DEMOCRATS SUPPRESSED

Parker Meeting Dispersed by Order of Taft in Manila.

MANILA, Oct.-An immense popular demonstration at the Grand opera house n support of Parker and the Democratplatform was broken up last night by orders from the Secretary of War, William H. Taft.

Thousands of people representative of all classes, gathered for the great political meeting and the enthusiasm was tremendous, but the meeting was not permitted to proceed and the immense throng was lorced to disperse and the people filed peacefully away to their homes. This unprecedented action on the part of the Republican administration has aroused great popular indignation. The people resent this reaching of the hand of Taft across the sea to restrain them in exercising one of the basic rights of American liberty, that of free speech.

Beekeepers' Meeting.

There was a very good turnout Saturlay at the called Beekeepers' meeting, which met at the Farm and Home office An organization was formed to be known as the "Yakima County Beekeepers' Association," and in order to be eligible to membership a person must own as many as twenty-five colonies of bees.

J. W. Thornton was made president; Mrs. Cole, secretary and Mrs. Thornton treasurer. There were enrolled eleven members. The next meeting will be held on the first Saturday in November at 1 o'clock in the office of the "Farm and Home." At this time the adoption of a constitution and by-laws will be passed upon. The object of the beekeep ers' association is to work together for the benefit and development of the honey industry. To establish a price for honey in this county. Everyone interested in bees are invited to attend the association's meetings.

He had conduct ed a confectionery shop there and this summer was induced by a real estate man of this city, J. P. Mayer, to sell out his interests in Roslyn to come here and invest in real estate. He put $1350, about all the available cash he had on hand, in a piece of land west of town known as the Modern addition. It seems that this property was encumbered in some way which he did not know at the time of investing. It was necessary for he could not do. RUSSIAN TROOPS MUTINY

While on the Way to the Front They Kill Officers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 9 .- While the Bugulman regiment, ordered to the front from Samara, was en route to Ofa, a mutiny broke out. The colonel of the regiment and a sergeant were killed and their bodies thrown from the train. Another mutiny occurred among the Penda reservists, who maltreated their colonel. Even the Don Cossacks are mutinous. Captain Mironoff, an officer of the Imperial Guard Cossack Regiment, was recently arrested for making a speech charging the government with responsibility for the war.

Gen. Klegel, the new military governor of Kiev, ordered the 16,000 reservists under his command to be searched, All the regiments were subjected to this humiliating process the same day. Klegel thought he would find that seditious literature had been distributed among them. Only trifling discoveries were made. The officers of the regiments have joined in vehement protest against the

About Congressman Jones. Congressman W. L. Jones is credited with having stated in recent speeches that if Mr. Mead was not elected governor it would be idle to expect Republican members of the legislature to vote for the passage of a railway commission

Such a statement coming from Mr. Jones is not at all surprising. In the first place the congressman is such an extreme partisan that he can see no evil in his own party and no good in the opposition party. In the second place Mr. Jones has no sympathy with the demand of the producers of this state for a railway commission. During his whole public career he has never evinced the slightest sympathy for the movement in this state looking to proper regulation of the railroads. The reason for this is plain enough to those who understand. It is because that Mr. Jones feels that he is under deep personal obligations to the railroad managers. It cinct to the Republicans. This of itself is they who have kept and are still con- was certainly going as far in the directinuing to keep Mr. Jones in public life. tion of partisanship as decency would This fact was proven conclusively at permit, but the board did not stop there, fer to support the party and candidate the Tacoma convention when Mr. Jones The Republican committee demanded which comes nearest to supporting their used all the influence at his command everyone of the election inspectors in ideas on national questions, not desiring to aid in turning down Gov. from the people of Yakima county. A goodly number of Democrats have been in the habit of voting for him on the plea that he is a home man and would look out for home interests in congress. He has not done this to any extent. He has apparently spent the most of his time looking out for his own interests.

Living as he does in an agricultural community, where every man, woman and child have a personal interest in securing improved shipping facilities and lower freight rates it would seem that Mr. Jones, dependent as he is on the good will of these people for his political life. would naturally be in sympathy with such a movement, but unfortunate ly he is not. Such being the case it would be well for railway commission advocates and Democratic voters particularly, to ask themselves this question: What have we to gain by voting for Mr

The Other Presidents.

The opinions of other presidents of the United States, as expressed by President Roosevelt in the various books of the author, will be of interest to every one, irrespective of party predelection, They are as follows:

Thomas Jefferson: "The scholarly timid and shifty doctrinaire. Was the father of nullification and therefore of secession. Cheap pseudo-classicism that he borrowed from the French revolutionists. Constitutionally unable to put a proper value on truthfulness."

Andrew Jackson. "The ignorant, headstrong and straightforward soldier. Of strong, narrow mind and bitter prejudices, with few statesmanlike qualities.' John Quiney Adams. "Went altogether too far in his non-partisanship. Colorless administration. Serious fault of paying too little attention to party." James Buchanan. "And his time-serving comrades. Weak and unstable."

Zachary Taylor. "Neither a great statesman nor yet a great commander; but he was an upright public servant, and a most kindly, honest and truthful

Martin Van Buren. "Faithfully served the mammon of unrighteousness. Succeeded because of and not in spite of his moral shortcomings."

Franklin Pierce. "A small politician, of low capacity and mean surrounding, proud to act as the servile tool of men worse than himself."

James K. Polk. "Excepting Tyler, the very smallest of the line of small presidents who come in between Jackson and election goes."

Abraham Lincoln. "Not only the greatest American, but the greatest man of the nineteenth century."

James Monroe. "Colorless, high bred gentleman of no special ability, but well fitted to act as presidential figurehead." John Tyler. "He has been called a mediocre man; but this is unwarranted flattery. He was a politician of monumental littleness. * * * His chief mental and moral attributes were peevishness, fretful obstinacy, inconsistency incapacity to make up his own mind together with inordinate vanity."

Peculiarities of the Campaign.

This is certainly a peculiar campaign. Think of such stalwart, old line Republicans as Ex-Congressman Doolittle and State Senator Warburton on the stump imploring the people to vote the Democratic state ticket and thus save the good name of the state from everlasting disgrace.

Here in Yakima county we see the reverse of this picture. Here, for instance, is the Hon. H. B. Rigg, a rock-ribbed bourbon Democrat from the state of Mississippi, "where a man must be a Demo crat in order to be recognized in good society." And Mr. Rigg is the Republican nominee for superior judge, Ye gods! What an influence environment has on the minds of men. And take the case of that other distinguished patriot, Hon. Ira M. Krutz, Republican nominee for prosecuting attorney. Mr. Krutz is a product of the great commonwealth of Indiana, aptly described as "the mother of politicians. Mr. Krutz came here in 1885 with a federal commission in his pocket, signed by that great mogul of democracy. Grover Cleveland. From that time down to four years ago Mr. Krutz was one of the strongest pillars of the local Democratic party. Although a gold Demoerat eight years ago he was loyal enough to his party to swallow the silver pill populistic fusion and all. If that dose didn't phase him it would be interesting to know what caused Mr. Krutz to change his political connections.

Malignant Partisanship.

The present board of county commissioners is just about as unfair and unjust as it is incompetent. In the selection of election officers the board gave two of the three officers in every pre-Bear these facts in mind. Heretofore ties. When a fusion board of commis- for.-The Public.

Thus the officers were equally divided, which is as fair a system as could be devised.

One would naturally think that the present board, after each of its individual members had failed to receive recognition from the late Republican county convention, would not be imbued with such a malignant partisan spirit, but unfortunately such is not the case.

Rebellion at Home.

Rebellion is rife against railroad rule in Mr. Mead's own county of Whatcom. The regular Republican convention was neld in that county two weeks ago which was controlled on a close vote by Mr. Mead and his friends. No better proof could be offered showing the gubernatorial candidate's affiliations than the fact that the Whatcom Republican convention, under his control, nominated candidates for the legislature notoriously hostile to a railroad commission. So pronounced is the feeling on the subject there that the railway commission Republicans have nominated an opposition legislative ticket that has been endorsed by the Democrats.

The "Pinto" Ticket.

A prominent Republican has suggested to this paper the propriety of calling the local ticket of his party in this county the "pinto" ticket.

means mottled or spotted. So what the these issues is demonstrated by the fact Landes of Jefferson. gentleman doubtless meant was that the ticket is spotted—there being a few, a very few Republicans on it.

The story of now the Democrats have rushed in and taken possession of the Republican party of this county reads like a fairy story. This fact probably accounts for the apathy of the present local campaign. A Republican was heard to remark the other day that "It won't make any difference as the Democrats are bound to win no matter how the Congressman Jones and Mr. Mead had an audience of 300 out to hear them at Spokane last Saturday evening. It must be rather frosty for g. o. p. orators up

From what a number of taxpayers say the county commissioners will bore no well until the court first gives them permission to use public money in that way.

Loyalty to Principle,

When you hear a man criticise Bryan for supporting Parker owing to the latter's stand on the money question, you generally hear a man talk who don't know what he is talking about or a man who has dust to throw in your eyes. Mr. Bryan and his supporters didn't desire Judge Parker's nomination but after he accepted on a platform mainly of Bryan's making and when you figure that on every other question, save the money question, Mr. Parker is in accord with Mr. Bryan, it is not surprising that Mr. Bryan is found a loyal democrat. In the republican party are thousands upon thousands of republicans supporting Mr. Roosevelt who do not believe in the high protective tariff theories of the republican party. The money question for the present can not be made an issue. If a plentiful supply of gold can be produced, the money question, insofar as it relates to "silver" will never be an issue again. The republican party is in no wise responsible for the great increase in the supply of gold, and it is entitled to no credit for the increased production of the yellow metal. Mr. Bryan wants to see the tariff revised, he wants to see a word of hope given the patriotic Filipinos, he wants to see the trusts bridled and he wants to see the taint of militarism which has lodged itself in our present administration driven from our institutions. Each and every one of these issues are as vital as the money question, and why should not Mr. Bryan support the candidate and the party that promises to correct these wrongs in our national life as he sees it, even if he cannot get everything he wants?

Few men who ever take the trouble to think, can find any political party in whose principles they can truly say that they are in perfect accord, but they preplea for justice made by the county port of Parker are logical and sound It is just as well for the voters of tais democratic committee. Heretofore it has and it is indeed a shallow man who can't to the convention demonstrated beyond Graves, Martin Cameron, R. B. Wilson all possibility of doubt that there were two things demanded of it by the rank Welts and R. P. Thomas of Skagit, J. G. and file of the Republican party throughout the state. These were, first, the adoption of a plank pledging the party to establish a non-partisan, appointative Mitchell, W. A. Reynolds and J. E. Lease regulative railroad commission, and, of Lewis, C. T. Terry, A. D. Stevenson second, the nomination for governor, on platform, of Hon. Henry McBride. In tests were waged in the county conventions on one or both of these issues. The Pinto, according to the dictionary, overwhelming popularity of both of linger, C. W. Ide, J. C. House and Henry that in almost every county in which either issue was prominently raised it, or they were endorsed. In not more than five counties in which the McBride issue was raised did the opponents of the governor win, and in but one county in kind of jobbery, could not help but see the state did a Republican county con- the animus behind the one convention railroad commission.

Convention Conceived in Jobbery. In the first place the idea of holding but one state convention was conceived in a desire on the part of the railroad leaders to job the Republican party. Since the admission of the state into the union no Republican state nominating convention had ever been held earlier than August. In presidential years it had been customary to hold one convention in the spring and another in toe late summer. The railroad leaders perceiving that to follow this tradition this year would result in the adoption of a commission plank and the nomination of stands for two conventions. Governor McBride resolved to throw caution to the winds and call but a single

For the purpose of ascertaining the ideas of Republican leaders, tsate and national, on the to its correspondents in all parts of the state directing them to interview such leaders on the subject, and also to Walter E. Clarke, its Washington correspondent, directing him to interview prominent members of congress.

Unscrupulous Bosses Want It. The replies of these correspondents were published in the P.-I. on Feb. 27. The most casual perusal of them shows conclusively what class of leaders wanted but one convention and what their purpose was in wanting it. This purpose is best summed up in the mention of an interview with S. A. Madge, the Thurston county member of the committee. The story says:

"S. A. Madge frankly avows his vote to be cast to injure McBride's chances." This is the "job" which the committee had been "framed up" to perform in calling but one convention. National Republican leaders, in their interviews, show a full comprehension of the animus back of the one convention idea. For instance Congressman Babcock said:

"There is jobbery in it and it is safe to say that there is jobbery in such a proposition anywhere. All the arguments are against holding one convention only."

Congressman Tawney, one of the managers of the National Republican campaign, is quoted as saying:

"If unscrupulous bosses wanted to manipulate the politics of the state I can see why they should want to do away with the fall convention and do all the business in the spring. "The one convention proposition gen-

This showing on the part of the republicans of the state was so overwhelming that the staid old P.-I. usually so slow to become aroused against any vention adopt a declaration opposing idea and it took up the championsaip of two conventions and uttered editorially this plea for pure Republicanism:

"When great Republican leaders of vast experience and the best judgment say beware of one convention, it is time to warn those who are preparing to put the Republican party in this state in the hole that it is time to stop.

"This is no time for anyone to try to tear down one of the pillars of Republicanism and those who try it may well pause and reflect lest they bring down the temple upon themselves.

the purpose of the one convention plan was to defeat Gov. McBride and with subject the Post-Intelligencer sent word him the railroad commission plank, and the plan was successful. In several counties, wherever it was possible the railroad forces brought up local candidates and appealed to local pride to prevent either of these two matters from becoming the dominant issue. In King ounty they played on the popular madness of the people in demanding a seat in the United States senate for one of their fellow citizens. In Pierce county he same feeling was pandered to. In nohomish and Whatcom counties they supported local congressional candidates. n Jefferson, Clallam, Kitsap and other ounties they brought out and support d local candidates for state offices, in helan and Thurston counties they prought out and supported local candilates for governor.

In these counties a distinct understanding was had with these candidates or with their friends and supporters that lelegates selected to support them would ot, under any circumstances, aid in the nomination of Gov. McBride. The understanding was not, in any case, permitted to become public, but, wherever such an understanding was charged it was most emphatically denied by those who were parties to it. In this way Republicans were deceived into supporting local candidates under the misrepresentation that they were not, thereby. opposing a rilroad commission plank or the nomination of Gov. McBride

Demanded Privilege of Naming Delegates

Not satisfied with this campaign of deception practiced upon Republicans in many counties, the railroad lobby demanded in many instances the privilege of naming the delegates to the state nothing in the convention's deliberations convention. This was accomplished in or in the work of selecting candidates the following manner. The "favorite and agreeing upon politics to be promulson" would be coached to ask the county gated in the platform. It was these confriends ask it, the privilege of naming which on its face, was a gathering of the delegation in his interest, on the plea that in that way only could a united to nothing more or less than what it has and harmonious delegation be secured been characterized by the Republican Ta-Republican leaders in the state were Then, under the cover of this instruction coma Ledger, "a railroad ratification against the one convention idea as and the secret arrangement between the meeting." strongly as were those in the nation. candidate and the lobby, the lobby lead-The Post-Intelligencer published nearly ers would be permitted to name, or at least approve the selection of, the entire list of delegates. As an instance of this it has been openly charged in the Seattle Daily Times and denied by nobody, that the delegation from King county was approved by J. D. Farrell before the names were made public. Tois charge was published on Sept. 4 and is as follows:

J. D. Farrell's Delegation.

"The King county delegation, 115 strong, was approved by J. D. Farrell before the list of delegates was made public. The steering committee with Potter Charles Sullivan as chairman, was satisfactory to Farrell, who conceded, for the sake of senatorial politics, at least two places on the steering committee that he would otherwise have denied.

"Sullivan alone, of the entire delegation, knew Farrell's wisnes, but he was fully informed that Farrell demanded McBride should be beaten and a commission plank omitted from the platform, and that George Baker at least be turned down for governor."

This statement has never been denied by either Mr. Piles or Mr. Farrell and the editor of the Times has vouched for the truth of it editorially in the most positive and emphatic language. What happened in King county is but an example of what happened in many other counties in the state. In Snohomish county the delegation was selected, ostensibly, in the interests of the congressional candidacy of Francis H. Brownell, attorney for the Great Northern railroad, who obligingly withdrew from the congressional race when he found that his candidacy might inconrenience the railroad lobby in its fight gainst Gov. McBride and the commission plank. The delegation in Whatcom county was selected, ostensibly, in the interests of the candidacy of A. F. Mead for congress, but was headed by J. J. Donovan, general manager of the Bellingham Bay & British Columbia railroad. Although ostensibly chosen to urge and advance the candidacy of local candidates these three and many other delegations to the state convention had as their prime purpose the defeat of Gov. McBride and the commission plank.

Not a Representative Convention. It has been claimed by the defenders of the acts of the convention that it was a convention of the representatives of the Republicans of the state. This is not strictly in accord with the truth. It was in a large measure a convention of epresentatives selected by private individuals and candidates in collusion with representatives of the railroad lobby. The King county delegation was selected, not by the county convention. but by Samuel H. Piles on the convention's authority, in collusion, it is charged by the Times, with J. D. Farrell. The Whatcom county delegation was selected by A. E. Mead in collusion with J. J. Donovan. The Jefferson county delegation was selected by Charles E. Coon, T. Aldwell, and that from Kitsap county by C. W. Clausen. In three of these five ounties the names of the delegates were not announced for several days after the convention had adjourned so the convention had no opportunity to pass upon them. On the floor of the Jefferson county convention it was openly charged, ov a delegate that the man authorized to name the delegation did not dare report to the convention the names of the men he would select for the reason that the convention would not ratify them. Could Not Trust the Delegates. But, even after all these precautions and been taken in the selection of delegates, the lobby leaders were not willing to trust them to conduct the work of the convention. So in many instances the person selecting the delegates selected also a steering committee to tell the delgates what to do in the convention. Mr. Piles, who named the King county delegation, named the steering committee wo or three days before the names of the delegates were announced. Mr. Mead reported the names of members of the steering committee to the convention vith the names of the delegates. This was done, also, by the committee which selected the delegates from Snohomish and several other counties. The delegates decided upon by the railroad lobby vere not even permitted to select the nembers of their own steering committees lest those committees wander from the path in which it was desired they should go and give some need to the desires of the Republicans of their re-

Steering Committees Were Convention. The manner in which these steering committees were selected is of importance when one remembers thatt he steering committees were practically the convention. The lay delegates counted for convention, in his county, or have his ditions which reduced the convention, representatives of the Republican voters orders direct from the railroad lobby.

SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS

Some Interesting Facts from Spokane on the Political Mix-up in This State.

"Deep Creek" Jones spoke from the same platform with Judge Turner the other night at Tenino.

"Wnen Mead comes around here," he for a railroad commission or against answer the question. He'll be damned if he does and he'll be damned if he doesn't."

Oscar Cain, ex-prosecuting attorney of Walla Walla county, who has refused to stultify himself by supporting the Farrell ticket, in discussing the political Mituation last Sunday, said:

"I'm willing to listen to any man who comes here and says in a speech that he is opposed to a railroad commission and advances arguments in support of his position. He is entitled to credit, at least, for his frankness and honesty. But I am not willing to listen to a man like T. D. Rockwell, who claims that the way to get a commission is to vote for Mead, who was nominated by the railroad lobby. When a man makes an argument like that he proceeds on the theory that I'm a d-d fool, and I've no patience with him."

Mr. Cain is a stalwart republican. He served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Walla Walla county.

John S. McMillan of San Juan has injected real numor into this campaign. Mr. McMillan spoke at Everett the other night, with Candidate Mead, and told how the platform was adopted at the Tacoma convention. Mr. McMillan was chairman of the platform committee.

In stentorian tones Mr. McMillan assured his hearers that no railroad agents hovered around the platform committee

With such railroad lackeys as John S. McMillan on the platform committee there was no necessity for the presence of any railroad agents. If John S. Mc-Millin has ever taken a political action or drawn a breath in politics without first consulting someone in control of railroad politics nobody has ever heard of that fact.

Mr. McMillin misstated what happened at Tacoma. In J. D. Farrell's private car, the night before the convention, Mr. Farrell notified the assembled hencamen of ening that "no republican legislature the Northern Securities company that will put into Turner's hands, as governthe convention would not be permitted or the power granted in the naming of a to adopt a railroad commission plank. Mr. Farrell made his orders positive acid explicit, and was angry at the sugges tion that a commission plank should be

As Ex-Congressman William H. Doo-'ittle, a stanch republican, said in his ima postmaster, and who is interested speech in Tacoma the other night, 'the in the Star Clothing store here, was in minions of Jim Hill canvassed Mead town the past week arranging for the from his youth up, and pronounced him sale of an interest in the branch here to good."

The father of George G. Mills of Olympia, republican nominee for state treasurer, has announced to his friends that he will not vote the Farrell state ticket.

"I suppose I'll have to vote for George," he said, but he declared plainly that his son is the only man named on the Farrell ticket who will receive his support. The elder Mills, who is a pioneer of Thurston county, lives on a farm near Olympia.

Thomas F. Mentzer, the republican who presided over Judge Turner's meeting at Tenino Tuesday night, is one of the pioneer republicans of the state. He served in the legislature from Thurston county in 1893, during the Allen-Turner deadlock, and was the candidate of the Turner forces for speaker of the house.

Albert E. Mead was a member of that legislature. When, early in the present campaign, Mr. Mentzer announced that he would support Judge Turner, the Farrell contingent in Thurston county sent post haste for Mr. Mead, and the latter made a special trip to Tenino to keep Mr. Mentzer in line. How well Mr. Mead's persuasion succeeded was shown Tuesday night, when Mr. Mentzer made a red hot speech in support of Judge Turner. He said:

"During the legislature of 1893 I heard with my own ears the chief lobbyist of the Northern Pacific railway say that of all men in the state they would never consent to Judge Turner's election to the United States senate. He said that the railroads never would forgive Turner in a thousand years for the fight which he made on them in the constitutional convention. He told me they had a knife out for Turner, and would keep it out until they put him out of business politically."

Ex-Congressman William H. Doolit- ing near by and the injured man was the democratic state ticket has also been a bombshell in the railroad camp. Colonel Doolittle is a republican of republicans. He has lived in the state and territory since 1879. Before moving to Tacoma, shortly after statehood, is resided for years in Colfax.

Mr. Doolittle was a lifelong friend of the late John B. Allen. His support of Judge Turner, therefore, is not due to said, "ask him this question: 'Are you any personal ties, for Colonel Doolittle, in common with many other of Senator it, or are you just nothin'?' He daren't Allen's friends, resented the fight which Judge Turner made against Senator Allen in 1893. His support of Judge Turner is due solely to his disgust over the performance of the railroad gang in the Tacoma convention.

Since his retirement from congress in 1897 Colonel Doolittle has been practicing law unobtrusively in Tacoma. He is at present in partnership with Judge Theodore L. Stiles, formerly justice of the state supreme court.

Colonel Doolittle took his seat in con gress on March 4, 1893. His colleague in the lower house during his first term was John L. Wilson. He began his second term on March 4, 1895, his colleague being Samuel C. Hyde of Spokane. Colonel Doolittle was nominated for a third term in congress in 1896, but was carried down to defeat by the fusion wave of that year.-Politician in Sunday's Spokesman-Review.

The Prohibition Program.

The prohibitionists have placed a trong ticket in the field in this county. Wisely they have left one place on the legislative ticket vacant and have made no nomination for sheriff. This will leave it open for members of the party to vote for Lee A. Johnson for representative and H. A. Webber for sheriff. These gentlemen can be trusted to do the right thing on any and all occasions and are entitled to the votes of all good citizens. The convention appointed a committee on the nomination of judge of the superior court, but it will be just as well if it fails to act. The democrats have in Judge Preble a man whose reputation for honesty and decency is such as to commend him to every honorable man in the county. He is a man of large legal attainments as well. If an able honest and conscientious judge is desired vote for Mr. Preble.—Sunnyside Sun.

A Poor Group of Patriots.

The Farrell railroad state committee has issued a printed manifesto, threatrailway commission."

Congressman Jones and other republican campaign speakers are scattering a similar threat broadcast over Washington. The horse he was riding broke through a badger hole and the shock of stumbling threw Mr. Bayles from the saddle. MADNESS OF THE DESERT.

Effect of the Monotony of Silence Upon Human Beings.

"The silence of the desert has a maddening effect upon the human brain," said a traveler whose experiences are not often paralleled. "Monotony is more severe than anything else deriving its entire pain from mental effect. The monotony of silence is worse than any other kind.

"Take a man away from the hum of the work of men and send him out on the alkali deserts, and the deep silence becomes awful and is sometimes unbearable. All at once, without any previous symptom, some member of the party may stop suddenly, with a dazed look on his face and a wild expression in his eye. He is dangerous. His reason is torn in wild confusion. Anything or anybody familiar infuri-

"He must be disarmed and bound at once or he will deal death to the whole party. He is possessed of 'desert madness,' brought on by the monotony of silence. He suffers excruciating mental anguish. He needs to be relieved by being brought back to his accustomed surroundings.

"On this account men used to the desert refuse to go out with those with whom they are well acquainted. The mad man is not likely to attack a stranger. If there is no friend in the party his madness is likely to assert itself in running rather than in fight-Ing. It is a fearful disease not yet understood."-Birmingham News.

FEMININE LANGUAGE.

An English Criticism of the Use of Words by Women.

You may talk to a woman for an hou or more and understand every word she says. Meat, bread, money, motor cars, drains, the ace of trumps-there is really no space at my disposal to give a list of the words that are common to both languages. In fact, most of the solid, concrete things of life may be left out of the question. It is when we pass beyond the concrete that the real misunderstanding arises. Take a couple of very common words used equally by both sexes. A man will say that So-and-so is a "nice" girl. I should know what he meant. A woman will reply that the girl is pretty, agreeable and all that sort of thing, but that she is "not quite nice." The two are using the same word to express different whether that girl is nice or otherwise until they can talk the same language. Again in the feminine dictionary the opposite of "nice" is "horrid." A man will talk of a "nice scoundrel" and a "horrid bore," and I can understand him. But when a woman tells me that a man is wealthy and clever and good looking-"but I'm sure he's horrid"she has dropped into her foreign language. I can only be sure that she does not mean what I mean when I speak of a "horrid girl."-London Out-

Girls With the Cab Habit.

One of the curiosities of New York city travel on Sunday afternoons is the number of young women riding in hansom cabs. Sometimes there are two in a cab, but more often they travel alone, and in almost every case they are the sort of young women to whom riding in vehicles of any kind is a novelty. Two of this type approached a cabman last Sunday and, after trying vainly to make a bargain with him, walked away with their noses high in the air.

"They're just another pair of would bes," said the cabman in disgust. "They're the kind that think riding in a hansom is the real thing, and they save up all week to blow themselves to a ride on Sunday. They always try to beat us down, and sometimes we let them do it-when business is bad."-New York Press.

Edible Birds' Nests. Coron, a little island of the Philippines, is one of the chief sources from which come edible birds' nests. It has sheer walls of rock fronting the sea, in which are deep holes where a certain sea swallow builds its nest. The wild aborigines, Tagbanounas, collect the nests from the cliffs by means of long vine ropes, selling them to Chinese traders, who export them to their own country, where they are considered a great delicacy. The nests are three inches long and bring $12 (Mexican) for bunches of ten or twelve, according to size. The gum of which they are largely composed is a secretion from the salivary glands of the swallows.

THE AGING PROCESS.

A Medical Suggestion as to How It May Be Arrested.

To drink the waters of the fountain of youth is still, in the opinion of some, within the range of possibility. A recent writer observes that man be gan in a gelatinous condition and ends in an osseous or bony one. He is soft in infancy; he is hard in old age. Aging is a process of ossification. After middle life has passed a more marked development of the ossific character takes place. The arteries become thickened with calcareous matter, and there is interference with circulation, upon which nutrition depends. The whole change from youth to old age is one of steady accumulation of calcareous de posits in the system. Entire blockade of the functions of the body is a merc matter of time, and the refuse matter deposited by the blood through the system stops the delicate machinery we call life. The blood contains compounds of lime, magnesia and iron. In the blood itself are these earthy salts. In early life they are thrown off; in age they are not. Almost everything we eat contains these elements for destroying life. Earthy salts abound in the cereals, and bread itself, mistakenly called "the staff of life," is one of the most calcareous of edibles. Nitrogenous foed also contains these elements; hence a diet made up of fruit is est for people advanced in years. The daily use of distilled water is, after iddle life, one of the most important eans of preventing secretions and derangements of health. Diluted phoshoric acid is one of the most powerul influences known to science for shielding the human system from the inconvenience of old age. Use it daily with distilled water and so retard the approach of senility. To retain perpetual youth, avoid all foods rich in the earth's salts, use much fruit, especially juicy, uncooked apples, and take daily two or three tumblerfuls of distilled water with about fifteen drops of diluted phosphoric acid in each glass full. Thus will your days be longer in the land .- Medical Age.
