Wreck on the N. P.

East bound passenger train No. 4 due at North Yakima at 2:50 p. m. was wrecked between this city and Ellensburg Thursday afternoon, the four head cars going into the ditch. Fortunately no one was killed, a fact that seems miraculous. The baggage man was injured, although not seriously. A number of others were pretty severely shaken up but fortunately were not injured.

The wreck delayed traffic for several hours, the first passenger to arrive from the west did not reach this city until 10 a. m. Friday, being followed closely by two other trains from the west. Several Yakima people are said to have been in the wreck.

The Wool Market.

S. Huntington & Co. this week bought wool as follows: From Everett Butler, Kiona, 10,000 lbs. at 10c; from Thomas Harvey, 23,000 lbs. at prices ranging from 10 1/2 to 12c; from Willis Mercer, 24,000 lbs. at 11 1/2c.

Huntington & Co. started up their wool shearing plant here Thursday. By machine shearing it is said from one to two pounds of wool per head is realized more than by hand shearing.

Supt. A. B. Whitson Resigns.

Supt. A. B. Whitson of the Northwest Water & Light company handed in his resignation this week to Secretary Smith, the same to take effect May 1. It is said that George Arrowsmith, the efficient electrician of the local plant is slated to succeed him.

Mr. Whitson entered the employ of the old Yakima Water & Light company, the predecessor of the present corporation, in 1893 and since 1895 has been superintendent of the plant. During that long period with the exception of such time that he was detained at home by illness, Mr. Whitson has scarcely missed a day from his regular duties. From his long and efficient service he had come to be regarded as almost a fixture in the company's office and he will certainly be missed by the many patrons of that concern. He is not yet ready to announce his plans for the future but his many friends in North Yakima hope that he will find a profitable occupation and remain in the city.

Selah Ditch Improvement.

General Manager Englehart of the Selah Valley Canal company, has had a large force of men and teams at work for several weeks in making needed improvements on the ditch this spring. For several miles below the headgate the ditch is being widened four feet and deepened two feet for almost its entire length. Some new flume work is also being put in. The improvements being made will greatly facilitate the delivery of water to the company's patrons this season. Later in the year, Mr. Englehart says, two new laterals will probably be constructed that will cover some twelve or fifteen hundred acres of what is now dry land.

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT

A Comprehensive Statement of the City's Needs in the Way of Sewerage and Drainage Systems.

North Yakima, Wash., April 18, 1904.
To the Honorable Mayor and Council of the City of North Yakima, Wash.

Gentlemen:—We beg leave to submit the following report and estimate upon the sewerage and drainage of the city.

There are within the city limits 1340 acres, or the equivalent of 305 city blocks, when the site of the city is fully platted.

The existing sewer system includes about 35,000 feet of pipe sewer, varying in size from 6 inches to 14 inches which is the diameter of the outfall extending to the Yakima river from the east end of Beech street. This system varies in depth from about 5 feet to about 8 feet below the street surfaces, and gives sewerage and drainage service to that extent to about 50 blocks, principally between D street on the north, Map's street on the south and from the railroad east as far as Sixth street. The shallow depth of the existing system renders the construction of deep basements in the business center impracticable, and the system is useless for the purpose of sub-drainage which now confronts the city as an immediate necessity. Furthermore the system is both, by reason of inadequate size and shallow depth, incapable of extension to any considerable extent to other sections of the city for sewerage purposes, and not at all for drainage purposes.

We have surveyed and studied in detail the entire area embraced within the city limits, and given particular attention to the drainage problem, having at hand the report made to you by Mr. Ernest McCullough, and other information gained from personal investigation and other sources. From all the facts at hand we have projected a system of trunk or main sewers, so located and dimensioned as to afford opportunity for serving, with slight extension and the necessary lateral sewers, the entire area within the city limits.

It is our design that these main or trunk sewers shall be accompanied by an adequate system of sub-drains, laid in the same trenches and surrounded in backfilling by selected material.

The total length of this projected trunk sewer and drainage system is 25,020 feet. It will vary in dimensions from 10 inches to 28 inches in diameter, and will have an outfall east from the end of Race street close to the south boundary of the city.

The total estimated cost of this trunk sewer system we place at $64,990, exclusive of cost of right of way required at two or three points across private property.

An itemized list of the lengths, dimensions and estimated cost of this system is submitted herewith for your inspection.

This trunk line will give direct sewerage service to about 30 abutting blocks, and will offer the opportunity for the construction of a complete system of lateral sewers covering the entire area of the city, platted and unplatted.

From our examination of the city it would appear that about 150 blocks not heretofore included, require lateral sewerage at as early a date as the city resources will permit, leaving the equivalent of 75 blocks of unplatted land and unsettled blocks which can be sewered when the progress of the city demands. In connection with the trunk sewers as heretofore stated, there will be ample provision for sub-drainage to their depth, which will average about 13 feet below the surface. Provision is also made for receiving sub-drainage from the lateral sewers.

The cost of the lateral sewers, nearly all of which will be 8 inches in diameter, will vary from $550 to $700 per block including all items of cost, according to the proven necessity for sub-drainage. A few extensions of main sewers to districts at present unsettled may cost as much as $800 per block where a 10 or 12 inch sewer is needed.

The above report embodies our judgment of what a sewerage and drainage system suited in its capacity and location to the needs of North Yakima, present and future. An effort to provide a system at less cost results in service to a lesser district and inadequate provision for future extension or for the present crying need of sub-drainage, and a much greater final cost to the city; a repetition of the condition which now confronts you.

The matter of sub-drainage which must be provided for in the interest of public health, has operated to increase the cost of the projected system considerably, but we believe this to be a vital necessity at this stage of the city's growth. In this connection we would urge that any system of sub-drainage must be supplemented by careful regulation of the canals and ditches within the city limits. Also we would suggest that the character of the ground underlying the site of the city is such that unless cleanliness at the surface be enforced and unless connections be made to the sewers and cesspools properly filled, the benefit to the public health cannot be fully realized.

We submit herewith a map of the city on which is indicated the existing system and the proposed system of main sewers, laterals, etc. The existing system is indicated by blue lines. The projected system of mains as included in this estimate, is shown by heavy red lines with black figures for dimensions. Laterals are indicated by broken red lines. Should the need or desire for deeper sewers at any time arise within the district already served, extensions of the new system may be made as indicated by broken green lines.

Respectfully submitted,
E. McCULLOUGH,
City Engineer.
GEO. F. COTTERILL,
Consulting Engineer.

Great Council of Red Men.

The seventh annual Great Sun session of the grand council of the Improved Order of Redmen of the state of Washington will convene at North Yakima May 10, 11 and 12. The sessions of the grand council will be held in I. O. O. F. hall. About 200 delegates to the grand council are expected to be present and in addition a large number of visiting members of the order, many of whom will be accompanied by their wives, will also be in attendance.

Yakima Tribe No. 24 has already begun extensive preparations to welcome and properly entertain the visitors while in this city. A number of committees have been appointed and are already at work. The committee on reception will meet all trains and conduct the visitors on their arrival to the place assigned to each. Another committee is arranging a very elaborate program.

The program is not yet sufficiently well formulated to be published in detail, but that it will be an excellent one may be taken for granted as the Redmen are noted for being splendid entertainers. The last day of the session will be given up almost entirely to races and various other sports at the state fair grounds. On one of the days of the session a grand and imposing street parade will be given.

To Arbitrate Cherry Street Muddle.

At last there seems to be a prospect of straightening out the long drawn out Cherry street muddle in this city which has been left to an arbitration board of three citizens. The city in order to open up that thoroughfare according to the earnest wish of the people who live along it must necessarily secure the needed right of way through the property of S. J. Lowe and Walter J. Reed. These gentlemen agreed with the city authorities to refer the matter to a board of arbitration to consist of three members. L. O. Janek was selected to represent the city, W. F. Jones to represent Messrs. Lowe and Reed and these two arbitrators who were to pick the third finally settled on B. F. Barge. It is understood that the board has reached an agreement regarding the settlement of this vexed matter.

Another Investigating Party.

T. A. Noble, in charge of the United States geological survey station in Spokane, has received orders from Chief Engineer, F. H. Newell at Washington, D. C., to investigate all the conditions in the Yakima valley that would affect the feasibility of the government undertaking an irrigation project there.

Mr. Noble has dispatched Assistant Engineer G. H. Bliss to North Yakima, with several assistants, to start the work. Mr. Noble said: "We shall measure all the streams in the valley and all the ditches that use water from them. We shall make calculations upon the storage supply available and the land that can be irrigated. We shall gather all the data on the country we can and examine the right of the ditches already in."

ELKS MINSTREL SHOW

"Best People on Earth" Put Up a Warm Entertainment to the Largest House of the Season.

The largest audience that has assembled in Larson's theatre this season turned out Monday evening to attend the entertainment given by the Elks minstrels. It was a good show, the best perhaps ever given by amateur talent in this city.

Dr. Hare acted as interlocutor and being the only white man in the crowd added much dignity to the situation. The opening chorus was a medley, the accompaniment being played by Nagler's orchestra. The following solos were next rendered: "If You Need Me Baby" by J. A. McArthur; "Under a Panama" by George S. Vance; "Because It's You" by George E. Gandy; "Up In a Coconut Tree" by Fred E. Alter, and "A Breath of Spring" by L. O. Meigs. These selections were well applauded, especially such as contained local hits. "Scandalous Eyes," sung by H. D. Baylor, was the last solo of the first part and it was what the boys call a "cracker-jack."

Mr. Baylor in the character of the "Honolulu Girl" created a sensation when he appeared in natty skirts to accompany George S. Vance in the rendition of "Under a Panama." Fred Alter in his "Up In a Coconut Tree," captured the house by making some good hits on local people.

The second part was hardly as interesting as the first, although a number of very good specialties were put on. In this part of the program several of the Ellensburg boys appeared in their various stunts including some marvelous feats of juggling, slack wire balancing, and buck and wing dancing. The mandolin trio from Ellensburg is especially worthy of mention. In this part H. B. Rigg brought down the house in his "Words By Who Knows," the artist appearing in the usual attire of the bum coon.

Dr. P. Frank, impersonating a coon belle in "The Dance Eccentric," did himself proud in his elaborate and brightly colored skirts. Senorita De Franko was rewarded by hearty applause.

The two round prize fight between Z. Y. Coleman, heavy weight and Frank Farquhar, feather weight, in which the former went down and out, was a warm number. Fred Chandler acted as referee and Col. Walker, time keeper. The performance concluded at 11:15 with an anvil chorus that was well presented.

The Elks, it is understood, will realize nearly $500 from the entertainment.

Must Keep Sidewalk Clear.

The city council at its meeting Monday night instructed Marshal Curran to serve notice upon all business men whose goods or wares occupy the sidewalk or curb to remove the same forthwith. The marshal served the notices Tuesday and Wednesday and a number of people were quite indignant that such an order should have been issued. It is being generally complied with, however.

The first notice served by the marshal was upon Mayor Fechter, who for a long time has kept his office fuel box on the Second street curb. The next notice was served upon Councilman Rand of the Thompson Music company. The marshal says that everybody must obey the order and that he will play no favorites.

The Y. M. C. A. Movement.

About 300 citizens and young men have pledged the sum of $10 each for the support of a branch of the National Y. M. C. A. at North Yakima should the same be established. A committee consisting of C. P. Wilcox, W. B. Dudley and J. H. Fraser, has been appointed to wait on the business men of the city to see what aid can be secured from that source. State Secretary Wilcox is expected here soon from Seattle and on his arrival the work of securing the needed financial support will begin in dead earnest. It is announced that one well known citizen of this city has promised to contribute $1000 towards getting the enterprise started here.

Knew Davenport When a Boy.

R. N. Harrison looked up Homer Davenport, the famous cartoonist on his arrival here Wednesday and escorted him to his residence. This was done at the instance of Mrs. Harrison who was well acquainted with Mr. Davenport when both lived in the quiet little town of Silverton, Ore. In fact the two were raised together, but had not met for many years. Mrs. Harrison says that as a boy Mr. Davenport was popular in his native town, but it was never thought then that he would ever do anything to set the world on fire. She was highly pleased to meet him.

TWO STATES REVOLT

Against the Tyranny and Corruption of Machine Rule—Democratic Missouri and Republican Kansas.

Two significant revolts against State machines are in progress in the middle west. In Kansas a republican uprising has resulted in the defeat of Governor W. J. Bailey for renomination, and the selection in his place of Mr. E. W. Hoch, a country editor. This movement has gone on simultaneously with an analogous revolt among Missouri democrats, having for its object the nomination for Governor of Mr. Joseph W. Folk, the vigorous prosecutor of the St. Louis hoodlums. Curiously enough in both states the canvass has been directed, not against the Governor personally, but against an evil party organization with which he has been allied. The dissatisfaction with Governor Bailey is based on the fact that he has allowed his advisers of the republican organization to use the party machinery to further their own ambitions, politically and financially. The last session of the Legislature was notorious for its extravagance and petty stealing. The legislative pay-roll was padded and useless officers multiplied. It was one of the jokes of the session that each transom of the Representatives' hall was in charge of a salaried "ventilator." The revolt against the scandals fathered by the machine found a leader in W. R. Stubbs, a new member of the Legislature, a contractor by profession, who was unfamiliar with "practical" politics and was disturbed by what he saw at the State capital. A believer in "the Roosevelt brand of politics," when he found that the Governor could not be depended on to stop the corruption, he decided, as he said, "to have a look-in" himself. Mr. Hoch, for thirty years editor of the Marion "Record," a man widely known and respected, seemed to him the most available candidate with whom to fight the machine. But the organization was so strongly entrenched throughout the State that, in spite of the general discontent with the administration, opposition was regarded as futile, and Mr. Hoch declined to try for the nomination. Early in January Mr. Stubbs issued a call to Republicans who opposed the machine to send representatives to a conference to be held at Topeka on the 13th of that month. The machine leaders asked, "Who is Stubbs?" and waited for a failure. But to the astonishment of the politicians, between five and six hundred men responded to the summons, and it was observed that not one of the delegates rode on a pass. This convention "drafted" Mr. Hoch as its candidate, and he accepted. The machine was not yet seriously alarmed. Its factional opponents, comprising the party's disaffected politicians, shared its dislike for the Stubbs-Hoch movement. There was not an accomplished party worker behind the new candidate, and he had no county organizations to look after the delegations. But the popular resentment against the administration proved so strong that it needed only an opportunity to express itself. An early convention could not save the governor. The January county primaries went overwhelmingly against him. Within a fortnight after the Topeka mass meeting he had announced the withdrawal of his candidacy, and at the state convention six weeks later Mr. Hoch was nominated without opposition. Since Kansas is normally a Republican state, the nomination is assumed to be equivalent to an election. The Hoch movement, once its success was assured, naturally received the support of all the professional politicians who had quarreled with the dominant faction—an undesirable element. But Kansas is looking forward to an independent and upright administration, free from the scandals that have attended the domination of the old machine. The state's experience shows what can be accomplished in the face of a perfectly organized machine by a spontaneous uprising of the people.—Outlook.

New York Democratic Platform.

"The democrats of New York, in renewing their pledge of fidelity to the essential principles of Jeffersonian democracy as repeatedly enunciated in our national and state platforms, make these further declarations on the national issues of the hour, reserving an expression on state issues until the fall convention, when state candidates are to be nominated:

"1. This is a government of laws, not of men; one for presidents, cabinets and people; no usurpation; no executive encroachment on the legislative or judicial department.

"2. We must keep inviolate the pledges of our treaties; we must renew and reinvigorate within ourselves that respect for law and that love of liberty and of peace which the spirit of military domination tends inevitably to weaken and destroy.

"3. Unsteady national policies and a restless spirit of adventure engenders alarms that check our commercial growth. Let us have peace to the end that business confidence may be restored and that our people may gain in tranquility and enjoy the gains of their toil.

"4. Corporations chartered by the state must be subject to just regulation by the state in the interest of the people; taxation for public purposes only; no government partnership with protected monopolies.

"5. Opposition to trusts and combinations that oppress the people and stifle industrial competition.

"6. A check on extravagance in public expenditures, that the burden of the people's taxes may be lightened.

"7. Reasonable revision of the tariff; needless duties on imported raw materials weigh heavily on the manufacturer, are a menace to the American wage earner and by increasing the cost of production shut out our products from the foreign markets.

"8. The maintenance of state rights and home rule; no centralization.

"9. Honesty in the public service; vigilance in the prevention of fraud and firmness in the punishment of guilty when detected.

"10. The impartial maintenance of the rights of labor and of capital; no unequal distribution; no abuse of the powers of law for favoritism or oppression.

"The democracy of New York favors the nomination for president of that distinguished democrat and eminent jurist of our own state, Alton Brooks Parker, and the delegates selected by this convention are hereby instructed to present and support such nomination at the approaching national convention.

"That the said delegates are hereby further instructed to act and vote as a unit in all matters pertaining to said convention in accordance with the will of the majority of the said delegates; and the said delegates are further authorized to fill any vacancies which may arise from any cause in said delegation in case of the absence of both the delegate and alternate."

A House Divided Against itself

The republican party of this state is divided against itself on the question of a railroad commission. Up to the state convention two years ago the railroads had dominated the party without opposition. Then Gov. McBride took issue with them and succeeded in forcing an appointive railroad commission plank in the platform. This plank was subsequently repudiated by the republican majority in the legislature. The party is still hopelessly divided on the question, with most of the big counties either indifferent or openly hostile to the crusade of the governor.

There are at present but three republican candidates for United States senator. They are Senator Foster of Tacoma, Sam Piles and John L. Wilson of Seattle. All three are railroad candidates. The only possible chance which Gov. McBride has of securing the nomination for governor is by forming a combination with one of these three railroad candidates for senator. His personal following will fall far short of enough votes to control the state convention. He can win only by trading and the trading will have to be done with men who are hostile to the policy on which he is making his campaign.

What consistency would there be in a combination between the McBride men, and the Piles men, for instance? Mr. Piles led the railroad fight in the last state convention against the railroad commission plank, and is still regarded as a railroad man. But a combination with Mr. Foster or Mr. Wilson would not be any more consistent. These gentlemen might be willing to help nominate McBride for governor, but their candidates for the legislature will not be selected on account of their sympathy with the railroad commission issue.

The best that McBride's friends can hope for is to secure votes for his nomination in return for pledges of support to a railroad candidate for the United States senate. This being the case, it is very evident that the people of the state cannot reasonably expect an effective railroad commission from the republican party. It is a house divided against itself, with the balance of power in the hands of the railroad faction.

On the other hand the democratic party is overwhelmingly in favor of an appointive railroad commission. Its conventions have almost unanimously declared for such a commission and a large majority of its legislators have consistently voted for it. George Turner, the only democratic candidate for United States senator, is an avowed and aggressive supporter of the policy, and all the prominent democratic candidates for governor favor it.

If the republicans of eastern Washington are foolish enough to believe that they can overthrow the railroad domination of their party, just let them bring out an anti-railroad candidate for United States senator, and make a combination between his friends and those of Governor McBride and see what kind of a showing they will make in the state convention. The very fact that the supporters of the governor are hoping to win by making a deal with one of the railroad senatorial candidates is the best proof of how hopelessly their party is divided.

If the people of the state want an effective railroad commission there is just one way to get it and that is by electing a democratic governor and a democratic legislature.—Colfax Commoner.

BETTER THAN ORATORY.

The Secret of One Clever Lawyer's Unvarying Success.

One of the most common defects of a recently admitted lawyer is a striving for oratorical display. A successful older practitioner endeavors, on the other hand, to give the jury a heart to heart talk. The ways of an eagle in the air, of a serpent upon a rock, of a ship in the midst of the sea and of a man with a maid are as A B C compared with the methods usually pursued by the twelve good men and true. It seems a trifle odd at first that a dozen individuals who separately are shrewd, sharp business men should collectively be guilty of the most absurd performances, but the fact must be reckoned on nevertheless.

A story is told of two farmers who were returning home, one of them from jury duty in a neighboring town. "Lawyer Smith is a great orator," said one—"a perfect Daniel Webster. My, how I hated to decide against him in the three cases he tried."

"How about Lawyer Jones, who was on the other side?"

"Oh, shucks! Why of course he wins all his cases. I heard every one of 'em, and they were the simplest things. He just explained things to the jury. He didn't have to do any hard talking at all. You couldn't help but agree with him."—Success.

Galileo's Caustic Humor.

In a biography of Galileo some stories are told of the caustic humor of that bold investigator. Lotario Sarsi, a writer on science, having said that the Babylonians used to cook eggs by whirling them in a sling, Galileo replied: "The cause of such an effect is very remote from that to which it is attributed, and to find the true cause I shall reason thus: If an effect does not follow with us which followed with others at another time it is because in our experiments something is wanting which was the cause of the former success, and if only one thing is wanting to us that one thing is the true cause. Now we have eggs and slings and strong men to whirl them, and yet they will not become cooked; nay, if they were hot at first they more quickly become cold, and since nothing is wanting to us but to be Babylonians it follows that being Babylonians is the true cause why the eggs became cooked and not to the friction of the air, which is what I wish to prove."

Shorthand 2,000 Years Ago.

It is no doubt a surprise to most to learn that shorthand was known and practiced 2,000 years ago. Manilius, a contemporary of Caesar and Cicero, Virgil and Horace, asserts that some system of reporting very similar to our shorthand was in vogue in his days. Writing these words under the influence of Virgo and Mercury, he says they are—

In shorthand skilled, where little marks comprise Whole words, a sentence in a single letter lies.
And while the willing hand its aid affords,
Prevents the tongue to fix the falling words.

It is certainly a novel conception that Cicero's grand orations were committed to paper with as much skill as our modern stenographers boast.

A Story of Rossini.

In "Gossip From Paris During the Second Empire" A. B. N. Peat, the author, tells a story of Rossini, who was much dogged by the lion hunters: "Once a Russian lady outstripped the limits even of Rossini's patience and, having watched his daily promenade during several days, sent a message to his house expressive of her desire to be received by him. The reply to this strange communication was: 'I do nothing for nothing. If the lady brings me a fine bunch of asparagus she will be welcome, and she can take a view of me at her leisure.' Then, pointing to his waist, which had attained a somewhat aldermanic rotundity, he added, 'The lady may even walk round me if she pleases, but I must have my asparagus.'"

Insect Traps.

Brazilian birds, fly catchers, display a brilliantly colored crest easily mistaken for a flower cup. Insects, attracted by what appears to be a freshly opened blossom, furnish the birds with food. An Asiatic lizard is entirely colored like the surface of the desert plains where it lives except that at each angle of the mouth blooms a brilliant red folding of the flesh exactly resembling a little flower that grows in the sand. Insects lured by the seeming flower are incessantly disillusioned when they settle upon it.

Appearances Against Him.

"Well, appearances seemed against him."

"What appearances?"

"Well, for one thing he was holding a glass upside down trying to fill it from a tightly corked bottle."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Yakima Democrat is the only Democratic Journal in Central Washington.

North Yakima, Wash., April 23 1904.

The democratic state convention of New York in session last Monday at Albany elected delegates to the national convention at St. Louis and instructed them to vote as a unit for the nomination of Judge Alton Brooks Parker as a candidate for president of the United States. The platform adopted appears in another column.

It may safely be taken for granted that the action of the New York state convention foreshadows the action that will be taken by the national convention at St. Louis, when it meets in July. That body will nominate Parker and the New York jurist will be pitted against Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency. This will undoubtedly be the outcome unless one or both men die before the nominating conventions meet.

Parker is not the first choice of the gold democrats or bolting wing of the party, as many Bryan democrats assume. Parker, himself, has said that he voted for W. J. Bryan, both in 1896 and 1900. The claim had been frequently made that he did not, but the man himself is the best authority on that point. Having been all his life long a strong partisan it is reasonable to suppose that he did support Mr. Bryan, although by virtue of his high judicial position he was estopped from taking an active part in either campaign.

As a matter of fact Judge Parker is being put forward as a compromise candidate and in that role he is by long odds the most available man in the field. As compared with Cleveland he is a liberal in his views. As compared with Bryan he is doubtless a conservative. He is being brought forward as the only man under whom there is at present any hope of uniting the scattered hosts of democracy and of marching them forward in solid phalanx upon the well entrenched positions of the common enemy. If the democratic party can go into this campaign united it is likely to win a splendid victory. For the alleged popularity of Mr. Roosevelt is more fancied than real, and in the doubtful states of the east his weakness is becoming more apparent every day.

Col. Robertson of the Republic states editorially that he is not a politician, that he has no personal ambition to subvert and no ax to grind in politics, that he intends to go to the primaries and vote like any other republican and let it go at that.

The public hardly needed this assurance from the colonel in order to appreciate his disinterestedness in local politics as well as the unselfish spirit that he has always breathed into the political department of his valuable paper. No indeed! The colonel has always spoken his mind freely through his columns so that he who reads may understand. Indeed there are plenty of people here as well as elsewhere throughout the state who can vouch for the self-sacrificing spirit with which the colonel labors for his party—whichever party that may be.

We submit in all candor, therefore, that it is only fair that the distinguished colonel of the Republic should be taken at his word. He has no ambition to be regarded as a party boss. He is entirely willing that such a doubtful honor be accorded to the colonel, of the Herald. The editor in chief of the Republic is willing to be known henceforth merely as a hewer of wood within the party ranks which have so hospitably sheltered him since the downfall of Grover the Great. He asks for no office and no emolument, neither does he aspire to be a kingmaker. He will acknowledge lealty to no man except "Yakima" Jones. Judge Rudkin, George Donald and all the balance of the tribe of local statesmen may go hang, for they are not wanted by the rank and file, for whom the Republic is fully qualified to speak.

The editor of the Republic has been for a number of years in the full enjoyment of a military title. This was considerably bestowed upon him at the instance of this paper as a proper recognition of the fact that he was the chief commanding officer of the local g. o. p. We warn him now, however, that if he has voluntarily and arbitrarily retired from his post of command that such action necessarily means not only the loss of his political prestige but the loss of his title as well. We, who bestowed it, will insist upon taking it away.

One of the most amusing features of the local pre-convention campaign is the frantic manner in which the editor of the Republic insists upon clinging to the coat tail of Congressman Jones. Not that the Republic man is solicitous as to the welfare of Jones; oh no, not he; for if Jones could be sidetracked and Receiver Miles Cannon substituted a long cherished pipe dream of the newspaper colonel would come true. But alas, there is nothing substantial about a pipe dream.

The editor's main purpose in getting next to the congressman would appear to be his desire to borrow such political strength as that gentleman may have with which to fight the bogey man, McBride. As Robertson contemplates the possibility of the latter succeeding himself through four long, weary years he grows hysterical, for what can there be in it for him? Hence, the foxy colonel elects to follow the fortunes of Jones from now until after the fight in the state convention at any rate. As for Judge Rudkin and George Donald, both of whom desire recognition, they are coolly informed that there is no room for them on the band wagon.

While other sections of the state are vigorously at work to secure their share of the newcomers from the east this spring North Yakima still continues her policy of masterly inactivity in that respect. What new settlers we do get appear to come here because they have heard that Yakima is a good place to live from somebody else.

The World's Fair at St. Louis will open in a few days and an opportunity will then be presented to advertise the attractions of the great Yakima valley that never existed before. Is the Yakima Commercial club or any other organization in the county doing anything to improve this opportunity? Not that anybody is aware of.

If nothing more than an inexpensive flyer, briefly reciting the advantages of living in this section, can be prepared and sent on for distribution it ought to be done. Mr. W. L. Wright will be at St. Louis in charge of the horticultural department of the state exhibit and would no doubt be willing to see that our literature reached the right class of people. This is a matter that the club should act on promptly. It is at least worthy of consideration.

Judge Alton B. Parker is a farmer as well as a lawyer and judge. He owns and cultivates a farm of several hundred acres at Esopus, on the west bank of the Hudson, where he resides and spends most of his time when not actively engaged with his judicial duties as chief justice of the court of appeals at Albany.

The judge is said to be both scientific and practical in his farming operations. It is his aim to secure the largest crops possible from the land and is usually much more successful in doing so than his neighbors. He has the reputation of being himself a willing worker, too, and is not above working with his employes when occasion demands. Days of work on the farm are followed by nights in the library, for Judge Parker is a close student and in his colonial mansion has a great library which for size rivals that once owned by Samuel J. Tilden, a statesman, by the way, for whom Judge Parker always had a great admiration.

"Wonderland" for 1904, issued by the passenger department of the Northern Pacific railway, is the finest edition of that annual publication we have yet seen. It is a book of 116 pages well written and most beautifully illustrated. The main portion is descriptive of the scenic beauties that abound within the territory served by the Northern Pacific. However 16 pages are devoted to the Yakima valley from Kennewick to North Yakima, all the different towns of the valley with surroundings of interest being treated under separate heads. A large number of very fine illustrations representing the scenes and products of this section, many of which are quite familiar in appearance, appear in the Yakima descriptive article. This valuable book is bound in a cover not only handsome but of most unique design.

Because English sparrows flew into a standpipe at Waterloo, Iowa, and drowned in the water which supplied the city, hundreds of the inhabitants contracted typhoid fever this winter, resulting in many deaths. Some days ago the drinking water of that city was analyzed by a chemist who found that it contained typhoid germs which he believed resulted from some decaying substance in the water. The standpipe in which the city water supply is pumped each day was drained and an investigation of its sanitary condition was made. Dead sparrows were found lying on the bottom of the tank to the depth of six feet. Some of the birds had decayed until nothing remained but a few bones and feathers, while others were in a fair state of preservation.—Lanark, Illinois, Gazette.

Senator Dietrich of Nebraska has been investigated on the charge of selling postoffices by a committee of the U. S. senate and fully and completely whitewashed. The senate should now turn its attention to Burton of Kansas. As for Smoot of Utah nothing further will be done in his case until after the presidential election at least. The Mormon hierarchy is said to have threatened the republican leaders with the loss of Utah, Nevada, Idaho and Wyoming if the case against Smoot was not dropped. The threat seems to have had the desired effect.

For the past year the corporation papers have been predicting that Gov. McBride would be unable to carry his own county of Skagit in the fight to succeed himself. The republicans of that county held their convention last Saturday and were almost unanimous for McBride, who had all but eight out of the 260 delegates. M. P. Hurd, who was induced by the agents of the lobby to desert McBride on the promise that if he succeeded in defeating his former chief in the home county that he would be given the nomination for attorney general, was defeated in his own precinct by the vote of 112 to 68, a fitting punishment for his playing the role of Judas.

Gov. McBride has won out easily in Spokane county, Stevens county and several other eastern counties during the past few days. An amusing feature of the Spokane fight was the fact that S. A. Wells, Col. Billy Kidpath's manager in his campaign for governor, was sent as a delegate to the county convention under ironclad instructions to vote for the endorsement of McBride. Wells protested against being put in such a humiliating situation, but he was told that he must either vote for McBride or get off the delegation, but he preferred to stay on.

The republican leaders in congress are preparing to bring about an adjournment about May 1. They are not actuated in doing this for the public welfare but because a great many of the solons are extremely anxious about the condition of their political fences. The present congress hasn't accomplished much in the way of legislation, as most of the time has been put in with a ceaseless flow of talk. It is perhaps just as well that this is so, as there is too much law making as well as too much law breaking in this country.

It is a significant fact that the legislative ticket nominated by the republicans of Skagit, Gov. McBride's home county, is favorable to the reelection of Foster as senator. Since the governor's control over the convention that nominated the ticket was absolute and unquestioned it follows that McBride is for Foster, and if that be the case Foster must necessarily be for McBride. Pierce county through the force of circumstances must support the governor.

Representative Jones has favored us with a copy of his amended bill which he has reintroduced in congress after the incorporation of such amendments as suggested by the interior department. We refer to the bill for the opening of the Yakima Indian reservation. The amendments added do not seem to us particularly important. There is not much probability of the passage of the bill at the present session of congress.

The New York Sun, a Republican newspaper, says: "The question is frequently asked in political circles, local, state and national, 'Why do Republicans and Republican newspapers protect and shield the rogues in their party better than the Democrats and Democratic newspapers do the wicked ones in their party?'"

That is easy. It is simply a matter of common honesty, that's all.

It is reported that ex-President Paul Kruger of the Transvaal Republic is slowly dying both in mind and body in his exile home at Mentone, France. The simultaneous loss of his country, his wife and his two sons has proven a greater blow than the sturdy old Boer patriot could withstand, and as a result his reason is gradually tottering. Poor old "Oom Paul." His case is one of the most pathetic in latter day history.

The national house of representative on Monday by a vote of 88 to 42 voted to move the U. S. custom house from Port Townsend to Seattle. Jones and Cushman fought the proposition, Humphrey, whose home is at Seattle, remaining discreetly silent. There is not much danger of the bill getting through the senate, however, until after the next senatorial election in this state.

Ex-Senator George Turner while at Walla Walla in attendance at the Jefferson birthday banquet made the following statement on the political outlook: "I think it is certain that Judge Alton B. Parker will be nominated by the democratic party for the presidency as it is that Theodore Roosevelt will be nominated by the republicans."

The expense of maintaining the White House during the three years of President Roosevelt's incumbency is greater than the expense during any two full administrations of his predecessors. Is rough riding to be displaced by rough spending?—The Commoner.

The chances are that while the present spring is late the summer harvest will be as early this year in the Yakima valley as usual. Nature has a way of making up for her own delinquencies in this regard that sometimes surprises the natives.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Republicans in Congress Want No Postoffice Investigation Before Election—Samples of Congressional Extravagance.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Apr. 16, 1904.

During the last two days the Senate has discussed bills providing for the government of the Panama canal zone. It now seems likely that that verminiferous appendix of Uncle Sam's will be kept in sanitary condition by "laws" to be "enacted" by the Canal Commission of seven gentlemen. Where Congress gets its authority to transfer to the isthmian Pleiades the right to legislate for American citizens, Heaven only knows. It probably derives it from the same source whence President Roosevelt obtains the right to confer legislative functions on his subordinate in the Pension Office.

The McCall Congressional Committee appointed to investigate the great post-office scandals, has reported. The charge made by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Bristow, was that many Congressmen were corrupt; that a hundred cases could be cited in which millions of dollars had been used for additional clerk hire as an official perquisite "for the benefit of personal and political friends." McCall's committee announces that this is false; that Congressmen are all honest and that only two or three have been guilty of indiscretion; and it sets forth a crystal jar of theperfunctories of Araby which can be used to sweeten their sweetness. The Senate has voted down the Gorman resolutions for a postoffice investigation by Congress, Mr. Lodge saying "In our own way, in our own time, when we think proper, we will provide for an investigation." Mr. Lodge, however, is widely noted for having crooked chronological notions and as not properly distinguishing between time and eternity. It is barely possible but not probable that the Republicans in Congress will be compelled to provide for some investigation of the scandals by the unremitting demands and satirical prodding of the Democrats. Corruption is popular.

The funeral abuses of Congress cry loudly for reform. It is now believed that not less than $40,000 will be paid out of the Treasury for the burial of Senator Hanna, although he was a millionaire. Congressman Oates of Alabama in one of his last speeches denounced the habit of sending committees of honor to accompany the remains of deceased Senators and Representatives to their place of interment, and said "These committees, instead of being genuine mourners, usually take pleasure excursions or junkets at the expense of the public treasury. I never have served on one of them, but I note among the expenditures one funeral which cost $52,000 and another which reached near $80,000." The first of these was made up of the following items: Transportation and burial, $7,380.74; volume of eulogies, $20,000; expense of Congress adjourned one day, $20,000; money voted to widow, $5,000; total, $52,380.74.

Congress is not only in the habit of giving $5,000 as a gratuity to the widows of all members who die in service, but of making a corresponding present to the widows and other relatives of all clerks of Congress who die in service. On April 25, 1888, the Senate gave $15,296 to Mary A. R. Quimby, sister of the enrolling clerk; and when F. H. Saulsbury, another clerk, died, $1,095 was given to his family, "to be considered as including funeral expenses and other allowances." And so on for dozens of other clerks. The expense of burying a Representative or Senator is often sufficient to make any poor family rich. The eulogies of Senator Logan were printed by the government at a cost of $14,000, exclusive of wrapping, addressing and postage, (some thousands more) and steel engravings, costing $500 to $1000 each. One hundred copies constituted an edition de luxe in morocco and gold for the widow. How does Congress dare to inflict such expenses upon the American taxpayer.

There is a national convention in this city every day in the round year, comprising people from every state in the Union. Today we fall into the hands of the Knights of Columbus, 10,000 of whom come flocking from every point of the compass to present to the Catholic University here $50,000 to endow a chair of secular history. This is probably the largest check ever drawn, for it is on card board ten feet long and four feet wide, ornate in high colors. The Knights might have staid at home and by saving expenses have sent a smaller check four times as large, but they wouldn't have seen the capital or had the fun. We see them all coming before it is light, and salute them at sunrise, Good morning, good knight!

I met the other day in a committee room Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural Department. I remarked that he had to fight for all he got, alluding to some sharp criticisms to which his appropriation bill was subjected. "Yes," he said, "of course; man is born to fight as the sparks to fly upward." I made some allusion to his predecessor, the grim old fighter, General Rusk. "By the way," he said, "Did you ever hear Rusk tell how Sheridan came to be appointed to West Point?" Acknowledging that I had not, he went on, "Two boys passed the examination called for by the Ohio Congressman and seemed equally competent to receive the appointment to West Point. Their fathers were both prominent men and the Congressman was in a pickle. They had a private meeting to settle the difficulty and it ended with the proposition that they both withdraw and confer the place on some poor boy. They decided on Jonny Sheridan. The Congressman called at the old Sheridan place and told the father of the honor to be conferred on Johnny. 'West Point is it?' said the father. 'Is it fightin' you want?' Being told that it was, he rejoined 'Sure it isn't Johnny you want for fightin'. Its Phil you want. He'd fight his own mother!' So Phil was drafted and mustered into the army at the Military Academy.

The horrible accident to our warship Missouri following the loss of the Russian battleship, creates consternation here. It is felt that it resulted from rivalry to see which gun crew could fire the fastest, and that it is only a part of the "strenuous life" whose champion and apostle is in the White House.

POISON OF THE RATTLESNAKE.

Not Nearly as Dangerous as It Is Popularly Supposed to Be.

"There is a good deal more fright about the bite of a rattlesnake than there is actual danger," said a well known physician recently. "I do not mean to say that the bite of a rattlesnake is not a very serious thing, but I do mean to say that this particular sort of snake is really not so ready or apt to 'get in his bite' as some others.

"In the first place, there is the now generally credited fact that the rattlesnake is the most honest of snakes. He doesn't 'pick a fight.' He doesn't lay in wait for any one. He won't run away, of course, for he is a plucky reptile, but he will curl up and give you a fair warning from those rattles of his before he attempts to strike. I remember once in the west finding a rattlesnake just ahead of my horse's fore feet. I had no weapon of any sort, so I rode on, passing within a few inches of the reptile. The snake was curled and ready for my horse in case the animal side stepped, but as we did nothing of that sort we were allowed to pass in peace.

"Again, the truth is that the poison of the rattlesnake does not get into the wound inflicted by the fangs in the average human being. For the average human being nowadays is clothed, and the holes in the fangs through which the poison comes are rather far up toward the roof of the mouth. Consequently very often the point of the fangs may enter the skin, while the poison dribbles out harmlessly enough upon the trousers or the boot. It is then that the 'victim' gets scared, fills up on whisky—a bad thing in bona fide cases of rattlesnake bite—and believes himself marvelously cured when he wakes up next day."—Philadelphia Press.

APHORISMS.

Set a beggar on horseback and he will ride a gallop.—Button.

The hearing ear is always found close to the speaking tongue.—Emerson.

To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step to knowledge.—Disraeli. Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice, and yet everybody is content to hear.—Selden.

A life spent worthily should be measured by a nobler line—by deeds, not years.—R. B. Sheridan.

Health is the second blessing that we mortals are capable of, a blessing that money cannot buy.—Walton.

When a man assumes a public trust he should consider himself as public property.—Thomas Jefferson.

Everybody likes and respects self made men. It is a great deal better to be made in that way than not to be made at all.—O. W. Holmes.

Little Henry's Questions.

Little Henry was reading ancient history stories. "Pa," said he suddenly, "can I ask you a question?"

"I guess you can, Henry. You seem to have a fair command of English."

"Well, may I, then?" Little Henry continued.

"Yes," said pa. "Fire ahead."

"That's funny," said little Henry. "I was just thinking of such things. Now, did the old Romans light their houses with Roman candles?"

"I shouldn't wonder," said pa, chuckling. "Nero, at least, indulged in a good deal of fireworks. Anything else?"

"Yes," replied little Henry. "Did the people of Athens do all their cooking with Greek fire?"

Then pa got mad and said he couldn't be bothered with any more silly questions.—Household Ledger.

Laying the "Ghost."

The Earl of Onslow tells a very effective story. His beautiful old place, Clandon, suddenly became possessed of a "ghost," and the servants of the place were almost terrified out of their wits by the noises they heard and the sights they saw or imagined. The reputation of the mansion became noised abroad, and at last Lord Onslow took a short cut to end the mystery. He assembled his servants and gave it out to them that he was determined to have no more of this sort of thing. For the future all members of his family would sleep with loaded revolvers by their side, and at the first suggestion of a noise they would send a bullet in its direction to investigate the cause. Clandon nowadays is quite commonplace in its immunity from the uncanny.—London Globe.

An Irish Compliment.

When Earl Spencer was lord lieutenant of Ireland the people of Dublin called the beautiful countess, one of the loveliest women of her time, "Spencer's Faerie Queen."

But when their excellencies were about to return to England Irish gallantry was shown in a characteristic way. At the farewell banquet in their honor an Irish gentleman got up and said, with much fervor and many bows:

"We all hope soon to see you back again, you and the work of art by your side."

Knew Paris.

Bobson—I see that a Parisian countess is obliged to earn her living at the wash tub. Too bad, isn't it?

Deacon Bingle (who knows something about Paris)—Well, I don't know. Those Parisian washerwomen seemed to be a decidedly jolly lot.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Heartless Female!

Young Wife—What do you do when your husband gets cross and wants to scold?

Death on the Culin Bank.

No matter what form death assumes, it is never welcome. The grim messenger makes his appearance in many forms in the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania, but only one form is painless and pleasant, and to only one the victims go unconsciously. It is the death of the burning culm bank.

Many times during the year is such a death recorded when one of these great culm banks is burning. The fire is not seen in the daytime, and at night it shines only with a faint glow through the layers of ashes which separate the live coals from the outer air.

To these burning banks tramps and other unfortunates forced to spend a night in the open air go when the nights grow chilly. The warm breath of the culm lures them on with a promise of a warm bed for the night, and they lie down to sleep in the comfortable atmosphere of the bank and never open their eyes again.

The noxious gases emanating from the bank waft over them so softly that they are soon asleep, and in many cases they never awaken, being suffocated during their slumbers.—Detroit Free Press.

The Open Door.

"I don't know now exactly how it happened," Reggie was telling his best friend over a game of billiards. "I never meant to propose, you know—that is, not just yet. I wanted to knock about a little more. But after we got home from the theater and sat in the parlor discussing the plot of the play I ventured on thin ice and broke through before I knew where I was. It came as a deuce of a shock, just as I should imagine breaking through real ice would be.

"But Jessie was all ready for me. She was expecting it. First thing I knew she had me by the collar and landed me on safe ground again—but I was engaged. No doubt about that. Anyhow, I am glad I've got her. Might have lost her through some slip if I'd waited. But I don't want to read any more stuff about bashful fellows stammering out proposals. It's all too easy."—New York Times.

His Satanic Majesty.

During the American Revolutionary war the colonists had great trouble with women who were determined royalists. "The sex," wrote the rebellious governor of New Jersey, "are mistresses of infinite craft and subtlety, and I never read of a great politician who did not employ petticoats to accomplish his designs. Certain it is that the greatest politician on record (I mean the devil) applied himself to a female agent to involve mankind in sin and ruin."

Dean Pignon tells in his book of anecdotes the story of the little girl who was much upset by a maiden aunt and posted in a hole in the garden a letter in these terms:

Dear Mr. Satan—Will you kindly come and take away Aunt Jane? She is a very funny person and does worry me so. Yours affectionately, ALICE

Curiosities of Cut Glass.

The process of glass cutting requires great skill and care. A design is first lightly copied on the glass, and the cutters take it in hand. A fine stream of sand and water falls continuously on a rapidly revolving steel wheel. To this the glass is applied, and the cutting is really accomplished by the friction which the sand sets up. Then another workman with another steel wheel and plain water brings the cutting up to a sharper edge. A third workman with a soft wooden tool takes off the cloudiness caused by the friction of the steel, a fourth polishes the glass, a fifth with a preparation of oxide of tin gives it that iridescent luster which makes us value cut glass so highly.

A Compliment.

Mrs. Hersey was unhappy over the stern severity of her new photographs. "Norah," she said to her pretty waitress, "do you think this photograph looks like me?"

Norah's warm Irish heart came to the rescue. "Shure, Mrs. Hersey, dear," she replied quickly, "if you looked like that would I ever have two afternoons a week?"—Christian Register.

Feeding on Souls.

A certain minister applied to his church for an increase of salary.

"Salary!" cried one of the members. "Salary! Why, I thought you worked for souls."

"And so I do," meekly replied the impecunious minister, "but I cannot eat souls, and if I could, it would take a good many souls the size of yours to make a decent meal."

Not His Experience.

Mrs. Henpeck—Let me see, is it "bigamist" or "polygamist?"

Mr. Henpeck—What are you talking about?

Mrs. Henpeck—Why, a man who has one wife too many is a "bigamist," isn't he?

Mr. Henpeck—Not necessarily.—Philadelphia Press.

An Unreasonable Fellow.

"Oh, it's no fun being engaged to him," she said bitterly.

"Why not?" asked her dearest friend. "Why, when you stir up a little quarrel just to drive away the ennui he takes it seriously and keeps you worried for fear you've really lost him."—Chicago Post.

The national convention of the socialist party will meet at Chicago May 1. Under the call the state of Washington is entitled to 11 delegates, but only one, it is said, will attend, Dr. H. F. Titus of Seattle.

Much damage was done in different localities throughout eastern Washington by reason of the recent floods, many bridges being washed away. The Colville river at its mouth is said to have been over a mile in width.

A recent dispatch from Ushulet, B. C. states that wreckage of the lost sealing schooner Kailua has been washed ashore. The Kailua was a Victoria craft with 17 men on board, all of whom are believed to have been lost.

The Russian war department announces its intention of having 500,000 at the seat of war in the orient by May 15. The recent reverses met with by their navy is said to have intensified the war spirit throughout Russia.

Antony and Cleopatra.
(W. H. Lytle.)

I am dying, Egypt, dying!
Ebbes the crimson life-tide fast,
And the dark, Plutonian shadows
Gather on the evening blast;
Let thine arm, O queen, enfold me,
Hush thy sobs and bow thine ear;
Harken to the great heart secrets,
Thou, and thou alone, must hear.

Though my scarred and veteran legions
Rear their eagles high no more,
And my wrecked and scattered galleys
Strew dark Actium's fatal shore;
Though my glittering guards surround me
Prompt to do their master's will,
I must perish like a Roman—
Die the great Triumvir still!

Let not Caesar's servile minions
Mock the lion thus laid low;
'Twas no foeman's arm that felled him;
'Twas his own that dealt the blow.
His who, pillowed on thy bosom,
Turned aside from glory's ray—
His who, drunk with thy caresses,
Madly threw a world away.

Should the base plebeian rabble
Dare assail my fame at Rome,

Where my noble spouse, Octavia,
Weeps within her widowed home,
Seek her; say the gods have told me—
Altars, augurs, circling wings—
That her blood with mine commingled
Yet shall mount the thrones of kings.

As for thee, star-eyed Egyptian!
Glorious sorceress of the Nile!
Light the path of Stygian horrors
With the splendor of thy smile;
Give to Caesar crowns and arches,
Let his brow the laurel twine;
I can scorn the senate's triumphs
Triumphing in love like thine.

I am dying, Egypt, dying!
Hark! the insulting foeman's cry!
They are coming! Quick, my falchion!
Let me front them ere I die.
Ah! no more amid the battle
Shall my heart exulting swell;
Isis and Osiris guard thee—
Cleopatra—Rome—farewell!

IRRIGATION IN YAKIMA

Prof. Noble in His Report Discusses What Might Be Done in the Way of Reclamation in the Yakima Valley.

In a recent report made to the interior department, Prof. T. A. Noble of the geological survey has the following to say touching the irrigation possibilities of the Yakima valley:

"Irrigation in Washington has been developed most largely along the Yakima river, and a number of large canals have been taken out at different points along its course. At the headwaters of the river and of its principal tributaries are several large lakes that might be used for storage purposes. Attempts have been made by several persons and corporations to obtain possession of these lakes, but so far as can be ascertained the title is still in the government. Temporary structures have been built or projected in the hope of getting possession of the lakes in the interest of one or another of the canal companies operating along the lower part of the stream. Requests have been received to have investigations made along the Yakima river, and various projects have been looked into. The present condition of land ownership, however, and of title to water, make the interposition of the government a delicate matter. On the one hand are people asking that no interference be had with private development; on the other are citizens demanding that the government should supplement the existing systems.

"The lands that might be reclaimed may be considered in four sections and classified as follows:

"First—Lands in the Ahtanum basin. Lando-SIX. . . . . lying between Cowlitz creek and Ahtanum river. These lands are of three different characters: (1) A higher portion, composed of scab lands, which have not been taken into consideration; (2) the bench lands that lie between the scab land and the present irrigating canals, all situated favorably for irrigation and of the best quality; (3) irrigated lands that lie below the present irrigating canal.

"Second—Lands in the Cowlitz basin. lying between the north and south forks of Cowlitz creek. This body of land is of excellent character, is easily irrigated and the slope is suitable for drainage.

"Third—Land lying on the ridge between Cowlitz creek and the Naches river. This land, with the exception of numerous rocky points of small area that rise above the level of the soil, is of excellent quality and lies well for both irrigating and drainage.

"Fourth—Lands in the Wenatchee basin. The lands lying in this basin could be irrigated by conducting water from Tieton river across the valley of the Naches, just below the mouth of the Tieton, through pressure pipes, which would be about 3000 feet long. Thence the water could be conducted by a flume or ditch, around the side of Cleman mountain toward the east, a distance of about seven miles, to a point where the flume would cross over a low divide between Naches river and Wenatchee creek. From this point the land would be irrigated by laterals surrounding the basin. The lands in this basin are already partially irrigated from Wenatchee creek by small irrigating ditches.

"The irrigable lands lie on sloping hillsides, and are already partially irrigated by the Selah valley canal, which takes water from Naches river, just above the mouth of Tieton river. These irrigated lands are of excellent quality and are now in a high state of cultivation. It is feasible to irrigate the unirrigated lands from the same source of water supply."

HOW TURKS MAKE COFFEE.

It Isn't Easy, but the Product is Delightful in Its Flavor.

To make the perfect cup of Turkish coffee is, like many other things, very easy when the maker knows how to do it, but unless the art has been learned in Turkey it is difficult.

No one can make a perfect cup of coffee unless he has been to Turkey. There is as much difference between the ordinary cup of coffee and the exquisite and alluring beverage with all its subtle aroma as made by the artist as there is between horseflesh and the best English beef. The Turks' method is simple. They have many little pots of various sizes. If they want to make two cups only they use the smaller one, and if three cups a larger one. When the water has boiled they fill the little pot almost to the top with water, then put in three lumps of sugar and put the pot on the fire to boil. When it is hot they put in two teaspoonfuls of coffee ground very fine and then stir it round until it is thoroughly mixed with the water.

The next step is to place the pot on the fire again and watch it very carefully until the coffee bubbles up to a froth, and before this froth escapes over the side you take the pot from the fire and tap the bottom gently on the stove till the froth goes down. Once again the coffee is allowed to bubble over the fire, and the process of tapping the pot on the stove is repeated three times.

When the froth rises to the surface for the fourth time the pot should be taken from the fire and the coffee should be poured first into one cup and then into another, so that each cup contains a portion of the froth on the top.

The Englishman cannot make coffee at all. He tries hard, but never succeeds either in making a perfect cup of Turkish or French coffee. The Frenchman, on the other hand, also tries hard to make a perfect cup of Turkish coffee, but he meets with little more success than the Englishman.

One thing must never be forgotten—the coffee must be freshly roasted and ground. It must not be roasted too black. A dark brown is the ideal color. Then the flavor is divine.—Boston Globe.

FOR THOSE WHO THINK.

Don't dally with your purpose. Character is the poor man's capital. Men call their own carelessness and inactivity fate.

The lucky man is the one who grasps his opportunity.

The largest room in the world is the room for self improvement. We get out of life just what we put into it. The world has for us just what we have for it.

Don't brood over the past or dream of the future, but use the instant and get your lesson from the hour.

Stock taking every day is a great aid to advancement. Stop and add yourself up at the close of each day and see if you have anything to carry over. If you have nothing but clippers to carry over something is wrong somewhere.—Success.

Perished in Pursuit of Prey.

Among the curiosities of the Northampton (England) museum there is none more interesting than a glass case containing a smoked cat. In her lifetime puss was a respected resident in a hotel in the town and certainly paid for her keep by proficiency in mousing. One day, however, she disappeared—was searched for, lamented, forgotten—till years after a workman repairing a chimney in the hotel threw a sudden light on the mystery of her fate. She was discovered standing in an angle of the brickwork just as she now appears in the glass case, and clung in each front paw was a smoked, dried mouse. Flying for their lives up the broad chimney, the mouse had led the way not only to death, but to unexpected immortality.

Dickens' School Pets.

When Charles Dickens was a boy at Wellington House academy it was the secret pride of the students there that they owned more white mice, red polls and linnets than any other set of boys within their ken. These were kept in hat boxes, drawers and even in the school desks. A small but very accomplished mouse which lived in the corner of a Latin dictionary in Dickens' desk and could draw Roman chariots, fire paper muskets and scale pasteboard ladders fell at last into an overfull ink pot and lost both its white coat and its life. Dickens nevertheless won a prize for his Latin.

"Oh, she has another name. I heard papa speak of it yesterday, but I can't think of it now. Oh, yes, I remember. It's Topsy Turvy!"—Kansas City Journal.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Engineers McCullough and Cotterill Estimate Cost of Complete Sewer and Drainage System at $175,000—Numerous Street Improvements Under Way.

The regular meeting of the city council Monday evening after the transaction of some routine business was adjourned on account of the Elks entertainment until Wednesday evening. At the adjourned meeting Mayor Fechter and all members of the council were present. After the reading and approval of the minutes a number of small bills were ordered paid that had been contracted by the street and ditch committee.

A petition was read asking that Eighth street be graded from Spruce to H. Granted.

A petition was also granted asking for a board sidewalk on the west side of north First street from E to H.

A remonstrance from a number of property owners along the west side of Naches avenue against the laying of a cement walk in front of their property was read and created much discussion. It was finally decided to build the walk by a vote on roll call of 4 to 3, Thorp, Switzer and Dudley voting nay.

The full report of City Engineer McCullough and Consulting Engineer Cotterill was then read by Clerk Brooker. The report was accompanied by a number of plats prepared by the engineers showing the route of the different proposed main line sewers and laterals. Their estimate of the probable cost of a complete new sewer system adequate to the needs of the city combined with a drainage system at $175,000.

Mayor Fechter addressed the council on the subject urging the need of prompt action to sewer and drain the city. He said that inasmuch as $60,000 was all that the city could legally bond itself for at this time without exceeding its legal limit of indebtedness that he was in favor of laying the trunk line sewers and digging the drainage ditches as soon as the work could be done. This part of the work would cost about $75,000. Of this amount $21,000 might be raised by taxing 50 per cent of the cost of laying the trunk line sewers to the abutting property. The remaining $54,000 would have to be raised by means of a general bond issue. As for the laterals, and many of them are necessary, they would have to be paid for by special assessment as it was impossible for the city to undertake to assume the entire cost. The estimated expense of laying the laterals would make a tax against the abutting property of about 90 cents per front foot, which might be paid at any time within 10 years.

"Something must be done," concluded the mayor, "to improve the sanitary conditions of the town and the plan outlined here is the most feasible one I can suggest." No definite action was taken on the subject by the council.

Matt Grobschmidt, who lives in the old Bagwell house on south First street, addressed the council making complaint against the unsanitary condition of a freed yard adjacent to his property which he thought was a contributing cause to the fact that so much sickness existed in his family. The marshal was instructed to notify the owner to put his premises in a sanitary condition and in case of his failure so to do to swear out a warrant for his arrest.

Councilman Bull called attention to the lack of sanitary precautions on the west side and asked if the council was going to take any steps to clean up that part of the town. This precipitated a long discussion in which the statement was made that the cleaning process was rather too slow, criticism being passed on the city scavenger. The council agreed that steps should be taken to compel citizens to clean their places thoroughly this spring and that the city must do its part in cleaning up the streets and alleys.

The sidewalk built by C. H. Bruenn on north Third street was accepted, the cost of the work being $705.28.

A resolution was passed giving the Cherry street board of arbiters further time.

The quarterly reports of Clerk Brooker and Treasurer Donovan were read and referred to the finance committee.

A communication from the Northwest Water & Light company relative to their putting in a water filter in compliance with the provisions of the new franchise ordinance. A request was made for the necessary specifications. No action was taken. The clerk then read a letter to the council from President Strahorn of the company, which appears elsewhere in this paper. After the reading of the letter Chairman Rand of the special committee appointed to treat with the water company asked for further time until the return of Mr. Strahorn and further time was granted.

The committee on cemetery was given power to act in regard to the purchase of ornamental trees to be set out in the new cemetery.

The council after a long discussion agreed on motion of Bull to stop the salary May 1 of John Lemon, one of the drivers of the fire department on the ground of economy. The council then adjourned.

Moses Lake on Rampage.

E. T. Stone of Parker, who has been over in the Moses Lake country in Douglas county for some time this spring, says that there have been thing a doing in that section since the high water began last week. He says that as a result of the warm spell of weather a large body of water came rushing down to Moses lake through a dry canyon. In a few days this large influx of water caused the lake to overflow its banks and spread its water over the surrounding country including a number of farms on Crab creek. The flood, Mr. Stone says, caught the people of that vicinity unawares and did a considerable amount of damage. The people are puzzled as to why so much water all at once should have come down the dry canyon. The most plausible theory advanced was that some other stream must have changed its course.

Simcoe Bridge in Danger.

Chairman Lince of the board of county commissioners returned Wednesday from a trip to Parker, where he went to inspect the Simcoe bridge. The pier on the west side of the bridge has been undermined to such an extent that the span has dropped for several feet. With any further rise in the river, Mr. Lince thinks, the span will almost surely go down.
