OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

THERE are no less than ten tickets in the field, although the presidential campaign has hardly opened, and there will be others. This fact seems to be worrying republican newspapers. They recognize the superiority of the reconstructed democracy, and that Bryan is head and shoulders above them all, and that he stands on a platform made by common men for the common people. The prize essay of the republicans, adopted by the Hannaites at Philadelphia, is not favorably received by the commoners and was never intended to be. The trusts and money power of the country are trying the same old game of driving everything before them—a rule or ruin policy. With the republicans in power we will have a continued and increased number of trusts, low wages and exorbitant prices for all manufactured goods. On the other hand the democratic party, if placed in power, will make radical changes in existing conditions. "The trusts must go," is a democratic battle cry, and to this end the party will ever fight. There is no half way point in this matter, it is either trusts and unreasonably high prices, or the dissolving of the trusts and a living price for all manufactured commodities. The remedy is in the hands of the people.

THAT the democratic ticket will be strong in the east and poll a heavier vote than four years ago is evidenced by the comment of leading Atlantic coast newspapers; even some republican papers acknowledge that Mr. Bryan is stronger than at last election. Discussing this question the Boston Globe says: "No one can doubt that Mr. Bryan has an opportunity to make a more favorable campaign, here in these eastern states at any rate, than in 1896, when his personality was unknown and grossly misconceived, and when even his patriotism was challenged. Moreover, the people of this section understand now that he embodies more than one issue and is the foremost champion of certain principles which lie at the foundation of our republican democracy and which appeal to all Americans alike, regardless of geographical lines."

UNTIL we can get accurate news of the extent of the disturbance in China it may be just as well not to attach too much importance to all the shouts of the white men in the treaty ports eager for the seizure and spoilation of China. A few rioters in a country that has a feeble government can make a great deal of anarchy.—New York World.

EVEN the amnesty proclamation issued by President McKinley's order just after the Philadelphia convention has not sufficed to cause a suspension of hostilities in the Philippines. Dispatches report the death of eleven Americans and 160 Filipinos during the week just past. These facts will tend to confirm the belief which is growing in the United States that the measures which President McKinley has adopted in those islands will never result in pacification. President McKinley's policy is that the insurrection must be entirely suppressed before the next step is taken. What that next step is to be no one knows positively. The supposition is that the Philippines will be made an American colony. The republican platform is equivocal on the subject. "The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to the Filipinos by law," it declares. Americans do not know what this means and if Americans are ignorant on the subject the Filipinos must be doubly so. They will continue to resist. Resistance and imperial government by bayonet go together. The republican policy is eternal tyranny.

WITH an iteration that excites some suspicion of his sincerity, Mr. Hanna declares that under no consideration will he act as chairman of the national committee during the coming campaign. Just the same the trust beneficiaries will do well to keep an eye out for a short, stout man armed with a skillet. Mr. Hanna may intrust the nominal direction of the campaign to someone else, but he will continue to attend to the fat frying himself.—Chicago Chronicle.

GOVERNOR Roosevelt will wear a slouch hat in a spectacular tour through the state of New York, no doubt, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, and make as much as he can out of his record at San Juan hill. There will be sleepless men on his trail, however, who will dissect that record and tell it for just what it is worth. The element of imagination will not be so strong as it was two years ago, and even then the governor pulled through by a scratch.

THE Wilson organ of Seattle makes the statement that the meeting of the state committees of the reform parties in that city last Saturday was a very stormy one. That paper seldom tells the truth when speaking of anything democratic and it would have been a surprise if facts had been reported in this case. The meeting of the three parties was the most harmonious ever held in the state, as the P.-I. will find out later on.

THE King County Courier, published at Kent, Washington, by D. C. Ashmun, is the latest in the newspaper line and the first number has reached our exchange table. It is democratic in politics and its editorial columns give evidence of much ability.

THE burning issue of imperialism, growing out of the Spanish war, involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.—From the democratic platform.

WITH the withdrawing of troops from the Philippines to protect American interests in China, the administration despairs of ending the campaign in the islands before November. The "happy, contented people" talk won't go in that direction.

THE line of argument introduced by the speakers at the Jones reception Tuesday night contains nothing new. It was amusing to hear one speaker say that the republican party was trying to legislate against the trusts.

EVERY democrat, every populist and every silver republican in Yakima should attend the ratification in this city next Saturday evening. A Bryan club is also to be organized on that day.

IT is claimed that treason is still punishable by death in China by all kinds of outrageous and lingering deaths; but who are there among the Chinese to say what constitutes treason. The boxers?

THE horrible news from China of the massacre of the entire white population of Peking is confirmed. We may only guess at the facts. The story probably will never be told.

THE rough riders speak of McKinley as "Roosevelt's running mate." Teddy has not yet learned his little piece, but Marcus will soon have him well up in the little part.

THE Kansas City convention evinced the fact that the back-bone of William J. Bryan is not made of putty.

THE EAST Vital Importance

J. D. Medill Talks About the Great Convention at K. C. and of Politics in the Mississippi Valley.

J. D. Medill returned home Friday morning on the belated passenger train from the east. Since the adjournment of the democratic national convention at Kansas City on the 6th, Mr. Medill has been visiting relatives at his old home near Rock Island, Ill.

Concerning the convention he said that the idea was prevalent among the party leaders throughout the country, that the Kansas City gathering was the most enthusiastic and harmonious assemblage of democrats that had ever yet met in national convention. Every delegate seemed to be actuated with the idea that victory was in the air this year and that no mistake should be made if possible to avoid, either in the ticket or the platform.

Mr. Medill stated that since his return he had learned that the impression was general here at home that O. G. Ellis, of Tacoma, who was the Washington member of the committee on resolutions, had voted against the silver plank in the platform. This statement which has been made and reiterated by certain republican papers, is utterly false and without foundation he said.

On the contrary Mr. Ellis who is a sincere silver man voted on every ballot during the long and memorable session of the committee in favor of the explicit silver plank and in this he was upheld by his united delegation.

After Col. James Hamilton Lewis in a speech had formally withdrawn his name from the list of vice presidential candidates, the Washington delegation turned to Chas. A. Towne and Chairman Maloney cast the eight votes of the state for him on the first ballot. Seeing, however, that the nomination of Stevenson was inevitable and that only one ballot would be required the delegation then instructed the chairman to change the vote by giving it to the Illinois man.

The scene in the convention hall after the reading of the platform by Senator Tillman, beggars description. The applause was deafening and lasted for a full 35 minutes. It was entirely spontaneous, thus illustrating in the most forcible way how satisfactory the declaration of principles was to the assembled delegates and spectators.

The weather in Kansas City during the convention, continued Mr. Medill, was, to say the least, most unpleasantly warm, but everybody tried to make the best of it. Great crowds were in the city, particularly on the 4th of July—when excursions were run from every point. The business part of the town was simply a seething struggling mass of humanity and a person simply had to elbow his or her way to get any place at all. Considering the size of the crowd assembled and the sultry character of the weather, Kansas City is certainly to be congratulated on the way the people were taken care of.

Regarding the political situation in the central states, Mr. Medill said it was openly conceded by republicans there that Bryan was vastly stronger than four years ago, while the democrats were already working like beavers and feel confident of their ability to carry Illinois and Indiana this fall. Ohio, Michigan and even Wisconsin are regarded as doubtful states. This changed condition of affairs is due largely to the bitter opposition to the policy of imperialism that now controls the republican party. The farmers there, too, are making a bitter cry against the trusts, which they fully realize are robbing them right and left.

Marshal Grant gathered in three very tough looking hoboes on Tuesday afternoon, but as no charge could be preferred against them they were put aboard a passing train and shipped west.

Mr. William Hawley Smith, in his "Walks and Talks," tells of a remark made by an Irish friend which might be applicable in many cases:

He used to be very fond of hearing the bishop preach and always went to service when that dignitary held forth. I met him on the street one Sunday when I knew the bishop was preaching and asked him why he wasn't in his pew, to which he replied:

"Troth, I don't go to hear the bishop any more."

"Why, what's the matter?" I said. "You haven't 'gone back' on a good man, have you?"

"No," he answered, "but it's the truth I'm tellin you, when you've heard the bishop a half dozen times all after that is variations!"

A Remarkable Prediction.

Manasseh Cytler of Massachusetts, in a circular in 1787 "booming" the settlement which the New Englanders were about to plant on the Ohio at the mouth of the Muskingum, declared that "the current down the Ohio and the Mississippi," for produce and merchandise of all sorts, would one day "be more crowded than any other streams on earth," which was a remarkable prediction, considering that it was made 20 years before Fulton's Clermont was launched in the Hudson, which was the first steamboat in the world ever put in successful operation. —Leslie's Weekly.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Coffin Bros. have purchased a carload of Lincoln rams.

Chas. Northover, for selling whiskey to Indians was on Tuesday bound over by Commissioner Howlett to answer at the federal court. Hadley, a half-breed, held for taking whiskey on the reservation, was discharged.

Fred Mailloux & Co. have added a fine line of dry goods, gents furnishings and shoes to their grocery stock. This new firm reports an increasing trade which is evidenced by the fact that they are making their store room larger.

At 33 7-10 per cent dividend in favor of the creditors of the insolvent Kittitas valley bank, of Ellensburg, has been declared. The bank had previously paid ten per cent. This last dividend will distribute about $22,000 among the creditors.

Ellensburg papers have again renewed the old chestnut about a cut off on the Northern Pacific from a point near Spokane to Ellensburg. The railroad officials know nothing about the matter and it is very likely the same old railroad the burgers have been building for the past twelve years—on paper.

An error was made in these columns last week in stating that Walter Gervais, of the firm of C. H. Bartlett & Co., would take charge of the Bartlett store in Yakima City. Mr. Gervais will remain in this city and with his partner, Mr. Bartlett, may be found in the Larson theater building.

A letter was received in this city this week from J. J. Dixon at Cape Nome. Mr. Dixon and party were quarantined twelve days at Egg Island on account of smallpox. The party had not landed yet when the letter was dispatched. All of the Yakima people who accompanied Mr. Dixon were well.

Norman Stevens, the man who is alleged to have robbed Chas. Cramer, a sheepman, of $225 in this city some time since, and who skipped out to avoid arrest, was captured on Monday by the sheriff of Umatilla county, Ore. Deputy Sheriff Lum brought Stevens to Yakima Thursday and he is now confined in the county jail.

Andrew Cramer, a sheepman, was brought down from the Cowichee Saturday of last week suffering from a gun shot wound in the right knee. A revolver which he was endeavoring to draw from his belt went off the ball striking him in the calf of the leg imbedding itself in the flesh. Dr. Gordon removed the ball and Cramer will soon be on the streets again.

Koresky Bros., of Fruitvale, laid an 8½ pound Grand Rapids muskmelon on the editor's table Thursday morning, for which we thank them. The melon is the first of the season. Messrs. Koresky will have melons for the market next week. They state that cut and wire worms did much damage to the muskmelon vines early in the season and that the crop will be short. The watermelon vines are growing rapidly and there will soon be plenty of this fruit on the market.

For the seventeenth time has Taylor Piles, colored, appeared before the bar of justice for drunkenness and kicking up mischief generally. Last week he was up before Judge Taggard and got $10 fine which he paid from money probably earned by his wife taking in washing. On Monday night of this week the police again gathered him in and on Tuesday morning the judge fined him $50 or 60 days in the chain gang. The old man is now raking cobble stones from off the streets, and by the time his sentence expires will be ripe for a jag of large proportions.

John H. Hubbard, one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of Yakima county, died at his home in this city Friday night of last week after a short illness. Mr. Hubbard was a pioneer of this county, having settled on Nob Hill in 1879. He was born in Licking county, Ohio, June 3, 1828, and was therefore 72 years of age. Mr. Hubbard was one of the substantial citizens of Yakima, and did much for the upbuilding of the town and country. He served one term as county commissioner. Mr. Hubbard leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. W. I. Lince and Mrs. Smith, residents of this city. The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

S. J. Lowe returned Thursday evening from Soda Springs where he had enjoying a few days fishing.

Men who prefer to be right than president are necessarily rare. Mr. Bryan refused absolutely to become a candidate for president unless the platform was in every particular consistent with his principles. Contrast this position with Mr. McKinley's surrender and self-repudiation at St. Louis, after Mr. Hanna had begged pitifully for a silver plank in the platform. Referring to Mr. Bryan's brave stand in this respect, the goldbug New York Sun says: "This voluntary declaration of the leader and candidate of the democracy, at a time perhaps critical in his political fortunes, we cannot but regard as evidence of moral courage of a high order, proof of personal qualities which friends and antagonists alike must respect. Intending supporters will have to adjust themselves to Mr. Bryan's convictions. He manfully and properly declines to adjust his convictions to suit their convenience."—Whatcom Blade.

All advertising has some value, but it takes a person of more or less experience to tell what kind of advertising will bring the requisite amount of returns for the money invested, and if you are not getting the right results, it is because your advertising expenditure is not properly invested, and you should study up, and reason out the "whys and wherefores," and if necessary consult a practical advertising man.—The Advertiser.

Home Life in Porto Rico.

To one unaccustomed to tropical conditions the furnishing of the Porto Rican home would at first sight seem meager, but it is quite ample. A short residence will demonstrate that nearly 500 years of experience with the unpleasant features of life in the West Indies have been crowned by a survival of the fittest in house furnishing as in other matters.

Austrian bent wood furniture and also wickerwork and willow ware constitute the main equipment of the parlors and living rooms. Upholstered furniture is unknown and undesired, little or no attempt being made at decoration except in the matter of embroidery and fine handmade lace work. Hundreds of yards of crochet work are used in the embellishment of a single canopied bed. This work is the chief delight of the Porto Rican housewife.

The walls are for the most part bare, but here and there a painting of merit may be seen. The sofa pillow is the one great feature of the home. It is everywhere, in every conceivable size, shape and material. Ferns of gigantic size and exquisite formation, as well as broad spreading palm leaves, are used to festoon the walls and arched doorways. Cut fresh from day to day, they render the dark, cool rooms inviting and attractive. Potted tropical plants in great variety abound within and without the house.—Harper's Bazar.

He Worked in Oil.

Mrs. Million—Oh, so you used to know the Count Macaroni in Italy. He is very attentive to my daughter, you know, and I am somewhat interested in him. He tells me that he worked for 15 years under one of the old Italian masters and that his specialty is work in oil.

Mr. Globetrotter—Yes, that was his profession when I saw him. He was one of the most rapid sardine canners in the place.—London Answers.

Theatrical Villain.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Was there any villain in that play you saw last night?

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Not on the stage. He sat a few seats from me, though, and insisted upon climbing over my leg to go out between the acts.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Census of Irrigation.

The preliminary investigation of irrigation by the census office is progressing rapidly. Director Merriam is well pleased with the prompt response from irrigators to the census inquiries and is confident that the forthcoming report will be accurate and complete, and will comprehensively show the progress which has been made in reclaiming large portions of the arid and sub-humid regions.

Synopses of the tabulation sheets, with typewritten descriptive notes, are being prepared, and at an early date will be submitted to competent authorities in the arid states. These results were obtained by the schedules and in the form of a preliminary bulletin giving name, location, length, width, cost, and acreage of the principal irrigating systems, arranged by counties, will be sent out for revision and later embodied in the final report.

The irrigators have evinced an intelligent appreciation of the importance of securing a full report of the condition of irrigation and the practical results achieved during the last decade. They have cheerfully rendered valuable assistance, which has materially facilitated the work of the census office.

Director Merriam, through the press, has made the purpose of this investigation fully known and desires to state that upon request schedules will be promptly forwarded to owners of canals and ditches who have not yet made report.

A FISH-CATCHING FISH.

He Has a Mouth One-third the Size of His Body.

Most remarkable of strange fishes is the angler fish, whose very name seems a paradox. The fishing fish is nevertheless a reality and a stern one to all that approach those awful jaws of his. With a body the color of mud he generally lies in the shadow of some rock on the bottom of the sea, waiting motionless for the approach of his prey. He is provided with an odd kind of fin just over the mouth, and this is held out in front of him to give warning of the coming of something to be swallowed. One taken alive was experimented on, and it was found that if this projecting fin was touched with a stick, even though the stick did not come near the mouth, the jaws closed convulsively. This shows that the fin, by some provision of nature, closes the jaws as soon as it is touched.

The mouth is tremendous, growing to the width of a foot when the whole fish is only three feet long. One of these anglers was caught not long since, and, though it was only 25 inches long, a fish 15 inches long was found sticking in its throat. The angler is provided with peculiar teeth set in double or treble rows along the jaws and at the entrance of the throat. Some of these teeth are a foot long. He is not a pretty fish to look at, but he attends strictly to business and will swallow anything that touches his warning fin, whether it is meant for food or not.

All kinds of things have been found in the stomachs of anglers, from bits of lead and stone to fish almost as large as the angler itself. This is without doubt one of the most peculiar and interesting fish in the whole ocean.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What a Woman Needs.

In the preparation of this article we made many examinations and investigations of the different methods of treatment and remedies for all the ills so common to the female sex, and our investigation has brought forth the fact that nothing proves so uniformly successful in restoring health and happiness to worn out women as the "Viavi Treatment," and we also found that this was the opinion of the most careful and SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL MEN OF THIS COUNTRY. This system of treatment has been remarkably successful in all cases of chronic diseases peculiar to women. No more trouble, misery, and suffering are among the speedy results after its use, as it certainly represents the latest and best treatment for all complaints of women's diseases. It has been proven by years of success and the testimony of thousands of ladies, including the highest and most noted of the women of the United States and England, who have been restored to health and the enjoyment of life by reason of "Viavi Treatment" even after all other methods of treatment had been tried and found wanting. The "Viavi remedies" are composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, and are manufactured under conditions of perfect cleanliness. Upon entering the system it supplies at once a clean, wholesome food to the muscular tissues and nervous fibres. It makes the circulation full and vigorous, and in this way enables the veins to carry to the organs of elimination all the impurities which it is their function to remove from the body. It acts as a prompt specific for all nervous and other troubles common to women, including irregularities, prostration, headache, anemia, palpitation of the heart and the thousand and one ills peculiar to the sex.—Extract from the National Health Journal.

A HOBO ON A TRAIN.

His Brief Interview With a Brakeman and the Conductor.

"I spent several hours in a small country town not far from here a few days ago," said a young professional man of this city, "and to kill time I joined the usual group in the corner grocery store. One of the crowd was a freight brakeman, and he told a story about a tramp who was stealing a ride on the bumpers during his last run.

"The conductor seen him first," he said, "and when he came back to the caboose he said, says he: 'Bill, there's a blamed ugly lookin' hobo on the trucks behind the first car. Suppose you go up and fire him off.' 'All right, cap,' says I, and starts front. When I gets to the first car, I looks down, and, sure enough, there was a big, greasy hobo squattin on the edge, holdin on to the brake iron. 'Hi, there!' says I, 'what d'you mean by tryin to beat the road? We're goin slow now, and you hop right off!' The hobo reached around into his pocket and pulled out a gun about a yard long. When he pointed it at me, it looked like a piece of stovepipe. 'You freckle nosed baboon,' says he, 'if you don't go 'bout your business real sudden, I'll cave your face in! Skip!' says he. I skipped.

"When I got back to the caboose, the conductor says, 'Well, Bill, did you fire the hobo?' 'No,' says I, 'I didn't. In chattin with him,' I says, 'I found out we was kin, and I didn't really have the heart to bounce the poor feller!' 'Well, I'll do it myself, then!' says the conductor, gettin hot, and away he goes over the tops. Pretty soon I could hear him comin back lickety split, on a dead run. He slid down the brake iron like a streak of greased lightning and dropped into the caboose seat all out of breath. 'Did you fire him?' says I. 'No,' says he, sort of faint. 'Why, how was that?' says I, pretendin to be surprised. 'Well, I'll tell you,' says he, confidential. 'It's funny, but, d'you know, when we got to talkin, I found out he was some kin to me too.'"

The Philadelphia Platform.

What an administration organ calls the "basic features of the platform" adopted by the republican convention at Philadelphia, include the following:

A plank favoring such legislation on trusts "as will effectively prevent abuses liable to arise from such conditions."

This plank was drawn by a sub-committee of the committee on resolutions, Senator Joseph B. Foraker is counsel for the continental Tobacco company, better known as the Plug Tobacco trust. A few weeks ago he left his seat in the senate in the midst of important business to go to Columbus, Ohio, and defend his client in an action brought to annul its charter. In his address to the court the senator went so far outside his brief as to defend all trusts, as not necessarily beneficent but a "necessary evolution of business conditions." His rejoinder to criticism was, "what are you going to do about it?" He admitted that labor often suffered from the trust combination, but added with a sneer that this was "only an incident."

Other members of the subcommittee are:

Fairbanks, of Indiana, railroad and corporation lawyer.

Madden, of Illinois, stone trust.

The platform was submitted to a convention opened and dominated by Hanna, Ohio, shipping and steel trusts, and presided over successively by Wolcott, Colorado, counsel D. & R. G. R. R. and numerous street car and other corporate interests.

Lodge, Massachusetts, railroad and corporation lawyer.

Such a committee and such a convention are, of course, competent to shape an anti-trust policy that will be entirely satisfactory—to the trusts.

The American people want none of it.—Vancouver Register.

Democratic State Convention.

At the meeting of the democrats, populists and silver republicans held at Seattle last Saturday it was decided to call the state convention for August 27, at Seattle. Primaries will be held August 15, the county convention August 18.

The basis of representation is 1100, proportioned as follows, democrats 464, populists 464, silver republicans 172. Yakima county will have 11 democrats, 11 populists and 2 silver republicans.

The meeting was a very harmonious one, and all the committeemen seemed bent upon doing everything in their power to further the interests of the democratic cause.

True Expansion.

Our greediness for wealth and fantastical expenses have degraded, and will degrade, the minds of our maritime citizens. These are the peculiar vices of commerce.

That we should wish to see the people of other countries free is as natural and at least as justifiable as that one king should wish to see kings of other countries maintained in their despotism.

The day is not distant when we may formally require a meridian of partition through the ocean which separates the two hemispheres, on the hither side of which no European gun shall ever be heard, nor an American on the other; and when, during the rage of the eternal wars of Europe, the lion and the lamb, within our regions, shall lie down together in peace.—Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. Bryan says of Stevenson's nomination: He is an excellent man for the place. He supported the ticket in 1896 and can defend the platform of 1900. Towne would have strengthened the ticket in the states where there is fusion between the democrats, populists and silver republicans, but the support given Mr. Stevenson shows the convention thought him to be a more available man. The choice has fallen upon one who is in every respect worthy of the position.

A Great Truth.

"I wouldn't do your kind of work even if I could," said Rubberfoot Bill, the sandbagger. "This here thing of gettin a man's confidence an then throwin him down is too low for me."

"It ain't me they have the confidence in," explained Greengoods George. "It is theirselves they are so sure of. See?"—Indianapolis Journal.

In Size.

Willie Good—Pa, our teacher says that "collect" and "congregate" mean the same thing.

Rev. Good—Well, you tell your teacher that you have information that there is considerable difference between a congregation and a collection.—Baltimore American.

Lost No Time.

Parke—I told my wife she could sell if she desired the furniture that had become too bad for use.

Lane—She was prompt to take the hint, was she?
Parke (sadly)—Was she? There isn't a thing left.—Harper's Bazar.

A Different Kind of Man.

A school inspector up Westchester way was making his rounds one day and visited a school not a thousand miles from Mamaroneck. Among the questions he asked the children was, "What is a pilgrim?"

One child said, "A man who comes to America to be religious."

Another said, "A person who travels from place to place."

"Well, I do that," said the inspector. "Am I a pilgrim?"

"Oh, no," said the boy quickly. "I meant a very good man."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Handshaking.

In the days of knighthood every man carried a sword and was ready to slash his neighbor upon the slightest pretext. When friends met, they grasped one another by the right hand, thereby indicating peaceable intentions, as each one thus gave up to the other his fighting arm. That is why we shake with the right hand.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Martyr.

"That's the way," cried the forger as sentence of ten years was imposed. "all of us great writers are compelled to suffer for giving full freedom to our art!"—Philadelphia North American.

On a Fretty Face

Glasses are often an improvement—always so on the face of one who really needs them. They drive away that squinting, drawn, unnatural expression seen in defective eyes.

The old style, heavy bowed, ill-fitting and ill-looking spectacles, fitted by one's self or incompetents, have given people the idea that glasses detract from one's appearance. Our light, strong, serviceable glasses enhance rather than spoil the looks of the wearer. Eye defects a specialty.

How Lincoln Defined Despotism

A certain group of people constitute themselves an irresponsible tribunal, says Freeman Stewart in the current number of the "Arena," and say to another group of people, "According to our ideas, you are not capable of governing yourselves; therefore, we will take charge of you." If the alleged incapables say, "Have patience with us, and give us a fair trial before condemning us to subjugation," the reply is "Our judgment is infallible and final; a trial is useless; you must submit to us, and after experimenting with you for an indefinite period we will decide how much liberty you shall have."

If this is not an assumption of despotic authority, what is it?

The wolf's teeth cannot be masked even under a profession of benevolence.

"Those arguments," said Abraham Lincoln, that are made—that the inferior races are to be treated with as much allowance as they are capable of enjoying; that as much is to be done for them as their condition will allow—what are these arguments? They are the arguments that kings have made for the enslaving of the people in all ages of the world. You will find that all the arguments of kingcraft are always of this class; they always bestrode the necks of the people—not that they wanted to do it, but because the people were better off for being ridden. Turn it every way you will—whether it come from the mouth of a king as an excuse for enslaving the people of his country, or from the mouths of the men from one race as a reason for enslaving the men of another race, it is all the same old serpent."

No Use for Statesmen.

The republican party of today is the victim and object tool of commercialism and greed. Once the champion and liberator of the oppressed, it has become the engine of oppression and tyranny. Once the party of statesmen, it has become the property of money changers, corporations and trusts. The party once glorified by Seward, Douglas and Lincoln, is now disgraced by Mark Hanna, Steve Elkins, Platt and Quay. The republican party no longer has any statesmen. Its manipulators will not tolerate them. A man who dares to be independent and hold views of his own is speedily suppressed. Tom Reed became a victim of the commercialism dominant in the republican party and retired to private life. The brilliant young Beveridge developed symptoms of independent statesmanship and was speedily suppressed. John Wanamaker refused to be the tool of the money changers and he was ignored. Jones, of Ohio, had views of his own on the economic question of the day and he was ostracized by the party of the trusts. Pingree refused to allow Hanna to do his thinking and he was decayed as a demagogue.

That is the condition in the nation. What do we find in the state? The party here has one man at least who manifests symptoms of independent statesmanship, a man who possesses genuine merit. John E. Allen refused to be the tool of the national committee and he was retired. The leadership is in the hands of such pliable tools and upstarts as John L. Wilson and Tom Humes. Ankeny and Foster are its commercial agents. Judge Claggett, of Spokane, than whom there is no more brilliant and honorable man in the state, was superceded by these Hanna tools and left the party in disgust. So it is down the list.

The republican party has no more statesmen. It does not want them. Its leaders today are money changers, corporation lawyers and political adventurers that are put up to do the behests of the trusts. What a vast gulf between the party of Lincoln and the party of Mark Hanna.—Chehalis Advocate.

A Popular Sentiment.

The Kansas City convention has done well. Bryan and Stevenson make a strong ticket; both are high-minded, pure men, possessing the confidence of the democratic masses everywhere. In Bryan's nomination the sentiment of democracy found expression; it was the result of an overwhelming popular sentiment. Stevenson's selection was equally the result of a very earnest popular demand.—Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric bitters, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 26c. Sold by Quitt and Ayres druggist.

The Sultan's Barbarous Capital.

European ladies constantly run away with the idea that Constantinople is a civilized town and act accordingly. Then they are astonished when something disagreeable happens, and continually one hears of ladies being hustled, pinched or kissed by Turkish soldiers. It must be remembered that the soldiers are recruited from the wildest tribes in Asia Minor, where woman is considered an inferior creature, who must give way to man, besides being trained to avoid him on all possible occasions.

One can easily imagine that such a soldier is astonished to see a European lady unveiled, boldly expecting him to give way to her or at any rate not avoiding him, and he naturally takes it to be an advance on her part. Ladies have often told me they have been pushed by soldiers into the gutter, and I have nearly always found that it is simply as I have explained, that neither makes way for the other, with the result that the lady, being the weaker, comes to grief.—London Telegraph.

Tokyo Fire Walkers.

A Yokohama correspondent of the Indianapolis Press, who witnessed the religious ceremony of fire walking in Tokyo, says: "There were present diplomats and professors from the Imperial college and an Episcopal bishop, and we think there is sufficient evidence to prove that several Japanese women did walk through the fire. A doubting Thomas gathered up some of the salt in which they rubbed their feet, both before and after their hot walk, to take away and analyze. Another suggested that the bamboo pole that was used to make the path was hollow and may have contained a substance that sifted out as it was drawn backward and forward that destroyed the heat. The little 'amak' of my friend, when asked why the feet were not burned, replied, 'Much pray, much pray.' We have stated facts. The interpretation must come from those versed in the occult sciences."

A Text Book for the Campaign of 1900

BY W. H. HARVEY,

Author of "Coin's Financial School."

This Book is Now Having a Wonderful Circulation.

The retail price is 25 cents. In size it is 35 pages larger than "Coin's Financial School," profusely illustrated, with best paper, enameled cover in two colors. Its treatment of the subjects of Money, Trusts and Imperialism is exhaustive and yet simple and plain as A B C's. It will educate and arouse the American people to a common defense of their homes and the heritage of free institutions. It teaches organization and points out the remedy. It is educational and practical. It should be in the hands of every man, woman, boy and girl in the United States.

The book is a school, and the little boy COIN is the teacher. His school in May, 1894, "Coin's Financial School," electrified a nation and moulded the political sentiment of a National Political Party.

COIN ON MONEY, TRUSTS AND IMPERIALISM may be expected to rally anew the forces of human liberty.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 13, 1900.

The issue of imperialism thrust forward by the democratic national platform is already worrying the republicans. The making public of a circular note sent to the great powers by this government, defining its policy toward China, was intended by the administration to counteract the charge of imperialism. While nominally prepared to inform other governments of the policy of this government toward China, that circular note was really prepared to try to convince the people of this country that the McKinley administration has no imperial designs against China, and more of the same sort of stuff may be looked for. Mr. McKinley knows that the Chinese question can wait, but that the presidential question has got to be settled in November.

The administration has been wobbling again. One day it officially announced that in deference to the advice of Gen. MacArthur, no more troops would be sent from the Philippines to China, and the next it ordered a regiment of infantry and a battery of artillery to be sent from Manila.

Praise for the manner in which the democratic platform is written is very frequently heard, sometimes even from republicans. Ex-Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, said of it: "I have never read a better national platform than that adopted at Kansas City. It is written in plain language, says exactly what it means and without indirection."

Although he has been as harshly criticized as any officer in our army for various shortcomings, from the time that he was in charge of the construction of the big tunnel for the increase of the water supply of the city of Washington, which, although constructed years ago is still being tinkered with and has never been put to any practical use, to his more recent service as military governor of the city of Havana, Brigadier General Ludlow has had pull enough to get promoted right along and to get the most desirable assignments. His latest is one that any officer in the army would like to have. He has been ordered to Europe for the purpose of visiting the great military schools to obtain information to be used in the establishment of a war college for our army officers. He was made president of the war college board as soon as he was relieved as military governor of Havana.

One of the signs that the republicans are not so cocksure of Ohio as they pretend to be in the announcement that Hanna's man Dick has been made chairman of the state republican executive committee. That means that Dick will retire from the secretaryship of the republican national committee, which he has held since the last campaign and which carries a salary of $5,000 a year, while the position he has accepted in Ohio has no salary. Who will succeed Dick as secretary of the national committee has not been announced, but, of course, it will be some man thoroughly trained in Hanna methods of securing political ends. It wouldn't cause any surprise in Washington if Perry Heath resigns as first assistant postmaster general and succeeds Dick.

Mr. Henry Ault, of Boston, now in Washington, said of politics in his state:

"If Massachusetts was not so overwhelmingly republican it would go democratic this year. The press and republican party leaders are inclined to sneer at the anti-expansionists of the Bay state and to intimate that they are of no consequence politically, but when the election returns are in it will be seen that anti-expansion has more adherents than it has been given credit for having. The question is not looked upon as one of purely government policy, as is the tariff or coinage of silver, but as one in which deep principles of right and justice and involved, and the people of Massachusetts are not to be laughed or sneered out of their profound convictions."

That the democratic expectation of electing a majority of the next house is not a case of rainbow chasing must become plain to any one who will carefully study the election returns of two years ago. With three vacancies, two in republican districts and one in a democratic district the republicans only have a majority of 16 in the present house and three of them were seated as the result of contests from districts, which elected democrats and will do so again. There are 12 republicans in the present house who were elected by pluralities of less than 1,000—one from California with 113 plurality, one from Illinois with 242, and another from the same state with 503; one from Indiana with 252, one from Kentucky with 10, one from Maryland with 122 and another from the same state with 470; one from Minnesota with 403, one from New Jersey with 836, one from Ohio with 406, and two from West Virginia with respectively 624 and 873. If democrats are elected from all the districts and lose none of the seats they now hold they will control the next house.

Admiralty Weak on Geography.
During the Boer war of 1880 the admiralty was hopelessly ignorant of the geography of South Africa.

The admiral in charge of the fleet at Cape Town received strict orders that he was not on any account to bombard the town of Potchefstroom. Now, as Potchefstroom is a good many hundred miles from the seacoast and lies on the Mooi river, which is barely 200 yards across and dry for three parts of the year, this order was superfluous.

During the same period the fleet was at Port Elizabeth, and the admiral headed dispatches to the admiralty from that seaport. By the next mail he again sent dispatches, but happened to head them Algoa bay.

The admiralty cabled out asking him what business he had to change the location of the fleet without instructions, sublimely ignorant of the fact that Port Elizabeth and Algoa bay are one and the same place.

By the way, the names Algoa bay and Delagoa bay are derived from the outward and homeward voyages of the old East Indianmen who, on their voyages to Goa, in India, were wont to call at Port Elizabeth on the outward voyage and at Lourenco Marques on the homeward voyage. Hence the names Algoa (to Goa) and Delagoa (from Goa).—Stray Stories.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Married at the M. E. parsonage, July 15, James W. Tuiker to Miss Mary E. Buff.

Born, in this city Sunday, July 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strobach, twins, a boy and girl.

Keep in mind the ratification meeting at Larson's theater on Saturday night next. Bring the ladies.

August 11 has been set as the day for holding the republican county convention. Primaries will be held August 4.

At the Natches Presbyterian church, on next Sunday at 11:30 there will be a memorial service for the late William Rowe.

Walter Fitch, aged 20 years, died at the hospital in this city Tuesday. The remains were shipped to Seattle Wednesday for interment.

Mr. Wise, a carpenter employed on the Schott & Co. building fell from a scaffold on Tuesday and severely sprained an ankle which will lay him up for sometime.

A letter was received from Hub Pratt late last week from Nome. It is understood from parties who left Nome since the letter was written that Mr. Pratt intends going to Dawson City.

C. R. Donovan, who was deputy county treasurer under Matt Bartholet and who has been in the treasurer's office under Mr. Dudley until last Thursday, succeeds Mr. Gervais in the First National bank.

Mrs. J. A. Moe, an aged lady living in the eastern part of the city, died on Saturday and was buried on Monday. Besides an aged husband she leaves three children, Mrs. L. E. Leeper, of this city; Mrs. J. J. Dixon, of Wide Hollow, and Mr. L. E. Moe, of Albany, Ore.

The city council was in session on Monday evening, but transacted little business. The newly constructed sidewalk on North Second street was received and a number of other minor matters were discussed when the council adjourned.

OFFICE IN LARSON'S THEATER.

Rev. R. Hargreaves, of Weston, Ore., will preach in the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. Morning subject, "He that hath the Son hath Life." Evening, "The Bible Inspired."

The Northern Pacific Railway company is putting in three steel spans in Yakima county, one over the Ahtanum creek, another at the crossing of the Natches, and a third across the Yakima at Roza.

Isidor Mondor has returned from Cape Nome, disgusted. He made but a short stay in the north. He says there are 30,000 people scattered along the beach and that there is bound to be a great deal of suffering before next season.

Suit has been filed in Tacoma for $5000 damages against the street railway company by Henry Gaul, of Steilacoom, for the death of his son who was killed in the street car accident on the Fourth of July. This is the first suit filed on account of the accident.

Parties arriving this week state that the Nome district is very much overdone and would advise that they stay away for a year at least or until things become more settled. The district is overrun with idle men, and smallpox, typhoid fever and pneumonia are prevalent.

Some growers in Lewis county state that hop lice are increasing and preparations are being made for spraying. Dealers are offering 10 cents per pound for this year's crop. In southwestern Washington, owing to plowing up and slack cultivation, will be a thousand or more bales short of what it was last year. The warm weather prevailing in the Yakima valley is having a desired effect on the crop, and growers are looking forward to a good yield.

Robert L. Fraker, a well known citizen of this city, died at the hospital on Friday of last week and was buried from the Christian church Saturday afternoon. Mr. Fraker had been a resident of North Yakima for about ten years being engaged a part of the time in the county auditor's office, he being an expert penman. He leaves a wife and a son to mourn his loss.

Kellar, the magician, wizard, or whatever else you want to term him, was at Larson's theater Monday night, and played to an enthusiastic and highly appreciative audience. Mr. Kellar's work is mystifying to an extreme. He says he is not a spiritualist—does not believe in spiritualism, that what he does is done by humbugism, but thus far no one has been shrewd enough to discover the methods he pursues.

The republican club of this city gave Hon. W. L. Jones a reception on Tuesday evening at Larson's theater. Senator Foster and Congressman Cushman were advertised to be present but failed to arrive. A number of local speakers occupied the most of the evening explaining to the large audience what a good thing the republican party was. According to one speaker, there are no statesmen outside of the republican party; no brains; no noted men. All sink into insignificance when a republican or the republican party bobs up. Outside of the cordial greeting tendered Mr. Jones by friends, the meeting—the first gun of the campaign in Yakima county was decidedly frosty for such a warm night.

STATE PRESS OPINION

Although McKinleys prosperity reigns throughout our land, strikes are the order of the day.—Localizer.

The Artisans gave a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Miller last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are soon to leave for Yakima, where they go on account of Mrs. Miller's impaired health. Goldendale Sentinel.

William J. Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson are absolutely invincible. The democracy could not name a stronger combination than that.—Vancouver Register.

The Seattle Republican, a weekly newspaper, says: "Senator A. G. Foster, better known as Blundering Foster, passed through the city last Wednesday on his way from Washington City. Senator Foster did not make a bad break while in Seattle, as did his son some months ago, on meeting one of the prominent colored men of the city, but the spirit that prompted Harry Foster to act as he did seemed to have been inherited directly from his father."

The fare to Nome is now $20, with prospect of still further reduction. This will give a great many people a chance to go up and see the "wreck." Pray do not laugh. No joke is intended. We are up against the old law of supply and demand, disfigured but still in the ring.—Seattle Mail and Herald.

The republicans are all tangled up over the Porto Rican plank and are calling each other names and asserting that it was left out by treachery. There is no doubt that its omission was most bewildering to the country at large and that it would be grateful for any explanation that would throw some light on the subject.—Tacoma Sun.

At Buffalo, New York, on January 17, 1898, in a public speech Gov. Pingree, of Michigan said: "Today all the trusts, all the monopolies, every agency which is bleeding in the country has taken refuge under the wing of the republican party because they fear the Democratic party, which has kicked them out."—Dayton Constitution.

Roosevelt has lost caste before the people of the United States. He has shown that he lacks backbone. He has proclaimed himself a partisan of the most pronounced dye. Even while seconding the nomination of McKinley, and lauding the immaculate administration of the republican party, he could find time to condemn only one of the many trusts that have been organized under the benevolent assimilation of McKinley's policy, and that one was the little ice trust in the city of New York. The rest are all right.—The Walla Walla Statesman.

Three times during the past few months the sugar trust has raised the price of sugar. The grocery stores and poor consumers have paid the advance without a murmur. They have no protection and they knew it was useless to complain. It has been learned, however, that at the present schedule of prices foreign sugars can enter this market at a profit. But the sugar trust must have protection or republican principles will all be violated. Foreign sugar must not be allowed to enter our markets. It would hurt Havemeyer. Therefore, trot out the tariff, that fine old mother of trusts, and let her protecting wings hover over the head of the sugar king. If necessary, let President McKinley call a special session of congress. Whatever happens to the consumer the trusts must not be neglected.—Tacoma Sun.

John L. Wilson is apparently picking up all the political plums that are falling from the trees over on the Sound, says the Walla Walla Statesman. As a political manager Wilson is a genius. But what would he be were he in possession of a large stock? Why, there would be no opposition to his supreme and exalted leadership of the republican party. In his fight to secure control of his party he has shown himself to be full of resources—the possessor of a well disciplined mind; a mind, too, that is capable of grasping a situation and turning events to his own account. Wilson's career emphasizes the difference between the man of brains and the man of money—the one secures results in the face of opposition by the force of his indomitable will, while the other palters and hems about the price to be paid when the goods are delivered.

Wholly Unpledged.

If Mr. Bryan should be elected he would enter the white house with no man holding pledge of place or power under him. This is his own positive statement. He would seek to do the best thing for his country. But in considering the possibility of his election it is of course fair to weigh the party behind him, and especially the fact that from the opposition, up to this campaign, the conservative elements have been so largely eliminated. He would naturally be beholden to those who stood loyally by him in 1896. But no man stands still or forgets the responsibilities and opportunities of a new day. This campaign is likely to enlarge Mr. Bryan's following, and by so much his range of choice. His outlook is to broaden, and the issues upon which this campaign can only be won by the democracy will give him, if success should come, new sources to draw upon. It would be strange indeed if he should fail to make the most of such an opportunity.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Was it a Miracle?

"The marvelous cure of Mrs. Rena J. Stout of consumption, has created intense excitement in Cammarek, Ind." writes Marian Stuart, a leading druggist of Muncie, Ind. She only weighed 90 pounds when her doctor in Yorktown said she must soon die. Then she began to use Dr. King's New discovery and gained 37 pounds in weight and was completely cured." It has cured thousands of hopeless cases, and is positively guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Quiett & Ayres drug store.

Aphids, or Plant Lice.

Aphids are sucking insects, taking their food through a slender tube which is thrust deep into the tissue of the plant. For this reason any arsenical poison that may be deposited on the surface of the plant will do them no harm. They will thrust their beaks clear through the poison into the plant and will suck the sap from beneath the surface. To kill these little robbers it is necessary to use contact poisons, such as kerosene emulsion, whale oil soap, tobacco water, pyrethrum, or some application which kills by closing up the pores or by irritation, or else to use some vapor, smoke or gas, such as tobacco smoke or carbon bisulphide. In exceptional instances, as in the case of lice that live underground, it is necessary to use some special treatment.

A TWO NICKER.

The Old Printer Explains What He Meant by the Expression.

"I was just stepping off the street car," remarked the old printer, who was telling a story, "when I met a two nicker face to face!"

"You met a what?"

"A two nicker. And, as I was saying, she!"

"But what in the world is a two nicker?"

"Oh, you know what that is, don't you?"

"No, I don't. Never met one in my life."

"Well, a two nicker is a lady, a woman, anything that wears petticoats."

"I never heard the expression before. Where does it come from?"

"Now you're too hard for me. I don't know where it started, but in the good old times of case type and hand presses it was the common expression used to designate a woman in a printshop. It wasn't used, outside of the composing rooms. I'll tell you how I think it arose. All the old hand type, as everybody knows, is provided with nicks on the side, so that the type-setters don't have to look at the face of the type to know how to throw it in the 'stick.' Far back in prehistoric days the type had only one nick, but later two nicks became the style, and 30 years ago two nicks was the usual thing. But there came improvements in typemaking, and it was discovered that three or four nicks on the side of the type made it easier for the printer to handle, and so the three or four nicked type came into style and the two nicked type went into disuse and bad repute. Printers despised the two nicked type. About that time women got a foothold in the printing offices. They were not regarded with favor by the old time printers. The women and the two nicked type were in about the same category in the esteem of the old type, and it was very natural that he should come to express both by the same words. They both became 'two nickers,' and the expression has become traditional in printshops."—Memphis Scimitar.

GROWTH OF CARICATURE.

John Law's Wild Schemes Gave It a Tremendous Impetus.

Caricature is nowadays one of the principal methods of criticism. No movement can overreach the mark without eliciting dozens of works of art from caricaturists all over this and all other countries.

This branch of criticism and attack dates far back, but the greatest impulse it ever felt came from the age of tremendous speculation, when, in 1719 and 1730, John Law was manipulating things financial in France. Never before had the financial world been so carried off its feet as it was at that time. Members of the nobility were waiting for a chance to purchase shares in Law's schemes. Duchesses and ladies of high renown tried their most persuasive charms on Law in the attempt to get hold of shares. Men hired out their backs for writing desks, so great was the press of business in making contracts, and one hunchback is reputed to have made 100,000 francs in this way in a few weeks. The French went veritably mad over the schemes to become wealthy. Naturally the papers of the time, especially those of Holland, caricatured the state of affairs. There were pictures of all sorts, caricaturing Law, the nobility, the schemes and everything connected with them.

It was this tremendous amount of pictorial work that first directed the energies of William Hogarth, in London, in this direction. Caricaturing began to be used more and more in the political field, and soon afterward it caused the shelving of Robert Walpole from the English ministry. Ever since then has caricaturing been one of the bitterest and most effectual methods of checking public men and their schemes.

It Carries the Current.

"If I were you, I wouldn't lean against that post. You might get hurt."

The speaker was a policeman, and the person to whom his words were addressed was a young fellow who stood under an iron awning with one hand resting on an iron post which helped to support the awning. The young man jerked his hand away quickly.

"What's the matter with the post?" he asked. "It looks all right."

"Yes, it does," responded the policeman, "and it may be all right. But it's iron, and its surface is wet from the rain that is falling. There are a whole lot of telephone and telegraph wires in the vicinity. One of them may be mixed up with an electric light wire somewhere and may also be rubbing up against some part of this awning. Understand? If it should be, the combination would be one that, with the water that is running down the post as a conductor, would be apt to put you out of existence. I've seen one man killed in just that way, and I really don't want to see another. That's all. Goodby."

Then the policeman walked off down the street, leaving the young fellow staring first at the post and then at the wires overhead. But as long as the saunterer remained under the awning he kept his hands away from the wet iron.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Not Wanting a Job.

When the late W. E. Gladstone was chancellor of the exchequer, one day he was in the shipping department of the government office getting some information and figures for the coming budget. While thus engaged a Sunderland shipowner called to see Mr. Lindsey, the then member for Sunderland.

While waiting for Mr. Lindsey to come in the shipowner got his eye on Mr. Gladstone and was watching him closely. After doing so a little while he thus addressed him:

"Thou seemst a good writer and clever at figures. I'll give thee £100 a year, and that's an offer thou'lt not get every day!"

Mr. Gladstone thanked him and said he would see Mr. Lindsey.

Just then Mr. Lindsey entered. Then Mr. Gladstone told Mr. Lindsey of the offer his friend had made him.

Mr. Lindsey said it was a very good offer, but he did not know if Mr. Gladstone could be spared. Anyway he had better introduce them. Turning to his friend, the shipowner, he said: "Allow me to introduce you to W. E. Gladstone, chancellor of the exchequer—Mr. So-and-so, Sunderland." The amazement of the shipowner cannot be described. The Grand Old Man laughed immoderately.—London Answers.

Throne-room of Spain.

The throne-room of Spain is a magnificent apartment of crimson and gold, with colossal mirrors and a chandelier of rock crystal that is considered the finest example of the kind in the world. Under the gorgeous canopy are two large chairs handsomely carved and gilded and upholstered in crimson brocade. These are the thrones of Spain, where the boy king and queen regent sit on occasions of ceremony. Sometimes the daughters stand beside their mother, when it is proper for all the royal family to receive the court.—International Magazine.

Patronize our advertisers.

The farmer who despises the news is making a big mistake, no matter if he is a big grain farmer or a big stockman. Appearances are deceitful, and the last few years—yes, for many years—the breeder of fowls has made infinitely more money, for the amount of money, care and thought he has put into his business, than some of his more pretentious brethren. I do not see that the prices for fresh eggs and market poultry have fallen much for the average of the year, notwithstanding the low price of corn and oats. Western farmers had better convert more of this grain into poultry products. Manufacture the raw grain into the finished poultry commodities. Manufactured articles naturally bring larger prices than the cruder products. The great point in producing poultry products for critical city markets is to raise the best. A poor article always disappoints both buyer and seller. Away with dunghill fowl! Breed the variety of poultry that best fits the purpose you have in view. Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes are superb breeds to cultivate for market poultry. Leghorns are fine layers, but of small value for cooking in a pot. The American Wyandotte of a healthy strain doubtless comes as near a good layer and a fine market bird as any other single breed. If a man is to make a specialty of giving the market fresh eggs, let him be sure the eggs are fresh, and reach the market fresh too. If he sells dressed fowls, let him be sure they are fat plump and well dressed. In this way trade will grow on one's hands.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Bullfrog or Conscience.

"Are you one of the officers of the treasury department?" asked the man with the bloodshot eyes.

"I am assistant secretary of the treasury," was the reply. "What can I do for you?"

"Well, it's rather a confidential business, and I don't want it to go any further, but I've come to pay the government some money that I guess I owe it fairly. I came back from Europe some time ago with some dutiable goods concealed about me and got past the revenue officers with them. I figure that I beat the government out of about $6, and I've come to square up and get the matter off my mind."

"Well," responded the assistant secretary, "we have what we call a conscience fund, and as this seems to be a case of conscience"—

"I don't know that it's my conscience that troubles me," said the visitor, "but I do know there's a big bullfrog that stays in a pond near where I live, and he keeps me awake, night after night, with his infernal 'cough up, cough up!' and I've got tired of it."—Chicago Tribune.

If All Candidates Wore White.

The word "candidate" is from the Latin "candidatus." Literally it means white robed, and it was thus called because in Rome those who sought office wore a glittering white toga. Fancy, if you can, all our modern Americans dressed in accordance with their political ambitions. In some sections there would be no such thing as a dark suit of clothes. Washington would simply be one shining center of universal whiteness.—Saturday Evening Post.

Good Clothes

Don't make the man, but they do improve the looks of the man very much, for a mighty mean man with good clothes on is usually taken for a gentleman.

When you are talking about good clothes, remember that I make them, and
