "but it's the truth I'm tellin you, when you've heard the bishop a half dozen times all after that is variations!"

A Remarkable Prediction.

Manasseh Cutler of Massachusetts, in a circular in 1787 "booming" the settlement which the New Englanders were about to plant on the Ohio at the mouth of the Muskingum, declared that "the current down the Ohio and the Mississippi," for produce and merchandise of all sorts, would one day "be more crowded than any other streams on earth," which was a remarkable prediction, considering that it was made 20 years before Fulton's Clermont was launched in the Hudson, which was the first steamboat in the world ever put in successful operation.—Leslie's Weekly.

Bryan Will Win Says Senator Geo. Turner.

United States Senator Geo. Turner arrived in this city from Spokane yesterday morning to fill his engagement with the local fusion campaign committee to make the opening speech of the campaign here at Larson's theater on Friday evening. The senator has only recently returned from an extended tour through the east and is, therefore, well qualified to speak advisedly as to the political situation there.

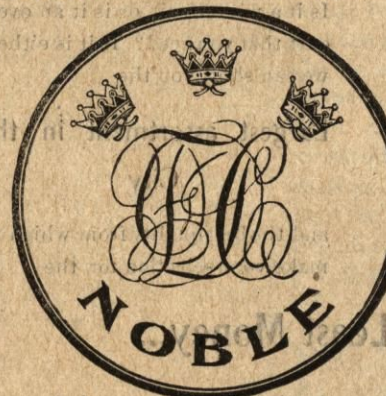

On being interviewed by THE DEMOCRAT, the senator stated that the way the situation presented itself to him there was no longer any question as to the final outcome, the election of Mr. Bryan.

To begin with, he said, the democrats had a tremendous advantage in the issues involved. On both the questions of imperialism and trusts they were appealing successfully to the conscience of the nation. Notwithstanding the frantic efforts of the republicans in endeavoring to stem the tide in the east by insisting on silver being the paramount issue, the great question that is agitating the people is imperialism and the republicans being on the defensive, were naturally getting the worst of the argument and hence meeting with heavy losses. In the agricultural sections and in certain great labor districts the trust question was being thoroughly exploited by the democrats, the effect of which was losing the republicans many votes.

The national managers now felt confident of their ability to carry New York, Indiana, Maryland, Kentucky, Delaware and West Virginia. Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan are regarded as debatable. A careful poll recently concluded showed that that city would give Bryan 57,000 plurality, with the losses sustained in other parts of the state, this ought to give Illinois to Bryan by a decisive majority.

"SECTION 2. That at the general election to be held in November, 1900, the amendment hereinbefore mentioned in section 1 shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State of Washington for their approval, and there shall be printed on each of the ballots provided for said election the words 'For proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation.' 'Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution in relation to taxation.'

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington, at Olympia, this twentieth day of July, Nineteen Hundred.

WILL D. JENKINS, Secretary of State for the State of Washington.

Each elector desiring to vote against the adoption of said proposed amendment should place upon his ballot an X opposite the words "Against the proposed amendment to section 2 of article 7 of the constitution, in relation to taxation."

WILL D. JENKINS, Secretary of State.

FRUITFUL SUNNYSIDE

A Land Truly Flowing With Milk and Honey.

Grand Showing in Crop Report of That Favored District as Compiled for "The Democrat" by W. N. Granger.

Through the courtesy of W. N. Granger, the well known manager of the Washington Irrigation company THE DEMOCRAT is enabled to present to its readers this week some interesting data concerning the development and splendid crops gathered this season in the fertile Sunnyside valley. Mr. Granger's report follows:

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:—I herewith submit to you a statement of crop report of the Sunnyside district for the seasons of 1899 and 1900, as promised. The statement shows the acreage in the different crops. You will please note the increase in cultivated area for 1900—over 2450 acres. The present indications are that the increase of 1901 will be double that of this year. I also desire to call the attention of your readers to the hay acreage, the total being 7273½ acres. It is becoming a well known fact, that the lands of the Sunnyside probably produce the largest tonnage yield of hay per acre of any in the United States. The average yield of alfalfa being 8 tons per acre, of timothy and clover 6 tons per acre.

The total hay production next season will approximate 50,000 tons and this season our country produced fully 35,000 tons. Alfalfa is now selling at $3.50 to $4 per ton in the stack, while timothy and clover are bringing from $5.50 to $6.50 per ton, and better prices are being obtained from that which is baled and shipped.

The production of the Sunnyside in hay, live stock, fruit, hops, root and other crops is obtaining such large proportions that a railroad through the country must of necessity, become an established fact in the near future.

New settlers are arriving on nearly every train and the prospect for land sales during the coming winter and spring was never so good as it is now."
