CARNIVAL A SUCCESS.

Queen Frances Crowned at the Stadium Tuesday Evening in the Presence of a Large Audience. Good Attendance at the Shows and Everybody has a Good Time.

The Mid-Summer-Carnival given by the Southern Carnival company under the auspices of the Yakima Cornet band has held the boards in this city the entire week. The week's engagement will be concluded at 12 o'clock tonight. It has been a week of hilarity, entertainment and innocent fun for all who participated and it is quite impossible for any one present to keep from "dipping in" as the Carnival spirit is contagious and once it gets a hold on a person there is no such thing as shaking it off until the curtain is finally rung down on the last chapter, which will be at midnight.

The Carnival people arrived by special train from Ellensburg about 10:30 a. m. Sunday. It was some hours, however, before all their plunder was unloaded as some radical differences had arisen between the manager on one side and the committee representing the band and City Attorney Snyder in behalf of the city. After several hours of polite wrangling it was announced that the matter had been settled and at once the streets began to assume a lively aspect, as the show people began to get busy.

The weather has been so warm in the daytime this week, especially under canvas, that most of the visitors were in evidence in the evening, although Mat Gay, the high diver, never failed to secure a large audience when he performed his great feat at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, Woodman Day; was probably the banner day for attendance as a large number were present on that occasion from the surrounding country.

Tuesday evening at 8:30 occurred the leading event of the week, the crowning of Queen Frances. The ceremony took place in the Stadium, located at the rear of the Hotel Yakima, in the presence of 1500 people. The Queen and her retinue, consisting of the Misses Alice Stephenson and Dora Bradfield, maids of honor, and Hon. Vestal Snyder and W. M. Anderson, escorts arrived on the scene promptly. The costume worn by the queen was an elegant one, having been made expressly for the occasion, while the gentlemen of the party were attired in conventional dress suits.

The crown was placed on the head of the lovely young queen by Mr. Anderson amid great applause. After the queenly hand had been duly kissed by the attendants, Mr. Snyder, as the representative of the municipal government and made a most felicitous address, at the conclusion of which he presented to Queen Frances the key to the city. The queen's response was read from manuscript by Mr. Anderson which concluded the ceremony.

CARNIVAL NOTES.

The Carnival people leave here tomorrow for Spokane where they are booked for a week's engagement.

Look! Look! Look! Well, this is the last day to look. A weary public is not so very sorry either.

Matt Gay, the man who makes the high dive, is of course, the hero of the Carnival and draws the largest crowds. Perhaps the fact that he gives a free exhibition has something to do with it.

The trained wild animal show, in the opinion of many visitors is the best in the aggregation.

Everybody rides in the Ferris wheel—that is those who can get in.

A good performance is put up in the Stadium. Be sure to see it.

The confetti fiend is everywhere in evidence. Those who kick the worst are the housekeepers who have to sweep up the next morning.

Everybody says that Queen Frances is all right and so is her suit and that Snyder made a crackerjack of a speech at the coronation.

"In Drarnland" where the "maid of the air" performs is where you get your money's worth; ditto electric theater.

Judge Taggard and a lady companion ventured into the "barrel of love" the other evening but they did not feel altogether lovely during the trip. While standing on his head the Judge's watch and pocket book took wings and he looked anything but the picture of judicial dignity.

Local papers assert that the gowns worn by the maids of honor were especially prepared for the occasion. This is an error. The dresses worn at the coronation ceremonies by the Misses Stephenson and Bradfield are their own property having first been worn at the graduating exercises two months ago.

Engineer Makes Favorable Report.

Information reached this city Wednesday night that the report made by Engineer W. R. Brown on the building of the McNaught system of railroads is a favorable one for the enterprise.

It will be remembered that Mr. Brown, the personal representative of certain New York capitalists visited this section about three weeks ago and went over the routes of the proposed lines of railroad in this valley in company with a number of local men. It was plain that Mr. Brown was pleased with what he saw and those in touch with him naturally surmised that his report would be a favorable one, although Mr. Brown, himself, was extremely reticent about the matter.

Attorney Whitson left for Portland Wednesday night and could not be seen to verify the report, but as the information is quite direct, it can, we believe, be taken as authoritative.

The Woodman Races.

Wednesday was Woodman day at the Carnival and a large number of Woodmen of both branches were present from different sections of the county, many accompanied by their families, to enjoy the day. Most of the business houses closed their doors from 12 to 3 p. m.

After the Woodman's street parade which occurred at 1:30 and was participated in by some 200 Woodmen the crowd gathered on Yakima avenue between Third and Fourth streets where the following program of sports was pulled off:

Rope pulling tug of war between Modern Woodmen and Woodmen of the World teams, 9 men to a side, prize, purse of $10. Won by Woodmen of the World.

Three Legged race. First prize, Kingsbury hat by Marsh & Arnold, second $3 razor by Lounguet, Kreader & Abeling. First prize was won by E. Hatton and Henry Neal, second E. L. Rich and "Slim" Tully.

Fat Man's race. First prize, pair of fat man's trousers and one dozen fruit jars, by Coffin Bros.; second, pair of riding gloves by T. R. Fisher. First Stanley Coffin, second J. P. Mayer.

Don't Monkey with the Bell Rope

Attorney I. M. Krutz relates an incident that happened on the train one day recently while returning from the Sound. The story, Mr. Krutz thinks, illustrates the point that passengers should not monkey with the bell rope.

Three young men were aboard the train who were going on a fishing trip to upper Græen river. They wished to avoid a six mile return walk by being carried to Weston and as the conductor politely refused to stop the train when they wished to get off, the trio, among them evolved the idea of stopping the train themselves. So accordingly one of the three pulled the bell rope and stopped the train on a heavy grade. The conductor, however, happened to be not far away and saw the trick done. In a twinkling he had charged on the fellow's bread basket and sent him sprawling to the platform. As the offending passenger arose and made for the door he gave him a swift kick and helped him along.

The other two had already alighted and probably thinking themselves safe began to express their opinion of the belligerent conductor in the most emphatic terms, whereupon that individual pulled his coat, stepped off the car and up to the pair asking them if they were looking for the same kind of medicine, if so, he, the conductor, was ready to administer it. But they did not want any and the train pulled out and left them amid the jeers of the passengers.

The Potato Industry.

Hay, hops, fruit, live stock and potatoes are the staple products of the Yakima valley. The last is not the least. The finest potatoes in the world are grown here by irrigation, and while they are marketed principally on the coast, it often happens that many of them are sent east. Potatoes grow here to an enormous size and are of a superior quality. L. H. Clogg of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the Montauk Club in that city on one occasion last year served a single Yakima potato for a dinner for himself and three friends. He wrote, "My friends were simply amazed at the size of the potato and declared it was the best that they had ever tasted." The average yield of potatoes here is 200 bushels to the acre, but George Jacobs has raised 550 bushels; Mr. Wimer 594 bushels and other farmers upwards of 500 bushels. The price of potatoes fluctuates greatly, but averages $12 or $13 a ton. Last year the crop went from $7 to $10 per ton, but these are the lowest prices realized in nine years. The year before the crop brought $22 to $27 per ton, and the average net profits were $100 per acre to the producer. A farmer whose net profits on potatoes last year were $28 per acre, complained a few days since that he had lost money on this season's work. The year before he had bought 40 acres of land at $60 per acre, and had sold over $3500 worth of potatoes off of it. Taken one year with another, the profits of potato raising here have been highly satisfactory.

May Put in Ice Plant.

J. L. Hughes of Atwood, Ill., is in the city engaged in looking over this field with the view of establishing an ice manufacturing plant with a cold storage warehouse in connection.

Mr. Brown is familiar with that line of business and was attracted to this city by correspondence with friends and old neighbors who reside here. He is spending a few days in looking up the matter. He is sanguine that North Yakima and surrounding country is all right. However, he says that he prefers to install and operate a plant that will have the capacity to turn out 20 tons of product per day and is of the opinion that the city would scarcely consume that much. Hence the necessity of finding a market for the surplus in other towns of the valley. But this can hardly be hoped for without a satisfactory freight rate. Mr. Hughes conferred with the governing board of the Commercial Club last night with the object of securing the cooperation of the club in the matter.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA.

The latest rumors in state politics are to the effect that the railroad lobby will use the candidacy of Sam Piles for the purpose of solidifying King county and after that is accomplished the program will be to elect Judge Thomas Burke, general counsel for the Great Northern and an ex democrat, to the senate. Piles to get a consolation prize in the way of appointment to the position now held by Burke. Congressmen Humphrey, it seems, has already become distasteful to the powers that be and must therefore get out.

That the "push" is after the scalp of Gov. McBride and expect to get it, is of course, common knowledge. However, the lobby has not as yet been able to agree upon a candidate for governor and is, in fact, somewhat embarrassed over the numerous candidates within its own ranks who are very anxious to win the prize. State Senator Hamilton of Pierce, Speaker Hare of this county and the unspeakable Baker of Klickitat, are listed, of course, as the favorites for the nomination, but among the cooler heads it is deemed inadvisable as well as dangerous to select a standard bearer so notoriously friendly to the corporation interests as any one of the three men named. A better policy, say the wise men, would be to nominate a man who can be depended upon to do what is wanted of him but at the same time is not now openly committed in favor of the railroads. Among such possibilities are Senator Sumner of Snohomish, the venerable Cosgrove of Asotin and a political unknown of Spokane.

It is possible that the railroad politicians may be counting their chickens before they are hatched. They have not yet disposed of Gov. McBride, nor is it any dead chicken that they will be able to drive the stalwart executive off the political stage. The governor may have made some mistakes but his record indicates that he is a conscientious man and there can hardly be reason to doubt but that he has the sympathy of a majority of men in his own party who are untrammelled and free from corporation influence and pressure. In fact, the effort that he is making to purify the politics of this state of the blighting influence that pervades it through railroad control of the dominant party is and ought to be appreciated by citizens of all parties.

THERE is some doubt expressed in a number of eastern papers regarding the confirmation of Gen. Leonard Wood by the senate. It is undoubtedly true that Wood's record is a fine one and that he is perhaps well fitted to fill any post in the army, but because of the fact that he is a pet of the administration is not a good reason why he should be promoted over the heads of a number of regular officers who outranked him and who, according to a long prevailing custom, were entitled to promotion.

At the outbreak of the Spanish war Gen. Wood was simply a regimental surgeon with the rank of captain. Because of his pull with two administrations he is now a major general with the prospect of eventually becoming lieutenant general in command of the army. No reason can be given for such rapid promotion as he has received except that he is a close and intimate friend of Mr. Roosevelt's.

What is true of Gen. Wood's case is equally true of Gen. Fred Funston's. If an officer in the army happens to have the opportunity of making a brilliant move and thus winning glory for his country as well as renown for himself some other way ought to be found for rewarding him—if he demands a reward—than of doing an injustice to his superior officers. Beside, this rapid promotion practice is having a demoralizing effect on the morale of the army. It would be a violation of the ethics, of course, for the wronged officers to make public their grievances, but it is only natural that they should be dissatisfied with the treatment that they have received.

Since the president is, himself, a great warrior and dotes so much on the glory of the military life it would seem as though he would be the last man who would be guilty of an act so contrary and subversive of army organization and discipline as is involved in the undeserved promotion of his old chum, Gen. Leonard Wood.

WHATEVER may be the faults or shortcomings of General Nelson A. Miles, the fact remains that he is one of the greatest soldiers that this country has ever produced. For over 40 years he rendered faithful and constant service in the armies of his country and on his retirement left behind him one of the grandest records of achievement that can be found in the military annals of the nation.

Heretofore when a lieutenant general in command of the army has reached the age fixed by law for retirement it has been the custom for the president of the United States to take cognizance of the fact, usually by way of tendering the nation's thanks to the retiring officer for the good service rendered to the country. But in the case of Gen. Miles no thanks by the chief executive were uttered. No official notice was taken of the general's retirement except the courtesies shown him from subordinate officers and a notice from the office of the paymaster general that henceforth he would draw but half pay.

If Mr. Joseph Folk of Missouri should become a presidential quantity for his able efforts to send the republican booters of St. Louis and the democratic booters of the state at large to the penitentiary, he would be following in the footsteps of the only president elected but never inaugurated. Samuel J. Tilden arose to national prominence by his prosecution and demolition of the Tweed ring.—Seattle Times.

THE Kansas City undertaker who visited the city hospital to secure an order from a patient who was expected to die has been rather severely criticised for his unusual thrift and enterprise—but The Star of that city defends him on the ground that while it appears a trifle officious and commercial, "business is business" and this is a commercial age.—Seattle Times.

SENATOR TILLMAN has been giving the northern people some hot shots over the numerous lynchings during the past two months. Tillman gleefully announces that the north is getting a dose of the same medicine the south has been getting for years. And the same remedy is applied in each case.—Olympia Standard.

THE DEMOCRAT has received a number of compliments from its readers on account of the "Industrial" edition issued last week. Many have ordered extra copies sent to friends or relatives in the east. We still have some copies left that are for sale.

MICHIGAN ministers and undertakers have united in a movement to abolish Sunday funerals, which they claim needlessly desecrate the day. It is now up to the doctors to get together and abolish Sunday births.—Land Leader.

THE average yearly wage of the man in the employ of John D. Rockefeller will not equal two minutes' income of the millionaire employer.—Labor Inquirer.

It's Up to Them.

One reason observes a contemporary why the paragraphs make fun of the flying machine inventors is because they do not keep flying when they once get a start. The man who claims to have invented a device or condition should be able to operate it, or he will be charged as a failure.

In like manner those gentlemen who called themselves "The advance agents of prosperity" and brought to pass the boom conditions in this country have also the job of maintaining them. The people like prosperity and want it to continue and grow. Even if we admit that the republicans produced this prosperity, as democrats we are eager to have them see to it that no slump occurs in its progressive career. For it is an axiom with the republicans that "When the country is most prosperous then it goes democratic."

Taking the record of the country in its entirety, anyone can learn that the democratic party has produced prosperity much oftener than has the republican party. The latter brought on the panics of 1873 and 1893, but those little incidents in their history should warn them to avoid mistakes and keep the hand wagon in the middle of the road. It is up to the president and congress to keep their shoulders to its wheels and especially to look after the tail gate that it does not flop down and lose out our golden apples.—Sumner Herald.

Good Roads Convention.

Every road supervisor and overseer, and the county commissioners and county surveyors throughout the country should attend the meeting of the Washington Good Roads association, which is to be held in Spokane in connection with the Tenth Annual Interstate Fair. Which days of the Fair the Good Roads association will meet are definitely decided, but they probably will be from October 8 to 10. Samuel Hill, president of the association, says there will probably be eight speakers present, some of them of national reputation. There is no subject at present of such vital importance to our farming communities as the question of good roads over which they haul their produce to market. Conditions are different here than in any section of the country, and the people who are locally conversant with all the difficulties and troubles with which road builders have to contend, should be present to consult on this important question. It is quite possible that Presidents Hill, Mellen and Mohler of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the O. R. & N. roads will be on hand at this meeting.

Hurt in a Runaway.

Mrs. J. D. Wasson, while driving Mrs. Perry Dunning home Monday afternoon had a runaway experience which came near proving fatal to Mrs. Dunning. The buggy capsized at Natches avenue and C street, all the occupants being thrown out. Mrs. Wasson and the little boy escaped unhurt except for a few slight scratches but Mrs. Dunning received a fractured arm and several bad bruises about the head and face. She is now said to be improving.

Death of Judge Beck.

John W. Beck, a resident of the Yakima valley since 1869 died at his home in the northeast part of the city at 10:20 p. m., Monday night from an illness caused by dropsy. Deceased had been ill for the past three months and his death was not unexpected. The funeral was from the late residence of the deceased Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m., interment being made in Tahoma cemetery.

John Wilson Beck was born in Owen county, Indiana, July 15, 1828 and was therefore at the time of his death 75 years, one month and two days old. While yet a young man he removed to Sullivan county, Mo., where he married and resided for a number of years. He finally decided to leave Missouri and try his fortunes on the Pacific Coast. In company with a number of neighbors therefore he left his old home in Missouri in the spring of 1865 and started across the plains. After an eventful trip lasting nearly six months in which several brushes were had with Indians the party arrived in the Walla Walla valley in the fall. Here Mr. Beck and his family made their home until 1869 when they removed to the Yakima Valley where they have since remained. When they arrived here this valley was a wilderness of sage brush peopled only with Indians and a few scattering whites. On his arrival here Judge Beck was pleased with the prospect and concluded to make his home here which he did to the time of his death.

Mr. Beck during his long residence at Yakima City and North Yakima occupied many positions of prominence and trust in the community. For a number of years he occupied the position of justice of the peace and police judge in the two towns and it is said of him to this day that he administered justice without fear or favor. He was not only a righteous judge but a good citizen and did much to make the Yakima valley a desirable place of residence.

The deceased leaves an aged widow and three sons, James, W. D. and Orlando. Another son, Ross, who was well known in this county, died a few years ago from typhoid fever.

The Giant Spider of Ceylon.

Far up in the mountains of Ceylon there is a gigantic spider which spins a bright yellow web, each thread being almost as large and strong as a "button-hole twist" or embroidery floss. The net which this creature forms from these webs is often five to eight feet across. This net is swung on mainstays or guys which are from ten to twenty-five feet in length and strong enough to call the pedestrian to a halt as suddenly as if he had encountered a low hanging clothesline. These yellow webs are collected by the natives as well as by Dutch and English residents and woven into pretty mats, screens, etc.

The Limit.

Mr. Cribbs—Mrs. C., I have borne with resignation—nay, even cheerfulness—antique chairs that wobbled, antique clocks that were always thirteen hours behind time, antique rugs that some prehistoric Turks wove, antique china, antique bowls, pans and kettles. All this I have smiled at, but when you give me antique eggs for breakfast I draw the line, madam—I draw the line.

The trouble with most of us is that our joys seem to sink out of sight in some inner quagmire, and our pains seem to take root on the thinnest soil and flourish like the proverbial green bay tree. On last Monday night at about 10:30 our city was terrorized by the wild cries of fire and upon heeding the alarm we were confronted by a devouring fire at the old Shanno place, the present residence of Capt. J. H. Thomas. The family was away from home at the time, except Mr. Thomas, who had prepared his supper and was about to retire when he noticed the light in the yard and upon a closer investigation found the roof of his house all ablaze. He quickly gave the alarm and proceeded to remove his furniture. As he was alone he could not fight the fire and by the time neighbors could gather the fire was beyond any attempt to fight it. Mr. Thomas estimates his loss at $3500. He has $2000 insurance on building and $1000 on his household effects. Mr. Thomas expects to rebuild as soon as the insurance can be adjusted. No other damage was done except to the livery barn of Chas. Campbell and the barn of E. H. Taylor, which caught from blown sparks and they were soon extinguished.

The matter of compelling property owners to make sewer connections was then discussed and a motion by Harrison instructing the city attorney to prepare an ordinance to that effect was carried. A bill for $100 from Attorney E. B. Preble for legal services rendered was ordered paid.

On motion of Fisher the board of health was authorized to employ an extra scavenger for the purpose of cleaning up the streets and alleys of the city.

On motion of Liggett the council voted unanimously to buy in connection with the county the 20 acre Thomas tract on the river. The land will be used by the city as a dumping ground. Adjourned.

Young Eagles.
An eagle lives from eighty to 100 years. The young birds are driven forth by their savage parents to provide for themselves as soon as they are able to fly. No training is given them by the old bird. That is left to their wild instincts, which hunger and necessity develop. There is no "going back to the old home" for the young eagles. The mother bird tears up every vestige of the nest, and if they emit plaintive shrieks the old birds dart at them and push them off the crags or rocks and thereby make them take to their wings. It takes three years for a young eagle to gain its complete plumage and strength.—Independent.

Never Tease a Horse.
Teasing a horse is something that should not be tolerated. A horse cannot understand a joke like a man, and the teasing will make him vicious. Teasing a colt or a calf affords children and thoughtless men amusement for the time being, but these usually develop into vicious animals. I once had a calf when I was a young man, and I let him hunt me around the lot, and I thought it was fun. Later he was "ruler of the roost," and he "found an early grave"—that is, he became so grave that he had to pay the penalty by going over the block.—St. Louis Republic.

Throwing Away a Fortune.
A poor Austrian official in the civil service bought two tickets in the Hungarian philanthropic state lottery. A little while afterward his funds ran very low, and he sent back one of the tickets to the lottery office and asked that the money he had paid for it might be returned. This very ticket won the first prize at the drawing, amounting to 150,000 kronen, a sum which would have made the official rich beyond his utmost dreams if he had not at the last moment let his own good fortune slip out of his hand.

Sorrow in Childhood.
A lady was once talking to Queen Elizabeth of Roumania and advanced the theory that sorrow in childhood cast a shadow over the whole life, rendering happiness in later years impossible.
"Do not believe it," replied the queen. "Happiness is like an ocean. It bears you away from the past and all its many sorrows, provided only that you do not persist in looking backward."

Only Place For Him.
Some one said to Brother Dickey: "Here's a story of a man who has five wives."
Brother Dickey didn't reply for a second or two. Then he said:
"I s'pose dey'll keep him dar all de time now?"
"Keep him where?"
"Why, in de asylum, of co'se!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The members of Co. E., N. G. W., will leave here Sept. 13 where they will go into camp at American Lake for 10 days.
W. E. Gerritson and Miss Fannie Jannigan, and William Stevens and Mrs. Rebecca Bierly received permits to wed this week.

Aug. 15 marked the beginning of the open season and local sports are now talking pheasant and grouse instead of telling trout yarns.
Ernest Fear has purchased the interest of his partner J. G. Hilley in the Springvale dairy and will conduct the business in the future.

The warm weather of the present week doubtless convinced a number of people that they had come back from the mountains a little too soon.

Chas. Gleason has sold his marble works, located on Chestnut street, to Messrs. Bullock & Burrill, who will conduct the business in the future.

The Golden Northwest Canning company has installed electric lights in the factory building, having put in a plant of its own, the power being generated by the big engine.

Mrs. King of the Selah gave birth at the hospital this week to a pair of twins. One of the infants subsequently died but the other, as well as the mother, is reported as doing well.

Marshall Mull and assistants have preserved the best of order during the week, besides keeping a close watch on sneak thieves. No robberies of consequence have been reported.

The barn of Alex McCredy at Wapato burned Tuesday morning. The barn and contents being entirely consumed. A fine horse, valued by Mr. McCredy at $500, was burned which made the total loss foot up about $1500.

Fred Schuster, the man wanted for drawing a gun on Wm. Anderson near Fort Simcoe some time ago, has been apprehended by Sheriff VanVactor of Klickitat county. Deputy Edwards started after the prisoner Thursday.

One side of the roof of the Sweeney building on North Second street, which is being raised to add another story, fell with a resounding crash Friday morning. Fortunately none of the workmen were caught beneath it.

Twenty to twenty-two cents seems to be the prevailing price for hops this week. No deals of much consequence, however, were made. The gradually advancing price naturally makes the growers feel more cheerful.

A rather disastrous wreck occurred between Lind and Providence stations Friday of last week. The Pacific express due here at 7 a. m., telescoped a west bound freight. A good deal of damage was done but fortunately no lives were lost.

Judge Rudkin last Saturday granted a divorce to Martha Hayes against her husband Herman Hayes. Plaintiff was allowed all the community property, $15 per month alimony and the privilege of resuming her former name, Martha Anderson.

The board of directors of school district No. 7 have been notified by the state land commissioner, that the abstract for the district as prepared and furnished by Director Nichols, has been approved by the attorney general of the state and the $22,000 worth of bonds of the district will be issued.

"The DEMOCRAT's Industrial edition was a hummer," said a prominent business man this week, "and I don't know of anything better to send to people back east who want to know something about the resources of this section." This same opinion was voiced by a number of others. Thanks gentlemen.

W. N. Granger passed through to the Trans-Mississippi congress Monday. Mr. Granger has exhibited commendable enterprise in the matter of getting up a suitable exhibit of fruit and farm products to advertise the Sunnyside district during the big meeting at Seattle. His collection is said to have been a very fine one and much admired, especially by eastern visitors.

Lee Watkins, a contractor and builder of this city is said to have skipped, leaving a number of unpaid bills and is believed now to be in California. An information was sworn to this week by Ira Hoover, for whom Watkins had recently built a house, receiving payment in full therefore, representing that he had paid all material debts, which, as it afterward developed, he had not.

The contracts will probably be let to day by the board of directors of district No. 7 for the construction of the new four room school house on Nob Hill and the four room annex to the Columbia building. It is highly necessary that these new buildings be made ready for occupancy as soon as possible and the board is therefore to be commended in the effort being made to rush the work along.

Exhausted Brain Cells.
Nerve specialists say that a great many suicides are the direct results of exhausted brain cells. When you find yourself becoming morose and despondent, when you are conscious that the zest of life is evaporating, that you are losing the edge of your former keen interest in things generally and that your life is becoming a bore, you may be pretty sure that you need more sleep; that you need country or outdoor exercise. If you get these, you will find that all the old enthusiasm will return. A few days of exercise in the country rambling over the hills and meadows will erase the dark pictures which haunt you and will restore buoyancy to your animal spirits.—Success.
