OLD RING WINS AGAIN

Sloan Selected for G. O. P. Chairman Over the Armbruster-Hinman Faction—Proxies Decide the Contest.

The newly elected republican county central committee met at the courthouse Thursday afternoon and organized for the ensuing two years. A. D. Sloan was re-elected chairman and C. M. Hauer secretary. The opposing candidates for those positions, who were defeated, were C. H. Hinman for chairman and W. E. Zuppman for secretary. Philip Armbruster was selected as treasurer of the committee.

The vote on chairman showed 14 for Sloan and 11 for Hinman. A. D. Sloan produced four proxies, which on being cast for himself as chairman settled the cat hop, much to the chagrin of the Boxer element, who desired the election of Hinman and a change in the organization of the committee.

P. M. Armbruster had been talked of as a candidate but had subsequently withdrawn from the contest to support Mr. Hinman.

The result was a decisive victory for the old county seat ring, the element of the party that has been in almost uninterrupted control of party affairs in Yakima county for the past 15 years. The Democrat is informed that most of the committeemen below Union Gap favored a change in the organization, as there is said to be a good deal of dissatisfaction down that way with the high-handed methods of the machine and were of the opinion that it was about time for a new deal, but they went home disappointed. There was some rather pronounced and emphatic kicking about the result. The Armbruster-Hinman crowd failed through not having the foresight to have passed a rule to prohibit the voting of proxies as they could have done by reason of having a majority of the committeemen present.

It is said that a majority of the legislative and county candidates had expressed a preference for Sloan for chairman over either Armbruster or Hinman. So it seems likely that the arrangement was all cooked up in advance to re-elect "Doc" Sloan as chairman.

not be because that animals with the necessary speed are not on the ground. In the runners also here's a great deal of promise and the match races alone will be worth the price of admission. In addition to running, trotting and pacing events each day there will be other attractions on the race track, among them buck and squaw races, bucking bronchos and Indian war dances.

Indians from the Colville reservation, some of them warriors with old Chief Joseph in the early days of white settlement in Washington, will dance at the Exhibition scalp dances seldom pan out now that the native tribes are getting further and further away from the memory of actual fighting, and it is hard to get the local Indians to show off, but this dance is sure to materialize since Nespelem Johnny, leader of the band, is a war dancer by profession, having been at the St. Louis World's Fair and other expositions with his half a hundred braves. Johnny knew Sitting Bull and Chiefs Joseph and Moses and the realistic presentation of the scalp dance on the part of his warriors is due, it is claimed, to a participation, on the part of some, at least, in the real thing in days gone by. The dances will take place in front of the grand stand, immediately after the races on Wednesday and Friday of fair week.

Never in the history of the fair has there been such high class entertainment scheduled. Pain's fireworks, the big special attraction of the fair in this line, which is to inaugurate evening shows at the grounds, seldom visits any but the larger cities of the country. It is an expensive affair, requiring between two and three hundred performers, elaborate costumes, a big stage and considerable scenery. The representation this year is of the eruption of Vesuvius in 1906 at the close of a fete day at Naples when the townspeople, in gala attire, celebrated with music, dances, games and acrobatic feats the midsummer festival. The king and queen of Italy with their retinues, together with church dignitaries, attend and are represented in a series of beautiful stage pictures. The performance will be given on a big platform erected for the purpose in front of the grand stand. At the conclusion of the spectacle, a splendid program of fireworks is to be given, designs and set pieces differing from night to night.

Two big excursions from the Sound have been arranged for Wednesday and Friday, the former being Tacoma

ELECT BRYAN AND EXCLUDE ASIATICS

Democratic Platform Should Appeal Strongly to People of Pacific Coast--Is Opposed to Admission of Japs and Chinese.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Concerning Asiatic immigration the national democratic platform has the following plank:

"We are opposed to the admission of Asiatic immigrants who cannot be amalgamated with our population, or whose presence among us would raise a race issue and involve us in diplomatic controversies with Oriental powers."

The national republican platform contains no plank nor reference to the coming into the United States or residence therein of Chinese, Japanese or other Asiatic immigrants.

In his letter of acceptance Mr. Taft says: "In the matter of limitation upon Asiatic immigration referred to in the democratic platform, it is sufficient to say that the present republican administration has shown itself able, by diplomatic negotiation and without unnecessary friction with self-respecting governments, to minimize the evils suggested, and a subsequent republican administration may be counted on to continue the same policy."

According to its platform the democratic party proposes to abolish Asiatic immigration; the republican party, by the declaration of Mr. Taft, proposes simply to minimize it. Mr. Taft further proposes to continue the policy of President Roosevelt concerning the same. The policy of President Roosevelt has not been favorable to the exclusion of Asiatics from this country. His enforcement of the Chinese treaty has been marked by a desire to "liberalize" the so-called harshness of the Chinese exclusion act so as to make admissions of Chinese to the country.

Our treaty with China by settled construction, excludes all "Chinese persons or persons of Chinese descent, except officials, teachers, students, merchants, of travelers for pleasure or curiosity." These classes last named constitute the "exempt class." In his message to congress of January 5, 1905, President Roosevelt says: "Our laws and treaties should be framed, not so as to put these people in the excepted classes, but to state that we admit all Chinese, except Chinese of the coolie class, Chinese skilled or unskilled laborers, Chinese students, business and professional men of all kinds—not only merchants, but bankers, doctors, manufacturers, professors, travelers, and the like, should be encouraged to come here, and treated on precisely the same footing that we treat students, business men, travelers and the like of other men."

Secretary Straus, of the department of commerce and labor, in his annual report for the year 1907, most heartily indorses this liberal policy of President Roosevelt and his recommendations in the message above referred to. Nevertheless, as is abundantly shown by the reports of Secretary Straus and of his predecessor, and by the reports of the commissioner of immigration, Frank P. Sargent, this construction of the Chinese treaty and this method of enforcing the exclusion law has resulted in the unlawful coming into our country, at our ports and along the Mexican and British boundary lines, of large numbers of Chinese and other Asiatic immigrants who should have been excluded under the strict enforcement of the same. This is the policy which Mr. Taft has pledged himself "to continue."

The policy of the republican party as maintained by President Roosevelt and to be continued by Mr. Taft if elected to the presidency, is to invite all classes of Chinese and other Asiatics to enter our open ports, except coolies and laborers; and, practically, by construction of present treaties and laws, to make it easier for the coolie and the laboring class to wriggle into this country.

Our laws have forbidden the naturalization of Chinamen, and have withheld from them the right of suffrage. Herefore this policy has been pursued as against all Asiatic Mongolians. But President Roosevelt in his message to congress (second session, 59th congress), says: "I recommend to congress that an act be passed specifically providing for the naturalization of Japanese who come here intending to become American citizens."

As a rule the Chinese who come to this country do not desire to become citizens, and very generally intend to return to China eventually. The Japanese, on the contrary, are eager to come here to make permanent homes, and to become citizens. Citizenship carries with it the right to own land and to become active competitors in all branches of trade. The number of Japanese who can enter this country and thus become citizens, if the recommendation of President Roosevelt is put in force, will easily run up into the millions. But for the operation of the Chinese exclusion act the number of Chinese on the Pacific slope would today largely exceed in numbers the white population there. Let Japanese immigration continue unchecked and confer upon Japanese the right of citizenship, the time will not be far distant when large areas of this country, not only on the Pacific coast, but on this side of the Rocky mountains, to a great degree would be Oriental in population and civilization.

A bill introduced by Representative Haynes (republican), of California, during the present congress, to exclude from this country all Asiatics of Mongolian, Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Tartar, Malayan, Hindoo, or of other Mongolian extraction, except such exempt classes as are provided for in the Chinese treaty above mentioned, was not permitted by the republican administration to come out of its pigeon hole in the committee room; and it was publicly stated and generally understood that President Roosevelt would veto the bill if it had been passed. A similar bill introduced by Representative French, of Idaho, was likewise sidetracked by the present administration.

It thus appears that the issue as to Asiatic immigration is pretty clearly drawn by the platforms of the respective parties and by the declared and well known views of the presidential candidates.

The importance of this issue in its bearing upon the result of the coming presidential election is apparent. The president with the advice and consent of the senate, has the power to make treaties; and in this regard, as with most things else under the centralizing tendency of recent administrations, the wish of the president sways very largely the giving or withholding of consent by the senate to such treaties as he has negotiated. The present treaty with Japan expires in 1912, and under its terms free entrance to this country is given to all classes of Japanese people.

It is not at all probable that President Roosevelt or Mr. Taft, if he becomes president, will negotiate a treaty limiting the admission of Japanese to any perceptible extent. Neither of them is in favor of the exclusion of Japanese or of any Asiatics along the lines of the bill introduced by Representative Haynes herein referred to. The election of Mr. Taft at best means the minimizing of what he recognizes to be an "evil." To what alarming proportions such "evil" may swell in the body politic, if not extirpated, is as difficult to predict as would be the minimizing treatment of a cancer followed by the physician called upon to treat a patient afflicted with that disease. The democratic party proposes to eradicate and shut out from American civilization for all future time the virus of Oriental contamination. No greater issue in all the coming campaign is before the people—and it is "up to" the people to decide.

Yakima Birds and Animals.
A small but interesting collection of birds and animals, native to the district, is to be seen in the window of Tennant & Miles. The mounting of the specimens is the work of A. S. Harmer and H. Park, taxidermists, who have recently established in business here. The most striking exhibit, perhaps, is that of two weasels, on account of their characteristic pose and fine setting. Besides this, the collection includes a great horned owl, grousehawk, meadow lark, grey squirrel and kingfisher. All these have been obtained in a near radius to the city.

CLINE WINS OVER McCREDY

Wapato Man's Plurality Disappears in Judicial Count—W. H. Cline's Name Will Go On Ticket for Representative.

The contest case of W. H. Cline vs. Alex E. McCredy to decide which of the two republican candidates is entitled to be considered the second nominee for the legislature was called in the superior court Thursday morning by Judge Preble. Mr. Cline, the contestant, was represented by Attorney H. J. Snively, while Englehart & Rigg appeared for Mr. McCredy.

Mr. Cline in his complaint asking for a re-count and a decision by the court set forth as a fact that certain errors had been made in three precincts, namely: First ward of North Yakima, Belma and West Sunnyside, in which had the count been made correctly Mr. Cline would have gained a plurality. As it was Mr. McCredy was declared the nominee by the official canvassing board by the bare plurality of 20 votes.

The recount of the ballots in the three disputed precincts is practically sure to result in Mr. Cline's favor on the merits of the case. In Belma precinct alone it was shown in court that 28 votes for Cline and six for McCredy had been thrown out by the primary board on the ground that the persons casting them had voted for but one candidate for the legislature instead of "Vote for two," as the ballot directed. This provision of the law was regarded as "mandatory" by the board instead of being merely "advisory". This change of 22 net votes in Cline's favor wiped out McCredy's plurality entirely. West Sunnyside showed a gain of five for Cline and the First ward of this city eight, making a total plurality of 15 for the Sunnyside merchant. While Judge Preble's decision had not been rendered at the time this was written there can hardly be any doubt as to what that decision will be. Mr. Cline will be the nominee.

W. F. F. SELLECK CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

North Yakima, Wash., Sept. 21, 1908. To the Voters of Yakima County:

In reply to the numerous inquiries as to my running for the office of school superintendent of Yakima county, I will say that after due consideration of the needs of the position, the opportunity for faithful and efficient service in the educational work of the county, and my fitness for the work as expressed by the many men of various political affiliations who have asked me to run and who have offered me their support, I have decided to make the race.

The nomination tendered me by the democratic party came entirely without my solicitation or expectation; in fact, had I been requested to allow my name to be used in that connection, I should have refused my consent. Believing, however, that the best interests of the schools of the county demand the selection of an officer of first class qualifications and successful experience, irrespective of party, and knowing that a large number of the voters so look at the matter, ask for votes at the coming election on the ground of my qualifications.

If elected to this office I shall give to it my best efforts, and the benefit of my years of experience as an educator.

Here is a brief account of my record and qualifications:

1. Graduate from country, high and normal schools and university.

2. Taught in country, high and normal schools and academy.

3. City superintendent for 17 years, two years as superintendent of North Yakima schools.

4. Conductor of State Summer Training schools for country teachers for 14 years.

5. Hold highest grade Life Certificate from New York and Minnesota.

6. Hold first grade certificate from this state.

Very respectfully,
W. F. F. SELLECK.

Strahorn Branching Out.

A recent dispatch from Kennewick says:

The Kennewick water and lighting system has been sold to the Northwest Light & Water Company, of North Yakima. The same company has purchased the Pasco water and light system with the view of putting a transmission line down the Yakima valley from North Yakima, where they have a large power plant. The company intends to supply the different towns in the valley with light and water and to also furnish power for several irrigation projects. The Northwest company expects to start work at once on the new line, and Manager Arrowsmith has placed an order for $50,000 worth of wire to be delivered at once. The company is pushing the construction to enable them to pump water on 3,500 acres of land which they own near town.

THE STATE FAIR

Larger Displays Than Ever This Year—Large Stock Exhibits—Street Cars Run to Grounds.

The State Fair of Washington opens Monday morning. The indications are that the 1908 fair will eclipse all others.

Lights in the horticultural and machinery buildings so that the exhibits in those departments may be inspected by night visitors at the grounds are among the innovations of this year. The night amusement feature is another and still another is the street car transportation to the grounds though for this last the state fair commission is not altogether responsible. It did, however, do everything in its power to assist and encourage the street railway people in the undertaking and with excellent results.

In the exhibit departments the fair this year will be stronger than ever before, as is only natural, when one considers the development of the country from which it can draw entries. There is every reason to believe that horses, cattle, sheep and hogs will aggregate loo head and certainly the cattle and hog departments will be superior. In fruit there is every reason to believe that the display of last year will be excelled though the effort made last year to draw out exhibits has not been repeated this time. Chelan, Kittitas, Spokane, Yakima, Benton and one or two other counties are sending their best fruits. In vegetables and general farm products this year will excel, special prizes having been offered in an effort to draw out that class of competition. In the machinery departments there is no question that there will be much to interest. All sorts of farm machinery, including a great many different kinds of gasoline engines, are to be shown and one type of machinery entirely new to the whole people of this state will be the milking machines in the dairy department.

Additional bleachers have been constructed to accommodate the thousands who will want to see the horse races and in that respect the improvement was greatly needed. The harness events will, on the average, be faster, both in the trotting and pacing divisions, than ever before and if the track records at both styles of gait are not broken it will

CITY POLITICS

L. O. Janeck and H. H. Schott Opposing Candidates for Mayor—Must File by Oct. 10.

Although North Yakima's city election is still more than two months ahead there is already considerable talk as to candidates.

Under the primary law nominations must be filed with the city clerk previous to October 10. The primary election will be held November 10 and the municipal election December 8.

Councilman L. O. Janeck, of the Second ward, is an avowed candidate for the mayoralty and is said to have filed his declaration to that effect. The opposition to Mr. Janeck, and there appears to be considerable, is looking for an available candidate and it is believed that the man to be chosen will be H. A. Schott, present councilman-at-large. George Donald, president of the Yakima National Bank, has been asked to be a candidate for mayor, but has refused to even consider the proposition.

Ex-Councilman Armbruster, president of the Farmers and Merchants bank, has not yet announced whether he will make a third race for the mayoralty or not. It is understood that Mr. Armbruster is in favor of drawing strict party lines in the municipal fight this year, but it is not deemed likely that such a proposal will meet with much favor.

H. H. Lombard, the present mayor, will not be a candidate for re-election. The first and most essential thing is that he does not care for the job and its many responsibilities any longer. The others are that the mayor is building a fine residence out on the hill which will place him outside of the city limits when he takes up his abode there. No more mayoralty glory for Mr. Lombard.

Landlord Turnell, of the Pacific hotel, is the only candidate for the council who has filed as yet, he being a resident of the Fifth ward. The out-going member of the Fifth ward is Harry W. Mull, who defeated Mr. Turnell for the place two years ago by two votes.

Four vacancies will occur in the council this year. H. H. Schott, councilman at large; Fred E. Shaw, First ward; L. L. Smith, Third ward, and H. W. Mull, in the Fifth. It is understood that Messrs Smith and Mull will file as candidates again to succeed themselves.

For city treasurer there is no talk of any candidate thus far other than C. R. Donovan, the present incumbent. It is understood also that J. C. Brooker will be a candidate to succeed himself as clerk.

For city attorney Messrs. Lynch, Allen and Udell are pronounced candidates and there will likely be a hot contest, especially as between the two first names, both of whom are popular young lawyers.

The situation is not yet well enough developed to forecast the probable lineup. As for an issue there appears to be none talked of as yet other than who is to hold the offices. This placid situation, however, may suddenly change in case Mr. Armbruster decided to run for mayor again. There is always an issue when the attenuated statesman from the Fourth ward is a candidate.

INDEPENDENT TICKET

Dissatisfied Republicans of Third District Nominate Stahlhut for Commissioner at Sunnyside.

The dissatisfied republican voters of the third commissioners' district of Yakima county have made good their threat and placed an independent candidate for county commissioner in the field in the person of Wm. Stahlhut, of Sunnyside, one of the defeated candidates for that office in the republican primary. The convention which placed Mr. Stahlhut in nomination was held at Sunnyside last Tuesday and was composed of delegates from all the precincts in the third district.

This action has been taken because of the general dissatisfaction existing in the third district because of the re-nomination of the present commissioner from that district. Wm. Lemay, whose home is at Mabton. It appears that Mr. Lemay does not suit a portion of the people down that way. However, he was renominated at the primary as against the other four candidates, due mainly to the fact that Lemay polled a big vote in North Yakima. The commissioner to be elected from the third district this year will hold office for four years.

The primary law appears to make no provision for a case like this and how to get Mr. Stahlhut's name on the official ballot is a matter that is bothering his supporters just now. His name, of course, if it appears on the ticket, must be placed under the head of "Independent." Some are of the opinion that Mr. Stahlhut's name cannot appear in regular form on the ticket at all, but that his friends in voting for him will either have to write his name in or use stickers.

The Monarch

Pays for Itself—Why Try to Get Along Without One.

Frequent failures can't be avoided with an ordinary steel range or cook stove.

Why put up with such embarrassments and inconveniences?

Why not know the delightful satisfaction of always having your work perfectly done—that comes from using a Monarch Range?

You might just as well have one. It will effect a saving in fuel and repair bills that, in a short time, will Pay Its Entire First Cost. "It pays for itself." Let us Show you how it does it.

It's Because of the Monarch's Construction

There is no Mystery about this. We can explain it to your entire satisfaction. It's simply that the Monarch is built differently from the others.

Unbreakable Malleable iron is used for those parts that are made of brittle cast iron in all of the "common sort" of steel ranges. Frames of this material are joined to the steel of the body and oven by cold driven rivets, forming permanently air tight joints.

Ordinary Steel Ranges Actually Waste Fuel

Ordinary ranges which are made of cast or grey iron and sheet steel must be bolted together and caulked with stove putty. After a very short time of use these bolts work loose, the putty falls out of the seams and outside air rushes into the flues and firebox—through every joint.

These "air-leaks" waste fuel—cause slow baking—poor work.

To Users of Two to Five Year Old Steel Ranges

Bear in mind that the Monarch not only pays for itself, but for unlimited years it will do your work with one-third to one-half less fuel than other ranges use. So it's not economy by any means to continue to use a common range, though it is only a few years old. It's rank extravagance. Make the change NOW.

Valley Hardware Co.

Ask for Gordon

The democratic candidate for commissioner in the third district is James Wandling, a large wheat grower, who lives south of Mabton. Mr. Wandling is a man of more than ordinary ability and if elected would undoubtedly make a most acceptable commissioner.

Death of Pioneer Woman.

Mrs. Martha Goodwin Beck, widow of the late Judge John W. Beck, died at her residence, 315 N. Ninth street at 5 a. m. Monday, aged 78 years. The funeral was held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from Flint & Shaw's undertaking parlors, with burial in Tahoma cemetery. Death was due to ailments peculiar to old age.

Mrs. Beck was a pioneer woman of central Washington. She was born in Missouri and crossed the plains with her husband and children in 1868, the family settling at Walla Walla. After a residence there of three or four years they removed to Yakima. Her husband, John W. Beck, was a prominent figure in Yakima in the early days. For a time after their arrival here Mrs. Beck taught school near Yakima City. She was a woman of pronounced literary taste and was a very fair writer of verse.

Mrs. Beck was the mother of four stalwart sons, James A., Ross, Douglas and Orlando. With the exception of Ross, who died about eight years ago, these all survive and are well known citizens of this county. The late Judge Beck died at his home in this city in 1903.

"Grandma" Beck, as she was familiarly known, was a woman of kind heart who will be remembered by all who knew her.

PRIMARY LAW

A Well Known Contributor States His Objections to it.

Nile, Wash., September 21. Editor Democrat: My opinion, given in The Democrat some time ago, has been proven correct in regard to the direct primary law.

After the election there is much dissatisfaction for there were many who had been voting independent of party, at other elections, could not do so at this, so were compelled to vote for men they did not want, and omit those they did want. Every voter had to vote a straight ticket, yaller dog and all.

The Republic says independent voters should stay at home or make a party of his own.

This is not republicanism. A man has just the same right to say who shall be the candidate as he has to say who shall hold the office, regardless of party. A part of the ticket was no-partisan and it could all be, with the same consistency.

Political liberty is the grand pillar of support to this great nation and every one of its citizens has a right to express his opinions on all public matters.

This primary law was intended to keep out all new parties and suppress all but the grand old party. We can well see that any new party must have a good start before it can have 10 per cent of the entire vote.

This is not the only means of suppressing new parties; their speakers are arrested when trying to speak on the streets. This excites my indignation. Is this a land of free speech?

Yet they say we are progressing. I deny it and will meet anyone in debate on this proposition. We are on the decline on these points, politically morally, physically and mentally.

JAMES BECK.

DOUST SPENT SEVEN CENTS

Swears This Amount Represents Expense Account in Campaign.

The smallest and most remarkable expense bill of the recent primary election was filed last Tuesday in the auditor's office by Justice of the Peace H. B. Doust. Judge Doust declares that he spent only 7 cents in an effort to secure for himself the nomination on the republican ticket of justice of the peace for North Yakima. He was defeated by H. D. Hunt, who spent considerably more than 7 cents. This fact may account for the defeat of the popular present holder of the office, who was assured by his friends that he had a cinch on the nomination before the ballots were counted. The itemized account of Judge Doust shows that he gave C. E. Lum a 5-cent cigar and that he spent 2 cents for postage in sending his declaration papers from Lake Keechelus to Auditor Crocker.

Judge Doust easily holds the record in the state of Washington in this respect among all the numerous candidates for office.

AS TO LOCAL OFFICIALS.

The voters of Yakima county, and especially the taxpaying voters, should carefully compare the opposing candidates for county officers at the coming election.

The democratic ticket is made up in its entirety of competent men and the candidates are all taxpaying—not tax-eating citizens. None of them are professional office-seekers and none have every made their living by holding office with the exception of the nominee for sheriff, who has served one term.

The time has come when a change is urgently needed in a number of the county offices here. The expense of administration in Yakima county has come to be something frightful and the expense is increasing year after year by leaps and bounds.

Public office has come to be regarded as a private snap. Some of the county offices contain so many deputies and clerks that they often appear to be in each other's way.

The Democrat believes that the county commissioners are somewhat subject to censure for this unhealthy state of affairs. The commissioners without doubt are honest, well-meaning men, but they appear to be over-indulgent and they are not sufficiently watchful.

The new Yakima county courthouse and jail, including furniture and improvement of grounds, cost the taxpayers $129,814.50, which is nearly $30,000 more than the estimated expense. Perhaps this would not be so bad if the public had got its money's worth, but it is quite evident that it has not. The big building is of faulty construction, a fact that stares the visitor fully in the face as he walks through it.

Taxes are valiantly high here in Yakima, altogether too high for what the taxpayer gets in exchange. This applies, we think, not only to taxes for county purposes, but for municipal and school purposes, especially in district No. 7, which includes North Yakima.

Perhaps four-fifths, or even nine-tenths of the direct taxes that the average man pays is levied for local purposes. Therefore the election of local officials who have the control and disbursement of huge sums of public money is, or ought to be, of transcendent importance. Yet men will wrangle and holler 'till they are hoarse over their choice of a president, a governor, or an election of United States senator until they lose sight almost entirely of the character and ability of men they choose to fill the local offices, which really concern them much more intimately. The truth of this statement was clearly exhibited in the late primaries.

Experience has often shown that it is unwise to leave the same men, or the same clique, in office for too long a time. Even though they do not grow corrupt they are apt to acquire the feeling after a time that they own the office and that any other man who aspires to it is an interloper and intruder.

Size up the candidates on both tickets for local offices, Mr. Voter, and make up your mind to vote intelligently in this election, and for your own interest as well as for the interest of the community. In that way only can you ever hope to have satisfactory local officials.

ON THE RUN.

The most casual perusal of the press dispatches these days leads one to the conclusion that Mr. Bryan has Mr. Taft on the run. As one man facetiously remarked, Taft's first duty at the breakfast table is to dictate some kind of an explanation.

There are many who will commend this course of the democratic candidate. There has been a little too much talk of Taft's greatness as a man; a little too much endeavor to make it appear that if Taft was let alone he would be a startling success in the presidential chair. Of course, what Taft would be were he let alone is really a minor proposition, since it is apparent that the influences which surround him in this campaign preclude any such possibility; but in this campaign emphasis should be laid on the fact that Taft is by nature and environment a bureaucrat.

Taft as a bureaucrat, as Mr. Bryan aptly remarks, has much to explain. He was placed in charge of affairs in the Philippines on the organization of the civil government there, and although we hear much nowadays of Taft's "constructive statesmanship" those who have actually seen the result of Taft's performances in the faraway islands fail to see where the statesmanship was applied or where the constructive part of the program came in unless by that is meant the construction of the most expensive civil government in the world and the creation of a horde of office-holders.

Taft's monument in the Philippines, literally speaking, will be the Benguet road, a wagon road to a mountain summer resort on the island of Luzon, which cost the taxpayers of the down-trodden islands over $2,000,000. When it is considered that this road is used solely by the office-holding bureaucracy of the islands, in order to escape the heat of Manila during the warm months, the full measure of Taft's "statesmanship" may be appreciated. Add to this the perpetual franchise granted to the railroad company now building in the islands, under which the company has not only the exclusive right to construct steam railroads in the Philippines, but has the guarantee of the government that their road will perpetually earn 4 per cent on the investment, and another sidelight on the "statesmanship" of the republican candidate is available. Surely, Mr. Bryan was right when he said that Mr. Taft had much to explain.—Walla Walla Statesman.

"FIRE ALARM" FORAKER

Hearst, the Ishmaelite, handed Senator Foraker a hot one the other day at Columbus, O. By means peculiar to yellow journalism Hearst had got hold of certain letters written by John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil company and addressed to "My Dear Senator." These letters, the authenticity of which Foraker does not attempt to deny, show clearly that Foraker was, at least, the hired attorney of the Standard Oil company and that he repeatedly used his position in the senate to quietly smother pending bills for the regulation of Standard Oil and that he also used his political prestige in Ohio to prevent the nomination of officials distasteful to that great monopoly. In these telltale letters Archbold speaks of having remitted to Foraker two checks to the total amount of $29,500 in payment of the senator's "valuable legal services."

Senator Foraker in his reply to Hearst does not deny the genuineness of the letters but lamely attempts to defend himself on the ground that it was customary for senators to represent corporate interests in the senate during his first term in that body and that nothing was thought of it. Foraker further declares that he is not now the attorney of the Standard Oil company, having quit its service when Roosevelt made such service unfashionable. Foraker seems to think that his very lame explanation is all that is necessary to smooth the matter over. Although he is regarded as a great lawyer Foraker does not seem to realize that he has fully convicted himself out of his own mouth and that he now stands before the world a self-confessed criminal, who is even more guilty than was Senator Burton, of Kansas, who was expelled from the senate and sent to the penitentiary on conviction for a similar crime, the only difference being that Burton's wrongdoing was only petty as compared with Foraker's.

And yet Foraker, whose reputation for venality has long been known, is the same man that Mr. Taft greeted so warmly the other day and made a famous "peace pact" with. It is the same Foraker who is to take the stump to help elect Mr. Taft. It is the same Foraker who has the effrontery to ask the people of Ohio to send him back to the national senate. It is the same Foraker who asked the nomination a few months ago to the presidency.

Another great light of the republican party has flickered out.

DUPONT OF DELAWARE.

T. Coleman DuPont head of the notorious powder trust of America and brother of U. S. Senator DuPont of Delaware, is one of the ten men in charge of Mr. Taft's campaign. Mr. DuPont is not only a member of the executive campaign committee, but he is the chairman of the sub-committee on speakers. Mr. DuPont of Delaware is the man who assigns republican spellbinders to different sections of the country and directs them as to what they shall orate about.

And yet this same Mr. DuPont, or rather the great powder trust of which he is the head, is now under indictment before Judge George Gray's court in Delaware for gross violations of the Sherman anti-trust law.

It would be interesting to know what sort of instructions Mr. DuPont gives his spellbinders when he sends them out on the stump to "hoop it up for Mr. Taft." Does he tell them to keep pounding away at the trusts? Does he authorize them to say that Mr. Taft when elected will see to it that convicted trust magnates go to jail?

Mr. Bryan is asking these embarrassing questions in his speeches, but he gets no reply other than a sneer. Mr. Taft and his chief flegmen are apparently unable to see the humor of the situation and their own glaring inconsistency. They evidently put DuPont on the committee because of his usefulness as a "fat fryer." Of course, Mr. Taft, once he is in the White House will vigorously prosecute DuPont and send him to jail if possible.

Lord of love, such hypocrisy!

The socialist leaders want Taft elected rather than Bryan, knowing their own cause to be hopeless in this campaign. Why do they want Taft elected? For the simple reason that they well know that Taft's election would best promote and encourage the growth of socialism. Why? Because they believe that under Taft's administration the trusts would continue to grow and prosper and incidentally convert more to become socialists. In a speech the other day Debs truthfully said: "Let the trusts keep on for they are making more socialists every day than we do with our propaganda." That is the reason why the socialists hope for Taft's election. Bryan they fear, would find a way to either regulate the trusts or to crush them, and that is the very thing that your socialist doesn't want.

It is very probable that Chanler will defeat Hughes for the governorship of New York and that he will also aid Mr. Bryan materially in carrying the empire state. Gov. Hughes, while undoubtedly a well meaning man, has made his administration very thoroughly disliked by thousands of New Yorkers who are by no means law breakers. And the fact that Roosevelt and Taft forced the renomination of Hughes will not serve to strengthen Taft's chances in New York. The big Empire state is in the doubtful column again this year with the chances favoring the democrats.

The story circulated last week by some of the state newspapers that McBride and Coon proposed to test the validity of the second choice provisions of the direct primary law by bringing the question before the supreme court for a decision turns out to be a hoax and is vigorously denied by both the defeated candidates. However, it is too bad that the story is not true. The second choice provision is an absurdity that should be cut out of the primary law. It is a fool provision that has no place in the primary law of any of the other states.

There was great doings at the little town of Pomeroy the other day when "Farmer" Cosgrove came triumphantly home bearing proudly in his arms the long coveted nomination for governor, even though it came only as a second choice proposition. In addressing his enthusiastic neighbors the "farmer" said that he would tell them a secret. The secret was that he, "Farmer" Cosgrove, had had a very great yearning for the past 30 years to be governor. Not much of a secret that. But "Farmer" Cosgrove really seems to have a sense of humor.

Bourke Cockran, political turncoat and chameleon though he be, is nevertheless a keen judge of men. Cockran says that Taft is simply foolish to put himself up against Bryan on the stump as the Ohio man is sure to get the worst of every encounter. And he has had to take the worst of it until he finally announced that he would not come back again. Talk of a joint debate it merely word play for Mr. Taft would never "come through." There is no public man in America who can successfully cope with Bryan in political debate.

Speaking of a suitable man for mayor of North Yakima, what is the matter with Mr. George Donald? He is a man possessed of executive ability of the first order. His worst enemy, if he has any, will admit that he is absolutely "square." The people all know that if selected for mayor he would do his duty by the city and by its people. Being a bashful man Mr. Donald would have to be dragged into the race, but once in he would render a good account of himself and he would win. And he is the stamp of man that the people want.

Mr. Chairman Hitchcock of the republican national committee appears to be a very important man in this campaign—in his own estimation. Not a day passes but he is reported to be taking a great leap from one part of the country to another and then reporting that all is well. Hitchcock has come to be considered the joke of the campaign. He certainly is a small figure to be occupying the place of Mark Hanna. The g. o. p. campaign is bound to be a failure unless Roosevelt and Harriman get in and take charge.

As was to have been expected "Teddy, the terrible" has butted into the campaign and in his characteristic way says: "The next job I have on hand is the election of Mr. Taft." Yes, and Teddy will find it the toughest job he ever yet undertook. Since Mr. Roosevelt disregards the dignity of his high office to take a hand in the scrap he need not be surprised to hear some unpleasant truths about himself. So believing Mr. Bryan has already begun to train his heaviest guns on the White House.

We are waiting to see whether or not the esteemed P. I. proposes to come through in aiding the democrats in the defeat of those two notoriously "unworthy" candidates Sam H. Nichols and J. H. Schively. That paper denounced both as unfit to hold public office before the primaries, but has been silent as a clam since. If the P. I. statement that Schively is a "pretty grafter" be true will that able journal of reform help to foist him again upon a long suffering public? Will that paper speak out?

"Old Uncle Joe" Cannon has a fight on his hands this year in his effort to get back to congress and the chance seems good that the old sinner will be left at home. Sam Gompers and his federation of labor are after the old man's political scalp and so are the church people, especially the fighting Methodists. May the God of justice lend strength to their right arms, for if any man deserves speedy political death in this country that man is Joe Cannon, the tyrannical speaker of the house.

Every Pacific coast state should support Bryan and Kern this year on the Asiatic immigration question, if on no other. The democratic party has declared emphatically in favor of sharply restricting such immigration. On the other hand the republican platform is painfully silent on that great question. As for Mr. Taft he is on record clearly against restrictive legislation. Read what Mr. A. W. Thomas, a well known authority, says on this subject in this issue of The Democrat.

It is welcome news to many school patrons of this county that W. F. F. Selleck has decided to accept the democratic nomination for superintendent of schools. Prof. Selleck is an able and experienced educator and was for several years superintendent of the North Yakima city schools. He has all the qualifications to make a most acceptable county superintendent, an office, by the way, of very great importance that should have no connections with partisan politics.

Now that Senator Foraker has been fully exposed, convicted by his own confession, the republican campaign committee has no further use for him on the stump and has told him so. His fellow townsman, Taft, has known Foraker intimately for the past 25 years and he must have known that Foraker is a crooked statesman. But now that Foraker has been fully shown up by Hearst, Taft don't want his services. What hypocrisy!

Senator Ank refuses to say whether he will carry his senatorial fight into the legislature or not. "Boss" Crocker will decide that point and before he decides he will first have to know how much the old man is willing to "cough up." In Illinois Foss, the defeated man, is going ahead to make his fight in the legislature, claiming that the wicked democrats nominated Hopkins. Ankeny might set up the same charge in this state.

Unquestionably Bryan has got the republican managers scared. They are scared so bad that they are now trying the old trick of scaring the people. They are falling back on Mark Hanna's tactics of 1896, a big scare and a big boodle fund. That is what that venerable sinner, the Portland Oregonian, means when it says the two great cities of New York and Chicago will settle this election. In other words the purchasable vote.

Hitchcocks is not giving satisfaction as chairman of the national republican committee and the chances are that he will be dethroned to make way for the astute and unscrupulous Senator Crane of Massachusetts, who is a Mark Hanna stripe of politician and believes thoroughly in the distribution of a big corruption fund. Crane is smart enough to see that by that method only can the g. o. p. hope to win.

Theodore A. Bell, of California, who delivered a ringing address in this city last evening, is a campaign orator of great force and power and one who carries conviction to men of open minds. Mr. Bell is very close to Wm. J. Bryan and in the event of the election of the great Nebraskan to the presidency it is deemed most likely that Mr. Bell will be invited to occupy a seat in his cabinet.

"Yakima" Jones has added nothing to his laurels by declining to engage in a joint debate with George F. Cotterill, his democratic opponent for the senate. Mr. Jones excuse for not going into a debate with Cotterill sounds rather puerile. It is true that Cotterill is an able and ready debater. Can it be that Mr. Jones is afraid to meet him on the stump and discuss national issues with him?

Hearst at any rate rendered the public a notable service when he publicly exposed the rank crookedness of "Fire Alarm" Foraker. The Ohio senator is a dead one now. He may still go on the stump to "help elect Taft," but the chances are that he won't be allowed to, in spite of the "peace pact." The downfall of Foraker means another nail in the republican coffin.

The friendly visit paid Judge Parker and David B. Hill by Wm. J. Bryan recently shows conclusively that the different elements of the democratic party are this year united in support of Bryan. There are no democrats with any prefixes this year. They are all supporting the ticket and union of strength means victory.

And so Mr. Jones is to go to Ohio to take the stump to help Mr. Taft to carry his own state. What an admission of weakness this incident of Mr. Jones' trip east shows. Are the g. o. p. managers afraid that Bryan will carry Taft's own state. It certainly looks that way. "There's a cry from Macedonia come and help us."

MARKET SITUATION IS AT PRESENT DULL

Early Fruit Has All Been Shipped and Movement of the Late Kinds Delayed.

Little of an unusual character is occurring in the North Yakima market at this time. As announced Tuesday, hay shipments have fallen off for the present owing to the fact that the west side dealers are pretty well stocked up and have in use all the cars the railroad will allow them.

In fruits it is really between seasons at present, the peaches and pears having been disposed of and the late apples and pears not yet being ready, or the lack of quotations holding them back. It is expected, of course, that the fall movement of fruit will be more extensive than anything of the kind ever known here before because of the greater quantity grown. There is a lamentable lack of prices offered, however, and until the market improves nothing may be expected. It is a strong belief that as many apples as possible will be stored in the expectation of improved conditions. In the meantime shippers are declaring that some of the fruit for the distant east should now be handled.

Seek a Foreign Market.

Wenatchee fruit growers, recognizing the situation and the need, with the increasing crops, of finding an additional market, are sending one of their number to Europe with 10 carloads of their best fruit to ascertain if it is not possible to procure an outlet there for a proportion of their crop. They are also feeling out for such market as is to be found across the Pacific.

In hops there is a greater proportion of the acreage being picked than was at first believed possible. The weather gave the growers ample opportunity to change their minds, which they did, many of them making one year contracts with the buyers and getting their money back at least, though making no profit on their transactions. In a general way it is estimated that about 1000 acres are being picked.

The meat situation is more satisfactory at this time, for those engaged in it, than has been the case for a long time. Lots of cattle are coming in and they are finding a ready sale. Sheep are cheaper and chickens are a liberal offering as well.

Expect An Excellent Week.

Retail merchants are anticipating an excellent week or so in their sales consequent upon the presence here of the state fair exhibitors and patrons. Many thousands of additional mouths will have to be fed in North Yakima next week and the various caterers are preparing for the task.

OPINIONS ON FRUIT FROM APPLE BUYERS

Former North Yakima Man Thinks It a Good Season for Growers to Store.

J. A. Hawks of Phoenix, N. Y., formerly of North Yakima, where with J. L. Hughes he was connected with the ice and storage plant here, which they established, writing from his home, where he has just arrived after a visit to North Yakima, tells Mr. Hughes that so far as he has been able to ascertain in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana are to have a short crop this season in apples. Missouri and Arkansas, he says, are also failures and New York will be an average if not better while Michigan will be moderate. He concludes that the Yakima man who stores will probably not miss it much by following that course.

It is the opinion of buyers, dealers and growers who have made an investigation that the apples are coloring up earlier this season than usual and that the entire crop will be an earlier one. A number of fruit growers have expressed it as their opinion, local dealers say it is the fact and outside buyers say that there is a lot of fruit ready right now to be handled.

Newtowns Are Now Ready.
"I went through some of the local orchards," said a New York buyer who is now here, "and cut a number of the Yellow Newtowns. They are ready right now for outside use. Another two weeks and they won't be worth a cent for shipment. If I were buying the entire crop of the Yakima valley of that kind of apple I would insist that they be sent in to me at once.

"Also I may say that there is a great deal too much fruit on many of the trees. The result of this is that much of the fruit has not reached the proper size. The picking of a portion of the crop at this time would lighten up the trees, enable the rest to fill out and color up and therefore give better net results. However, as a general proposition I may say that many of the orchards I visited had not been properly thinned.

"Further I can say for the information of the fruit growers that there is nothing in sight in the shape of a price. We are not making an offer as the growers, as they feel at present, wouldn't take kindly to what we could name. The greater part of the fruit, I imagine, will stay right where it is unless growers make up their minds to consign. You may hear stories of crop failures but I have been over the territory and the apple yield will be enormous. It will be particularly enormous for a year in which the public generally is not over-exerting itself to buy. I do not know what the consumption will be but I do know that the whole country is working itself back into a normal condition after the late financial stress and that conditions vastly different from those of last year must be expected and that the fruit men must govern themselves accordingly. I anticipate there will be a lot of fruit go into storage, but what about the balance?"

Kittitas Fruit for the Fair.

J. C. Hubbell, state fair commissioner, is busy at Ellensburg preparing an exhibit of fruit to be brought here to the state fair September 28-October 3. The Localizer, of Ellensburg, says that Mr. Hubbell has already secured a number of boxes of fine specimen fruit, and he is making daily trips to the fruit growing sections for more. It is planned to secure as many varieties as possible and to ship the display, or a part of it, to the Milwaukee demonstration train at the end of the Yakima fair.

GUY RICHARDS WILL REMOVE TO SEATTLE

Makes Arrangements for In- creased Strength in His Stock Magazine.

Guy McL. Richards, who is now at North Yakima preparing for the stock show at the state fair here, of which he is superintendent, is wearing a charm on his watch chain which is a very pretty affair of gold and inlaid with quartz which bears an inscription to the effect that it is the gift of the stock exhibitors at the Western Washington fair and a tribute of esteem from those who participated. Mr. Richards is preparing to remove his home from North Yakima to Seattle where he will devote his time to editing his magazine, Horn and Hoof. He has made arrangements in Seattle under which the publication will be placed on a much stronger footing than it has enjoyed here and it will require his constant effort as editor and publisher. The removal of Mr. Richards from this city will be felt in many ways. He has been a highly successful booster of the various horse and cattle breeding interests and has shown to the community a strength in those lines it did not know itself to possess.

AMADOR MINE IS SOLD.

Famous Property in Coeur d'Alenes Is Bid in Under a Sheriff's Sale.

McKinnon's famous mine, the Amador, in which John Rudkin and other North Yakima people are interested, has been sold under a sheriff's hammer and the price paid was less than $10,000, though the company is capitalized at $3,000,000. The mine and all the property and effects of the Amador Copper & Gold Mining company were sold at sheriff's sale under a judgment obtained against the company by the Coeur d'Alene Hardware company. The property was bid in at the sale by the judgment creditor for the sum of $7297.84, which is the amount due on the judgment and the costs of the proceeding.

The Amador is one of the best known properties in the country, the sensational disclosures of the operations of Manager McKinnon having brought it into prominence. The company has a capital of $3,000,000 and its stock is held in many cities of the country, where its manager operated extensively. A controversy has been going on recently between mining engineers, some of whom claim that the property is meritorious and others maintaining that it is worthless. The mine is located on the Montana side of the Coeur d'Alenes. The sale of the property was held at Missoula.

BARTLETT'S GOOD SALE.

Ex-Yakima Minister Cleans Up Fortune at Kennewick.

The Kennewick Reporter tells a good story illustrating the rapid advance in land values in that fruit district of the Yakima valley. Four and one-half years ago, according to the news story, Rev. H. M. Bartlett entered upon a tract of irrigated land in that section. He purchased 33 acres at $250 an acre. The land was planted to fruit trees and vines, and a home established. A few days ago one of the homeseekers from Minnesota came along and offered $900 an acre for the farm. The offer was accepted, and the minister received $29,700 for his experience and an investment of $8,250 made less than five years ago.

The sale of his young orchard did not drive the Kennewick minister from the farm. He invested a portion of his funds in another 40-acre tract, near the land he sold. That will be cleared and planted to choice early fruits of the best varieties, and made as valuable as the original orchard from which a fortune was obtained.

DEPOSIT GUARANTY IN THE CAMPAIGN.

The deposit guaranty idea seems to be making its way in the face of the frowns of the financiers of New York and the objections of the elect who do not want it because they do not—and if you want it you do not know anything! It never has been and it shall not be. But are not we going a little too fast? Never has been? When the national government deposits money in banks any and everywhere, does it not insist on having its deposit guaranteed? Yea, verily, it does. When public funds of any kind are deposited in banks, do the custodians thereof have a guaranty? They do. What was the last law that was passed in Indiana concerning the custody of public funds, but that they should be deposited according to bids received, guaranteed, and interest accounted for? Indemnity bonds are an accompaniment of all such deposits. It is only the private depositor who is told that his deposit shall have no guaranty and who is told that the idea is simply a crazy populist doctrine.

But it seems to be reaching into republican precincts too. The republican nominee for governor of republican Kansas is urging the council of the party at once to declare for several things, first of which is a guaranty law. This information, we are told by a dispatch from Hot Springs, was received by Mr. Taft with frowns. The additional surmise is given that a recent request of Senator Hopkins, of Illinois, for a conference with Mr. Taft had to do with this deposit guaranty question, the inference being made because of the coincidence of the request with the Kansas announcement, and because Senator Hopkins was chairman of the committee of the Chicago convention that rejected the deposit guaranty. One thing is certain, the dispatch goes on to say, and that is that the republican leaders are beginning to realize that something must be done to harmonize the issues, for if the leaders are to fight at cross purposes Mr. Taft has less chance of winning.

Verily this is so. The republican campaign is groggy now at the very beginning. It may renew strength and put up a great fight, as doubtless it will, but there is no question that in these preliminary days the democrats have had the better of their opponents. We called attention to the way in which they had driven the republican position on the two questions of campaign publicity and immediate tariff revision. Mr. Taft has had to copy Bryan and strengthen the weak position of his party as best he could by making a sort of campaign fund publicity and by duplicating Bryan's declaration for an immediate extra session of congress to consider the tariff. It has been a distressful time—a party being compelled to modify its position on two such important things before the campaign has fairly begun. And now comes this (as Wall street has it) "wild and woolly" western deposit guaranty question! No wonder Mr. Taft frowned when he heard of the action of the republican candidate for governor of Kansas.

Long ago it was pointed out that the Oklahoma guaranty for deposits would draw deposits from Kansas banks, and that the natural protection would be for Kansas banks to follow suit; and here we have an open advocacy of it. Is the republican cause to be patched again? Must the elephant have a third bandage labeled "deposit guaranty" before he is sent into the arena? But this would not be all. What of the elephant's keepers? It has already been shown that the republican congressional campaign (which is to have no publicity), as run by Mr. Cannon, will be for standpatism and reaction against Roosevelt policies, as Cannon has always stood, while the main campaign will be for Roosevelt policies, with Taft as the exemplar. But how can a house divided against itself stand? The dispatch from Hot Springs is right in theory, whether it is square with fact or not, and that is that republican leaders recognize that they have got to have harmony of counsels. Thus another interesting phase is added to the coming campaign.—Indianapolis News (Ind. Rep.).

HANFORD PEOPLE IN HARD LUCK

According to a Communication Received From Resident in That Vicinity the Situation is Not Very Encouraging.

According to a communication received this week by The Democrat, the situation at Handford, on the Columbia river, is anything but encouraging. The company has been unable to furnish water to the people, many of whom have sold out at great loss and left the country.

It is rumored that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company has bought out the Handford Land & Irrigation company.

This year's crop has been a complete failure, and it is now the belief that water can never be placed upon the land without first covering the bottom of the canal with a coat of concrete to keep it from seeping into the ground. The intake of the canal is 18 miles from the land it was originally designed to water.

A land owner from Handford, a Mr. T. R. Baker, sent the following communication to this office asking for its publication:

Raise Hell at Handford.

"The question of water here for this season is settled. There will be none. There will be nothing raised in this vicinity, except hell. The people had hoped to get water on their lands in time to grow a fall crop of late corn and millet for stock feed, but they have given up this idea, and the larger percentage of the people are loading up their wagons and moving out. The first of September will find Handford practically deserted. The people are pretty sore at the company for failing to furnish water in time for this year's crop. The trouble and failure of the undertaking has been due to mismanagement. The men at the head of the project are to blame, and the people who bought land here expecting to have water in time to raise a crop this year are the innocent victims. The pumps at Coyote Rapids have not been operating for a week. The engineer of the plant says he has no oil for the machinery, and that he cannot operate the plant without oil. He says oil should have been sent by the company from Seattle, but it has not been done.

"Think of such criminal neglect on the part of the company who sold this land to innocent purchasers on a contract which they have failed to keep? Thousands of fruit trees are dying, and everything has dried up.

"In the face of these facts comes the well founded story from Seattle to the effect that the promoters of the Handford schemes have sold us, 'shacks, mortgages, sage brush, sandstorms and all,' to the C. M. & St. P Railroad company.

"The management promised us all kinds of concessions earlier in the season if we would agree not to enter suit for damages. We accepted their terms, waited patiently, and now it comes to our ears that we have been dumped upon the tender mercies of a railroad corporation.

"Ten thousand fruit trees have died within the past month from lack of water. For months they were kept alive by hauling water from the Columbia river. This is the situation at Handford."

OLIVER CROMWELL.

The Greatest Error of His Career Was Charles' Execution.

The greatest error of Cromwell's life was the execution of the king. Not that in this he showed himself a man of blood. There was in him not a particle of the terrorist or of the passion for regicide which slew the helpless king of France. He had been provoked no doubt by Charles' double dealing, but he did not hate him; on the contrary, he was inclined to him and had wished to come to terms with him. Himself brimming with family affection, he had been touched by the sight of Charles with his children. He was impelled to the fatal act by what seemed to him fell necessity and by the uncontrollable wrath of the army against the king, whose perfidious machinations, while he was treating with the parliament for a settlement, had kindled the second civil war, with the Scotch invasion, and brought them and their cause once more into the extremity of peril. It was at the prayer meeting of the soldiers at Windsor, before they marched against Hamilton, that the king's doom was really pronounced. The secret treaty with the Scotch for the invasion of England brought Charles to the block, and his offense surely was capital, though its punishment was most ill advised. The death of the captive king set the king free and absolved the monarchy; it put inexplorable blood between the regicides and a great part of the nation, and flunkysim, far from being sickened, as Carlyle says it was, flourished on the martyrdom and has continued to flourish on it ever since. The success of Ikon Baslike was the proof.—Goldwin Smith in Atlantic.

OFFICIAL VOTE FOR STATE OFFICERS

The totals for the offices of congressman, governor and lieutenant governor, as given in the votes of Yakima county, on the republican ticket, show that Hay was easily in the lead for the latter place notwithstanding the fact that he did not appear here, his work having been done by his friends in this vicinity. Johnson proved more popular for congressman than Poindexter, who is given the credit of having won out in the state at large, but Cosgrove, for governor, maintained about the same lead here, proportionately, as he did in other parts of the state, passing Mead and McBride, his principal opponents, easily. Splawn discovered one friend in the republican ranks, this being a resident of Nob Hill precinct, in this city.

BREAKS HIS ARM TWICE INSIDE OF A FEW WEEKS

Broken bones have been undergone more by the Rankin family this summer than perhaps any other family in North Yakima. George Rankin has broken the same arm twice within the last month, and Arthur, while home on his vacation, broke his wrist. George broke his right wrist some time ago while cranking an automobile. The fracture was set and in a short time the wrist became as strong as ever. Wednesday afternoon while young Rankin was turning somersaults in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium he broke the same arm again, this time in a different place. One of the bones of the right elbow was badly fractured and the young man is suffering considerable pain as a result.

FALL BUILDING ACTIVE

Contractors Say This Is Best Building Season in Five Years.

According to the statements of North Yakima contractors there is more building this fall than there has been in any previous autumn in five years past. Many people have been thinking that this year is a dull one. A trip to any of the outlying suburbs will convince the most doubtful that this city is now undergoing many changes for the better in the shape of house building.

As is the case in nearly all other northwest cities, the building activity is confined chiefly to house building. The reason for the many new homes being erected at this time is due probably, to the low price of lumber. The "build now" slogan has been on the lips of every contractor and architect of the country since the price of lumber first went toward the cellar some months ago. And the people have heeded the advice.

Good Class of Buildings.
The class of buildings which are being erected is somewhat out of the ordinary. Never before has this city seen so many homes of a superior quality being built at one time. If there is a financial stringency in the country it has not found its way to North Yakima, say the contractors. People who ordinarily would build only a humble dwelling, have taken advantage of the low price of building material and, after starting the job, have completed it in the best manner possible, nearly always spending more than they would if the prices of building material were not so cheap.

Look for Advance in Prices.
No one looks for present conditions to continue. Contractors and lumbermen declare building materials will take a sudden advance in the course of two months. It stands to reason that a continuance of low prices on both labor and lumber is not a probability and hardly a possibility.

NO TYPHOID IN CITY WATER

Health Officer Helton Receives Report on Samples of Water Submitted.

Some time ago City Health Officer A. J. Helton sent samples of well water and city water to Seattle for examination. The doctor wished to ascertain whether the water supply of the city is contaminated, and if so, where the sources of contamination may be found. The report on the samples sent does not show the water to be absolutely pure in either case. The well water, according to the report, contains the largest amount of bacterial contamination, but it appears to be of a less serious nature than that of the other two samples. The bacteriologist of the state board names various forms of bacteria present. The samples of city water "are suggestive of sewer pollution," says the report, but the statement is made that the pollution may be due to decaying vegetation.

The report states that it is to be regretted that a careful description of the sources of the samples was not given, as this would have been of material aid in the interpretation of the results.

The samples sent for analysis were small. Dr. Helton expects to send larger samples for further analyses.

Superintendent Arrowsmith, of the water company, will join in making a thorough test of the water. He asserts that aside from traces of decayed vegetable matter, which are very liable to be found in all water brought from the streams, the city supply will be found to be reasonably good when submitted to the most exhaustive tests.

TO TEST PRIMARY LAW

It is the intention of the ex-governor and the present lieutenant governor, it is said, to get out a writ of mandamus, mandamus Secretary of State Sam H. Nichols to declare Henry McBride nominee for governor, and Charles E. Coon lieutenant governor, and that if the decision of the supreme court holds the primary law unconstitutional, that it will also apply to the office of attorney general.

The point is to be made that provision in the primary law counting "second choice" votes, when no candidate receives 40 per cent. first choice votes, is unconstitutional; that in no other state is such a provision in the primary law, where those states operate under the primary system.

Since the unofficial returns showed S. G. Cosgrove successful on second choice votes for the office of governor, and M. E. May the successful nominee for lieutenant governor, there has been great activity among the forces of ex-Governor Henry McBride and Charles E. Coon, both here and elsewhere in the state. Secret conferences have been held and now the reasons for all the activity have been established.

The contention will be set up in the application for the writ of mandamus that both McBride and Coon received the highest percentage of first-choice votes; that the provision for second choice votes is unconstitutional, and that many of those who voted for McBride did not vote for a second choice candidate. It will be pointed out in the pleadings that McBride and Coon are the successful nominees, and that they are, therefore, the choice of a majority of the voters of the state for the respective offices.

The attorneys for McBride and Coon will contend in opposition to the defense that the question had been settled by court decisions in municipal elections, that in the municipal contests nominations had been made and the election held before the decision had been handed down, and that the courts ruled that the people had spoken and there was nothing at that time before the court.

It will be claimed, it is promised, that in the test of the law in the municipal contest the second choice vote provision was not in issue, and that its provision was not only illegal, but that the whole primary law is unconstitutional.

Fruit and Agricultural Exhibits Highly Spoken Of.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week was held the first annual Sunnyside fair. It was a big success according to the reports of Yakima people who went from this place to see the fair and pay their respects to Sunnyside.

The attendance of the fair was fully up to expectations of the management.

Mrs. McKinney, wife of a leading Cle Elum merchant, arrived here day to visit Mrs. Rasch.

JOHN PATTISON

Life Sketch of Democratic Nominee for Governor—A Self Made Man in Every Sense.

One who is called to rule, whether it be the state or the workshop, should know humanity. He should have felt the impulses that work in every strata of human society. He should know the mental processes of those who struggle, as well as those who gather the flowers in the gardens of those who toil. This can only be learned by contact. The greatest of all our rulers are those who came from the lists of those who have been compelled to carve out their own careers.

Lincoln was great because he knew humanity and was therefore humane. In every prayer, in every petition he met disclosure of his own trials. He reassured the motives of men and greatness was to him not an acquired art, but nature in all its simplicity.

John Pattison, present mayor of the city of Colfax and democratic candidate for governor, has measured every phase of human life. His career furnishes material for the novelist, the moralist and the political economist.

He comes from one of the first and best families in the state of New York. When a youngster he was in attendance at the public schools of Albany. He was a good boy, of exemplary conduct and studious habit. He had a good home and was possessed of every comfort that love and luxury could throw around the pampered and favorite child.

He was 13 years of age. One afternoon he was going home from school and inclination led him down to the wharves where the New York boats landed. He knew something of Captain Maryatt and Wayne Read. The impulse, or rather the instinct of the rover seized him. We are all rovers by nature. It is the work of civilization to curb the rover which is in us all. He resolved to run away and go to sea. He hid his books under a rock on the shore, and went aboard a boat which was just pulling out. He was too small to arrest the attention of the purser and thus made his way to New York. That night his lodging was a dry goods box, he had no supper. In the morning he got a cup of coffee, the bounty of a newsboy who shared the common lot of those who are reared in the atmosphere of necessity and was charitable. Undaunted he tried to ship on several vessels, but was rejected by all. Necessity drove him into the ranks of the newsboys and bootblacks. It is interesting to hear Mr. Pattison tell of his experiences while thus engaged. He applied for admission to the newsboys' home, a charity where a bed and meals could be obtained for nominal cost. When asked his name, he said "Jim Pattison." The kindly overseer of the home entered the name as James Patterson, and he became a steady patron of the place, where, posted on the wall was a circular three feet long describing him and offering $1000 in money for information of his whereabouts, if alive. The big policeman on the beat had his shoes blacked every day—for nothing, of course, New York policemen do not give up anything; but this policeman took a great interest in the search for the runaway boy and offered Jim Patterson five dollars if he could find out anything leading to the recovery of the wanderer, John Pattison.

Two years passed by; he considered it safe to move; while they were looking for him he rightly considered it dangerous to get out of their sight. He then went to Chesapeake Bay and worked on the oyster boats. This did not appeal to him. He had the fever in his blood and struck out for the west. It was easy to travel in those days. Conductors were kindhearted. He landed in Colorado and became a miner. He began to earn wages and take an interest in affairs. He resolved to get rich and go back home attended with all the splendor of an eastern potentate—a dream that has occurred to every boy who ever won out in this world. It is the far cry of ambition. He worked for surveying crews, and finally became connected with some big railroad contractors and followed their fortunes through Colorado, Utah, Oregon and finally to Washington. He was a boss and construction foreman on the O. R. & N. line built in 1884 from Connell to Colfax.

At Colfax he became a partner in a hotel and began to make money. He began to feel that pride that comes with fortune however slight, and his dreams of imperial wealth took wings. The love of home and mother became stronger than his design. He telegraphed to his home saying that if they were in search of John Pattison information could be obtained by addressing James Patterson at Colfax. Within a day the Master of the Masonic lodge called him. He had a telegram asking him to find out everything and pay the reward. This was too much for "Pat" as he was called by every one. He told his inquisitor that he would go and tell them himself. The next train bore him on his way. And since that time his duty to visit his aged mother has been religiously observed.

In 1884 he married Mary, the second daughter of Rev. James Cairns, the eminent Baptist divine who with his aged wife recently celebrated their golden wedding in Seattle.

Mr. Pattison became agent for Wells Fargo Express and was elected Justice of the Peace in 1885. He read law with Hon. Mark A. Fullerton and was admitted to practice in 1890, and at once began a career of which every man, woman and child in Whitman county are proud. He has built up and sustained the largest practice and is regarded as the most successful trial lawyer in Whitman county. He enjoys the confidence and esteem of all classes. He is possessed of genial temperament, but is withal a man of fixed opinion. Lawyers say he succeeds so well because he never loses his head. Whether this be so or not, his beautiful home, his large business, his social relations spell the one word with which all men hope to crown their life's success.

In appearance and manner, in geniality and sober contemplation, Mr. Pattison has been likened unto Lincoln. Certain it is that his huge frame spare of flesh and homely presence reminds those who know Lincoln, as they have found him in history, of their idol.

Miss Ida Sharkey and Miss Zelah Fraser entertained at cards last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. L. Steinweg in honor of Miss Mary Bogle and Miss Rena Amos, of Seattle. Miss Bogle and Miss Amos are the guests of Mrs. H. B. Rigg and will visit in the city for several weeks.

CITY AND COUNTY NEWS

Brief Record of Local Happenings for the Week in North Yakima and Vicinity.

W. G. McLaugh, wife and two children are here from Los Angeles on a visit to J. A. Leach and family. Mr. McLaugh is a nephew of Mrs. Leach and is a man of affairs in southern California. He is most favorably impressed with the Yakima country.

Cartoonist Reynolds, of the Tacoma Ledger, is impressed with the value of the Washington State Fair, at North Yakima. In a recent issue he portrayed his conception of the kind of vegetable which will be needed to win a prize here. It sure was some pumpkins.

Dr. C. J. Lynch left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the congress of physicians or antituberculosis convention now in session at the national capital. Dr. Lynch is one of the accredited delegates from this state and was appointed by Gov. Mead.

Guy MacL. Richards, superintendent of the stock department at the state fair, will make his home in Seattle at the conclusion of the fair. Dr. Richards was superintendent of stock at the Western Washington fair. He recently started a monthly stock journal, Horn and Hoof, and has decided to publish it from Seattle.

Hon. Walter J. Reed has been failing very fast in the last week. His brother Prof. D. C. Reed, was called to the bedside of the state senator last Saturday. Senator Reed is confined in a hospital at Tacoma. Every hope is expressed by his many friends in this county that the old Yakima pioneer may survive his present illness.

L. E. Campbell of Goldfield, Nev., is in the city having been called here on account of his wife's illness. Mrs. Campbell is a daughter of the late Col. Boyle. Mr. Campbell since taking up his residence at Goldfield some five years ago has been very successful in the mining business and is now interested in some very valuable property in the famous Goldfield district.

Washington breeders of pure bred stock will be called together here during the state fair for the formation of a Washington Pure Breed Live Stock Breeders' association. Such associations are in existence in other states and there is an absolute need for one here, particularly in connection with the exhibition end of the industry, which is the practical side of the advertising the stockmen do.

Game Warden Mullen, taking advantage of the very low stage of water in the river, has been busy cleaning the fishways at the Cascade dam and at the Sunnyside intake. At the intake, he says, he saw an interesting sight. A number of men were fishing some several hundred feet below the dam and two of them, both using flies, were having great sport with the whitefish which were rising readily to the lure.

O. A. Fechter and John Rudkin left North Yakima Sunday for Kennewick where they are developing new land. Mr. Rudkin plans to make his permanent home in the Columbia river town and to that end has purchased the residence property on Kennewick avenue, of C. W. Weigel, who is the agent in the town of the Northern Pacific railroad. Mr. Rudkin is to take possession on October 12. The consideration of the sale has not been made public but the transaction was a cash one.

Some of the hunters of North Yakima report having seen white brant on Toppenish creek. None of the sportsmen down this way, however, who live here all the time, have as yet seen any white geese. A few red-white-and-blue elephants have been seen browsing in the neighborhood of Calahan's pastures, but they are not at all plentiful. Come to think of it, it doesn't take much of an imagination to see a white goose, anyway. North Yakima hunters who want to see something worth while should buy their liquid camp supplies at Wapato.—Wapato Independent.

Police Officer Mathis, North Yakima's reformatory patrolman who writes letters for the newspapers occasionally concerning the morals of the community is the subject of some discussion just now among the leading business men of the city. Patrolman Mathis has been requested to resign his position on the police force. This he will not do, and because of his refusal a petition is now being circulated on the west side by Druggist C. W. Camp asking the city council to relieve the officer.

Theodore Bell Here. As The Democrat goes to press a democratic meeting is in progress at the courthouse, which is being addressed by ex-Congressman Theodore A. Bell, of California, who was temporary chairman of the national convention at Denver. Mr. Bell has the reputation of being a very eloquent and effective orator. He is delivering these speeches in this state at Tacoma, North Yakima and Spokane.

The blind orator, Senator Thomas A. Gore, of Oklahoma, is also delivering three speeches in the state this week, namely, at Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane. Both gentlemen are speaking under the auspices of the democratic national committee.

THE STATE FAIR

and the latter, Seattle day. Opening day, September 28, will be North Yakima day. Tuesday is called Minnesota day since the Gopher society is perhaps the most active of the native state societies. Re-unions and picnics of the state societies will probably be held on this day and the banner, offered by the state fair officials to the society showing the biggest registration, awarded. Thursday is Yakima valley day, dedicated to the people of the valley from Ellensburg to Pasco.

A string of runners has already arrived at the grounds and the harness horses will come at the conclusion of the Portland races. Twenty-eight trotters and pacers were entered in the late closing events and represent some of the speediest animals tried out on the circuit this year. In the early closing events there were 150 entries.

Superintendents of all departments are asking for more space. Mrs. Carmichael, of the dairy department, would like her allotment of last year doubled. Butter to compete went into storage September 10 in order that its keeping qualities may be tested. Milking machines in operation will be seen here. The gasoline engine, which has become so popular with the rancher for pumping, spraying and spraying and transportation purposes, is to be exhibited in all its various uses and in operation.

An exhibit of children's work from the School for the Blind at Vancouver, Wn., an exhibit from the State Art and Scientific League, of which Miss Cora Weaver, of Ellensburg, is president, and a Swedish lace maker are among a number of excellent features in the art department. Special attention has been paid to the juvenile exhibit and in this department several new premiums are offered.

Already the electric cars run to within a few steps of the entrance to the grounds and the cheap and speedy transportation provided this year is bound to make a big increase in the attendance.

A BEAUTIFUL PAMPHLET

Commercial Club Issues An Attractive Booklet.

Without doubt the Yakima Commercial club has just issued one of the neatest and most attractive booklets dealing with the resources of the Yakima valley that was ever compiled by that body. The booklet is beautifully illustrated and contains short descriptive and instructive stories about the soil, the products and various advantages to be found in the valley. Credit is due to H. P. James, secretary of the club, for the excellence of the production.

Harry B. Averill also assisted materially in the collection of valuable data. The booklet is so folded that it may be addressed and sent through the mails. In the upper left hand corner on the side addressed are the words: "Compliments of the Yakima Commercial Club, North Yakima, Wash."
