A FEAST OF REASON.

Congressional Candidate Geo. F. Cotterill Delivers a Splendid Address on State and National Issues.

Geo. F. Cotterill of Seattle, one of the three democratic candidates for Congress, made a splendid impression on Yakima people during his visit here last Tuesday. At the meeting at the armory that evening Mr. Cotterill spoke to about 400 people, the great majority of whom, it is safe to say, were highly pleased with his address. Mr. Cotterill is not perhaps a great orator, but is a smooth and easy talker and impresses one with his intense sincerity and his complete mastery of his subject.

The speaker was handicapped by a knowledge of the fact that his audience was uncomfortable, as the big drill room of the armory was as cold as a barn. He therefore wisely eliminated the latter portion of his address.

Mr. Cotterill was introduced by Judge Preble, who made a brief but rousing speech.

Mr. Cotterill as a prelude to his address paid a handsome compliment to Yakima and spoke of the great changes that had taken place since he had worked through this valley during the '80s, on the survey of the N. P. road, he being by profession a civil engineer.

Mr. Cotterill talked for about an hour and a quarter, during which time he discussed principally the trust, the irrigation and the railroad commission and railroad assessment issues, all of which, considering the time at his disposal, he elucidated to his audience very clearly.

He explained in a comprehensive way the workings of the trust system and showed the power for evil that these gigantic corporations have and wield over the people of the United States. He took as an example the great Morgan Steel trust and showed that the real value of the property of that concern at the time of its organization was but $400,000,000, after which stock was issued and sold to the amount of nearly $12,000,000,000 and has since been made to pay dividends to its stock holders on that amount. The dividends on this watered stock have been wrung out of the people mainly by arbitrarily increasing the price of the manufactured product.

This the trust managers have been enabled to do through the workings of the Dingley tariff, which levies exorbitant duties on foreign made steel and thus permits the trust barons to milk the public in their own sweet way. On the other hand the steel and other trusts invaded foreign markets with their surplus goods and were beginning to drive European manufacturers to the wall in their own country. This fact showed conclusively that the trust barons needed no protection at all and were using the leverage given them by the Dingley schedules to fleece their home customers.

As an illustration, Mr. Cotterill cited his own experience. While in Europe last summer he bought in Glasgow, a pair of American made shoes which he now had on his feet, for 40 per cent less money than he could buy the identically same make of shoes in Seattle. Mr. Cotterill warmly praised President Roosevelt for the position that he had taken on the trust question, although he doubted the efficacy of some of the remedies proposed by him. He also warmly commended such republicans as Gov. Cummins and Congressman Cousins of Iowa and Gov. LaFollett of Wisconsin for the stand that they had boldly taken in favor of tariff reduction in order to curb the growing power of the trusts. It was these men who drove Speaker Henderson out of public life.

Coming down to state matters, Mr. Cotterill touched at some length on the irrigation of our arid lands through national aid. He commended congress and the president for the passage of the irrigation law, but denied that the republican party was entitled to all the credit and showed that the bill was passed in its present form by democratic votes aided by a minority of republicans. The bill, however, is still incomplete, inasmuch as it contains no provision for the governmental building of reservoirs. He, Cotterill, insisted that the government should not only build these necessary ditches, but should construct the reservoir systems that are sadly needed to feed them.

The speaker next took up the question of state taxation and showed conclusively that the railroads were by no means paying their just share of taxes. He stated that the N. P. company's property was valued at $78,000 per mile and that if that corporation was to be assessed at the same rate that private citizens are assessed it would be paying taxes upon an assessed valuation of about $48,000 per mile, instead of which it in reality paid taxes in this state at the rate of but $6,600 per mile, with a very light assessment in addition upon its rolling stock. It was an absurd proposition and a rank injustice and the republican party of this state, the speaker charged, was responsible for this condition of affairs. To show the insincerity of the leaders of that party on this vital question, Mr. Cotterill cited the fact that the republican state platform, recently adopted at Tacoma, presumably as a vote catcher, contained a plank favoring a higher assessment of railway property. But the very next day after this platform was made, the republican state board of equalization in session at Olympia, reduced at the behest of the railway attorneys the assessed valuation of the railroad right-of-way from $7000 to $6600 per mile.

Mr. Cotterill warmly favored the proposal to establish an appointive railway commission. The democrats under the leadership of the lamented Gov. Rogers and Senator Turner, had first proposed and had consistently advocated the passage of such a bill. The present Governor McBride had stolen the democratic thunder, and was somewhat inconsistent on this proposition inasmuch as he in the last legislature was in favor of placing the appointing power in the hands of a board composed of republican state officers. He did not want

Gov. Rogers, a democrat, to have that power, but now the shoe was on the other foot, for McBride is now governor. The democratic party, however, was faithful in its allegiance to the commission idea and was willing to uphold the hands of Gov. McBride as long as he stood for a commission that would afford the people relief.

Mr. Cotterill's splendid speech was warmly applauded by his attentive audience and it was plain that his telling argument was appreciated. Mr. Cotterill left on the 9:50 train for Walla Walla, where he addressed a large audience Wednesday evening.

MR. ENGLEHART IN 1899.

An Authoritative Statement of That Gentleman's Views Before He Went to the Legislature—A Shameful Record of Broken Promises.

Through the courtesy of one of our republican subscribers, the DEMOCRAT is in possession of a copy of the Yakima Republic bearing the date of Jan. 6th, 1899. This issue of our contemporary was the first of that paper published by the present editor, W. W. Robertson and contains a good deal of matter that now makes very interesting reading.

In the paper referred to, there appears a lengthy interview with the Hon. Ira P. Englehart. That gentleman, the paper states, had left Yakima the Wednesday night previous for Olympia to begin his duties as a legislator. Such being the case, the Republic felt that an authoritative statement of Mr. Englehart's views on public questions would be of interest to the people of this country.

We therefore quote in part what the Republic of that date said in its published interview with Mr. Englehart, as follows:

"Mr. Englehart said to the Republic that he believes that the people of this part of the state are interested in railroad legislation more than anything else at present. He will, therefore, make a special effort to secure the passage of a bill to reduce freight and passenger rates. He has been in correspondence with the members of the Whitman county delegation and will aim to work with them in this matter. In his own mind he has decided that freight rates should be reduced 33 1/3 per cent and passenger rates to 3 cents per mile.

"Another law, the need of which Mr. Englehart believes is imperative, is one to protect farmers who deal with commission men.

"A number of provisions now on the statute books make the cost of state and county government greater than it should be. Mr. Englehart points out that notwithstanding the claims of economy made by the populists, their legislature passed no law of any kind to reduce salaries or the number of salaried persons, nor any laws designed to reduce the expenses of government. He hopes that the legislators will be prepared to take certain steps in this direction which he has in mind.

"He will favor redistricting the state so that the number of superior judges may be reduced; He thinks there should be an effective law to regulate state banks. He will also endeavor to secure the repeal of the populist law which gives the state printer the monopoly of making blanks used by the counties. This law, he says, not only works injustice to the country printers of the state, but has accomplished no good because many of the state printer's blank forms are worthless, not being properly prepared. Mr. Englehart is in favor of but one normal school appropriation.

"Mr. Englehart pays his fare when he travels from North Yakima to Olympia, just as if he were not a member of the legislature. He has not accepted a pass from any of the railroads, and he says that he will vote for a stringent anti-pass law."

"Hunting for Hawkins," Oct. 23.

Manager Fournier with the view of giving his patrons the best there is in the comedy line has secured "Hunting for Hawkins" for one night, Thursday, Oct. 23d. This ever popular comedy is stronger this season than on any previous one. Messrs. Goss and Hecker having secured the services of Mr. Herbert J. Corbett and Mr. John E. Cain to play the roles of Matthew Hawkins and Owen Touchem and have added to an already strong bill the exceptionally strong cast that comes to Larsons Theatre on the above date. In all, Hunting for Hawkins as presented this season will prove one of the very strongest comedy attractions that will visit Yakima for many months, many of the patrons of this popular playhouse regretted last season that this company were unable to appear here. Manager Fournier has secured them for this date is to our pleasure.

About the only trust that does not in some way conflict with the views of some sort or condition of man is the Laughing Trust. Nobody wants congress to interfere with the Laughing Trust.

Quite a large number of farmers in this county are desirous of having a law passed by the next legislature defining the status of irrigation corporations towards the people owning lands under present and future ditches. These people, as we understand them, do not desire the passage of any radical measure that would work a hardship to ditch owners or corporations that have water to sell, and thus discourage the enterprising men who are engaged in the highly laudable work of building new ditches in this arid section.

What is wanted, rather, is a measure so carefully drawn that justice will be accorded the land owner as well as the corporation that sells water. Our present state law covering this important question is not only defective, but obsolete, and not at all adapted to present conditions.

Since this is the most important matter in the way of new legislation that the farmers of Yakima are interested in, it is needless to state that it behooves the agricultural class in this county to have a care in the selection of legislators this fall. It depends, we think, entirely on whom is sent to Olympia whether any law shall be introduced and passed at all on this matter which so vitally affects the interests and welfare of all our people.

The democratic county platform, let it be remembered, declares explicitly in favor of the passage of such a law, and pledges the legislative candidates to use their best efforts, if elected, to put it through the legislature. On the other hand, the republican county platform is as silent as the grave on this burning question and its legislative candidates are pledged to nothing, and even if they were no one has any reason to believe that they would secure a law which would be satisfactory to anybody besides the ditch corporations.

Does any one suppose that Ira P. Englehart, who is the attorney for and the manager, respectively, of two of the largest irrigation corporations in this county, would be likely to secure the kind of law that the people want? If any one does think so it is simply because he doesn't know that shrewd and cunning gentleman, who, first of all, is a lawyer and looks out for the interests of his clients.

Does any one presume that the interests of the farmers in this important matter would be any better looked after by Captain Dunn or W. H. Hare? The first named, it is true, is a farmer by occupation, but he is so easy-going and conservative in his methods that nothing could be expected of him. As for Dr. Hare, nobody would accuse him of having any interest in the matter, as he is neither a farmer nor a land owner, nor a taxpayer of any kind. The Democrat, however, does not mean to insist that this latter point disqualifies the gentleman from service in the legislature.

The only hope, therefore, that remains for the people who earnestly desire a sensible and just ditch law is through the election of Messrs. Splawn, Marks and Hedger, the democratic candidates.

The Democrat is informed that Chairman Frank of the republican central committee has called off most of the advertised meetings throughout the county. There were plenty of speilers, it seems, to be had, but very few listeners.

The editor of the Republic, the organ of the ring, having discovered that the dissatisfied republicans refused to respond to the crack of the party lash, comes off his high horse and makes such a tearful plea for votes this week that would make even a Chinaman weep. Poor "Rob," poor Ira, poor "Doc."

HON. E. B. PREBLE, democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney, is a lawyer of unquestioned ability. If he should be elected to that office he will discharge the duties of it without any assistance and without putting the county to the expense of hiring extra counsel whenever it has a bad case to fight in court. The taxpayers will consult their own interests by electing Mr. Preble to the office.

It is understood that the voters of Wenat precinct will pretty generally support the candidacy of V. D. Ritter, the democratic candidate for commissioner in the first district. Since the republican candidate, Mr. F. J. Kandle also resides in that precinct it will be observed that there is some significance in the attitude taken by the people of that valley. Mr. Ritter, if elected, will doubtless make a most satisfactory commissioner.

DR. F. S. HEDGER, of Kiona, is a man who will creditably represent Yakima county in the next legislature. He is a gentleman well versed in public questions and understands the needs of the people of this section in legislative matters. While a sterling democrat, Dr. Hedger is in no sense a politician, and would never stoop to the level of "practical politics" to secure votes. During the twelve years of his residence in this county, he has made friends of all with whom he has come in contact. His neighbors, nearly all of whom are of the opposite political faith, like and respect him because they have found him to be every inch a man. And it might be added, in passing, that most of them are going to vote for him, too.

CONGRESSMAN WESLEY F. JONES, notwithstanding his four years' experience in congress, did not know until last week that the government levied a duty of 67 cents per ton on anthracite coal. In a speech at Seattle last Saturday night, Mr. Jones, in speaking of the anthracite coal trust, sought to score a big point by asserting that no duty was levied on anthracite coal. After the meeting adjourned, a reporter of the Times explained to the congressman that he was in error, and that the duty was 67 cents per ton. Mr. Jones, however, would not have it that way and still contended that no duty was levied upon anthracite coal.

Secretary of the Navy and former Congressman Moody of Massachusetts, in a speech delivered at Madison, Wis., on the same day of Mr. Jones' speech at Seattle, declared that the government does levy a duty of 67 cents per ton on anthracite coal, and that the duty was uncalculated for and should be removed at the next session of congress.

As the present duty on anthracite coal is 67 cents per ton, Mr. Moody evidently knows what he is talking about; while Mr. Jones, it seems, does not. It must be humiliating, indeed, for a congressman to have to be shown in matters of statecraft by a common newspaper reporter.

It seems that the managers of the Hon. Levi Ankeny even invade the sanctity of the pulpit in their anxiety to secure missionaries who are willing to labor in the political vineyards of their millionaire chief.

Rev. Andreas Bard, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Walla Walla, who, by the way, is well known in Yakima, is said to be a platform orator of eloquence and power. Unfortunately the church of which he is the spiritual head, according to a correspondent of the Spokesman Review, is seriously handicapped with debt. This circumstance it would seem gave the house of Levi the very opening that they were looking for. They therefore proposed to the reverend gentleman that if he would consent to remove his ministerial coat and go to work in the interest of Mr. Ankeny they, the managers, would see to it that the annoying debt should be liquidated.

The rector was willing to consider the proposition and laid the matter before his board of vestrymen.

To the credit of that body, it is said, the offer was indignantly refused and the rector informed that it was quite impossible for him to act in the dual capacity of a representative of the Lord and a political agent of Levi Ankeny at the same time.

It would seem, therefore, from this incident that though the pathway of Mr. Ankeny to the senate may be strewn with dollars it is not by any means strewn with roses.

CHAIRMAN FRANK of the republican central committee is making prodigious and unusual efforts to elect the party ticket in this county. The genial doctor's energy in the matter is, of course to be commended rather than condemned, especially when viewed from his own standpoint.

The chairman is sending out from this city into the various precincts of the county a very mixed lot of campaign speilers, who hold forth nightly at school houses and assume to instruct the people as to how they shall vote. The fact that a number of these local orators have privately intimated their intention of casting their votes for a number of candidates upon the democratic county ticket probably doesn't disqualify them from advising their political brethren in the country to "vote her straight."

Among the brightest lights in this grand galaxy of stars, gathered together by Chairman Frank, are two gentlemen formerly eminent in democratic party councils. We refer to W. W. Robertson and I. M. Krutz. These gentlemen, it is reported, are engaged in telling the dear people how wicked and incompetent the old democratic party is, to be sure. And who is there who will deny that they know of what they speak, for were they not once of it and for it?

We do not know what particular subjects Chairman Frank has assigned to these two gentlemen, but would modestly suggest the appropriateness of the following: For Col. Robertson—"Why I supported Grover Cleveland and free trade," or, that he distasteful, how would this do, "How I know that there is nothing in being a democrat." For Mr. Krutz we respectfully suggest—"Why I left the democratic party?"

In case the above subjects should be worn threadbare before the end of the campaign, this pair of distinguished ex-democrats might talk to the people on a subject upon which they would like more light, and that is on the conduct of the late republican primaries.

On this subject "Rob" might, if he would, talk entertainingly on "How Ira, 'Doc' and I worked the primaries." Krutz, as usual, of the losing side, might rehearse his sad, but oft-told tale of "How sad it is to get left."

A. F. SNELLING, democratic candidate for county auditor, is a man who is in every way well qualified to perform the difficult duties of that office. He is besides, a man of well known integrity. Mr. Snelling ought to be elected and doubtless will be if the voters take into consideration the fitness of things.

W. M. SCOTT, of Kiona, as will be seen in another column, desires some light as to the position of the democratic legislative nominees on the question of county division. Mr. Scott seems to assume that it is the duty of this paper to catechise the candidates on this subject and publish their views.

Under the circumstances, we do not feel that it is our duty to do any thing of the kind, and for that reason we have not done so. This question, while it may be a leading one with a good many citizens of this county, is not a political issue in the sense that parties have made it so, for neither the democratic or republican conventions, in the platforms adopted, took any cognizance of the matter.

So far as the DEMOCRAT is aware, the three democratic legislative candidates are absolutely unpledged in the matter of the creation of a new county. In case they were pledged, either way, this paper would regard their chances of election as very remote, to say the least. The republican candidates also, insofar as we know, have made no public declaration touching this question, although it is understood in this city that private pledges on the subject was one of the conditions of their nomination.

The DEMOCRAT, speaking for itself, feels that the "east-enders" have a number of just grievances against the present administration of county affairs, as well as against the republican ring of this city, for the shabby and contemptuous manner it has treated them for years. It does not blame the people down there, under the circumstances, for wanting to set up a county government of their own, although we would prefer to see the county united rather than divided, providing that continued unity could be secured, without constant discord. And we believe, too, that this is the view taken by the majority of unprejudiced taxpayers in the west end of the county. The only contrary view that we have heard expressed by those who look at the matter purely from a selfish, personal standpoint.

The democratic party, let it be understood, is in no wise responsible for the unhappy frame of mind which Mr. Scott and the east end people generally, find themselves in. The late republican convention, under the domination of the North Yakima ring, spurned them and refused them any recognition whatever. The democratic convention, on the other hand, treated the delegates from that section not only with justice but with generosity, offering them more representation upon the ticket than they asked for.

The election will soon be here and it is up to the people of the east end as to what they are going to do about it. If they continue to send up here the usual republican majorities the ring ticket of that party will probably be elected hands down. In such case, the people of that section can sit down and whistle for at least two years more. If on the other hand, that ticket be beaten at the polls the political ring masters of this city will, we believe, make a virtue of necessity and drop their east end brethren as they would a hot potato. It makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored.

Brother Scott may not find this sort of an answer to his questions altogether satisfactory; still we think that he and his neighbors will find herein some food for reflection. We admit that it is always easier to give advice than to take it. The sort of dose that we prescribe may be, as Mr. Scott says, a rather bitter one, for our republican friends of the east end, but if they be philosophically inclined they can console themselves with the thought that in this world men are often compelled to accept what they may regard as evil in order that good may come of it.

GEO. F. COTTERILL, who spoke in this city Tuesday evening, we believe, has in him the making of a statesman of a high order. He is sincere, conscientious and able, three qualifications that ought to appeal to the people. In his discussion of public questions, in which, he, being a student, has accumulated a vast store of useful knowledge, he shows the skill of a master. If elected to congress, as he ought to be and perhaps will be, he would be an extremely useful representative for this state. Unlike his three republican opponents, he is not a lawyer, but is a civil engineer who has worked his way up from an humble beginning to the very head of his profession. His knowledge of irrigation engineering, of which he made a special study, is very extensive which makes him a particularly valuable man for central Washington at this time as the general government is likely soon to embark in the business of irrigation in this section on a very large scale.

Vote for honest Geo. F. Cotterill for congress and you will never live to regret it.

There is a good deal of uncertainty this year regarding the probable result of the congressional elections throughout the country. There are many straws however, floating about on the political wind that point to the conclusion that the democratic party, wherever it wishes it or not, will secure a majority this year in the national house of representatives.

The coal strike in Pennsylvania, seemingly, has become a national question. It is a great object lesson to the people of this country of the evils of the trust system and has opened the eyes of the American people to the selfish, grinding policy of the trust barons as nothing else could. As the republican party is recognized by the people as the champion of and apologist for the trusts the people feel disposed to hold that party responsible for the evil worked by the trusts. There is poetic justice in this, since that party has never failed to give itself credit for all the good things that have happened.

The latest political news from Chicago, New York and other great centers is that the democrats are generally going to win this year and that it need not be surprising if a landslide occurs. All over the east and central west the independent element of the republican party shows its dissatisfaction over the present policy of that party and the disposition to administer a severe rebuke to the party's selfish leadership.

Since it is becoming evident that the democrats will control the next congress why would it not be the part of wisdom for this state to get in line and elect three men who will be in harmony with the majority of the next congress? Would not Cotterill, Cole and Holcomb be able to accomplish more for this state than would Cushman, Jones and Humphrey, who, if elected, would be lined up with the powerless minority? The republican leaders cannot consistently object to this argument, at any rate, since it is one that has so often been employed by them.

It would be interesting to know on what grounds Mr. Abram Lincoln Dilley asks for support in his present race for the office of sheriff. It is true, he is the regular republican nominee, but what can that signify in the case of Dilley? Was not Tucker the party nominee for the same office in '96, '98, and again in 1900? And is it not true that Dilley publicly knifed Tucker in all those campaigns? On what grounds, then, we repeat, can Dilley at this time consistently ask for the support of his fellow-republicans.

Who would keep their children in good health should watch for the first symptoms of worms and remove them with White's Cream Vermifuge. It is the children's best tonic. It gets digestion at work so that their food does them good, and they grow up healthy and strong. 25c at Fred L. Janek's.

CHINA MARKET OVERRATED.

A. B. Ross Talks Entertainingly of the "Flowery Kingdom" and the Chance to Sell American Goods There.

A. B. Ross, who as announced in last week's Democrat is here from Shanghai, China, accompanied by Mrs. Ross and their four year old son, sees many changes for the better, he says, in the general appearance of this city and the surrounding country.

Mr. Ross left Yakima about five years ago for Shanghai, having resided in the great Chinese seaport continuously since. He is the general manager there of a large English corporation engaged on the loan and building business. He states that life in the foreign quarter of Shanghai is as a rule delightful, as the foreign city is made up in the main of a desirable class of people, the English predominating. The foreign quarter of Shanghai includes a population of about 16,000. The new or commercial city of Shanghai contains, he says, about 300,000 people of mixed races, mainly Chinese. Outside of this yet, is the ancient city of Shanghai, containing a population of perhaps a million people, practically all of whom are Chinese.

Regarding the outlook there for a market for American goods, Mr. Ross is rather pessimistic in his view as compared with the average republican view paper and political speaker who talk unceasingly and without knowledge of the possibilities of finding a vast field there for American goods. The Chinese, he states, are not only extremely conservative about using foreign made goods, but the great mass of them are so impoverished that they lack the means with which to pay for them.

The Chinese are the greatest imitators in the world, said Mr. Ross, and have a natural instinct for reproducing things they see. They are natural mechanics and when that wonderful country becomes more modernized and becomes a great manufacturing nation, as it eventually will, this instinct or natural ability will count for much in the race for supremacy among the nations.

Speaking of a market there for Yakima products Mr. Ross said that there was no extensive demand as yet, although it was possible that there would be later on.

A few thousand boxes of good apples can be sold each year but outside of apples there is not much demand for our stuff. What goods in this line are sold are bought principally by the foreign residents in China.

Mr. Ross expects to leave in a few days for New York to look after some business matters and enroute there will stop off at his old home in Kentucky to visit his aged father and other relatives. He will not return to China until perhaps in January.

A False Report.

The fact of Mr. Geo. H. Stone, of Stone, Fisher & Lane, having been retained by the Henry H. Schott Co. in an advisory capacity to aid in the liquidation sale now taking place, has given rise to the rumor that the former firm has bought the capital stock of Mr. E. B. Moore and will succeed the Henry H. Schott Co. in business retaining Mr. Schott and Mr. McArthur.

The above is not the case.

Mr. Stone is here solely and wholly upon a cash consideration to direct the closing-out sale of Henry H. Schott Co. which is bone-dry in every particular, and has not purchased one cent of the stock of any stockholder of Henry H. Schott Co. Henry H. Schott Co. are to close out business entire and who will succeed them is unknown. Stone, Fisher & Lane, after the stock of above firm is closed, may decide to enter the Yakima field but as yet have taken no legal steps in that direction.

The Neill Co. Coming.

The coming engagement in this city beginning next Tuesday evening of the celebrated Neill Company has caused anticipation among the best class of theatre goers to rise to a high point. The Neill company is universally conceded to be the best high class repertory theatrical organization in this country. It is the pioneer of all organizations of this class. As a corporation its investments in elaborate scenic equipment, costumes and magnificently especially designed properties represents a larger sum of money than that of any other traveling dramatic organization. Each play given by the Neill company is presented with a richness, elaborateness and thoroughness that stamps its productions with an absolute superiority. To carry the equipment used by this company it requires special cars. Mr. James Neill heads this organization. The play selected for presentation at Larsons theatre on the occasion of this visit is "Under the Red Robe" the heaviest production in Mr. Neill's repertoire. Mr. Farnier is to be kept busy on that day in making ample provision for a gala night.

PROF. BARGE RETURNS.

Reports a Great Industry in Prospects for China and Yakima.

Hon. B. F. Barge returned home Tuesday morning from his hasty trip to attend the National Irrigation congress recently in session at Colorado Springs. Prof. Barge left Yakima the evening of Oct. 3, arriving at his destination the following Monday in time for the initial meeting of the congress. He had credentials from the Yakima Commercial club, the important part of his mission being to invite the congress to meet next October at North Yakima. The congress, however, decided to hold its next meeting at Ogden, Utah, where a large sum had been pledged by citizens to defray the expense of the session.

Prof. Barge, notwithstanding his failure, after hard effort, to secure the next congress for his home town, feels that he has been well repaid for having made the trip. The convention, he says, was attended by over 400 delegates, all of whom are representative men from different parts of the country and all of them intensely interested in the subject of irrigation. The sessions, therefore, were full of interest.

While there, Prof. Barge met several representatives of the great Oxnard beet sugar syndicate and was surprised to find out how much those gentlemen knew about the Yakima county and its adaptability to the industry of growing sugar beets. They already had in their possession all the data obtainable and knew the exact results of all the experiments that have been made in this section.

These gentlemen told Prof. Barge that the Oxnard people had had the matter of the establishment of a branch factory in the Yakima valley under serious consideration for some time, as they felt that the beet crop could be cultivated successfully and profitably here. They would, they said, ask the owners of several thousand acres of land should enter into three year contracts to grow the beets.

Prof. Barge is quite enthusiastic about the possibility of securing such a factory for this city and feels that such an industry would be of incalculable benefit to this whole section. He has made arrangements to receive regular bulletins from the Oxnard factory at Greeley, Cal., in reference to the growing of beets, believing that, Yakima people need education along that line.

Washington Irrigation Association.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Oct. 9th, 1902.

EDITOR DEMOCRAT:

Dear Sir:—At a meeting held at North Yakima, October 2, the Washington Association of the State of Washington was organized. The object of this association is to encourage the reclamation of the arid lands of this state and the building of reservoirs to conserve the water supply of the United States Government. The recent enactment of an irrigation law by congress has made it possible to secure the aid of the government in this work. Every dollar of government money invested here will inure to the benefit, directly or indirectly, of every citizen of the state. In order that the work may be promptly undertaken and successfully completed it is necessary that a general desire of public for its undertaking shall be so plainly expressed that the congressmen and senators who represent us at Washington will use every effort to have the Secretary of the Interior, who under this law decides what work shall be done, promptly undertake such work as seems most likely to prove of greatest benefit to the state. Earnest co-operation of every citizen who has the best interest of the state at heart is necessary to achieve this.

One dollar sent to the secretary at North Yakima makes you an active member of this association. A copy of the constitution enclosed will explain its purpose. Every member will by his influence induce one friend to also become a member so that we shall soon accomplish what we desire. Please notice that under the constitution no officer can receive compensation. Yours truly,

MARSHALL S. SCHUBERT, Secretary.

It Goes Right to the Spot.

When pain or irritation exists on any part of the body, the application of Ballard's Snow Liniment will give prompt relief. "It goes right to the spot," said an old man who was rubbing it in to cure his rheumatism. G. R. Smith, proprietor Smith House, Tenaha, Texas, writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for several years and have found it to be a fine remedy for all aches and pains and I recommend it for all pains in the throat and chest."

The Voter's Chance.

Senator Turner is a prominent constitutional lawyer and a statesman of universally recognized greatness. By virtue of his power and dignity he commands the deepest respect of his fellow members in the senate, and consequently wields a potent influence in that body. He has done much for the state of Washington. If he is returned his increasing influence will enable him to do much more.

Aside from partisan considerations, we want men in the senate who can do the most for us at home. This is a young commonwealth and is, as such, vitally concerned in securing its just share of federal appropriations. The man of greatest influence there is the one who can render his state the greatest service. Can we, as an enterprising people, vastly interested in the development of our manifold resources, afford to sacrifice our welfare for partisan reasons?

Senator Turner is an honor to our state; his intellectual prowess is the pride of all our citizens, irrespective of party. He is one of the nation's foremost statesmen, though from next to the youngest state. If he is not returned, who will his successor be? Consider any one of the probabilities that may come to your mind and compare him in regard to fitness, greatness and possible influence with Senator George Turner, and then consider and determine as a patriotic citizen, in what direction duty lies.

This year, if you wish, you have a chance to vote for your favorite United States senator by voting for members of the legislature who are united and pledged to vote for Hon. George Turner. —Sumner Herald, (Ind.), published under the name of the Washington Democrat.

The Local Round-Up.

A meeting of the G. A. R. is called for Saturday, Oct. 25 at the new hall in the I. O. O. F. temple. All members are urged to be present.

Marriage licenses were issued on the 15, to J. N. Brownfield and Miss Anna B. Craig and to Edgar Harrison Washburne and Miss Myrtle Susie Bainter.

The Degree of Honor will give a social this evening at the residence of Mrs. H. E. Bradley, 702 N. Fourth street, for the benefit of Perry Dunning, an invalid.

Dr. Stephenson, the well known dentist, has recently placed in his office the very latest thing in the way of a dentist chair. It is a very decided improvement over the old style chairs.

The splendid rain of Wednesday night after the long dry spell in this valley settled the dust in good shape and presumably pleased everybody. It wet the ground to a depth of several inches and will thus enable the farmers to do their fall plowing.

Judge Rudkin has granted a divorce to Emory Easton from Pearl Easton and to Ella D. Collett from Presley S. Collett. Both were on statutory grounds. The original complaint, however, in the latter case was rather sensational as to the charges made.

The suit of Bernard Wilkinson vs. B. H. Allen, a former resident of Nob Hill, was settled last week out of court, by the defendant's paying the claim as alleged. The suit was brought to compel Mr. Allen to pay the commission agreed upon for the sale of his property last fall.

The regular annual road election, was held in the different road districts of the county last Saturday. The Democrat has been informed that in the Cowiche there was more excitement over the issue as to who should be supervisor, than is usually shown at presidential elections.

Mary Dumas, a 15-year-old girl who has been making her home with a French family in the Selah, was picked up by the police officers Friday night, while in very hard company. Justice Taggard the next day committed the wayward girl to the Home of the Good Shepherd at Seattle.

Officer Yeates on Monday arrested four members of the Italian band for riding bicycles on the sidewalks. He took the men before Judge Nichols, who fined them $5 each, which they paid very unwillingly. The musicians were all very much excited about the matter and for a time the Dago cusswords flew thick and fast.

Mrs. Sarah M. White, wife of C. A. White, the Nob Hill dairyman, died last Saturday as the result of a complication of diseases. A married daughter who was on the way here to visit her mother arrived a day too late to see her alive. Mr. White and his daughter left with the remains Tuesday night for the old home at Worcester, Mass.

The city registration books closed at midnight Tuesday with the names of 1006 voters on the list, as against 802 two years ago. This would indicate a very healthy increase in the population without taking into consideration the fact that owing to the general apathy in political matters this year nothing like a full vote has been registered, while in 1900 the interest was very keen.

Landlord Miles recently received from a friend in Skagway an excellent photograph, interior view, of the wrecked Canadian Bank of Commerce of that city. It will be remembered by the general newspaper reader that an insane man about a month ago entered the bank and exploded the bomb on the refusal of the officers to deliver over the money on hand. Fortunately, no one was killed, save the poor deluded fool himself.

Fred Brooker returned from the Fair at Spokane Tuesday with his valuable trotter, "Chester Abbott." The little horse won one out of his two races at Spokane on the half mile track there, in 2:15 1/2. The Spokane meeting closed the season for Mr. Brooker, as he did not think it worth while to go to Boise on account of the expense involved. He therefore concluded to forfeit the entrance money that he had posted for a race there.

Garrett Bros., the brick-making firm of this city, have concluded to establish a branch yard early next spring in the neighboring city of Goldendale, Frank Garrett, who was in Goldendale last week, having made arrangements to that end. Mr. Garrett informs the Democrat that he regards Goldendale, with the prospects which that town now has for railroad connections, as a most promising business point. There will probably be a number of substantial business houses constructed there next year.

Sheriff Tucker returned from Portland Thursday night with Fred Bickle and Geo. Hart, two of the three men accused of stealing horses from Henry Oldenstadt, who lives near Prosser, about a month ago. Earl Hansen the third man wanted is still in jail at Hillsboro, Or. the district judge at that place having ordered the sheriff not to surrender Hansen, even on the requisition of Gov. Geer, until the prisoner had answered a criminal charge pending against him there. Sheriff Tucker thinks that the charge against Hansen was trumped up by his friends to keep Hansen out of this state.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by one constitutional remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Geo. Bosdet returned from Spokane Wednesday morning, where he had been in attendance at the fair.

Mrs. E. K. Lombard and daughter, Miss Lombard, left Tuesday to visit relatives at San Francisco.

Little Miss Cecile Walker of Selah avenue returned home Monday from a visit of several weeks with friends at Spokane.

Guy C. Wallace has gone to Fairhaven. It is understood that he contemplates opening a hardware store in that city.

W. M. Scott, of Kiona, was a county-seat visitor, Tuesday. The Democrat acknowledges a pleasant call from the gentleman.

Mrs. Geo. Faltermeyer of Faribault, Minn., arrived Tuesday on a visit to her sisters, Mrs. Frank Nagler and Miss Katie Ward.

J. M. Arrington, a former resident of this county, but now of Seattle, is in Yakima this week engaged in selling life insurance.

Mrs. E. G. Tennant, of the Hotel Bartholet, returned Sunday from a pleasant visit of six weeks with relatives and friends at Seattle.

J. D. Lowman of the well known stationery firm of Lowman & Hanford, Seattle, is here with his family as guests at the Yakima. The climate here is found to be very beneficial to Mrs. Lowman's health.

Charles and Will Carpenter of the Ahtanum and Will McPhee of the Natuecz, left Monday by wagon for Chelan and Okanogan counties to look over the country for the purpose of endeavoring to secure cattle range there next season.

J. M. Cline of San Francisco was in Yakima this week on a visit to his brother A. B. Cline of the First National bank. Mr. Cline is a mineralogist who is connected with the State Mining bureau of California. He left here Wednesday.

Prof. and Mrs. C. F. Heimbach returned Monday from their bridal trip to the Sound cities. The charming bride was formerly Miss Minnie Estes, who for two years was a compositor on this paper. The Democrat extends its best wishes to the happy couple.

H. H. Allen reports that his son Guy, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is now much improved with a good chance for an early recovery. Mr. Allen's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Starrow arrived here during the week from their home at Los Angeles.

W. J. Menage, a leading flour manufacturer of Peoria, Ill., who has been looking over the Yakima country for the past few days, has returned home with the intention of closing up his business affairs and moving here permanently. In case he returns he contemplates erecting a new flour mill in this city.

The Yakima Canning Company closed down its plant Monday for the season. The firm has on hand as the result of the short season's run about 3000 cases of fruit and vegetables, principally the former. The expectations of the company is to largely increase the facilities of the plant before entering upon the next season.

Col. Fred Miller of Spokane, accompanied by his lovely bride, arrived in North Yakima Thursday morning. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Snively, who gave a delightful reception in their honor Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Miller left here Friday morning to continue their bridal tour to San Francisco, thence to Iowa, on a visit to Col. Miller's parents. They will return to Spokane about Nov. 15th.

James Stuart, the well known pioneer of the Moxee, left here again Tuesday for San Diego, Cal., to resume his duties as foreman of construction on the great international canal being built from southern California over the boundary line into old Mexico. Mr. Stuart has leased his Moxee ranch to his son-in-law, Miles Barrager, and when he returns from the southern country next spring will build a residence in this city and move his family into town.

SCOTT WANTS TO KNOW

Where the Legislative Candidates Stand on the Question of a New County.

The DEMOCRAT has received for publication the two letters that appear below, written by W. M. Scott of Kiona, who by the way, has a very pungent and clear cut style. As our readers will perceive, the first is a copy of a letter written to the Republic for publication the original of which was evidently consigned to the waste basket by the editor of that paper as it has not appeared in print. The second letter as will be seen is addressed to the editor of this paper which we cheerfully publish. The letter to the Republic begins with a quotation from Mr. Scott's letter to the Washingtonian.

Editor Republic:
Its (the Republic's) efforts to ascertain the position of the democratic nominees is very laudable, but why discriminate?

Mr. Croft tried to draw from the Republic some of its store of knowledge on the question, and got artistically and sarcastically roasted for his pains. It's a way the Republic has of making and holding republican votes.—Scott, in Washingtonian.

Dear Scott:—You are about the last man in the county who I thought would write this way about me.—Robertson to Scott, by letter.

Mr. W. M. Scott of Kiona, is another gentleman living in the proposed new county who doesn't want to know whether the democratic legislative nominees would vote for or against a bill to divide the county if they were elected. Why don't you want to know, Mr. Scott? Do you already know? If you do, why don't you want the people of the county to know?—Republic.

After the above misrepresentation, evidently made intentionally, can you claim to be surprised that I do not yet see wherein I made any mistake?

Candidly, answering your questions, "Why don't you want to know?" I do, emphatically.

"Do you already know?" Not in the least.

"Why don't you want the people of the county to know?" Most emphatically I do.

Now, will you be equally candid, and answer for the republican candidates the same questions you addressed to the democratic nominees?

If it is good for the people to know where the democratic candidates stand, which everybody concedes, it is equally desirable to know the same regarding the republican nominees. You stated that this position is well known—presumably to you. So, fire away and let the rest of us know.

W. M. SCOTT.

KIONA, Wash., Oct. 14, 1902.

Editor DEMOCRAT:

In your issue of week before last you objected to the Republic's effort to catch the democratic candidates, which is very natural; but I have looked in vain in your columns for any light as to where they stand on the question. It is conceded, I suppose, that the people have a right to know, and the proper place to look for the information is in their own party paper. Therefore, will you kindly do the catechizing yourself, and publish the result; also please include in your catechism class the republican nominees, whose own party papers do not seem disposed to give the people the desired information. It is conceded that you have not gotten yourself into such an awkward predicament as Col. Robertson, for you have not been clamoring so loudly for the position of the republican nominees as he has for that of the democratic, and so may not be so deeply under obligations to divulge the position of your candidates. Yet, we think it is a duty you owe to the people to do so.

Another point: You are saying a good deal about the issue being the return of Turner to the senate, and that it is Ankeny vs. Turner. You of course know that you are putting it altogether too strong. There is a local issue within the ranks of the republican party, which is to clean out the ring rule and make it again a party of the people. Some republicans will doubtless vote for a part of the democratic ticket for this purpose, and this alone will elect the democrats if they are elected at all. Those holding the balance of power and whose votes will make their election possible are as hostile to Turner as Wanamaker is to Quay. Yet some of them may take the risk of Turner, which is not very great, in order to rebuke bossism in their own party.
