OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

A FORMAL request has been made by Spain through the French ambassador, for peace and the cabinet is now deliberating on an answer. There is little reason to doubt that Spain has made up her mind to give up Cuba and the abandonment of Porto Rico. It is admitted by leading members of the administration that upon only one point in the peace negotiations is there likely to be serious friction, and that relates to the future of the Philippines; but there is reason to believe that these difficulties will be rather internal than international in their character, at least from the outset. The president is firmly of the opinion that the United States has no use for the islands as a permanent possession. A reply to Spain's request is expected today.

IN Rome it was customary for those who were candidates for office to appear in the comita, clad in white apparel. To thus robe the Republican candidates for sheriff in Yakima county, merchants would be compelled to purchase the fleecy material in enlarged consignments. They are all industriously at work and the fight promises to be a bitter one. It is said that the other day the wife of a prominent husband was working in the garden when one of the aforementioned candidates rode up to the fence and inquired for the man of the house. "He is down in the pasture burying a dog," was the reply. The candidate, becoming interested, inquired what ailed the dog, when he received the reply: "Barking at your oponents." The above may be figurative, but is scarcely overdrawn.

SENATOR HOAR, whom Senator Ingalls characterized as the "old lady of the senate," in his reply to President Norton, of Harvard, became sufficiently vigorous to forever disassociate his name with the above charge. It will be remembered that President Norton is opposed to the war, and in an address to his students, told them it was an inglorious proceedings, needless and criminal. Listen to what the venerable old senator says in reply: "All lovers of Harvard and all lovers of the country have felt for a long time that your relations to the university made your influence bad for the college and bad for the youth of the country. It was high time that somebody should say what I have said. . . . I am afraid that the habit of bitter and sneering speech about persons and public affairs has so grown upon you that you do not yourself know always what you say."

THE Cuban patriot has not met with favor in the eyes of the American soldier, either as a fighter or his ideas of civilized warfare. The spectacle of their shooting at the drowning Spaniards trying to gain the shores from Cervera's grounded fleet, was on a par with their robbing the dead American soldiers at El Caney. In constructing the military roads leading to Santiago they refused to work or join in the surrender of Toral's forces, because General Shafter refused to permit them to pillage the city. Having captured the Spaniards, must the Cuban patriot be subdued, the same as our government did the noble redman? Is the problem which will confront our republic. The relations between the Cuban and American armies has ceased to be cordial, and open hostilities on the part of the former are not among the improbable events of the near future.

IF coming events cast their shadow before, Washington's pugilistic senator is going to have some difficulty to again relegate himself to obscurity in the United States senate, from which he has just come to fix up his fences. The Republic, after the last Seattle election, desiring to become epigrammatic, announced that "as goes Seattle, so goes the state." Judge Humes appears to have captured Seattle, but the reform forces will undoubtedly object to his anticipated tenure, desiring to fill the office with a man whose service to the state and nation will amount to more than the erection of fences from which he can again step into the coveted office.

WITH so many of our people at the seaside and mountain resorts; the absence of our soldier boys and the large number of laborers in the great wheat fields of the eastern part of the state, North Yakima is quieter probably than for years; but every indication points to a renewed activity and hustle within the next sixty day. The merchants, in anticipation of increased trade, are placing heavy orders for goods, and traveling men state that at no point in the Northwest is there surer signs of future prosperity, evidenced by the thrifty condition of the farmers. The county is not to boom in the old mushroom way; but will advance in a healthy, permanent manner, with people and improvements that come to stay. Watch Yakima grow.

THE various devices employed to cause a horse to lift his feet high, will soon all be displaced, says the Scientific American, by horse spectacles, the lenses of which are so constructed as to cause the ground to appear close in front of him and inclining, causing him to lift his feet as though he were going up hill. The next will probably be a spectacle to make the sidewalk appear out of plumb, so that the man with the jag can walk straight home.

THE First Regiment of Washington Volunteers have at last all gotten together at the Presidio, and there is a shadow of a chance that they may yet go to Manila. However, peace negotiation may nip this prospect in the bud and send the boys to their respective home. The third battalion passed through the city of Portland and the Oregonian paid them a very high compliment upon their soldierly bearing and general good behavior while in that city.

ELLENBURG is to have the three-ringed circus again this year. That city is to be congratulated, as well as the personnel of the circus. She entertained them handsomely the last time and it is to be hoped the arborescent adornment of the populistic feature may come in contact with the prevailing zephyrs of that beautiful valley. Give them an opportunity and the Aeolian harp won't be in it.

WITH the ingenuity of the American insurance man, it is a wonder that some of them have not started a bureau to furnish the wives at the seashore and other summer resorts, detailed information of the doings of the overworked husband who is compelled to remain at home, to water the flowers and feed the canary bird.

THE AMERICAN GIRL

An "Epigram" Reporter Takes Issue With an English Writer.

She's Not Built Like the English Girl, "Don't Cher Know"—Accused of Double-Covering Her Legs.

The American girl—the sweet thing—is again attracting the Englishman's attention, and this time Harry Furniss, the celebrated caricaturist in his "Fair Game," devotes the larger part of an edition to her. It is one of the most grotesque and shameful libels ever perpetrated on the flower of American civilization. If he journeys in the path which the name of his paper blazes out, we are not surprised that he was compelled to go beyond the borders of his isle to seek his subjects. He claims to write from observations made while traveling in America, but if the type of the girl is all he saw, we venture the opinion that he was not outside of Chicago. The following are briefly some of his observations:

"The face of the 'American Girl' as well as the voice, is often that of a child. The large forehead, round eyes, round cheeks and round lips of the baby remain, and as the present fashion is to dress the hair ornamentally, after the fashion of a doll, the picture is complete. Her eyes are closer together than those of her English cousin, and are smaller; her hands are smaller too, and so are her feet, but neither are so well shaped as the English girl's."

He then sums up the early years of her earthly existence as follows:

"The first stage is the baby, plump, bright-eyed, and with more expression than the average English child; little older, see her plump, short-legged, made to look stout by the double coverings of the leg bulging over the boots, older but still some years from her teens, but is still plump from the tip of her toe to the eyebrow."

We have not space to notice his criticism farther, but the idea of her encasing her feet in two pairs of stockings to make her look stout! He must have witnessed the girations of a modern bicycle girl, or seen a feminine argonaut dressed to endure the hardships of the Klondike trail. This acquisition evidently seemed so ludicrous to Mr. Furniss, that he attempted an explanation, and said it referred only to localities topographically considered, were without natural elevations, and she was not subjected to sufficient exercise to develop the calves.

He says the first thing an Englishman asks you is to eat; the Scotchman suggests "Mountain Dew;" the Frenchman wants to show you the Bois de Boulogne or the Arc de Triomphe; the German to smoke: the Dago to buy, and the Australian to hunt; but the American wants an opinion on "What do you think of the American Girl?" Thus he admits our superior judgment, don't cher know. Whether you take the cosmopolitan beauty, the Washington diplomat, the Chicago daughter of boom, or the tender flower of the west, she is more charming and prettier than her English cousin, and when she orders a gown from the tailor, the latter is not required to pin a card upon it at delivery bearing the inscription "This is the front," and is never met with the complaint that her riding habit does not "set" correctly because she has it on wrong side afore. In later years whether she is summoned to adorn the humble cottage of honest toil, the mansion of wealth, the court of the statesman or the moss covered palace of England's decaying nobility, she is equally contented—a bulwark of strength to her liege lord. She laughs at adversity, hardships and privations, and is found by the side of the American soldier who lies wounded or stricken with fever, and makes cheerful the primitive home of her husband in the frozen gold fields of the north. Her only fault is her liability to barter her good American gold for an English title, but who will say that in this she has not had the gift of prophecy, and it was through her instrumentality that we now clasp hands across the blood chasms of 1775 and 1812.

Death of a Pioneer.

James H. Purdin died at his home in Fruitvale precinct on Saturday, the 23d inst., of heart trouble, at the aged of 63 years. The funeral occurred from the family residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Purdin came to Washington Territory in 1863 and to Yakima county in 1876, settling on the Wenas, at which place he remained until about four years ago when he located near this city. A wife and eight sons survive him.

A Novelty In Bells.

Herr Appunn of Hanau has invented a bell of a new shape, which is said to have a very deep tone and to be as powerful as considerably heavier bells of the form at present in vogue. The shape is peculiar, being hemispherical, while the metal is uniform in thickness except near the "sound bow" (or the thickened tip which the clapper strikes) from the edge to some little distance above the sound bow the metal is very thick, and then alters suddenly to the uniform thickness which it has for the rest of the bell.—Invention.

The Art of Talking Back.

"I hardly know how to answer you," said she when the widower proposed. "I would not let that worry me," said he soothingly. "That is something a woman learns perfectly soon after marriage."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Impossible.

Pruyn—Why, aren't your wife's gowns of the latest style? Brobson—Of course not! That woman was never punctual in her life!—Brooklyn Life.

A CHILD'S DISPOSITION

May be ruined through existing defects in eyesight. Children are often called dull and stupid by teachers and parents through no fault of their own. Perhaps born with a defect in the eyesight, they don't know of any different world than that which they see through defective eyes. Mark any peculiarities that children may have, squinting, frowning, looking sidewise with partially closed eyes; all are indications of eye troubles.

Better be over-cautious in having a child's eyes examined, than to take too much responsibility into your own hands. Examination free.

WASHINGTON STATE FAIR.

The Commission is much pleased with the increased interest that is being taken in the Fair by people from all over the State, both by personal inquiries and letters received daily, and invites all interested to call or write for premium lists, which the Secretary is always glad to give to those interested.

Horsemen from different sections are asking for an additional trotting race—the 2:24 class—which was overlooked in making up the racing program, and the citizens of North Yakima, with characteristic liberality, have agreed to make up a $200 purse, and most of the amount is already subscribed. The day on which the race will come off is not definitely decided upon.

The Commission is now considering the music for the Fair, and is already in receipt of bids from several of the best bands in the State. Nothing is yet decided, except that they intend to have good music, and the contract will be closed about August first.

Donors of special premiums are responding to the request that they forward premiums with great promptness, and the Secretary is daily in receipt of checks for cash premiums and packages of merchandise. It is expected to have all special premiums arranged for display in the pavilion before the Fair opens.

The Secretary is in correspondence with the proprietor of the great Driving Horses and Guideless Racing Horse Combination Show, who expects to bring his show here for the Fair. This will no doubt prove a drawing card, as it is one of the most unique animal shows now in existence.

Dr. Powell Reeves, under date of July 24, assures the Secretary that if the track is kept in condition for daily training he will at once send eight horses here for training. As the track is now in excellent condition and is being improved daily, he will no doubt send his entire stable of fine horses about August first.

The Commission is in correspondence with mine owners in different sections of the State, and have assurances of a fine exhibit of ores and minerals from all parts of the State.

The Secretary and the manager of the Fancy Work department especially urge the ladies of Yakima county to prepare some exhibit for that department. For any additional information as to premiums, etc., address Mrs. G. A. Graham, North Yakima, Wash.

The Commission desires especially to call the attention of stockmen to the rules governing the entries for horses. See notes on pages 27, the rules governing the entries for cattle, see "Conditions Applying to Shorthorns," pages 30 and 31; rules applying to sheep, see pages 34 and 35, Premium List, and that all stock of any kind offered for entry must be shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary to properly belong in the class under which it is offered. Special premiums, of course, are governed by the conditions made by the donors.

Another of Yakima's Surgeons Recognized.

Dr. Phillip Frank on Wednesday received a telegram from the War Department at Washington, informing him that his application for appointment as a surgeon had been favorably acted upon, and that he was ordered to report at Washington at once for duty. The appointment carries with it the rank of major. It comes as a surprise to a majority of the people here, who were not aware that the genial doctor had an application on file. He expects to leave next week. THE EPIGRAM congratulates the doctor.

Ellis at It Again.

John H. Ellis has been before the probate department of the superior court again, and as a result of the findings of Doctors Gunn and Taft, will again be transferred to Medical Lake, at which place he eluded the vigilance of the officers of the asylum over a year ago, and returned here to harass and annoy some of our citizens. His favorite abomination is writing and posting incongruous and libelous notices, declaring he is a christian and the bible an infidel book. Sheriff Shaw and J. D. Medill left with him on Thursday night's train for Medical Lake.

The Man That Knows.

"There are some men," said Mr. Staybolt, "that always know about things. They have a power of judgment that amounts to genius. They discern the truth unerringly. They know what is right and what is wrong in a question, and they know it at the outset without waiting for the event. They range themselves not with confidence, but with knowledge, and however the clouds may lower they are not disturbed. Indeed they rather like the storm, for they know when the end will be."

"They are more powerful than other men because they are unhampered by doubts. They don't doubt, they know, and men follow them, as they always will. Everybody admires a man that knows and is sure about it."—New York Sun.

Killed His Sentiment.

A newspaper correspondent at the battle of Atbara tells a good story about a couple of Scotchmen. He was walking softly about the camp so as not to disturb the sleepers on the night before the fight when he overheard a sentimental Seaforth highlander say to a comrade:

"Ah, Tam, how many thousands there are at home across the sea thinking o' us the night."

"Right, Sandy," replied his chum, "and how many millions there are that don't care a d—n. Go to sleep, you fool."

And silence fell upon that corner of the square.

Proof of It.

"I suppose Saxey and Slims are both truthful men?"

"Absolutely so. Neither of them is capable of making a misstatement of fact. Why?"

"Oh, I just heard them calling each other liars."—Detroit Free Press.

Apropos of an article published in the last issue of THE EPIGRAM concerning A. J. Turpin, we wish to explain that no reflection was intended on Sheriff Shaw, of this city, as Mr. Shaw was in no wise responsible for the fact that Turpin got away, for the reason that he had no authority to hold him.

They preliminary examination of John Mayer, charged by Joseph Mallory with assault with intent to commit murder, was held in Justice Moulton's court on Tuesday, resulting in Mayer being held to answer the charge before the Superior court. Both are sheepmen, and the assault grew out of alleged encroachment of one upon the other's range right. E. B. Preble appeared for the state and Fred Miller for the defendant.

"Doc" Sloan, the popular proprietor of the Yakima Drug Store, gave a driving party to a few of his friends Saturday evening. They stopped at the residence of Nicholas McCoy, in Moxee, for refreshments, where the time was very pleasantly spent in dining and music on Nick's new piano—closing with a flash light photo of the popular host and his guests. Those who accompanied Mr. Sloan were Misses Rohrer, Shannon and Putnam, and Messrs. Mathewson and McNeff.

Extensive repairs are being made on the roadbed of the Northern Pacific in this division. Roadmaster Scow has a large force of men under Foreman Ed Farmer, ballasting near Kiona. Probably the most important piece of work contemplated is the straightening of the line at the first crossing of the Yakima river in Selah valley, which will require the construction of a new bridge across that stream. A very heavy curve will thus be avoided and some distance gained, which is the object sought in making the change.

A WRECK NEAR RITZVILLE

In Which Three Hundred Yakima Sheep Were Killed.

Malcolm McLennan, the well known sheep man, received a telegram Saturday evening announcing that the train which was transporting his sheep to Chicago, had been wrecked at Lynne station near Ritzville. The train was being hauled at a 24-mile rate by one of the large new engines lately purchased by the Northern Pacific Company, and when a few miles beyond Ritzville, three flat cars loaded with steel became separated from other cars up the track and bore down on the sheep train at a great speed, smashing into the engine, telescoping the fatal "13th" car and killed 300 head of sheep. "Penn" Huntington, the well known hop buyer, and Ed Patton, the butcher, were in charge of the train, both of whom escaped uninjured, with the exception of the jar consequent upon so abrupt cessation of animated motion. Ms. McLennan left for the scene of the wreck Saturday night returning by the delayed train Sunday morning.

Impressions of a Yakiman.

J. G. Boyle returned from the Sound this week and reports the climate there as delightful, but business dull. Seattle's main thoroughfares are thronged with people who seem to have no objective aim and wander listlessly about, gazing in the store windows or talking on the two regnant topics, the war and Alaska gold fields. At an afternoon fire on the water front, when the general alarm was sounded, at least 30,000 people gathered to view the scene in a half hour.

The Alaska boom has burst. Intelligent miners returning on the much vaunted treasure ship, Charles Nelson, were emphatic in declaring that the output of all Alaska mines this season would not reach beyond three or four millions. At Dawson City there were 3500 claims staked and only about 35 paying well. Copper river miners say there was no gold at all there and a party of nine left Seattle Monday for the Palouse wheat fields, which they believed to be worth more than all the gold of Alaska.

The political pot is beginning to simmer and there will be a hot time at Ellensburg unless all signs fail in dry weather. If the Roger's slate is pile-driven through the convention there will be a row started that may not be quelled before the ides of November.

Misses Georgia Cary, Alda Flint, and Clara and Marian Whitson gave a picnic to about thirty of their girl friend at the Fair grounds Friday, it being the occasion of the birthdays of the four young ladies. Mrs. Whitson and Mrs. Cary chaperoned the young folks.

Clifford Stout has a bran new "Vive," which he expects to take with him on outing trip this summer. When he returns he will lay before his friends a birdseye view of the magnificent mountain scenery, on which his eyes feasted during his piscatory jaunt.

Judge Davidson has not passed upon the application presented to him Monday a week ago, for a temporary restraining order in the case of Longmire vs. Smith, et al., but on Wednesday submitted a request to be furnished with additional testimony in the case.

For a good and cheap family flour use BLUE BELL. Can't be beat for the price.

And the Don Came Down.

Cleveland Leader.

There was a Don up in a tree,
And a Yankee down below;
"Come down," said the Yankee to the Don,
But the Don was rather slow.
"What terms," he asked, "will you make with me,
If I come down to you?
No terms? Oh, Mr. Kanee man,
That'll

never, never
do!"

The Yankee took aim with his gun
At the Don up in the tree;
"I'll shoot," he said, "if you don't come down Before I've counted 'three.'"
Athwart the Don's dark visage spread
A terrifying frown,
But the Yankee counted "one" and "two,"
And the little old Don came down.

Obituary.

On Thursday, July 14, 1898, the hearts of the members of North Yakima Camp No. 89, Woodmen of the World, were made sad by the death of esteemed neighbor J. C. Truitt. He was a devout christian, a true neighbor, a faithful friend and an affection father. He was aged 40 years and leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss. Having committed these to the care of a covenant keeping God, and to those who took an oath to care for the widow and the orphans of deceased neighbors, he died triumphant in the faith of the Lord Jesus Christ, and was buried on Saturday, July 16, with Camp honors; faithful hands of true hearted neighbors lay ing his body to rest.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, It has pleased the all wise God and Father to remove by death our esteemed neighbor Truitt,

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the will of him who doeth all things wisely;

Resolved; That we commend the action of our deceased neighbor, in that while he could find no continuing city here, he sought one that is eternal in the heavens, and thus during his lifetime, he threw a safeguard around his family in the form of a life insurance;

Resolved, That we as a Camp and as individuals, extend our sympathy and render every assistance in our power to the bereaved family;

Resolved, That these resolutions be incorporated in our minutes; that a copy be presented to the family of deceased, and that a copy be handed to each of our local papers and to the Pacific Woodman for publication.

Chamberlain and the "Puritan Maid."

A Baltimore woman, in The Sun of that city, tells this story of Joseph Chamberlain when he was in Washington in 1887:

"He was a big, burly man, caring so little for his appearance that at one of the most fashionable dinners of the season his cravat got turned to almost under his ear and his shirt stud became unfastened, and he sat calmly oblivious to either incident. His brains and charm in conversation won him friends wherever he went. One day he called on a lady who happened to be giving a girls' luncheon. She went out at once to see him, and laughingly said if he did not mind being the only man present she would be delighted if he would come in the dining room and take the vacant place of one of her young friends who had not come.

"He was not afraid to face a lot of 'American beauties,' so he accepted gayly, and the vacant place happened to be next that of Miss Endicott, daughter of Secretary of War William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, a dovelike, slender girl, one of the greatest belles of the day. The outcome of this was the marriage of the English statesman and the 'Puritan maid,' as she was often called, his neighbor at an entertainment to which he had only been bidden by that 'fate which shapes our ends, rough hew them as we will.'"

He Got the Pin.

A good many people still believe in the little superstition about seeing a pin and picking it up. It makes some of them decidedly uncomfortable when they pass a pin by, and even if experience has taught them that there is nothing to be gained by scooping up the pointed bit of wire they still dive for one whenever they see it.

An aged man was toddling across Payne avenue at its junction with Wilson some time ago when between the street car rails at the very center of the curve he noticed a pin. It was a bright pin, and it caught his rather enfeebled gaze at once. Being a superstitious old gentleman, he determined to secure that pin. With considerable effort he managed to bend over, when, just as his trembling fingers closed upon it, with a whoop and a roar a cable car came swinging around the curve at the usual terrifying rate. The old man went one way, his cane and glasses and hat went the other. They rushed to him and picked him up. He was badly bruised, and the ambulance was called. As they were lifting him into it somebody noticed something shining between his clinched fingers.

It was the pin.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Foiled the Foreman.

At one of the iron works in the north of England a good story is told at the expense of one of the foremen at the blast furnaces.

The men known as the barrow men have a certain number of rounds or barrows of ore to wheel to the furnace during their eight hours of labor.

One stormy night the foreman, who was suffering from a severe headache, retired to his cabin; but, being of a suspicious nature, he left the door open that he might hear if anything unusual took place.

The men had worked steadily on for some time, passing the cabin with each barrow of ore on their way to the lift. At last one man in passing the door remarked loudly to another, "One more round, Pat, and then"—But the foreman, overhearing the remark and knowing it was a long way of "knocking off" time, rushed to the door, exclaiming:

"And then what, my man?"

"And then another," coolly replied the barrow man, and the foreman retired.—Liverpool Mercury.

Foreign and domestic exchange

The daughter of J. T. Harsell, formerly of this city, arrived Monday evening, evidently tired of Ellensburg and bent on a little youthful adventure. Sheriff Lee Wynegar came down on the passenger in quest of her, returning the following afternoon, having located the girl and inducing her to return with him to the burg.

"Doc" Coe, when he reported for duty Thursday morning at the North Yakima drug store, wore a smile that spoke volumes, and this is the way he broke the news to his genial employer: "Doc, listen, while I tell you, for I have news to cheer; wife and I are happy, for the baby's really here." It's a boy and tips the scales at ten and a half and both mother and child are doing well. Doc says the only words of its childish practice he can understand are "Seattle Times."
