500 CARS FOR NORTHERN PACIFIC

Vice President Long Visits City and Says Orders
Have Been Placed for New Rolling Stock—
Discusses Car Shortage Problem.

The shippers of the Yakima valley should be delighted over the recent visit to this city of C. M. Levy, vice president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, because, while the railroad official was engaged in conversation with an enterprising crowd of Yakima men, he dropped the remark casually that the N. P. had just let a contract for 500 additional refrigerator cars to be constructed at once.

Now this is good news. It certainly should appeal to the fruit growers in an encouraging way to know that before very long the Northern Pacific will be operating as many as 500 new refrigerator cars.

"We have not only placed an order for these refrigerator cars," continued Mr. Levy, "but have likewise made arrangements for the building of 500 new stock cars and 40 new passenger coaches. We hope soon to be able to solve this car shortage problem as far as it is possible for one road to do."

Will Protect Yakima Fruit.
"It was an incorrect opinion that such trouble as you suffered last year from a car shortage arose from a lack of motive power and not of cars. Of course we are adding to our motive power constantly, but no railroad can carry the equipment necessary to handle a maximum of business instantly. That would mean an immense amount of capital lying idle for the greater part of the year. We have to take it as best we can, concentrating at various points as the demands arise. Your people here, despite the great increase in yield from the orchards, will, I believe, find that the output of the orchards will be well handled this year. We will have a very large number of cars for fruit and, in addition, we will be in a better position to borrow from the fruit companies which have their own cars. When the crop is on here it is not on in California and other sections, and under arrangements we are making, or can make, we will be able to take care of this section nicely. Of course we are anticipating the constant increase in freight from this valley as the orchards develop.

Looking Out for Future.
"My visit here is not of any significance at this time. I am merely on my way through to Tacoma, and Mrs. Levy, who is with me, wanted to stop off here for a few hours and see Mr. and Mrs. Donald. I am glad, however, to get an opportunity of making an assurance to your fruit people that we are anticipating their needs of later in the season. You know we expect this country to grow and we expect to develop with it and take care of that portion of the development which falls to us."

JOE FLANNEY GETS A 30 YEAR SENTENCE

Other Prisoners Given Terms in the State Penitentiary by Judge E. B.
Preble Last Saturday.

Judge E. B. Preble sentenced the wife murderer, Joe Flannery, to 30 years' imprisonment at hard labor. The court passed sentence upon the prisoner last Saturday morning. He will be held here in jail a few days pending an attempt of his lawyers, Thompson & Snively, to appeal the case to the supreme court. It is not at all probable that the supreme court will repeal the verdict of the lower court.

In sentencing Flannery Judge Preble said:

"In finding you guilty of murder in the second degree the jury found against you on the insanity plea, but for you so far as the charge of murder in the first degree is concerned; that is, they found you did not exercise deliberation and premeditation in the killing of your wife, but that the killing was malicious. It remains with me, therefore, to apportion the sentence to the amount of malice which is shown in the testimony. It is considered and adjudged by the court that you be imprisoned at hard labor in the state penitentiary for 30 years."

Among other sentences passed by the court was a fine of $350 and costs against W. E. Cage, found guilty of selling liquor without a license at Naches City.

Will King was sentenced to the penitentiary under the new law for an indeterminate period, depending on his good behavior.

Edward Cleary and Charles Milan were sentenced to a term at the penitentiary of from two to fourteen years. They were convicted of burglarizing Foster's second hand store.

Jake Snodups, an Indian, was sentenced to a year at hard labor for horse stealing.

William Chambers, convicted of check-raising, was given an indeterminate sentence of from one to fourteen years. A similar sentence was passed upon M. E. Nooner for a similar offense.

Ernest Schneider and his bartender were fined $150 and $250 respectively for the illicit dealing in liquors at Priest Rapids, on the Columbia.

BURGOMASTER COMING.

Famous Old Modern Opera Will Play
Here Next Week.

Gus Weinburg and dainty Ruth White will head the big revival of "The Burgomaster," which Wm. P. Cullen will present at the Yakima theatre on Tuesday night, April 21. These two clever people are the originals in the roles of Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, who sleeps for 200 years and awakes to find himself in modern New York, and of Willie, the gilded youth who essays to show him around the town. The costumes for the revival are the handsomest, it is said, of any comic opera now touring. The scenery is all new, some of the scenes having been changed. "The Burgomaster" was the first of the Pixley & Lueders popular successes to gain favor. It is in a class with "Robin Hood" and "The Prince of Pilsen" for tunefulness and many of the numbers have come to be classic. "The Tale of the Kangaroo," "I Love You," the famous Indian chorus, the Rainy Daisies, and other songs have a lift that sends the auditor from the theatre whistling merrily. Miss White has written a new song entitled "How Many Have You Told That To?" which experts claim will be a large seller. The chorus, which is a very large one, has been elected especially for its singing and dancing ability. Mr. Cullen will be remembered as the producer of "The Burgomaster" and "The Tenderfoot."

A FIRST CLASS POST OFFICE IN ONE YEAR

That is What North Yakima Will Have Says Assistant Postmaster Hough.

That North Yakima will have a first class post office within a year from now is the opinion of Assistant Postmaster George S. Hough, who so expressed himself this week in the presence of a number of prominent Yakima citizens. At the time conversation was being made on the subject of "progress of the postoffice under the administration of Postmaster W. L. Lemon."

"Yes," said Hon. Ira P. Englehart, addressing himself to Mr. Hough, "I am convinced that it won't be long until this city can boast of a first class post-office."

"Within a year from now we will be in the same class with Seattle and Tacoma," promptly spoke up Mr. Hough. "The local office has made wonderful strides within the past two years, and the indications are that we will be placed on the first class list much sooner than the majority of the citizens of the town have any idea of."

Judge Rigg was standing near by discussing with John Ryan and J. D. Cornett the best stream in the valley at this particular time of the year to fish for speckled beauties. They were trying to arrange a fishing trip for next Sunday.

"What's that you say about the post-office?" asked the judge, interrupting Mr. Hough; and upon being enlightened continuing he said: "Why, just the other day I happened to be in Walla Walla on some important legal business and they claim over there that Walla Walla will be the next city in the state the postoffice of which is to be admitted on the first class list."

"I know," said the assistant postmaster, "that Walla Walla has been making a great effort to overcome this city's lead in the matter of postoffice receipts in order to beat us to the coveted 'first class' goal, but they haven't got the business, and you'll find out that North Yakima will surely beat the convict city in its race."

As a matter of fact there is not a city in the United States of the size of North Yakima that does the magnificent postoffice business recorded by the local office.

Each succeeding quarterly report shows great gains over preceding quarters, and of such remarkable increase as to indicate beyond any doubt that the city is growing rapidly.

It is nothing unusual, and considerably out of the ordinary for a town of less than 20,000 inhabitants to boast of having a first class postoffice, but if the prediction of Assistant Postmaster Hough proves true, this city will certainly be in a position to claim the palm over all others.

MAY NOT BE MARRIED.

Parents of Millard Boyd Know Nothing of Wedding Having Occurred.

The parents of Millard Boyd called at The Democrat office this week and stated, among other things, that, so far as they knew, their son was not married to the girl Blanche McCallum, as was stated in the local newspapers last week. "We don't deny that the report may be true," said Mr. Boyd, "but, so far as we know, it is untrue."

The Boyds were likewise irritated at some statements that have been made in the papers lately concerning the notorious case in which their son Millard was acquitted of the murder of Blanche McCallum's child.

"There are many statements that have been made concerning this case that are absolutely false and unfounded," said Mr. Boyd. "My son was acquitted of the charge preferred against him, and I want the newspapers to stop casting mean insinuations, or I will sue them for libel."

FORMER YAKIMA MAN WOULD SUCCEED ROSS

Judge I. A. Navarre, of Wenatchee,
Wants to be Elected State
Land Commissioner.

It is quite probable that the present Land Commissioner Ross will find considerable opposition in his race for the renomination of his office at the hands of the republican party. An aspirant for the position of land commissioner hails from Chelan county. It is Judge Ignatius A. Navarre, a former resident of this city and at one time prominent in Yakima county politics. He was at one time county surveyor and while living here was elected probate judge.

For several years Judge Navarre has been one of the most enterprising citizens of Wenatchee, and it is through the instrumentality of his Wenatchee friends that he has been induced to allow his name to go before the voters of the state at the republican primaries as a candidate for the office of land commissioner.

Says the Wenatchee Daily World in speaking of Judge Navarre's candidacy: "Judge Navarre is one of the oldest and best known men in the state, and his long familiarity with government surveys and the public lands of the commonwealth fit him particularly for this important post. The following facts, taken from the History of Central Washington, throw interesting light on the past life of the man whom the people of this state would like to see in charge of their public lands."

Biographical Sketch.

"Ignatius A. Navarre was born December 25, 1846, at Monroe, Mich. His father, Joseph Navarre, was the son of Col. Francis Navarre, justice of the old Northwest Territory when it was under French rule. During the war of 1812 he commanded a regiment in which were enrolled 37 Navarres, all descendants of the white plumed Henry of Navarre. He took part in many battles, among them that of the Thames, where Tecumseh was killed, and General Winchester was his guest the day he surrendered to Proctor.

Judge Navarre was educated at St. Francis college, Pennsylvania, and during the civil war enlisted in the engineer corps. After an honorable discharge he became government surveyor, and while engaged on fortification works at Portland, Me., he studied law. In 1873 was admitted to the supreme court. He came to what was then the territory of Washington, locating at Olympia. He later joined the law firm of McNaught & Leary, at Seattle, and two years afterward removed to Yakima, where he practiced and was finally elected probate judge. In 1880, owing to failing health, he abandoned the law and devoted himself entirely to engineering work, at the same time filing on his present beautiful home at Lakeside.

"During the Harrison campaign he was presidential elector, the only one east of the mountains. He has served in various government positions, and for a long time was employed by the state in selecting and laying out lands for irrigation under the Carey act."

RETURNS FROM COLLEGE.

Charley Jones Completes Course at Veterinary College.

Charles A. Jones of this city returned last week from Canada after completing a course in veterinary surgery at the famous college of Ontario.

Mr. Jones, who is one of the best known horse men in the valley, with the additional knowledge that he has obtained in the veterinary college, will unquestionably be thoroughly equipped for the practice of his chosen profession. For the present his headquarters are at the Farmers' barn on South First street.

"I am prepared to handle the diseases of horses, cows, calves, guinea pigs, rabbits, dogs, cats and other animals, and will be glad to have any of my friends give me a call when they need any such service," said Mr. Jones to a Democrat reporter.

YAKIMA COUNTY DEMOCRATS MEET

Decide to Hold Primaries on Saturday, May 2, and One Week Later Will Assemble for the County Convention.

At a meeting of the Yakima county central committee of the democratic party regularly called and held at the courthouse on Saturday, the 11th day of April, it was decided to call a convention to meet at the city hall in North Yakima on Saturday, May 9, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The purpose of said county convention is the election of 28 delegates to represent Yakima county at the state convention of the democratic party to be held in Spokane on May 18.

Said county convention shall consist of delegates to be selected from the several wards of the incorporated cities and the various voting precincts of the county of Yakima. That the number of delegates allowed each precinct is apportioned on the vote cast for the Hon. William Blackman, democratic candidate for Congress, at the election held in 1906, and on the basis of one delegate for every 20 votes or major fraction thereof.

The total number of delegates to be elected is 50 and apportioned to the respective wards and precincts as follows:

North Yakima—First ward, 4; Second ward, 3; Third, 2; fourth, 2; Fifth, 2; Sixth, 2; Sunnyside East ward, 1; West ward, 1; Ahtanum precinct, 1;

Alfalfa, 1; Cowiche, 2; Divide, 1; Fairview, 2; Fruitvale, 2; Glade, 1; Granger, 2; Hopdale, 2; Mabton, 2; Moxee, 3; Mt. Adams, 1; Upper Naches, 1; Lower Naches, 1; Nile, 1; Nob Hill, 1; Outlook, 1; Parker, 1; Selah, 2; Toppenish, 4; Wapato, 2; Wenat, 1; Wheatland, 1; Yakima City, 1; Zillah, 1.

"For the election of delegates from the several wards of said cities and precincts in the county, caucuses shall be held at the respective voting places in each ward at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, May 2, 1908, at which at least twice the number of electors shall be named to which said ward or precinct is entitled as delegates; and at which caucus two judges and one clerk shall also be named to serve at the primary election, and the chairman and secretary of said caucuses shall certify to the secretary of the county central committee.

The usual voting places at election time will be used for the democratic caucuses to be held in the county on May 2. Let the precinct committeemen and local democrats see to it that the voting places are properly prepared.

Chairman.

Secretary.

COAL PROSPECT IS SHOWING UP WELL

Golden Gate Mining Company Strikes
Important Lead Opposite Easton
in Kittitas County.

Ellensburg, April 15.—The Golden Gate Mining company has just made a big strike on its property across the river from Easton, where it has been carrying on extensive development work on a coal prospect. An expert geologist, who has examined the property, believes that it is a continuation of the vein known as No. 4 mine at Roslyn. The contention of many that the north end of the county is one of the best coal fields is gradually being verified as the work of prospecting for coal continues.

Three shifts of men have been steadily employed on this prospect for three months. Machinery has been installed and in all likelihood another paying mine will soon be open in Kittitas county.

George Donald, J. D. Cornett and J. D. Medill own the controlling interest in the Golden Gate Mining company.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Mrs. George B. McClellan Takes Does of Carbolic Acid.

Mrs. George B. McClellan of the Moxee valley attempted to take her own life Friday morning by drinking the contents of a small bottle of carbolic acid. The dose was not sufficient to cause death. Her husband, who is foreman of the Moxee company's ranch, discovered the prostrate form of his wife on the bed when he came in at noon. He promptly summoned a physician.

Dr. Carver arrived from North Yakima soon after and brought the woman to St. Elizabeth's hospital, where she is now slowly recovering. Despondency is thought to have been the cause of the attempted suicide.

MONUMENT DEDICATED TO MINNESOTA'S DEAD

Gov. Johnson Delivers a Great Oration on the Historic Battlefield of Shiloh.

Shiloh Battlefield, Tenn., April 10.—The monument erected by the state of Minnesota in the national park at Shiloh to the memory of the Minnesota soldiers who fell on that battlefield, was dedicated here today. Governor Johnson and his staff, accompanied by a party of 50 prominent Minnesotans, was present and participated in the exercises. It was a ideal spring weather. General P. L. Hubbard, chairman of the Minnesota Monument Commission, presided. Governor Johnson spoke in part as follows:

Representing the people of the commonwealth of Minnesota, we are assembled on one of the historic battlefields of the civil war to pay our tribute of respect and affection to the memory of the sons of Minnesota who here yielded up their lives that this might continue to be a united nation. Their sacrifice was not for personal gains, but was in response to duty, and a contribution to the civilization of the age and for the purpose of perpetuating the institutions of human liberty.

I appreciate that nothing which I can say will add to or detract from the glory of their achievement, which in itself is an enduring monument to the patriotism and the heroism of the American soldier. Their sacrifice, however, was not different from that which has been made throughout all of the ages by those lovers of liberty who believed in a government which might give to all the people the right to life, liberty and property. The love of liberty was not born in this country of ours; it was cradled along the Danube and about the shores of the Baltic, even when Rome had reached the limit of her imperial grandeur, increasing in intensity with the passing of the centuries in the great English charter of civil rights, which forever guaranteed to the people of that land immunity from the despotism of those who claimed to rule by virtue of divine right. From the beginning of civilization man has ever struggled against the despotic power of the strong and has never hesitated to mix his blood with the soil of his land when by this offering he might leave to his posterity and those dear to him a legacy of freedom; and while the immediate result has not always been the triumph of the right, none of the great battles of history could have been fought unless there had been upon one side or the other those who were willing to sacrifice their own lives for the common good and for the permanent establishment of those principles of liberty which men have ever cherished.

One hundred and thirty-two years ago the great contest of humanity was transferred from the old world to the new, and here, because of the isolation of this country, because of the high character of the men who espoused the cause of liberty, and because of the signal victory achieved by them in that struggle, an opportunity was afforded to crystallize into written law the aspirations of the patriots of all the ages. The men who built the foundation of this government were those who had submitted to the supreme test of patriotism, for those who inspired the constitution of the United States were the same who had pledged their lives, their properties and their sacred honors to the cause of independence.

The scheme of government devised by our forefathers was adopted after most mature deliberation, and after the fullest investigation; and only when they were satisfied that in the distribution of the powers of government, the rights of the people would be respected. It was founded upon the theory that the right existed in the people to make, alter and modify their form of government, and to this end the several states in constitutional convention agreed upon and adopted a constitution which was the foundation upon which this nation rests. But, as Washington said, "The constitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The further heritage of the power and right of a people to establish government, presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government." The original sovereign states, which, through their representatives in 1787, united to form a federal government for certain specified purposes, were careful to have those powers which were delegated to it expressed in the constitution then agreed upon.

While the primary object of a written constitution is to define governmental powers, and to limit governmental departments, the overwhelming necessity for such an instrument is to prevent insidious encroachments upon the rights of the individual citizen, both from those in office and from those who by reason of their wealth and power have an influence far greater than that possessed by the average citizen. And so the constitution of the United States was regarded by its farmers as an instrument of the most sacred import, an alteration of which could only be made by the people themselves in whom all ultimate power is vested, and then only after the fullest discussion and widest publicity.

Under the beneficent government so established the nation has prospered and the people are happy. One great cloud came upon the nation in the form of an awful civil war, in which two sections of the country were in conflict with each other. The heroes who rest here gave their lives that this nation might be maintained as it came from our forefathers. On another battlefield of that war, Abraham Lincoln said: "It is for the living, rather, to be dedicated to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion for that cause for which they have given the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

NAMES ON THE TAX ROLL SHOW COUNTY'S GROWTH

Population as Estimated on Federal Basis Was 41,850 Last Year.

Those who are interested in the growth of Yakima county will find some facts on which to base their ideas of its growth in the following figures: In 1900 there were on the tax roll of the county 2025 names and the federal census that year showed a population for the county of 13,500. On the tax roll for the year 1907 there were 6225 names which on the same basis as in 1900 would show a population of 41,850. According to County Assessor Sindall the roll for 1908 will show a decided increase over 1907, a larger increase than would be expected.

PEOPLE LOOKING FOR NEW HOMES COME HERE

Texas Land Peddlers Try to Disparage the Yakima Valley, But Are Baffled in Their Efforts.

Although to the general public the increased immigration since the low rates went into effect has not been apparent, railroad officials and others connected with publicity work, unite in saying that Central Washington and especially North Yakima is this spring being blessed with a huge influx of home seekers.

Instead of trainloads of people getting off here, the immigrants come in small numbers at a steady rate. Each day sees many people step to the platform at the North Yakima depot and breathe a sigh of relief at sight of warm weather and prosperous conditions.

Other Sections Knock Yakima. Dealers in land in the southwestern states are carrying on their persistent knocking regarding the merits of the northwest and particularly the Yakima valley. They are sending out reports relative to the short supply of good weather and the great number of laboring men here who are out of employment. Particularly is this the case with Texas real estate sharks. With their unfavorable climate and the pests that are abundant in the southern states, the panhandle real estate dealers find it hard to turn the tide of immigration from Washington to Texas. For this reason they have sent out numerous false reports concerning conditions as they exist here.

Good Help Scarce. There is not an oversupply of help. On the contrary good help is scarce. Employment bureaus offer all kinds of inducements to laboring men. It is true that North Yakima has at this time on its streets many undesirable citizens who are apparently without employment but is simply a matter of choice with them. This city seems to be a mecca for all the bores in the state. They come here to loaf and will not take a job no matter how enticing it is. The westward move this spring is confined chiefly to the Yakima valley. In speaking of the fact a few days ago, General Immigration Agent C. W. Mott of the Northern Pacific said:

They Get Off Here. "Immigrants used to flock to the coast cities because the central Washington district was sparsely populated and there was little there to attract their attention. "Today, however, of a party of 50 immigrants who pass through Spokane coming west, fully two-thirds of this number have been induced to remove to this state by friends living in Central Washington. Ten will drop off at Kennewick, some at Lind. Others at North Yakima and only a few stay on the trains until they reach the coast. Central Washington is building up faster than ever before, and the newcomers consist largely of small scale farmers who are producers and add to the wealth of the state from the time they buy a home."

HIGHEST PRICE PAID FOR NACHES RANCH

S. G. Moore Sells His 20-Acre Property for $8,500 to Tacoma People.

S. G. Moore, the hay king of the Naches, has sold his 20-acre home ranch in that valley for $8,500. This is $425 an acre, which is the highest price, so far as is known, for land in that section of the valley. The Moore property is near to the Gled and Sloan ranches. The purchasers are Henry Hoyt, Miss Wolber and Miss Burlin of Tacoma, formerly of St. Louis. They have taken possession and Mr. Moore says they are certainly doing great things in the irrigation line. The morning after they took hold, he says, they were all out and had the whole 20 acres puddled. They asserted that they had no idea irrigating was such hard work. There is an orchard on the property slightly over two acres in area, which netted $1,600 last year. Mr. Moore owns a half section above the ditch, which he now intends to take hold of to make it produce.

RANCHERS COMPLAIN.

Selah People May Fall in Line With Nob Hill Fruit Growers.

Selah valley people are strongly considering falling in line with the Nob Hill fruit growers as regards the war to be waged on saloons. The principal plea from the ranchers in the Selah valley is for better roads leading from their valley to North Yakima. They have asked the county commissioners to improve the North Fourth street road or build a new road from the Selah gap bridge to connect with North Front street. The ground has been gone over by the commissioners and representative citizens from Selah valley. The commissioners acquiesced with the idea of a new road but said the ranchers would have to pay for it.

The complaint now arising from the ranchers is that the county spends all its money in convicting some criminal or settling some row that has developed out of the saloon business. The ranchers declare all the revenue derived by the county is expended on prosecuting saloon patrons.

GOVERNMENT TO BUY VERY HEAVY SUPPLIES

Oats, Hay and Potatoes Will Feel the Effect of the Na- tion's Needs.

Whether the 16,000 men who are to go to Seattle in the fleet of the United States, to be there next month, will improve the market conditions for North Yakima holders of potatoes is a matter for the future to settle. The prospects are that it will, particularly if the ships stock up with large supplies of the article which is contributing to make Yakima famous. That many men means another good sized city added to the state, and they will carry away enough to maintain them for some time. If they buy the prices paid will be higher than those which have prevailed for some weeks, as potatoes are now about the $12 mark here and the demand is increasing. There is more hope in the situation, all things considered, than has been the case since Christmas.

Will Want Oats and Hay.
Oats and hay are bound to respond to conditions which the federal government influences. The quartermaster's department will in a day or two issue a call for bids on 5,000 tons of oats and 5,000 tons of hay. These bids will be opened May 14 and the stuff will be shipped for July and August delivery. Because of the distribution of the available oat supply that part of the government's demand will probably be purchased in this state and 5,000 tons will about clean up the excess. Oats are now quoted at $27 and $28 a ton. California is declared to hold a large quantity of excellent hay, but as the government will want timothy there is certain to be a field left open for alfalfa with that much of the other kind taken out.

Berries are Unattractive.
Cheap sound apples, which have been in storage at Seattle and Tacoma, are declared to have been marketed and the conditions are reported to be improving steadily and daily for the finer qualities, with an increased consumption; 2.50 has been paid here for the best grade. Some apples are being shipped from this station each week.
Strawberries and green peas have made their appearance in the North Yakima market. The berries, like most of the early crop of that fruit, are not attractive either in appearance or taste, yet at 30 and 35 cents a box are finding a ready enough market. The green peas are selling at 20 cents a quart, which means about that price per pound, and that, in its turn, means a good profit to the grower.

Flocks are Broken Up.
Poultry is easier to get and the prices are less firm than two weeks ago. Most of the fanciers have begun to break into their flocks and are selling such as they do not propose to retain. Broilers have also been on sale and the real spring chicken is a delicacy. Birds 10 and 12 weeks old will be found from this time forward. Veal is another meat which is becoming easier. The rain has been sadly needed for the animals feeding in the lower valley and reports to hand indicate that in the lower section the lambs have suffered because the ewes have lacked nourishment.

Butter prices have gone off some on the sound, but no change has resulted here in the prevailing prices. Reports from various sections of the state indicate an increase in the number of dairies, but the growth is not proportionate with the increase in population and will not be under high priced lands.

Tomatoes and the various extras of the season are in fair supply. General quotations are as follows:

E. J. HAASZE TO BUILD $10,000 COUNTRY HOME

Work Has Begun on Fine Dwelling Which Will Be El- egantly Appointed.

Work has begun on a $10,000 house for E. J. Haasze on his property on Summit View road. The residence when completed will be one of the finest, best appointed and most modern houses of North Yakima or the surrounding valley. Architect Perrin has prepared the plans, which are said to be absolutely unique. Mr. Haasze owns property in close proximity to Dr. Henry's residence on Nob Hill. The building site commands a splendid view of the Wide Hollow valley, the Naches gap, Fruitvale, Nob Hill and North Yakima.

There will be 12 large and elegantly furnished rooms. A full basement will add to the spacious domicile. The dining room will be paneled and it will have, as many of the other rooms, beamed ceiling. A buffet kitchen with dumb waiters to the basement will be feature. A special feature of the interior is the elegant china closet. Lead-ed and beveled plate glass will comprise the doors to the closet.

AHTANUM.
The Ladies' Aid society will give their annual Easter bazar at the church next Friday night. There will be a musical program furnished by the Jackson colored orchestra of North Yakima. The ladies will have a supply of useful and fancy articles for sale and will serve a supper. Everybody is invited to attend. Wesley, Linden, Albert and Hilda Sherman and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dixon, Jr., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman of the Naches.
Mrs. Bert Gillette expects her brother and his wife and child to visit her in the near future.
Mr. Stabler is reported to be very sick.
Mrs. Carson's father, Mr. Wilson, returned to his home in Iowa.

AWARDS BY JUDGES OF HORSE EXHIBITS

Draft Animals Will Be Divided Into Classes at Future Par- ades Here.

While a great many people who saw the parade of horses in North Yakima Saturday did not agree with the judges in the selections made of ribbon wearers practically all were agreed that the display of animals as a whole was much superior to what had been expected. It is a certainty that no such display of horses has ever been made at the state fair as was made by the residents of this county on the city streets and it was an ample indication that interest in the horse is spreading. There was no dissatisfaction with the awards but of course there were many who differed from the judges, which was but natural.

This was particularly true concerning the draft animals. Wiley Bros. had a stallion, a shire, which failed to catch the eye of the judges, but which was looked upon by many as a likely candidate for high honors. Another year, as a matter of fact the draft animals will not be placed in general competition but will be classified so that each division of the draft classes will be separate.

John Cleman, who won honors in the draft class, was really more pleased when he found that the stallion which took the blue ribbon in the standard class, King of the Naches, was an animal he had bred.

The turnout of driving horses was really excellent and was more of a surprise than perhaps any other department, except the drafters. There was general regret that more ladies had not participated in the features of the day and exhibited their driving or saddle animals but this is an error which will be remedied in any subsequent show.

Following is the list of winners:
Thoroughbred Stallions—First, Gold-one, Hawkins & Fear; second, Wepan-gootis, J. M. Tucker.

"It was an incorrect opinion that such trouble as you suffered last year from a car shortage arose from a lack of motive power and not of cars. Of course we are adding to our motive power constantly, but no railroad can carry the equipment necessary to handle a maximum of business instantaneously. That would mean an immense amount of capital lying idle for the greater part of the year. We have to take it as best we can, concentrating at various points as the demands arise. Your people here, despite the great increase in yield from the orchards, will, I believe, find that the output of the orchards will be well handled this year. We will have a very large number of cars for fruit and, in addition, we will be in a better position to borrow from the fruit companies which have their own cars. When the crop is on here it is not on in California and other sections, and under arrangements we are making, or can make, we will be able to take care of this section nicely. Of course we are anticipating the constant increase in freight from this valley as the orchards develop.

Looking Out for Future.

"My visit here is not of any significance at this time. I am merely on my way through to Tacoma, and Mrs. Levy, who is with me, wanted to stop off here for a few hours and see Mr. and Mrs. Donald. I am glad, however, to get an opportunity of making an assurance to your fruit people that we are anticipating their needs of later in the season. You know we expect this country to grow and we expect to develop with it and take care of that portion of the development which falls to us."

"UNDUE FAVORITISM."

Several years ago it was reported that Andrew Carnegie had offered to pay $20,000,000 for the Philippine islands, provided he was permitted to assure the Filipinos that they would be given their independence.

Commenting upon this story, the Chicago Tribune said that the steel magnate "has tried the patience of his friends severely in some of his late bids for notoriety." It expressed the opinion that Mr. Carnegie is constantly posing, and said "he has scattered libraries throughout the country, all of which are to be called for him, and every one of them is a contribution to the conscience fund."

Then the Tribune said: "Mr. Carnegie made his money in a magnificent way, but he should never forget that he made it through undue favoritism of the government of the United States. Owing to the discrimination practiced in his favor by the tariff, he was enabled to amass a fortune of $200,000,000, or more, most of which came out of the pockets of his countrymen through the operation of unequal laws. Much has been said of the benefit arising to the workmen from the establishment of the Carnegie works. The beneficent tariff system permitted the works to survive and flourish, but there are some people who have not forgotten the Homestead strike nor the outrageous manner in which the workmen were treated at the time by employers whose brutality has seldom been exceeded in the history of labor agitations."

Now the Sioux City Journal and other republican papers must not forget that the republican party has, in every presidential campaign and congressional campaign, been financed by the men to whom they have granted what the Chicago Tribune calls "undue favoritism." Does any one imagine that the tariff barons will withhold contributions from the republican campaign fund this year? Does any one believe that the republican party will ever revise the tariff in the interest of the consumers so long as it obtains its campaign funds from the tariff barons?—The Commoner.

REFINEMENTS IN BATTLESHIP DESIGN.

Having followed in detail and with much interest the course of our great battle fleet from Virginia to Lower California, and read the announcements of its further proceeding, including the jovial visit to Japan, we begin mightily to suspect that, in the heated controversy respecting naval construction, both sides were hopelessly wrong.

We begin to imagine that the future naval architect will pay little attention to whether the armor belt is above or below the water line, but will be very particular to have the passenger elevators, which lift distinguished visitors to the main deck, tasteful in design and commodious in arrangement. He will give less thought to the ammunition hoists than to the dumb waiters. The 12-inch shells may be lugged up by hand, but if any accident happens to the cunning device by which five o'clock tea is siphoned to the bridge, the constructor will come in for a wiggling. The elevation of the guns may be worked out by a subaltern, but the best man in the bureau will see that the orchestra stand is properly placed. In order to give room for the square dances it will doubtless be found expedient to put all the armament in the hold.

Also, we know we shall like the new battleship better.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Wall Street Journal, a publication very friendly to the Taft candidacy, says: "Granting that Taft and Bryan are the opposing candidates, what would be the likely issue of such a contest? Against Taft are to be counted, first, the effects of panic and depression, which always hurt the party in power, represented by Mr. Taft; second, much factional bitterness within the republican party in several of the most important states, including Secretary Taft's own state of Ohio; third, certain decisions rendered by Mr. Taft when he was a United States judge and which were objectionable to leaders of organized labor; and fourth, the antagonism of some of the strongest financial interests which are opposed to Roosevelt and regard Mr. Taft as simply standing for the Roosevelt idea. In Mr. Taft's favor are to be counted President Roosevelt's great popularity throughout the larger part of the country; second, Mr. Taft's own personal strength and engaging personality and remarkable public record; and third, the fact that William R. Hearst is evidently determined to nominate a third ticket which, while drawing somewhat from the republican vote, would nevertheless cut most deeply into the Bryan column and serve materially to weaken his candidacy."

The allies, by whom we mean the field of g. o. p. presidential candidates in opposition to Secretary Taft, are pretty hard pressed just now. All they hope to succeed in doing for the present is to prevent Taft from securing a majority of the delegates pledged to him. It is doubtful if they can succeed in accomplishing even that much, but even if they do it will probably avail them nothing as many of the uninstructed delegates are for Taft and will support him knowing that he is the man with the band wagon, which is the identical thing that most of the republican politicians are looking for. The allies are united on nothing except the desire to be at Taft. But the bluffers will not beat him, because there is no public sentiment behind them either as individuals or as a bunch. The allies include Fairbanks, Cannon, Hughes, Knox and Foraker. La Follette, the one remaining candidate, either refused to go into the unholy combine or was ignored. At any rate La Follette has saved his face by not being in with the gang.

The Democrat remarked some time ago that the editor of the Republic would support Governor Mead for re-nomination this year and it sees no reason, as yet, to change that opinion.

It may be true, as charged, that the colonel of the Republic, has been flirting with other candidates. But even so we cannot believe that our local friend with the military title did so in a serious vein. Like the engaged young lady there can be no harm in a silly flirtation as long as the heart beats true. However, we confess that we have been somewhat disturbed by these stories and we hope we will hear no more of them. In fact, we feel that our reputation as a prophet is at stake. We have said that the colonel is going to support his friend, Mr. Mead, and we object to him making a liar of us.

Ex-Senator Gray, of Delaware, is unquestionably an able statesman, perhaps the ablest of the Tilden-Cleveland school. But he very probably never will be president, unless the republicans have that honor in reserve for him. Democrats, of the present generation, at least, will not forget the harsh things that Gray said in 1896, when stumping for the spurious Palmer and Buckner ticket. Neither will they forget Gray's veiled support of McKinley in 1900, a fact that brought him a federal judgeship. It would seem as though the Delaware statesman must be possessed of plenty of nerve to go before a democratic convention this year and ask for the highest honor in the gift of the party.

The enemies of Bryan within his own party hope to defeat the great commoner at Denver by reason of the two-thirds rule. Every western and middle western state being against them except Minnesota, they are now engaged in ransacking the south in search of delegates who will stand with New York and Pennsylvania as against Bryan at the convention. But they are not likely to find any delegates for sale in the south. Every southern state with the possible exception of conservative old Louisiana, will stand for Bryan at Denver. The anti-Bryan schemers are in just the same fix that the anti-Taft crowd is in in the republican party, and they will be just as badly beaten at the outcome.

Both Cannon and Fairbanks, who for years have regarded tariff reform as party heresy, now feel compelled to hold out the promise that the tariff will be reformed—after the presidential election. Neither would make such a promise if it were not for the presidential bee buzzing in their bonnets. Yet, there is much satisfaction for genuine tariff reformers at seeing these two old sinners at last come to repentance, even though it is of the eleventh hour variety with none to credit their sincerity. But Cannon and Fairbanks may as well have held their peace. Neither was born to be president and their latest play in a desperate game only provokes a smile of derision.

The machine politicians do not want Governor Hughes for president, because he is much the same type of man as Grover Cleveland and T. Roosevelt. The machine men have received no comfort or consideration at the hands of Hughes since that great man has been governor of New York. They cannot dominate Hughes, therefore they are against him. They much prefer Taft, who rather stands for the McKinley order of statesmanship in many ways. And Taft is proving himself to be an expert politician too. And somehow the idea has got spread abroad that Taft if elected president will remember the boys. That feeling helps the fat man in the race.

Colonel Ridpath, of Spokane, reputed millionaire and fine old aristocrat, is making a preliminary canvass of the state in the interest of his candidacy for governor on the republican ticket. The gentleman says that he will surely be able to beat Governor Mead at the primaries. We are inclined to doubt his ability to do that, but we wish him luck in the effort anyway. The trouble will be that the anti-Mead vote will be frittered away among the half dozen opposition candidates, a sorry condition that will enable the present misfit executive to win the nomination in a walk.

Many New York republican politicians are giving Governor Hughes merely a lukewarm support that would politically kill the governor if he really did stand a show for the presidential nomination, which he does not. The New York convention last Saturday while reluctantly instructing the four delegates at large for Hughes, positively refused to instruct the 72 district delegates, many of whom are openly for Taft. The governor's boom therefore, is virtually busted. His opportunity has now passed and it is safe to assume that Governor Hughes will never be president, although he is by long odds the biggest man in the republican race.

The claim that ex-Governor McBride is the Ankeny candidate for governor appears to be a yarn that emanated in the Wilson-Mead headquarters. There is as yet no intimation from the Ankeny camp that such is really the case. Even if such a statement be true it is not discreditable to McBride. Next to John R. Rogers McBride made the best governor that this state has ever had. If he were in the executive chair today the state of Washington would not be financially broke, and compelled as it now is to borrow money from the school fund with which to pay current expenses.

The new republican mayor of Tacoma, after having peddled out all the city offices in advance in exchange for support in his campaign, now discovers that about one half of the public jobs are filled with democrats, who being protected by civil service now refuse to resign to accommodate his honor. The new mayor is therefore much disappointed, likewise a number of hungry patriots who find their way blocked to the public. Disappointment is a mild word to express their disgust. 'T was ever thus in politics.

The recent trouble with the Kent bandits reminds many people of this state of the running fight with that notorious desperado Harry Tracy, in the summer of 1903, which cost the lives of 11 of his pursuers. The Kent thugs, all three of whom are foreigners, are, of course, not in the Tracy class, although they have certainly done enough mischief. When caught their necks should pay the forfeit as the result of the death of the two brave officers whom they shot down.

Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have given out the information that he proposes going abroad after the expiration of his present term and that incidentally he will take his gun along to bring down big game. Probably the president is figuring on capturing an elephant, a form of sport that made his reputation.

The friend in cash is the friend to ask.

A couple were recently married in Oregon over an anvil. Did the sparks fly during or after the ceremony?

A thief in Omaha stole $3000 out of a woman's pocket. He must have been a married man.

Jumping out of the frying pan into the fire often puts one into a stew.

The star artist who heads the bill has often been known to refuse to foot one.

The girl who proposes may be regarded in the light of an up-to-date proposition.

Memory is the feeling that steals over us when we listen to our friend's original stories.

A Yakima man tried everything for insomnia without the least relief. And the other evening he merely mentioned a few of the expedients he had tried, and every man in the room was fast asleep before he had got half through. It's funny how things work, isn't it?

I believe if a man is born godly, with no bad qualities, if he lives religiously all his life, he is no better than a knave, if the latter was born with evil traits. To a man naturally good, it is no credit to live good; but if he struggles to live better, he is entitled to great credit, and is in reality a better man than the one who lives religiously because it is his nature to do so.

Mr. Bryan is touring Colorado. Perhaps he has been hired by Denver to work up interest in that little spread-eagle meeting which is to take place there in July.—P.-I.

This shows that Chicago town is a little bit jealous of Denver. Still, however, William Jennings Bryan would not consider for love nor money an offer of attending the free love meeting of elephant admirers to be held in the big Windy City soon, let alone touring Illinois to "work up" interest at the same. Never.

A circus is better than politics any day. There is much more fun in watching the elephant roll barrels than in witnessing a prosy candidate roll words of bullock, so to speak, out of his mouth. The elephantine humor of the circus is generally superior to the elephantine humor of the forum, and the jokes of the average clown are usually less venerable than the jokes of the average politician.

"What is love, that all the world Talks so much about it? What is love, that neither you nor I Can do without it? Love's a tyrant and a slave, A passion and a pleasure; Having it, we know no peace, Lacking it, no pleasure. Would we shun it if we could? Sure, I almost doubt it. Faith! I'd rather bear its pains than live my life without it."

Cities having in view the purchasing of a garbage incinerator are "up a stump," so to speak, should they depend upon the verdict from Seattle, as to whether the Meldrum plant is a failure or a success.

The P.-I. claims it does the work satisfactorily, while the Seattle Times claims the health and sanitation committees decide it should be abandoned or turned over to private contractors, as it does not burn up the waste matter, is too expensive to operate and disseminates noxious odors. Now either the P.-I. or the Times is not telling the truth about the actual working of the incinerator, for it either burns or does not burn the garbage.

It is difficult for an "out of town" reader of the Times to form an opinion as to the merit or defect of the incinerator, or as to which paper to believe is stating the honest truth about the matter.

As the P.-I. and Times cannot agree as to the worth or worthlessness of the garbage destroyer built by Seattle's city engineer, Thompson, perhaps the Rev. M. A. Matthews, the sensational preacher who has a bunch of hair that makes Buffalo Bill's locks look like a Canadian five cent piece with three holes in it, so to speak, would deliver an address some Sunday evening on this "burning question, taking for his title: "The truth about the Meldrum incinerator, notwithstanding the Difference of opinion of both the P.-I. and the Times," if re-arrested, which the doctor could make a hot and smoking one, if not striking.

About 1800 years ago a Chinese woman of high social standing wrote a work entitled: "Instructions to Women and Girls. Contained in the book were some very pretty remarks, as the following testify:

"When walking, look straight ahead; turn not your head."

Fancy a bewitching girl or woman behaving like that as she promenades the principal streets of a town or city, when passing a millinery store.

Then the women-folk portion of the race are told:

"Sitting, don't shake your knees—a common fault among men."

This is a nasty, spiteful hit at the worm, man. But how delightfully feminine it sounds.

The following axiom has puzzled me somewhat:

"Talking, restrain your voice within your teeth."

It would appear Chinese maidens were expected to give ventiloquial performances on the least provocation.

Then there is the exhortation:

"Standing, keep quiet your skirts."

That proves beyond a doubt that musical comedy was unknown in those days.

Advice is also proffered on visiting friends and entertaining guests.

"As a guest demand nothing."

So you are at once forbidden to ask your host for the loan of his spoons, or "touch" him for a "V." Again:

"If the hostess for you prepare a feast, remember the wine to raise only to your lips."

That is a very tantalizing performance I must say. Human nature revolts against such a decree. To proceed:

"Politely receive guests and exhaust courtesy when they depart."

That sounds somewhat strange. We are accustomed to speed the parting guest, but to "exhaust courtesy" is a new way of putting things. I suppose the good woman remembered that only the husband of the hostess was left behind. There is no necessity to be courteous to one's husband.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
Washington, D. C., April 14.—The extraordinary position into which the republicans in the house have been forced by the minority leader, Representative John Sharp Williams, and the lengths to which they are ready to go rather than respond to the president's recommendations are the occasion of amazement not unmixed with amusement to every one who has been watching the recent course of events in Washington. The speaker and his colleagues on the committee on rules have not hesitated at anything and they have finally been forced to adopt rules which demonstrate, as never before, the absolute autocracy which the speaker enjoys and which so far eliminates roll calls as to relieve every republican of the responsibility of his acts. The republican leaders seem to have realized the ridiculous attitude in which they were being placed by a minority of only 167 members, as against 223 republicans, and they have tried in every possible way to avoid the adoption of these stringent rules, but they were finally compelled to adopt them rather than run the risk of voting by name against measures which the president has recommended and which their constituents demand.

The president does not seem to lose heart at all because of the opposition of his party to his policies and he is seriously considering the advisability of sending to congress a special message protesting against the authorization of only two battleships when he had demanded four with not only authority to prepare plans but to make contracts at once. Every member of the naval affairs committee voted against the president on this proposition except Representative Hobson, who submitted a minority report and whose service in the navy, before he entered politics, has resulted in a loyalty to the floating portion of the military establishment which nothing can chill.

The republicans are greatly chagrined over the defeat in the house committee on postoffices of the Gallinger postal subvention bill, that being the euphonious name for this year's brand of the old ship subsidy bill. The advocates of the measure thought they had everything fixed for a favorable report on the measure when Representative Haggott, of Colorado, "folded his tent like the Arab and as silently stole away" and the measure was laid on the committee table. The friends of the measure are not discouraged, however. They now purpose to offer it as an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill when that measure reaches the senate and they believe that in this shape it will become a law.

The senate this week passed the army appropriation bill carrying a total appropriation of about $98,000,000. This bill also provided the increase of pay for officers and enlisted men of the army and the marine corps. The officers will receive increases varying from 10 to 25 per cent., the higher the grade the lower the increase, and the enlisted men will receive an average increase of 25 per cent., as much as 50 per cent additional being paid to men who enlist for the third time or more. Democrats as well as republicans voted for the increase of the pay of the army for the cost of living has so generally increased that the pay table fixed nearly 20 years ago was by no means adequate to the expenses of officers and men, especially now that the foreign service entails so much expensive traveling.

After the army bill was passed Senator Hale made his annual attack on the cost of the military establishment, an attack which would command greater respect did not Mr. Hale come forward each year and urge steadily increasing appropriations for the navy. Mr. Hale appears, this time, to have been misled by an article stating that Secretary Taft advocated an army of 125,000 men, although the article was wholly unfounded, the secretary never having advocated this great increase which is the pet scheme of the general staff.

The antics of the anti-administration, anti-Taft republicans are affording a good deal of amusement for their democratic brethren. The anti-administration crowd has been breathing fire against Mr. Taft and declaring that under no circumstances could he be nominated. Steadily, however, the ground has been slipping from under their feet and the staunch supporters of many of them have abandoned their former leaders to espouse the cause of the secretary of war, or at least to secure comfortable seats not too far back on the big secretary's band wagon. Now the anti-Taft crowd generally admits that the secretary will be nominated but insists that he cannot be elected. Perhaps he cannot. Very possibly, in fact. But there is no question that he is the strongest man the republicans have and that were they to nominate any other of the bright galaxy of stars the anti-administration crowd has been putting through their paces, it would mean a walk-over for William J. Bryan.

FIRE DESTROYS NEW BLOCK IN TOPPENISH

Fire which destroyed a grocery store, four saloons and a poolroom in Toppenish early Sunday morning, wiping out the west side block which only recently was rebuilt after the fire of last year. The amount of the loss is estimated at about $85,000. The buildings burned were: Brown Brothers' grocery store, Swan Erickson's saloon, White & Rhodes' saloon, Abe Brink's saloon, Key-lon & Gimmle's saloon, John Boatman's poolroom, and two small restaurants. All of these buildings were new wooden structures and were situated southwest of the railway depot.

The fire started in the rear of Brown Brothers' store at 1:45 o'clock Sunday morning and is believed to be of incendiary origin. When the alarm was given an effort was made to fight the fire with the aid of the little chemical engine recently purchased by the city council but practically nothing could be done to stay the flames.

Sensational stories are circulating in Toppenish regarding the origin of the fire. It is alleged that it was started by some active partisan of the prohibitionists in Toppenish and an investigation is asked of the movements of two men in an automobile which was seen in the vicinity of the block burned just prior to the fire. The automobile then left the town. The only automobile known to have been in Toppenish at that hour from this city was that belonging to a well known local merchant who was accompanied by a friend. These citizens of course, are above suspicion.

Apart from the fact that a rather warm fight is in progress in Toppenish between the prohibitionists and the saloon interests there appears to be no particular ground for the suspicion of the saloon men.

Was Burned Out Here.

The store in which the fire is believed to have had its inception is that of O. J. and R. B. Brown. O. J. Brown formerly carried on a grocery business in this city, his store being situated in on Yakima avenue. He was burned out about three years ago and is said to have met with a similar mishap in Tacoma prior to coming to this country.

Swan Erickson had just installed $1800 worth of new fixtures in his saloon, these being identical with the bar fixtures at the Washington in this city. Boatman's poolroom also was but recently fitted up in handsome style.

The cause of the fire will be carefully investigated by the officers of the law and also the insurance companies. The amount of insurance could not be ascertained accurately, but a considerable amount of the total loss is covered by policies. Brown Brothers had $6000 insurance and Erickson had $4200. The pool tables in Boatman's establishment were saved as also were some other articles in the different buildings.

COMMISSIONERS VOTE $9000 FOR EXHIBIT

Additional $4000 Will Be Provided on Next Year's Tax Rolls.

The county commissioners will provide in all $9000 towards defraying the cost of the county exhibit at the Seattle exposition next year. On this year's rolls an appropriation of $5000 is provided for and the additional $4000 will be provided for on the tax rolls of next year, thus conforming with the law which limits the amount of money which can be voted for the exhibition to one half of one per cent.

Some of the counties west of the mountains have incorporated associations for the purpose of making exhibits at the exposition, thus putting the matter on a businesslike basis, and it is suggested that the same course be taken here. The commissioners are not enthusiastic regarding the proposal to make a joint exhibit with Benton and Franklin counties. It is pointed out that those two counties would have nothing to add to the variety or scope of the Yakima exhibit and that the union would result only in increasing to some extent the number of similar exhibits.

Card of Thanks.

FIRST SETTLER HERE DIES IN KITTITAS

Charles Splawn, Who Was the First Sheriff of Yakima, Passes Away.

Charles Armenius Splawn, who was with F. M. Thorp, the first settler in the Yakima valley, and who was the first settler with a family in the Kittitas valley, died Thursday at his home at Thorp, aged 78 years. At his bedside were his brother, A. J. Splawn of this city, L. L. Thorp and several other life-long friends. The body was interred at Thorp Friday. Mr. Splawn was the first sheriff of Yakima who actually served the office, he was also assessor, county commissioner, and probate judge in the early days of this county. His life and the early history of the Yakima valley are closely interwoven and he was a part of a great many of the activities of this now thickly settled district.

Early Days Were Restless.

Mr. Splawn was born in Ray county, Missouri, September 13, 1831, and crossed the plains to Oregon in the company of Jonathan Keeney, one of the most noted trappers and frontiersmen of that day, which was 1851. He went to the mining districts of southern Oregon and northern California early in the fifties, and was a participant in many of the Indian fights in southern Oregon with Capt. William Martin and General Joe Lowe. He joined the rush of miners to the Colville valley, in this state and on his return from there to the Willamette valley barely escaped the first of the massacres that precluded the great Indian wars of 1855 and 1856, as he passed through the Kittitas and Yakima valleys but a day or two before the battle of Toppenish, near Fort Simcoe, which battle marked the beginning of the war.

Lived in the Moxee.

In 1859 Mr. Splawn settled in the Klickitat valley just above the present Goldendale. He again went mining, however, when in 1860 he joined the rush to the Skamillikameen, in Okanogan county, and in 1861 went to the newly discovered mines at Orofino, Idaho, where he handled a pack train of supplies for the miners. Returning in August of that year he settled in the Moxee valley alongside F. M. Thorp, whom he had helped to move from Klickitat, and he married the eldest daughter of the Thorp home, Dulcinea Helen. With Mr. Thorp he was the first settler here and their lives were passed together until death separated them. He was also the first settler in the Kittitas when he located on the Taenun creek where he afterwards made his home.

Mr. Splawn had an extensive acquaintance among the pioneers of this country and the news of his death will be heard with deep regret.

HUNTER DECLARES GAME NEEDS MORE PROTECTION

Tells of Sunday Party Killing Everything in Sight on the Reservation.

A local sportsman who has had considerable experience of shooting in this country, declares that more protection is required for the game on the reservation.

"Last Friday," he writes, "two of us went to the reservation to hunt geese and as we played in hard luck we bagged but five birds after staying until noon Sunday. We found the ducks exceedingly plentiful and tame and there were more of them than we have seen at any time during the winter. On Saturday night and Sunday a crowd of people came out from Wapato and other points and up to noon Sunday we heard a continuous firing within a mile on either side of the Willows. Two of the hunters got within easy reach of us and while we could see them they surely did not pass up any ducks, which now are out of season. They fired at everything that came in range. A lot of people were shooting on Watson's lake. We could not see what they were doing but they certainly were not firing at geese as none came up the creek that morning.

"Hunters' license fees last fall ran up to over $1000 and I think it would be better to spend more money on protecting the game we have got than in importing game which is more or less a speculative proposition."

KRUGER IS INDICTED.

Local Nurseryman Must Stand Trial for Alleged Misuse of the Mails.

Paul G. Kruger, the local nurseryman, has been for the second time indicted on the charge of using the United States mails to defraud. Kruger was indicted on this charge last year by the grand jury at Spokane and was arraigned for trial before Judge Whitson at the last term of the circuit court in this city. Judge Preble appeared for Kruger and succeeded in having the indictment quashed on technical grounds the indictment alleging more than one offense, contrary to the law. The argument occupied several hours, the motion to quash being opposed by District Attorney A. G. Avery.

The federal grand jury now in session at Spokane returned a second indictment against Kruger Wednesday. Kruger is alleged to have defrauded a nursery concern by which he was employed as salesman on commission by writing or causing to be written false and fraudulent orders for nursery stock. After the commission had been paid, it is alleged, it was found that the persons ordering the stock were fictitious. The alleged offense was committed in 1906. After the indictment was quashed by Judge Whitson it was surmised that the prosecution would drop the case; in fact, Mr. Avery hinted as much, but evidently he has since changed his mind.

The spring term of the federal circuit and district court will open here, Judge Whitson presiding, on Tuesday, May 5. A jury will be summoned.

Other Cases to Be Tried.

Besides the case of Kruger, that of Hop Lee, the Ellensburg Chinaman accused of having contraband opium in his possession, will be heard. Lee was indicted by the grand jury Wednesday.

Another case noted for trial is that of Michael Miller, of Ellensburg, who will be tried under the provisions of the new naturalization law. Miller is accused of having got his second papers by misrepresentation regarding one of his witnesses, and the charge against him was laid by the assistant United States attorney in Seattle. Goode, Palmer & Murphy are attorneys for Miller.

Several civil causes will be heard including the somewhat celebrated suit of the Otis Elevator company vs. Pat Mullins, in which an elevator firm of San Francisco seeks to recover the price of the plant installed in the Washington hotel. Mullins counterclaims for damages for breach of contract, alleging that he suffered loss exceeding the value of the plant by reason of delay in the installation.

The session of the court is not expected to be a long one. The jurors will be drawn at Spokane and notice thereof is expected by Clerk of the Court C. E. Cleaver at any time. The jurors will be summoned by the deputy marshal, who now is located at Spokane instead of in this city, as heretofore.

PAUL HORST ALARMS BRITISH HOP GROWERS

Declares That American Over Production Will Put Them Out of Business.

Paul Horst, of hop fame, has now got the English growers by the ears. He says it is a simple thing to get control of the English market and through an agent has told the English hopgrower that his game is up. "He had better grub up all his gardens and learn another trade," says Mr. Horst. "America is an over producer and while there is no protective tariff the British grower cannot hope to be a paying competitor."

On the White Star liner Adriatic, now due at Liverpool, are 3000 tons, or 36,000 bales of American hops, by far the largest consignment ever sent to England and in fact equal almost to one third the total foreign hop imports to that country. When the fact was announced doubt was expressed whether one ship could carry that many bales of hops but the Adriatic is doing it. That a gigantic effort is being made to capture the English trade there can be no doubt.

STATE FAIR MUST BE ENTICING AND UNIQUE

With the approach of the summer campaign for the state fair come thoughts of a greater fair. Although the fair has, in former years, been good and has succeeded in attracting to North Yakima large crowds from all points of the state, many citizens of the city and valley desire to see the annual fall exhibit under state auspices, greatly improved.

The issue that confronts the public is how to effect co-operation between the extreme eastern part of the state and the western part of Washington with the commercial bodies of the Yakima valley and other points in central Washington. Heretofore the fair at North Yakima has been more of a Yakima fair than a state fair.

Other Sections Uninterested.
"The work of interesting all sections of the state in the fair annually held here has progressed slowly. Seattle and Tacoma, and in fact, all the Sound cities, appear to think the fair held here is purely a local affair and not one that interests that section of the country. Consequently, most westside exhibits have gone to the Puyallup Valley fair, and few to the state fair.

Spokane and most of the Inland Empire have contributed almost solely to the Interstate fair at Spokane. This has left the state fair dependent on Central Washington.

W. M. Nelson of the real estate firm of Nelson, Hartshorn & Palmer suggests a means of obliterating the feeling existing in the other parts of the state relative to the fair at North Yakima. He says:

Must Have Co-Operation.

"It is conceded by all, I believe, that unless we have the co-operation of the people of the entire state we cannot expect to have a first class state fair. By that I do not mean to say that the fairs held here have not been successful. Indeed, I think the fair commissioners have done remarkably well considering the obstacles that have confronted them. But we must, in order to make the fair a complete success, have the co-operation of every part of the state.

"To do this we must make it worth while for the people of Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Walla Walla and of all cities and communities of the commonwealth to come here and bring their exhibits. The great plea is for money with which to conduct the fair. The commissioners say they cannot offer fancy premiums when there is so little money on which to go. That is true, but in order for any man or firm or corporation to make money and have money with which to carry on his business, a certain amount of risk must be taken. I believe that applies to the state fair.

Must Have Attractions.

"If the commissioners go ahead and furnish attractions for visitors, the people who contemplate paying the fair a visit hear that it is to be increased sufficiently to bear all the increased expense involved. You cannot get the people here unless there is some attraction. You cannot get people to bring their exhibits here unless they have some incentive. When outside stockmen and manufacturers hear that premiums of some note are to be awarded for fancy exhibits they will not hesitate in helping to make the fair a success.

"A united effort on the part of all those interested in the state fair ought to be made toward developing the interest of those people living in other sections of the state. The city and community should extend a hearty welcome and urge all to come here for a week and enjoy themselves.

Make Fair Unique.

"Because of the three big fairs held about the same time, I would suggest that the Yakima fair be made absolutely unique. Make the fair here something different from the other fairs.

"I would urge that the stock exhibit made to be a special feature. Gather together all the state's wealth of cattle and horses and then note the interest that will be manifest. Then of course special attractions for the young and giddy should be provided. A fair is not a fair without the tent shows, Ferris wheels and all that sort of amusement. In order to get all the people here, we must cater to all the people. I am simply giving a few suggestions that have proved beneficial to the eastern fairs. I am heartily interested in making or helping to make, the state fair a success—a complete success, and I believe it can be done."

ORCHARDS OF YAKIMA

NEVER WERE CLEANER

Inspector Brown Says That Everybody Is Observing the Spraying Law.

"The city, so far as the fruit trees are concerned, has never been cleaner than it is this year," said Deputy Horticultural Inspector Joe Brown this morning. "Everybody with trees, whether it is an orchard of just one or two pines in the front yard, has either sprayed or is preparing to do so. The general attention to the duties in this respect is remarkable. It appears as if the idea of protecting the orchards is generally understood and the desire to observe it equally general. The willows and other growths along the banks of the ditches, which have always been very dirty so far as pests are concerned, have been cut down. I have seen all the ditch people and they have all cleared up their property. This will remove one large cause of infection. People have sprayed only to find their trees at the close of the year unaccountably dirty. The willows have been a heavy contributing cause."

NO INSTRUCTIONS FOR

BRYAN IN NEW YORK

New York, April 15.—A bitter contest between State Senator Patrick McCarren and the forces led by Chairman W. J. Connors and Charles F. Murphy over the seating of the McCarren delegates from Kings county delayed the opening of today's session of the democratic state convention. The fight was on in the credentials committee and its finish was expected in time for the convention to meet again at 4 o'clock. Meantime the Connors-Murphy forces agreed upon the names of Alton B. Parker, Charles F. Murphy, Lewis Nixon and Charles Froeb as delegates-at-large to the national convention. It was announced that Nathan Strauss would be one of the presidential electors.

The friends of Bryan decided to abandon the idea of presenting a minority report to the democratic state convention from the committee on resolutions favoring an instructed delegation for Bryan from New York.

After an all-night battle in the committee on credentials Senator McCarren delivered his ultimatum to Tammany Hall that the organization must keep its hands off the Kings county democracy. There was a sharp argument between McCarren and Daniel F. Cohalan, speaker for Tammany, over the action of the Kings county organization in withdrawing its support of Hearst, McCarren claiming that he first had put candidates in the field against the Kings county organization candidates. McCarren denied that anything unfair had been done, and that he first had lost the support of the Kings county organization because he had been "knifed in the back by the head of the ticket." The question had not been settled when the committee adjourned at 10 o'clock this morning to meet later in the day.

ART EXHIBIT NETS

$400 FOR SCHOOLS

Net proceeds from the display here last week of the Turner art exhibit are $362. The gross returns were $23 in excess of that sum but expenses for light and other incidentals in connection with the showing of the pictures here reduced the net proceeds to the figures given. This statement will be of great interest to the pupils of the city schools who took an unusually deep interest in the pictures, to their parents and to the ladies of the Eastern Star, the Twentieth Century and the Women's clubs, who were the hostesses during the exhibition. In addition there were received from other sources, principally the sale of confections, an extra sum of $51.75. It may also be said that more money is coming in constantly and the results of the exhibition are being heard from daily.

Pictures for the Schools.

The ladies of the Twentieth Century club have given to the Lincoln school building a beautiful colored representation of Corot's Dance of the Nymphs. The understanding on which this gift is made is that the picture is to be hung in the room used by the most advanced pupils in the building and is to remain there. This means that the present is not made to the high school, which at present occupies the building, but is made to the building itself, the donating club having a deep interest in the further beautifying of the Lincoln building. Other donations are a picture to the Lincoln building from Newton C. Gauntt; pictures to the Fairview school from Edward Remy, to the Summit View school from H. W. Sprague, to the Capitol Hill school from Dan Goodman, and to the high school from Walter Reed.

D. M. Rand's Gift Is Wanted.

President D. M. Rand, inspired by patriotism and a love of the schools, has donated a $7 frame for a picture entitled Farragut at Mobile Bay, provided some school will buy the picture. He is out his money as every school, especially those with boy pupils, is after the picture. It was a great favorite at the exhibition and the boys insisted in picking out the admiral as being Captain Rand.

The various schools receive of the proceeds of the exhibition as follows: Barge, $130.40; Central, $113.15; Summit View, $53.15; Columbia, $47.55; High, $32; Modern Addition, $8.15; Capitol Hill, $6.10; Fairview, $4.

Another J. I. Case Great Crop Producer

Like all J. I. Case implements, the J. I. Case Disc Harrow embodies many features that make it not only the most durable, lightest draft, and most economical, but the most efficient in the field—hence the greatest crop producing Disc Harrow made. Here are some of its advantages. A slight movement of the foot operates the scrapers and cleans the discs completely and thoroughly. The scrapers, when at rest, tend to prevent dirt from collecting. And the inside discs always stay in the ground, no matter how hard it is. Again, when one end of a section raises over an obstacle, the other remains at work and the companion section is not disturbed.

J. I. Case Disc Harrow

is fitted with the most practical, durable and economical bearings made. They were designed especially for this purpose only after the most exhaustive tests.

And remember, nothing has been omitted in this harrow to make room for its many improvements. It is a right-made, right-working implement that has few rivals and no real competitors—an implement you ought to know more about. Our FREE catalog describes it fully, also the entire J. I. Case line. Read our free encyclopedia offer opposite and write us today. Address

"HOWL FOR HANFORD."

First Issue of the Hanford Columbian Is Bright and Newsy.

The first issue of the Hanford Columbian arrived in this city last Tuesday. Its editor and manager, W. W. Watson, formerly connected with The Republic, has indicated by the appearance of his initial number that the Hanford Columbian is to immediately take rank among the leading weekly periodicals of the northwest. That he has a country to boost worthy of exploitation through the columns of his paper must be a source of gratification to this natural born newspaper man.

The many friends of Editor Watson in the Yakima valley will watch with interest the development of the great Columbia River valley as exploited in his news dispenser. "Howl for Hanford."
