BRITAIN MAKES TERMS

Demands Indemnity of Tibet and Will See That She Pays.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The demand of Great Britain of an indemnity of $3,750,000 from the Tibetans appears likely to lead to a prolonged British occupation of the Chumbi valley. The Tibetans declared their inability to pay the indemnity within the three years first stipulated, and Great Britain has now proposed that the payment shall be made at the rate of $50,000 yearly and that until the whole sum is paid the British retain possession of this valley, which is the key to Tibet.

The Tibetans are said to approve of the proposal, but China's opposition to the ratification of the treaty is increasing, causing fears that Dalai Lama and his Russian associates may be induced to return to Lhasa and upset the British calculations.

REPULSE FOR JAPS

General Sakharoff Advises St. Petersburg of Winning an Engagement.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The general staff has received the following dispatch from Gen. Sakharoff dated today:

"The Russians repulsed a Japanese attack on their right wing during the night of Oct. 17 and seized the village of Shalandtzy, on the bank of the Shakhe river and east of Shakne. The enemy strongly bombarded the captured village, but did not advance to the attack on Lone Tree hill, now called Poutiloff hill.

"The work of burying the dead proceeded all night long. Military honors were paid the Japanese dead.

"A considerable concentration of the enemy's troops has been observed against our center. There was no fighting yesterday on our left flank."

BATTLE STILL UNDECIDED

That Is the Russian Version—Fight at Lone Tree Hill Resulted in Terrible Slaughter.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The issue of the bloody drama below Mukden is still in the balance. There is no attempt to minimize the severe character of the reverse suffered by Gen. Kuropatkin last week, but as yet there has been nothing absolutely decisive. There certainly is no rout and no Sedan and the war office has not yet given up all hope that Kuropatkin may be able to again resume a genuine offensive.

It is asserted here that the tone that the diplomats and newspapers of Tokyo assumed in referring to what they seem to look upon as the closing act of the tragedy of Gen. Kuropatkin's army is certainly premature. Both armies are greatly exhausted and the final issue probably will depend on which can re-gather itself the quickest.

The Russian legions are terribly battered and more or less demoralized, but the splendid manner in which they went forward against Lone Tree hill Sunday is evidence that the temper and courage of the troops are not completely shaken.

The general staff believe the storming of Lone Tree hill, for valor and slaughter, will occupy a place by itself in military annals. Kuropatkin, under whose eye the assault was made, rechristened it Poutiloff hill, in honor of the man that led the attack at the head of the second brigade of the East Siberian Rifle division and who was subsequently decorated on the field with the St. George Cross. The hill is a precipitous rocky height, and although the Japanese had occupied it only a short time they had thrown up very strong defenses. The river running at its foot increased the difficulty of the task, but it was scaled and carried successfully against the unprecedented opposition of a Japanese division, 14,000 men, with many guns. The Russian losses were terrible.

The fighting on the crest of the hill was altogether with cold steel. The Russian officers, with swords aloft, leading the scaling column, were literally lifted in the air by the Japanese bayonets and the Japanese then bayoneted the first of the Russian soldiers who piled in the trenches. All the dead in the trenches were bayoneted, their weapons bearing marks of the dreadful combat.

No Interference Wanted.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—An announcement from Washington saying that the administration believed that the time for mediation in the far eastern war was approaching has created an unfavorable impression in government circles here, where there is an inclination to associate it with the interview of the Associated Press with a diplomat at Tokyo suggesting the propriety of renewing the efforts in behalf of the restoration of peace.

The idea of peace it is asserted here, could hardly come more inopportune, with the Japanese in the full flush of victory. It has aroused only resentment and there is no doubt that if President Roosevelt should actually attempt to open the question at this time he would meet with a rebuff.

Lost Husband and Son.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Oct. 18.—M. P. Weir, the engineer on the Great Northern railway, who was severely injured in the recent head-on collision between New Westminster and Vancouver, died on Sunday night. Within ten minutes of the time that he had breathed his last the widow received a telegram that their eldest son, also a locomotive engineer, had been killed in a head-on collision near St. Louis. The stricken woman could hardly grasp the fact that this second loss was indeed true.

Filipinos Slain in Battle.

MANILA, Oct. 18.—A force under Lieutenant Pogge, of the constabulary, has defeated a large number of Palahans in the mountains of eastern Samar, killing the notorious outlaw, Oyo-mo, and fifty of his followers.

Boot-Legger Convicted.

In the United States commissioner's court yesterday before Col. L. S. Howlett, George W. Merton of Zillah was bound over to the United States federal court under a $200 bond for selling whiskey to an Indian. The evidence against him was strong. The Indian to whom he had sold the firewater appeared as a witness against the defendant and swore that said defendant was the man who gave him the whisky.

ANOTHER JAP VICTORY

Oyama Wires Tokyo that Russians Are Repulsed.

TOKIO, Oct. 18, 3:30 p. m.—A telegram from Field Marshal Oyama received today says:

"On the night of October 17 the enemy made two fierce counter attacks against the right column of the left army, besides a counter attack on a small scale in the direction of the center and right armies.

"We repulsed them entirely.

"The enemy retreated, leaving a great number of dead."

MUKDEN, Oct. 18.—It rained during the night but the roar of the artillery did not cease for a moment. The day broke with a cutting wind. The roads have been ruined by the rain.

Biscuit Contest Excites Interest.

The contest which is now in progress at Lombard & Horsley's on the corner of Second street and Yakima avenue, is causing much comment around the city. It is a biscuit contest in which there are 84 little girls under 14 years of age competing. The one who makes the best biscuit in the shortest length of time will receive a beautiful little Buck stove. On account of the large number of children contesting it will take another day to give them all a chance. They work before the eyes of the judges in the big show window of the store. There were 27 girls who contested yesterday. Their names are:

Anna Cope, Louise Greenwalt, Charlotte Greenwalt, Catherine Lauderman, Ruby Creighton, Irene Sandmeyer, Nellie Bonnell, Gladys Alexander, Elizabeth Henry, Verna Pratt, Laura Gilden, Marion Pratt, Stella Stranz, Bessie Bradford, Eva Mabey, Nellie Bissell, Grace Hall, Myrtle Slasor, Ruth McCullough, Rosana Lyon, Lizzie Kennedy, Florence Erwin, Gracie Slasor, Louise Palmer, Ina Harrison, Ruth Harrison, Hazel Thompson.

Out of this number who contested yesterday the judges, Mrs. Iris Bartholomew, Mrs. T. R. Fisher and Mrs. Tom Norton, decided that the best batch of biscuits were made by Miss Ruth Harrison. The judges will choose today the best biscuit and then decide between the winner of today and Miss Harrison's of yesterday. Many spectators stood before the window yesterday while the little workers were busy measuring, mixing, kneading and rolling. Nearly all of the bread was excellent.

John Pope's Will Probated.

The will of the late John Pope who killed himself with a pistol Sunday morning, October 9, was probated Tuesday by Attorney W. J. Welch of Roslyn. The property of the deceased amounts to about $3000. There were no children and all the property was left to his wife. The following persons came down from Roslyn Tuesday as witnesses in proof of the will: Mrs. John Pope, Mrs. James Ash and son, Simon; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Glenn and S. R. Justham.

ORPHEUM THEATER.

Admitted By Critics to Present Better Class of Shows Than Any Other Vaudeville House on the Coast.

Last night the Orpheum Stock company made a decided hit in their presentation of the three-act farce comedy, "A Bold Stratagem." This piece was written with the express purpose of creating laughter and applause. And judging from the demonstration last night it does not fall short of the mark. It is brim full of high class laugh producing comedy and humor. The citizens of Yakima ought to be proud of this popular place of amusement for it is admitted by professional critics that there is a better class of shows produced at the Orpheum than in any other vaudeville house on the Pacific coast. This reflects great credit on the management and should merit a large and liberal patronage from our citizens. Hereafter Thursday night is to be known as amateur night. All amateurs desiring to compete for the prize are requested to leave their names at the box office. Mr. Athon very ably rendered the illustrated song, "My Louisiana Home." The moving pictures are very interesting and instructive, "European Rest Cure," depicting many places of historical note, is alone worth more than the price of admission.

The Woman's Club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms. Dr. Bebb appeared before the club and delivered a very interesting address on bacteriology. She was given a vote of thanks.

ON THE DEFENSIVE

Jones and Other G. O. P. Orators Advise Voting Against Turner.

TACOMA, Oct. 18.—The political campaign is moving sluggishly in Pierce county. The Republicans are on the defensive everywhere and the time of their speakers is taken up with apologies and explanations. Congressman W. L. Jones spoke at the Tacoma theater last night. The principal portion of his address was an appeal to Republicans not to vote for Turner. In an interview Jones admits that Turner will come to the summit of the Cascades with a majority.

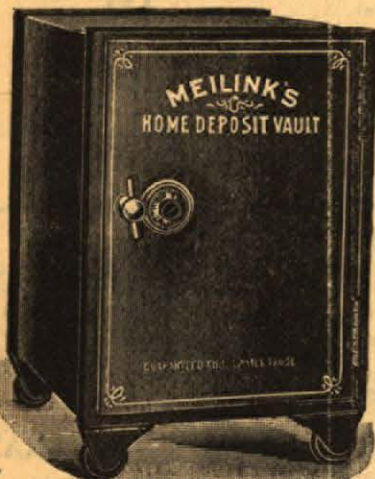

H. P. Burdick, who recently came to Tacoma from Wisconsin, is a new speaker that has been added to the list of Democratic canvassers within the past few days. He made his first speech in the county at Buckley last night. Stanton Warburton and Col. James J. Anderson went to Shelton yesterday to fill one of the dates of Senator Turner, which his illness prevented his filling.

T. R. Fisher and Dr. C. G. Fletcher went to Sunnyside Tuesday afternoon to see the former's brother, John Fisher, who has been sick for several weeks with the fever.

Peter Jackson was arraigned before Commissioner Howlett Tuesday on a charge of selling whisky to Indians. His case was postponed to come up today at 2 o'clock.

The Eureka social club will give its third dance in Wisconsin hall next Saturday night. These weekly hops have been pleasant ones and the club will give them all winter.

The Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church will meet at the home of Mrs. Augusta Hall in Fruitvale on Wednesday afternoon for a social time. A large attendance is desired.

The Oregonian's Estimate.

The Oregonian, which apparently takes as much interest in Washington affairs as it does in those of the Web-foot state, has published an estimate of how this state will vote on the eighth day of November.

The Oregonian's guess, for it is really nothing else, estimates Mr. Roosevelt's probable plurality over Parker in this state at 34,275, and Mead's at 4810. These figures, the Oregonian says, are based on an estimate made through the sending out of letters of inquiry to leading political workers in each of the 36 counties of the state. It is worthy of note that the Oregonian's correspondent in this county estimates that Mead's plurality over Turner here will be from 550 to 650. This correspondent, who is believed to be Editor Robertson, makes the following report on local conditions:

"Two years ago Yakima county cast about 3150 votes. It should cast this year from 3600 to 3800, unless, as the extreme slowness with which registration proceeds in the towns may indicate, the apathy will result in voters staying away from the polls. The normal Republican majority was about 600. If there is a full vote it should be at least 800 this year. Roosevelt will probably lead the ticket. W. L. Jones' majority of 1000 two years ago will be increased to 1150 to 1200, and it is likely that Roosevelt will lead him a trifle, with Judge Rudkin, on the state ticket, 100 votes or so behind. Mead's plurality will not be in this neighborhood, but will probably fall from 150 to 200 below the normal Republican figures, giving him from 550 to 650. This estimate is based on the supposition that there are a few discontented voters, and that some Republicans will vote for Judge Turner for personal reasons. The judge is personally known to a great many Yakima people. He will lose some of the old-time populists, but probably not many of them. Turner will run better here than his state ticket here. Coon will be scratched to some extent. The entire Republican county ticket will be elected."

The man who originally penned the above merely registered his own personal opinion. He might have thought that he was making a reasonable estimate but that he is far from the truth any unbiased man who is in touch with public sentiment knows. We do not know how it may be in other counties, but we do know that the political situation, outside of the electoral ticket, is in a more chaotic condition in Yakima county today than during any other time within a period of 13 years—since the writer has been a resident here. The Oregonian correspondent is simply guessing on the basis of how the people have voted in former years, which is no criterion at all since the conditions are radically and entirely different.

Here is an example of which way the wind is blowing: The editor of this paper yesterday engaged six farmers in conversation who were waiting for an opportunity to unload their produce at a west side commission house. Five of these men announced themselves as Republicans, the other being a lifelong Democrat. The five Republicans expressed themselves as emphatically in favor of a railway commission. All of these five men will vote for Roosevelt but none will vote for Mead. All had made up their minds to vote independently in county affairs and had no hesitancy in saying so.

We do not believe that the situation is materially different here from what it is in other counties of the state, especially in eastern Washington. The people are simply out of patience with the way in which the Republican leaders have sold them out, not once, but repeatedly to the railroads. A great majority of the voters of this state are unquestionably Republican, but thousands of voters of that party have lost faith in the organization as at present constituted and are determined to have a reckoning and to kick the rascals out. In order to accomplish their ends it becomes necessary for them to vote the Democratic state and county tickets, but they will do this and do it cheerfully enough since the Democratic candidates represent in this campaign the principles that these Republican voters of independent proclivities believe in.

There is, in fact, plenty of indications that a landslide is due Nov. 8. A job lot of railroad and spoils politicians in this state will in, all likelihood wake up the next morning to find their occupation gone.

People Versus Corporations.

The Republic, in its usual sneering way, says that the editor of this paper "thinks that the great boom in registration is due to an uncontrollable desire on the part of the citizens to vote for him."

The above is about a fair sample of the Republic man's ability in the editorial line. To say nothing of his sloppiness and usually insulting style, his writings are based mainly on prejudice and assumption and rarely ever on facts.

The editor of this paper would like to see every man who has a vote cast it and cast it for what he believes is for the best interests of the community, the state and the country. Any citizen, by the way, who does not do this, ought not in common justice to have a vote at all. We have urged the voters to register because it is desirable from every point of view that a full vote be cast and the questions at issue settled and settled as decisively as possible.

The editor of this paper is, it is true, a candidate for representative. So far as he is personally concerned he doesn't care a rap whether he is elected to the legislature or not. Unless the next legislature shall prove a more righteous body than any that preceded it we doubt if there will be much honor in being of it. If a man is honest, and we profess to be, he will make no money by going to the legislature—instead he is sure to quit a loser.

The only thing that induced us to accept the nomination is the fact that there is a great principle at stake in this campaign. The question at issue is as to whether the people are going to run their own state government or permit a lot of corporation hirelings to run it for them. This is the issue that decided us to make a fight for a seat in the legislature. We are for the people. The Republic is for the corporations.

Why Turner Should Win.

It is difficult to understand, says the Tacoma Forum, a Republican paper that is supporting the Democratic state ticket, why any Washingtonian should refuse to vote for Judge Turner. We do not mean by this that every voter in the state should vote for the distinguished ex-senator, this would be expecting too much, as well as proceeding on the assumption that all the voters in the state are honest men, which of course is not the truth, but assuming that the greater part of the voters are honest, which is true, it will indeed be a sad reflection on their intelligence if they fail to support George Turner. Doubtless there are many republicans who are intense partisans who will argue that their party having nominated a candidate who is an excellent man, it is their duty to assist in electing him, but the Forum insists that if Mr. Mead should be elected he could not make an effective fight for the appointment of a regulatory railroad commission, and that the defeat of Judge Turner would mean the discouragement of honest methods in public office. The defeat of the distinguished democrat, who is conspicuous because he is an anti-railroad man, will dishearten throughout the state all men who believe in regulatory control of the railroad and place the railroad politicians in absolute control of the political machinery of the dominant party of the state. If the consistent, honest defenders of the people's rights have no assurance of an approving constituency, they will retire and permit the rascals to run riot. The Forum is confident that George Turner will be the next governor of the state, and cannot contemplate any other result. Our confidence in the civic pride of the decent republicans and democrats of Washington is unshaken.

Regarding Corporation Taxation.

A railroad commission, whether elective or appointive, could not do much toward compelling the companies to pay more taxes. Under our constitution values on railroad property would continue to be fixed by the county assessors, and the only way the taxes of the corporations could be increased would be for the assessors to increase their valuations. The people do not need to give demagogues like Snively and Turner control of the state in order to compel the railroads to pay more taxes. If they elect the right kind of assessors they will do all that can be done.—Yakima Republic.

If our contemporary's statement is true that the constitution of this state authorizes no other way of fixing the taxable value of railroads except through county assessors what sense or reason is there in the tax commission plank of the Republican state convention? The Farrell state convention, be it remembered, threw out a sop to the voters declaring in favor of a state tax commission which should have power to fix the taxes on the property of public service corporations.

Under the present law the assessor originally fixes the value of corporation property, then the county board of equalization passes on it and lastly the state board of equalization takes a whack at it. The ownership of county assessors may be important to the railroads, but it is not absolutely essential especially when they own the state board of equalization as they apparently do at the present time and hope to continue to do in the future.

At the convention at Tacoma last May Jones' county of Yakima, which he is supposed to control absolutely, lined up with the railroads against a commission. Two years before Jones declared in favor of an elective commission as opposed to the appointive commission advocated by Governor McBride, but when the state convention met the Yakima delegates sat on the fence until it was plain that McBride had a small majority and then they slid down into McBride's band wagon.

Congressman Jones is a courteous gentleman, a splendid good fellow and all that sort of thing, but he is considerably of a trimmer. He lacks the courage and sincerity of Governor McBride. He is unquestionably a smooth politician and a clever vote getter, but he is not the kind of man the people would call upon to lead them in great reform movements. In eastern Washington Congressman Jones is under the suspicion of belonging to the railroad camp, and if this side of the mountains were in a separate congressional district, as it is entitled to be under the state constitution and the laws of congress requiring the fair apportionment of states into congressional districts, Jones would go down in the railroad wreck that will overwhelm the Farrell-Grosscup ticket as sure as the coming of the fateful 8th day of November.—Walla Walla Statesman.

This evening the Hon. Albert E. Mead, Republican nominee for governor, will address the people of North Yakima. The Democrat would advise all of its readers to go out and hear Mr. Mead and to weight his words carefully. Mr. Mead is a candidate for the highest office within the gift of the people of this state. This paper is not in political agreement with the gentleman from Bellingham, and is opposing him zealously, not that we have any prejudice against the man personally, but because of his political associations. However, he is entitled to a fair hearing and he will surely get one in Yakima.

REPUBLICAN OFFICIALS ACCUSED

Of Manipulating the State School Fund in an Unlawful Manner—Nichols, Bryan and Calvert Compose the Board.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18.—(Special) Secretary of State Sam H. Nichols, State School Superintendent R. B. Bryan and Land Commissioner S. A. Calvert, composing the commission which has the handling of the state permanent school fund, are virtually accused of manipulating that fund for the advantage of a bond broker, in the suit brought against the City of Seattle by Frank H. Paul. The purpose of Mr. Paul's suit is to compel the city to pay him $14,000 claimed to be due him as commission for using his "influence" with the members of the state board to induce them to purchase the city's municipal lighting bonds. He claims that the application of his "influence" to the state officials in question induced them to purchase the bonds on terms which in effect saved the city $47,500 over the price which the state board would have been willing to pay had not Mr. Paul's "influence" been exerted upon them.

The attorneys for the city are anxious to ascertain what kind and quantity of "influence" Mr. Paul exerted on the members of the board and have filed a petition asking that he make his complain more definite and certain in the following particulars:

"To make the tenth paragraph of plaintiff's complaint more definite and certain so as to state the name of the purchaser of the bonds named therein and what valuable time and effort plaintiff spent in procuring the purchaser of said bonds to buy the same from the city of Seattle, and what money he did expend, if any, while engaged in said employment.

"To make the eleventh paragraph of plaintiff's complaint more definite and certain so as to state what "Special Influence" the plaintiff exerted upon the purchaser of said bonds to induce the purchaser of said bonds to purchase same at his suggestion and why said purchaser would not have bought said bonds of the defendant without his intervention."

This motion to make more definite and certain came up yesterday in Judge Bell's court. The answers to the questions here propounded by the city, if they are forthcoming, will show how, and to what extent the state officials juggled the state school fund to enable Mr. Paul to secure his commission on the sale of the municipal bonds to the state. In his complaint Mr. Paul alleges that without his "influence" in the matter the city would have been compelled to pay 4 per cent on the bonds purchased by the state, instead of 3 3/4 per cent, the rate now being paid.

History of the Case.

The facts of the case, so far as they are of public record are these: In January, 1902, the Seattle city council voted to submit to the voters a proposition to bond the city for $500,000 to raise money with which to construct a municipal electric lighting plant. The proposition was submitted and approved and the bonds were advertised for sale. Under the terms of the ordinance calling the special election the interest which the city could pay on the bonds was limited to 4 per cent, at which rate the bonds must be sold at par or higher.

Bids for the bond issue were called for and tenders opened May 9, 1903. While the matter was pending City Comptroller John Riplinger, City Engineer R. H. Thompson and John H. Powell went to Olympia to confer with the members of the state commission with a view of inducing the commission to put in a bid for the bonds. There was some discussion concerning the security offered under the ordinance and the special election, at the conclusion of which the members of the commission offered to put in a bid to take the bonds at par, bearing 4 per cent.

About this time Mr. Paul approached the city comptroller, Councilman James, chairman of the finance committee of the council, and other members of the council with the proposition that if properly approached by him the members of the state board would make a better bid for the bonds, and offered to take the matter up with them, and induce them to make a better bid, provided the members of the council interviewed would pledge themselves to put through the council an ordinance allowing him $5,500 for the job. In his complaint Mr. Paul alleges that he counseled were registered a little over 1100 names. Nearly everybody turned out to vote, as the election was considered a very hot one. The records then show that in the last twelve months the town has grown almost 2000 in population. At this rate North Yakima will be a city of 25,000 inhabitants in nine years from now.

SENATOR SPLAWN'S ATTITUDE

In an Address to the Voters the Democratic Nominee for the State Senate Clearly Defines His Position.

North Yakima, Wash., Oct. 17, '04.
To The Voters of Yakima County:

Pressure of business up to this time has kept me from taking an active part in this campaign. The short length of time left before election day will forbid my visiting all parts of this county. I now call upon all my friends as well as strangers for their support. I point to my record in the upper house of the last legislature as a guarantee that I stand for a regulative railroad commission bill, for I consider it time that all corporations as well as individuals should be made to bear equally the burden of government; the poor man's property stands out in plain view and is assessed to the fullest extent, while the property of corporations is too a great extent hidden and escapes taxation. Let us pull off the mask.

I voted against the present road law, and if re-elected will work for its repeal. I worked and was instrumental in passing the bill appropriating $13,000 for the completion of the Naches and Buckley wagon road. I was the champion of the sugar beet bounty bill, which passed both houses without a dissenting vote, carrying one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) appropriation to encourage the beet sugar industry. I stand for wise and just irrigation laws, where both capital and users of water are equally protected, so that either the government or private capital can take hold of all irrigation projects. I favor it being made compulsory that all storage reservoirs must be constructed to the fullest capacity, so that the largest amount of land possible can be irrigated. To store any smaller amount will have the effect of retarding and forever destroying the possibility of a great portion of the lands lying along the Columbia river being brought under cultivation.

I believe in some systematic movement being made toward regulating the irrigating canals that will be wise and just to both corporations owning the canals and the users of water. This can only be done with cool judgment and fairness on both sides, and by this means a wise and just bill should be passed by the coming legislature.

I took a principal part in defeating Blaine's reservoir bill in the last legislature, for it was unjust and vicious. Senator Sharp and myself defeated the bill in the senate after it had passed the house, thereby saving the water for the people. Had we not put up that fight a corporation would now own the waters of your lakes at the head of the Yakima river, and you would not have any use for the irrigation commission now at work to formulate a law that would be just to all. It was not necessary to send committees over to Olympia to keep me right, for I needed no "fixing" at any time and the members of those committees can answer for themselves.

Your railroad tariff rates and your car famine would tempt every good citizen to vote for those on the legislative ticket who are true and tried and will not prove false to their trust. One ingredient is absolutely indispensable in a member of the Washington legislature—that is a spinal column strong as steel. If any one on either ticket lacks that qualification mark him off as unfit. If his word is not absolutely good brand him "he's no good." If you have to smoke him out of the hole to find him, leave him at home for he would be a disgrace to a proud people.

I therefore appeal to all voters for their support.

I hear my opponent, Mr. Reed, spoken of as a pioneer. No man can claim title of an old timer or pioneer who came here with the diner and a sleeping car; for they are recent arrivals. He will appeal to the voters as an old soldier. Any old soldier is to be respected, but he is no more a hero than the pioneer who came here with the first settlers and braved all the perils, hardships and dangers of the frontier, and made it possible for every man now in this country to follow in later years and find happy homes.

While my opponent may have heard the cannon roar, I have heard the war-whoop of the Indian. Where my opponent has had the commissary along with him at all times, I have had to chew only dried salmon by the wayside and dig the clams from the pebbly shore when the tide was out. It's up to the voters to choose their man.

Respectfully,

A. J. SPLAWN.

The G. O. P. Estimate.

The claims of G. W. H. and Jimmie Davis as to Mead's majority in this county, as published in the P.-I., are not only silly but childish, while it is true that anybody, with the aid of a pencil and paper, can in October figure out any kind of any old majority for their respective candidates, but it is well worth while going along to keep at least within hailing distance of the truth, and everybody who is at all familiar knows that if Mead carries this county at all it will not be by over 300 or 400, and there are many here who say that Turner will carry the county by 1000 to 1200. These men who make this estimate are republicans and well informed. The P.-I. has the following: TACOMA, Oct. 4.—We have made a careful poll of the entire county on the governorship, and, after making liberal reduction, Mead will have 4,356 majority over all. Roosevelt will get four-fifths of all votes east.

G. W. H. DAVIS,

Chairman Republican Committee.

Now, wouldn't that make you figure some? A careful poll. We deny this statement. The Washington building contains about 40 votes, no poll has been made here, hence the poll can not be a careful one. This claim is too silly to be discussed.—Tacoma Forum.

Ginseng in Washington.

The growing of ginseng has taken a prominent place in the minds of many people within the last few years from the fact that the price has been steadily advancing and the wild plant has become very scarce. As a result of high prices people began to experiment with its cultivation. Success was very slow and doubtful at first, but by continuous experimenting success has been achieved and as has been proven the plant can be successfully raised. Many stories of its marvelous profits have been put into circulation which in all probability were never realized. Yet, enough may be learned from authentic sources to show that it has proven very profitable to those who have been engaged in its culture for several years.

What may interest most of us in the northwest is will it grow in Washington? The writer has demonstrated to the satisfaction of all who have visited the gardens the past year that it will grow vigorously in Washington soil. A company was formed in Waitsburg, and its manager was instructed to go east and investigate the habits of the plant, how it was succeeding under cultivation, the prices obtained for both export and nursery stock, the mode of culture, etc. Also to form an opinion as to whether it might be successfully grown in Washington. After spending a month in visiting some twenty gardens he became so fully convinced that it could be grown in the west that under instructions from the company he bought about fifteen hundred dollars worth of ginseng nursery stock, and the past year's experience with it here has proven very satisfactory.

Many letters of inquiry have been sent to the State Agricultural college, and as they were not experimenting with the plant the letters were referred to us for reply as we were probably the largest experimenters in the state. They were answered to the best of our knowledge at the time, and after another year's experience we will cheerfully give any information which we have gained to those who may be interested in its culture.—A. W. Philips, manager Washington Ginseng Co., Waitsburg, Wash.

Complicated Relationships.

"It's astonishing when you come to think of it how the simplest appearing marriages may have complicated results," said a philosopher the other day. "Of course when a man marries a young girl and his son marries the girl's mother the possible offspring have all sorts of relationships with their parents. But take a simpler case. A chap I know married his first cousin's daughter some years ago and has two children. Those olive branches are first cousins once removed to their grandfather and second cousins to their mother on the father's side and first cousins twice removed to their father on their mother's side. Then each is second cousin once removed to himself. A similar state of affairs occurs of course in the case of children of married first cousins.

"I think I've proved my theorem, haven't I, that complicated results often follow simple enough causes?"

SPEECHES THAT LIVE.

Oratorical Triumphs That Stand the Test of Reading.

It is often said that if a speech reads well it is not a good speech. There may be some truth in it. The reader cannot, of course, get the impression which the speaker conveys by look and tone and gesture. He lacks that marvelous influence by which in a great assembly the emotion of every individual soul is multiplied by the emotion of every other. The reader can pause and swell upon the thought. If there be a fallacy, he is not hurried away to do something else before he can detect it. So, also, his more careful and deliberate criticism will discover offenses of style and taste which pass unheeded in a speech when uttered. But still the great oratorical triumphs of literature and history stand the test of reading in the closet as well as of hearing in the assembly. Would not Mark Antony's speech over the dead body of Caesar, had it been uttered, have moved the Roman populace as it moves the spectator when the play is acted or the solitary reader in his closet? Does not Lord Chatham's "I rejoice that America has resisted" reads well? Do not Sheridan's and Burke's great orations in the impeachment of Warren Hastings read well? Does not "Liberty and union, now and forever," read well? Does not "Give me liberty or give me death" read well? Do not Everett's finest passages read well?—Senator Hoar in Success.

Laughter Better Than Pills.

The cure for the bilious man is a clown, not pills. For indigestion go to a show where there are one or two first class fools who know how to make "monkeys" of themselves. The fun, however, should be clean, innocent, harmless and hearty, with no suggestion of indecency or vulgarity. In other words, the fun should be "hygienic." Fun that is foul and malodorous is unhealthful.

The best sort of fun for the dyspeptic is the fun that burlesques the follies and foibles of the odd "characters" you have met. If you can't find the show with the burlesque "artists" who can make you laugh, seek out companions who are jolly and who know the art of clowning.

Don't let any half baked idiot load your mind with his business or domestic troubles. When you get an hour or two from the desk or store, abandon yourself willingly and cheerfully to the frivolities of a jocular friend.—What to Eat.

A Stubborn Husband.

A most interesting phenomenon is the stubborn husband. He is not a bad man. He is contrary, and he has to be managed. He is usually married to a clever little woman, who is constantly devising schemes to accomplish the things which make their joint lives a success.

He has no suspicion of this. If he had, he would be so mad he could undoubtedly eat her. So all through life she goes on swinging a turnip ahead of his nose to make him go the same as though he were a balky mule. She is a cheery little body, and she grows plump with every year, and she does her smiling behind the door or she chuckles in her sleeve when he is not by. The stubborn husband is as interesting as a bug.—London Standard.

MODERN MAGAZINES.

The Work That Must Be Done by a Successful Editor.

The poor editor who should be so fatuous as to depend for the contents of his magazine on the driftwood that came in to him would soon be replaced or his magazine would needs go out of business. Not only has the day gone by when editors sat in easy chairs and majestically sifted wheat from chaff in the piles of stuff sent prayerfully to them, but gone, too, is the day when an editor could sit in his office and plan a good magazine out of his inner consciousness. A good magazine today represents the skillful collaboration of several bright, keen men, or men and women, and its make-up is a nice medium between what the editors have reason to think their subscribers want and what they have reason to think their contributors can do best.

It is an important part of good editing nowadays to keep in as close touch as possible with the greatest possible number and variety of persons who write. It is part of an editor's business to keep well informed on all the new books and all his contemporaries among the periodicals—to know (better, perhaps, than the man himself knows) what kind of work any given man can best do and to have the knowledge filed away in his memory for ready reference. It is part of his business, too, to see and talk with, whenever he can, not only the persons who are trying to write for him, but all persons whose situation in life is at all interesting in a way which ought some day to make them valuable to him.—Clara E. Laughlin in Reader.

Filial Repartee.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan, who was always distressed for money, was one day backing his face with a dull razor when he turned to his eldest son and said:

"Tom, if you open any more oysters with my razor I'll cut you off with a shilling."

"Very well, father," said Tom, "but where will you get the shilling?"

"HOME COMFORT."

Early Action In Tuberculosis.
The whole secret of success in the treatment of tuberculosis is to so increase the resistance of the patient as to bring about the arrest of the tuberculosis process and to prevent secondary infection. Early recognition and proper management in the beginning of the disease are the chief elements of cure. If the family physician encourages the hopeful patient to believe that "it is only a bad cold" and that it "will wear off," or when warm weather comes he will be "all right," he not only seals the patient's doom, but fails to take advantage of the opportunity presented today for the cure of consumption.—Suggestion.

BENTON AND BARNUM.

How the Showman Got a Free Ad. From the Statesman.

James G. Blaine said that after Fremont became famous as a pathfinder Benton, who had opposed his marriage with his daughter Jessie, became reconciled with his son-in-law and took great pride in his achievements as a western explorer.

The square on the southern side of Pennsylvania avenue, now occupied by Center market, was then used as a show ground for circuses and other peripatetic exhibitions. About this time P. T. Barnum was beginning his career as a showman, and as Colonel Benton was walking down Pennsylvania avenue opposite this show ground he was attracted by the words "John C. Fremont" uttered in a loud voice by a showman standing at the door of a small tent, in front of which was a garish caricature of a nondescript animal supposed to represent the "woolly horse" discovered by Fremont in the recesses of the Rocky mountains.

Benton stalked across the avenue and listened with great disgust to the statement by Barnum, who was his own doorkeeper and solicitor, that inside the tent could be found the greatest natural curiosity in the world, "the woolly horse captured by General Fremont and now on exhibition!"

Benton denounced Barnum as an impostor and denied that his son-in-law had discovered any such animal. Barnum, who did not know Benton, told him flippantly to pay his quarter and go into the show or make less noise, whereupon the indignant statesman called upon the police to arrest Barnum, and a large crowd assembled to witness the extraordinary scene. The police refused to interfere, and Barnum received a free advertisement, much to his gratification and profit.—George G. Vest in Philadelphia Post.

A Problem For the Holland Traveler.

In passing through the narrow, crooked little streets of Leeuwarden I chanced upon a sign that held my attention and compelled thought. It read, "L. v. d. Zwaan, Morgen Wekker." This is faultless Dutch for Morning Wake, and it signifies that L. v. d. Zwaan will, for a paltry sum, leave his bed in the frosty hours of early morning and, putting sweet sleep behind him, arouse his slumberous clients. Truly, a worthy calling! Yet, tell me, you who are versed in occult things, who or what in this somnolent land wakes the morgen wekker?—Edward Penfield in Scribner's.

His Advice.

"You're neglecting your business," the old man declared.
"I admit it," the young man replied frankly. "The fact is, I'm engaged, and naturally the girl gets my time and thoughts."
"For heaven's sake, marry her," advised the old man. "Then you'll have no trouble keeping away from her."—Chicago Post.
