OFFICIAL PAPER OF NORTH YAKIMA

PROBABLY no two men in the Republican party are more influential in shaping its policies than Senator Depew and Congressman Grosvenor. In congress both these men have shamefully prostituted their public trusts, in order to faithfully serve the giant monopolies that dominate the republican party. Neither of them has ever failed to lift his voice against the people when their interests have been assaulted by legislation in the interest of favored trusts or other capitalists. No ship subsidy steal so gigantic, no tariff fraud so flagrant, no colonial oppression so outrageous but these men advocate it. In short, they are typical republicans of the intelligent class, faithful servants, with all their ability of plutocracy in its assaults upon popular government and the happiness of the people. It is, therefore, significant of the trend of sentiment in the republican party that these two men earnestly urge the nomination of President McKinley for a third term. So vehement is Grosvenor, that he deliberately traduces the memory of George Washington in order to exalt William McKinley. He says that there is no unwritten law against the third term; that Washington's example of declining to be candidate the third time was prompted, not by patriotic appreciation of the fact that eligibility for re-election to a third or subsequent term would be apt to tempt the president to prostitute the powers of his office to secure his continuance therein, but by fear that he could not be elected if nominated. Thus does the typical republican, Grosvenor, most conspicuous of republican congressmen from the president's own state, nearer perhaps to the president than any other, except Mark Hanna, and the organized mouth-piece of this administration, in his anxiety to perpetuate in power the oligarchy of financiers that in the name of McKinley now rule the republic and the crown colonies, vilify the memory of the foremost American patriot and impute his patriotic, self-sacrifice to the meanest of human motives—craven fear. This assault of the republican leaders upon one of the fundamental, though unwritten principals of our republican government, should surprise a government without constitutional limitations, over Porto Rico and the Philippines; already the republican party has made President McKinley emperor,—he can wear his crown in Porto Rico and in the Philippines, and anywhere on sea or land save here in the states. Who can doubt that the same base and sordid motives that have impelled the republican party to establish a government without constitutional limitations, that is, a pure despotism, over millions of people under the flag, but without the states, will impel it to try and undermine the foundations of constitutional government here at home? The spirit of despotism is no respecter of geographical lines. The government that insists upon exercising its powers without constitutional limitations, anywhere in its jurisdiction, wants to do something contrary to those fundamental principles of justice which constitute the limitations upon power in our constitution, wants to do something unjust and wicked. We may be sure, that a government so actuated by the spirit of injustice, will seek to widen the sphere of its absolute sway the more fully to gratify its lust of gain and power. To tax and otherwise govern without a constitutional restraint, is as profitable and sweet in the states as in Porto Rico or the Philippines. Then we may reasonably expect that the republican leaders, who are enjoying the sweets of despotic power in the crown colonies will try to extend their despotic sway over the states. Of course they can only do it gradually and insidiously, and alter republican tradition by false pretenses. This agitation to make McKinley president for the third term is the first step toward extending the empire from the islands on to the main land, for if the third term is right or necessary, as Grosvenor says, why not a fourth or fifth, and so on to the end of our emperor's life, thus establishing one of the most universal and necessary characteristics of despotic government, life tenure of the executive head. The fact that McKinley declines to run again should not allay patriotic alarm, for this is the same McKinley who for years vehemently advocated free silver and then became the candidate, and willing tool of the gold conspirators; the same McKinley who promised in his letter of acceptance to do his utmost for international bimetalism, and then made the arch gold monometalist, Gage, secretary of the treasury; the same McKinley who said it was our imperative duty to give Porto Rico free trade, and then, at the bidding of the trusts, signed a bill imposing a tariff on Porto Rico; the same McKinley who has always been unstable as quicksand; the same McKinley who has always smoothly flowed in the channels wrought out for him by our oligarchy of plutocrats, even as the unstable waters flow in the channels wrought by nature's mighty hand; the same McKinley long famed for "the glib and oily art to speak and purpose not." Who that has studied McKinley's career can rationally doubt that if tendered a nomination for a third term, he will, like the protesting dame, say: "Nay—nay—nay", and take it?

THE DEMOCRAT last Saturday announced that certain prominent business men from abroad had been invited here to attend the official dedication of the new ditch, and incidentally to be banqueted along with the successful promoters of the enterprise. This paper has always been glad to assist in any public benefaction, but for some inscrutable reason the committee failed to request the donation of $3, which was the amount demanded from all participants in the festivities, nor was the ordinary formality of an invitation presented to anyone connected with the paper. It is not from any feeling of "soreness" at the obvious slight that the matter is here mentioned, but the city was not done full justice in the failure of the committee to properly recognize the press at this public function. Indeed, several of the visitors were surprised when, upon inquiring into the unexplained absence of newspaper men, they were introduced to one who was designated as a "job printer," as the nearest thing to a newspaper man in attendance. The object of this gentle protest is to remind people in charge of public entertainments, that if they wish to have the matter properly written up and published abroad, they should see that newspaper men are tendered the usual courtesies—and not give exclusive right of invitation to a "job printer."

THE cap-sheaf of the great trust fabric will be the organization of the $1,000,000,000 bank proposed by J. Pierpont Morgan and his associates. This is intended to be the "daddy" of all banks, not only in this country, but in Europe, and it is intended to force all other banking institutions to come to it for clearances. This wonderful age of combinations on the part of capital to diminish the cost of production and knock out competition in all the avenues of trade is educating the people to the belief that the government can handle a great many of the industries to a better advantage for all parties concerned than private combinations organized to control and restrict trade.

IN response to a call from the governor, the state legislature met in special session at Olympia last Tuesday. The object of the extra session was to remedy defects in the Rand act, relating to the execution of convicted murderers. The partisans showed poor judgement in taking advantage of the special session to "get back" at Governor Rogers by taking up and passing bills vetoed by him after the adjournment of the late unlamented legislature. The people expected the legislature to perform the service required of them in amending the Rand bill, and adjourn—not to run up the expenses by putting in several days unnecessary time in "getting even" with the governor.

O. M. MOORE has been removed from his position as executive commissioner of the Pan-American exposition because he refused to listen to the councils of his associates and be guided by the old principle that "two heads are better than one." He has now, officially, no head at all, and probably wishes that he had been good, as he has lost a fat salaried position.

THIS government has at last decided to have the free coinage of silver. The "free coins" will not be for use on the "mainland," however, but the alleged 50-cent dollar will be palmed off on our 50 per cent citizens in the Philippine islands.

It seems that enough opposition to the reissuance of a saloon license to Frank Cook has been removed in order to insure the granting of the petition by the council next Monday evening.

A baseball game between the old town and Moxee nines last Sunday was declared off on account of the rain. Five innings had been played, the score standing Yakima City 16, Moxee 4.

The officers of the Yeoman elected to serve the ensuing half year are: Foreman, L. B. Kenyon; master of ceremonies, J. C. Varker; correspondent, Anna Jungst; master of accounts, J. T. Haines; physician, Wm. Kenyon.

After a long and exciting contest, the high school was on Wednesday awarded the piano offered by various business firms in the city. The High school had a plurality of 26,429 votes over its closest competitor, the Daughters of Rebekah.

H. J. Rand returned Friday from a tour of the lower end of the county. He brought with him a car of fat cattle, and secured a lot of other stock to come in later on. Mr. Rand says he never saw stock in better condition or the range as good at this season.

On Monday evening the local lodge of Redmen elected the following officers for the ensuing term: Sachem, H. C. Thede; senior sagamore, Peter Wolf; junior sagamore, George Sutton; keeper of records, W. E. Gervais; keeper of wampum, John Ditter.

A sensational rumor was circulated on the streets Monday evening to the effect that the old town was burning. The report proved unfounded, a fire on the Rand cold-storage house premises, from which no particular damage resulted, being the cause of the alarm.

The city protectors yesterday morning found the floors and walls of the city bastille in a very mutilated condition, owing to the efforts of the confinees to effect a nocturnal exit. The services of a carpenter, plumber and brickman had to be called to remedy the defects.

The ladies of North Yakima will organize a humane society in the near future, as soon as they can make the necessary arrangements for a speaker and organizer. They earnestly ask the help of all who are the friends of all animals and the birds, man's greatest friends.

Judge Frank H. Rudkin, who has been relieving an overworked superior judge in Spokane for the past week, will have a session of court here today for the disposition of motions, and on Sunday will go to Seattle, where he will next week sit in judgement upon cases wherein Judge Bell of King county is disqualified.

North Yakima lodge No. 7, Royal Tribe of Joseph, elected the following officers last Friday evening: W. I. Stone, patriarch; Fannie M. Scott, vice patriarch; Hattie B. Grist, priest; Joel Shomaker, scribe; A. J. Mulhollan, treasurer; W. L. Cook, escort; Dora M. Short, inner guard; Geo. A. Grist, outer guard; C. F. Swain, trustee.

A special meeting of the state fair commission was held on Tuesday, when purses of $1000 each, were hung up for a 2.15 pace and for two-year-old trotters. These special purses are offered at the solicitation of numerous horsemen, and if they are taken with the same interest as has been exhibited in the other special races, new race features may be added. Entries will close July 1st.

Tom Davidson will shortly commence the construction of a large brick commission house adjoining the Switzer opera house building, on Front street. It is anticipated that another party will join with him in the walls and a complete brick front will be built from the alley. The mill company also contemplates the erection of a stone addition to its headquarters near the depot, covering the entire ground with buildings.

Sheriff Tucker went to the "Glade" in the southern end of the county last Tuesday, in response to a telegram announcing the attempted shooting of one Jake Prah by Jerry McGrath, a farmer there. The trouble appears to have arisen by Prah attempting to force his band of sheep upon the lands of McGrath, who took a couple of shots with a winchester at the enterprising sheepman, without material injury to the latter.

E. W. Dooley's safe at the Hotel Yakima saloon was "touched" last Monday night for about $100. The party getting away with the "swag" either knew the combination or the safe had been inadvertently left open. The suspected party has been under constant surveillance since the robbery.

Up to date, no final adjustment has been reached. The board meets again next Monday night at the clerk's office in the court house.

THE MOXEE-SELAH CANAL.

Formal Dedication of the New Irrigation Ditch.

According to the program heretofore mapped out, the Commercial club on last Saturday proceeded to celebrate the dedication of the recently completed irrigation canal which waters 5000 acres of the Moxee high lands.

This canal is twenty-five miles in length, and the cost of construction was over $50,000. The project was advocated for a long time by W. T. Clark, who has for a number of years been interested in artesian water as a means of irrigation for the upper levels of the Moxee section. The scheme as proposed by Mr. Clark for a high line ditch to cover the lands with water from the Yakima river received a second in G. S. Rankin, and after long months in exploiting the advantages of the proposition, J. W. Clise, a monied man of Seattle, joined with the original promoters and assisted in putting their ideas into effect.

The ditch is now completed and water runs upon the most fruitful soil, to which the vivifying touch of irrigation has hitherto been unknown. Those of us familiar with the erstwhile condition of the section through which the canal now deviously takes its way, need only to go through the old road leading to the Columbia to see the marvel wrought. To the "stranger in our gates" it has been a revelation.

The visitors were entertained by a banquet at the Hotel Yakima Saturday evening. The guests of the club on the occasion included the following gentlemen: From Seattle—J. W. Clise, W. H. Parry, A. J. Blethen, Jr., S. P. Weston and C. R. Collins. From Tacoma—F. W. Dodwell, manager of the Northern Pacific Steamship company, and the following officials of the Northern Pacific Railway company: Thomas Cooper, western land agent; F. W. Gilbert, division superintendent; and I. A. Nadeau, general agent.

The visitors departed for their various homes, with the best wishes for Yakima's prosperity and their knowledge and appreciation of the wonderful resources of the section considerably broadened and increased.

Last Monday Court Florine No. 50, Forrester of America elected the following officers: E. B. Cooper, chief ranger; Andrew Daverin, sub-chief ranger; Joel Shoemaker, deputy grand; A. Johnson, treasurer; Volney Taft, financial secretary; G. L. Eichanaur, senior woodman; W. H. Thede, junior woodman; O. Sanberg, senior beadle; Bert Cayou, junior beadle; John Hulse, trustee, Volney Taft, druggist; Dr. S. H. Bonney, court physician.

The Roslyn Picnic.

Under the head of "On to Yakima," the Roslyn Miner, has this to say of the proposed excursion from that city to North Yakima some time in August next:

"The lodge people of this city as well as the Miner wishes to acknowledge with gratefulness the interest the papers of North Yakima are taking in the matter and to assure them that we have no doubt as to our welcome.

"Arrangements are progressing very satisfactorily and as rapidly as could be expected. Mr. Bush, general manager of the coal company has notified J. Y. Patton, the secretary, that he will be only too glad to do all within his power to make the picnic a success by making satisfactory arrangements with the Northern Pacific people, and this assurance from Mr. Bush means that it will be a success, for he never undertakes anything that does not succeed. The more industriously the matter is talked of the more interest is being roused and there will be little doubt but that 1000 people from Roslyn alone will go on the excursion. As soon as a definite date is settled upon and the arrangements with the railroad completed it will be announced in this paper.

The Workman of New Zealand.

(Charlotte Teller in Chicago American.)

New Zealand is a small country and obliged to attend to its own affairs because England insists on attending to its affairs with other countries. The men of New Zealand are of good blood and sinew and they are not afraid to experiment.

The government is simple. There is no royal court, no state church, no house of lords and no "four hundred." Therefore, the government, not having to be either wealthy or fashionable, and not being allowed to go to war, has plenty of time to carry out some ideas of its own.

The state owns the railways, the telegraph and telephone systems, the harbors and the water works.

The state lends money at low rates and rents land to those who wish to hold it for 999 years at a good rate. It is often executor in the case of large estates and acts usually as the head of a family whenever a calm, unbiased judgment is needed.

But the most surprising thing that New Zealand has done has been to undertake the solution of some of the labor problems. It has inaugurated compulsory arbitration.

In this energetic country a capitalist cannot hide behind his statement: "Business is not good enough just now to pay higher wages." The state says: "Show us your proofs," and he is at once ushered into a committee room where, seated at a table, are two representatives of the employees' association of New Zealand, two representatives of the employers' association, and a chairman chosen by the four—in other words, he has to meet his employee before the board of conciliation.

No individual can summon his employer to appear unless he belongs to the union of his trade, but as it takes only seven men to form a union in any trade and as that union can obtain results by which all men, union or non-union, must abide, there is a very general belief in the effectiveness of trades unions.

If either party before the board of conciliation in its own district be dissatisfied with the decision, it can appeal to the court of arbitration, which consists of one man, appointed by the government general from the nominees of the employees' association one from among the nominees of the employers' association and a judge of the supreme court. He it is who fixes the awards and keeps the decorum of a court room.

Experts are allowed on either side of a labor dispute, but no lawyers. The judge's decree is final.

Compulsory arbitration has been in effect for five years and during that time there has been no strike and nine out of every ten cases have been decided in favor of the workingman. The strike in New Zealand is a committee meeting.

Not Fordable.

During one of his expeditions in the Philippines General Lawton came across the trail of a party of Filipinos, which he followed for several days with a small body of troops. One day he and his staff reached the top of a small eminence and saw a river stretching below them but a short distance ahead. Turning to one of his aids, the general said, "Lieutenant, ride ahead and see if that river is fordable."

The lieutenant put spurs to his horse and soon entered the river. A few feet from the shore the bottom shelved off suddenly, and the horse was soon floundering in deep water. The lieutenant disengaged himself and swam to the shore, which the horse also reached in a short time. After a brief chase, to the amusement of the general and the staff, the horse was recaptured, and, mounting him, the lieutenant rode back. His khaki uniform was soaked and bedraggled, and the water, spurted from the tops of his military boots at every jump of his horse. Riding up to the general, he gravely saluted and said, "I have the honor to report, sir, that the river is not fordable."

Lawton looked at him a moment trying to maintain the dignity of his position, but the situation was too ludicrous for him. He burst into a hearty laugh, in which the staff joined at the expense of the young lieutenant, who, however, tells the story on himself.

A Fish With Teeth on His Tongue.

The biggest of fresh water fishes, the "arapaima" of the Amazon, in South America, which grows to six feet in length, has teeth on its tongue, so that the latter resembles the file and is used as such. Some kinds of trout also have the same peculiarity. Fishes that swallow their prey entire have their teeth so supported on flexible bases as to bend backward, but not forward, in order that their victims shall not escape after they have been once seized. In ages gone by there were ferocious sharks, such as would make a mouthful of you without blinking, 70 feet in length.

Plenty of their teeth have been found which are five inches long, whereas the biggest of the teeth belonging to sharks that exist at the present day are 1½ inches long. Speaking of extinct creatures reminds me to say that all of the early birds—those of early geological times, that is—had teeth, with which they captured the early worms of the same period. Being descendant from reptiles, it is natural that they should possess a dental equipment, but when they ceased to be carnivorous they had no teeth any longer.

Both at Rest.

"I suppose," said the stonecutter, "you'll want 'Requiescat in pace' at the bottom of your wife's monument?"

"No," replied the bereaved Mr. Peck; "make it 'Requiesco in pace.'"

"That means 'I rest in peace,' doesn't it?"

"Yes, and I want you to sign that 'Husband.'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

THE YAKIMA DEMOCRAT

NORTH YAKIMA, JUNE 15 1901.

Mile-a-Minute Snub.

We worked for Bill McKinley, and we hustled for him fair,
We argued and we quarreled till he landed in the chair;
We pointed out the future—'twould be glorious and grand
If folks would only recognize that he could save the land;
But when he got to Bowersville upon this western trip
His train slid by our station
At a mile-a-minute
clip.

Why, when we read the papers—how he planned to come this way,
We bought a bunch of banners and got ready for the day;
We put flags on the deepo, and put up a speaker's stand,
And bought a lot of music for the Bowersville Brass Band;
And when the engines whistled we prepared to let 'er rip,
But the train went by us people
At a
clip.

We're done with Bill McKinley. He's an emperor—that's what!
To pass the men that made him, like they wasn't on the spot!
Yes, sir. He's lost his chances when they was within his reach,
We've got some unused fireworks—and—I—had prepared a speech—
A few short words of welcome. But McKinley got too flip

Mack, the Three Timer.

Mr. Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, leader of the administration republicans in Missouri, believes with Senator Depew of New York that the American people are willing to make an exception in President McKinley's favor and elect him to the presidency for a third term. This impression seems to be gaining such headway in the imperialist wing of the republican national organization that it may soon be necessary to seriously consider Mr. McKinley as a candidate for renomination. It is also reasonably certain that if Mark Hanna and the trusts behind Hanna can persuade themselves that the people would not resent this course, the renomination of Mr. McKinley is inevitable.

Hanna himself undoubtedly believes that the same reasons which prevailed in 1900 to necessitate what he called the "perpetuating" of President McKinley's administration still prevail. There is much that remains to be done for the trusts. Imperialism is not yet established as firmly as the imperialists desire. Mr. McKinley is known to be entirely subservient to the will of the trusts in these matters. If the people can be cajoled into forgetting the wise American prohibition of a third term it will suit the trusts right down to the ground.—St. Louis Republic.

STATE PRESS OPINION

A late report says C. B. Hopkins and not G. H. (Herb.) Baker is to be named as United States marshal to succeed Clarence Ide. This is quite a sensational rumor and if true will cause much surprise.—Capital.

It is the success of such technical devices as has robbed the gallows of its due in the case of Nordstrom, which makes lynching a tolerable alternative. If neck-stretching is ever justifiable it certainly was it that case.—Washington Standard.

The Oregonian has it all figured out that the republican party has sinned past all forgiveness and will soon receive a much-merited punishment at the hands of the people. Most republican editors know this, but the wonder is that one of them should come out openly and say so.—W. W. Argus.

It is proposed to create an arid land reclamation fund from the proceeds of the sales of western public lands, to be used in the construction of irrigation works. Such a proposition is eminently sensible and should certainly arouse no opposition.—Tacoma News.

Yakima Jones desires to be promoted from congressman to U. S. senator. It is hinted that he is flirting with John L. Wilson and desires to pose as a compromise candidate. This would upset some carefully laid plans of the Ankeny forces.—Vancouver Democrat.

The W. C. T. U. observed "Flower Mission Day," Tuesday afternoon by a short service at the Christian church. They then went to the jail and hospital, and wherever they had the names of those who would welcome the flowers. # WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, June 7, 1901.

The republican scheme for reducing the congressional representation of the southern states which restrict negro suffrage has been revived and it is said to have more influential backing than the movement that was started last winter. At that time it was understood that Mr. McKinley, who had just begun to believe in the possibility of a white republican party in the south, opposed the idea and was instrumental in having it laid aside. It is doubtful whether he has changed his mind on the subject, but some of the men who are quietly pushing the revived scheme express the opinion that by next winter the failure of making white republican recruits in the south, under the name of McLaurinism, or any other, will be so plain to Mr. McKinley that he can be counted upon to keep his hands off, if not to help along the scheme. The increased power given to congress by the insular decisions of the supreme court is used by the men who are working the scheme as an argument for the political necessity of cutting down southern representation so as to make it certain that the republicans will retain their majority in the house, the loss of which might play havoc with the party's insular policy. There is not a sufficient number of senators and representatives in Washington to form any idea of the strength of the revived scheme, but it is being manipulated by shrewd men who have no scruples about securing political advantage in any way, and it will be wise for democratic senators and representatives to be vigilant.

There were other than legal reasons for the decision of the administration not to call an extra summer session of congress to legislate for the Philippines. One was that it was thought that a few months exercise of the autocratic authority conferred by the Spooner amendment would get things on the islands in a condition that would be less inviting to congressional interrogation than they are at this time, and another was the fear that a congressional debate on a Philippine tariff bill might precipitate a general discussion of the whole tariff question.

Gen. Samuel Pearson, of the Boer army, passed through Washington this week, on his way to New York, where he has been called to confer with the agent of the Boers on important business, which he hopes relates to an honorable peace. Speaking of the situation in his unfortunate country, he said: "We still have about 26,000 men in the field; we have all the ammunition we need, and we have sufficient horses and foodstuffs, British reports to the contrary notwithstanding. My regular information from the seat of war tells me that only half of what is going on in South Africa is known and published in the newspapers here, and then it is not at all reliable. All news goes through English censors. There has been considerable more fighting down their lately than the American people have been informed of. Much activity is displayed throughout the Transvaal, the Orange Free State and Cape Colony. Kirtzinger's commando has been very successful recruiting Cape Dutch for operations against the British, and if Kitchener or Roberts can boast of having invaded the Transvaal, we can reply with the invasion of Cape Colony. Our soldiers are only fifteen miles from the sea coast, which speaks for itself. The men who are at the head of our army are young, energetic, prudent and just. They know when to strike and how to do it to obtain the best results with the least difficulty and at the smallest cost of life. We are just as anxious for peace as you, but it must be an honorable peace, otherwise we will fight—fight until the last man falls."

Ex-Representative and ex-Judge Springer, accompanied three Indian chiefs to the White House, where they went to present a petition asking the president to withhold his signature to the proclamation opening the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indian reservation to settlement until a delegation representing these tribes can reach Washington and be heard. They claim that the treaty under which the 2,000,000 acres involved are alleged to have been ceded was never approved by a majority of the Indians and that to allow it to be put into effect will be a rank injustice. Mr. Springer says that Mr. McKinley can, if so disposed, defer opening the land to settlement until congress has an opportunity to reconsider its action providing therefor. But inasmuch as Secretary Hitchcock has turned down all protests against the opening, it is not likely that he will be so disposed.

The alleged civil government that is to be established in the Philippines, will be civil in name only until after congress legislates on the subject, as it is to be under military control. The islands are to be kept under military control because of the belief that the establishment of a real civil government would put them on the same footing that was given Porto Rico by the supreme court decision. There are tricks in all trades, and republicans are specially apt in tricks relating to government.

Representative Livingston, of Ga., who is in Washington to attend a meeting of the industrial commission, is strongly opposed to any constitutional amendment restricting negro suffrage in his state. Speaking of the matter he said: "I think our people are against such amendment to our state constitution. We are getting along nicely with the negro in Georgia."

Legislation.

The W. C. T. U. has been the chief factor in state campaigns for a statutory prohibition constitutional amendments, reform laws in general and those for the protection of women and children in particular, and in securing anti-gambling and anti-cigarette laws.

It has been instrumental in raising the age of protection for girls in every state but two. The age is now 18 years in 13 states, 16 years in 19 states and from 12 to 15 years in the other states.

Through the influence of scientific temperance instruction laws have been secured in every state except one.

Curfew laws have been secured in forty towns and cities.

It aided in securing the anti-canteen amendment to the army bill, which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors in all army posts.

It aided in obtaining an appropriation of $9,000 from the legislature of Illinois for a statue of Miss Frances E. Willard, to be placed in Statuary hall, Washington, D. C.

It secured the appointment of police matrons now required in nearly all the large cities in the United States.

It keeps a superintendent of legislation in Washington during the entire session of congress to look after reform bills.

Eight thousand petitions have lately been sent by the W. C. T. U. to the physicians of the United States, asking that their medical practice and teaching, as well as their personal example be upon the side of safety in regard to the use of alcohol in medicine.

Congressman Elect Roberts, the polygamist, was prevented from taking his seat in the United States congress by petitions and protests.

The prohibitory law in Indian Territory was not repealed nor openly attacked because of protest.

Maine and Vermont preserve their prohibitory law by the same method.

The National W. C. T. U. secures more petitions than any other society in the world. It is estimated that not fewer than 20,000,000 signatures and attestations have been secured by the W. C. T. U., including the polyglot petition. Other societies work largely through W. C. T. U. methods in circulating petitions.

The thought of the polyglot petition originated with Miss Willard and it was written by her. It has 7,000,000 signatures and attestations.

In the future as in the past, the W. C. T. U. will continue to petition and work for the protection of the home against its enemy—the liquor traffic—and for the redemption of our government from this curse; which redemption can only come, it believes, by the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. It is pledged to the highest interest of the great institutions of the world—the home, the school, the church, the state.

Chicago's "Oxygen Party."

The "oxygen party," Chicago's latest and madest proposed social diversion, is in method simplicity itself. The guests inhale the gas through tubes from tanks such as are used in administering oxygen to pneumonia patients. It is one of the most powerful stimulants known—as much more potent than champagne as that in turn is more potent than beer.

The wildest hilarity, the most reckless speech, the most audacious frolics, must follow its inhalation by people in full

"Ouch!"

That is about the mildest form of outcry a man makes when rheumatism suddenly tweaks him. In its worst forms rheumatism is a living death. The victim, incapable of moving hand or foot, has no part in the great procession of life, on which he gazes with hopeless eyes. It is terrible for the man who has been the bread winner, strong, active, energetic, to suddenly find himself helpless as a babe, and dependent on the kindness of others for almost every necessary of life.

There is no need to urge the rheumatic to seek a cure. He has probably grown discouraged in the search, having tried many medicines without relief. Yet there is hope and help for every rheumatic who will use the medicine which has cured so many who were in a like case. That medicine, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, has cured a great many sufferers who were without hope and for whom physicians had said there was no help. A medicine which will cleanse the blood from uric acid and other poisons, will cure rheumatism. "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal in its power to cleanse the blood and to enrich it. It absolutely eliminates from the blood the poisons which cause the disease, and by increasing the activity of the blood making glands it increases the supply of pure blood upon which physical health and strength depend. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, nor opium, cocaine or any other narcotic. If your dealer says he has something "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" why not tell him that the remedy which cures rheumatism is good enough for you.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C. "so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips, and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels and so preserve the balance of health. They do not become a necessity to the user as they cure disordered conditions of the bowels, and are not thereafter required.

vigor—that is, if they really "let themselves go," as Chicagoans are apt to do. Guests who are inclined that way would become temporarily insane; guests with hearts too weak to stand the unusual strain might easily be killed by this form of hospitality.

Uncle Sam's Biggest Guns.

A gun that weighs 130 tons and can throw a projectile weighing 2,370 pounds a distance of 21 miles is being completed at the Watervliet arsenal under the direction of the War Department.

If successful, this great rifle will be by all odds the most terrible engine of war possessed by any nation. It is an experiment, but there is every reason to believe that it will be all its builders expect it. It will be eighteen inches in muzzle diameter and over 49 feet in length. Each shot will consume a charge of 576 pounds of smokeless powder. Captain Wheeler of the ordnance bureau has been ordered to inspect the completion of the gun.

The weapon when completed will be sent to the Buffalo exposition. If the tests are satisfactory the government will order 40 of them. Of this number eight will be placed in New York harbor, 10 at San Francisco, eight at Boston and four at Hampton Roads.—Ex.

Some Irish Bulls.

One of the most interesting of recent complications is the "Handy Book of Literary Curiosities," by William S. Walsh, published by J. B. Lippincott. From this book is gathered the collection of Irish bulls hereto appended:

"My dear, come in and go to bed," said the wife of a jolly son of Erin who had just returned from the fair in a decidedly how-come-you-so state; "you must be dreadful tired sure, with your long walk of six miles." "Arrah, get away with your nonsense," said Pat; "it wasn't the length of the way at all that fatigued me, 'twast the breath of it."

A young Irishman who had married when about 19 years of age, complaining of the difficulties to which his early marriage subjected him, said: "He would never marry so young again if he lived to be as old as Methuselah."

An invalid, after returning from a southern trip, said to a friend: "Oh, shure, an' it's done me a wurruld o' good, going away. I've come back another man altogether; in fact, I'm quite myself again."

An eccentric lawyer thus questioned a client: "So your uncle, Dennis O'Flaherty, had no family?" "None at all, yer Honor," responded the client. The lawyer made a memorandum of the reply and thus continued: "And your father, Patrick O'Flaherty, did he have chick or child?"

Two Irishmen were working in a quarry when one of them fell into a deep quarry hole. The other, alarmed, came to the margin of the hole and called out, "Arrah, Pat, are ye killed intirely? If ye're dead, spake." Pat reassured him from the bottom by saying in answer, "No, Tim, I'm not dead, but I'm spacheless."

A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master one morning a pair of boots, the leg of one of which was much longer than the other.

"How comes it that these boots are not of the same length?"

"I raly don't know, sir; but what bothers me the most is that the pair downstairs are in the same fix."

An Irishman, having feet of different sizes, ordered his boots to be made accordingly. His directions were obeyed, but as he tried the smallest boot on his largest foot he exclaimed, petulantly, "Confound that fellow! I ordered him to make one larger than the other, and instead of that he had made one smaller than the other."

That was a triumphant appeal to an Irish lover of antiquity who, in arguing the superiority of the old architecture over the new said: "Where will you find any modern building that has lasted so long as the ancient?"

An Irish magistrate, censuring some boys for loitering in the streets, argued, "If everybody were to stand in the street how could anybody get by?"

An Irishman got out of his carriage at a railway station for refreshments, but the bell rang and the train left before he had finished his repast. "Hould on!" cried Pat, as he ran like a madman after the car, "hould on, you mnurther'n old stame injin; you've got a passenger on board that's left behind."

An old Dublin woman went to the chandler's for a farthing candle, and being told it was raised to a halfpenny on account of the Russian war, "Bad luck to them," she exclaimed, "and do they fight by candle light?"

An Irish lover remarks that it is a great comfort to be alone, "especially when yer sweetheart is wid ye."

A Hibernian gentleman told a friend studying for the priesthood, "I hope I may live to hear you preach my funeral sermon." Another expressed the grateful sentiment, "May you live to eat the chicken that scratches over your grave." A physician said oracularly of a murdered man: "This man was so ill that if he hadn't been murdered he would have died half an hour before."

How the Spanish Gypsy Dances.

I held my breath as I watched the gypsy in the Seville dancing hall. I felt myself swaying unconsciously to the rhythm of her body, of her beckoning hands, of the glittering smile that came and went in her eyes. I seemed to be drawn into a shining whirlpool, in which I turned, turned, hearing the buzz of the water settling over my head. The guitar buzzed, buzzed in a prancing rhythm, the gypsy coiled about the floor in her trailing dress, never so much as showing her ankles, with a rapidity concentrated upon itself. Her hands beckoned, reached out, clutched, clutched delicately, lived to their finger tips. Her body straightened, bent, the knees bent and straightened, the heels beat on the floor, carrying her backward and round. The toes pointed, paused, pointed, and the body drooped or rose into immobility, a smiling, significant pause of the whole body. Then the motion began again, more vivid, more restrained, as if teased by some unseen limits, as if turning upon itself in the vain desire to escape, as if caught in its own tolls.—Arthur Symonds in London Saturday Review.

Companions In Misery.

"I am not especially sensitive," said the man with the billiard ball pate in talking to friends with scanty hair who had been telling experiences, "but I confess it rankled when an absolute stranger hailed me as 'Old Baldy!' I was sprinkling the lawn one hot evening last summer and had laid aside hat and coat. I was somewhat astonished on looking up to see a stranger hanging over the picket fence intently watching me. I continued to play the hose, but when I looked up again the man was still there studying and with evident amusement. I glared at him.

"Hello, old Baldy!" he shouted, making a profound bow.

"Are you speaking to me, sir? I demanded.

"Hello, old Baldy!" he repeated.

"Why, you verdant chump," I replied, rushing toward him, with the nozzle, "I'll turn the hose on you!"

"No, you don't," he answered, removing his hat with a flourish and making another low bow. "I'm the limit," he said. I then saw there was not a hair on his head. We went off together and had a drink."—New York Sun.

An Itinerant Infant.

Going down the road in North Carolina, I accosted a bright looking little colored girl and inquired her name.

"Virginia Alabama Mississippi Benson," she said so hurriedly that I had to ask her to repeat it several times, and I failed to discover how so insignificant an atom in this great universe had received such a tremendous title. Learning that she lived in a little cabin near by, I inquired of her mother.

"So's to 'member th' places we've lived at," was the reply, and further questioning drew out the interesting fact that the child had been made a family record and christened so that her parents might not forget the names of the states in which they had resided.—Chicago Record-Herald.

How to Advertise.

Had the late Bill Nye confined his genius as a humorist to advertising writing he would have doubtless attained even greater success than he did in the literary field. Here is a sample of what he could do in the advertising line when he wanted to dispose of a cow. Owing to ill health, I will sell at my residence in township 19, range 19, according to government survey, one plush raspberry colored cow, aged 8 years. She is a good milker and is not afraid of the cars or anything else. She is of undaunted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her house at present by a stay chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will agree to use her right. She is one-fourth shorthorn and three-fourths hyena. I will throw in a double barreled shot gun, which goes with her. In May she generally goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wabby legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell her to a non-resident.—National Advertiser.

Three Kings Before Victoria.

Victoria ascended the throne at an inauspicious moment. Kingship had fallen into a miserable disrepute. The last three monarchs who had sat upon our throne had done little to make their office easy or glorious. George III had, obscured whatever virtues were his by an obstinacy of opinion which lost us a vast colony and which might well have enslaved us to a foreign power.

George IV had died unwept and unpitied. As he had made his distinguished office a scandal, as he had made his throne ridiculous by a deplorable levity of taste and conduct, so he had forfeited the affection of his people and alienated their sympathy long before death overtook him. "There never was an individual," proclaimed The Times but a few weeks after his death, "less regretted by his fellow creatures than this deceased king. What eye has wept for him? What heart has heaved one throb of unnecessary sorrow?" And The Times expressed in those bitter words nothing less than the popular judgment.

Nor can it be said that William IV graced the throne of Britain. Loved for his homely virtues, he raised a smile of kindly contempt by his lack of dignity and his frank misunderstanding of kingly ceremonial. On the day of his accession he escaped from his council and was found throwing shillings to a noisy crowd in a back street, and never did he acquire the rudiments of tact which should be the first wisdom of kings.—Blackwood's.

A Scottish Echo.

The late Sims Reeves was fond of telling a story that related to an early engagement in Glasgow which was arranged through a metropolitan agency. One of the items on the programme was "Hail, Smiling Morn!" and of course Mr. Reeves was put down for the solo portion. The chorus consists of an echo, and the London agent assured the soloist that a satisfactory choir had been engaged.

The whole matter was settled hurriedly. Mr. Reeves was at first disinclined to accept, as other engagements prevented him from reaching Glasgow in time for a rehearsal with the choir.

"Don't worry about that, my dear sir," said the agent. "You will find the choir perfect."

The concert was a success, and in due course "Hail, Smiling Morn!" was called for. When the soloist came to the lines requiring an echo, he delivered them in his best manner—"At whose bright presence darkness flies away." Imagine his horror when the echo repeated his words in the broadest Scotch:

"Flees awa', flees awa'!"

Yet Sims Reeves averred that not a person in the audience smiled or appeared to see anything incongruous. When he talked over the matter with a bailie after the concert, the good man assured him:

"That's nothing at all. You were a little wrong in your pronunciation, and the echo was correct. You see, it was a Scottish echo."—Youth's Companion.

She Gave Herself Away.

Judge Davis was one day in his private office when he was president of the senate and acting vice president. A woman came into the room to see him. He turned and said, "Well, madam, what can I do for you?" She was neatly dressed in black, with an air of extreme poverty. She told a wretched tale of sorrow and suffering, winding up with the climax that she and her little family were actually starving and had not tasted food for two days. The judge seemed deeply moved. He excused himself for not attending to the case for the moment, as the senate was nearly ready to open.

He looked at his watch with an air of vexation, as if it were not going, and said, "Can any one tell me what time it is?" His visitor pulled out a gold watch and told him the time. The judge said, "Can it be true that your children have been without food for two days when you have a gold watch in the house?" The woman saw the point of the judge's question and called out, "You are a hateful old thing!" and flounced out of the room. She was a professional dead beat.

"Paste These in Your Hat."

The Census Bureau at the National Capital has just issued bulletin No. 64, under the date of May 29th, 1901, from which some interesting statistical information is obtainable.

The highest population credited to any state aggregates 7,268,894 and of course belongs to New York.

The next state in order is that of Pennsylvania, with a population of 6,302,115.

The third state in order of population is that of Illinois, whose people number 4,821,550.

The fourth state in population is that of Ohio—whose people number 4,157,545.

The state having the smallest population is that of Nevada, which by a small percentage is slightly bigger than Tacoma, having two United States senators and one congressman—with the enormous population of 42,335!—and yet it takes 200,000 people for a congressman in New York.

The next smallest state in the Union, with like excessive representation when compared with other states, is Wyoming, with a population of 92,531!

The next most insignificant state in population is that of Idaho, whose people count but 161,772.

In order that there may be a precedent for such conditions to exist in the west it is only necessary to turn to the Atlantic coast and gaze upon "little Delaware" —one of the original thirteen states, and find that her population is but 184,735, or hardly enough to make up a modern congressional district.

The total population of the United States exclusive of territories, Alaska, Hawaii and Indian reservations, reaches 75,559,258, but with all these outlying countries and territories included, the population reaches 76,303,387.

It may be interesting to note that the population of the United States in 1790 was slightly less than 4,000,000—in 1800, slightly more than 5,000,000—in 1810, just above 7,000,000—in 1820, 9,600,000—in 1830, 12,800,000—in 1840, 17,000,000—in 1850, 23,000,000—in 1860, just before the Civil war broke out, 31,400,000—in 1870, after the horrors of the war had been passed by five years, 38,500,000—in 1880, 50,000,000—in 1890, 62,600,000, and in 1900, 75,500,000.

Of course, the last enumerations omit the exact figures in the last five columns.—Ex.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Stealing a Court Secret.

Once when Justice W. of the United States supreme court reached Pittsburg on circuit a Mr. Wright entertained him. There was a case pending then in the supreme court which involved the values of two stocks. The decision was certain to make one of the stocks valueless and the other valuable. It was considered an even chance which way the decision would go. The lawyers in the case had settled it in their minds that if Justice B. were to write the decision it would be in their favor. The justice was noted for writing long decisions. The majority of the men on the bench at that time wrote briefly. Justice W. was entertained at dinner at Mr. Wright's house. After the dinner Justice W. became companionable and good natured.

In the midst of conversation about the court and its work Mr. Wright said to Justice W., mentioning the case in which he was interested, "I suppose that the decision in that case will be a long one, there being so many points involved." "As long as the moral law, my boy," said the old justice as he smiled benevolently upon his host. That was all that he said upon the subject. Mr. Wright, however, knew from this remark that it was the particular justice who wrote long decisions who was preparing the one in this case. This gave him the cue for the decision, and he bought stock based upon this judgment. It proved correct, and he gained exactly $200,000 from this careless remark of the too amiable justice.

The Sort of Table He Wanted.

The following conversation was overheard between a joiner and his customer a short time ago:

Joiner—Please, sir, I've brought the table you ordered me to make.

Customer—Well, put it down here, my man, and let's see what sort of a job you've made of it.

The man set it down in the middle of the room, and the customer examined it with the air of a critic.

Customer—Why, my man, there is here a crack filled up with putty.

Joiner—Yes, sir. Well, sir, I know about that. But it won't be noticed when it sets hard.

Customer (coming across some more putty)—But here's some more, my man. What is the meaning of this?

Joiner—Well, sir, you see, a little bit of wood chipped off the corner, and I just put a little putty there to fill up. It won't do no harm, sir, when it's set hard.

Customer (finding some more putty patches)—Look here, my man, this won't do. Why, here's a big lump right in the middle of this leg. What can you say about that?

Joiner (scratching his head and trying hard to find some excuse by which to retrieve his honor)—Well, sir, that's no harm whatever, and the putty when it sets hard will be firmer and harder than the wood. So, you see, it will be all the better if you wait a bit, sir.

Customer (sarcastically)—Here, my good man, just take this table home and bring me one made of putty altogether. I want a good strong one, and you can fill up the cracks with wood.—London Tit-Bits.

According to the reports of the N. S. census only gives a credit of 2800 population, when receipts of goods of all descriptions are in like proportion, and the bank deposits amount to over half a million dollars?"

At least five hundred people were attracted to Front street Thursday afternoon by a sprinting match between one of the "genus hobo" and Policeman Curran. The offender had laid in copious drafts of "obejoyful" and was creating a disturbance on the street when the officer went after him. The man was just full enough to enjoy a good foot race, and set the officer a merry gait down the railroad "Y." An enormous crowd followed close at their heels and "rubber-necks" lined the streets for blocks. It took four men and an undertaker's wagon to finally land the foot-racer in the city bastille. He was in close consultation with Justice Taggard Friday morning and will lay out the fine in jail.

Remarkable Caves.

M. P. Chaudoir in the Mouvement Geographique describes a visit to the remarkable stalagmite caves within two hours' walk from Tanga, in eastern Africa. Passing through several chambers rising to a height of from 100 to 250 feet, he reached a vast saloon covering an area of 5,000 square yards. Millions of bats covered the roofs and interfered with the exploration of the narrow passages. One of these, killed with a stick, measured 4 feet 10 inches across the wings.

Question and Answer.

A woman carrying a suit case and several umbrellas bustled up to a weary looking servant of the company in the Pennsylvania railroad ferryhouse at Jersey City the other day.

"Does it make any difference which ferry I take for New York?" she asked.

"It don't make any difference to me, ma'am," he replied.—New York Sun.
