Yakima, Washington

Dear Mr. Relander:

I note in "Foreshadow" that you are researching on army men stationed in military posts in the Yakima, Colville and Walla Walla are during the period 1854-1863. I am especially interested in this work myself as Historian of the Washington National Guard.

I am enclosing a booklet recently published here at Camp Murray which you might find of interest. I have been covering the early territorial militia in an effort to project our lineages of our Militia and National Guard back to the Indian and Civil Wars.

You may not know about it yet. However, I acquired for the Military Department about a year ago all the Indian War and Civil War documents generated in the Territorial Governor's offices during the period covered by your research. I have just completed the cataloguing of some 2,000 letters and documents covering these two wars. A considerable amount of it was between the Territorial Governors and the Military ~~Commanders~~ Commanders stationed here at the time. I have also been in touch with the National Archives regarding the Washington Regiment stationed in Washington Territory during the Civil War. I expect sometime in the near future to secure some 25 rolls of microfilm on this Regiment. Also have much, if not all, of the official correspondence of the Army Commanders here in Washington during the Civil War.

Our agreement with the State Library in securing this material was that it would be made available to individuals interested in the Military History of Washington.

You will note the pictures of a few regular commanders in the pamphlet. I have several more, including Gen Wool, Colonel Wright, Colonel Casey, Colonel Steinberger and others, if you have not already found them.

Hoping I might have material which you need, which you are welcome too, I am,

Very truly yours,

INTRODUCTORY BY THE AUTHOR

In attempting to write a complete and comprehensive history of the Washington Territorial Militia and the Washington National Guard, I was faced with the same task as many of our military historians of the past and that is the fact that little or no attempt was made to record what was considered of little importance by the early day military man. This is best illustrated by an Army Inspector General's report which was appended to a report of the Secretary of War to President Ulysses S. Grant for the years 1875-76, which follows:

"It is a singular fact that, aside from the few official items contained in the archives of the War Department, the only information we have of the early history of our military posts is derived from personal reminiscences or vague tradition.

An officer assigned to command a military post finds on his arrival no record showing when, why, or by whom it was established, who have been its commanders, or any other reliable facts in its history. This serious omission ought, in my judgment, to be corrected at once, by requiring a historical-record book to be kept at every military post, under the exclusive charge of its commander, whose duty it should be to enter therein every event of importance occurring within the scope of his command; this book to be turned over by each post commander to his successor, and not to be removed from the post unless it is abandoned, and then to be forwarded to the Adjutant General for file in the War Department. Such a book properly kept, would afford easily accessible and reliable information regarding the special services of troops and their results. It would also exhibit a catalogue of errors, if any had been committed, which might serve to prevent their recurrence; these with numerous other items of record, would be important for subsequent reference.

The military significance and value of such a record will be apparent to every experienced officer, and it would not be devoid of interest to those civilians who appreciate the importance of the rapid settlement and development of the resources of the West. A faithful delineation of the stirring events at those frontier posts whose garrisons have furnished the vanguards which confronted and drove back the hordes of hostile savages that opposed the advance of the tidal wave of emigration, enabling it to sweep across the continent with a momentum as irresistible as that of the Gulf Stream, must in the future possess great historic import. Who, for example, would not read with intense interest a properly authenticated narrative of the scenes that transpired in the early history of old Fort Dearborn, which once occupied the ground where the great city of Chicago now stands? And many would be equally interested in an accurate history of Forts Mackinac, Howard, Crawford, Snelling, and other posts that have figured conspicuously in the early settlement of the West. But up to this time no such record has been kept."

As can be seen by the foregoing, in attempting to find documents, letters, etc., on our early Militia, I found that Territorial officials, too, apparently made little effort to record matters which they felt unimportant and which today, if the complete story is to be told, become all important. Thus, instead of going to one place where it was believed such information should exist, it has been necessary to screen vast amounts of early day newspapers, scan city and county records and read volume after volume of other material and books which might shed a light on what transpired in the Militia during the Territorial period.

Where possible, the story of the Territorial Militia of Washington and the Washington National Guard will be told by official documents with a minimum of narrative. In this manner it will serve not only as the official history of the Washington National Guard but as a source document for the historian and student.

Tentative titles of Volumes to follow are:

VOLUME 2:

WASHINGTON TERRITORIAL MILITIA IN THE INDIAN WARS OF 1855-56

VOLUME 3

WASHINGTON TERRITORIAL MILITIA IN THE CIVIL WAR

VOLUME 4

WASHINGTON NATIONAL GUARD IN THE PHILIPPINE INSURRECTION

VOLUME 5

WASHINGTON NATIONAL GUARD IN WORLD WAR I

VOLUME 6

WASHINGTON NATIONAL GUARD IN WORLD WAR II

VOLUME 7

WASHINGTON NATIONAL GUARD IN POST WORLD WAR II

In order to tell the complete history of the Washington National Guard, these Volumes will also cover the periods following and preceding these epochal wars.

TO: Members of Governor's Council
For the Observance of the Civil War Centennial

Dear fellow member:

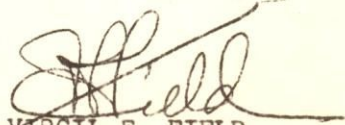

Pursuant to agreement reached at our first meeting on Monday, May 8th, 1961, enclosed is a copy of significant dates during the Civil War period in Washington Territory. Also a list of important battles of the Civil War.

For those members not attending the meeting I am also enclosing two other publications of this Department, an index to some letters and documents dealing with the Indian and Civil wars in Washington and a pamphlet entitled "The Camp Murray Story". The latter is for your perusal in the event it is decided to get out a similar one in observance of the Civil War Period in Washington Territory. The art work and typing, etc, was prepared entirely by the undersigned and was printed by the State Printer at a cost of approximately 35¢ per copy. In this connection almost all of the regular army officers' and some of the civic leaders' pictures are available here at Camp Murray for use in the event that such a publication is decided upon.

As I mentioned at the first meeting, I have stenciled some 75 pages of history on the Civil War period in Washington Territory (which is Volume III of our official history). The paper has now arrived and time permitting I hope to have a copy in the mail to you not later than the 1st of July. This is not a narrative history but a compilation of official documents dealing with the Washington Territorial Militia and the regular army during the period 1857 to 1865. Those dealing with the Washington Territorial Militia are from the Territorial Governor's files. Those on the regular army are from Volume L, Parts I and II of "The War of the Rebellion" and annual reports of the Secretary of War.

Trusting the information enclosed will be of some assistance in our forthcoming projects, I am,

Very truly yours,

For the Observance of the Civil War Centennial

Dear Fellow Member:

As per my memo of 12 May 1961 enclosed herewith is an advance copy of Volume 3 of our official history covering the Civil War period.

One project which I have been working on, but with little success, is the restoration of the flag mentioned on page 236 of the pamphlet. Also I have had under consideration some kind of a project to raise funds to have replicas of these colors made by one of the Flag Companies in the East and have them presented to the Washington National Guard for use in ceremonies. Another project which we have asked the Department of the Army to consider is the reconsideration of a decision not to recognize the regiments of the Indian Wars and the Civil War as being the predecessor units of the Washington National Guard. It is still under consideration together with a request that our 161st Infantry regiment be entitled to the honors of both the Indian Wars and the Civil War. Our reasoning here is that our early citizens, organized under Territorial Militia Laws, fought side by side with the regular units in 1855-56, and should be entitled to the same honors as was bestowed on the units of the 4th and 9th U.S. Infantry regiments. By the same reasoning, the 9th Infantry carries the honors for Civil War service, although they were stationed in the Pacific Department. Therefore, it is logical that our First Washington Territory Infantry was entitled also. I would certainly like to see a ceremony at Fort Walla^{Walla} on the 20th of August 1963 (date Colonel Steinberger presented the colors to the Regiment) (See bottom of page 223), in which replicas of the colors of the First Washington Infantry (Territory) could be presented to our present day Washington National Guard.

Another project which might be undertaken would be a State-wide salute at Noon on the 25th of February 1965 as a grand finale to our observance (see bottom of page 232).

Another project worthy of consideration would be a ceremony at Cape Disappointment (Fort Canby) on the 100th anniversary of its founding. (Sorry so far have been able to find exact date although it is believed to have been sometime in April of 1864.

Trusting you will find the enclosed pamphlet of some value in our project, I am,

Very truly yours,

Dear Fellow Members of the Civil War Centennial Council:

Enclosed is a copy of Volume 4 of our history to go along with the volumes previously furnished. While this volume covers the period following the Civil War, you will find a great deal of information about leading officers who served in the Civil War and subsequently in the Northwest.

Trusting you will find the volume of interest both as a member of the Council and as a historian, I am,

Herewith is a copy of a speech made by the undersigned on the Civil War Period here in Washington. It was presented on the Clover Park School District closed television circuit, and according to the officials of the School faculty was well received by the students. Presented as it was, reading most of it, it took the full thirty minutes allotted.

At the suggestion of our Chairman, Bruce Leroy, it is forwarded to you for possible use in your locality, if called upon for such a speech. As you can readily see, it is taken in its entirety from Volume 3 of our history, a copy of which has been previously furnished.

Trusting you will find it of some use, I am,

Very truly yours,

PS: Also inclosed is a copy of a Map which should have been inserted in the front of Volume 2 (Indian Wars of 1855-56), previously forwarded to you in advance of the assembly of the rest of the copies.

CENTENNIAL IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

Herewith Volume No. 5 of our Official History and probably the last one by the undersigned. I have been hospitalized in Madigan General Hospital for "Angina Pectoris" and am still in an out-patient status. In the meantime I am only permitted to work 5-1/2 days a week. I will know about the last of the month whether I will continue or not. However, I feel that I have accomplished the hardest part of our history and see no reason why my successor cannot finish the remaining volumes on World War II and Korea.

Although the period covered by this volume was some 40 to 60 years after the Civil War, it is interesting to note that many of the names of "heroes" of the Civil War found their way into our early history. Many of our forts, gun positions, etc., were named for these veterans.

I am also sending along copies of Maps to be added to the volumes previously furnished. They go with Volumes 2, 3 and 4.

Trusting you will find the 5th Volume of interest and looking forward to seeing you at the next meeting, I am,

Very truly yours,

1. Received your welcome letter of December 13th and I am sorry I did not include you initially in the small distribution of the document Bruce mentioned. I only made up about 20 copies and have only two left. However, I do have the Ozalid masters in case I need more.

2. You will note that there is very little mention of Haller other than reference to his unit being moved to San Juan. However, I believe he is mentioned more in the earlier Reports of The Secretary of War, especially the Reports of 1855 and 1856. These documents as far as I can determine are found only in the State Library. The documents are listed under the Secretary of State and The Secretary of War. Also under the Department of Columbia. However, there may be a great deal more on Haller during the 1855-56 reports. The next time I am in Olympia I will bring these volumes back and if I find anything on it I will let you know.

3. The last time I was at the State Library one of the assistants told me about an old book which had just been donated to the Library entitled "PICKETT AND HIS MEN". I had never heard of it before. So on my next trip will try and borrow it.

4. My "angina pectoris" is behaving pretty good now, except that I am in the process of having all my remaining teeth out. They take them two at a time because of the bleeding. Only have two left so it won't be long now.

5. Next time you are over look us up. We live at 1020 South Madison, Tacoma and our Phone Number is SK 2-6008. Both the wife and I will be delighted to have you visit us.

Yours truly,
