Dear Food Editor:

Attached is a copy of the Bureau's latest bulletin on fish cookery along with a release announcing its availability.

If you will review the bulletin I think you will agree that it is the most complete yet concise publication available anywhere on the basics of the selection, care, and preparation of fishery products. A similar bulletin covering shellfish is now being prepared and will be available in a few months.

We would appreciate your announcing the availability of Let's Cook Fish in your columns.

Very truly yours,

Roy C. Stevens
